V. 15. I will have mercy] See Exod.33.19. I will be favourable and gracious to whom I liſt to be favourable. God is moſt free, and cannot be taxed with injuſtice, though he caſt brighter beams of his favour upon one than another; for although he chuſe and predeſtinate to ſalvation them that are not yet born, without any reſpect of worthineſs; yet he bringeth not the choſen to their appointed end, but by the means of his mercy, which is a cauſe next under predeſtination: now mercy preſuppoſeth miſery, and miſery, ſinne, and a voluntary corruption of mankinde, and this corruption preſuppoſeth a pure and perfect creation. Moreover mercy is ſhewed by degrees, to wit, by calling by faith to juſtification and ſanctification, ſo that at the length wee come to glorification: Now all theſe things ordinarily following the purpoſe of God, do clearly prove that he can by no means ſeem unjuſt in loving and ſaving his.

I will have mercy] Or, I have mercy.

I will have compaſſion] Or, I have compaſſion.

V. 16. not of him that willeth] Theſe words contain the concluſion of the Apoſtles anſwere, therefore God is not unjuſt in chuſing and ſaving of his free goodneſs ſuch as it pleaſeth him; as he alſo anſwered Moſes when he prayed for all the people. By will, he meaneth here, the thoughts and deſires of the heart; by running, our earneſt endevours, and good works, and commendable courſe of life; to neither of which yet hee aſcribeth the praiſe, but onely to the mercy of God. Upon this verſe S. Auſtine acutely obſerves in his Enchyridion, againſt the Pelagians, that when the Apoſtle ſaith, It is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth; the meaning cannot be, that it is not wholly of him that willeth, or of him that runneth, but partly of him that willeth, and partly of him that runneth, and partly of God that hath mercy: for according to that expoſition, the Apoſtle might have ſaid, It is not of him that hath mercy, but of him that willeth or runneth; becauſe, according to their Pelagian tenet, it is not only of God that hath mercy, but partly of him that willeth and of him that runneth. But if no man dare ſay that it is not of God that hath mercy, for that were in direct terms to contradict the Apoſtle; it remaineth therefore that this muſt be the ſenſe, That it is not at all of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but wholly of God, who hath mercy, qui voluntatem præparat adjuvandam, & adjuvat præparatam.

V. 17. Even for this ſame purpoſe, &c.] See Exod. 9. 16.

have I raiſed thee up] Or, ſtirred, or, ſet thee up. The words may bear either of theſe interpretations; I have made thee to ſtand, that is, I have reſerved thee, and not ſtruck thee, or deſtroyed thee with the peſtilence, as I did the reſt of the people, Exod. 9. 15. Or, for this cauſe I have ſet thee upon the throne of Egypt, or have placed thee as it were in a high theater, to make thee an example to all that ſhall dare to ſet themſelves againſt me, by the fearfull judgements that I ſhall inflict upon thee and thy people.

throughout all the earth] Gr. in all the earth.

V. 18. he hardeneth] By Gods with-holding his grace, and not mollifying their rebellious hearts it cometh to paſſe, that all the means which he employeth outwardly, though never ſo good and holy, are perverted by them, to the encreaſe of their hardneſs. Moreover, it is to be noted, that as the Text ſaith, that God hardned Pharaohs heart; ſo it is ſaid, Exod. 8. 15, 32. that Pharaoh hardened his own heart, ſo that he could have none excuſe; ſith Gods induration was inflicted upon him moſt juſtly and deſervedly for his wilfull oppoſing God, and maliciouſly rebelling againſt him.

V. 19. Why doth he yet finde fault] This is another objection, which may ariſe in mens mindes, either from carnall reaſon, or by the ſuggeſtion of the devil: If God doth appoint to everlaſting deſtruction ſuch as he liſteth, and that cannot be hindred or withſtood that he hath once decreed, how doth he juſtly condemn them which periſh by his will?

V. 20. But O man, who art thou] Although the will of God is alwayes grounded upon good reaſon for whatſoever he doth; (for his will is the rule of righteouſneſs, and is never ſevered from his wiſedome, howſoever the reaſon be not manifeſt unto us, or tranſcend our underſtanding, Rom. 11. 33.) yet he is not to give an account to man or any other creature of his actions, and therefore the Apoſtle here ſtoppeth the mouth of all that dare to move ſuch curious queſtions; why God diſpoſeth thus or thus of men: God hath alwayes a reaſon of his will, but his will made known to us, ought to ſtand for an all-ſufficient reaſon, and it as little becomes man who is duſt and aſhes to expoſtulate with God, as it doth the clay to expoſtulate with the Potter.

repliest againſt God] Or, anſwereſt again, or, diſputeſt with God.

ſhall the thing formed ſay to him that formed it] Iſa. 45. 9.

V. 21. Potter power over the clay, &c.] See Jer. 18. 6. Wiſd. 15. 7.

of the ſame lump] By this metaphor is intimated the originall of all mankind out of one bloud, Act. 17. 26. out of this corrupt maſſe, it is in Gods power of his free will to appoint ſome to everlaſting glory, and others to everlaſting ſhame and ignominie: as it is in the Potters power at his pleaſure, of the ſame ſtuffe to make up one veſſell to ſerve for honourable uſes, and occaſions, as veſſels for eating and drinking, and utenſils for ſtate and ornament, and another veſſell for baſe and abject imployments.

one veſſell unto honour, and another unto diſhonour] Gr. this unto honour, and that unto diſhonour.

V. 22. What if God, willing] Gr. but if. As if he ſhould ſay, Haſt thou any juſt cauſe to reply againſt God? ſeeing that in exerciſing that abſolute freedome of his Soveraigntie to ſave one and puniſh others, he uſeth ſuch longſuffering toward the wicked to allure and draw them to repentance, which yet notwithſtanding, doth but harden them ſo much the more in their evill, Rom. 2. 4, 5. In this ſpeech the Apoſtle ſeemeth to have a ſpeciall eye on the Jews, towards whom God had uſed the utmoſt of long-ſuffering before he would altogether reject them.

veſſels of wrath] That is, thoſe men on whom he will exerciſe his ſevere judgement, being formerly compared unto veſſels of diſhonour, and after ſaid to be fitted to deſtruction; that is, whoſe ſtate and condition is ſo ſinfull and corrupted, that neither being pardoned nor amended by the grace of God, it can ſerve for no other uſe, than to be a dreadfull example and ſubject of his juſt judgement.

fitted] Or, made up.

V. 25. I will call them my people] Hoſ. 2. 23. 1 Pet. 2. 10.

V. 26. And it ſhall come to paſſe] Hoſ. 1. 10.

V. 27. Though the number of the children of Iſrael be as the ſand of the ſea] Iſa. 10. 22, 23.

a remnant ſhall be ſaved] Gr. Tec. a part taken out ſhall be ſaved.

V. 28. For he will finiſh the work] Or, the account. Some take this as a threatning againſt the wicked Jews, whom God ſhould cut off and reject, & thereby bring that unkinde & unthankfull people to an extreme fewneſs, alwayes preſerving ſuch as are his among that nation. Others underſtand here the conſtancie of the decree of God in keeping and preſerving his, notwithſtanding the rebellion of the greater multitude of others, which agreeth well with the verſe following.

work] Gr. reckoning, or, word.

V. 29. Except the Lord of Sabboth had left us a ſeed] Iſa. 1. 9.

V. 30. which followed not after righteouſneſs] So then, the Gentiles had no works to move and procure Gods mercy before-hand, and in that the Gentiles attained to that which they ſought not for, the mercy of God is to be thanked for it, and in that the Jews attained not to that which they ſought after, they are to thank none for that but themſelves, becauſe they ſought it not aright.

V. 31. which followed] Gr. following.

hath not attained] Or, is.

V. 32. not by faith] That is, becauſe they ſought not righteouſneſs in Chriſt in whom alone it is, and no otherwiſe to be obtained than by faith, and not by the merit of our own works.

by the works] Gr. Tec. by works.

ſtumbling-ſtone] By the ſtumbling-ſtone he meaneth Chriſt crucified, 1 Cor. 1. 23. and the ſame is implyed by Simeon, Luk. 2. 34. This childe is ſet for the fall and riſing again of many in Iſrael, and for a ſigne which ſhall be ſpoken againſt.

V. 33. Behold, I lay in Sion a ſtumbling-ſtone] Iſa. 8. 14. and 28. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 6.

aſhamed] Or, confounded.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. B*rethren*] The Apoſtle intending to ſet forth in the Jews, an example of marvellous obſtinacie, beginneth with a ſweet inſinuation, as it were anointing the brim of the cup with honey, out of which they were to drink a bitter potion.

V. 3. For they being ignorant] The ignorance of the law which we ought to know, excuſeth none before God; eſpecially, it excuſeth not them who are of his houſhold.

of Gods righteouſneſs] That is, the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, both active and paſſive, imputed to every beleever.

going about to eſtabliſh their own righteouſneſs] Gr. Tec. being zealous to eſtabliſh. The firſt entrance into our vocation to ſalvation, is to renounce our own righteouſneſs: the next to embrace the righteouſneſs by Chriſt which God freely offereth us in the Goſpel.

V. 4. For Chriſt is the end of the law] Chriſt is ſaid to be the end of the law, partly becauſe all the ceremonies of the law prefigured him, and had reference unto him, as their ſcope, end, and accompliſhment: partly, becauſe by the law ceremoniall, morall, and judiciall, the conſciences of all that were under the law were convinced of ſinnes, the expiation whereof could no where be found, but in the ſacrifice of Chriſts death. Or Chriſt may be ſaid to be the end of the law; becauſe the end of the law is perfect righteouſneſs, that a man may be juſtified thereby, which end we cannot attain of our ſelves through the frailty of our fleſh, but by Chriſt we attain it, who hath fulfilled the law for us.

for righteouſneſs] Gr. to righteouſneſs.

to every one] Not only to the Jews, but alſo to the Gentiles.

V. 5. That the man which doth thoſe things] See Lev. 18. 5. Ezek. 20. 11.

ſhall live by them] Gr. in them. In the Greek it is in them, which is a kinde of Hebraiſme, ſignifying by them, for ſuch is the condition of the law, he that doth the works of the law ſhall live; but curſed is he that confirmeth not all the words of the law to do them, Deut. 27. 26. To which our Saviours anſwer to the young man in the Goſpel, who demanded of him what he ſhould do to obtain eternall life, agreeth, ſaying, Keep the commandments: Doe this and thou ſhalt live.

V. 6. Say not in thine heart, who ſhall aſcend into heaven] See Deut. 30. 12. That the law hath regard and tendeth to Chriſt, that is a manifeſt proof, for that it propoundeth ſuch a condition as can be, and is fulfilled of none but Chriſt onely, which being imputed unto us by faith, our conſcience is quieted, ſo that now no man can ask, Who can aſcend up into heaven, or bring us from hell, ſeeing the Goſpel teacheth that both of theſe are done by Chriſt, and that for their ſakes who with true faith embrace him, who calleth them. Or, God hath ſo plainly and fully ſhewed the way of ſalvation, that we need not ſeek further for it, above or below.

V. 9. The word is nigh thee] Deut. 30. 14. By the word Moſes underſtood the law which the Lord publiſhed with his own voice, and Paul applies it to the preaching of the Goſpel, which was the perfection of the law.

V. 9. the Lord Jeſus] Gr. Tec. the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

V. 10. beleeveth unto righteouſneſs] Gr. beleef is to righteouſneſs. Faith is ſaid to juſtifie; and furthermore ſeeing the confeſſion of the mouth is an effect of faith, and it is the way to come to ſalvation, it followeth, that faith is alſo ſaid to ſave.

V. 11. Whoſoever beleeveth on him] See Iſa. 28. 16. To beleeve in God, is to yeeld and conſent to Gods promiſe of ſalvation by Chriſt, and that not only in general, but in particular, that the promiſes pertain to us, whereupon ariſeth a ſure truſt.

V. 12. difference between, &c.] Gr. diſtinction of Jew and Greek.

V. 13. For whoſoever ſhall call upon the name of the Lord] See Joel 2. 32. Acts 2. 21. True calling upon the name of God, is the teſtimony of true Faith; and true Faith of a true Vocation, and a true and effectuall vocation or calling, of true Election. By calling on Gods name he underſtandeth the true worſhip of the true God.

V. 15. How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Goſpel of peace?] Gr. Tec. who bring glad tidings of good things. See Iſa. 57. 2. Nahum 1. 15.

V. 16. Lord, who hath beleeved our report] See Iſa. 53. 1. John 12. 38.

our] Gr. the hearing of us.

report] Or, preaching.

V. 18. But I ſay, have they not heard] As for the Jews which have not beleeved, what can be ſaid thereof? Is it for that they have heard nothing of the Goſpel? Surely, no; for the Goſpel like unto the Sun, Pſal. 19. 5. hath caſt his Beams over the whole World: May we not therefore ſay; that the fault lyes in themſelves, who rejected that light of ſaving knowledge, which the Gentiles have embraced? The Apoſtle anſwereth, verſ. 19. that it is not to be gainſayed, ſeeing Moſes had proteſted the very ſame of old.

their ſound went] See Pſal. 19. 4. This place is taken out of Pſal. 19. 4. and is properly meant of that knowledge of God, which all men may have by contemplation of the Heavens, and the Creatures therein; yet it is by the Apoſtle very fitly applyed to the ſound of the Word preached by the Apoſtles.

V. 19. Did not Iſrael know] Or, hath not Iſrael known.

I will not provoke you] See Deut. 32. 21.

them that are no people] He calleth the Heathen no people, becauſe they are not ſaid to live, but to die, who are appointed for everlaſting condemnation: Or elſe we are to underſtand the Pronoun my, and the ſenſe is this, I will provoke you to jealouſie by a people, that is not my people, that is not compriſed within my Covenant.

V. 20. I was found] Or, I have been found. See Iſa. 65. 1.

I was made] Or, I have been made.

All day long, &c.] See Iſa. 65. 2.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ. 1. H*Ath God caſt away his people*] Gr. Tec. his people whom he foreknew. Now the Apoſtle ſheweth how the Doctrine formerly delivered, is to be applyed to others; teaching us, that all the Jews in particular are not caſt away: and therefore we ought not to pronounce raſhly of private perſons, whether they be of the number of the Elect, or not.

V. 2. which he foreknew] Which he loved and choſe from everlaſting, and decreed to ſave before the Foundations of the World were laid.

Wot ye not what the Scripture ſaith of Elias] Gr. in Elias. In the days of Elias when there appeared no face of the Church to the World, yet God knew his Elect, and of them a great ſtore and number; whereupon this alſo is concluded, that we ought not raſhly to pronounce of any man or people, that they are reprobate, ſeeing the Church is oft-times brought to that ſtate, that even the moſt watchful and ſharp-ſighted Paſtours may think it to be clean extinct and put out.

maketh interceſſion to God againſt] Or, communeth with God againſt.

V. 3. Lord, they have killed thy Prophets, &c.] See 1 King. 19. 4.

digged down the Altars] The Prophet by theſe words doth not any way approve of thoſe Altars which were erected in Iſrael, contrary to the Law which deſigned a certain place, namely, at Jeruſalem, where they ought to have offered their ſacrifice to God; but he taxeth the impiety and idolatry of that people, who erected Altars to Baal, and ſacrificed upon them; but pulled down the Altars which were erected in honour of God, and would by no means ſacrifice unto him, or ſerve him.

life] Gr. ſoul.

V. 4. anſwer of God] Gr. oracle of God.

I have reſerved to my ſelf] See 1 King. 19. 18. He ſpeaketh of remnants, and the reſerved people which were choſen from everlaſting, and not of remnants which ſhould be choſen afterwards; for they were not choſen, becauſe they were not Idolaters, but rather, they were not therefore Idolaters, becauſe they were choſen, and by Gods grace kept from that and other foul ſins.

ſeven thouſand men] That is, a very great number, by a Synecdoche. So we reade Gen. 33. 3. that Jacob bowed himſelf to the ground before his brother ſeven times; and Pſal. 12. 6. Silver is ſaid to be tried in the furnace ſeven times, that is, very often; and Chriſt telleth Peter, that he is to forgive his brother not ſeven times, but ſeventy times ſeven times, that is, how often ſoever he offendeth him, if he be ſorry for it, and ſeek to be reconciled unto him.

the knee to the image of Baal] The article In the Original, is feminine, τῇ Βάαλ, not that the Heathen beleeved Baal to be a feminine Idol; for by Baal, as Sanchuniacho and others affirm, they meant Phebus or the Sun: but the article agrees with εἰκὼν underſtood, that is, the image of Baal. The word Baal ſignifieth as much as Patron, or one in whoſe power another is, which name the Romiſh Idolaters, to this day, give to their Idols, naming them Patrons, or Patroneſſes, or Ladies Guardians.

V. 5. at this preſent] Gr. in this preſent.

there is a remnant] That is, God hath left ſome Jews yet to remain, which doe not reject, but embrace the Goſpel, and are effectually called alſo; though in compariſon of the great multitude that rejected and continued in their unbeleef, they are but as a ſmall remnant or parcel torn from the reſt, Iſa. 6. 13.

the election of grace] Not whereby men chuſe grace, but whereby God chuſeth us of his grace and goodneſs.

V. 6. And if by grace] This ſeemes to be added againſt thoſe amongſt the Jews, that having received the profeſſion of Chriſtianity, yet ſtill did put part of their righteouſneſs and confidence in the works of the Law; which the Apoſtle here proves to be a falſe and vain perſwaſion, for as much as thoſe two ſorts of righteouſneſs and ſalvation, to wit, by the Covenant of Grace, and the Covenant of Works, were altogether incompatible. See Rom. 4. 2, 4. and Gal. 5. 2, 4.

no more of works] This ſaying beateth flat down to the ground the doctrine of merit, and of all kinde and manner of works, whereby our juſtifiers of themſelves doe teach, That works are either wholly or partly the cauſe of our juſtification.

otherwiſe grace is no more grace] Whatſoever is given for the merit of our works, is not freely given, and conſequently is not χάρις, or gratia; for, as St. Auguſtine ſpeaketh elegantly againſt the Pelagians, Gratia non eſt gratia ullo modo, niſi ſit gratuita omni modo; Grace is not ſaid to be grace any way, or in any ſenſe, if it be not free every way.

otherwiſe work is no more work] That is, it loſeth the nature of a work done to merit by; for if we are elected and choſen partly for our works ſake, and partly by grace, then the merit of our works is no merit; for, as Bernard rightly concludeth, if merit enter firſt, it excludeth grace; and if grace enter firſt, it excludeth merit: Non bene conveniunt, nec in una ſede morantur.

V. 7. Iſrael hath not obtained] That is, thoſe among the Jews, who boaſted that they were Iſraelites, and gloried in the fleſh, and ſought to eſtabliſh their own righteouſneſs.

the election hath obtained] That is, the Elect (have obtained) by a metonymie, which the Apoſtle uſeth, more emphatically to expreſs the cauſe of their adoption and ſalvation; to wit, Gods free Election.

blinded] Or, hardened.

V. 8. God hath given them the ſpirit of ſlumber] So the Hebrew ſignifieth, Iſa. 29. 10. out of which the Apoſtle took theſe words; yet in citing them, he followeth the tranſlation of the Seventy here, and elſewhere, that the Gentiles to whom he wrote, who underſtood that tranſlation, and not the Hebrew, might not take any offence by reaſon of ſome ſeeming differences between it and the Original. The Greek word uſed by the Apoſtle, κατάνυξις cometh not from νὺξ; as if he ſhould ſay, The ſpirit of men in a deep ſleep in the night; but from νύσσω νύξω, to prick or bore through: κατανυγῆναι, ſaith Oecumenius, is ἐμπαγῆναι καὶ προσηλωθῆναι, to be faſtened, and as it were nailed in evil, to be obſtinately wicked; howbeit the Hebrew original, and the tranſlation of the Septuagint, which the Apoſtle followeth, may be eaſily reconciled, if by the ſpirit of ſlumber we underſtand ſuch a dead ſleep, as may be obſerved in thoſe that are prick'd or ſtung with venemous Serpents, out of which they hardly or never awake.

ſlumber] Or, remorſe; or, pricking through.

eyes that they ſhould not ſee, &c.] See Iſa. 6. 9. That is, eyes unfit to ſee with, and ears unfit to hear with, or eyes and ears wherewith (as the caſe ſtood with them) they could neither ſee nor hear.

V. 9. Let their table be made a ſnare] See Pſal. 69. 22. As unhappy birds are enticed to death by that which is their ſuſtenance: ſo did that turn to the Jews deſtruction, of which they ſought life; to wit, the Law of God, for the prepoſterous zeal whereof they refuſed the Goſpel.

and bow down their back] Gr. bow together, or crook. If we follow this tranſlation of the Septuagint according to the letter, then as the Greek Scholiaſt obſerveth, we have here a prediction of the Jewes captivity, and ſubjection to the Romanes, who enforced them to bow, with the heavy burdens they laid upon them. But if we follow the Hebrew Original, and render the words, Make their loines continually ſhake; then we may well underſtand the Prophecie of terrours of conſcience, and the ſpirit of bondage, to which the unbeleeving Jews are ſubject even to this day.

V. 11. I ſay then, Have they ſtumbled] God appointed this caſting off of the Jewes, that it might be an occaſion to call the Gentiles, and again that this calling of the Gentiles might be an occaſion to reſtore the Jews, to wit, that they being enflamed and provoked by the emulation of the Gentiles, might themſelves at length embrace the Goſpel. And hereby we may learn that the ſeverity of God ſerveth as well to the ſetting forth of his glory, as his mercy doth; and alſo that God prepareth himſelf a way to mercy by his ſeverity: ſo that we ought not raſhly to deſpair of any man, nor proudly to triumph over others; but rather provoke them to an holy emulation, that God may be glorified in them alſo.

God forbid] See Chap. 3. 4.

to provoke them to jealouſie] By this means, their fall, through Gods goodneſs, conduceth to their riſe: for through their fall ſalvation came to the Gentiles, and this ſalvation of the Gentiles bred emulation in the Jews, and this emulation was a meanes to bring them to beleeve the Goſpel, whereby they might be raiſed from their fall.

V. 12. the riches of the world] By riches, he meaneth the knowledge of Chriſt, in whom all the treaſures of riches and knowledge are hid; and by the world, all Nations diſperſed throughout the whole world.

diminiſhing] Or, decay; or loſſe.

V. 13. I am the Apoſtle] Gr. Tec. I remain the Apoſtle.

V. 15. but life from the dead] The words may bear a double conſtruction, either they may have reference to the Jews, that their aſſumption into the Church will prove no leſs than their raiſing from the death of ſinne, to the life of grace: or that the coming in of the Jews will ſerve as a great means to bring in all the Gentiles, and by the Goſpel make them partakers of eternal life. For it ſhall come to paſs that when the Jews generally embrace the Goſpel; the world ſhall as it were quicken again and riſe up from death to life; when that nation ſhall be converted, there ſhall be ſuch perfect and entire joy as in the end of the world at the reſurrection of the dead, ſaith the Greek Scholiaſt.

V. 16. For if the firſt-fruit be holy] He alludeth to the firſt-fruits of thoſe loaves, by the offering whereof all the whole crop of corn was ſanctified, Ezek. 44. 30. ſo that the owners might uſe the reſt the yeer following with a good conſcience, Levit. 23. 14.

if the root be holy] The nation of the Jews being conſidered in their ſtock and root, that is, in Abraham, is holy, although that many of the branches be cut off. Therefore in judging our brethren we muſt not ſtick in their unworthineſs, to think that they are all at once caſt off: but we ought to conſider the root of the covenant, and rather go back to their anceſtours which were faithful, that we may know that the bleſſing of the covenant reſteth in ſome of their poſterity; as we alſo find proof thereof in our ſelves, Eſa. 65. 8.

V. 17. And if] Gr. But if.

amongſt them] Or, for them.

V. 18. Boaſt not againſt the branches] There is no cauſe why the Gentiles which have obtained mercy ſhould triumph over the Jews, which now refuſe the grace of God, ſeeing they are graffed into the ſtock of the Jews anceſtors; but let them rather take heed that that be not found in them which is worthily condemned in the Jews: and hence we are further to learn that we ought to be ſtudious of Gods glory, even in reſpect of our neighbours; ſo far ought we to be from bragging and glorying for that we are perferred before others by ſpecial grace.

V. 20. becauſe of unbeleef] Gr. by unbeleef.

but fear] See thou ſtand in awe of God modeſtly and carefully. By fear, he meaneth not a fear of diffidence or diſtruſt, but a fear of watchfulneſs or circumſpection.

V. 21. natural branches] He calleth them natural, not becauſe they had any holineſs by nature, but becauſe they were born of them whom the Lord ſet apart for himſelf from other nations by his league and covenant which he freely made with them.

take heed leſt he alſo ſpare not thee] Gr. Tec. neither will he ſpare thee.

V. 22. and ſeverity of God] In the Original ἀποτομίαν, which ſignifieth a reſection or cutting off, and the metaphor ſeems to be taken from a Gardiner, who with a pruning knife cuts off dead boughs, or luxuriant ſtems; Or it may allude to the ſpeeches of a man moved in choler, which are for the moſt part abrupt, and cut off as it were in the midſt; and thereby is ſignified the rigor of judgement, or Gods ſevere juſtice.

on them which fell] That is, over the Jews that ſtumbled at the rock of offence through their unbeleef in Chriſt, and therefore were juſtly rejected of God. Which ſeverity God uſed towards them, that we ſhould take example and warning by them, to give good heed, leſt we fall into the ſame unbeleef with them, and be rejected alike as they were.

goodneſs] Gr. Tec. the goodneſs of God.

if thou continue in his goodneſs] In the ſtate of grace wherein thou art ſet, that is, if thou bear the fruits thereof, and render God thanks for the ſame.

otherwiſe thou ſhalt alſo be cut off] As an unfruitful branch, John 15. 2. But here it is to be noted that this paſſage ought to be underſtood of the outward incorporation into the Church by profeſſion, whereof many hypocrites do partake, and not of the inward & efficacious ingraffing into the myſtical body of Chriſt, by a lively faith and the communion of the Spirit according to the election of God, which is ever accompanyed with perſeverance. See Matth. 15. 13. 2 Tim. 2. 19.

V. 23. ſhall be graffed in] Many are now for a ſeaſon cut off, that is, without the root, who in their time ſhall be graffed in; and again there are a great ſort, which according to the outward ſhew ſeem to be graffed in, who notwithſtanding through their own fault afterwards are cut off and quite caſt away; which thing is eſpecially to be conſidered in nations and peoples, as the Jews and Gentiles.

V. 24. which is wild by nature] Underſtand nature not as it was firſt made, but as it was corrupted in Adam, and ſo derived from him to his poſterity.

contrary to nature] Gr. beſide nature.

good olive-tree] Into the people of the Jews which God had ſanctified of his meer grace: and he ſpeaketh of the whole nation taken into covenant with God.

own] Or, proper.

V. 25. of this myſtery] That is, touching the laſt converſion of the Jews obſcurely intimated by the Prophets, Eſa. 11. 11. Zach. 12. 10. but clearly ſet forth in the Goſpel, Matth. 23. 39. Luke 21. 24. 2 Cor. 3. 16.

in your own conceits] Gr. Tec. in your ſelves.

blindneſs] Or, hardneſs.

in part] He ſpeaketh in reſpect of the greater part of all the people, of whom there were excepted but a very ſmall number of the elect ones.

happened] Or, come.

the fulneſs of the Gentiles] The full number or multitude, and as it were the body of them.

be come in] Into the Church of God by profeſſing the Chriſtian faith.

V. 26. all Iſrael] The body of this people in general, ſhall be brought again into the way of ſalvation, and re-eſtabliſhed into the Church. Or, the whole Iſrael of God conſiſting of Jews and Gentiles, Gal. 6. 10.

There ſhall come, &c.] See Iſa. 59. 20.

out of Sion] Iſaiah ſpeaking of the firſt coming of Chriſt in the fleſh, ſaith, He ſhall come into Sion; but the Apoſtle applying that paſſage to his ſecond manifeſtation in grace toward the Jews, ſaith here, Out of Zion; that is, out of the midſt of the Church, where he hath his dwelling and abode by his Spirit, will he call and recollect the Jews again.

the deliverer, and ſhall turn] Gr. Tec. and the deliverer ſhall turn.

V. 28. touching the election] In that God reſpecteth not what they deſerve, but what he promiſed to Abraham.

V. 30. for as ye in times paſt] Although they which are hardned are worthily puniſhed, yet hath not God ſuffered this ſtubborneſs of the Jews ſo to come to paſs properly for any hatred to that nation, but that an entry might be as it were opened to bring in the Gentiles; and that afterwards the Jews being enflamed with emulation of that mercy which is ſhewed to the Gentiles, might themſelves alſo be partakers of the ſame benefit, and ſo it might appear that both Jews and Gentiles are ſaved onely by the free mercy and grace of God, which could not have been ſo manifeſt, if at the beginning God had brought all together into one Church: or if he had ſaved the nation of the Jews without this interruption.

beleeved] Or, obeyed.

V. 31. beleeved] Or, obeyed.

V. 32. concluded] Or, ſhut them all up together.

V. 33. O the depth of the riches] The Apoſtle cryeth out as aſtoniſhed with this wonderful wiſdom of God, which he teacheth us religiouſly to reverence, and not curiouſly and profanely to ſearch beyond the compaſs of that, which God hath revealed unto us in his word.

V. 34. For who hath known, &c.] See Iſaiah 40. 13. Wiſd. 9. 13. 1 Cor. 2. 16.

V. 36. For of him] As of the firſt cauſe, that diſpoſeth and ordereth all things according to his wiſe counſel.

through him] Gr. by. As working himſelf whatſoever is neceſſary for mans ſalvation, and powerfully performing whatſoever is once ordained, and decreed by his counſel.

and to him] As to the utmoſt end, to whoſe glory every thing muſt tend, and be reduced, Pro. 16. 4. The Lord hath made all things for himſelf.

all things] Not onely thoſe that concern the creation, preſervation, and government of all things in this world: but alſo, and principally whatſoever belongeth to the glorious work of mans eternal ſalvation, whereof the Apoſtle doth here ſpecially treat.

to whom] Gr. to him.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ. 1. I Beſeech you] The fourth part of this Epiſtle, which after the finiſhing of the chief points of Chriſtian doctrine, conſiſteth in the delivering precepts of Chriſtianity: and firſt he layeth general grounds, whereof the chiefeſt is this, That every man conſecrate himſelf wholly to the ſpiritual ſervice of God, and do as it were ſacrifice himſelf, truſting to the grace of God.

your bodies] That is, your ſelves, by a Synecdoche. In times paſt other bodies than our own, to wit, the bodies of Beaſts were offered, but now our own muſt be offered.

a living ſacrifice] In times paſt dead ſacrifices were offered, but now we muſt offer ſuch as have the ſpirit of life in them ; by life, he meaneth the new life in the regeneration of the Spirit, and this ſacrifice is to be offered not as in the old Law, by preſenting it alive before the Lord, and ſhedding the bloud upon the Altar, but by a ſpiritual ſlaying and mortifying our carnal luſts and affections, Rom. 6. 11. 2 Cor. 5. 15. Coloſ. 3. 9.

acceptable] Gr. well pleaſing.

reaſonable ſervice] Or, worſhip ; that is, a ſpiritual ſervice, ſo called in oppoſition to the carnal rites of the ceremonial law ; and he calleth it a reaſonable ſervice, becauſe it conſiſteth not in the outward offering up of unreaſonable beaſts, as in the Old Teſtament : but in the offering up of our ſelves, who are men endued with reaſon. The like exhortation we have, Heb. 13. 15. 1 Pet. 2. 5. Or, agreeable to the rules of true reaſon.

V. 2. be not conformed to this world] That is, take not upon you the form and faſhion of this world, which lyeth altogether in wickedneſſe, 1 Joh. 5. 19. apply your ſelves not to the cuſtomes, diſpoſitions, and practices of worldly and corrupt men, deſcribed by the Apoſtle, Rom. 13. 13. Epheſ. 4. 18, 19. 1 Pet. 4. 3. 1 Joh. 2. 16.

but be ye transformed] See Epheſ. 4. 23. changed, or alterred in form and faſhion, not according to the body, but according to the ſoul and the faculties thereof ; that is, be ye regenerated and changed from your natural depravation in all parts of your ſoul, beginning from the very higheſt ; namely, the Underſtanding and Reaſon, by which alſo the Spirit of God doth work upon all other inferiour faculties.

by] Or, in.

that ye may prove] See Epheſ. 5. 17. Give proof by your godly life, that ye underſtand indeed what is the good will of God ; or that by the gift of a ſpiritual judgment you may diſcern and approve that the law of God is altogether good, and perfectly compleat, Pſal. 19. 8, 11. Rom. 7. 22. and to ſubmit our ſelves unto the ſame ; or that we may diſcern what according to the Law is good and acceptable unto God, and exactly correſpondent to his will revealed in his Word, which is the perfect rule according to which we are to frame our lives.

acceptable] Gr. well pleaſing.

V. 3. through] Or, by.

through the grace given unto me] By grace he meaneth his Apoſtolical office freely beſtowed upon him, as the word is taken, Rom. 1. 15.

to think of himſelf more highly] Or, to be wiſe.

but to think ſoberly] Gr. to ſobriety. We ſhall be ſober, if we take not that upon us which we have not, nor brag of that which we have. In the Greek there is a moſt elegant Paranomaſie in three words of like ſound, ὑπερφρονεῖν, φρονεῖν and σωφρονεῖν, which cannot be expreſſed in any other language ; and the Greek Scholiaſt thereupon obſerves, that the Apoſtle ſometimes uſeth choice figures of Rhetorick to ſhew that he was not ignorant of that Art : and yet not over frequently, that he might retain the ſimplicity and majeſty of his Apoſtolike ſtyle.

to every man, &c.] See Epheſ. 4. 7.

the meaſure of faith] By Faith he meaneth the knowledge of God in Chriſt, and the gifts which the holy Ghoſt poureth upon the faithfull.

V. 4. For as we have many members] See 1 Cor. 12. 12. There is a double reaſon of the precept going before ; the one is becauſe God hath not appointed every thing to be done by every man, but conſtituted divers vocations, the bounds whereof men ought not to paſſe : the other, for that the diverſity and inequality of vocations and gifts redoundeth to our commodity, ſeeing the ſame is therefore inſtituted, that we ſhould be bound one to another : whereupon it followeth, that no man ought to be grieved thereat, ſeeing that the uſe of every private gift is common.

Office] Gr. action, or, operation.

V. 6. Having then gifts] Or, but having gifts. See 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11.

whether prophecie] By prophecy he underſtandeth not the extraordinary gift of fore-telling things future, but the gift of expounding the holy Scriptures, as the Apoſtle himſelf declareth the meaning of the word, 1 Cor. 4. 3.

proportion of faith] Some by proportion of Faith underſtand an analogie to the Articles of the Creed, and from hence they collect this doctrine, that in all interpretations of holy Scripture, we have an eye to the Articles of the Chriſtian Faith, and give Expoſitions conformable thereunto ; and that rule is good : but yet it ſeemes that the Apoſtles words have another meaning here ; that he that hath the gift of prophecie, ought to exerciſe it according to the proportion of Faith, that is, according to the meaſure of that knowledge of heavenly myſteries revealed in Scripture, and given unto him.

V. 7. he that teacheth] Gr. Tec. gift of teaching. Here he divideth (as ſome conceive) Prophets into Doctors and Paſtours ; the Doctours ſimply ſearched into the meaning of Scripture, but the Paſtors beſides the Expoſition of the Text, or commenting upon it, applyed the ſenſe of Scripture to the ſpecial uſe of their hearers. The former reſemble our Readers in the Univerſity ; the latter our Preachers.

V. 8. giveth] Or, imparteth.

with ſimplicity] Or, liberally.

V. 9. Let love be without diſſimulation] Now he cometh to the duties of the ſecond Table, which he deriveth from charity, which is, as it were, the fountain of them all ; and he deſcribeth it by ſincerity, hatred of evil, earneſt ſtudy of good things, and good affection to help our Neighbour. If it be demanded, why the Apoſtle addeth here the Epithete, ſincere, or without diſſimulation, to love rather, than to other virtues ? the anſwer is twofold, either becauſe they are all compriſed in love, or becauſe there is almoſt no man who maketh not ſome ſhew of love or friendſhip to his Neighbour, though he bear ſecret rancor and malice in his heart.

Abhorre] Gr. abhorring, or, hating.

cleave] Gr. cleaving.

V. 10. Be kindly affectionated] See Heb. 13. 1. φιλοστοργία ſignifieth natural affection, and φιλαδελφία love of the brethren. His meaning therefore is, that we ſhould improve the natural affection we bear towards any to a higher pitch, even to Chriſtian charity.

with brotherly love] Or, in the love of the brethren.

in honour preferring one another] Gr. going before one another. The meaning is, not that we ſhould ambitiouſly ſtrive to out-ſtrip one another in getting places of honour or preferment one before another ; but ſtrive to prevent one another in offices of courteſie and humanity, and in giving honour one to the other, and yeelding the place and the hand. For Chriſtian humility teacheth not onely not to prefer our ſelves above our equals ; nor to equal our ſelves to our betters, but alſo in ſome caſes to equal our ſelves to our inferiours, yea and to prefer them alſo above us. Primus gradus, &c. 1. Inferiorem ſe exhibere æquali. 2. Æqualem ſe exhibere inferiori. 3. Inferiorem ſe exhibere etiam inferiori. Bernardus.

V. 11. Not ſlothful in buſineſs] Or, remiſs in induſtry. In the Original it is word for word, not remiſſe in your ſtudy or diligence, that namely which every one ought to employ about his calling, in a ſpiritual carefulneſſe, to the glory and ſervice of God, and to the good of the Church, and the ſalvation of the godly.

fervent in ſpirit] Zealous, not cold, not luke-warm, but earneſt in a holy ſpiritual affection.

ſerving the Lord] In ſome Editions it is not κυρίῳ, but καιρῷ, that is, ſerving the time ; which reading, if we ſhould admit, we muſt not underſtand the Apoſtle as if he commanded us to be temporizers, or to apply our ſelves to the corrupt cuſtomes and manners of the times ; but to keep time in all our actions, and doe them in the fitteſt ſeaſon ; and as the Apoſtle elſewhere exhorteth, to walk wiſely towards them that are without, redeeming the time, Col. 4. 5. Eph. 5. 16. becauſe the days are evil : But in the moſt ancient Copy of Tecla, and generally in the moſt correct Editions, the word is not καιρῷ, but κυρίῳ, not the time, but the Lord ; and the meaning is, that we ſhould have no other aime or ſcope in all our actions than his ſervice, and whatſoever our employment be, to conſider with all diligence as ſervants of the Lord, what his ſervice and honour requireth, Pſal. 2. 11. Epheſ. 6. 7.

V. 12. tribulation] Or, affliction.

V. 13. Diſtributing] Gr. communicating.

V. 14. Bleſs them, &c.] See Mat. 5. 44.

V. 15. Rejoyce with them that doe rejoyce] In theſe words he condemneth Stoical ſtupidity or apathy, and commendeth Chriſtian ſympathy. Some conceive that he alludeth to the two gates in Solomon's Temple, at the one whereof they entred, who were to be married, who were joyful and merry ; at the other thoſe who were to doe penance, and for a time were excluded from the company of the faithful, and theſe were always ſad and mournful. Druſius ex Rabbi Juda.

V. 16. Mind not] Gr. not minding.

condeſcend, &c.] Or, be contented with mean things, or, being carried with the low, or lowly.

Be not wiſe, &c.] See Prov. 3. 7. Iſa. 5. 21.

V. 17. Recompence to, &c.] See Prov. 20. 22. 1 Theſ. 5. 15. 1 Pet. 3. 9.

of all men] Gr. Tec. of God and all men.

V. 18. live peaceably with all men] See Heb. 12. 14.

V. 19. avenge not] Gr. not avenging.

give place unto wrath] The words may admit of a double conſtruction ; either give place to the wrath of thine enemy according to that precept, currenti cede furori, be not as forward to provoke and wrong him, as he is to wrong thee : or elſe give place to the wrath of God, that is, his judgment, prevent or hinder it not by revenging thy ſelf.

Vengeance is mine] Gr. belongs to me. See Deut. 32. 35. Heb. 10. 30.

V. 20. Therefore if, &c.] Gr. Tec. But if. See Prov. 25. 21.

in ſo doing] Gr. doing this.

Coales of fire on his head] Either the meaning ſeemeth to be, thou ſhalt heap Gods judgments like coales of fire upon him : or, as Saint Auguſtine, lib. 3. de doc. Chriſt. c. 16. Urentes pœnitentiæ gemitus, quibus ſuperbia ſanatur ejus qui dolet ſe inimicum fuiſſe hominis, à quo ejus miſeriæ ſubvenitur : by rendering good for evil, thou ſhalt bring heartburning and ſorrow to him ; his own conſcience checking him, for intending miſchief to ſuch an one, who hath deſerved well of thee, and releeved thee in thy greateſt danger and want. Yet whether he mean by Coales of fire, Gods Judgments, or his Enemies Conſcience pricking and vexing him, we muſt not doe good unto him and releeve him in his neceſſity to this end, that God may take vengeance on him, or he on himſelf for his evil mind towards us, for that were to be overcome of evil; but we muſt doe it out of our pure love and Chriſtian charity; for that is to overcome evil with good.

V. 21. Be not] Gr. Be not thou.

overcome] Gr. overcome thou.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. L*Et every ſoul*] That is, every man, though an Apoſtle, though an Evangeliſt, though a Prophet, ſaith Saint Chryſoſtome: therefore the tyranny of the Pope over all Kingdomes muſt down to the ground. And as this Text overthrows the Popes temporal Monarchy, ſo alſo the exemption of Monks and Eccleſiaſtical perſons from the power of the civil Magiſtrate.

be ſubject] See Tit. 3.1. 1 Pet. 2.12. Not onely obeying them, but alſo dutifully acknowledging and honouring them.

unto the higher Powers] Not onely to the ſupream Magiſtrates, but alſo all thoſe that are in authority under them, 1 Tim. 2. 2. 1 Pet. 2. 13, 14.

there is no power, &c.] See Wiſd. 6.3.

ordained of God] Or, ordered. That is, inſtituted of God among mankind to rule and govern men in order as in Gods ſtead. For God is the Author of this order in the world: and all thoſe which attain unto this dignity or excellency, do attain unto it either by his manifeſt will and approbation when the meanes are juſt and lawful; or elſe by his ſecret providence, with permiſſion and toleration, when the means are unlawful; and it is juſt and equal that man ſhould approve and tolerate that which God himſelf approves and tolerates; and that he approves and tolerates, which we cannot by any lawfull means appointed by him decline or avoid. All therefore who reſiſt authority, make war after a ſort with God himſelf.

V. 2. to themſelves damnation] Or, judgment. The word in the Original ſignifieth as well judgment as damnation, and thereby we are to underſtand puniſhment, which they ſhall receive aſwell from God as the Magiſtrates, who reſiſt the powers ordained of God, not onely by open rebellion, as Abſalon, but alſo by not yeelding obedience to their commands in thoſe things that are not againſt the Word of God.

V. 3. to good works] Gr. of good works.

to the evil] Gr. of the evil.

do that which is good] What the Apoſtle meaneth by doing that which is good here, is well expreſſed by the Emperour Juſtinian in the entrance to his laws: honeſtè vivere; alterum non lædere; ſuum cuique tribuere: to live honeſtly, to hurt no man by word or deed, and to give every man his due.

V. 4. for good] Gr. to good.

V. 5. but alſo for conſcience ſake] That is, out of the fear of God, that we may keep a good conſcience before him, who hath ſet the Magiſtrate over us: but this our ſubjection out of conſcience, muſt be reſtrained to ſuch their commands as are agreeable to Gods Law: For if they command unlawful things, we muſt anſwer as Peter teacheth us, That it is better to obey God than man.

V. 6. pay you] Or, ye pay.

V. 7. Render therefore, &c.] See Mat. 22.21.

V. 8. hath fulfilled the law] For the whole law commandeth nothing elſe but that we love God and our Neighbour: but ſeeing Paul ſpeaketh here of the duty we owe one to another, we muſt reſtrain the word law to the ſecond Table.

V. 9. Thou ſhalt not commit adultery] See Exod. 20. Deut. 5. comprehended in this ſaying] Gr. reduced to this head.

Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour as thy ſelf] See Lev. 19.18. Mat. 22. 39. Gal. 5. 14. Jam. 2.8.

V. 11. And that] An application taken from the circumſtance of time, which alſo it ſelf putteth us in mind of our duty, ſeeing the darkneſſe of ignorance, and wicked affections by the knowledge of Gods truth is driven out of us; we ought now to order our life according to that ſure and certain rule of all righteouſneſſe and honeſty, being fully grounded upon the efficacy of the Spirit of Chriſt.

knowing the time] To wit, of the light of the Goſpel, which is like the dawning of that great eternal day, which groweth ſtill more and more lightſome; and therefore it is now full high time to leave the ſleep of ſinne and ignorance, wherein we were drowned as it were formerly.

our ſalvation] That is, the accompliſhment of it in the life to come, the end of our Faith, 1 Pet. 1.9. The prize of our heavenly calling in Chriſt Jeſus, 1. Cor. 9.24, 25. Phil. 3.14.

nearer than when we beleeved] That is, than when we firſt beleeved, or began to beleeve. An Hebraiſme like to that we often finde in the book of Kings, as Hoſea reigned, Ahaz reigned, that is, he began his reign. In theſe words the Apoſtle taketh a metaphor from thoſe who run in a Race, who the farther they have run from the Stand, the nearer they draw to the Mark. The beginning of our converſion, is like the entrance into that race; the continuation thereof, and our growth in grace, is like our progreſſe in that Race, and ſalvation is as the goale or prize. The meaning then is, we are now come nearer unto ſalvation by our Chriſtian courſe, and even ready to lay hold on it, Phil. 3. 12. 1 Tim. 6. 12. and therefore we muſt not faint, but continue our ſpeed to the end, 2 Tim. 4. 7. for it would be too great ſhame and damage alſo, being ſo near the mark, that by faintneſſe, or turning out of the way, we ſhould not obtain: for the nearer we come to the prize, the harder we ought to put forward to attain it.

V. 12. The night] Either the night of ignorance, 1 Theſ. 5. 5. Act. 19. 31. Or the time of this preſent worlds abiding, which is but as an obſcure night compared to the world to come, and the better part thereof is ſpent already, the eternal day drawing on amain, 1 Cor. 7. 29.

the day is at hand] We are arrived unto the ſaving knowledge of Chriſt, but not perfectly as yet, ſo long as we continue in this life: but we enjoy ſuch a light here as there is, when the day begins to break.

caſt off] As men when they ſee the glimmering of the day, caſt off their night-clothes, ſo we ſeeing a glimmering of the Goſpel, ought to caſt off the works of darkneſſe like night attire, and have no more to do with them, Epheſ. 4.22.

the works of darkneſſe] That is, ſinnes, which fly and ſhun the light: which may be termed works of darkneſſe in three regards, 1. Becauſe, they proceed from darkneſſe, to wit, ignorance in the underſtanding. 2. Becauſe, for the moſt part, ſuch works are done in the dark, that the obſcurity of the night may ſhadow them. 3. Becauſe, they tend and bring men, if they caſt them not off in time, to utter darkneſſe, where ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth.

put on] As thoſe that riſe out of their ſleep, put on their apparel to cover their nakedneſſe, and fit themſelves for the buſineſſe of the day: ſo now ſeeing the night of your ignorance is paſt, ſhake off your carnal ſecurity, and adorn your ſelves with divine virtues, which are both the habit and armour of a Chriſtian.

the armour of light] Gr. Tec. the works of light. The word ſignifieth whatſoever the body is covered withall, againſt any hurts or wounds; and by it we are to underſtand all thoſe graces of the Spirit, wherewith our ſoules are not onely adorned, but armed and fenced againſt the hurts and wounds of the world, and of the fleſh, and the Devils temptations, 2 Cor. 6.7. Eph. 6.11.

of light] That is, bright and gliſſening armour in perpetual uſe, not ruſty through diſuſe; or ſuch armour as ſhines to the glory of God, and caſts a luſtre from the light of true knowledge, for ſuch becomes thoſe that are called to the light, and deſire to walk honeſtly as in the light.

V. 13. Honeſtly] Or, decently.

not in rioting and drunkenneſſe, &c.] Luke 21.34.

V. 14. But put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt] To put on Chriſt, is to be poſſeſſed and ruled by the ſpirit of Chriſt, to embrace his righteouſneſſe by faith, and follow all his virtues, adorning our ſoules with a true and lively reſemblance of him, in heart and life.

make not proviſion for the fleſh] See Gal. 5. 16. 1 Pet. 2.11. The Apoſtle forbiddeth not to provide for the bodies decent raiment, meat, drink, phyſick, and the like neceſſaries for the ſuſtenance of this preſent life. For that is commanded, Epheſ. 5.29. 1 Tim. 5.8. 23. But to ſatisfie mens boundleſſe deſires, or provide ſuch things as tend to exceſſe and pride, gluttony, drunkenneſſe, and uncleanneſſe.

fulfill the luſts thereof] Gr. Tec. to concupiſcence thereof.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. H*Im that is weak*] Now the Apoſtle ſheweth, how we ought to behave our ſelves towards our brethren in things indifferent, offending in the uſe of them, not of malice, but for lack of knowledge in the point of Chriſtian liberty. In this caſe they are to be inſtructed gently and patiently, ſo that we apply our ſelves to their ignorance in ſuch matters according to the rule of charity, bearing with them for a time, till they are more fully inſtructed.

in the faith] Either by weak in the Faith, he meaneth a new convert, as Alipius ſometimes was, who by reading this very Text of Scripture, and St. Auguſtines Diſcourſe thereupon, was throughly and fully reſolved in the Chriſtian profeſſion, as St. Auguſtine was by reading the former verſe: Or by Faith here the Apoſtle means not ſuch an one, who doubteth of the fundamental points of Chriſtian Faith, but is not ſufficiently inſtructed concerning the uſe of things indifferent; ſuch an one the Apoſtle will not have us ſhun, but receive him into our company, yet not at the firſt, to trouble his conſcience with thoſe ſcrupulous points, leſt by our doubtful and uncertain diſputations he go away in doubt more than he came, or ſtart back with a wounded conſcience.

not to doubtful diſputations] Or, not to judge his doubtful thoughts. Or, the diſcernings of reaſonings.

V. 2. may eat all things] He that is perfectly inſtructed in the doctrine of Chriſtian liberty knoweth by Faith, that the difference of meates appointed by the Ceremoniall Law is now taken away, and that hee now may without ſcruple of Conſcience, eat of any wholeſome and ſavourly meates with giving GOD thanks.

eateth herbs] This he ſpeaketh, ſaith Oecumenius, of ſome Jewes who embraced the Chriſtian faith, yet out of tenderneſs of conſcience, being not ſufficiently inſtructed in the Doctrine of Chriſtian liberty, abhorred from Swines fleſh, and other meats prohibited by the Law, and to the end they might give no offence, neither to the Jew zealous of the law of Moſes in eating ſuch meats, nor to the Chriſtian by refuſing them, and by their practice condemning them for eating ſuch meats, they contented themſelves with herbs.

V. 13. Let not him that eateth] In ſuch matters, ſaith the Apoſtle, let neither they which know their liberty, proudly deſpiſe their weak brother, neither let the unlearned frowardly and perverſly condemn that which he underſtandeth not.

deſpiſe] Gr. Tec. judge.

for God hath received him] Into his family, that is, the Church, ſeeing he that eateth, and he that eateth not, are notwithſtanding the members of Chriſt; neither he that eateth not can juſtly be contemned, neither he that eateth be juſtly condemned.

V. 4. Who art thou that judgeſt another mans ſervant] See Jam. 4. 12. Becauſe, ſaith the Apoſtle, he that is ignorant to day, may be endued to morrow with farther knowledge, that ſo he may alſo ſtand ſure, therefore it belongeth to God, and not to man, to pronounce the ſentence of condemnation.

maſter] Gr. Lord.

Yea, he] Gr. But he.

holden up] Or, eſtabliſhed.

V. 5. one day above another] He ſpeaketh not of ſuch, who after an Heatheniſh manner accounted ſome dayes good and fortunate, but others evil and unlucky. For ſuch at all are not to be born withall among Chriſtians. But of ſuch converted Jews, who though they beleeved in Chriſt, yet thought ſuch days as were appointed by the law for faſting, or feaſting, to be more apt, and fit than others for the worſhip of God.

fully perſwaded in his own mind] Or, fully aſſured. That he may ſay in his conſcience, that he knoweth, and is perſwaded by Jeſus Chriſt, that no meat or day is unclean, or profane in it ſelf, and this perſwaſion muſt be grounded upon Gods Word.

V. 6. that regardeth] Or, obſerveth.

regardeth it unto the Lord] Or, obſerveth. That is, he that keepeth the difference of dayes, he doth it in honour of God, who in his law appointed ſuch difference of dayes, and this weak Chriſtian knoweth not but that that law is yet in force.

regardeth] Or, obſerveth.

to the Lord he doth not regard it] That is, he obſerveth not the difference of days in honour of the Lord Chriſt, who hath freed all true beleevers from all legal obſervations, which he being now perfectly inſtructed in the faith, knoweth to be but ſhadows, vaniſhing at the preſence of the body, which is Chriſt. Now becauſe he that obſerveth the day, obſerveth it to the Lord, as likewiſe he that obſerveth it not, obſerveth it not to the Lord, God ſhall judge whether theſe doe well or not; and therefore you ſhould rather ſtrive about this, how every one of you may be allowed of God; than think upon other mens doings, and raſhly and uncharitably cenſure them.

eateth to the Lord] Giving God thanks: he that eateth indifferently of all meats, eateth in honour of God, giving him thanks both for the meat he hath given him, and for the liberty he hath granted him to eat of it.

to the Lord he eateth not, &c.] He that taſteth not of any meat prohibited by the law of Moſes, doth it in honour of God, who appointed ſuch a difference to be obſerved, and he giveth him thanks both for the meat he affordeth him, and for the direction of his choice delivered in the law, which he knoweth not as yet to be abrogated.

V. 7. For none of us liveth to himſelf] We muſt not ſtick in the meat it ſelf, but in the uſe of it, ſo that he may juſtly be reproved, who ſo liveth, that he caſteth not his eye upon God. For both our life and death ought to be dedicated to him, and for this cauſe properly and principally Chriſt died, and not ſimply that we might eat this or that meat.

V. 8. For whether we live] Gr. If we live.

whether we die] Gr. If we die.

V. 9. died, and roſe, &c.] Gr. Tec. died, and lived.

V. 10. But why doſt thou judge thy brother] The concluſion is, we muſt leave to God his right, and therefore in matters which, according as the conſcience is affected, may be either good or evil, the ſtrong muſt not ſleight, much leſſe condemn the weak brethren.

we ſhall all ſtand before the judgment ſeat, &c.] See 2 Cor. 5. 10.

of Chriſt] Gr. Tec. of God.

V. 11. As I live, ſaith the Lord] See Iſa. 45. 23. Phil. 2. 10. This is the forme of an Oath proper to God onely: For He, and none but He, hath life and being of himſelf.

V. 13. that no man put a ſtumbling block] He rebuketh by the way, thoſe malicious judgers of others, who occupy their heads about nothing ſo much, as to finde fault with their brothers actions; whereas they ſhould rather beſtow their wits upon this, that they doe not by their diſdainfulneſs, or raſh cenſuring, either caſt their brethren clean down, or give them any offence by the unſeaſonable uſe of their Chriſtian liberty. Here the difference between ſcandalum datum, and ſcandalum acceptum, muſt be retained; a ſcandal taken, and not given is, when any taketh offence at us for diſcharging our duty, as the Phariſees took offence at Chriſts doctrine and miracles; a ſcandal given is, when by our undiſcreet carriage, or unſeaſonable uſe of our Chriſtian liberty, we miniſter a juſt occaſion of offence to our brother.

occaſion to fall in his brothers way] Gr. occaſion of offence to his brother.

V. 14. unclean] Gr. common.

of it ſelf] Or, by it ſelf.

unclean] Gr. common.

V. 15. with thy meat] Gr. for, or, by occaſion of thy meat.

now walkeſt thou not charitably] Gr. according to charity. Becauſe thou beareſt not with thy brothers infirmity; but being puft up with the knowledge of thy Chriſtian liberty, takeſt no care how thou woundedſt his weak conſcience.

Deſtroy not him with thy meat] See 1 Cor. 8. 11. That is, give him not ſuch offence by the uſe of thy Chriſtian liberty, that thou alienate his mind from the Chriſtian profeſſion, and thereby become the ruine of him for whom Chriſt died, whoſe example we ought to follow, who was ſo far from deſtroying the weak with meat, that he gave his life for them.

V. 16. good be evil ſpoken of] By the abuſe of Chriſtian liberty, the Goſpel cometh to be evil ſpoken of, as though it opened a way to attempt any thing whatſoever, and emboldened us to all things.

V. 17. Is not meat and drink] That is, dependeth not upon, or conſiſteth not in theſe outward things, but in the ſtudy of righteouſneſſe, and peace, and comfort of the Holy Ghoſt.

V. 18. in theſe things ſerveth] Gr. Tec. in this ſerveth.

V. 19. follow after the things which make for peace] Gr. things of peace. Here is a general concluſion; the uſe of our liberty, yea, and of our whole life, ought to be referred to the edifying of one another; inſomuch, that we eſteem that unlawful by reaſon of the offence of our brother, which is of it ſelf pure and lawful.

V. 20. All things indeed are pure] See Tit. 1. 15.

V. 21. It is good neither to eat fleſh, &c.] See 1 Cor. 8. 13.

V. 22. Haſt thou faith] Here he giveth a double warning in theſe matters; one which pertaineth to the ſtrong, that he which hath obtained a ſure knowledge of this liberty, keep that treaſure to himſelf, to the end that he may uſe it wiſely and profitably: the other which reſpecteth the weak, that they doe nothing raſhly by other mens example with wavering conſciences; for that cannot be done without ſinne, whereof we are not perſwaded by the Word of God, that he liketh it and approveth it.

alloweth] Or, proveth.

V. 23. he that doubteth] Or, diſcerneth and putteth a difference between meats: He that is well aſſured of the Chriſtian liberty, he may well abſtain even from lawful things, to condeſcend to the weakneſſe of his brethren: but he that is not ſo aſſured, neither may, nor ought thus to pleaſure another againſt the dictate of his own conſcience.

is damned] Or, condemned. He that is not fully aſſured as yet, that all kind of meat is clean and lawful, if he notwithſtanding eat of meats forbidden by the law, he wounds his own conſcience, and makes himſelf guilty of condemnation.

for whatſoever is not of faith, is ſinne] Or, and whatſoever. Although S. Proſper, and other Divines both antient and later, alleage this Text, to prove that all the works of Infidels are ſins, becauſe they are done by men who have not faith; and by conſequence this rule of the Apoſtle may ſome way ſerve to diſcover, and refute that errour of Papiſts and Pelagians, who deny all the works of Infidels to be ſins: yet the proper and genuine meaning of this aſſertion of the Apoſtle, is not, whatſoever is done by an Infidel is ſinne: but whatſoever is done even by a beleever with a wavering conſcience, without aſſurance that the work he doth is pleaſing unto God, and hath warrant from his Word, to him is ſinne.

CHAP. XV.

Verſ. 1. WE then that] Gr. But we that.

V. 2. good to edification] In the Greek, there is an article ſet before the adjective good, which importeth the chief good, which tendeth to the eternal ſalvation, which is expreſſed in the next word edification, ſigniſying their profit and encreaſe in godlineſſe, which hath the promiſe of this life, and the life to come.

V. 3. The reproaches of them, &c.] See Pſal. 69. 9.

V. 5. Now the God of patience and conſolation] See 1 Cor. 1. 10.

grant you] Gr. give to you.

according to Chriſt Jeſus] Or, after the example of.

V. 6. and one mouth] Gr. in one mouth.

V. 7. as Chriſt alſo received us] He did not diſdain us, but received us of his own accord, to make us partakers of Gods glory.

V. 8. Now I ſay] Gr. Tec. For I ſay: He applyeth the example of Chriſt to the Jews, whom he vouchſafed this honour for the promiſes which were made unto their Fathers, although they were never ſo unworthy, that he executed the office of a Miniſter amongſt them with marvellous patience; therefore much leſſe ought the Gentiles deſpiſe them for certain faults, whom the Sonne of God ſo much eſteemed.

Miniſter of the circumciſion] Not becauſe he adminiſtred the Sacrament of Circumciſion to any; for contrarywiſe he inſtituted baptiſm in ſtead of circumciſion: but by circumciſion here the Jews are meant as Abraham, Rom. 4.12. is called the Father of Circumciſion, that is, of the circumciſed Jews: Now though Chriſt preached to all, both Jews and Gentiles, the glad tidings of the Goſpel; yet having taken upon him the forme of a ſervant, to purchaſe and work our ſalvation for his Church, he had ſtill a ſpecial eye to them; amongſt whom he did perſonally execute his Miniſtery.

for the truth of God] In the common reception both of the Jewes and Gentiles, there is this onely difference, that in that of the Jewes, God did in a ſingular manner manifeſt his truth, that is, his faithfulneſſe in performing his promiſes made unto them: but in that of the Gentiles he did more eſpecially ſhew forth the greatneſs of his mercy to his utter enemies, namely, to a people that ſtood in oppoſition againſt him; and therefore there is no reaſon, why the Jews being honoured by Chriſts own Miniſtery, and by the old promiſes and Covenant of God, ſhould be deſpiſed and vilified by the Gentiles; nor on the other ſide, that the Gentiles to whom God had ſhewed mercy ſhould be condemned by the Jews.

V. 9. For this cauſe, &c.] See Pſal. 18.49.

V. 12. Rejoyce ye Gentiles with his people] See Deut. 32.43.

V. 11. Praiſe the Lord all ye Gentiles] See Pſal. 117.1.

V. 12. There ſhall be a root of Jeſſe] See Iſa. 11.10.

V. 13. Now the God of hope] That is, the God in whom we hope, or, the God who is the Author of hope, who by the graces of his Spirit, worketh in us both faith and hope. This very Title of God may ſerve as a ſoveraign Antidote againſt deſpair; for why ſhould any deſpair of his mercy, who is the God of hope?

fill you [Gr. ſhall fill you.

peace in beleeving] That is, peace of conſcience, free, not onely from all terrours of wrath to come, but ſcrupulous doubting concerning things indifferent, of which he ſpake before.

through the power]. Gr. in the power.

V. 14. filled with all knowledge] That is, knowledge of all things that appertain to the doctrine of ſalvation, or perfect knowledge, ſo far as it may be attained of us in this life, wherein the beſt and moſt learned know but in part, and ſee but as through a glaſs darkly, 1 Cor. 13.12.

admoniſh one another] Or, inſtruct one another.

V. 16. the Miniſter]. Or, a Miniſter.

miniſtring the Goſpel of God] Gr. ſerving in the holy work of the Goſpel.

Offering up of the Gentiles] Or, ſacrificing. He ſpeaketh not of any holy oblations of the Gentiles, or any thing they offer unto God; but of the Gentiles themſelves, whom the Apoſtle offered to God a ſacrifice, Rom. 12.1.

V. 17. I have therefore whereof I may glory] He extolleth Apoſtleſhip very highly by the marvellons effects thereof; but yet ſo, that he giveth all the glory to God, as the onely Author; and doth not properly reſpect himſelf, but this rather, that men might leſſe doubt of the truth of the doctrine which he propoundeth to them.

glory through Jeſus] Or, rejoyce in Jeſus.

in thoſe things] Or, concerning thoſe things.

V. 18. which Chriſt hath not wrought by me] Chriſt was ſo with me in all things, and by all means, that if I would never ſo fain, yet I cannot ſay what he hath done by me to bring the Gentiles to obey the Goſpel. Or, I will ſpeak onely of things done by my Miniſtery.

To make the Gentiles obedient] Gr. to the obedience of the Gentiles.

V. 19. Through mighty ſigns] Gr. in the power of mighty ſigns.

by the power of the Spirit] Gr. Tec. by the power of the holy Spirit. The word Power in the former part of this verſe ſignifieth the force and working of wonders; and in the latter it ſignifieth Gods mighty power, who is the worker of thoſe wonders: ſo that in theſe words the Apoſtle implyeth a double action of God; outward, in working wonders by the hands of St. Paul to the converſion of the Gentiles; and inward, whereby by the grace of his Spirit, he wrought faith and repentance in them.

V. 20. another mans foundation] That is, preach the Goſpel where the Church had been planted by another man: for that were as it were to graff on his ſtock, and build upon his foundation; that is, the foundation of Chriſtian doctrine laid by him.

V. 21. To whom he was not ſpoken of] See Iſa. 52.15.

V. 22. much] Or, many ways, or, oftentimes.

V. 24. will] Or, ſhall.

with your company] Gr. with you, verſ. 32.

V. 25. to miniſter unto the Saints] Gr. miniſtring to the Saints. That is, to perform this office and ſervice for the Saints, to carry them that money which was gathered for their uſe; for otherwiſe if the word Miniſter be taken for the exerciſing his Miniſterial Function, St. Peter, to whom the Miniſtery of the Circumciſion was ſpecially commended, Gal. 2. 7. as the Apoſtleſhip of the uncircumciſion to Paul, was properly the Miniſter of the Jewes, where God ſpecially bleſt his labours; though, as S. Ambroſe rightly obſerveth, S. Peters miniſtery was not ſo confined to the Jews, but that he might, and did ſometimes preach to the Gentiles, as likewiſe did S. Paul to the Jews.

V. 27. if the Gentiles, &c.] See 1 Cor. 9.11.

V. 28. have ſealed] I have really performed, and ſealed as it were with my ring.

this fruit] By fruit he meaneth the money gathered for the uſe of the Poor, which he fitly here, as alſo Phil. 4.17. calleth the fruit, not becauſe (ſaith he) I deſire a gift, but that I deſire fruit that may abound to your account. Alms-deeds may be called a fruit, as well becauſe every good tree, that is, every faithful man, beareth ſuch fruit; as alſo becauſe ſuch good works are fruitful, that is, beneficiall and profitable, both to the Poor who receive, and the Rich that give.

V. 29. And I am ſure that when I come] He promiſeth them through the bleſſing of God, not to come empty unto them; and requiring of them the duty of prayers, he ſheweth what thing we ought chiefly to reſt upon in all difficulties and adverſities.

bleſſing of the Goſpel of Chriſt] Gr. Tec. benediction, or, bleſſing of Chriſt.

V. 30. for the love of the Spirit] For that mutuall conjunction wherewith the Holy Ghoſt hath tyed our hearts and minds together.

V. 31. do not beleeve] Or, are diſobedient.

V. 32. with joy] Gr. in joy.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſ. 1. I Commend unto you, &c.] Having made an end of the whole diſputation, he cometh now to familiar commendations and ſalutations, and that to good purpoſe; to wit, that the Romans might know who were moſt to be honoured and made account of amongſt them, and alſo whom they ought to ſet before them to follow, and therefore he attributeth to every one of them peculiar and ſingular teſtimonies.

V. 2. In the Lord] That is, for Chriſts ſake, which is proper to the Chriſtians; for the Heathen Philoſophers have reſemblance of the ſame virtues, namely, Humanity, and Hoſpitality; yet becauſe what they doe in this kinde, is not done out of faith in Chriſt, nor to the glory of God, but for their own fame and honour; the works they moſt brag of, are no better than ſhining ſins, or glittering abominations. Or, the meaning of the phraſe may be, receive her in the Lord, that is, into the communion of the faithful, and eſteem her as a member of the Lords myſtical body.

ſuccourer] Or, aſſiſter.

V. 3. Priſcilla and Aquila] See Act. 18.2,16.

helpers] Gr. fellow-labourers.

V. 5. the Church] That is, the company of the faithful: For in ſo great a City as Rome was, there were divers Aſſemblies of beleevers which were held in ſome private mens houſes, where they might meet ſafeſt, the State then, and for ſome hundred years after, not permitting them any publike Temples or Auditories.

the firſt-fruits of Achaia] That is, the firſt of Achaia that beleeved in Chriſt, and conſecrated himſelf and his family to God, and after him there followed a great crop of true beleevers there.

V. 6. beſtowed much labour on us] Or, laboured in many things for us.

V. 7. among the Apoſtles] That is, are eminent Evangeliſts or Preachers of the Goſpel; for the word Apoſtle is not aſcribed alone to the twelve Apoſtles, but ſometimes in a larger ſenſe to other Doctors and Miniſters of the Church; as, 2 Cor. 8.23. Phil. 2.25. Or ἐπίσημοι ἐν ἀποςόλοις, may ſignifie not that theſe men were Apoſtles, but men very well known to the Apoſtles, and highly eſteemed of them.

were in Chriſt before me] In the Church by the profeſſion of the faith of Chriſt, being converted before me, or engraffed by faith into Chriſt, who is the true Vine, Joh. 15.1.

V. 10. houſhold] Or, friends.

V. 11. houſhold] Or, friends.

V. 14. Hermas] Origen, a very learned and ancient Writer, conceiveth that this Hermas was the Author of the Book entituled Paſtor, becauſe the Angel therein is ſaid to appear in the likeneſſe of a ſhepherd, this book he conceiveth to be divinely enſpired; but St. Jerome in his Prologus Galeatus reckoneth it among Apocryphall books: and Euſebius in his third book of Eccleſiaſtical Story, ſaith, That many in his time took exception againſt this Book, though by many it were aſcribed to this Hermas, whom S. Paul ſaluteth.

V. 16. Salute one another with an holy kiſs] See 1 Cor. 16.20. 2 Cor. 13.12. 1 Pet. 5.14. He calleth that a holy kiſs, which proceedeth from an heart which is full of holy love, now this is to be referred to the manner uſed in thoſe days.

V. 17. mark them] Either ſet a brand upon them; 2 Theſſ. 3.15. or warily and diligently obſerve them, as though you would ſcout out for your enemies in a Watch-tower; or obſerve them to ſhun them.

contrary to the] Or, beſide the.

V. 18 fair ſpeeches] The word which he uſeth ſignifieth a promiſing which performeth nothing.

ſimple] Or, harmleſs.

V. 19. ſimple] Or, harmleſs.

V. 20. the God of peace] The Author and Conſerver of the true ſpiritual peace of the Church, which theſe ſchiſmatical and factious men, ſet on by the Devil, do endeavour to their utmoſt to diſturb.

bruiſe Satan] Or, tread. Shall make that by Chriſt ye ſhall overcome him. The Apoſtle ſeemeth here to have an eye unto the firſt Evangelical promiſe, Gen. 3. 15.

V. 21. Timotheus, &c.] Acts 6. 1.

V. 22. wrote this Epiſtle] This Tertius was not the author of this Epiſtle, or pen-man of the holy Ghoſt, but St. Pauls Scribe, who wrote from his mouth as Baruc did from Jeremies, Jer. 36. 18.

V. 23. chamberlain] Gr. ſteward.

V. 25. that is of power] He ſetteth forth the power and wiſdom of God, with thankſgiving, which eſpecially appeareth in the Goſpel; and he maketh mention alſo of the calling of the Gentiles, to confirm the Romanes in the hope of this ſalvation.

which was kept ſecret] See Epheſ. 3. 9. Col. 1. 26.

ſince the world began] Gr. ſecular, or, everlaſting times.

V. 26. for the] Gr. to the. See Rom. 1. 5.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THe drift of the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle, is, to beat down carnal Wiſdom, and affected ſtrains of Eloquepce, and to ſet among the Corinthians, the powerful Preaching of Chriſt Crucified; and farther, to inſtruct them, and in them all Chriſtians, in the Doctrine of Chriſtian Liberty, of the Sacraments, of the Old and New Law, of the nature and difference of Spiritual Gifts, and of the Reſurrection of the dead.

The parts of this Epiſtle are principally four:

1. A reproof of divers ſcandals and abuſes among the Corinthians; as namely;
    1. Their diſſentions and factions, ſiding with their ambitious Teachers, Chap. 1, 2, 3, 4.
    2. Their toleration of Inceſt, Chap. 5.
    3. Their vexing one another with Law-ſuits, before infidel Judges, Chap. 6.
    4. Their abuſe of their Chriſtian liberty, Chap. 8. 10.
    5. Their diſorders in their Holy Aſſemblies. Chap. 11.
2. Reſolution of doubts propounded to him.
    1. Concerning marriage and ſingle life, Chap. 7.
    2. Concerning the nature and condition of glorified bodies, at, and after their Reſurrection, Chap. 15.
3. Directions.
    1. Concerning their carriage towards their weak Brethren, Chap. 9.
    2. Their preparation to the Sacrament, Chap. 11. from the 23. Verſe to the end.
    3. Concerning the uſe of Spiritual Gifts in general, and the exerciſe of the Gift of tongues, and prophecie in particular, Chap. 12, 14.

9. Exhortation to charity, and a liberal contribution to the Saints at Jeruſalem, Chap. 13. 16.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. AN Apoſtle] If he be an Apoſtle he muſt be heard, although ſometimes he reprehend them ſharply, ſeeing he hath not his own cauſe in hand, but is a meſſenger that bringeth the commands of Chriſt.

through] Or, by.

Soſthenes our brother] In Chriſt, or in the miniſtery of the Goſpel, whom he joyneth with himſelf in this inſcription, that the doctrine might be confirmed by two witneſſes, 2 Cor. 13. 1. This Soſthenes was the chief ruler of the Synagogue, whom the Greeks took and beat before the judgement ſeat, Acts 18. 17.

V. 2. are ſanctified in Chriſt Jeſus] See Acts 15. 9. The Father ſanctifieth us; that is to ſay, ſeparateth us from the wicked in giving us to his Son, that he may be in us, and we in him.

called to be ſaints] See Rom. 1. 7. Whom God hath called to holineſs, or called effectually according to his eternal purpoſe, Rom. 8. 28.

V. 4. I thank my God] Intending to condemn many vices in the Corinthians, that he might not ſeem to do it out of ſpleen, or malice, or envy, he beginneth with a true commendation of their virtues, yet ſo that he referreth all to God as the Author of them, and that in Chriſt, that the Corinthians might be more aſhamed to profane and abuſe the holy gifts of God.

on your behalf] Or, concerning you.

V. 5. in all utterance] Or, all kinde of ſpeech. In the Original it is, in all ſpeech: thereby the Apoſtle meaneth, either that they excel in the gift of tongues, which ſome of them abuſed and are therefore reproved by the Apoſtle, Chap. 14. Or, by utterance he meaneth not affected ſtrains of Rhetorick, but a gift of holy eloquence, ſuch as Apollo is commended for, who was an eloquent man mighty in the Scriptures.

and in all knowledge] Seeing that whilſt we live here we know but in part, and propheſie in part: the word All muſt be reſtrained to the preſent ſtate of the faithful, and to ſuch knowledge as is needful to ſalvation, Rom. 15. 14.

V. 6. teſtimony of Chriſt] That is, the Goſpel which teſtifieth of Chriſt; or, as theſe gifts are a teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt in you.

confirmed in you] Proved by theſe gifts, or the teſtimony of Jeſus Chriſt received by faith: for he that beleeveth ſealeth the truth of Gods word.

V. 7. coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt] Gr. revelation. His ſecond coming when he ſhall come with glory to judge both quick and dead. In the Greek it is the revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, becauſe he is now hid; but then his glory ſhall be manifeſted, for he ſhall come with the clouds and great glory, Col. 3. 3.

V. 8. blameleſs] Some obſerve that the word in the Original, ſignifieth not without fault, but without crime. If we read blameleſs, either he ſpeaketh of the elect among the Corinthians, who though they might ſometimes grievouſly fall, yet were raiſed up again by repentance; and though the beſt cannot be ſaid to be blameleſs ſimply, that is, ſuch whom never man found fault with, yet they may be and are ſuch, with whom none may juſtly find fault: or the Apoſtle ſeemeth rather to pray for their juſtification at Chriſts tribunal, that they might be there blameleſs, that is, not to have any ſins imputed unto them to their condemnation.

V. 9. God is faithful] See 1 Theſſ. 3. 24. True and conſtant, who doth not onely call us, but alſo giveth us the gift of perſeverance, whereby we are confirmed unto the end.

V. 10. Now I beſeech you, &c.] Having made an end of his Preface, he cometh to the matter it ſelf, beginning with a grave obteſtation, as though they ſhould hear Chriſt himſelf ſpeaking and not Paul.

that ye all ſpeak the ſame thing] That is, that ye agree in the doctrine of ſalvation, and though ye may deliver different points of doctrine, yet no way repugnant one to the other, or to the truth.

diviſions] Gr. ſchiſms.

joyned] Or, fitted.

V. 12. Apollos] See Acts 18. 24.

V. 13. Is Chriſt divided] The firſt reaſon why Schiſms ought to be eſchewed, is becauſe Chriſt ſeemeth by that means to be divided and torn in pieces; who cannot be the head of two diverſe and diſagreeing bodies, himſelf being but one.

was Paul crucified for you?] Another reaſon, becauſe they cannot without great injury to God ſo depend on men as on Chriſt, which thing no doubt they do, who allow whatſoever ſome man ſpeaketh even for his perſon ſake; as theſe men allowed one ſelf ſame Goſpel, being uttered by one man, and diſliked it being uttered by another man: ſo that theſe Factions were called by the name of their Teachers. Now Saint Paul here ſetteth down his own name, not onely to grieve no man, but alſo to ſhew he pleaded not his cauſe.

were ye baptized in the name of Paul] Gr. into. The third reaſon taken from the form and end of baptiſm, wherein we make a promiſe to Chriſt calling on alſo the name of the Father, and the holy Ghoſt; therefore although a man do not fall from the doctrine of Chriſt, yet if he wholly depend upon ſome certain Teachers, and deſpiſe others, he forſaketh Chriſt; for if he held Chriſt his onely Maſter, he would hear him teaching by whomſoever.

V. 14. Criſpus and Gaius] See Acts 18. 8.

V. 15. that I had baptized] Gr. Tec. that ye were baptized.

V. 17. For Chriſt ſent me not to baptize] In theſe words he taketh away an objection, that might have been made againſt him, for not baptizing many among the Corinthians: the reaſon whereof was not out of any contempt of baptiſm, or ſlighting the adminiſtration thereof; but becauſe he was chiefly occupied in delivering the doctrine, and he committed them that received his doctrine to others to be baptized, whereof he had ſtore; and ſo he declared ſufficiently how far he was from all ambition; whereas on the other ſide, they whom he reprehendeth, as though they gathered diſciples unto themſelves and not unto Chriſt, bragged moſt ambitiouſly of great numbers which they had baptized.

not with wiſdom, &c.] See 2 Pet. 1. 16.

words] Or, ſpeech.

leſt the Croſs of Chriſt, &c.] The reaſon why he uſed not pomp of words, and painted ſpeech, becauſe it was Gods will to bring the world to his obedience by that way whereby the moſt ſimple and ignorant amongſt men might underſtand that this work was done of God himſelf without the art of man: therefore as ſalvation is ſet forth to us in the Goſpel by the Croſs of Chriſt, than which nothing is more contemptible, and more remote from being the cauſe of life: ſo God would have the manner of preaching the Croſs moſt different from thoſe means with which men do uſe to draw and entice others either to hear or beleeve; therefore it pleaſed him by a certain kinde of moſt wiſe folly to triumph over the moſt fooliſh wiſdom of the world, as he hath ſaid before by Eſay that he would do. For the phraſe καταργηθῇ, the meaning is, that the Apoſtle ſhunned all affectation of eloquence, leſt the doctrine of the Croſs might be made of none effect, that is, of no force, and unprofitable to the hearers; who whileſt they were taken with ſtrains of affected eloquence, would ſlighten and contemn the plain doctrine of Chriſt crucified: or leſt the hearers might conceive that they were brought to Chriſtianity by the power of humane eloquence, and not by the power of Chriſt crucified.

V. 18. power of God] See Rom. 1. 16.

V. 19. I will deſtroy, &c.] See Iſa. 29. 14.

bring to nothing] Or, reject and diſanul.

V. 20. Where is the wiſe] See Iſa. 33: 18.

where is the diſputer of this world] Where art thou that ſpendeſt all thy time in ſearching out the ſecrets of nature, and in propounding and reſolving difficult queſtions? and thus he triumpheth over the Wizards of the world: for there was not one of them that could ſo much as dream of this ſecret and hidden myſtery.

V. 21. For after that] Or, ſeeing that. See Rom. 1. 20.

the world] By the world he meaneth all men which are not born anew, but remain as they were, when they were firſt born, ſo the world here, is all one with ψυχικὸς ἀνὴρ, the natural man, who perceiveth not the things that are of God; 1 Cor. 2. 14.

by wiſdom] That is, the workmanſhip of the world, which hath the marvellous wiſdom of God engraven in it; ſo that every man may behold it.

knew not God] That is, knew him not to ſalvation, for otherwiſe the Apoſtle teacheth, Rom. the firſt, verſ. 20. that they knew ſo much of the eternal power and Godhead by the creation of the world, as made them unexcuſable.

fooliſhneſs of preaching] So he calleth the preaching of the Goſpel, as the enemies conceived of it, or in their eſtimation; withal by a bitter Sarcaſm ſharply taunting them who had rather charge God with folly, than acknowledge their own, and crave pardon for it.

V. 22. For the Jews] Gr. Seeing that alſo the Jews. See Mart. 12. 38.

V. 24. the power of God, &c.] Though the preaching of the Goſpel ſeem fooliſh to them whom God hath not endued with new light, that is to ſay, to all men being conſidered in themſelves; for the Jews require miracles, and the Grecians arguments, which they may comprehend by their wit and wiſdom; and therefore they do not onely not beleeve the Goſpel, but alſo they mock at it: notwithſtanding in this fooliſh preaching as they count it, there is the great virtue and wiſdom of God, but ſuch as thoſe onely which are called do perceive, God ſhewing moſt plainly that even then, when mad men moſt fooliſhly think him to be fooliſh, he is far wiſer than they are, and that he ſurmounteth all their might and power when he uſeth moſt vile and abject things to confound the greateſt and moſt noble. His ſpeech is figurative, for by terming Chriſt crucified the power and wiſdom of God, he meaneth by a Metonymie him by whom God ſheweth forth his power, in aboliſhing ſin, and death, and reſtoring us to life, and by whom God manifeſteth and executeth his moſt wiſe counſel and decree for the ſalvation of the elect.

V. 25. the fooliſhneſs] That is, that which men of this world count fooliſhneſs, hath more wiſdom in it ſelf than they and all their worldly wiſdom together.

the weakneſs] That is, that which in their eſteem is but weak, and of no power or efficacie to ſalvation, is more ſtrong and powerful, than they with all their conceited eloquence and authority.

V. 27. confound] Or, ſhame.

V. 28. which are not] That is, which are of ſo ſmall eſteem, as if they were not at all, 1 Cor. 3. 5. What is Paul? what is Apollo? &c. Thus the nothingneſs of man is deciphered, as he ſtandeth before God without any worth, merit, ſtrength, or virtue.

to bring to nought] That is, to ſhew the vanity and unprofitableneſs of them for obtaining of eternal ſalvation.

Things that are] That is, that are of account and ſeem to be great.

V. 29. glory] Or, boaſt.

in his preſence] Gr. Tec. before God.

V. 30. But of him are ye] Whom he caſt down before, he now lifteth up higher than all men; yet ſo, that he ſheweth them that all their worthineſs is without themſelves, that is, ſtandeth in Chriſt, and that of God. Of him you are, that is, you are born of him and regenerated by his Spirit.

In Chriſt Jeſus, who of God is made unto us wiſdom, and righteouſneſs, and ſanctification, and redemption.] Having nothing at all of your ſelves, God hath given you all in Chriſt, according to the decree he made, that he ſhould be the ſource and the root of all the ſpiritual bleſſings conferred upon the Church: which are wiſdom, by the revelation of the myſtery of ſalvation; righteouſneſs, by his ſatisfaction and perfect obedience for our juſtification; ſanctification, by the gift of the Spirit of regeneration; and redemption both of body and ſoul from all evil and miſery, by the laſt and glorious reſurrection in virtue of our myſtical union with him.

V. 31. He that glorieth, &c.] Jer. 9. 23, 24. 2 Cor. 10. 17.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. Came not with excellency of ſpeech] teſtimony of God] Gr. Tec. the myſtery. That is, the Goſpel which is the teſtimony of God, that is, of Chriſt, to be God and the Authour of the New Teſtament and King of glory, Rev. 10. 10. Or if we admit of Tecla's Edition, When I ſhewed unto you the myſtery of God, that is, revealed unto you the ſecret of the Goſpel, or the hidden things of God, Apoc. 10. 7.

V. 2. determined not] Or, eſteemed, or, made reckoning. That is, I had no purpoſe, or judged it not fit, and convenient for me to know; that is, to make profeſſion of any other ſcience or doctrine; or to teach you any other thing than the moſt neceſſary and onely ſaving knowledge of Chriſt crucified.

V. 3. with] Or, among, or, towards.

in weakneſs, and in fear] He ſetteth weakneſs againſt power of eloquence, and excellencie of words; and therefore joyned with it fear and trembling, which are companions of true modeſtie; not ſuch fear and trembling as terrifieth the conſcience, or argueth guilt, but ſuch as are contrary to vanity and pride.

V. 4. was not with, &c.] 2 Pet. 1. 16.

enticing] Or, perſwaſible.

demonſtration of the Spirit and of power] He preached ſo, that his doctrine by the Spirit wrought powerfully in the hearts of his hearers. Or, by the demonſtration of the Spirit, and of power, he meaneth the evident confirmation of his doctrine by the gifts of the holy Ghoſt, and the ſigns and wonders which he wrought amongſt them.

V. 5. faith ſhould not ſtand] He yeeldeth here a reaſon why he concealed all art and eloquence, and uſed ſuch plainneſs of ſpeech in his preaching, that it was for their great profit, not onely that they might better underſtand him, and more fully comprehend the myſteries he taught: but that they might thereby know manifeſtly that the Goſpel was from heaven. Therefore he privily rebuketh them, becauſe that in ſeeking vain oſtentation and ſhew of humane wiſdom and eloquence, they willingly deprived themſelves of the greateſt help of their faith, the plain evidence of the Spirit.

ſtand] Gr. be.

V. 6. ſpeak wiſdom] Another argument taken from the nature of the thing, that is, the Goſpel, which is true wiſdom, and able to make men wiſe unto ſalvation; but known to them onely which are deſirous of perfection; and unknown and unſavoury alſo to them which otherwiſe excel in the world, and are accounted the wiſeſt men. Or by wiſdom he meaneth the difficulteſt myſteries of the word, which he preached to thoſe which were of riper yeers and knowledge: for otherwiſe he fed the weak and tender ones with milk, Chap. 3. 2. Heb. 5. 12. And thus Saint Auguſtine in his 96. & 97. Tract upon the words of the Apoſtle expoundeth this text, Apoſtoli eadem tradebant majoribus & parvulis, perfectis & imperfectis, ſed ea cura adhibita ut pro ſua cujuſque capacitate ea proponerent, parvulis quidem ut potum lactis quem libenter & facilè ſugant, majoribus autem ut ſolidum cibum, explicando rationes, ordinem, modum, aliáſque circumſtantias eorum quæ credenda ſunt, quod eſt ſapientiam loqui inter perfectos.

among] Gr. in.

among them that are perfect] Thoſe are called perfect here, not which had gotten perfection already, but ſuch as tended to it, Phil. 3. 12, 15. So that perfect is ſet againſt weak. The Schools diſtinguiſh of perfectio viæ & perfectio patriæ : as alſo perfectio partium & perfectio graduum ; a perfection of parts, and a perfection of degrees ; the former may be attained to in this life , not the latter. The Apoſtle ſeemeth to borrow the word τελείους , from the Gentiles, who would admit none to their abſtruſer rites and ceremonies which they call τελετὰς , but τελείους , perſons well prepared and purified for many years together. Some refer it to age, and make this conſtruction of the words ; We ſpeak wiſdom to thoſe that are of ripe and perfect age, who are able to judge of it, thoſe that are no more children in underſtanding, 1 Cor. 14. 20. nor unſkilful in the word of righteouſneſs, Heb. 5. 13. but are become as a perfect man by the full knowledge of the myſteries of Chriſtian Religion , Epheſ. 4. 13.

not the wiſdom of this world] Not a wiſdom found out by humane reaſon , nor delivering rules of State policie, nor tending to worldly ends, nor apprehended or eſteemed by the men of this world , but revealed by the ſpirit of God which the world cannot receive, John 14. 17.

nor the Princes of this world] By the Princes of the world ſome underſtand the evil ſpirits, whoſe rule in the air , and are called elſewhere, κοσμοκράτορες , Epheſ. 6. 12. rulers of the darkneſs of this world, who were the Authours of the heathens policie and Religion. Others by Princes of this world underſtand the Kings of the earth and Emperours, who dictated their laws out of the principles of humane wiſdom. But the words ſeem rather to carry a larger ſenſe, and extend to all thoſe that have great power and authority over others, who eſteem their State policie which they uſe in their Government the greateſt and onely wiſdom in the world.

that come to nought] Which are deſtroyed, and whoſe counſels are ſubverted by God, ſo that they are not able to uphold themſelves with all their plots and policies : which is an undoubted argument that all their wiſdom is but weak and vain , if it be compared with that of the Church of Chriſt which bringeth us to life and everlaſting glory. The word in the Original implies that their wiſdom is caſſated, and their policies fruſtrated, whereof they can make no uſe nor advantage beyond this life ; ſo that they with all their policie and power die and periſh, Pſal. 146. 1.

V. 7. wiſdom of God in a myſtery] In a myſtery , that is , in a divine manner incomprehenſible to carnal ſenſe. Or it is called a myſtery, becauſe it was never found out by any humane wiſdom , or learning , but lay hid till it pleaſed God to reveal it by his Prophets and Apoſtles.

which God ordained] Here he taketh away an objection : If it be ſo hard and hidden, how is it known ? God, ſaith he, determined with himſelf from the beginning, that which his purpoſe was to bring forth at this time, out of the hidden treaſury of his ſecrets for the ſalvation of men.

to our glory] That is, to our glorification ; to this end , that by the knowledge of this wiſdom we might attain celeſtial glory, and life eternal. For this is life eternal to know thee, &c. John 17.3.

V. 8. which none of the Princes of this world knew] That is, none in compariſon ; for Nicodemus, and Sergius Paulus, and ſome other few knew it, but as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, 1 Cor. 1. 26. Not many mighty, &c. were called to the knowledge of this heavenly wiſdom. Here he taketh away another objection, How cometh it to paſs that this wiſdom was ſo rejected of men of higheſt authority that they crucified Chriſt himſelf ? Paul anſwereth ; Becauſe they knew not Chriſt to be ſuch as he was : or none knew before it was revealed to them.

the Lord of glory] That is, the mighty God full of majeſty and glory, Act. 7. 2. The God of glory appeared, &c and King of glory, Pſal. 24. 10. Neither is Chriſt onely ſtyled the Lord or King of glory, becauſe he is moſt glorious in himſelf , and cloathed with majeſty and honour ; but becauſe by the power of his Divinity , and virtue of his death and reſurrection, he advanceth all the elect to eternal glory, glorifying both their bodies and ſouls.

V. 9. but as it is written, &c.] Another objection. But how could it be that thoſe witty men could not perceive this wiſdom? Paul anſwereth : Becauſe we preach thoſe things which paſs all mens underſtanding, unleſs they be ſupernaturally enlightned. But where is this written ? Zacharias Biſhop of Chryſopolis , affirmeth that he found the teſtimony here alleaged [Eye hath not ſeen, &c.] in an Apocryphal book entituled, The Secrets of Elias the Prophet : and Gregorius Syncellus, of whom Scaliger maketh mention in his Notes upon Euſebius, obſerveth that Saint Paul did ſometimes, but very ſeldom, make uſe of teſtimonies out of Apocryphal books , as when he alleageth out of the book of Elias this paſſage, Which eye hath not ſeen, &c. But although he might quote ſomething found in Apocryphal writings, as Saint Jude doth out of the prophecie of Enoch, Jude 14. yet there can be no pregnant proof brought for his quoting any thing out of any Apocryphal books : neither is it likely that he would draw water out of the muddy ſtream of an Apocryphal writing when he might draw it out of the pure fountain of the Prophet Iſaiah, Chap. 64. verſ. 4. Neither perceived by the ear , nor hath the eye ſeen, &c.

V. 9. Eye] Gr. what eye. Iſa. 64. 4.

V. 10. the deep things of] Gr. the depths of.

V. 13. which things, &c.] See 2 Pet. 1. 16.

comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual] The words admit of a double Tranſlation and interpretation : if we read them comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual , then the meaning is , we apply ſpiritual terms and manners of propounding and expreſſing to ſpiritual matters and ſubjects. If there be propounded, ſaith Occumenius, any ſpiritual point, ἀπὸ παραδειγμάτων πνευματικῶν τὰς συγκρίσεις ϗ ἐπιλύσεις ἐπάγομεν : for example , if the queſtion be whether Chriſt roſe the third day, we bring a confirmation and illuſtration out of the Prophet Jonah. The word uſed in the text properly ſignifieth to judge together, that is, by conferring texts of holy Scripture , and ſetting ſpiritual things one againſt another , that like oppoſite glaſſes they may caſt a mutual light one upon the other ; and we may make a more certain judgement of them. But if we reade them , judging ſpiritual things with ſpiritual perſons, then the meaning is apparantly thus ; that we are to confer with the faithful about points of faith ; and communicate ſpiritual myſteries to ſpiritual men, not to thoſe who are yet carnal and meer worldlings : for that were to caſt pearl before ſwine : and this interpretation well agreeth with the verſe following ; wherein the Apoſtle diſtinguiſheth of the natural man and ſpiritual man, and affirmeth that the natural man perceiveth not the things of the ſpirit of God.

V. 14. the natural man] Gr. animale. ψυχικὸς. Some conceive that they who firſt tranſlated this paſſage , read not in their Copy or Edition as we do , ψυχικὸς , but φυσικὸς , for φυσικὸς ſignifieth natural, and ψυχικὸς , animalis , or animale ; howſoever the oppoſition to πνευματικὸς , or ſpiritual, ſheweth that hereby the Apoſtle meaneth a man that hath no farther light of underſtanding, than that which he brought with him even from his mothers womb ; as Jude defineth men ſenſual having not the ſpirit, verſ. 19. And in this ſenſe Tertullian taketh the word in his Tractate con. Pſychicos , branding the right beleevers who diſtaſted the Faſts of the Montaniſts (into whoſe hereſie he was now fallen) with the name of Pſychici, that is, carnal, or ſenſual men.

ſpiritually diſcerned] That is, to be taken and underſtood in a ſpiritual and heavenly ſenſe , to which his carnal reaſon cannot reach : Or, they are ſpiritually diſcerned, that is, by the virtue of the holy Ghoſt, with an eye anointed with the eye-ſalve of the Spirit , Apoc. 3. 18.

V. 15. But he that is, &c.] See Prov. 27. 19.

judgeth all things] Or, diſcerneth. Gr. Tec. all thoſe things. Underſtandeth and diſcerneth all things, which belong unto the worſhip of God and eternal life.

judged of no man] Or, diſcerned. That is, can be convinced of error in judging ſpiritual things by no natural and carnal man. For when the Prophets are judged by the Prophets, it is the ſpirit that judgeth, and not the man ; or men by their natural reaſon : the wiſdom of carnal men determineth nothing certainly, no not in their own affairs, much leſs can it diſcern ſtrange, that is , ſpiritual things : but the ſpirit of God wherewith ſpiritual men are endued , can be deceived by no means, whileſt they follow that guide, and therefore can be reproved of no man.

V. 16. For who hath known, &c.] See Iſaiah 40. 13. Wiſd. 9. 13. Rom. 11. 34.

may] Gr. ſhall.

inſtruct] Or, confirm, or, inform.

CHAP. III.

Verſ 1. C*ould not ſpeak unto you*] Having declared the worthineſs of heavenly wiſdom and of the Goſpel, and having generally condemned the blindneſs of mans minde, he now particularly applyeth himſelf to the Corinthians, calling them carnal, that is, ſuch in whom the fleſh prevaileth againſt the ſpirit, and he bringeth a double proof thereof: Firſt, from his dealing with them no other ways than with ignorant men , and ſuch as were almoſt babes in the doctrine of godlineſs : Secondly , from thoſe diſſentions which ſprung up among them, by reaſon of the ignorance of the virtue of the ſpirit and heavenly wiſdom, in which they had profited very little or nothing.

as unto carnal] He calleth them carnal, who yet had received the firſt fruits of the ſpirit, in three regards ; Firſt , becauſe the fleſh in them luſted againſt the ſpirit. Secondly , becauſe in many things they followed the deſires of the fleſh. Thirdly, becauſe they ſavoured the things of the fleſh, not perceiving, or at leaſt, not reliſhing many things of the Spirit , as being but novices in the ſchool of Chriſt.

V. 2. fed you with milk] Heb. 5. 12. That is, ſaith Clem. Alex. Pædagog. l. 1. c. 6. κατήχησα ὑμᾶς ἐν χριστῷ ἁπλῇ ϗ ἀληθεῖ ϗ αὐτοφυεῖ τροφῇ πνευματικῇ, I have catechized you in Chriſt with ſimple, true and nouriſhing food, wholeſome and eaſie of digeſture. For ſuch is milk to children. And to this charity of the Apoſtle in condeſcending to the capacity of his hearers, and feeding them which were ſucklings in Chriſt,with the ſincere milk of the Word. S.Ambroſe Serm. 68. & S. Chryſoſtome Serm. in principes Apoſtolos, allude in deſcanting upon the miracle wrought at his death and martyrdom, at which when he was beheaded ſome of the ancients affirm, lac pro ſanguine manaſſe, that milk iſſued in ſtead of blood.

V. 3. diviſions] Or, factions.

walk as men] Gr. according to man. By the ſquare and compaſs of mans wit and judgement, as men uſe to walk, who are meer men and deſtitute of the Spirit of God.

V. 5. Who then is Paul] After he had ſufficiently reprehended ambitious teachers, and their fooliſh eſteemers, now he ſheweth how the true Miniſters are to be eſteemed, that we attribute not to them more or leſs than we ought to do, therefore he teacheth us that they are they, by whom we are called to faith and ſalvation, but yet as the Miniſters of God, and ſuch as do nothing of themſelves, but God ſo working by them as it pleaſeth him to furniſh them with his gifts; therefore we have not to mark or conſider ſo much what a Miniſter he is, that ſpeaketh, but what is ſpoken, and we muſt depend onely upon God,who ſpeaketh by his ſervants.

V. 6. I have planted, &c.] That is, ſaith Optatus Milevitanus,I have made you Chriſtians of Pagans, and Apollo hath baptized you: or, I have laid the firſt foundations of Chriſtianity among you, but Apollo and others have confirmed you in that doctrine and built you up in your moſt holy faith.

but God gave the encreaſe] S. Auſtine againſt Petilian, truly obſerveth, that in natural fruits God giveth the encreaſe not without the power of nature, which doth her part, ſed in ſpiritualibus & gratuitis ſolus dat incrementum, God alone gives the encreaſe, cum excluſione cujuſcunque cauſæ creatæ,nature contributing nothing of her ſelf thereunto; & therefore in reſpect of the ſupernatural effect of the preaching of the Goſpel, to wit, faith and repentance,he that planteth, and he that watereth is as nothing, though God uſe their labour therein, or, is nothing in compariſon.

V. 7. So then] Or, wherefore.

V. 8. are one] That is, they are both nothing, but ſervants and Miniſters, and that of the ſame Maſter, propoſing unto themſelves one and the ſelf-ſame mark; to wit, your growth in the grace and knowledge of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt: and ſith they are thus one,you ought not for them or concerning them to be divided as you are into factions.

and every man ſhall receive his own reward] Pſal. 62. 12. Gal. 6. 5.

own labour] Or, proper.

V. 9. labourers together with God] Serving together under him: now they that ſerve under another do nothing of their own ſtrength, but as it is given them of grace, which grace fitteth them for that ſervice, and all the encreaſe that cometh by their labour, doth ſo proceed from God, that no part of the praiſe of it may be given to the under-ſervants.

husbandry] Or, Gods labourers together.

V. 10. But let every man take heed, &c.] Now he ſpeaketh to the Teachers themſelves which ſucceed him in the Church of Corinth, and in their perſons, to all that were after or ſhall be Paſtours of Congregations, ſeeing that they ſucceed into the labours of the Apoſtles, which were planters and chief builders, therefore he warneth them, that they perſwade not themſelves that they may build after their own fancie, that is, that they may propound and ſet forth any thing in the Church, either in matter or kind of teaching different from the Apoſtles which were chief builders.

V. 12. if any man build upon this foundation gold,&c.] They who build after the Apoſtles upon the foundation which they have laid, to wit, Chriſt Jeſus, muſt take heed that the upper part of their building be anſwerable to the foundation, that is, that admonitions,exhortations, and whatſoever pertaineth to the edifying of the flock, be anſwerable to the doctrine of Chriſt, as well in the matter as in form. And here by gold, ſilver and precious ſtones, he meaneth pure and ſolide doctrine; of which matter Eſay alſo and John in the Revelation, build the heavenly city: and to theſe are oppoſite, wood, hay, and ſtubble, that is, vain and curious ſubtilties or philoſophical conceits, and all kind of teaching which ſerveth to oſtentation, and not to edification, 1 Tim. 1. 4. By this he taxeth them among the Corinthians, who mingled in the preaching of the Word, the terms of humane Arts, the vain flouriſhes of Oratours, and argute reaſons of Sophiſters, which though they ſubvert not the foundation, nor falſify the ſubſtance of the Goſpel, yet they disfigure and diſgrace it.

V. 13. ſhall be revealed] Gr. is revealed.

by fire] Gr. in fire.

and the fire ſhall try every mans work] By the fire is not meant, as the Romiſh Divines teach, fire of Purgatory. Firſt, becauſe it cannot be proved out of Scripture, that there is any ſuch purgatory fire as they imagine, to purge thoſe that die with venial ſins. Secondly, becauſe every work is tryed by the fire here meant; but according to the Romiſh doctrine good works are not tryed in purgatory fire. Thirdly, the works here meant (as appeareth by the antecedent and conſequents) are doctrines, and ſeveral kinds of preaching, which it would be abſurd to ſay, that they ſhould be tryed with material fire, wherewith our Adverſaries beleeve, that thoſe who die with veniall ſins are tormented in their purgatory. But by fire, either we are to underſtand (according to the Interpretation of S. Auſtin and others of the Ancients) the fire of perſecutions, tribulations, and temptations whereby the ſound doctrine is tried and proved, as it were affording then to us moſt ſtrong and ſolid comforts and conſolations which no other is able to do: Or the fire of the holy Ghoſt, who by the light of Gods Word doth manifeſt the verity or vanity of doctrines delivered by the Preachers, and like unto fire, reduceth and bringeth to nothing like hay and ſtubble, whatſoever is foiſted in by humane invention. For though ſuch doctrine be not tainted with hereſie, yet becauſe blinded with vanity, it is no better than hay and ſtubble. Or by fire is meant the appearing of Chriſt at the day of judgement, likened to fire for two qualities, brightneſs and a conſuming force.

V. 14. If any mans work abide] As the good metal in the furnace, without being conſumed after the manner of droſs or any other combuſtible matter.

V. 15. If any mans work ſhall be burnt, he ſhall ſuffer loſſe] That is, If any mans doctrine or teaching will not endure the tryal, as hay, and ſtubble, and droſs will not the fire, he ſhall loſe the praiſe of his labour, which ſhall not be accepted nor rewarded by God. Notwithſtanding for his own perſon (if he have held firm the foundation, either myſtical, which is Chriſt in reſpect of the faithful, who being many living ſtones make one houſe, built upon him; or doctrinal, in reſpect of the doctrine and faith, whereby they are joyned together and built upon him) he ſhall be ſaved.

yet ſo as by fire] Becauſe he ſhall paſs by the fire, that is, the revealing brightneſs of Chriſt,or the fire of the Spirit, which ſhall ſhew the vanity of his work: or he ſhall be ſaved as through fire, through the which when the gold paſſeth, whatſoever droſs it hath, it muſt ſuffer loſs of it. Or, he ſhall paſs as through fire, (i.e.) it ſhall be requiſite that he be purifyed by the holy Ghoſt of that mixture and impurity of worldlineſs and mans wiſdom, of words wherwith he hath defiled both himſelf and his miniſtery: Or elſe he ſhall be ſaved in ſuch a manner as one that eſcapeth naked out of the fire without carrying away or ſaving any of his goods,his perſon may well be ſaved,but ſo as he ſhall loſe the reward of a well qualified Miniſter and faithfull diſpenſer of the myſteries of God.

V. 16. Know ye not that ye are the temple of God] See Chap. 6. 19. 2 Cor. 6. 16.

V. 17. defile] Or, deſtroy.

V. 18. let him become a fool, that he may be wiſe] Let him deny himſelf and his carnal wiſdom,and ſubmit himſelf to the Doctrine of the Goſpel; which the world accounts fooliſhneſs.

V. 19. For the wiſdom of this world is fooliſhneſs] God convinceth it by his Word to be fooliſh and vain, becauſe it performeth not that which it promiſeth, nor any way furthereth us to true happineſs.

He taketh the wiſe in their own craftineſs] See Job 5. 13. Or, catcheth.

V. 20. The Lord knoweth the thoughts, &c.] See Pſal. 94. 11. Or, diſcourſes.

V. 21. for all things are yours] No man glorieth in theſe things which are for himſelf, and appointed for his benefit, becauſe in this regard they are inferiour to himſelf; but all things are for you, and your benefit,who are the elect of God,therefore you ought not to glory in your teachers or in any men.

CHAP. IIII.

Verſe. 1. LEt a man ſo account of us] He concludeth the duty of the hearers towards their Miniſters, that they eſteem them not as Lords, and yet notwithſtanding that they give ear unto them, as to them that are ſent to them from Chriſt, to this end, that they may receive as it were at their hands the precious pearl of ſalvation, which is drawn out of Gods treaſury. By the myſteries of God, he underſtandeth the chief heads of Chriſtian doctrine, which are hidden to the natural man, as alſo the Sacraments of the new Teſtament, which the Ancients call, φρικτὰ μυστήρια, dreadful myſteries.

and ſtewards] Or, diſpenſers.

V. 2. found faithful] That they keep nothing back from the people of God, but reveal unto them his whole counſel, that they deal faithfully with them in all things, that they may render a good account of their Stewardſhip at the great Audit.Now although there are other virtues required in a ſteward, as skill, and induſtry, and providence; yet the Apoſtle onely nameth faithfulneſs, becauſe that is the chief, and beſt ſerved his purpoſe to beat down the pride of their Teachers, who boaſted of the goods committed to them, as if they were their own and not their Maſters.

V. 3. with me] Gr. to me.

a very ſmall thing] Gr. a matter of leaſt moment.

mans judgement] Gr. day. Word for word, mans day, after the manner of the ſpeech of the Cilicians, as S. Jerome noteth,it is metonymia adjuncti, taken from ſet days appointed for judicature, and it ſeemeth to be ſpoken in oppoſition to Dies Domini,the Lords day,which is the great Day of Judgement, to which the Apoſtle appeals, from all days ſet by men in this world.

I judge not mine own ſelf] How can ye judge how much, or how little I am to be accounted of, ſeeing that I my ſelf, who know my ſelf better than you do, and dare profeſs that I have walked in my vocation with a good conſcience, dare not yet challenge any thing to my ſelf?

V. 4. I know nothing by my ſelf] Not ſimply, no ſin. For in many things we offend all; and he that ſaith, He hath no ſin, deceiveth himſelf, and there is no truth in him, 1 John 1. 8. But his meaning is, my conſcience clears me from negligence and unfaithfulneſs in the function of my miniſtery: yet am I not thereby juſtified; that is, this doth not acquit me before God, in ſuch ſort, as that I may challenge to my ſelf the praiſe or reward of a faithful and abſolute juſt Steward, who hath perfectly in every point diſcharged the truſt repoſed in him, but he that judgeth me is the Lord, that is, I permit my ſelf to his judgement.

hereby juſtified] Gr. in that.

V. 5. Therefore judge nothing before the time] See Matth. 7. 1. Rom. 2. 1.

praiſe of God] Gr. praiſe ſhall be to every man from God. According to his faithfulneſs and diligence in his miniſterial function. Some no doubt ſhall receive diſpraiſe: yet he mentioneth rather praiſe than diſpraiſe, for that the vice which he here reproveth in the Corinthians, was, that they gave more praiſe to ſome than to others, odiouſly extolling ſome to the diſparagement of himſelf and others, who deſerved as well, or perhaps better than they.

V. 6. I have in a figure transferred to my ſelf] In this reproof of your partiality, I have repreſented the head and ſpring thereof unto you, under the name of us the Apoſtles, 1 Cor. 1. 12. 1 Cor. 3. 4. by a figurative ſpeech, not as if indeed we had any part therein, but to ſpare the guilty Paſtours, and to teach them by our example, to pluck up the root of the evil, which is, that affectation of humane knowledge and eloquence (whereby they endeavoured to draw many followers after them) and to conform themſelves to the perpetual ſtyle of the holy Ghoſt, and the Scriptures, as we our ſelves do continually, whereby all matter and occaſion of ſchiſme and rent will be taken away.

for your ſakes] Leſt I ſhould offend you, if I ſhould tax thoſe Teachers by name: Or, to inſtruct you aright how you ought to carry your ſelves, in regard of your Teachers, and in what eſteem you ought to have them.

to think] Or, to be wiſe.

above that which is written] Either written before by us concerning this, or written throughout the word of God, which in many places commendeth to the Paſtours of the Church, humility and unity. Or the meaning is, Let none be wiſe above that which is written, let none preſume to add to the doctrine of the Scriptures, or adulterate the ſame by vain conceits, diſcourſes, or affected ſtrains of mans wiſdom or eloquence.

puffed up] Pride in the ſoul is like a tumour or ſwelling in the body; his meaning therefore is, that the Corinthians ſhould not be proud for the excellency of their Paſtours, whom they ſided withal, to the prejudice of other Paſtours and their followers.

V. 7. who maketh thee to differ] Gr. diſtinguiſheth thee. That is, who hath preferred thee either in gifts or place, who hath given thee the preheminence which thou affecteſt, or by whom wert thou choſen from among the reſt of the Church to this high and excellent calling? doth it not proceed from God and his grace, and not from men? therefore be thou humble, and endeavour rather to ſerve God, than to pleaſe mens humours. And as it ſeemeth chiefly to be directed to the teachers, ſo it may be applyed to every member of the Church, who is converted to the faith of Chriſt, and made partaker of any ſpiritual gifts. As if he ſhould ſay; It is God that by his grace doth make thee to differ from another man, and not the Teacher; for albeit Paul plant, and Apollo water, yet God alone gives the increaſe.

what haſt thou that thou didſt not receive] Though the words have a ſpecial reference to the eminent gifts whereby one Paſtour differed from another among the Corinthians; yet they are general, and parallel to thoſe words of St. James, Every good gift, and every perfect gift is from above, and deſcendeth from the Father of lights, Cha. 1. v. 17. and are rightly applyed by the Synod of Arauſica, and St. Auſtine de correp. & grat. c. 7. & ep. 46. & l. 2. de pec. merit. c. 18. & Cyp. l. 3. teſtim. & Gennadius, Proſper, and others, to prove againſt the Pelagians, that every good motion of our will is from God, and that the deſire of grace is from grace; and conſequently that election is not upon foreſeen works, or faith, but meerly depends upon the free love of God in Chriſt.

V. 8. Now ye are full] You perſwade your ſelves now that ye are in happy condition, and that ye want nothing more of ſpiritual gifts, and for that extol your ſelves above all others, as a King in his Kingdom: Or, you carry your ſelves ſecurely, as in a peaceable Kingdom, whereas we are expoſed to all fear and danger; which the Apoſtle ſpeaketh by way of an Ironical reproof, to make way for his following exhortation to humility, exemplified by himſelf, and his mean condition. See the like, Rev. 3. 19.

and I would to God ye did reign] To wit, in deed and truth. The Apoſtle continueth his Irony, and his meaning is, You are indeed in a far happier caſe and more excellent condition then we poor Apoſtles, that are diſtreſſed, perſecuted, and deſpiſed of the world; we have good reaſon to wiſh to be partakers of your bleſſings and comforts, in regard that we live like miſerable priſoners, looking every hour to be called to execution, after they have been ignominiouſly led about through the Market places, and made publike ſpectacles of miſery and ſcorn.

V. 9. ſet forth us the Apoſtles laſt] By the laſt, the Apoſtle meaneth thoſe who in the Roman theaters were called Meridionarii, who had long fought with men or beaſts, and eſcaping with their lives, were in the end diſarmed, and having no Bucklers nor Helmets, were appointed to be ſlaughtered one after another, In quorum ſpectaculis ſatis erat (ſaith Seneca) quod interficerentur.

appointed to death] Or, deſigned for death.

ſpectacle] Gr. theatre.

V. 10. We are fools for Chriſts ſake] Either theſe words are ſpoken by an Irony, as Oecumenius conceiveth, or they may be taken properly, and then they carry this ſenſe, We are fools in the opinion of the world, and yours, becauſe for Chriſts ſake and the Goſpels we expoſe our ſelves to manifold troubles and dangers; but you are wiſe, who ſo preach Chriſt that yet ye hazard no limb for him, nor incur any danger of your perſons or eſtates.

deſpiſed] Gr. without honour.

V. 12. And labour, &c.] See Acts 20. 34. 1 Theſſ. 2. 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 8.

working with our own hands] For St. Paul (as we read, Act. 18. 3.) exerciſed an handy-craft, and wrought with Aquila, their occupation being tent-making; and this he did ſometimes for neceſſity, ſometimes that he might not be burthenſome to any, to whom he preached the Goſpel, for his maintenance, 2 Theſſ. 3. 8. But here in mentioning it, he ſeemeth ſecretly to tax the Corinthians, who were rich and very bountiful to other Teachers, yet ſuffered the Apoſtles to be in want, and to relieve themſelves by their hard labour.

V. 13. defamed] Gr. Tec. hard, or, evil ſpoken of. Matt. 5. 44.

intreat] Gr. call unto, or, exhort.

V. 14. I warn you] Gr. Tec. warning you.

V. 15. For though you have ten thouſand inſtructers in Chriſt] Word for word, Schoolmaſters; whereby he puts a difference between himſelf and their preſent teachers; they like Schoolmaſters, taught for their hire, he freely; they imperiouſly, he tenderly, like a father, who begot them to Chriſt through the Goſpel.

V. 16. followers] Gr. imitatours.

V. 17. ſhall bring] Or, will bring.

my ways] What way and rule I follow every where in teaching the Churches, or my courſe of life, or manner of converſation, that they might follow it, as he exhorteth them, verſ. 16.

V. 18. I would not come to you] Or, I were not coming to you.

V. 19. But, &c.] Act. 19. 21. He deſcendeth to Apoſtolical threatnings, yet chiding them as a father, leſt by their diſorder he be conſtrained to come to puniſh ſome among them.

if the Lord will] See James 4. 15.

not the ſpeech of them] Not their boaſting words, or their painted or coloured kind of eloquence, againſt which he ſetteth the virtue of the Spirit; but the power, that is, the efficacy of their preaching, powerfully working in the hearts of the hearers.

V. 21. ſhall I come unto you with a rod] He might have ſaid, with a ſword, to wit, of Excommunication, which he brandiſheth in the next Chapter, therewith cutting off the inceſtuous Corinthian; but becauſe before he had ſtyled himſelf their father, and he bare the tender affection of a father towards them, he rather expreſſeth the ſeverity he was to uſe among them, by the Metaphor of a rod, wherewith a father chaſteneth his ſon, to break him of ſome ill quality or miſdemeanour, than of the ſword, or any other.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. R*Eported*] Gr. heard.

fornication among you] The ſin was inceſt, forbidden, Levit. 18. 8. The nakedneſs of thy fathers wife ſhalt thou not uncover; an horrible crime, and ſuch as the very Gentiles deteſted, and ſeverely puniſhed in their laws, if any among them (which ſeldom fell out) defiled themſelves with any ſuch unnatural contract, or abominable act. Neither doth the Apoſtle diminiſh the foulneſs of it, by terming of it πορνεία. For πορνεία, in the Greek, is ſtuprum in Latine; though ſometimes they are reſtrained to one kind of uncleanneſs, which is committed between unmarried perſons; yet they are general in their own nature, and may be applied to any acts of impure luſt; and as the Apoſtle here calleth the inceſt of him who lay with his mother in law, fornication: ſo likewiſe the Roman Oratour calleth Clodius his inceſt with his own ſiſter, ſtuprum.

V. 2. done] Gr. Tec. acted.

from among you] The Apoſtle findeth fault with the Corinthians, for that they had not excommunicated this inceſtuous perſon, before he had wrote unto them,and charged them ſo to do,becauſe the fact was notorious,and the Church very much ſcandalized by harbouring ſo foul a delinquent in the boſom thereof.

V.3. I verily as abſent] Gr.Tec. I verily abſent. See Col.2.5.

but preſent in Spirit] In mind, affection, and care ; or the meaning may be, that the Apoſtle by the ſpirit knew all things that paſt at Corinth, as if he were there bodily preſent.

judged] Or, determined.

V.4. In the Name] Calling upon the name of Chriſt, or by the command of Chriſt,as the word is taken, Act. 3. 6. and Matth. 7.22. and Luke 24.47.

with the power] There is no doubt,but that judgement is ratified in heaven,wherein Chriſt ſitteth as Judge; the power both of excommunicating and abſolving is Chriſts, and the miniſtery thereof onely committed to the Governors of the Church.

V.5. To deliver ſuch an one unto Satan] See 1 Tim. 1. 20. What it is to be delivered to Satan,the Lord himſelf declareth,when he ſaith, Let him be unto thee as an heathen and a publicane,Matt. 18. 17. that is to ſay,to be disfranchiſed and put out of the right and liberty of the City of Chriſt, which is the Church. This manner of expreſſion was uſed of old in the greater excommunication, and it ſeems to be taken from 1 Sam.16.14. where Saul being rejected of God was caught and troubled by an evil ſpirit ; and in the primitive times of the Church, after this greater Excommunication , (as one of the ancients affirm) there followed great terrours in the party excommunicated, agonies of ſpirit,yea,and torments alſo of body,which through Gods permiſſion were inflicted , not for the utter and irrevocable deſtruction of the Delinquent , but for his correction and amendment , that his ſoul might be ſaved , though his body ſuffered.

for the deſtruction of the fleſh] The mortifying and deſtroying the old man ; that is,corrupt nature called the fleſh,Rom.8.13.Gal.5.24. Or, to the great macerating and pulling down of the body by ſadneſs ; for a broken ſpirit dryeth the bones, Prov. 17. 22. to the pulling down and tormenting of the body, even unto death, if Gods will be ſo, as alſo death might ſometimes enſue upon the foreſaid delivery to Satan, and even at the laſt gaſpe the ſinner ſhewing a lively repentance, was releaſed from thoſe bonds of excommunication , and reſtored to the peace of the Church and favour of God,ſo that he departed this life with comfort.

that the Spirit may be ſaved] The ſcope and end of the Churches ſeverity, is not eternal condemnation, but ſaving of the ſoul by true repentance.

in the day of the Lord Jeſus] In the laſt day, or day of judgement ; not as if ſalvation were deferred to the laſt day, or that the repenting ſoul ſhould not enjoy it before that time ; but becauſe ſalvation then ſhall be conſummated, and fully revealed, 1 Pet.1.5.

V. 6. Know ye not that a little leaven] See Gal. 5.9. A kind of proverbial ſpeech, intimating, that one ſcandalous offender may infect the whole Church,as one ſcabbed ſheep a whole flock: and hereby the Apoſtle declareth another end of Excommunication to be , to keep the Church ſound from infection, to cut off a rotten Member, that it gangren not the whole body.

V.7. Purge out therefore the old leaven] By alluding to the Ceremony of the Paſsover, he exhorteth them to caſt out this unclean perſon from among them. In times paſt (ſaith he) it was not lawful for them which did celebrate the Paſsover, to eat leavened bread, in ſo much that he was held as unclean and unworthy to eat the Paſsover,whoſoever had taſted of leaven ; now all our whole life muſt be as it were the feaſt of unleavened bread, wherein all they that are partakers of that immaculate Lamb which was ſlain , muſt caſt out, both of themſelves, and alſo out of their houſes and congregations, all impurity.

that ye may be a new lump] That your Church may be a clean and pure body,according as you were renewed by the gift of regeneration, which can no way conſiſt with any ſuch mixture of reigning ſin. A figure taken from the Jewiſh paſsover,which was alwaies to be kept with unleavened bread, Exod. 12. 15.

Chriſt our paſsover] Chriſt is termed our Paſsover, either by a Metonymie ſignati pro ſigno, or by a metaphor in regard of many reſemblances between Chriſt and the Paſchal Lamb : Firſt, as the Lamb was without blemiſh, ſo Chriſt was without all ſpot of ſin. Secondly, as no bone of the Lamb was to be broken , ſo neither any bone of Chriſt at his paſſion. Thirdly, as the Lamb was offered to God for a typical reconciliation and ſatisfaction, ſo was Chriſt for the true reconciliation of all his elect, and ſatisfaction for their ſins. Fourthly, as the Paſchal Lamb was to be eaten, ſo we feed upon Chriſt by faith Fifthly,as the Paſchal Lamb was to be eaten with ſowre herbs , ſo Chriſts fleſh is to be eaten in the Sacrament with a ſowre and bitter remembrance of our ſins, and Chriſts dolorous ſuffering for them. Sixthly, as the Paſchal Lamb was to be eaten with unleavened bread, ſo all that eat Chriſt muſt purge out of their conſcience all leaven of maliciouſneſs. Seventhly , as that Lamb was called Phaſe, Exod. 12. which ſignifieth a paſſing over ; ſo Chriſts death, in which he was ſacrificed for us, might be called Phaſe, or tranſitus, a paſſage ; becauſe by it he paſſed from the world to his Father. Laſtly , as where the door-cheeks and poſts were ſprinkled with the bloud of the Lamb , they in the family eſcaped the ſtroke of the deſtroying Angel ; ſo all thoſe whoſe conſciences are ſprinkled by faith with the bloud of Chriſt , the Lamb of God which taketh away the ſins of the world , ſhall eſcape eternal deſtruction.

is ſacrificed] Or, is ſlain.

V. 8. let us keep the feaſt] Or, let us keep holy day. Let us lead or paſs our life, which ought to be a perpetual celebration and remembrance of our redemption by Chriſt , even as the Paſsover feaſt , during eight days, was the commemoration of the deliverance out of Egypt. That which the Iſraelites were to do typically,and in the ſign, upon the killing of the lamb for the preparation of the feaſt of the Paſsover, and in caſting out all the old leaven, and abſtaining ſeven whole days from unleavened bread , according to the expreſs command of God, Exod.12.15. let us perform in the truth or thing ſignified all the days of our lives ; that is , purge out the old leaven of inbred natural corruption,and take away all ſcandals from among us, after that now we are reconciled to God , through the offering and ſprinkling of the bloud of Chriſt.

V.9. in an Epiſtle] That Epiſtle is not now extant,for this is the firſt to the Corinthians that is found in the new Teſtament ; and although that Epiſtle was written by divine inſpiration,as we may piouſly conceive, that the Books of Nathan,Gad, Ahiah, Iddo,Semaiah , and others, mentioned in the old Teſtament,were, which now are thought to be loſt ; yet will it not hence follow, that the Canon of the Scriptures is not perfect, as the Romaniſts would infer ; becauſe as the principal Contents of thoſe former books are ſuppoſed to be found in the Books of the Chronicles and Kings, ſo it cannot be proved;but that all points neceſſary to ſalvation, which were ſet down in that former Epiſtle to the Corinthians , are either contained in theſe two Epiſtles which we have , or ſome other Book of holy Scripture.

not to company with fornicators] Gr. mingled with. Now he ſpeaketh more generally, and that which he ſpake before of the inceſtuous perſon, he ſheweth,that it pertaineth to others which are known to be wicked, and ſuch as through their naughty life are a ſlander to the Church, which ought alſo by lawful order to be caſt out of the communion of the Church.

V. 10. Yet not altogether with the fornicatours of this world] Such as belong unto the world, or addicted to the world, that are yet out of the Church ; ſo the world is taken, John 15.19. & 17.9.

extortioners] Gr. raveners.

for then muſt ye] Gr. ſeeing that then ye muſt.

for then muſt ye needs go out of this world] If you would utterly abſtain from ſuch mens company, you muſt quit this world ; therefore I ſpeak of them which are in the boſome of the Church, which muſt be called home by diſcipline, and not of them which are without, with whom we muſt labour by all means poſſible to bring them unto Chriſt.

V. 11. not to keep company] Gr. not to be joyned or mingled with company. extortioner] Gr. ravener.

no not to eat] He meaneth, that we ought not to have any intimate familiarity,or common uſage,or manner of life and converſation with them ; for otherwiſe in ſome caſe we are not forbidden ſimply to eat with ſuch, ſith neither the bond of Matrimony is broken by excommunication, nor ſuch duties hindered, much leſs cut off thereby , as we owe one to another, children to their parents , ſubjects to their Prince,ſervants to their Maſters, and neighbour to neighbour, to win one another to God.

V. 13. put away from] Gr. put, or, take out from.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. D*Are any of you*] As if he had ſaid, are any of you become ſo impudent, that ye are not aſhamed to make the Goſpel a laughing ſtock to profane men ? yet is it not ſimply unlawful in it ſelf to try civil cauſes at the tribunal of Infidels, if right cannot be had elſe-where, and the matter be of very great conſequence,and not onely concerning our ſelves, but our friends, family, and poſterity, but where they might have differences compoſed by the arbitrement of holy brethren, out of ſpleen, or any other ſiniſter affection to implead one another before heathen Judges, could not be done without great ſcandal to the godly, and wrong to the Chriſtian Religion. For hereby the Gentiles were acquainted with the coveteouſneſs,ambition, deſire of revenge , and manifold jars among Chriſtians , whereof they made uſe , and took occaſion thereby to traduce our moſt holy faith : hoc Ithacus velit & magno mercentur Achivi.

to law] Gr. to be judged.

before the unjuſt] Gr. of. By the unjuſt he meaneth Pagans and Infidels,for he oppoſeth them to Saints and brethren:now he termeth the Infidels unjuſt,not only becauſe they are deſtitute of the righteouſneſs of God in Chriſt,but becauſe in their tribunal matters were carried very corruptly , and ſentences given againſt all juſtice and conſcience, as Saint Cyprian and other the Ancients juſtly complain againſt them; inter leges peccatur, inter jura delinquitur juſtitia, nec ubi defenditur ſervatur, &c.

V. 2. the ſaints ſhall judge the world] The Apoſtle uſeth an argument à majore ad minus, if the Saints together with Chriſt ſhall be Judges of the world, and of the devils: how much more are they fit to be Judges in light and ſmall cauſes, which may be by equity and good conſcience without much difficulty determined?

judge the ſmalleſt matters] Gr. of the ſmalleſt judicatures.

V. 4. are leaſt eſteemed in the Church] Or, are of no account in. The Apoſtle herein preſcribeth a remedy for the miſchief before mentioned, namely, by compoſing their private differences between themſelves by choſen arbitrators out of the Church, for which matter and purpoſe, ſaith he, the leaſt of you are ſufficient.

V. 5. between his brethren] Gr. between his brother.

V. 6. goeth to law with brother] Gr. is judged with a brother.

before the] Or, of the.

V. 7. a fault] The Greek word ἥττημα, coming from ἡττᾶσθαι, Vinci, ſignifieth properly to have the worſt in a conflict or combate: whereby the Apoſtle implies, that the fleſh is too ſtrong for the ſpirit in them who out of covetouſneſs, malice, or deſire of revenge among the Corinthians drew their brethren before the tribunals of the heathens; and that howſoever they might be ſuperiours in their trials of law in thoſe Courts, yet that truly they ſate down by the loſs, receiving thereby more damage in their ſouls, than gain in their eſtates. And as the Apoſtle here, ſo Moſes Gerundenſis, and Rabbi Salomon diſcourſing of the Diſcipline of the Hebrews, condemn the practice of thoſe among the Jews, who went to law with their brethren before Infidels. For, ſay they, qui adducit Iſraelem ad tribunal Gentium, polluit nomen Dei & honorat nomen Idoli: he which bringeth an Iſraelite before the tribunal of the Gentiles there to have his cauſe tryed, defileth the name of God, and doth honour to an Idol.

among you] In theſe words the Apoſtle intimates that both were in fault, as well the plaintiff as the defendant, the one in giving cauſe by his unjuſtneſs, the other by being ſo eaſily provoked by his impatience upon every offence, and damage received, although it were not of that weight which in Chriſtian diſcretion, charity and equity, deſerved ſuch fierce and ſcandalous purſuing.

go to law one with] Gr. have judgements one with.

why do ye not, &c.] See Matt. 6. 39. Luk. 6. 29. Rom. 12. 19.

rather take wrong] We ſhould rather ſuffer ſome loſs, than give offence, rather depart from our right, than to try the utmoſt of the law haſtily; and that out of deſire of revenge.

V. 9. Be not deceived] Being about to ſpeak againſt fornication he beginneth with a general reprehenſion of thoſe vices wherewith that rich and riotous City moſt abounded, warning and teaching them earneſtly that repentance is unſeparably joyned with forgiveneſs of ſins, and ſanctification with juſtification.

V. 10. extortioners] Or, ravenous.

V. 11. ſome of you] See Tit. 3. 3.

juſtified in the name of the Lord Jeſus] That is, by the Lord Jeſus apprehended by faith, as we read Acts the fourth, v. 12. There is no other name under heaven given amongſt men whereby we muſt be ſaved.

V. 12. All things, &c.] See Chap. 10. 23. Here he beginneth to tax the Corinthians who ſimply offended in matters indifferent, becauſe they uſed them without any diſcretion: For ſeeing the uſe of them ought to be brought to the rule of charity, he doth not uſe them aright who is ſo immoderate in the uſe of them, that he becometh a ſlave unto them. Though the words be general, yet they make nothing for the Libertines or carnal Goſpellers; for that rule of the Logicians here holdeth, Verba ſunt reſtringenda ad ſubjectam materiam, words how general ſoever they ſeem, are to be reſtrained to the matter treated of. Now the matter was concerning the uſe of things indifferent, as of meats and drinks, and the like. If it be objected that he ſpeaketh in the verſes immediatly following, of fornication which is not a thing indifferent. It is anſwered, that he ſets down the rule of things indifferent before he treat of fornication, by reaſon that many according to the errour of the Pagans and Gentiles did reckon fornication to be of that number; ſee Acts 15. 20. In particular, many in Corinth were ſo far from holding fornication a ſin, that they conſecrated a Temple to Venus, at which many thouſand Maids proſtituted themſelves; and for this reaſon amongſt others, it is conceived that Saint Paul in the verſes following ſo particularly, and ſo vehemently reproveth this vice.

but all things are not expedient] Or, profitable. It is not expedient at all times to do thoſe things which are otherwiſe lawful, but rather we ought to forbear the uſe of ſuch things, which otherwiſe our Chriſtian liberty permitteth, for the maintenance of charity, and ſupporting of the weak, and preſerving and propagating the peace of the Church.

power of any] He bringeth himſelf under the power of things indifferent, who thinketh that he may not be without them, which is a flattering kind of ſlavery, under colour of liberty, which ſeizeth upon ſuch men. He equally erreth who in things indifferent either thinketh that he muſt always uſe them, or that he may not at all; and there may be a kind of ſuperſtition as well in the defect, as in the exceſs about the uſe of things indifferent, Col. 2. 21.

V. 13. Meats for the belly, &c.] Gr. to the belly. That is, meats and drinks are indifferent things, but fornication is not of the number of ſuch things. For although both the one and the other, namely eating of meats & fornication, be bodily acts; yet the quality of the meats hath no moral relation to the ſoul, neither to its preſent ſanctification, nor future glorification: it leaveth no impreſſion behind it, Matth. 5. 11. 17. but it is only for the ſuſtenance of this life, and after our paſſage to another life; all the uſe of meats and of the ſtomach and belly which receiveth and digeſteth them is aboliſhed; whereas on the other ſide all carnal copulations ſave the matrimonial, are expreſſely prohibited by God, are deſtructive of, and repugnant to the right end and uſe of our bodies, which are to be conſecrated to Chriſt (belonging to him as his own members) and to be governed and acted by him to ſerve him in holineſs and pureneſs, and by that means to be made partakers of his glory in the laſt reſurrection.

for] Gr. to.

deſtroy both it] Gr. make void, or, of no uſe both it.

for fornication] Gr. to fornication.

V. 14. And God] Gr. But God.

V. 15. bodies are the members of Chriſt] Not only your ſouls, but your bodies alſo; for true beleevers being entirely united to Chriſt as their head, 1 Cor. 12. 12, 27. their bodies alſo are a part of his myſtical body.

ſhall I then take the members] Gr. taking then the members. Shall I diſ-member or diſ-joynt my ſelf from Chriſt by any baſe carnal conjunction, ſuch as cannot ſtand with that ſpiritual union I have with him, intrenching thus upon the right he hath over my body; and depriving my ſelf of the happineſs to be governed and quickned by him and his Spirit.

and make] Gr. ſhall I make.

V. 16. two (ſaith he) ſhall be one fleſh] Gr. into one fleſh. See Gen. 2. 24. Matth. 19. 5. Epheſ. 5. 31.

V. 17. joyned unto the Lord] By faith and love. For Chriſt is the huſband of the Church, and every faithful ſoul, who betrotheth her to himſelf in faithfulneſs and loving kindneſs and righteouſneſs, Hoſ. 2. 19, 20. is his bride.

is one Spirit] Is made wholly ſpiritual by his union with Chriſt, he is not divided between God and Mammon, between the Spirit and Fleſh: Or, he is led and governed by one and the ſelf-ſame Spirit.

V. 18. Flee fornication] Here the Apoſtle uſeth divers arguments to dehort the Corinthians from fornication: Firſt, becauſe it ſtaineth the body with a peculiar kind of filth. Secondly, becauſe a fornicatour is guilty of ſacrilege; for that our bodies are conſecrated to God as his Temples, verſ. 19. Thirdly, becauſe we are not our own, to give our bodies to any other, much leſs to Satan and the Fleſh, ſeeing that God himſelf hath bought us, and that with a great price, to the end that both in body and ſoul we ſhould ſerve him. For the phraſe he uſeth here of fleeing, it implyeth that whereas other vices are conquered by ſtruggling and ſtriving with them: the beſt way to ſubdue this vice, is to fight with it after the manner of the Parthians, who did fight flying.

without the body] That is, is committed by the abuſe of ſome external object; as namely a drunkard abuſeth wine, gluttony abuſeth meat in the quantity or quality: but a fornicatour abuſeth his own body. But we muſt note that this general rule, every ſin that a man doth is without the body, is to be underſtood of ſuch ſins as break out into external actions, or are acted by our bodies: for envy, malice, and the inward acts of all vices are done in the ſoul, and cannot be properly ſaid to exerciſe their act upon any thing without the body, though they work upon the body it ſelf by making it pine and waſt away, or otherwiſe diſtempering it.

ſinneth againſt his own body] Some by his own body underſtand the body of his wife which according to Gods ordinance is his own body; for ſaith he, two ſhall be one fleſh: and this is Severianus an ancient Fathers interpretation; but it is too narrow an interpretation: For in that ſenſe onely the Adulterer ſinneth againſt his own body. Others underſtand the words comparatively, that a fornicatour more ſinneth againſt his own body than other vicious perſons; for either they defile their ſouls only and not their bodies, as thoſe who commit ſpiritual wickedneſs, or if they ſin againſt their own body, as the drunkard and glutton doth, and the body receive alſo much ſhame and damage thereby; yet they ſin not in ſo grievous a manner, nor ſo much wrong and hurt the body as the fornicatour doth. But the moſt proper and genuine interpretation ſeemeth to be this: other ſins though they may be acted by the body, and make an ill impreſſion upon the body it ſelf, yet have not the property and force over mans body to enſlave the ſame unto another, as fornication hath, whereby the fornicatour is made a member of the harlot by virtue of that firſt order of God, Duo erunt in unam carnem, which is not diſannulled by the abuſe of men.

V. 19. know ye not, &c.] See Chap. 3. 16.

V. 20. ye are bought with a price] See Chap. 7. 23. By Chriſt who hath redeemed you. The word price is added, not by a Pleonaſmus, but κατ' ἐξοχὴν, to intimate the excellencie and dignity of the price wherewith we were bought, which was not ſilver or gold, but the precious blood of Chriſt, as of a Lamb without blemiſh and without ſpot, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ. 1. NOw concerning the] Gr. But of the.

It is good] By the word good the Apoſtle underſtandeth not that which is honourable, virtuous, or holy, for the Apoſtle teſtifieth himſelf, Heb. 13. 4. that Marriage is honourable among all, and the Scriptures generally avouch the ſame: but by good he underſtandeth leſs troubleſom, or more agreeable to the preſent neceſſity, verſ. 26. more convenient in regard of the calamities of the Church, which will be ſo much the eaſier born and overcome by the enjoying of our liberty, and more profitable alſo, by being not ſo diſtracted with theſe cares, nor troubled with theſe diſtractions, that by reaſon of ſin accompany the married eſtate, verſ. 28. 32.

touch a woman] That is, to abſtain from matrimony, and all carnal knowledge; as the word is taken, Gen. 20. 6. therefore I ſuffered thee not to touch her.

V. 2. Neverthele ſs, to avoid fornication] Gr. But by reaſon of fornications. In the Greek there is a kind of Ellipſis, which is well ſupplied by the Tranſlators with the words to avoid: for that is the true meaning of the Apoſtle; though word for word he ſaith by reaſon of fornications, that is, by reaſon of the proneneſs of mans nature to fornication, or by reaſon of the frequent committing thereof, eſpecially among the Corinthians as before was noted. And here alſo he taketh fornication largely for all manner of impurity forbidden by the law of God, and he preſcribeth as an antidote againſt the poyſon of all kind of impure luſt, the lawful and holy uſe of matrimony.

V. 3. due benevolence] By this manner of ſpeech he implieth not onely in a modeſt phraſe, conjugale debitum, to which the verſe following hath reference: but as the Greek Scholiaſt well expoundeth it, mutual love and loyalty; and that ſincere and ardent affection which ought to be between husband and wife.

V. 5. Defraud] Or, deprive.

give your ſelves to faſting] Or, be free for faſting.

come together] Gr. Tec. be together.

V. 6. of] Gr. by.

V. 7. I would that all men were even as I my ſelf] The Apoſtle doth not ſimply wiſh that all men and women led a ſingle life; for ſo the Church of God could not be propagated, nor the divine benediction upon the married fulfilled: but that all had the gift of continency, and were as free from worldly cares, and fleſhly intanglings as he. And this gift of continency may ſtand with holy matrimony; as we read of Malcus and many other in the Eccleſiaſtical ſtory, who though they were married, yet having the gift of continency fulfilled the Apoſtles precepts, verſ. 29. 32. having wives as if they had them not, and caring for the things of the Lord.

V. 8. unmarried and widows] He giveth the ſelf-ſame admonition touching the ſecond marriage, to wit, that a ſingle life is to be allowed, but for ſuch only that have the gift of continency, otherwiſe they ought to marry again, that their conſcience might be at peace.

V. 9. better to marry than to burn] Some interpret this burning, to be burning in hell fire for their incontinency; and no queſtion but the words of the Apoſtle are true in that ſenſe; but becauſe he addeth not either hell-fire or eternal, nor doth any circumſtance of the Text look that way; the natural conſtruction ſeemeth to be this: It is better to marry, than by forcing our ſelves to live ſingle, having not the gift of continency, ſo to burn with luſt, that either the will yeeldeth to the temptation, or elſe we cannot call upon God with a good conſcience. He is not ſaid to burn who onely feeleth the heat of fire, for ſo the moſt continent man might be ſaid to burn: but onely he that is ſinged and ſcorched thereby, he that is ſo aſſaulted with the temptation of luſt, that he is ſome way wounded, and hurt in conſcience thereby.

V. 10. not I, but the Lord] In theſe words, the Apoſtle meaneth not, that the Lords precepts, and his were contrary, for verſ. the laſt, he ſaith, I think alſo that I have the Spirit of God, and whatſoever Saint Paul wrote in this or any other of his Epiſtles was by divine inſpiration; but his meaning is, that he ſpake not this by peculiar Revelation, as ſome other things afterwards, but that he had an expreſs command of our Lord for it in Scripture, namely, Matth. 5. 32. and Matth. 19. 9.

Let not the wife depart from her husband] Gr. that the wife be not ſevered from. See Matt. 5. 32. & 19. 9. Mark 10. 11. Luk. 16. 18.

V. 11. depart] Gr. be ſevered.

V. 14. ſanctified by the wife] Some expound it ſanctified, that is, ſome way prepared and diſpoſed to embrace our holy faith by his converſation with his Chriſtian wife: So Oecumenius; χειραγωγηθήσεται πρὸς τὴν πίστιν, or ſome way initiated in the faith and fear of God. So Tertul. l. 2. ad uxorem, ſanctificatur conjux infidelis acquieſcens habitare cum conjuge fideli, quia candidatus eſto timoris ſancti ſcilicet & caſti. And, S. Jerome l. 1. cont. Jovin. c. 5. candidatus eſt fidei. Or elſe the meaning is, that in regard the faithful are heirs of the Covenant of God (Gen. 17. 7. and Acts 2. 39.) together with their children, this Covenant the unbeleeving partly cannot undo by his unbeleef: Foraſmuch, as the grace of God in ſanctifying ſuch a marriage, is more powerful than the unbeleef of the other party to profane it: So that the Apoſtles words import, not that an unbeleeving husband is ſimply ſanctified, or made a holy man by his wife being a Chriſtian, or an unbeleeving wife made a holy woman by her husband being a good Chriſtian, but that he is ſanctified to her, if ſhe be a Chriſtian, and ſhe is ſanctified to him, if he be a Chriſtian. For although the unbeleeving party be unclean before God: yet is the matrimonial conjunction holy by the means of faith and prayer, Titus 1. 15. and hath the approbation and bleſſing of God no otherways, then if both parties were holy. Thus he anſwereth them that thought themſelves polluted by being married to unbeleevers before their converſion, and intended therefore to be divorced for that ſcruple ſake.

but now are they holy] If the marriage were not in ſome degree ſanctified; the children which were born in ſuch wedlock would not be from their birth compriſed within the Covenant of God, made with the fathers and their children, Gen. 17. 7. or endued with the Spirit of ſanctification; neither would the Church hold them capable of Baptiſm, until grown up to age, that they might be received into the Church for their own faiths ſake: but now they are holy, that is, compriſed in the outward covenant of God, and have acceſs and right to the ſigns and ſeals of his grace, as well as any of thoſe that were born of both beleeving parents. Holy then, that is, ſanctified to God in Baptiſm, made members of the Church, and partakers of the grace of regeneration according to their meaſure and condition.

V. 15. depart] Or, be ſevered.

depart] Or, be ſevered.

to peace] Gr. in peace. Leſt any man upon pretence of this liberty, ſhould give an occaſion to the unfaithful to depart, he giveth to underſtand that marriage contracted with an Infidel, ought peaceably to be kept, that if it be poſſible the Infidel may be won to the faith.

V. 16. ſave thy husband] That is, be a means to convert him to the Chriſtian faith, by which we are juſtified and ſaved.

V. 17. diſtributed to every man] Taking occaſion by that which he ſaid of the bondage and liberty of matrimony, he digreſſeth to a general doctrine concerning the outward ſtate and condition of mans life, as circumciſion and uncircumciſion, ſervitude and liberty, warning every man generally, to live with a contented minde in the Lord, what ſtate or condition ſoever he be in, becauſe the kingdom of God conſiſteth not in theſe outward things.

V. 18. let him not become uncircumciſed] Some who had been circumciſed, found a means by the help of Chirurgians to recover again their foreskin: Of theſe Joſephus writeth, l. 12. Antiq. c. 6. Adjunxerunt ſibi præputia ut nudi quoq; non eſſent Græcis diſſimiles; The manner Epiphanius declareth. Ἀπὸ περιτομῆς ἀκρόβυστοι γίγνονται τεχνῇ τῇ τινὶ ἰατρικῇ διὰ τοῦ καλουμένου σπαθιστῆρος τῶν μελῶν ὑπὸ δερματίδα ὑποσπασθέντες ῥαφέντες τε καὶ κολλητικοῖς περιοδευθέντες, ἀκροβυστίαν αὖθις αὐτὴν ἀποτελοῦσι. See alſo Celſus l. 7. c. 25. Such practices Saint Paul here forbiddeth.

V. 21. care not for it] As though this calling were too unworthy a calling for a Chriſtian. For no calling, how mean ſoever, debarreth a man from being Chriſts freeman, and the Son of God by adoption and grace; whoſoever is redeemed from the thraldom of Satan, and ſervitude of ſin, whether he be in reſpect of his outward condition in bondage, or at his liberty, is Chriſts freeman.

V. 22. free-man] Gr. made free.

V. 23. Ye are bought with a price] See Chap. 6. 2. That is, dearly bought by a price of ineſtimable value, 1 Pet. 1. 18, 19.

be not ye the ſervants of men] If ye be at liberty, do not of your own accord make your ſelves ſervants, but conſecrate your ſelves entirely body and ſoul to the ſervice of Chriſt: or if ye be ſervants to men, that is, in a ſtate of ſervitude, remember ſtill that above and before all, ye are the ſervants of Chriſt, and therefore ſee ye do nothing to the obedience of man, which is contrary to that which ye owe to Chriſt; and as touching your ſoul and conſcience, ſubject and enſlave your ſelves to no man living, depend abſolutely upon none but Chriſt and his Word, See Gal. 2. 4. and Col. 2. 16, 18.

V. 24. abide with God] Whatſoever his outward calling be, let him be ſure to hold his inward calling, and abide with God in the Church: or let him ſo ſincerely and uprightly walk in his calling, as one who is always in the ſight of God, and doth all things before him, and endeavoureth to approve himſelf to him in all things.

V. 25. I give my judgement] All circumſtances conſidered, I counſel you. He enjoyneth ſingle life to none, but perſwadeth it to all that have the gift of continency, both from the condition of the preſent time, in which the faithful could ſcarce have any ſetled place of abode, wherein they might provide for their wives, children, and families: and from the freedom of a ſingle life in compariſon of the married eſtate, which draweth with it of neceſſity more cares of this life, and diſtraction of minde from the immediate ſervice of God.

V. 26. for the preſent diſtreſſe] Or, for the preſent neceſſity. Which the Saints are ſubject unto, who were then continually toſſed up and down ſo, that their eſtate may ſeem moſt unfit for marriage, were it not that the weakneſſe of the fleſh enforced them.

V. 28. Trouble in the fleſh] Gr. tribulation ; or, affliction. By the fleſh he underſtandeth whatſoever belongeth to this preſent life, for marriage bringeth with it many diſcommodities ; ſo that he bendeth more to a ſingle life, not becauſe it is a ſtate more agreeable to God than marriage is, but for thoſe cumberances and diſcommodities, which if it were poſſible, he would wiſh all men to be freed of, that they might give themſelves to God wholly.

V. 29. is ſhort] Gr. is contracted, or, ſhortened.

V. 31. And they that uſe this world] It is a horrible wickedneſſe, ſaith St. Auſtin, uti fruendis, or frui utendis, to uſe thoſe things which we ought to enjoy, or to enjoy thoſe things which we ought onely to uſe ; to uſe God and heavenly things which we ought to enjoy, and to enjoy the world and earthly things which we ought onely to uſe, and ſo uſe them, as if we uſed them not. Or, as others expound, not abuſing them by an inordinate uſe of the ſame, or by too much doting on them, and cleaving unto them.

for the faſhion of this world paſſeth away] He ſheweth how ill-beſeeming and unworthy a thing it is for a Chriſtian to ſet his heart on the things of this world, conſidering that they are vain and tranſitory ; rather ſhews and ſhadows of things, than true things themſelves, Prov. 23.5. As in a Pageant, Mask, or Comedy, many perſons are brought up one after another on the Stage or Scene, but at laſt both they and the Scene alſo is taken away ; ſo it is with this preſent world, one perſon ſucceedeth another, and one generation another, till not onely all they do die and fall away, but even the Stage of the World at laſt, wherein they all acted their parts, doth vaniſh away like a ſhadow, with all the glory thereof.

V. 33. careth for the things, &c.] They that are married, have their minds diſtracted, and their wits withdrawn hither and thither about worldly affairs and buſineſſes ; and therefore if any man have the gift of continency, it were more commodious for him to live ſingle. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh not ſimply, but comparatively ; for they that are married, may and do care for the things of the Lord, but ordinarily doe it with more diſtraction, than they that have leſſe to doe with the world, in regard of their ſingle life.

V. 35. I ſpeak for your own profit] His meaning is, that he will enforce none either to marry, or not to marry ; but ſhew them onely what kind of life is moſt commodious, or at leaſt ordinarily leſſe cumberſome.

V. 36. behaveth himſelf uncomely] Or, carrieth himſelf undecently.

V. 37. having no neceſſity] He ſpeaketh not here of a mans reſolving to marry himſelf, or to live unmarried; but of Parents or Governors, under whoſe guide and tuition Virgins are ; if ſuch an one findeth no neceſſity, either in reſpect of the Maids deſire, or fear of worſe, if ſhe have not the gift of continency, or in reſpect of the condition of his Family, but that he may keep her a Virgin ſtill.

V. 39. The wife is bound, &c.] See Rom. 7.2.

be dead] Gr. be fallen aſleep, or, laid in the grave.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. Now as touching things] Gr. But of things.

We know that we have all knowledge] Here he beginneth to treat of another kind of things indifferent ; to wit, of things offered to Idols, or the uſe of fleſh ſo offered and ſacrificed ; and firſt of all he removeth thoſe things which the Corinthians pretended for their uſing things offered unto Idols, without any reſpect, ſcruple, or doubt. Firſt, they affirmed that this difference of meats was onely for unskilful men and ignorant in the doctrine of Chriſtian liberty ; but as for them, they knew well enough the benefit of Chriſt, who maketh all things to be clean to them that are clean. Be it ſo (ſaith St. Paul) be it, that all (or at leaſt the greater part of us, for there were ſome, Verſ. 7. that wanted this knowledge) are ſufficiently inſtructed in the knowledge of Chriſt ; I ſay, notwithſtanding that, we muſt not ſimply reſt in this knowledge ; the reaſon is, that unleſſe our knowledge be tempered with charity, it doth not onely not avail, but alſo it doth much hurt, becauſe it is the Miſtreſſe of Pride ; nay, it doth not ſo much as deſerve the name of godly knowledge, if it be ſevered from the love of God, and conſequently from the love of our Neighbour, 1 Cor. 13.1.

Knowledge puffeth up] In thoſe who are deſtitute of charity, it miniſtreth occaſion of vanity, and maketh them ſwell with pride ; for this venome the Serpent inſtilled into it at the firſt temptation ; and this quality of inflating the ſoul, remaineth ſtill in it, if it be not corrected with charity.

but charity edifyeth] That is, applyeth our knowledge to the inſtruction of our Neighbour, and to build him up in his and our moſt holy Faith.

V. 2. He knoweth nothing] An opinion of knowledge without charity, doth not onely puff up, and in that regard is to be diſ-eſteemed, but it is imperfect, and knowledge falſly ſo called, 1 Tim. 6.20. For he that wanteth charity knoweth not all his duty, nor to what end he ought to refer his knowledge, nor how to uſe it, and ſo upon the matter knoweth nothing, in ſuch ſort as a Chriſtian ought to know.

V. 3. the ſame is known of him] He that referreth his knowledge and other gifts to the glory of God, and the profit of his Brethren, he is known of God, that is, approved of him, as the word is taken, Pſal. 1. 6. but he that hath knowledge without charity, though in ſome ſort he know God, yet he ſhall never be known, that is, acknowledged of by him, but ſhall hear at the laſt day with the hypocrites and falſe Prophets, Mat. 7.23. I never knew you, depart from me ye that work iniquity.

V. 4. concerning therefore the eating, &c.] Here is the application of his anſwer, to things offered unto Idols ; I grant, ſaith he, that an Idol is indeed a vain imagination, and that there is but one God and Lord, and therefore that meat cannot be made holy or profane by the Idol : but it followeth not therefore that a man may without any reſpect to his weak brethren, uſe thoſe meats or any other.

an idol is nothing, &c.] Chap. 10.19. Divers Popiſh Writers, to ſever their Image-worſhip from Idolatry, expound theſe words thus ; An Idol is nothing in the world, that is, nothing formally, or repreſentatively, becauſe though it be ſomething materially, that is, Wood, Gold, or Silver, or the like : yet it is nothing formally, becauſe there is no ſuch deity as it repreſenteth. Whereas on the other ſide, an Image is the repreſentation of ſome thing which is truly exiſtent in nature, as of the three Perſons, Angels, and Saints departed. This diſtinction of theirs, together with their gloſſe upon this Text, are evidently falſe ; for many of the Idols of the Heathen, as Baal, Diana, Dagon, as alſo the Braſen Serpent, of which the Jews made an Idol, were Images of things truly exiſtent in nature. For Baal was the Image of the Sun, Diana or Lucina of the Moon, Dagon of a Fiſh, the Braſen Serpent of the fiery Serpents, which really ſtung the Iſraelites, and God in the ſecond Commandement expreſly forbiddeth the bowing down to, or worſhipping the likeneſs of any thing that is in the heaven above, or in the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth. But the true meaning of the Apoſtle in this place is, οὐδὲν ἔςιν ἄξιον, the Idol is nothing, that is, of no worth, hath no virtue or power at all in it, to profane or hallow the meats offered unto it.

and that there is none other God but one] Gr. Tec. and that there is no God.

V. 5. whether in heaven or in earth] There are in heaven thoſe that are called gods, as the Angels, Sunne, Moon, and all the hoſt of heaven, and on earth alſo, as Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Apollo, and other men, and beaſts alſo, as Calves, Goats, Crocodiles, Cats, and others, which the Egyptians, and other of the Heathens worſhipped for gods.

there be gods many, and lords many] Either the Apoſtle alludeth to the diverſe Idols of Baal, which were called by his name Baalim, that is, Lords, as namely Baal Zebub, Baal Peor, &c. or to other Syrian deities, anſwerable to the number of their Countries, or Cities, for the Moabites worſhipped Chamos, the Ammonites Moloch, the Sidonians Aſtaroth or Aſtarte, the Gazeans Marnan, the Tyrians Hercules, the Hemathites Aſimas, &c. See Druſius Præterit. l. 6.

V. 6. one God] The word one doth not here reſpect the perſons, but the nature ; for the Father of whom all things are ſaid to be, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt by whom, are not one perſon, but one God in nature.

and we in him] Or, for him, or, by him. Rom. 11.36. Either in him, or by him, and then the meaning is, that we ſubſiſt by his virtue, and power, according to that of the Apoſtle, Act. 17.28. In him we live, move and have our being.

one Lord] As Lord is peculiarly attributed to Chriſt, it ſignifieth the Lord Redeemer : in which ſenſe the Apoſtle ſpeaketh elſewhere, Chriſt died and roſe again that he might be LORD of quick and dead : for in that we are his purchaſe, he is in ſpeciall our Lord.

by whom are all things] The prepoſition, By, doth not ſignifie the Inſtrumental cauſe, but the principal. For the Father and Son work together ; which are not ſo to be taken, that we make two cauſes, ſeeing they have both but one nature, though they be diſtinct perſons, but by the prepoſitions of and by, the Father of whom are all things, and the Lord Chriſt by whom are all things, the Apoſtle differenceth their order and manner of working.

V. 7. conſcience of the idol] By conſcience of the Idol, he meaneth the ſecret judgment, which they had within themſelves, whereby they thought all things unclean which were offered to the Idol, and therefore they could not uſe them with good conſcience : for this force hath conſcience, that if it be good, that is, rightly enformed, it maketh things indifferent good to us ; but if evil, it maketh them evil.

V. 8. But meat commendeth not us to God] He preventeth an objection, why then ſhall we be deprived of our liberty? nay, ſaith the Apoſtle, you ſhall loſe no part of Chriſtianity, though you abſtain for your brethrens ſake, as alſo if you receive thoſe meats it maketh you no whit the more holy or more acceptable to God, Rom. 14.17. For our commendation before God, conſiſteth not in our meats, but to uſe our liberty with the offence of our brethren, is an abuſe of our liberty, and a ſinne againſt Chriſt, whom we wound through the ſides of our weak brethren.

are we the better] Or, have we the more.

are we the worſe] Or, have we the leſſe.

V. 9. liberty] Or, power.

V. 10. emboldened] Gr. edified.

V. 11. through thy knowledge ſhall the weak brother periſh.] Thou wretched man who pleaſeſt thy ſelf with thy knowledge, which indeed is none ; for if thou hadſt true knowledge, thou wouldſt not ſit down to meat in the Idols Temple, whereby as much as in thee lyeth, thou deſtroyeſt thy brother, burdening his weak conſcience ; and by thy example enticing him to doe evil, for whoſe ſalvation Chriſt himſelf dyed : and wilt not thou ſo much as abſtain from ſuch meat for thy weak brothers ſake, for whom thy Saviour vouchſafed to ſhed his blood ?

V. 12. ye ſinne againſt Chriſt] Becauſe your weak brethren whom ye offend are his members, and he accounteth the wrongs done unto them, as done unto himſelf : or as Oecumenius expoundeth, you ſinne againſt Chriſt, becauſe as much as lyeth in you, you hinder his work for their ſalvation, deſtroying them whom he came to ſave.

wound] Gr. ſmiting.

V. 13. if meat make my brother to offend] Gr. ſcandalize. Rom. 14.21.

I will eat no fleſh] Here followeth the concluſion which Saint Paul inferreth and frameth in his own perſon, that he might not ſeem to exact that of others, which he will not be firſt ſubject to himſelf ; I had rather, ſaith he, abſtain for ever from all kind of fleſh, than put a ſtumbling block before, or give occaſion of ſinne to any of my brethren ; much leſſe would I refuſe at a certain time and place for my brothers ſake to abſtain from fleſh offered to Idols.

offend] Or, ſtumble.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ. 1. AM I not an Apoſtle] Before he proceed any farther in his propoſed matter of things offered unto Idols, he ſheweth the cauſe of all this miſchief, to wit, that the Corinthians thought themſelves not bound to depart from any jot of their liberty for any mans pleaſure : therefore he propoundeth himſelf for an example, and that in a matter in ſome degree neceſſary. If, ſaith he, you alleage for your ſelves that you are free, and therefore will uſe your liberty : am not I alſo free, ſeeing I am an Apoſtle ? yet I for the benefit of others forbear the uſe of my Chriſtian liberty in things that more neerly concern me, and may ſeem in ſome degree neceſſary ; and will not you forgoe yours in matters of leſs moment and meerly indifferent, rather than offend your weak brethren ?

have I not ſeen Jeſus Chriſt our Lord] Though St. Paul converſed not with Chriſt whileſt he lived upon earth, yet was he as well an eye-witneſſe of Chriſt, as the reſt of the Apoſtles, for he ſaw him after the reſurrection, as we read, Act. 22.18. and 1 Cor. 15.8. yet will it not hence follow, that Chriſt was at the ſame time at the right hand of his Father in heaven, and upon earth or near the earth where Paul ſaw him, as our adverſaries would infer. For either St. Paul ſaw Chriſt in a viſion, or if without a viſion with his corporal eyes, as did St. Steven, Act. 7.56. his eyes were ſtrengthened and elevated above nature to diſcern Chriſt ſo far diſtant.

V. 2. be not] Gr. am not.

for the ſeal of mine Apoſtleſhip] Your converſion by my Miniſtery is as it were a ſeal to confirm the truth of my Apoſtolical miſſion ; whatſoever belongeth to an Apoſtle I have exhibited amongſt you both by my powerful Miniſtery, and the ſigns and wonders which God hath wrought by me.

V. 3. anſwer] Gr. apologie.

examine] Gr. queſtion.

V. 5. to lead about a ſiſter a wife] Or, woman. May not I carry about with me in my peregrinations a Chriſtian ſiſter being my wife, and put the Churches to the charge of me and my family, ſith I am employed by them and for them ? Or thus, might not I have a Deaconiſſe, a Chriſtian ſiſter allowed by the Church to attend on me, as other of the Apoſtles have had ? Clemens Alexandrinus Strom. lib. 3. is for this laſt interpretation ; non ut uxores, inquit, ſed ut ſorores circumducebant mulieres: and Zacharias Chryſopolitanus out of Beda addeth, that it was the cuſtome of the Jews, that the richer ſort of the Chriſtian women converted, contributed to the maintenance of their Teachers, and followed them, as ſome followed Chriſt, and miniſtred to him of their ſubſtance, Luke 8.2. hoc tamen quia ſcandalum facere poterat, in nationibus Paulus abjeciſſe ſe memorat ; yet becauſe the Apoſtle conceived this might give ſome kind of ſcandal to the Gentiles, or at leaſt ſeem burdenſome unto them, he accepted not of this their benevolence, though otherwiſe he might.

V. 6. have not we power to forbear working] That is, may the other Apoſtles eat and drink upon the expence of the Church, and keep their wives alſo and family by ſome ſtipend or gift offered unto them by their children, whom they beget in the Goſpel, and muſt I onely and Barnabas not live but by the works of our hands ?

V. 7. Who goeth a warfare] That he may not ſeem to reprove the Apoſtles who were maintained by the Church, he ſheweth that it was juſt and lawful for them to live as they did of the Churches allowance, by an argument of compariſon, ſeeing ſouldiers live by their wages, and husbandmen by the fruit of their labours, and ſhepherds of that which cometh of the flock.

V. 8. Say I theſe things as a man] Gr. according to man. Have I no better ground than the common cuſtome of men ? Doth not God in Scripture warrant what I ſay ?

V. 9. thou ſhalt not muzzle, &c.] See Deut. 25.4.

Doth God take care for Oxen] It is certain, that the care and providence of God extendeth to the beaſts of the field, Pſal. 147.9. Pſal. 36.6. Jon. 4.11. and to the fowl of heaven, for he feedeth the young Ravens that call upon him, and a Sparrow is not ſold in the Market, nor falleth to the ground without him, Mat. 10.29. The Apoſtles meaning therefore is not ſimply God hath no regard of Oxen, or any brute beaſt : for as the Pſalmiſt teacheth, He preſerveth both man and beaſt ; but the ſenſe is, Gods end and drift in making that Law was not to provide for Oxen, but he had a farther intention therein : thus Manahim Riminenſis, a learned Jew, upon thoſe words of the law, Thou ſhalt not take the damme with their young, ſaith, It was not the intention of the Law-giver to ſpare ſheep; but to teach men mercy and compaſſion ; quod de ovibus præcepit, id propter homines fecit : ſo may we ſay here, and the Apoſtle ſaith as much in effect, quod de bobus præcepit, id propter homines fecit.

V. 11. if we have ſown, &c.] See Rom. 15.27.

V. 13. Do ye not know, &c.] See Num. 18.20. Deut. 10.9. and 18.1.

live] Or, feed.

are partakers with the altar] In dividing the ſacrifice, and taking part of it themſelves for their neceſſary ſuſtenance.

V. 14. that they which preach, &c.] See Gal. 6.6. 1 Tim. 5.17.

V. 15. Neither have I written theſe things] He taketh away occaſion of ſuſpition that it might not be thought he wrote this as though he challenged his wages that was not paid him ; Nay, ſaith he, I had rather die, than abuſe my right and liberty, that the falſe Apoſtles might take any advantage thereby : Or rather than not continue my purpoſe to preach the Goſpel freely : for I am bound to preach the Goſpel, ſeeing that the Lord hath enjoyned me this office ; and if I had rather that the Goſpel ſhould be evil ſpoken of, than I ſhould not require my ſtipend, then would it appear that I took theſe pains, not ſo much for the Goſpel ſake, as mine own gain and advantage.

better for me to dye] Gr. good for me rather to die.

V. 16. though I preach] Gr. If I preach.

V. 22. I am made all things to all men] Gr. have been made. In matters that are indifferent, which may be done, or not done with a good conſcience, I have changed my ſelf into all faſhions, to comport with all, that I might win ſome at leaſt of all ſorts. St. Auguſtine in his book de Mendac. cont. Conſent. 12. & ep. 19. very well illuſtrateth this Text : the Apoſtle ſaith, I am become all unto all men, non mentientis aſtu, ſed compatientis affectu, not by the deceit of diſſimulation, but by the affection of compaſſion ; for a man becomes as he to whoſe infirmity he condeſcends when he ſupports and releeves him with ſuch mercy as himſelf would deſire if he were in the ſame caſe : he doth therefore as he, non quia fallit illum, ſed qui ſe cogitat illum.

V. 25. And] Gr. But.

every man that ſtriveth for the maſtery.] He bringeth in another cauſe of the miſchief above mentioned, to wit, that they were given to gluttony ; for there were ſolemn banquets of ſacrifices, and the riot of the Prieſt was exceeding great in them : therefore it was hard for them which were accuſtomed to riotouſneſſe, eſpecially when they pretended the liberty of the Goſpel, to be reſtrained from thoſe banquets. For this cauſe the Apoſtle calleth them by an apt ſimilitude, and alſo by his own example to ſobriety and mortification of the fleſh, ſhewing that they could not be fit to run, or wreſtle, as the games of Iſthmos were, which pampered up their bodies.

temperate in all things] He uſeth a moſt exquiſite diet. The Greek word alſo will bear this conſtruction ; he patiently endureth all things, to wit, pains and blows ; and ſhall not we endure much more, and uſe all kind of abſtinence, that we may obtain the high prize of our calling, which is an incorruptible crown of glory ?

V. 26. not as uncertainly] Not as an uncertain goale or mark ; or the Greek ἀδήλως, may be thus rendred, I ſo run, not as a man who ſenſibly gets no ground, or cannot be perceived to out-ſtrip him with whom he runneth in the race.

ſo fight I, not as one that beateth the air] I make not a flouriſh onely like a Fencer, but I fight in earneſt : or, I fight not as one who hath no enemy to fight withall ; for I have an enemy which I labour to ſubdue, to wit, the old man which ſtriveth againſt the Spirit.

V. 27. But I keep under my body] By mortifying of my carnall luſts and affections, and by all other exerciſes of piety, I ſubdue my fleſh to the obedience and diſcipline of the Spirit of God, as alſo to patience and conſtancy in all afflictions, and to ſuch nimbleneſſe and readineſſe, as is requiſite to this ſpiritual combate.

I my ſelf ſhould be a caſt-away] Gr. reprovable, or, unapproved. The word ſignifieth not, a reprobate, and if he were uncertain of his election, or of obtaining the prize ; for the contrary appears, Rom. 8.38. and 2 Tim. 4.7, 8. but reprovable or faulty, ἀδόκιμος, is a metaphor either taken from thoſe who try metals, and caſt away that which is droſſie :

droſſie : or he goeth on in his former metaphor of thoſe who proved maſteries, and hath regard to thoſe times, where there were certain Colledges or Academies like our Artillery Gardens for exerciſe of Armes, where the Novices that ſubmitted not themſelves to the rigour of their diſcipline, or were found tardy in their tryals, or of purſie or unweildy bodies, were caſheered again by their Maſters : therefore here the word ἀδόκιμος ſignifieth not to be caſt for ever out of Gods favour, but to be rejected either as baſe and refuſe ore or droſſe : or to be caſt out of their ſociety, and company, who wreſtled or ran for the prize.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. Moreover] Gr.Tec. For.

Moreover brethren, &c. He ſetteth out that which before he had ſaid, laying before them an example of the horrible judgment of God againſt them, which had in effect the ſelf-ſame pledges of the ſame adoption and ſalvation that we have ; and yet notwithſtanding when they gave themſelves to Idol feaſts periſhed in the Wilderneſſe, being manifoldly and fearfully puniſhed. Now beſides that theſe things are fitly ſpoken againſt them who frequented Idol feaſts, the ſame alſo ſeem to be urged to this end and purpoſe, becauſe many men are thus minded, that thoſe things are not of ſo great weight, that God will be angry with them, if they uſe them ſo, that they frequent Chriſtian Aſſemblies, and be baptized, and receive the Communion, and confeſſe Chriſt.

under the cloud] See Exod. 13. 21. Num. 9. 18.

paſſed through the ſea] Exod. 14. 22.

V. 2. And were all baptized unto Moſes] Or, into. The meaning is, as the deliverance out of Egypt was a figure of the redemption by Chriſt ; and the wandering in the Wilderneſſe repreſented the life of the faithful in this world, and the Land of Canaan was a ſhadow of the Kingdome of heaven : ſo the paſſage through the Red Sea was a holy figure anſwering Baptiſme, and the Manna , together with the Water ſpringing out of the Rock, the bleſſed Supper ; (whence it appeareth that the Fathers did enjoy the ſame ſpiritual benefit which the Chriſtian Church doth) and yet notwithſtanding this , many of them were puniſhed, rooted out, and rejected of God for their ſinnes ; ſo likewiſe Chriſtians ought to ſtand in fear of the like judgments, in caſe they profane their profeſſion with the like tranſgreſſions. See Heb. 4. 2. 1 Pet. 3. 21. For the phraſe baptized unto Moſes, though the Jews were not dip'd in the Red Sea, nor for ought we read waſhed with the rain water of that Cloud : yet becauſe the water in the cloud and the ſea reſembled the Element in our Baptiſme ; and it is not unlike that they were ſprinkled with the one and the other ; but eſpecially becauſe they were that unto them in type , which baptiſme is unto us in truth, the Apoſtle ſaith by an Analogie they were baptized unto Moſes. The prepoſition in the Original may carry a double ſenſe ; either all were baptized even unto Moſes, Moſes himſelf being not accepted. Or, all were baptized in Moſes, becauſe Moſes was a typical Mediatour, and they were typically baptized in him : or they were baptized in Moſes, (that is) in confirmation of the promiſes of grace preached and adminiſtered by Moſes , and under that form ordained of God by him, as we read, Act. 19. 3. They were baptized in, or unto John's Baptiſme, that is, in the doctrine of John which was confirmed by his baptiſme.

V. 3. did eat the ſame ſpiritual meat] See Exod. 16. 15. Though the Pronoun αὐτὸ, be not in the addition by Tecla, yet it appeareth by all other ancient Copies, and the Commentaries of Auguſtine and Chryſoſtome upon this Text, that it ought to be added , and that our reading is the true , all did eat the ſame ſpiritual meat, the ſame not onely with themſelves, but with us Chriſtians alſo, (for the Apoſtles argument here enforceth that ſenſe) though not in the outward ſigns or ſymbols, yet in the things ſignified by them. The Manna indeed and the Water which iſſued out of the Rock , were in reſpect of their ſubſtance corporal meats and drinks, yet in regard of their ſacramental and ſpiritual ſignification the Apoſtle calleth them ſpiritual meat and drink. For ſo they were to the beleevers, who by faith in the eating and drinking of them, laid hold upon Chriſts body and bloud, the true ſpiritual food of our ſoules.

V. 4. ſpiritual drink] See Exod. 17. 6. Num. 20. 11.

For they drank of that ſpiritual Rock] That is, the water which iſſued out of the Rock, Exod. 7. 6. a moſt lively Image of Chriſt, who being ſmitten of his Father (as the Rock was by Moſes) at his death and ſuffering, ſtreamed forth the true water of life and ſpiritual drink to all his Church, Joh. 4. 14. Iſa. 55. 1.

that followed them] Or, went with them. By the Rock he meaneth by a figure the waters which followed from thence in ſeverall ſtreams and ſeveral rivolets, running in the wilderneſſe along the way of the peoples paſſage.

and that Rock was Chriſt] Not indeed by any ſubſtantial and material being, but onely figurative and ſacramental, which by virtue of the inſtitution and covenant of God hath joyned with it the reall, but ſpiritual enjoying of Chriſt. Some will have the meaning to be not the Rock was Chriſt, that is, a type of Chriſt, as the Bread and Wine in the Lords Supper are called the Body and Blood of Chriſt, becauſe they are a ſign and ſeal thereof, but Chriſt was the Rock that followed them : but this interpretation is not onely againſt the Grammatical conſtruction of the words, but repugnant alſo to the truth of the ſtory, ſeeing that all the Iſraelites drank not out of Chriſt, becauſe many of them beleeved not, and God had no pleaſure at all in them, verſ. 5. and Heb. 4. 2.

V. 5. But with many of] Gr. in many of.

were overthrown, &c. See Num. 26. 65.

V. 6. our examples] Gr. our figures, or, our types. Some read figures, which ſignified our Sacrament, for circumciſion was to the Jewes a ſeal of righteouſneſſe, and a type of Baptiſme to us, and ſo the Lamb of the other Sacrament ; but the words following require rather that we tranſlate it, examples ; for the meaning of the Apoſtle is, That God ſet the puniſhment of thoſe Iſraelites, as a glaſſe or image before us, that we in them might ſee what we were to look for , if we ſinne as they did.

as they alſo luſted] See Num. 11. 4. Pſal. 106. 14.

V. 7. The people ſate down to eat and drink, &c.] See Exod. 32. 6.

V. 8. fell in one day three and twenty thouſand] See Num. 25. 9. That is, about three and twenty thouſand, for there were three and twenty thouſand ſlain, and many others executed. See Notes on Num. 25. 4. Now although there being twenty four thouſand ſlain, the Apoſtle might truly ſay, three & twenty thouſand, becauſe the leſſer number is included in the greater; yet it may be that in the firſt copy τέσσαρες, was written τρὶς, by an abbreviation, which the tranſcriber miſtook for τρεῖς, ſignifying three.

V. 9. Neither let us tempt Chriſt] Gr. Tec. tempt God. To tempt Chriſt, is to provoke him to a combat, as it were, which thoſe men do who abuſe the knowledge that he hath given them , and make it to ſerve for a cloak for their luſts and wickedneſs. In the Edition of Tecla it is, tempted God, which is more eaſily to be underſtood. becauſe Chriſt was not then come in the fleſh ; yet our reading may ſtand, becauſe they tempted the Son of God, who in the fulneſs of time took our nature upon him , and was called Chriſt ; as the Rock is ſaid to be Chriſt ; and ſo Chriſt himſelf ſpeaketh, Joh. 8. 58. Before Abraham was, I am.

and were deſtroyed of Serpents] See Num. 21. 6.

V. 10. were deſtroyed of the deſtroyer] See Num. 14. 37.

V. 11. happened unto them for examples] Gr. Tec. fell out to them typically.

enſamples] Or, types.

admonition] Or, inſtruction.

ends of the world are come] This our age is called the end, becauſe it is the ſhutting up of all ages, it is as it were the bottom and lees, the remnant and refuſe of time.

V. 13. temptation] By temptation he meaneth affliction, as the word is taken, Jam. 1. 2. 1 Pet. 1. 6. Ye rejoyce greatly, though now for a ſeaſon, if need be, you be in heavineſſe through manifold temptations, that the tryal of your faith being much more precious than of gold tryed with fire , might be found unto praiſe and honour.

common to man] Or, incident to man. That is, ſuch as uſually befalleth men, even Gods deareſt children, or ſuch as may be born by man in this life eſpecially, aſſiſted by Gods grace, which is always ſufficient for Gods children. It may ſignifie alſo moderate afflictions, as 2 Sam. 7. 17. I will chaſten him with the rod of men, that is, moderately and with compaſſion ; for it followeth, verſ. 15. but my mercy ſhall not depart away from him.

alſo make a way to eſcape] Or, give an iſſue.

V. 16. The cup of bleſſing which we bleſſe] The word εὐλογοῦμεν, ſignifieth both to bleſs and give thanks, yet in this place it muſt rather be rendred bleſſe than give thanks, ſeeing it cannot be ſaid, that we give thanks to the cup, but we may be ſaid to bleſſe the cup when we conſecrate it in the Church , to ſerve for the ſacramental uſe of the Lords Supper, by ſolemn prayer and thankſgiving ; this kind of ſeparating it from the common uſe, and dedicating it to an holy, may be termed the bleſſing it, as the word bleſſing is uſed, Gen. 2. 3. Exod. 20. 11. where it is ſaid, that God bleſſed and hallowed the ſeventh day, by ſeparating it from other common days, and appointing it for a peculiar uſe.

communion of the blood of Chriſt] The Sacrament thereof accompanied with the effect and ſpiritual reality, by the operation of the holy Ghoſt : or a ſign and pledge of the ſpiritual communion which we have together, who by faith participate the body and blood of Chriſt; as it is ſaid , that the Iſraelites communicated with the Altar, and thoſe that did eat things ſacrificed to devils, are ſaid to communicate with devils.

V. 18. after the fleſh] Or, according to the fleſh.

V. 19. that the idol is any thing] The Apoſtle may ſeem to allude to 1 Sam. 12. 21. where the Idol is called Thohu, that is, nothing ; whereupon the words of Jonathas are, Worſhip not Idols , quia nihil ſunt, they are nothing, they can do you no good, or, are worth nothing. The meaning of the Apoſtle is, as I ſhewed before, that the Idol hath no force in it to ſanctifie or profane the meat, neither is that which is ſacrificed to Idols any thing, that is , the offering the meat to the Idol, doth nothing to the meat it ſelf, or maketh it unclean, or unholy.

V. 20. the things which the Gentiles ſacrifice,&c.] See Deut.32.17. Pſal.106 37.

fellowſhip with devils] Have any thing to do with them, or enter into that ſociety which is begun in their name.

V. 21. cup of devils] The Heathen and profane people were wont to ſhut up and make an end of their feaſts which they kept to the honour of their gods,in offering meat-offerings in diſhes,and drink-offerings in cups: theſe cups the Apoſtle calls the cups of devils.

ye cannot be partakers] That is,ye may not be partakers, for poſſumus quod jure poſſumus; or, ye cannot be partakers of both, but that you will provoke the wrath of God againſt you; as it followeth in the next verſe.

V. 23. for me] Gr. to me.

are not expedient] Gr. profit me.

for me] Gr. to me.

V. 25. Whatſoever is ſold in the ſhambles] Here the Apoſtle permitteth,that all things that are brought to the Market, may ſerve us for food, notwithſtanding that it happened oftentimes that ſome of the ſame meat which had been offered unto Idols, was brought to Market afterwards, when namely it had not been eaten up in their Idol feaſts, but carryed away whole; now being brought to Market or Shambles again, the Idol was no more honoured by it, but it was taken for common meat.

V. 26. For the earth is the Lords,and the fulneſs thereof] See Deut. 10.14. Pſal.24.1.

V. 29. for why is my liberty judged] If I may through Gods benefit eat this or that meat,why ſhould I through my fault cauſe that benefit of God to turn to my blame? Or knowing by the Word of God that it is left free to me to eat or not eat, why ſhould I ſubject the judgment of my own conſcience to that of another and weaker one,ſo far as to ſuffer my ſelf to be traduced? it ſufficeth for me,that for their ſakes I do refrain feeding on ſuch and ſuch viands at this time, and yet conſerve the liberty in my mind at other times, and elſewhere to eat of all with thankſgiving.

V. 30. grace] Or, thankſgiving.

V. 31. whether therefore ye eat or drink,&c.] See Col.3.17.

V. 32. Give none offence, neither to the Jews,nor Gentiles] Gr.Be ye unoffenſive to Jews and Gentiles.

Give none offence,&c.] See 2 Cor. 6. 3. Under theſe three ſorts he comprehends all men which were then either Jews, or Paynims, or Chriſtians,of whom we muſt beware, not to ſcandalize any by the uſe of our liberty, eſpecially if they be ſuch of whom we may conceive hope,that they may be won by us.

Gentiles] Gr. Greeks.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ. 1. FOllowers] Or, Imitators.

V. 2. Now I praiſe you] Going about to reprehend certain diſorders in the Church of Corinth, he beginneth notwithſtanding with a general praiſe of them; which is the method of the Spirit in the Epiſtles ſent to the ſeven Churches of Aſia, Apoc. 2. 2, 9,13, 19. & 3.1,8, 15. and Lactantius preſcribes it as a rule to all diſcreet Paſtors, that they ſhould after the manner of Phyſitians anoint the brim of the cup with honey, in which they miniſter to the Patient a bitter potion: circumlinatur poculum cœleſtis ſapientiæ melle,&c.

and keep the Ordinances] By the word παραδόσεις in the Original, which ſignifieth traditions, he meaneth not any unwritten verities concerning matters of faith, ſuch as our Romiſh adverſaries would force upon the Text; but particular Ordinances of comelineſſe, and good order, which belong to Eccleſiaſtical policy, which afterwards were called Canons.

V. 3. the head of every man is Chriſt] See Epheſ. 5. 23. He ſetteth down God in Chriſt our Mediatour,for the end and mark, not onely of Doctrine,but alſo of Eccleſiaſtical comelineſs: thus applying it to the queſtion propoſed touching the comely apparel both of men and women in publike Aſſemblies, he declareth, that the woman is a degree beneath the man by the Ordinance of God, and that the man is ſo ſubject to Chriſt,that the glory of God ought to appear in him, for the preheminence of the ſex. The man is the womans head, that is, hath a preheminence above her, as the head hath above the members,Chriſt is the head of the man, in as much as he is the firſt begotten among many brethren; God is Chriſts head,in that Chriſt is our Mediatour.

V. 5. Every woman that prayeth or propheſieth] Either the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of ſuch women as had an extraordinary gift of prayer and prophecie, ſuch were Anna, Luk.2. 38. and Mary the Mother of the Lord,Luke 1.46. and the four daughters of Philip, Act. 21.9. or elſe he meaneth ſuch women who joyned with the Aſſemblies in their praying and propheſying, non oris clarâ voce, ſed mentis tacitâ cogitatione,not with open and loud ſpeech, for that the Apoſtle forbids that any woman ſhould ſpeak in the Church, but with the intention of the mind and thoughts.

V. 7. he is the image and glory of God] See Gen.1.26.Here man is ſaid to be the image and glory of God in regard of the rule which God gave him over the creatures. This image ſhineth moſt brightly in the man, who is immediatly the image of God; but more obſcurely in the woman,who is the image of the man. If it be objected, that the woman as well as the man was created according to Gods image, Gen. 1. 27. and conſequently,that ſhe as well as he is the image and glory of God; it may be anſwered, that a woman may be conſidered, either according to her ſpecifical nature in which ſhe agreeth with man, and in that regard ſhe was created according to the image of God in holineſſe and righteouſneſs; or according unto her ſex as ſhe was Adams wife,and ſubject to him, and in that regard ſhe beareth not the Image of God; for ſubjection is not the Image of God,but Rule.

V. 8. For the man is not of the woman] The Apoſtle hath reference to the Original and Creation of man at the firſt, which was of the earth,not of the woman; whereas the woman was made of man, to wit, of his rib. Here then the man hath ſome preheminence above the woman,that though now as women are of men,ſo men alſo of women in the common courſe of generation; yet originally and at the firſt,man was not of the woman,but the woman of the man.

V. 9. Neither was the man created for the woman] See Gen. 2.23. The man was not created to this end that he ſhould ſerve the woman as his ſuperiour,but on the contrary,the woman to ſerve, obey, and to be an helper to the man,Gen.2.18. Howbeit in ſome ſenſe, the man may be ſaid to be created for the woman, to protect her from wrong, and inſtruct her, and direct in the way to eternal ſalvation,1 Cor. 14.35.

V. 10. power on her head] That is,a veil or covering, in token of her husbands power and authority over her; or a kind of Warrant or Paſſe to go abroad with credit and honeſty: for there was no neceſſity of veiling or covering their head within doors, but if they went abroad without their veil, they were counted light and wanderers, like unto run-away ſervants, or ſouldiers,that have no Paſſe to ſhew from their Maſters or Captains.In which regard Rebecca, Gen. 24. 65.when ſhe lighted off her Camel, and her ſervant told her that it was his Maſter Iſaac that was walking in the field to meet her, ſhe took a Veil and covered her ſelf; for luſt, as Clemens Alexandrinus teacheth, Pædag. l. 3. δι' ὀφθαλμῶν ἀποβολίζεται, caſteth darts as it were from the eys;and as Tertullian elegantly expreſſeth it, Virgins fly to their Veil, as the Buckler of their chaſtity; which though it ſeem but a weak fence, yet it is ſtrong enough to bear off the fiery darts of unchaſte glances from youth; Virginitas ſemper timida oculos fugit, confugit ad velamen capitis, quaſi ad galeam contra ictus tentationum, contra jacula ſcandalorum,contra ſuſpiciones & ſuſurros: Tertul. de veland.virgini.

Becauſe of the Angels] Some by the Angels underſtand the Paſtors of the Congregations,who are termed Angels, Mal.2.7. and Rev.1. 20. and that the Apoſtle draws his reaſon to enforce womens modeſt carriage from the reverend reſpect the woman ought to ſhew, eſpecially in the Church,to theſe Angels of the Churches. Others take Angels here in the proper ſenſe for the celeſtial ſpirits, which alwayes attend upon Chriſt her head, and are preſent in the Congregation of the faithful,and are offended at all diſorders and uncomelineſs which may be uſed there. The women therefore ſhould behave themſelves more modeſtly in the Church,out of a regard of theſe ſpirits that they greeve them not.What though the men were well enough contented that women ſhould go uncovered in the Church,and the husband out of indulgence allowed their wives this ſleight uſurping of the mark of preheminence belonging unto them; yet the Apoſtle anſwereth, that the Angels who are perpetual Guardians of the Churches, and aſſiſt in the Congregations, are offended at it. Some will have this to be ſpoken by way of aggravation,that if women ſhould caſt off their Veil in the Church, and uſurp dominion there, turpitudinem ſuam Angelis conſpicuam facerent, they ſhould diſcover their ſhame and immodeſty, not onely before men,but before Angels: with whom S. Chryſoſtom and Theophylact accord, εἰ τȣ̀ς ἄνδρας καταφρονεῖτε τȣ̀ς ἀγγέλȣς αἰδέσθητε. Others conceive it to be ſpoken not by way of aggravation, but by way of exhortation drawn from the example of the Angels, who have a ſpecial care to obſerve and reverence Chriſt their Head; and therefore as they in token of their ſubjection to their Head, with two of their wings covered their face, Eſa. 6.2. ſo women in token of their ſubjection to their Heads, their Husbands, ſhould cover their heads and faces with a Veil. In this both Jews and Chriſtians agree, that the Angels are preſent at divine exerciſes in the Church,and are eye-witneſſes of our carriage there; for ſo we read in Seder Tephilloth,Domine Deus noſter,coronam dant tibi,hoc eſt,celebrant te Angeli,turba illa ſuperna,cum populo tuo Iſrael hinc infernè congregato,omneſq; ſimul ter tibi à propheta tuo dictum ingeminant & inclamant, Sanctus, ſanctus, ſanctus.

V. 11. Neverthleſs, neither is the man without the woman] A digreſſion which the Apoſtle uſeth,leſt that which he ſpake of the ſuperiority of men,or lower degree of women, in conſideration of the polity of the Church,ſhould be ſo taken, as though there were no meaſure of this inequality, therefore he teacheth, that men have in ſuch ſort the preheminence that yet God made them not alone, but women alſo, and that woman was ſo made of man, that men alſo are born by the means of women, and they both have an equal ſhare in Chriſt, Tit.3.28. And this ought to put them in mind to obſerve the degree of each ſex in ſuch ſort,that mutual conjunction may be cheriſh'd.

V. 15. covering] Or,veil.

V. 16. if any man ſeem to be contentious , we have no ſuch cuſtome] Either the meaning is, We have no ſuch cuſtome for women to pray uncovered ; or we have no ſuch cuſtome for the Churches of God to contend about matters of this nature, but willingly and cheerfully to obey thoſe that have the overſight of us in the Lord.

V.17.Now in this that I declare unto you,I praiſe you not] Gr.Tec.now this I declare unto you,not praiſing.

V. 18. that there be diviſions among] Or, ſchiſms. To celebrate the Lords Supper aright, it is requiſite that there be not onely conſent of doctrine, but alſo of diſcipline and affections, that it be not profaned.

V. 19. there muſt be alſo hereſies] It is unavoidable, by reaſon of Satans malice,and mans corruption,as alſo by the juſt judgment and wiſeſt counſel of God,who draweth light out of darkneſs ; and according to the frequent predictions of the Spirit, Mat.18.7. Hereſie is a contention ariſing about doctrine,when ſome do obſtinately urge or receive any errour, fighting againſt the fundamentals of the ſaving doctrine, in ſo much that hereſie is far worſe and more hurtfull than ſchiſm or diviſions ; and herewithall the Apoſtle ſheweth the reaſon that made him beleeve there were diviſions among them, for that a worſe evil is found amongſt them,*viz.*hereſie, which the Apoſtle deſcribeth and confuteth afterwards,1 Cor.15.

hereſies] Or, ſects.

which are approved] That is, thoſe that in the tryals of diviſions and hereſies remain conſtant to the unity of the Church, and to the ſincere doctrine thereof, and thereby ſhew themſelves like pure and precious gold,which abideth in the trial of the fire.

may be made manifeſt] When the Church is at peace,without ſchiſms or hereſies,then all that make publike profeſſion of religion, are held for ſound and upright ; but when diviſions and hereſies ariſe, then it appeareth fully who cleave to the truth, and ſtand faſt to the unity of the Church. Thus S.Cyprian ſpeaketh ; The Chaff may be diſtinguiſhed from the Wheat,leves paleæ vento jactantur, they are but as Chaff, who are blown away with the Wind, the Wheat remains ſtill in the floor of the Church.

V.20. into one place] Or,to the ſame end.

this is not to eat the Lords Supper] Or,ye cannot eat. When ye meet after ſuch a diſordered manner,as is expreſſed afterwards ; excluding the poor from your company,and eating every one by himſelf,and not tarrying at all till others come ; this is not to eat the Lords Supper ; that is,to celebrate it aright,as you ought. By the Lords Supper he meaneth not the Agapæ or Love-feaſts anciently uſed in the Church,but for abuſe afterwards taken away ; but the celebration of the holy Euchariſt , the Banquet wherein we are fed with the body and blood of Chriſt,as S.Auguſtine in his 118. Epiſtle, and S.Cyprian in his Tract de Cœnâ Domini rightly expound the Text ; He calleth it a ſupper in relation to the time in which it was firſt inſtituted ; to wit,at evening ; or as the Apoſtle hath it,Verſ.23. The ſame night that the Lord was betrayed ; and he calleth it Dominica, or the Lords Supper,partly becauſe it is kept in memory of him, partly becauſe it was inſtituted by him.

V.22. or deſpiſe ye the Church of God,and ſhame,&c.] Deſpiſe ye the poor,who are part of the Church of God, and ſhame you them, by excluding them out of your company for their poverties ſake ? ſith God admits them into his family,and bids them to his heavenly Banquet,you ought not to exclude them from your feaſts.

them that have not]Or,them that are poor.

V.23.For I have received of the Lord] Becauſe thoſe abuſes are contrary to the Lords inſtitution,who ordained his holy Supper for a Sacrament of his body and blood,and for a bond of union, not for a bodily repaſt,much leſs for an occaſion of ſtrife and debate, whereunto you apply it and turn it : therefore I cannot commend you, but muſt blame you for ſuch your carriage at your meetings. The onely way to reform any abuſes in the Church, is to have recourſe to the Word of God,and firſt Inſtitution. That which I received of the Lord, ſaith the Apoſtle,It may be demanded,when, and how the Apoſtle received it from the Lord,ſith he converſed not with Chriſt whileſt he lived upon earth,as the Apoſtles and Evangeliſts did, who received the Doctrine of the Sacrament from the Lords own mouth. We anſwer out of S.Paul himſelf,Gal.1.2. That after Chriſts aſcenſion, he received by ſpecial Revelation, which the Lord Jeſus Chriſt vouchſafed to impart unto him,either when he was wrap'd up into the third heaven, or when Chriſt appeared unto him at his firſt converſion ; but whether then or at any other time Chriſt revealed this myſtery unto him, this is certain , that he received it immediatly from Chriſt. For he expreſly affirmes , that he preached not the Goſpel after men , nor received it of man , nor was taught by man , but by Jeſus Chriſt.

that which alſo I delivered unto you] As the words which the Father ſpake of the Son,This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed,are related not onely by the three Evangeliſts, Matthew, Mark, and Luke,but alſo by S.Peter in his Epiſtle, 2 Pet. 1.17. for the neceſſity of the doctrine , and excellency of the myſtery contained in them:ſo for the like reaſon,it pleaſed God that the inſtitution of the Lords Supper ſhould not onely be recorded by the three Evangeliſts above-named , but alſo here moſt accurately and exactly delivered by the Apoſtle. For all Churches muſt take the true keeping of the Lords Supper out of the inſtitution of it. The parts whereof are theſe,touching the Paſtours,to ſhew forth the Lords death by preaching his Word, to bleſſe the Bread and Wine , by calling upon the name of God , and together with prayers to declare the inſtitution thereof,and finally to deliver the bread broken to be eaten, and the cup received to be drunk with thankſgiving : and touching the Communicants,that every one examine himſelf, that is to ſay, prove both his knowledge, and faith, and repentance ; and laſtly, to take the bread at the Miniſters hand,and eat it,and to drink the wine, and to give God thanks.

V. 24. And when he had given thanks] See Matth. 26.26. Mark. 14.22. Luk.22.19.

Broken for you] The word broken, noteth out unto us Chriſt his manner of death : for though his legs were not broken , as the theeves were, becauſe he was the Paſchal Lamb , of which no bone was to be broken ; yet was his body very ſorely tormented, torn, and bruiſed,Iſa.53.5,10.

in remembrance of me] Or, for a remembrance.

V. 25. This cup is the New Teſtament] As the bread is not the very body of Chriſt,but a Sacrament thereof : ſo neither is the Cup the New Teſtament or Covenant , but a ſign and ſeal thereof : as the Covenant of God is renewed with his Elect,and ratified by his death, and paſſion,ſo it is alſo ſealed to every faithful Chriſtian, by the Cup of the Lord.

in my blood] By the Cup is underſtood (as all grant) that which is contained in the Cup, by an uſual Synecdoche continentis pro contento, which muſt needs be wine and not blood. For the Apoſtle here ſaith, that the Cup is the New Teſtament in Chriſts blood , that is , the wine contained in it, is a ſign and ſeal of the new Teſtament confirmed by Chriſts blood which he ſhed upon the Croſſe, as the Old Teſtament or Covenant was confirmed by the effuſion of the blood of beaſts ſacrificed ſprinkled upon the people , Exod. 24. 8.

V. 26. ye do ſhew the Lords death till he come] Or, ſhew ye, or declare. The death of the Lord muſt be ſhewed or made known in the Lords Supper, both by the Miniſters of the Word, who in the miniſtration thereof muſt inſtruct the people, that the bread broken , and the wine powred out,are the ſigns of the bitter death of Chriſt on the Croſs, and ſeals of the benefits thereby purchaſed to our ſelves : as alſo by the communicants, who ought to conſider in their hearts, to declare and to profeſs with thankfulneſs, that the Lord Jeſus died for them,to redeem them from eternal death,and to make them bleſſed and happy for ever. Till he come to judge the quick and the dead. For even as the Sacraments of the Old Teſtament continued untill the firſt coming of Chriſt in the fleſh ; ſo ſhall the Sacraments of the New Teſtament continue till his ſecond coming in glory.

V. 27. and drink this cup of the Lord,&c.] Gr. or drink. That is, otherwiſe than it is meet ſuch myſteries ſhould be handled. He receiveth unworthily , who receiveth without ſuch a diſpoſition of mind, and ſpeciall preparation which is requiſite for the partaking of ſo worthy a Sacrament : or they who receive it not with that reverence and devotion as they ought.

ſhall be guilty of the body and blood] For having violated Chriſts inſtitution , and by his irreverent behaviour having profaned the remembrance of Chriſts death, and for vilifying the ſigns and pledges of the body and blood of Chriſt. For the indignity that is offered unto the ſeal of the King, is accounted as done unto the Kings own perſon. The phraſe of the Apoſtle implyes, that they who unworthily handle theſe holy myſteries are guilty before God as well as Judas, who betrayed the body of our Saviour ; or the Jews, who bound his hands, and ſpit upon his face ; or the ſouldiers who ſpilt his blood.

of the Lord] Gr.Tec. of Chriſt.

V. 28. examine himſelf] Both concerning his ſpirituall ſtate in general ; whether he be a true member of Chriſts myſticall body. For none but ſuch may eat his body, and drink his blood. And in ſpeciall, whether he be a fit gueſt for ſo holy and heavenly a Table, whether he truly repent him of his ſins, have a lively faith in Chriſt, be in charity with his neighbours , and is endued with a competent meaſure of knowledge to diſcern this heavenly food from other meat. This examination of a mans ſelf, is of neceſſity required in all that intend to receive the communion,and therefore they ought not to be admitted to it, which cannot examine themſelves as children,idiots, and mad-men,and all ſuch as either have no knowledge of Chriſt, or no competent meaſure thereof,though they profeſs the Chriſtian Religion.

eat of that bread,and drink of that cup] The Sacrament muſt be received in both kinds, both becauſe Chriſt ſo inſtituted it, and to receive it otherwiſe is a violation of Chriſts order ; and as Gelaſius confeſſeth, de conſecrat. diſt. 2. grand ſacrilege (Diviſio unius ejuſdémque myſterii ſine grandi ſacrilegio non poteſt provenire :) as alſo becauſe if we receive but in one kind in bread onely,after the Romiſh manner,we ſhew not forth the death of Chriſt, nor celebrate a Supper, nor make an entire refection, to which drink as well as bread is requiſite.

V. 29. damnation to himſelf] Or, judgment. This may be underſtood either of eternal puniſhment, in reſpect of hypocrites; or of temporal corrections,in regard of the faithful, who oft neglect their duty herein; and receive not ſo worthily as they ought, as is declared in the next verſe.

not diſcerning the Lords body] Shewing no more reverence at the communion of the body of Chriſt, than he would do at his ordinary ſupper: putting no difference between the bread of the Lords Supper,which is an holy ſign and Sacrament of the Lords body, and between ordinary food,participating thereof without any precedent preparation,or preſent devotion.

V. 30. For this cauſe,&c.] The profaning the body and blood of the Lord,by unworthily receiving the holy myſteries, is ſharply puniſhed by him, by viſiting ſuch with ſickneſs, and ſometimes inflicting corporal death: therefore ſuch a miſchief ought diligently to be prevented by judging and correcting of a mans ſelf.

V. 31. For if we would judge our ſelves] If we would examine our own conſcience, and condemn our ſelves for our ſins. And here the Apoſtle changeth the third perſon into the firſt, and in modeſty joyneth himſelf with the reſt of his brethren, intimating that neither himſelf,nor any other is free from Gods fatherly correction, and implying that he delivereth a general doctrine belonging to all the faithful,to prevent Gods judgment by fore-judging themſelves.

V. 32. we are chaſtened of the Lord] Sickneſs and other ſcourges of God,which are puniſhments to the wicked, inflicted upon them for their ſins, are fatherly chaſtiſements of Gods children for their inſtruction and amendment, παθήματα μαθήματα, nocumenta documenta.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ. 1. N*Ow concerning ſpiritual* gifts] Here he entreth into a reproof of the Corinthians for their abuſe of ſpiritual gifts. For they that excelled in them, brag'd ambitiouſly of them, and ſo rob'd God of the praiſe of his gifts; and having no conſideration of their brethrens benefit, uſed them to vain oſtentation, and ſo rob'd the Church of the uſe of thoſe gifts. On the other ſide, the inferiour ſort envied the better, and went about to make a departure from them, and rent in the Church: ſo that all that body was as it were ſcattered and torn in peeces. So then he going about to remedy this abuſe, willeth them firſt to conſider diligently that they have not theſe gifts of themſelves, but from the free grace and liberality of God,to whoſe glory they ought to refer them. Of this he would not have them ignorant to what purpoſe thoſe gifts were given unto them.

V. 2. ye were Gentiles] Gr.Tec. when ye.

carried away] Gr. ye were carried.

dumb idols] Though the devil ſometimes ſpake in and by the idol,yet the idols themſelves, as the Prophet David truly affirmeth of them,Pſal. 115.5. had mouthes and ſpake not; the work-men who made the mouthes,could not give them ſpeech. This therefore is ſpoken by way of aggravation, to ſhew what an abſurd thing idolatry is, which as Lactantius obſerveth, ſo beſotteth men, ut adorent inſenſibilia qui ſentiunt, irrationalia qui ſapiunt, &c. That reaſonable men worſhip unreaſonable creatures,ſenſible men adore ſenſleſs ſtocks, they who can ſpeak,call upon dumb images and pictures.

V. 3. calleth Jeſus accurſed] Gr. ſaith Jeſus is. Or,anathema. Or, make anathema,or,count him as an execrable thing,Eſa. 30.22. To curſe him in whom all the kindreds of the earth are bleſſed, can proceed from no other than from the accurſed and damned ſpirit the devil himſelf. In this ſpeech the Apoſtle either brandeth the prieſts and falſe prophets of the Gentiles,or the Jews who pretended to the gifts of the Spirit, and by ſorcery and witchcraft uttered ſtrange propheſies,and did ſeeming wonders, yet both joyned in curſiug Chriſt, as the blaſphemous Jews do at this day.

Jeſus is the Lord,but &c.] By the Lord, either the Apoſtle meaneth Jehovah the eſſential name of God, which the Seventy in the tranſlation of the Old Teſtament expreſs by κύριος, the word here uſed: or the Lord who hath bought and redeemed us. And moſt true it is, that no man out of ſincere affection and true faith can profeſs that Chriſt is the Lord in either of theſe ſenſes, but by the inſtinct of the holy Ghoſt.

V, 4. There are diverſities of gifts] See Rom. 12.4,&c. The gifts are diverſe, as the offices and functions in the Church are diverſe: yet one and the ſelf-ſame Spirit of God, is the giver of all thoſe gifts, and that to one end,to wit,for the profit of all.

V. 5. adminiſtrations] Or,miniſteries.

V. 6. diverſities of operations] By operations here, he meaneth miraculous works, in which the Spirit of God manifeſted his divine power.

V. 8. the word of wiſedome] Wiſedome is a moſt excellent gift, very requiſite not onely for them which teach,but alſo for them that exhort and comfort.

by the ſame Spirit] Gr.according to the ſame.

V. 9. To another faith by the ſame Spirit] By faith he meaneth not here the common faith of all Chriſtians, but a ſpecial faith given to ſome,whereby they wrought miracles,of which the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, Chapter 13. If I had all faith; ſo that I could remove mountains.

V. 10. the working of miracles] The gift of healing ſpoken of in the former verſe was miraculous,but here by ἐνεργήματα δυνάμεων, the Apoſtle meaneth the greater workings of Gods mighty power, which paſſed and excelled among his miracles, as the delivery of the people of Iſrael by the hand of Moſes, and that which he did by Elias againſt the prieſts of Baal, in ſending down fire from heaven to conſume the ſacrifice,and licking up all the water, and that which he did by Peter in the matter of Ananias and Saphira,and ſuch like.

V. 11. But] Or, And.

V. 12. ſo alſo is Chriſt] One body having many members, which though they are very diverſe, and have different offices and operations,yet they all make but one body, not natural, but ſpiritual; not politique,but myſtical.

V. 13. For by one ſpirit are we all baptized into one body] Or,in one. By the two Sacraments of the Chriſtian Church, he proveth the union of the faithful in one and the ſame myſtical body, by the virtue of the holy Spirit, who alone doth ratifie both the one and the other Sacrament; by Baptiſme to unite them to Chriſt, and all of them together in Chriſt: by the holy Communion, to animate and move that whole body, and to operate in all the members thereof, by diverſe gifts and operations,to one and the ſame end, and for the common good and benefit of all. All the faithfull, as members of the ſelf-ſame body, have the ſame means of common generation by Baptiſme,and nutrition by the holy Spirit. They are baptized into one body,that is, by Baptiſme and the ſpiritual efficacy thereof we are incorporated into one body, the body of Chriſt, and we are made to drink into one Spirit, that is, by one quickning drink of the Lords blood,we are made partakers of his Spirit. And here though he mention but one ſign in the Lords Supper,to wit,wine in the cup, yet we are to underſtand the other ſign of the bread alſo: but it ſeemeth that he uſeth this of the wine eſpecially, in regard of the Spirit; becauſe in the nouriſhment of our bodies,the wine or drink is that part of our aliment which doth moſt breed and revive the ſpirits.

Gentiles] Gr.Greeks.

and have been all] Gr.Tec.and are all one body.

V. 15. If the foot ſhall ſay] Now he buildeth his doctrine upon the foundation which he hath laid, and firſt of all he ſpeaketh unto them which ſhould have ſeparated themſelves from thoſe whom they envied, becauſe they had not ſuch excellent gifts as they: this is all one, ſaith he, as if the foot ſhould ſay, that it were not of the body, becauſe it is not the hand; or the ear, that it is not of the body,becauſe it is not the eye, therefore all parts ought rather to defend the unity of the body, being coupled together to ſerve one the other.

V. 17. If the whole body were an eye] Again,ſpeaking to the ſame men,who were diſcontented at the meanneſs of their gifts in compariſon of others, he ſheweth them, that if that ſhould come to paſſe which they deſired, to wit, that all ſhould be equal one to another, there would follow a deſtruction of the whole body, and conſequently of themſelves. For it could not be a body, unleſs it were made of many members knit together,and diverſe one from the other. And that no man might finde fault with this diviſion as unequal, he addeth, that God himſelf hath coupled all theſe together, therefore all muſt remain coupled together, that the body may remain in ſafety.

V. 21. And the eye cannot ſay unto the hand,&c.] Now on the other ſide, he ſpeaketh unto them who were endued with more excellent gifts, willing them not to deſpiſe the inferiours as unprofitable, nor as though they ſerved for no uſe. For God, ſaith he, hath in ſuch ſort tempered this inequality,that the more excellent and beautifull members can in no wiſe lack the more abject, and ſuch as we are aſhamed of, and that they ſhould have more care to ſee unto them and cover them, that by this meanes the neceſſity which is on both parts, might keep the whole body in peace and concord; that although if each member be conſidered apart, they are of diverſe degrees and conditions, yet becauſe they are joyned together, they have a community both in commodities and diſcommodities.

V. 22. ſeem to be more feeble] Of the ſmalleſt and vileſt Offices, who had leaſt power, and therefore leaſt accounted of among the reſt.

V. 23. beſtow] Or,put on.

V. 25. ſchiſme] Or,diviſion.

that the members ſhould have the ſame care one for another] Should beſtow their operations and offices to the preſervation of the whole body.

V. 27. and members in particular] Or,particularly. Or,in part. In the Original word for word, it is members of a part, that is, members of this Church of Corinth, which is but a part of the Catholike Chriſtian Church: for all the faithful whereſoever they are make the whole body: you Corinthians are not the whole body, but members onely, neither all the members, but a part onely of them. Or, each one for his part, and in his place.

V. 28. God hath ſet ſome, &c.] See Epheſ. 4. 11.

firſt apoſtles] The firſt and uppermoſt place is given to the Apoſtles, for that they were called unto that office immediately by Chriſt, without any intermediate humane authority, Gal. 1. 1. they had manifold preheminences above other Doctors and Paſtors, they could not erre in matter of doctrine, their Commiſſion was general to preach to all Nations; they were endued with ſpecial power to work miracles, and puniſh the diſobedient in an extraordinary manner.

ſecondarily prophets] Thoſe who by a ſpecial and extraordinary gift interpreted prophetical Scriptures to edification, exhortation, and conſolation, 1 Cor. 14. 3. Or thoſe who fore-told infallibly things to come, as Agabus, Act. 21. 10. and the daughters of Philip the Evangeliſt, Act. 21. 9. If it be objected, that the Law and the Prophets were but until John; the anſwer is eaſie, that Chriſt there ſpeaketh of ſuch Prophets, who fore-told his coming in the fleſh.

thirdly teachers] That is, thoſe which were ordinarily and orderly called to expound the Scriptures for the edification of the Church, and to maintain the truth againſt falſe Teachers, Epheſ. 4. 11.

after that miracles] As we call thoſe Juſtices which are to execute juſtice, ſo the Apoſtle calleth here miracles, thoſe who had power to work miracles, both in curing diſeaſes that were ſimply incurable by natural means, and in inflicting miraculouſly fearſull puniſhments upon thoſe who oppoſed the truth, and lyed to the holy Spirit, as Paul inflicted upon Elymas the Sorcerer, and Peter upon Ananias and Saphyra.

then the gifts of healings] The gift of healing may be diſtinguiſhed from the gift of miracles mentioned before in this, that thoſe who had the gift of healing onely, could do no other miracles, but the other of whom the Apoſtle ſpake before, wrought many other miracles, and they not onely cured incurable diſeaſes, but alſo raiſed the dead; whereas theſe onely cured diſeaſes, and for the moſt part ſuch as were ordinary, yet they cured them not by ordinary means or medicines, but onely with a word, or a touch, or the like.

helps] Aſſiſtants to the principal Officers of the Church, as Deacons, who took care of the poor ſick ſtrangers, and orphans, and widows, &c.

diverſities of tongues] Or kinds. Becauſe the Corinthians were proud of this gift, to take down their creſt, and abate their high conceit of themſelves, in regard of this gift of the Spirit, it ſeemeth that he nameth it in the laſt place, it being as they uſed the matter of leaſt uſe in the Church.

V. 29. Workers] Or, powers.

V. 31. But covet earneſtly the, &c.] He teacheth them that are ambitious an holy ambition to ſtrive for the beſt gifts, & ſuch as are moſt profitable in the Church, eſpecially to contend to excell one another in love, which far ſurpaſſeth all other gifts, as he proveth in the enſuing Chapter, and in that regard calleth it a more excellent way.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. Tongues of men and of Angels] The Angels being ſpirits, Heb. 1. 14. have no tongues properly as we have: this therefore muſt be underſtood either of the faculty of expreſſing their conceptions, one to another, which ſerveth them to that uſe as our tongue doth us: Or the Apoſtle hath reference to the variety of tongues, which the Angels may or have uſed, when they have been ſent to deliver meſſages to men of divers Nations and Languages; and then the meaning is, if I could ſpeak with as many tongues or languages as ever man or Angels ſpake with: or elſe the Apoſtle hath reference not ſo much to the variety of tongues, as to the gift of eloquence, and exquiſite kind of ſpeech; and then the meaning is, if I could ſpeak like an Angel, that is, moſt exquiſitely, moſt divinely, as Stephen is ſaid to have had the look of an Angel, Act. 6. 15. They ſaw his face, as it had been the face of an Angel, that is, with ſuch ſhining beauty and luſtre as Angels have appeared with; and Manna is ſaid in the Pſalm (78. 25.) to be the food of Angels; that is, a moſt dainty food, fitter for Angels than for men; or, ſuch as Angels, if they would taſte any corporal food, would make choice of.

as ſounding braſſe] That is, inſtruments of metal, which make a great hideous noiſe, but without any pleaſantneſs: or like a tinckling Cymbal which yeeldeth a pleaſant ſound to the ear, but is of little uſe at all; or that giveth an uncertain ſound, without any diſtinction of notes, as thoſe did who uſed the gift of Tongues in the Church without an Interpreter.

V. 2. underſtand] Or, know.

myſteries] Or, ſecrets.

all faith] By faith he meaneth the gift of doing miracles; of which faith our Saviour ſpeaketh, Mat. 17. 20. If ye have faith as a grain of muſtard-ſeed, you ſhall ſay to this mountain, Remove hence to another place, and it ſhall remove. For that faith may be ſevered from charity, but juſtifying faith cannot, which alwayes worketh by love: ſo then all faith, that is, all degrees of miraculous faith.

no charity] Gr. not charity.

V. 3. to feed the poor, &c.] Though theſe ſeem to be moſt eminent acts, the former of our love to our brethren, the latter of our love to Chriſt and his Goſpel; yet if they be done in vain-glory, or we propound to our ſelves in them any other end but Gods glory, and the good of our brother, they ſhall profit nothing to our ſalvation.

to be burned] Gr. that I be burned.

it profiteth me nothing] Gr. I am nothing benefited thereby.

V. 4. Charity ſuffereth long] Here the Apoſtle ſetteth forth the force and nature of Charity, partly by a compariſon of contraries, and partly by the effects of it, whereby the Corinthians may underſtand both how profitable it is in the Church, and how neceſſary; and alſo how far they were from it, and conſequently how vainly, and without cauſe they were puffed up with other gifts, wanting this the chief of all.

vaunteth not it ſelf] Or, is not raſh; or, doth nothing prepoſterouſly. The Greek word περπερεύεται, ſome derive from the Latine perperam, and then it is of a large ſignification, as if he had ſaid, it doth nothing inconſiderately, or amiſs: others as Cornelius a Lapide, à Perperis fratribus procaciſſimis, and then it ſignifieth, it doth nothing ſcornfully, or vain-gloriouſly. Heſychius a great Maſter of the Greek tongue interpreteth περπερεύεται, κατὰ βλακείας ἐπαίρεται, that is, It doth not inſolently carry it ſelf, or fooliſhly prefer it ſelf above others; the Interpreter of Sophocles expoundeth περπερεὺς, by κομψὸς, and πολυλαλεῖς, vain-glorious talkers, and braggers of themſelves. In the 15. Canon of the ſecond Council of Nice we read καλλαπισμὸς ἔχει περπερείας κατηγορίαν, over-ſpruceneſs in apparel; and in decking and trimming our ſelves is called by the name of the vice here mentioned; whereby it appears, that the meaning of the Apoſtle is, that thoſe who have charity do not vainly put forth themſelves, nor carry themſelves inſolently nor ſcornfully towards others.

V. 5. not behave it ſelf unſeemly] Or, nothing uncomely.

not eaſily provoked] Gr. not exaſperated.

thinketh no evil] Or, caſteth, projecteth, reſolveth, or reckoneth upon no evil. The word in the Greek, λογίζεται, may be diverſly tranſlated; either imputeth no evil, or thinketh of no revenge, or plotteth no evil in his mind againſt another.

V. 6. Rejoyceth not in iniquity] Taketh no pleaſure in ſpeaking or doing evil or wrong; or rejoyceth not, but rather grieveth when any evil befalleth his brother of what kind ſoever.

but rejoyceth in the truth] Or, with the truth. Rejoyceth at the righteouſneſs of the righteous. For the Hebrew ſometime by truth meaneth righteouſneſs, the meaning then of the Apoſtle is, that a charitable man is ſo far from taking any delight in the calamity, hurt, or diſgrace of another, if they be found guilty, or taken tardy in any thing, that on the contrary when any that is brought in queſtion as a Delinquent, and afterwards by evidence of truth is cleared, he congratulateth the party that is acquit, and as much rejoyceth as at the clearing of his own innocency.

V. 7. Beareth all things] Or, ſupporteth. The word in the Original ϛέγει, ſignifieth to bear up, as a pillar bears the roof laid upon it, and it differeth from the other word uſed in this verſe ὑπομένει, that this implyeth a ſupporting of our weak brother, and helping his infirmities; but the other a patient enduring of wrongs offered to us; or ſuſtaining whatſoever burden is laid upon us.

beleeveth all things] Theſe three acts of love, namely, beleeveth, hopeth, endureth all things, may be either referred to God, or our Neighbor: if they be referred to God, then the meaning is this, Love beleeveth every word of God, hopeth for all the good things he promiſeth, and patiently expecteth the accompliſhment of all his gracious promiſes, and meekly endureth all his chaſtiſements. If they be referred to our Neighbour, then the meaning is, Love beleeveth and hopeth all good of our Neighbour, and patiently beareth all wrongs, even death it ſelf, if it ſo ſtand with the will of God, that it be inflicted on him. Now we are not from hence to infer that a charitable man is improvident to prevent evil, or careleſs to right himſelf. (Pro. 14. 15.) For all that the Apoſtle here affirmeth of love comes but to this, that a charitable man is apt to conſtrue all things to the beſt, and hope for the beſt, where there is not apparent reaſon to the contrary: and that he is more willing to ſuffer the greateſt wrong than to deſire revenge, or offer the leaſt injury, he endureth all things which he may with a good conſcience, and he perſwadeth himſelf may make for the glory of God, or advantage of the truth: but the latter is more proper.

endureth] Or, ſuſtaineth.

V. 8. Charity never faileth] Gr. falleth away. He commendeth the excellency of Charity in that, that it ſhall never be aboliſhed in the Saints; whereas the other gifts which are neceſſary for the building up of the Church, ſo long as we live here ſhall have no place in the world to come.

ſhall fail] Gr. be aboliſhed, or, caſſated.

knowledge, it ſhall vaniſh away] Or, be made fruſtrate. Either by knowledg the Apoſtle here meaneth the way to get knowledg by prophecying ; or ſuch imperfect knowledge as we have in this life ; or that knowledge which is acquired by ſenſe and experience, or that gift whereby God enableth us to inſtruct others , and to teach in the Church , that ſhall be aboliſhed after this life , becauſe then there ſhall be no need of it.

V. 9. For we know in part] We are now in that ſtate that we ought to learn daily,and therefore we have need of thoſe helps; to wit, the gift of Tongues and knowledge of them that teach them : but to what purpoſe ſerve they then when we have obtained and got the full knowledge of God ? which ſerveth now but for them which are imperfect and go by degrees to perfection.

V. 10. done away] Or,evacuated.

V. 11. when I was a child,I ſpake as a child] He illuſtrateth what he ſaid before by an elegant ſimilitude,comparing this life to our infancy or child-hood,wherein we ſtammer rather than ſpeak, and think and underſtand but childiſh things, and therefore need of ſuch helps as may frame our tongues, and inform our minds : but when we become perfect men in Chriſt Jeſus, to what end ſhould we deſire that ſtammering ſpeech and thoſe childiſh helps , and ſuch like things whereby our childhood is framed by little and little ?

thought] Or, reaſoned.

V. 12. For now we ſee through a glaſſe] There is ſuch a difference between our preſent knowledge, and that which we ſhall enjoy hereafter in the life to come , as there is between the ſeeing of a mans image in a glaſs,and looking him full in the face. Now we ſee God in the Word and Sacraments,and in his Works ; in which there is revealed unto us by a kind of reflection , the Image of thoſe things whereof we cannot directly ſee the original truth, and proper eſſence in this world,2 Cor.5.7.

darkly] Gr. *in a riddle.*In the Original it is in a riddle, proverbial or enigmatical ſpeech, and the Apoſtle hath reference unto Numb. the 12.8. where God ſpeaking of Moſes, ſaith, I will ſpeak unto him mouth to mouth,and by viſion,and not in dark words : and the Apoſtle hereby implyeth, that there is ſuch a difference between the imperfect knowledge which we have in this life , and the perfect knowledge which we have in the life to come, as is between the propounding the ſame thing in the obſcurity of a Riddle, and declaring of it in plain,proper,and ſignificant terms : or the ſeeing of a thing immediatly,and in its proper ſhape ; and the ſeeing it through a mirrour, or the image of it in a glaſs. We here in this life ſee but the image of things,neither can we contemplate in the foreſaid glaſs the pure and naked image, but cloathed and wrapped about with an intricacy of words, and corporal ſignifications,accommodated to our groſs manner of apprehending and reaſoning.

as alſo I am known] The Greek words may bear a double ſenſe, καθὼς καὶ ἐπεγνώσθην Either I ſhall know him according to the meaſure of that knowledge wherewith I ſhall then be endued by him, or I ſhall come to the perfect knowledge of my election how I am known, that is, choſen and marked out for his by my clear viſion of God,and full conjunction and communion with him. At that time I ſhall know him as I am known of him ; that is,moſt certainly, clearly,and face to face,as I am known of him,though not ſo perfectly ; for the Creature can never know the Creator ſo fully and perfectly, as the Creator knoweth it. There is yet another opinion which thus gloſſeth the words ; I ſhall know God then immediatly, and as it were, face to face, as I was known of him , and ſaw him in my celeſtiall viſion and rapture when I was taken up into the third heaven.

V. 13. And now abideth ſaith] Either the meaning is , whileſt we are in this life,it is very needful that all theſe three graces be , and abide within us,Faith,Hope, and Charity ; for without faith we cannot be juſtified nor made acceptable to God, without hope faith cannot ſubſiſt, and by love faith muſt be working ; but after this life faith ſhall be turned into viſion,hope into fruition,but then love ſhall be in greateſt perfection. Or , the Apoſtles meaning is , that faith, hope,and charity are virtues that are to abide and continue in the Church militant , and have their working in true beleevers at all times,and ſhall have in all ages, whereas the gift of tongues and miracles were neceſſary in the firſt planting of the Church , but afterwards were to ceaſe,as now they have done for many ages.

the greateſt of theſe is charity] Gr. greater. If the Apoſtle ſpeak here not of juſtifying faith, but of the faith of miracles , or whereby men work wonders, of which he ſpeaketh verſ. 2. then there can be no queſtion,but that charity far exceedeth that faith ; but becauſe here he joyneth with it hope, which is a grace common to all true Chriſtians,and moſt of the antient and latter Divines underſtand this verſe of the three prime Theological virtues, moſt neceſſary to ſalvation ; it is more probable that St. Paul here taketh faith in the largeſt notion, as it compriſeth,not onely the faith of miracles, and that which is called Hiſtorical,but even juſtifying faith ; and howſoever faith in that notion,in the matter of Juſtification , hath the preheminence above all other graces ; yet in many other reſpects,charity exceedeth faith : as firſt in regard of the object , for the object of faith is God onely,in whom alone we are to beleeve ; but the object of Charity is of a larger extent,for it reſpecteth not God onely, but our neighbor alſo.Secondly,in regard of the manner of working. For faith worketh by receiving Chriſt,and all his benefits ; but charity, by giving and beſtowing both our affections and goods ; now our Saviour ſaith , It is a more bleſſed thing to give than to receive. Thirdly, in reſpect of duration or continuance. For faith and hope ſhall ceaſe in the life to come, we being then actually to enjoy and poſſeſs thoſe good things which we now beleeve and hope for ; but charity ſhall not onely remain,but have its full perfection in the life to come. Laſtly, in reſpect of the end, becauſe love is the end, and ſcope of the two other graces, for we apprehend by faith , and expect by hope that we may enjoy by perfect love, whereby alſo we render unto God the ſame we have received of him, and in this correſpondence lyeth and conſiſteth the accompliſhment of our conjunction with God, and of mans eternal happineſs.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. DEſire] Gr. emulate.

that ye may propheſie] The Apoſtle ſpeaketh not here of that gift of the Holy Ghoſt, whereby men that were inſpired foretold things future,as the word is taken in the Old Teſtament ; but of a gift of the Spirit , whereby men were inabled to expound Scriptures,given by divine inſpiration, and apply them to the benefit of their hearers,for their edification,inſtruction,and comfort.

V. 2. underſtandeth] Gr. heareth.

in the Spirit] By that inſpiration which he hath received of the Spirit, which notwithſtandiog he abuſeth when he ſpeaketh myſteries,which none of the company can underſtand.

V. 3. He that propheſieth ſpeaketh unto men] He that expoundeth the Scriptures in a known tongue, he ſpeaketh unto men ; that is, ſpeaketh in ſuch a manner that men may underſtand him,and receive fruit and benefit by him. This fruit is ſorted in the words following ; edification, exhortation, and comfort. By edification he underſtandeth confirmation of faith, and inſtruction of the ignorant ; by exhortation,incitation to virtue,and reproof of the unruly ; by comfort, the applying of the promiſes of God to the conſolation of the afflicted. And theſe are the three uſes to which all Expoſitours of the Word ought to apply the doctrine they deliver.

V. 6. if I come unto you with tongues] I wonder whether that which you ſo much admire in others,would content you in me your Apoſtle; if I ſhould come among you with the gift of tongues, which the Lord hath ſo largely beſtowed upon me,verſ.18. Or, whether you would not rather expect at my hands that I ſhould preach to your underſtanding, as is agreeable to my office of Apoſtleſhip , and profitable for you.

either by revelation,&c.] Or,in revelation. Unleſſe I propound unto you ſome particular matter, appertaining to your faith or ſalvation, which I had either learned of God by immediate inſpiration, or diſcovered and deduced by the diſcourſe of enlightned reaſon from the general grounds of the Word of God. By propheſying,that is,in the general expoſition of the truth of God, whether after an extraordinary manner,which is by propheſying , or by way of treaty and diſcourſe, by the ordinary gift of reaſon,which is doctrine.

by knowledge] Or, in knowledge.

by propheſying] Or,in propheſying.

by doctrine] Or,in doctrine.

V. 7. And even things without life] He ſetteth forth that which he had ſaid,by a ſimilitude borrowed from inſtruments of muſick,which though they ſound not out perfectly the ditty, yet by a diſtinction of ſounds they expreſs in ſuch ſort thereby the tune, that we know after a ſort what leſſon is plaid upon them.

ſounds] Or,tunes.

V. 8. who ſhall prepare] Gr.Tec.who prepareth.

V. 9. words eaſie to be underſtood] Gr.a ſignificant ſpeech.

V. 10. ſignification] Or,dumb,or,mute.

V. 11. meaning] Gr. power.

a Barbarian]This word Barbarian is derived from the Arabick word Barbar, which ſignifieth a murmur or confuſed noiſe ; or from Bar, which in the Arabian language ſignifieth a Wilderneſs ; for thoſe who were firſt ſtyled Barbari,lived in deſarts after the manner of wilde beaſts : afterwards the word Barbarian was taken in a larger ſenſe for all thoſe who ſpake not the pure language of the Grecians ; here it ſignifieth,as alſo in the Poet,I ſhall be as a ſtranger , whoſe language he underſtandeth not, Barbarus hic ego ſum,quia non intelligor ulli ; ſo the Grecians in old time called the Egyptians Barbarians, & the Egyptians them, becauſe neither underſtood the other,ſo Apamenſis the Platonick Philoſopher called John the Evangeliſt, a Barbarian,not in any diſgrace, as Cyril in his eighth book againſt Julian, ſheweth ; but onely διὰ τὸ ἀλλότριον, becauſe he was a Jew, and of another language, not underſtood of this Philoſopher, to wit , the Hebrew or Syriack, which he naturally ſpake as his mother tongue, though he wrote his Goſpel in the Greek.

V. 12. of Spiritual gifts] Gr. of Spirits.

excel] Gr. Tec. propheſie.

V. 14. my Spirit prayeth] The gift and inſpiration which the Spirit giveth me doth his part, but onely to my ſelf ; but my underſtanding is without fruit,becauſe no fruit cometh to the Church by my prayer, in regard they hear the ſound of my words , but the underſtanding or meaning of them is not known to them. The Spirit of God doth indeed by a ſupernatural inſpiration form and frame the conception and words of a prayer within me,and moveth me to pronounce it,and I my ſelf am therewith affected, but in the mean while the natural faculty of the mind or underſtanding, whereby the ordinary and natural word or ſpeech is produced to communicate it ſelf to others doth ceaſe in me,and is unfruitful in regard of others edification.

V. 15. with the] Or, in the.

I will pray with the underſtanding alſo] That is, I will pray in ſuch a language, whereby I may be underſtood of them, and they edified by my prayer.

with the ſpirit] Or, in.

V. 16. Elſe when thou ſhalt bleſſe with the ſpirit] Seeing the whole congregation muſt agree to him that ſpeaketh, and witneſs this their agreement; how ſhall they give their aſſent, or agreement, who know not what is ſpoken? The prayers and thankſgivings to God which are made publikly in the Church,ought to be made and offered there with one heart and mind, and ſpirit of the whole congregation, which is impoſſible to be done, if they do not all of them underſtand the meaning.

how ſhall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned]That is,the common vulgar people, who it is like ſate in the holy aſſemblies in a diſtinct place from the Paſtours, and other Eccleſiaſtical perſons, ſuch as were thoſe alſo among the reſt that had this gift of tongues.

ſay Amen] How ſhall he joyn the bent of his deſires aſſenting, and intention to that which he hears and underſtands not? Amen is an adverb of aſſenting and wiſhing: it cometh from a root in Hebrew ſignifying truth and aſſurance, and is uſed in the concluſion of prayers, Rom. 15. 33. and elſe-where, thereby to declare the conſenting to that which is prayed, and a deſire that it may be fulfilled.

V. 20. be ye children] See Matth. 18.3.

men] Gr. perfect, or, of a ripe age.

V. 21. In the law it is written] See Iſa.28.11. That is, in the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament; as Joh.15. 25. the book of Pſalms: ſo here the prophecie of Eſay is compriſed under the word Law. The paſſage it ſelf containing a reproof of the peoples wilful dulneſs is here applyed for ſome reſemblance it hath to the preſent purpoſe, viz. that like as God never left to propound and declare his Word unto his people, (ſee Iſa.28.11.) although they made themſelves uncapable of underſtanding it to their ſalvation,thereby to convince them,and as it were to ſeal up their condemnation: ſo alſo when the ſame is brought to any without being underſtood, it is a ſign God is not pleaſed to make the ſame a means of converſion, and illumination, but of conviction as towards obdurate unbeleevers.

other tongues, and other lips, will I ſpeak] Gr.Tec.lips of other. By men of ſtrange and unknown language will I ſpeak. Foraſmuch then as God doth make uſe of unknown tongues and languages for a puniſhment,it is not fit the ſame ſhould be uſed in congregations without interpreting them, in regard that otherwiſe it would ſerve more for a puniſhment than the edification of the hearers.

V. 25. the ſecrets of his heart] That is,his falſe perſwaſions of God, and wicked luſts and deſires, ſhall be diſcovered and convinced by the Word.

V. 26. how is it then] Gr. what is.

V. 27. by two, or at the moſt by three] He ſetteth down the manner how to uſe the gift of tongues, it may be lawful for one or two,or at the moſt for three, to uſe the gift of tongues one after another in an aſſembly, ſo that there be ſome to expound the ſame,but if there be none to expound, let him that hath that gift ſpeak to himſelf alone, and to God in his private prayers.

V. 31. comforted] Or, admoniſhed.

V. 32. the ſpirits of the Prophets are ſubject to the Prophets] Theſe words according to a diverſe reference may have a diverſe ſenſe, if they have reference to verſ.29.let the Prophets ſpeak by two,or at the moſt by three,& let the others judge;then the meaning is,that the doctrine of every Prophet ought to be ſubject unto the examination and cenſure of the other Prophets, and therefore every Prophet may ſpeak in publick, to the end that he may be diſcerned and approved by the reſt. For although theſe prophecies were infuſed by the Holy Spirit, that cannot erre, yet all things are not always revealed to one, and that which is not revealed to one, is oftentimes revealed to more, and ſometimes in a clearer manner. There might be alſo ſomething mingled with that which the Prophets received, and it might ſo fall out, that that which they added of their own, by way of confirmation, illuſtration or application, might be juſtly ſubject to cenſure. Withal it muſt be tryed and judged by others,whether the prophecies proceed from the Inſpiration of the Holy Spirit,and according to the rule of faith, Eſay 8. 20. But if theſe words look not backward to the antecedents, but forwards to the conſequents, then the meaning is, that the ſpirit of the Prophets are ſo far ſubject to the Prophets, that when they are moved by the Holy Ghoſt to propheſie, they may deliver their propheſies preſently, or forbear the delivery of them for a time, as ſhall be moſt expedient for the Church, and ſo though more be inſpired at the ſame time, yet they may ſpeak orderly one after another.

V. 33. confuſion] Gr. tumult, or, unquietneſs.

V. 34. Let your women keep ſilence in the Churches] Gr. Tec. The women. See 1 Tim. 2. 12.

it is not permitted] Gr. it hath not been permitted.

law] See Gen. 3. 16.

V. 38. Let him be ignorant] The Church ought not to care for ſuch as be ſtubbornly ignorant,and will not abide to be taught, but to go forward notwithſtanding in thoſe things that are right.

V. 39. covet to propheſie] Gr. zealouſly deſire, or, ſeek to propheſie.

V. 40. Let all things be done decently, &c.] Gr. Tec. But let. Although ſome conceive that the precept of decency hath reference to the habits of men and women ſpoken of before, and that of order to the uſe of ſpiritual gifts, that both they which ſpeak with tongues and propheſie,do it in that order the Apoſtle preſcribeth, verſ.27,29. Yet it is more probable, that the Apoſtle here delivereth a general Rule, by which all things which belong to the polity of the Church are to be regulated. Let all things that are done in the aſſemblies, whether praying and preaching,or adminiſtration of the Sacraments, or exerciſing Eccleſiaſtical diſcipline, be done decently; that is, in a ſeemly and fit manner, and alſo orderly without confuſion, every thing in its proper ſeaſon, time, and place.

CHAP. XV.

Verſ.2. K*Eep in memory*] Or, hold faſt.

what I preached unto you] The Greek τίνι λόγω,ſignifieth as well quâ ratione vel quomodo;after what manner, as well with what words; and the meaning is, either how in expreſs and direct words I preached unto you the doctrine of the reſurrection, or, after what manner I preached,that is,how powerfully; not onely proving it by forcible arguments, but alſo confirming it by ſigns and wonders.

V.3. which I alſo received] Either immediatly from Chriſt when he was wrapt up into the third heaven,or from thoſe who were themſelves eye-witneſſes of theſe things.

according to the Scriptures] See Iſa.53.5,6. &c.

V. 4. according to the Scriptures] See Pſal.16.10.

V. 5. And that he was ſeen of Cephas] See Joh.20.19.

then of the twelve] In ſome Copies it is the eleven, and when this viſion was,there were but eleven,for Judas before this had hung himſelf,and Matthias was not choſen, till after Chriſts aſcenſion. The anſwer is, that by a Synecdoche eleven might be here meant by twelve, becauſe thoſe pick'd and choſen men known by the name of Apoſtles,were at the firſt twelve,and commonly called the twelve. In like manner, Gen. 42. 13. it is ſaid, Thy ſervants are twelve brethren, the ſons of one man; yet in the ſame verſe it is added, One is not: ſo here they are called twelve Apoſtles,though at this viſion one was wanting.

V. 8. And laſt of all he was ſeen of me alſo] See Acts 9. 4. Chap. 9. 1.

one born out of due time] The Greek word ἐκτρώματι, ſignifieth an abortive,whereby the Apoſtle implyeth, that he was new-born to Chriſt after the deſcending of the Holy Ghoſt, whereas the other Apoſtles were born again unto Chriſt, and called before the ſending down of the Holy Ghoſt. Or, he alludeth to the manner of his converſion,and new-birth, which was not without violence, Acts 9. as for the moſt part abortive children are not onely born out of their due time,but ſome violence is uſed to bring them forth.

V.14. And your faith is alſo vain] Either void of truth,or of fruit,and profit. For if Chriſt be not riſen as we have preached unto you, then you do vainly to beleeve us, and this your faith will do you no good at all.

V. 17. Ye are yet in your ſins] Gr.Tec. and ye. Seeing death is the puniſhment of ſin, in vain ſhould we beleeve that our ſins are forgiven us, if they remain, and we are ſtill guilty of them: but they remain and we are guilty of them, if Chriſt roſe not from the dead. For we are juſtified by his reſurrection, Rom. 4. 25. If Chriſt then had continued ſtill in death, his death would have proved uneffectual, for the expiation of ſin, and for the conquering of death in his members, which he had not conquered in himſelf.

V. 19. we are of all men moſt miſerable] In regard that Chriſtians do not onely forſake the pleaſures of this world, and are ſubject alſo for the profeſſion of the truth to a great many croſſes, tribulations and perſecutions: therefore ſhould there be no reſurrection, Chriſtians muſt needs be moſt miſerable. For then they ſhould enjoy no good nor comfort at all,neither here,nor hereafter, neither temporal, nor eternal. The ground of this argument is this, that the perfect felicity of the ſoul, and immortality thereof, are by Gods order inſeparable from the reſurrection of the bodies, wherefore he that denies the one, overthrowes alſo the other. See Matth. 25.32.

V. 20. the firſt fruits of them that ſlept] See Coloſſ.1.18. Rev.1.5. Chriſt in his reſurrection is fitly compared to the firſt fruits, not onely becauſe he firſt roſe from the earth (as the firſt fruits do that ſpring out of the ground) and preſented himſelf to his Father, the very day that the firſt fruits were to be offered according to the Law; but becauſe that as by the offering of the firſt fruits unto God, the reſt were ſanctified, Deut. 26. 1. Rom. 11. 16. ſo by Chriſts reſurrection, all the faithful that die in the Lord, are ſanctified unto him, and aſſured of their reſurrection. If it be objected, that others were raiſed from death before Chriſt, and therefore he cannot be called the firſt fruits of the dead. I anſwer, firſt, that if he were not the firſt in time, yet he was the firſt in dignity that ever roſe. Secondly, that none ever roſe but by his power, and the virtue and merit of his reſurrection. Thirdly, that he was the firſt that ever roſe to a bleſſed and immortal life. Other dead were raiſed before him; mortui ſuſcitati ſunt, ſed iterum morituri: raiſed for a time to life, but afterwards dying again; none before Chriſt ſo roſe from the dead, that he dyed no more, nor had death any more power over him. Here it is not to be omitted, that thoſe who in the former verſes are called dead, after the mentioning of Chriſts reſurrection are termed them that ſlept, becauſe ſuch is the virtue of Chriſts reſurrection, that it changeth the nature of death in all his members, and turns it into a ſweet ſleep: and therefore the Church-yards, in which the faithful are buried, were by the Ancients termed κοιμητήρια, dormitories, or dortories, reſting or ſleeping places.

V. 21. For ſince by man came death] Chriſt is to be conſidered as oppoſite to Adam, in reſpect of the contrary effects which the ſin of the one, and the merits of the other produced; that as from one man Adam, ſin came over all, becauſe by nature all were born of him; ſo from one man Chriſt, life cometh unto all; that is to ſay, all that are faithful, becauſe in Chriſt they are made the children of God by grace, and are quickned and reſtored to life by him.

V. 23. every man in his own order] See 1 Theſſ. 4. 15.

V. 24. delivered up the Kingdom to God] Chriſt hath a double Kingdom; 1. Eſſential, as God, and this Chriſt poſſeſſeth with his Father and the Spirit for ever. 2. Oeconomical, as Mediatour betwixt God and Man; and this Kingdom which he received from his Father, he ſhall ſurrender up again to his Father after he hath ſubdued ſin and death, and put all his enemies under his feet.

put down all rule] Or, made fruſtrate, or, taken away. That is, all his enemies, which ſhall be ſpoyled of all the power they have.

V. 25. till he hath put, &c.] See Pſal. 110. 1.

V. 27. hath put all things, &c.] See Pſal. 8. 6.

V. 28. then ſhall the Son alſo himſelf be ſubject unto him] As man in reſpect of his myſtical body, the Son ſhall be ſubject to his Father, not as if he were not ſubject to his Father before, but becauſe then in the ſight of men and Angels by making a ſurrender of his Kingdom, he ſhall moſt manifeſtly declare his ſubjection to his Father. See Epiphan. hæreſ. 69. & Origen. hom. 7. in c. 10. Levit. & Auguſt. lib. 1. de Trin. c. 8. And becauſe his myſtical body, that is to ſay, the Church; which is here in diſtreſs, and as yet not wholly partaker of his glory, is not fully perfect; and alſo becauſe the bodies of the Saints which lye in the grave, ſhall not be glorified till the reſurrection; but Chriſt as he is God hath us ſubject to him, as his Father hath; but as he is a Prieſt he is ſubject to his Father together with us.

that God may be all in all] By this kind of ſpeech is ſet forth the incomprehenſible glory, which floweth from God and ſhall fill all of us as we are joyned together to our head; but yet ſo, that our head ſhall always reſerve his preheminency.

V. 29. Elſe what ſhall they do, which are baptized for the dead] Or, over the dead. This being one of the moſt difficult paſſages in all the Epiſtles of Saint Paul, it will not be unprofitable to the Reader, to have a Synopſis or joynt view of all the Interpretations that have been yet given which carry any probability with them. Firſt, ſome tranſlate the words, waſh over the dead. For ſo the word baptiſm is taken, Mark 7. 4. Luke 11. 38. Heb. 9. 10. And we read, Acts 9. 37. that it was the manner of the faithful to waſh the dead, before they buried them. And this waſhing of the dead corps was done out of this conſideration; that the dead and vile body which they there waſhed ſhould one day be changed, and made like unto Chriſts glorious body. But neither will this Tranſlation ſtand with the phraſe in the Original, βαπτίζονται, not βαπτίζουσιν, which ſignifieth, are waſhed or baptized for, or over the dead, not who waſh the dead body. Neither could the Apoſtle draw any firm argument from this cuſtom of waſhing the dead bodies. For admit that it were not ſuperſtitious, but very commendable; yet it yeelds no ground of an argument for the reſurrection. For divers of the heathen both waſhed and imbalmed the bodies of the dead; yet had no faith at all of the reſurrection. So the faithful might out of honour or reſpect to their friends deceaſed uſe the like ceremony, without any relation at all to the future reſurrection. Secondly, others tranſlate the words Baptizantur ſuper mortuos, which are baptized over the dead, or upon the dead, and they frame the Apoſtles reaſon after this manner: If there be no reſurrection of the dead, why do ſome of you chooſe to be baptized upon the graves of the dead, rather than in other places, but for a more ſpecial teſtimony of their faith in the reſurrection, and of their charitable opinion that thoſe who were there buried ſhould receive a glorious reſurrection? But neither do they bring any good proof that in the days of the Apoſtles the Chriſtians adminiſtred baptiſm at the Sepulchres of the dead, but rather they baptized in places where was much water, John 3. 23. Act. 8. 38. Neither would ſuch a cuſtom of adminiſtring Baptiſm infer the reſurrection of the dead. For they might chuſe thoſe places for their holy meetings, to preſerve the memory of the dead, and honour the Martyrs, and to warm, as it were, their zeal, and devotion at their embers. Thirdly, others tranſlating the words as we do; What ſhall they do which are baptized for the dead? conceive that the Apoſtle hath regard not to a common rite in the Church, but to a particular cuſtom of ſome, whereof there is mention made in antiquity, both by S. Ambroſe, and Tertullian, which was, that if any one died in the confeſſion of the faith of Chriſt, before he came to be baptized, ſome of his friends or kindred coming to be baptized, received baptiſme both in his own name and alſo in the name of ſuch an one whom he did teſtifie to have dyed in the faith of Chriſt, to the end that the Church might alſo regiſter the ſame among the faithful, that had departed this life, from whence they were wont to pray in publick, that God would grant them a happy reſurrection. From this cuſtom the Apoſtle (ſay they) draweth his argument on this manner; It were in vain for any among you to be baptized for your dead friends, if they ſhall never riſe again. But againſt this interpretation many things may be objected: Firſt, though it be certain that ſome ancient Hereticks had ſuch a cuſtom, yet there is no proof at all that among the Corinthians in Saint Pauls time there was any ſuch cuſtom. Secondly, ſuppoſing there had been ſuch a cuſtom, and Saint Paul might well uſe an argument ad hominem, and wound them who uſed it with their own weapon; yet it is not probable that the Apoſtle would draw an argument from ſuch a ſuperſtitious and unwarrantable cuſtom, for ſo main an article of our Chriſtian faith as is the reſurrection of the dead: or if he thought good to convince ſome of the Corinthians who denyed the reſurrection out of a practice of their own, though erroneous; yet he would have laid ſome kind of aſperſion and tax upon it, and not have alleaged it as a thing lawful and warrantable without any diſlike at all of it. Thirdly, if it were granted that this cuſtom were as ancient as S. Pauls days, and warrantable alſo; yet it doth nothing at all conduce to S. Pauls end, who had undertaken the proof of the reſurrection of the body. For they who uſe ſuch a cuſtom might eaſily have anſwered, We do not baptize living men in the name and in the behalf of the dead for any other reſpect, than for the ſalvation of their ſouls, and what is that to the reſurrection of their body? Fourthly, others render the words, What ſhall they do which are baptized for dead; or, as dead; and thus they gather the Apoſtles argument: his intent was to prove the reſurrection, hereto he imployeth baptiſm, which as it is ſaid, in thoſe days was celebrated by dipping and plunging the whole body in water, in token that we are in death; and the coming forth of the water repreſenteth the reſurrection: the argument then is drawn ab abſurdo: this ſign were in vain and abſurd if there were no reſurrection. For to what end are men baptized for dead, or as dead, to repreſent unto us what we be in death, to wit, the death of ſin, and ſhall be raiſed from thence to newneſs of life, if there be no hope of the reſurrection of the body? for this firſt reſurrection ſhould be to little purpoſe, if the ſecond ſhould not one day follow. But neither is this interpretation free from juſt exception; for though baptiſm have relation to the reſurrection, as S. Paul teacheth, Rom. 6. 4. and S. Jerome ſaith truly, Non ſolùm propter remiſſionem peccatorum baptizamur, ſed etiam propter reſurrectionem carnis noſtræ. And S. Ambroſe, per regenerationem corpora noſtra reſurrectionis gloriæ inaugurantur; yet this cannot be S. Pauls meaning. For then he would not have ſaid, What ſhall they do which are baptized for dead? but, what ſhall we do who are all baptized as for dead; or being in death, to be raiſed up from thence by the power of baptiſm? Beſides, although in Engliſh and Latine pro mortuis, and for dead; may carry ſuch a meaning; yet the Greek ὑπὲρ τῶν νεκρῶν, cannot carry that ſenſe; ὑπὲρ is never taken for tanquam: but it muſt of neceſſity be rendred either for the dead, or over the dead; not thoſe that are baptized for dead, that is, as dead men. There remaineth yet one interpretation which ſeemeth to be moſt agreeable to the ſcope of the Apoſtle, and the antecedents and conſequents. The interpretation is this, If there be no reſurrection of the dead, what ſhall they do, that is, what ſhall become of them, in what miſerable condition are they who are baptized, viz. with their own bloud, and not onely ſuffer grievous torments, but even death it ſelf for the dead? that is, for the cauſe or quarrel of the dead; or inſtead of the dead, for whoſe ſake they chuſe rather to ſuffer death, than they would detect them to the heathen; or betray them into the hands of their bloudy perſecutors; or who willingly undergo the baptiſm of bloud for the faith of them that are now dead, and in ſpecial for maintaining this very Article of the reſurrection of the dead: for which, as Saint Paul, Act. 23. 6. ſo many hundreds of Chriſtians more were called in queſtion, put to tortures, and perſecuted even to death. The force of this argument of the Apoſtle is very evident, and it well agreeth with the argument that enſueth, Why ſtand we in jeopardy every hour? and I proteſt by your rejoycing which I have in Chriſt, I die daily; and If I have fought with beaſts at Epheſus after the manner of men, what advantageth it me if the dead riſe not at all? As for the word baptizing, it is not only ſo taken moſt frequently by the Fathers and School-men, who uſually diſtinguiſh baptiſm into baptiſma flaminis, fluminis & ſanguinis, of the Spirit, Water, and Bloud; but alſo in ſundry places of Scripture, as Matt.

20. 22.

20. 22. Mark 10. 38, 39. Luke 12. 50. I have a baptiſme to be baptized with, and how am I ſtraitned till it be accompliſhed ?

V. 31. by your rejoycing] Some read our. It is a kinde of moſt vehement aſſeveration, after the manner of an oath ; as if he ſhould have ſaid, As true as my principal joy and glory in this world is in the bleſſing of God upon my miniſtery towards you.

I die daily] That is, death hangeth over me continually, and I do daily prepare my ſelf for it : or I am not onely in danger of my life every day, but am continually aſſaulted with ſo many croſſes and tribulations that my life is rather a continual death, than a life unto me, 2 Cor. 11. 23. & deinceps.

V. 32. If after the manner of men] Or, to ſpeak after the manner of men. Either the meaning is, if to ſpeak after the manner of men, that is, if I may now take the privilege to ſay ſomething of my ſelf, as men do in the like caſe, or if I have fought according to man, that is, as men led by nothing but that which is humane, to wit, vain-glory and ſome other worldly reſpect, not looking by faith at the reſurrection, and at God the rewarder of thoſe that ſuffer for him at that day: If I ſhould thus have expoſed my ſelf unto ſo apparent danger of death, what benefit would it have been unto me ? Or, laſtly, the meaning may be, If I have fought with beaſts after the manner of men ; that is, in ſuch ſort as if they had been men, and my Antagoniſts.

fought with beaſts at Epheſus] Either the words are ſpoken figuratively, and by beaſts he meaneth beaſtly minded men, ſuch as the Cretians were, whom he calleth evil beaſts and ſlow bellies ; Tit. 1. 12. and ſuch as Ignatius ſaith he fought withal from Syria to Rome, Θηριομαχῶ οὐχ ὑπὸ τῶν ἀλόγων βιβρωσκόμενος ἀλλ' ὑπὸ ἀνθρωπομόρφων, not being bitten, ſaith he, by brute beaſts, but by ſavage creatures in the ſhape of men. Or the words may be taken properly, as Chryſoſtome, Ambroſe, and others underſtand the words : and Nicephorus in his ſecond book of Eccleſiaſtical hiſtory, cap. 25. reporteth it literally ; for certain it is, that the Chriſtians were often damnati ad beſtias, and it was an uſual ſpeech in Tertullians days, Chriſtianos ad Leones : and this literal interpretation affords a ſtronger argument for the reſurrection, which is the ſcope of the text, and better ſorteth with his former arguments, than if we underſtand the words of a metaphorical fight.

let us eat and drink] See Iſa. 22. 13. That is, let us take our fill of our pleaſures, for after death we can take none : theſe are the ſpeeches of Epicures : the like we find in Anacreon, τὸ δ' αὔριον τις οἶδε ; and mors aurem vellens, Vivite, ait, venio. This Atheiſtical ſpeech of theirs the Apoſtle reproveth in the words following, ſaying, Be not deceived, refuting the verſe of one Poet, by the verſe of another Poet, to wit, Menander ; according to whoſe example Arnobius and Lactantius, and many other of the ancient Fathers refell the heathen by the teſtimonies of the better ſort of the heathen, both Philoſophers, Oratours, and Poets.

V. 34. to righteouſneſs] Gr. righteouſly.

V. 36. Thou fool, that which thou ſoweſt] Thou mighteſt have learned either of theſe, ſaith Paul, (if thou hadſt not befooled thy ſelf) by daily experience : for ſeeds are ſown and rot, and yet notwithſtanding they are ſo far from periſhing thereby, that contrariwiſe they grow up far more beautiful ; and whereas they are ſown naked, they ſpring up green and freſh : and doth it ſeem incredible to thee that our bodies ſhould riſe from corruption, and that with far more excellent qualities than they had before ?

V. 38. But God giveth it a body] We ſee diverſity both in one and the ſelf-ſame thing, which hath now one form, then another, and yet keepeth his own kinde ; as it is evident in a ſeed or grain, which is ſown bare, but ſpringeth up after another ſort ; and alſo in divers kinds of one ſelf-ſame ſort, as among beaſts ; as alſo among things of divers ſorts, as the heavenly bodies and the earthly, which alſo differ very much one from another ; therefore there is no cauſe why we ſhould reject either the reſurrection of the bodies, or the changing of them into a better eſtate as a thing impoſſible or ſtrange.

V. 42. So alſo is the reſurrection of the dead] He maketh three manners of qualities of the body being raiſed ; firſt incorruption, becauſe they ſhall be ſound and altogether of a nature that cannot be corrupt ; ſecondly glory, becauſe they ſhall be adorned with beauty and honour : thirdly power, becauſe they ſhall continue everlaſting without meat, drink, and all other helps, without which this frail life cannot keep it ſelf from corruption.

V. 44. It is ſown a natural body] Gr. an animale. The Greek word is not φυσικὸν, but ψυχικὸν, not a natural body, but word for word an animale, or a ſoul-body, that is, ſuch a body as is quickned and maintained by ſuch a living ſoul onely as Adams was, of whom we all are born naturally ; of a ſoul which ſtandeth in need of the bodies help and refection, by eating, drinking, breathing, and the like ; being thus animated thereby, as other living creatures are ; a ſoul which produceth no other effect in the body, but onely an earthly mutable and mortal life, not able to ſave it from ſickneſs, age, conſumption and death ; much leſs able to reſtore it to life again after it hath loſt it.

it is raiſed a ſpiritual body] Not in reſpect of ſubſtance, or being : but by reaſon of thoſe qualities which the glorified body ſhall partake of ; that is, that beſides the life which they have by their ſouls, they ſhall be ſuſtained without any bodily means, and kept in an eternal, incorruptible, bleſſed and glorious life, by the ſupernatural virtue of the holy Spirit, infuſed into them by Jeſus Chriſt. Or, by a ſpiritual body, as ſome of the Ancients affirm, he meaneth a body free from carnal deſires, being wholly ſubject to, and ruled by the Spirit.

a natural body] Gr. an animale.

V. 45. was made a living ſoul] Gr. into a living ſoul. See Gen. 2. 7. To be ſuch a creature as ſhould live a bodily and animale life here by virtue of the ſoul, wherein lieth the fountain of this life, while it is joyned with the body : but yet can by no means of it ſelf confer the divine and ſpiritual life, nor make that its union with the body ſhould remain indiſſoluble, nor joyn the ſame again being once diſſolved.

a quickning ſpirit] Gr. into a quickning ſpirit. The laſt Adam, that is, Jeſus Chriſt the head of all the elect, is ordained by God to be the fountain and author of a ſpiritual and eternal life, by the communication of his Spirit, which reſtoreth life unto the dead, and conſerveth it in them perpetually. As he now after his reſurrection hath a ſpiritual body himſelf, immortal and incorruptible ; (Phil. 3. 21.) ſo alſo ſhall he give the like bodies to all ſuch as deſcend from him, not by way of any natural propagation, but by a ſpiritual regeneration : for each Adam doth communicate to his off-ſpring ; the one by nature, the other by grace, that which he hath of his own.

V. 46. The Lord from heaven] The meaning is not, that Chriſt brought his body from heaven, as Adam received his body from the earth, but as Johns baptiſm is ſaid to be from heaven, though neither he nor the water wherewith he baptized deſcended from heaven ; but becauſe he received it from God who is in heaven : ſo alſo Chriſt our Lord according to his humane nature is ſaid to be from heaven, becauſe his humane nature was formed by the holy Ghoſt, and united to the Divine, and in this regard his generation was divine and heavenly.

V. 50. Now] Or, But.

that fleſh and bloud cannot inherit the kingdom of God] Some underſtand by fleſh and bloud carnal men and ſuch as walk after the fleſh ; and though it be true that ſuch men without repentance and a change of their life ſhall never enter into heaven : yet if we well conſider the antecedents and conſequents, that cannot be the meaning of the Apoſtle in this place ; but rather this, ſuch fleſh and bloud as ours is now, maintained by corporal meats and drinks of a mortal and corruptible nature, cannot inherit the kingdom of God, for it followeth, neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

V. 51. We ſhall not all ſleep, &c.] Thoſe that ſhall be alive at Chriſts coming ſhall not ſleep, that is, die after the manner of other men, and reſt in their graves for a time, and then be raiſed up afterward, yet they ſhall be changed, that is, their corruptibility and mortality ſhall be changed into incorruptibility and immortality.

V. 52. at the laſt trump] Or, in the. See Matt. 24. 31. 1 Theſ. 4. 16. Some by the laſt trump underſtand the voice of the Archangel, or Chriſts proclamation for the raiſing of the dead : but it ſeems more probable, that as the people of God were aſſembled in their ſolemn feaſts and faſts by the ſound of a Trumpet ; and as on Mount Sinai the Law was delivered with a moſt loud and dreadful ſound, ſo alſo the ſummons of all the dead ſhall be with ſome ſuch ſound, which is here called the laſt trump ; not as ſome popiſh Divines conceive, becauſe it was the ſeventh Trumpet of thoſe that are mentioned in the Revelation ; for the Revelation was written divers years after Saint Pauls death : and therefore it is not likely he alludeth to any of thoſe Trumpets there mentioned ; but becauſe after it no Trumpet ſhould ever be ſounded.

V. 54. Death is ſwallowed up, &c.] See Iſaiah 25. 8. Hoſea 13. 14.

in victory] Or, into victory.

V. 55. O death, where is thy ſting] This a ſong of triumph ſung by the Apoſtle, raviſhed as it were, at the contemplation of the conqueſt of death, and it ſeemeth to be taken out of the Prophet Hoſea 13. 14.

O grave] Or, hell. The word in the Original ſignifieth grave, or hell ; but it ſhould ſeem that here principally the grave is meant ; foraſmuch as the Apoſtle treateth here of the abolition of temporal death.

V. 56. The ſting of death is ſin] That is, ſin armeth death againſt us, and is as it were the weapon, whereby we receive our deaths wound.

and the ſtrength of ſin is the law] That is, by virtue of the law ſin bringeth men to death and condemnation, for ſin is neither known nor imputed to us but by the law : and when the law forbiddeth ought, our corrupt and carnal nature is provoked thereby the more to deſire and luſt after it, Rom. 5. 13.

57. through] Or, by.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſ. 2. UPon the firſt day of the week] Gr. one of the Sabbaths. Gr. Tec. one of the week. In the Original one day, an Hebraiſme; ſee the like expreſſion, Gen. 1. 5. Dan. 9. 1. Matth. 28. 1. Luke 24. 1. one day of the Sabbaths. Whereby oftentimes the whole week is ſignified, as Mark. 16. 9. John 20. 1. Therefore the Greek Scholiaſt well rendreth μίαν τῶν σαββάτων, τὴν κυριακὴν, the Lords Day, on which the Apoſtles were wont to keep their aſſemblies, Joh. 20. 19. Acts 20. 7. which S. John, Rev. 1. 10. calleth κυριακὴν, the Lords Day, becauſe it was the day on which he roſe from the dead; and it was by the Church peculiarly dedicated to his honour. Or it is ſo called, as the Sacrament is called cœna Dominica, and the Lords Prayer oratio Dominica, becauſe the Lord inſtituted the one, and commanded the other; When we pray, ſay, Our Father, &c. Luke 11. 2. For ſo Athanaſius ſaith expreſly, ὁ κύριος μετέθηκε τὴν σάββατον εἰς κυριακὴν, our Lord tranſlated the Sabbath to the Lords Day; whether he did this immediately by himſelf, or by his Apoſtles inſpired by him, all comes to one. See Hilar. Prolog. in Pſal. Nos octavâ die quæ E. ipſa prima eſt, perfecti Sabbati feſtivitate lætamur.

by him in ſtore] In the Original, gathering a treaſure. That is, by little and little, every Lords day adding ſomething to make up a gift worthy the ſending: or it may be the Apoſtle in the uſe of that phraſe would imply, that by this collection for the poor, they ſhall gather treaſure in heaven, Matth. 6. 20.

as God hath proſpered him] The original is, εὐοδῶται, which ſignifieth properly a happy journey or voyage, and by a figure is taken for any kinde of proſperity or welfare; and the Apoſtles meaning is, that every one ought to lay by and contribute according as the Lord hath bleſſed him, 2 Cor. 8. 12.

be no gatherings when I come] Which will not be ſo convenient on the ſudden, nor ſo beneficial for the poor.

V. 3. your liberality unto Jeruſalem] Gr. gift. In the Original it is τὴν χάριν ὑμῶν, that is, your grace, or free gift, which word he uſeth rather than ἐλεημοσύνην, your alms, becauſe this was a kinde of holy offering to the Saints, and not a work of ordinary charity towards the poor: and hereby alſo he ſignifieth that this their pious and bountiful inclination to contribute to the Saints, was an effect of Gods grace in the Corinthians, as is expreſly affirmed, 2 Cor. 8. 1, 2. We do you to wit of the grace of God beſtowed upon the Churches of Macedonia, becauſe in great trial of affliction their joy abounded, and their extream povertie abounded to their rich liberalitie.

V. 7. by my way] Gr. in my paſſage.

but I truſt to tarry] Gr. Tec. for I hope to tarry.

V. 9. For a great door and effectual is opened unto me] A great occaſion or opportunity of doing much good in my miniſtery. For Epheſus was a City very much frequented, as well in regard of the famous Temple of Diana there, as alſo diverſe Schools and Nurceries of Learning: or the Apoſtle may intimate that ſome great advantage was given to the Goſpel by the converſion of ſome men or women of prime note in that City.

and there are many adverſaries] Where there is the greateſt opportunity offered of doing good, there the devil and his inſtruments are buſieſt to ſtop and hinder it. For, as Saint Chryſoſtome well obſerveth, He beſtirreth himſelf moſt where he is like to loſe moſt; and no marvel that the Goſpel findeth many enemies, ſince Truth is a ſtranger upon earth; and Chriſt is ſet for the fall and riſe of many, and for a ſign which ſhall be ſpoken againſt, Luke 2. 34.

V. 15. I beſeech you brethren] Gr. but, or, now I beſeech you brethren.

addicted themſelves to] Or, appointed themſelves for.

V. 16. That ye ſubmit your ſelves unto ſuch] Or, be ſubject unto. That you honour and reverence them and be obedient unto them, and be content to be led by them as being my fellow-labourers, and ſuch as have beſtowed themſelves and their goods to help you withal. Heb. 13. 17.

V. 18. acknowledge ye them that are ſuch] That is, take them for ſuch men as they are indeed; or ſhew your ſelves thankful unto them both in my ſelf and your own.

V. 20. Greet ye one another] See Rom. 16. 16.

with an holy kiſs] Not with an hypocritical kiſs as Judas, nor out of a carnal affection, as Prov. 7. 13. but expreſs your unfeigned love unto them as they are called to be Saints and fellow-members of one holy myſtical body, whereof Chriſt is the head. See Rom. 16. 16.

V. 22. love not] That is, out of meer malice and deſperate hatred oppoſeth Chriſt and his Goſpel. It is delivered by a Meioſis, or figurative ſpeech, whereby leſs is ſpoken, and more implied, being a crime of that horrid nature, as the Apoſtle was loth to expreſs it. 1 Kings 21. 10.

anathema, Maran-atha] The former word is Greek, ſignifying accurſed, Rom. 9. 3. Gal. 1. 8. the latter is a Syriack word, ſignifying our Lord cometh. For Maran is our Lord, and atha cometh. It is a word uſed in the greateſt excommunication among the Chriſtians, implying that they ſummoned the excommunicated before the dreadful Tribunal at the laſt coming of the Son of God. See Jude 14, 15. Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thouſands of his Saints, to execute judgement upon all, &c. Others expound it thus. Let him be accurſed even till the coming of the Lord to his deaths day, even for ever. This dreadful kinde of excommunication which the Apoſtle here calleth Maran-atha, the Jews called Sammatha, Sam ſignifying the name of God Tetragrammaton, or Jehovah, and atha venit, he cometh. Others, from Sam ſignifying there, and mitha mors, their death. Now the Apoſtle thundereth out this dreadful ſentence of excommunication here againſt the wilful oppoſers of the Goſpel and impenitent haters of Chriſt, not out of any evil paſſion of minde, but out of an Apoſtolical ſpirit and holy zeal.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE CORINTHIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THe occaſion of writing this ſecond Epiſtle was, to vindicate his Miniſtery from contempt, and his Perſon from divers imputations laid upon him, by the falſe Apoſtles: And to this end, he profeſſeth his ſincere affection to the Corinthians, and faithful carriage in the whole courſe of his Miniſtery; and being inforced thereunto, he relates at large both his ſufferings for Chriſt, and the Viſions and Revelations he received from him.

The Epiſtle conſiſteth of

1. An excuſe of himſelf for not coming to them according to promiſe, Chap. 1.
2. A deprecation for the inceſtuous perſon, (who had been excommunicated) that he might be reſtored again to the Church, Chap. 2.
3. A juſtification of his Miniſtery againſt the calumnies of falſe Teachers, Chap. 3, 4, 5.
4. An Exhortation to Chriſtian duties in general, Chap. 7. And in particular, to a liberal contribution to the poor Saints at Jeruſalem, Chap. 8, 9.
5. A conteſtation with his emulous adverſaries, and a commemoration of his manifold trials, and the happy iſſue of them, Chap. 10, 11, 12.
6. A denunciation of ſeverity, and the power of his Apoſtleſhip againſt obſtinate ſinners, Chap. 13.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd Timothy* our brother] Not according to the fleſh, for we read not that Timothy was of kin to S. Paul; but brother in Chriſt in the profeſſion of the Goſpel, and brother alſo in the Miniſtery of the Word, being Saint Pauls companion, and fellow labourer in the office, of an Apoſtle and Evangeliſt.

at Corinth] Gr. in Corinth.

with all the Saints] All who embrace the holy profeſſion of Chriſtians, who were admitted into the Church which is the communion of Saints, who attend upon the holy ordinances of God, and follow after peace and holineſs, without which no man ſhall ſee God. The Greek Scholiaſt noteth, that he uſeth not the word, ὅσιος, but ἅγιος, ἐμφαίνων ὅτι τὶς γεώδης ἐκτὸς ἐστι ταύτης τῆς προσηγορίας, not holy, but unearthly, whereby all thoſe among the Corinthians that were earthly minded, and ſought not the things that are above, but the things that are below, are excluded out of the Apoſtles ſalutation.

V. 3. bleſſed be God] See Epheſ. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3. God is eſſentially bleſſed, and cannot be made bleſſed or happy by us: this phraſe therefore ſignified no more than praiſed be God: in the Original, εὐλόγητος, that is word for word, let God be well ſpoken of. God bleſſeth us really, but we bleſs God but verbally, by lauding and magnifying him: or at the moſt, mentally. For as the kingly Prophet profeſſeth, Pſal. 16. 2. our goodneſs extendeth not to him. The Apoſtle here beginneth with thankſgiving, which notwithſtanding otherwiſe than he was wont, he applieth to himſelf; begining his Epiſtle with the ſetting forth of the dignity of his Apoſtleſhip, conſtrained as it ſhould ſeem thereunto by their importunity, who took occaſion to deſpiſe him, by reaſon of his great croſſes and afflictions: but he anſwereth, that he is not ſo afflicted, but that his comforts do exceed his afflictions, ſhewing the ground of them, even the mercy of God, the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

the Father of mercies] Though judgements proceed from God, as well as mercies, yet he is not in Scripture any where called the Father of judgements, as he is here, the Father of mercies: becauſe mercy and compaſſion ariſeth meerly from himſelf, and he delighteth in it, Mich. 7. 18. but our ſins are the cauſe why he inflicteth any judgments upon us. And it is further here to be noted, for the comfort of all thoſe that grone under any heavy croſs, or ſuffer conflicts with deſperation it ſelf, that the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt is the Father alſo of mercy, and not of mercy onely in the ſingular number, but of mercies in the plurall, and which is yet more, the God of all conſolation.

V. 4. Who comforteth us in all our tribulation] He ſaith not, who ſuffereth us not to be afflicted: for he knoweth that it is good for us to be afflicted, as the holy Prophet David profeſſeth; and Chriſt himſelf ſaith, As many as I love, I rebuke and chaſten: Reve. 3. 19. but who comforteth us in our afflictions.

that we may be able to comfort them] Oecumenius out of this paſſage rightly obſerveth the ſingular modeſty of the Apoſtle, who ſaith not, that he received comfort from God in thoſe tribulations which he ſuffered for the Goſpel, for his own ſake, becauſe his patience or diligence in his Miniſtery deſerved any ſuch conſolation; but that God afforded him thoſe comforts for the good of others, that he might be the better enabled to comfort them by thoſe cordials, which he received by the hand of his heavenly Phyſitian.

V. 5. For as the ſufferings of Chriſt abound in us] Gr. unto us. The afflictions and calamities which we ſuffer for Chriſt, or Chriſt ſuffereth in us his members.

V. 6. which is effectual in the enduring of the ſame ſufferings] Or, is wrought. Although ſalvation be given us freely: yet becauſe there is a way appointed to us, whereby we muſt come to it, which is the race of an innocent and upright life, which we muſt run, therefore we are ſaid to work out ſalvation: Phi. 2. 12. and becauſe it is God only that of his free good will worketh all things in us, therefore is he ſaid to work this ſalvation in us by the ſelf ſame things, by which we muſt paſs to everlaſting life, after that we have once overcome all incumbrances.

V. 8. For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant] He witneſſeth, that he is not only not aſhamed of his afflictions, but that he deſireth alſo to have all men know the greatneſs of them, as alſo his delivery from them, although it be not yet perfect.

which came to us in Aſia] Whether he mean by this affliction, the great oppoſition he found by thoſe many adverſaries mentioned by him, 1 Cor. 16. 9. or the great tumult at Epheſus by Demetrius and his fellow craftſmen, Act. 19. or ſome very dangerous ſickneſs wherewith he was viſited, it is not certain: but here he thought good to acquaint them with it, partly to ſhew his great love to them, in that he concealed nothing from them, which befel him: partly to ſtir them up to give God thanks for his great deliverance.

V. 9. the ſentence of death in our ſelves] Or, anſwer. We reſolved in our ſelves to die, or we gave our ſelves for dead, we were not onely paſt hope in other mens judgements, but even in our own.

V. 10. ſo great a death] He ſaith not, out of ſo great a danger, but ſo great a death, becauſe the danger was ſo great, that it was paſt mans help, or hope of delivery. He taketh the word death, as elſe-where, in deaths often. (2 Cor. 11. 23.) either for ſuch ſickneſs, or perſecutions in which there appeared no hope of eſcaping with life, or ſuch torments as were equivalent to the pangs of death.

V. 11. You alſo helping together by prayer for us] Gr. Tec. we alſo helping together by prayer for you. See Rom. 15. 30. That he may not ſeem to boaſt himſelf, he attributeth all to God, and withal acknowledgeth himſelf to be much indebted unto them for their prayers for him.

thanks may be given] The end of the afflictions of the Saints is the glory of God, and therefore they ought to be precious unto us.

V. 12. that in ſimplicity] Gr. Tec. purity. Here he putteth away another ſlander, to wit, that he was a light man, and inconſtant, ſeeing that he promiſed to come unto them, but brake his word and came not: and firſt he ſpeaketh of the ſimplicity of his minde, and plain and open dealing, which they knew by his ſpeech when he was preſent, and they ought alſo to acknowledge it in his letters being abſent; and moreover he proteſteth that he will never be otherways.

and godly ſincerity] Gr. and ſincerity of God. In the Original, it is the ſincerity of God, that is, ſuch ſincerity as is in the God of truth, who is always conſtant and immutable; or, ſincerity before God, or in the ſight of God, not feigned or hypocritical.

with fleſhly] Gr. in fleſhly.

by the grace] Gr. in the grace.

V. 13. or] Gr. Tec. and.

V. 14. that we are your rejoycing] Pauls rejoycing in the Lord, was that he had gained the Corinthians to the Lord, and they themſelves rejoyced, that they had ſuch an Apoſtle to be their inſtructor, who taught them ſo purely and ſincerely.

V. 15. a ſecond benefit] Or, grace. Some render a double joy, but the word is not, χαρὰν, but χάριν: and the Apoſtles meaning is, that they might reap a double fruit, both of his letters and of his preſence.

V. 17. purpoſe] Or, conſult.

be yea, yea, and nay, nay] Chriſt commandeth, Matt. 5. 37. that our communication be yea, yea, and nay, nay; neither doth the Apoſtle here contradict it, but his meaning is, that with him there was not yea, and nay, concerning the ſame thing, that he was not light and inconſtant in his words, as thoſe who affirm and deny with a breath, promiſing and not performing, and changing their purpoſe at every turning of the hand, but according to the ſaying of the Hebrews; etiam juſtorum eſt etiam, & eorum non eſt non, ſo his yea, was always yea, and his nay, nay, not his yea now, his nay at another time, nor his nay yea.

V. 18. true] Gr. faithful.

word] Or, preaching.

was not] Gr. Tec. is not.

V. 20. For all the promiſes of God in him are yea] God purpoſing to be glorified and perfectly acknowledged for his truth, in the accompliſhment of his promiſes in Chriſt, preached by us, hath withal given unto us the Apoſtles, ſuch an infallible guidance of his Spirit, that the truth of our preaching might anſwer to the truth of Chriſt his practice, even as himſelf did anſwer exactly by his performance unto the promiſes of God.

and in him Amen] Gr. Tec. therfore alſo they are by him Amen. As Chriſt is the ſame in Gods promiſes which are unchangeable, ſo are all ſuch promiſes touching our ſalvation, yea, that is, truth; and Amen, that is, aſſurance. For ſo much as God in the new covenant maketh no promiſes of ſalvation, nor fulfilleth any but in Chriſt, and by Chriſt.

unto the glory of God by us] Gr. to God for glory by us.

V. 21. hath anointed us] With the grace of his holy Spirit So Saint John alſo ſpeaketh, 1 John 2. 27. But the anointing which you have received of him abideth in you, and the ſame anointing teacheth you of all things.

V. 22. Who hath alſo ſealed us] He wrought the ſame in us, in regard of our Apoſtleſhip, by the virtue of the ſame Spirit, that ratifieth both in us and in all his faithful children, his vocation and election, by the grace of regeneration, ſigning us for his as with a ſeal, 2 Tim. 2. 19. and as by a pledge aſſuring us of our future inheritance.

earneſt of the Spirit] That is, the holy Spirit, which is unto us as an earneſt, whereby God aſſureth us, that he will pay as it were the whole ſum of his promiſes. For an earneſt is as a pledge, whereby we confirm a bargain, or a piece of money, whereby we aſſure the payment of the whole. The firſt gift therefore of the Spirit, and of life, is a pledge of our whole inheritance; Inſomuch, that this anointing, ſealing, and pledging, all ſerve to one and the ſame end.

V. 23. I call God for a record upon my ſoul] That is, againſt my ſelf, and to the danger of my own life. So the Hebrews ſay, to carry our ſoul in our hands, and Xenarchus in Athenaeus uſeth the ſame phraſe, ἐν τῇ χειρὶ τὴν ψυχὴν ἔχειν, whereby they ſignifie that the life is in great danger. This is then a deep adjuration, whereby the Apoſtle aſſureth them even by oath, that he did not onely not change his purpoſe of coming to them out of levitie, but rather that he came not to them for this cauſe, that he might not be conſtrained to deal more ſharply with them being preſent, than he would.

V. 24. Not for that we have dominion] He removeth all ſuſpition of arrogancy, declaring that he ſpeaketh not what he ſaid before as a Lord over them, but as a ſervant appointed of God to comfort them.

but are helpers of your joy] He ſetteth the joy and peace of conſcience, which God is the Author of, againſt tyrannous fear, and withall ſheweth the end of the Goſpel, which is peace and joy in the holy Ghoſt.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. I*N heavineſs*] Cauſing grief amongſt you, which he ſhould have done, if he had come unto them before they had repented them.

V. 4. not that you ſhould be grieved] The Apoſtle in ſharply reproving them, though he could not but make them ſorry, yet that was not his intent, but to ſhew his affectionate love towards them, and care of their ſalvation; that by ſorrowing after a godly manner they might receive ſpiritual conſolation. For as worldly joy ends in ſorrow, ſo godly ſorrow ends in joy; whence is that exhortation of Saint Jerome to the penitent, Doleat & de dolore gaudeat; Let him grieve, and rejoyce for ſuch grief.

V. 5. But in part: that I may not overcharge you all] Gr. overburthen. The words may carry different interpretations, either he hath not grieved me in my own particular, but as a part and member of the Church, whom that inceſtuous perſon hath offended: or he hath not wholly grieved me, as if you were all delinquents. For although before I knew of your deteſtation of his crime, I wrote unto you in general terms, 1 Cor. 5. 2. Ye are puffed up, and have not rather ſorrowed, that he which hath done this thing might be put from among you. Yet now ſince I have proof of your love and obedience, and you have cleared your ſelves by excommunicating him, I have cauſe to ſorrow but in part, onely for his ſake who was guilty, not for you all, who have cleared your ſelves that you are no upholders or maintainers of him.

V. 6. puniſhment] Or, cenſure.

of many] Gr. by.

V. 7. to forgive him, and comfort him] Or, gratifie. Releaſe him of the ſentence of excommunication, and receive him again into the Church, and upon his unfeigned tokens of repentance, miniſter a word of comfort to him, that he be not ſwallowed up in the gulph of deſpair.

V. 8. confirm your love towards him] That at my entreaty you would declare by the conſent of the whole Church, that you take him again for a brother.

V. 10. forgive any thing] Or, grant any thing of favour; or, freely give.

to whom I forgave it] Gr. Tec. what I forgave.

in the perſon of Chriſt] Or, in the ſight. Although Ferrandus the Deacon, in his Epiſtle to Egippius, taketh the perſon of Chriſt for the hypoſtaſis, which is one in Chriſt, though he conſiſt of two natures, ſaying, Si quid donavi, donavi propter vos in perſona Chriſti, vult probare unitatem perſonæ; nam melius perſonas diceret ſi vellet in Chriſto ſignificare duas ſubſtantias: yet Oecumenius his interpretation is more agreeable to the ſcope of the Apoſtle in this place, ὡς τοῦ Χριστοῦ κελεύοντος, in the perſon of Chriſt, that is, in ſtead of Chriſt, or by Chriſts authority and command, who ſaid, As my Father ſent me, I ſend you: whoſe ſins ye remit, they are remitted, John 20. 23.

V. 11. Leſt Satan ſhould get advantage of us] Leſt Satan over-reach us. The Greek word, πλεονεκτέω, ſignifieth to have more than belongs to one, and it is commonly uſed of the covetous: the compariſon is taken from the greedy Merchant, that ſeeketh and taketh all opportunities to beguile and deceive others. The meaning then is, that we give not Satan an occaſion by our immoderate rigour to ſnatch away from us, or ruine any member of the Church, to make the Goſpel and the miniſtery thereof more hateful, and to pervert the holy uſe of diſcipline, which conſiſteth in the temper of charity, and hath no other end than the ſalvation of the ſinner.

ignorant of his devices] Or, plots, or, machinations. Machinations or ſtratagems, of which Acontius hath written a ſingular book: The particular wiles to which the Apoſtle here pointeth ſeem to be theſe, whereby he endeavoureth to gain upon the Church both ways, both by remiſſeneſs of Church diſcipline, and too much ſeverity: by remiſſeneſs to rock the ſinner aſleep in ſecurity, and by too much ſeverity to plunge him in deſpair.

V. 12. was opened] Gr. being.

V. 14. Now] Or, But.

cauſeth us to triumph] It is word for word, Θριαμβεύει ἡμᾶς, triumpheth us, that is, ſubdueth us to the Goſpel, and maketh us obedient thereunto. So ſaith Livie, Triumphavit Mummius Achæos, Mummius triumphed the Acheans, that is, triumphed over thoſe of Achaia. Or, triumphare facit, cauſeth us to triumph over the world, the fleſh, and the devil; or giveth us conqueſt in every place where we preach his word, to bring all countries to the obedience of faith.

the ſavour of his knowledge] He alludeth to the ointment of the Prieſts and the ſweet incenſe they offered: and withal intimateth the far ſpreading of the Goſpel, which like a ſweet odour was blown by the breath of the Apoſtles, preaching unto all parts of the world.

V. 15. unto God a ſweet ſavour of Chriſt] That is, pleaſing and acceptable to God, in regard that by us is made manifeſt the mercy of God.

in them that are ſaved, &c.] The Goſpel is preached indifferently to all manner of perſons, but it worketh in a very different manner: foraſmuch as being received by the faithful, it produceth in them life and ſalvation, as containing all the cauſes thereof in it ſelf, but being rejected by unbeleevers, it becometh in them the occaſion of a greater condemnation, and maketh their perdition inevitable. As the ſame light of the Sun, ſaith Chryſoſtome, offendeth weak eyes, but recreateth and comforteth the ſtrong ſighted; and as the ſame Star is to ſome φωσφόρος, to others ἕσπερος, to ſome a morning Star bringing light and day, & to others an evening Star bringing darkneſs and night: So the Goſpel is a comfort to ſome, and a terrour to others, bringing eternal life and ſalvation to ſome, but by accident, everlaſting darkneſs and damnation to others, according to the Prophecie of Simeon, Luke 2. 34. Behold, this childe is ſet for the fall and riſing again of many in Iſrael.

V. 16. ſavour of death unto death] Gr. Tec. out of. A deadly ſavour: not as if the Goſpel of its own nature breathed out death to any; for it is the Miniſtery of life, 2 Cor. 5. 6, 7. and the power of God to ſalvation unto all beleevers, Rom. 1. 16. but by reaſon that unbeleevers and impenitent ſinners wilfully ſet themſelves againſt it, and thereby draw upon themſelves the heavier judgement of God, John 3. 36. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8.

of life] Gr. Tec. out of.

ſufficient] Or, fit.

V. 17. which corrupt the word of God] Or, deal deceitfully with, See Chap. 4. 2. Word for word, καπηλεύοντες, play the huckſters with the word of God; So Ennius ſaith elegantly, cauponari bellum; and Herodian, cauponari pacem; and Plato, καπηλεύειν τὰ μαθήματα, and Nazianzen calleth deceitful Teachers, χριστοκαπήλους, and Ignatius χριστεμπόρους. By this phraſe he taxeth the falſe Apoſtles with two grievous crimes: firſt, that they adulterated and ſophiſticated the word of God by mingling Philoſophical errours or humane traditions with it, as crafty Merchants ſophiſticate their wines by mingling them with water or other liquors? ſecondly, that they ſet the word of God as it were to ſale, and handled it craftily and covetouſly, not ſincerely as they ought to have done in the ſight of God.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 2. Y*E are our epiſtle*] As elſewhere he calleth them the Seal of his Apoſtleſhip, ſo here his commendatory Epiſtle, δεῖγμα γὰρ ἀρετῆς τοῦ διδασκάλου ἡ τῶν μαθητῶν εὐδοκίμησις, the profiting of the Scholar is a commendation of his Teacher. What need then the Apoſtle commendatory letters to the Corinthians, who themſelves are his commendatory Letters to all Churches, by their great growth in grace, and knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt?

V. 3. are manifeſtly] Gr. being manifeſtly.

to be the epiſtle] Gr. that ye are the epiſtle.

written not with ink, but with the Spirit] The tables were not written with ink, but with the finger of God. In this part therefore of the verſe, he oppoſeth not the Epiſtle of Chriſt to the writing in the Tables of ſtone, but to ordinary letters which are written with ink.

not in tables of ſtone] He alludeth by the way to the compariſon of the outward miniſtery of the Prieſthood of Levi with the miniſtery of the Goſpel, which he handleth afterwards more at large.

V. 4. And ſuch truſt] This boldneſs we ſhew, and thus deſervedly may we boaſt of the fruit and worthineſs of our miniſtery.

V. 5. to think any thing] Or, to reaſon, or, conclude. Rom. 3. 28. Any thing which belongeth to the way of Piety and true worſhip of God, as S. Auſtine expoundeth, Libro de dono Perſev. c. 13. or as the Greek Scholiaſt expoundeth, We are not ſufficient of our ſelves, ſo much as to apprehend and conceive the worth of the miniſtery of the Goſpel; much leſs to ſound the bottom of the deep myſteries of ſalvation: Without me, ſaith Chriſt, John 15. 5. ye can do nothing:

So far are we from doing any good work of our ſelves,that we cannot think a good thought.

but our ſufficiency is of God] In that we are fit and meet to make other men partakers of ſo great a grace.

V. 6. made us able Miniſters] Or, fit, or, meet. He amplifieth his miniſtery, that is, the miniſtery of the Goſpel, comparing it with the miniſtery of the law; which he conſidereth in the perſon of Moſes, by whom the law was given, againſt whom he ſetteth Chriſt the Authour of the Goſpel. Now the compariſon is taken from the very ſubſtance of the miniſtery. The Law is, as it were, a writing of it ſelf dead and without efficacy, but the Goſpel a new covenant, as it were the very virtue of God, in renewing, juſtifying and ſaving of men. The Law propoundeth death, accuſing all men of unrighteouſneſs; the Goſpel offereth and giveth righteouſneſs and life. The governance of the Law ſerved for a time, the Goſpel remaineth to the end of the world; and therefore what is the glory of that in compariſon of the Majeſtie of this?

not of the letter] That is, which doth not only conſiſt in words and writing,without imparting any inward and ſpiritual virtue to effect and work the ſame in men, which it doth repreſent to them; but hath really joyned with it the virtue of the Holy Spirit, working in the heart, and there ratifying and lively imprinting what the ſame propounds and promiſeth.

the letter killeth] Though the Law ſhewed the way to life, yet the letter thereof is ſaid here to kill, becauſe it doth not communicate ability to corrupt man to keep the ſame, nor makes any promiſe to forgive the ſin to him that treſpaſſeth, but curſeth every one that abideth not in all things which are written in the Law; convincing us of our tranſgreſſion, and conſequently of our guilt of death, which is threatned to the tranſgreſſours; for which cauſe it is alſo called, The miniſtery of condemnation.

but the ſpirit giveth life] Or, quickneth. The Goſpel doth not onely ſhew the way to life and ſalvation by faith in Jeſus Chriſt, but is likewiſe accompanied with the power of the Holy Spirit, whereby faith is wrought and kept in the Elect, and they themſelves are raiſed up from the death of ſin, and quickned to the life of holineſs.

V. 7. miniſtration] Or, miniſtery.

written] Gr. in letters.

glorious] Gr. in glory.

for the glory of his countenance] The word glory,betokeneth a brightneſs, which was bodily in Moſes,but is ſpiritually in Chriſt.

V. 8. the miniſtration of the Spirit] Or, miniſtery. That is, of the Goſpel, whereby God offereth, yea, and giveth his Spirit, not as a dead thing, but as a quickening Spirit, working life.

glorious] Gr. in glory.

V. 9. miniſtration] Or, miniſtery.

miniſtration of righteouſneſs] Or, miniſtery,Viz. of Chriſt, which being imputed to us as our own,we are not onely not condemned, but alſo we are crowned as righteous.

V. 10. had no glory in this reſpect] That is, had not glory comparatively; as ſilver is not precious in compariſon of gold, nor precious ſtones bright in compariſon of the ſtars, nor the light of the moon in compariſon of the ſun. As, ſaith Oecumenius, the light of a Candle ſeemeth moſt bright in the night, but in the mid-day is ſo obſcured, that it deſerveth not the name of a light; ſo is the light of the Law obſcured in ſuch ſort by the light of the Goſpel,that it ſeems to have no light or glory at all.

reſpect] Gr. part.

V. 11. was glorious] Gr. by glory.

is glorious] Gr. is in glory.

V. 12. plainneſs] Or, boldneſs, or, freedom.

V. 13. And not as Moſes, &c.] See Exod. 34. 33. He expoundeth by the way the allegory of Moſes his covering, which was a token of the darknes & weakneſs that is in men,whoſe eyes were rather dazled by the bright ſhining of the Law than lightned:which covering was taken away by the coming of Chriſt,who lightneth the hearts,& turneth them to the Lord, that we may be brought from the ſlavery of this blindneſs, and ſet in the liberty of the light, by the virtue of Chriſts ſpirit.

to the end of that which is aboliſhed] Gr. Tec. the face,or ſight.Could not ſee the mark and main ſcope of Moſes, or dive into the bottom of his miniſtery.

V. 14. But their minds were blinded] This is an anſwer to a ſecret Objection, whence it comes that the people of Iſrael do not now beleeve the manifeſtation of the end of the Law, made by the Goſpel: Why do they ſee nothing in the Goſpel, which is ſo clear? The Apoſtle anſwereth, that there is a Veil hanging over, not the Goſpel, but their hearts, by a malicious and wilful obduration, John 9. 39. Rom. 11. 7, 25. As if he ſhould ſay, the light ſhines indeed, but thoſe that ſhould behold it ſhut their eye-lids againſt it.

which veil is done away in Chriſt] The Veil is taken away by the knowledge and Spirit of Chriſt,and when they ſhall be converted into Chriſt, they ſhall like us be brought to the right underſtanding of the Law; and be fully convinced in their hearts, that the Law was given to no ſuch end, but that they muſt ſeek the righteouſneſs by faith in Chriſt, without themſelves, Rom. 10. 4. Gala. 3. 24.

V. 15. is upon] Gr. lyeth upon.

V. 17. Now the Lord is that Spirit] Or, But. Chriſt is that Spirit which taketh away that covering,by his working in our hearts,whereunto alſo the Law it ſelf called us, though in vain, becauſe it ſpeaketh to dead men till the Spirit quicken us.

where] Gr. Tec. to whom.

there is liberty] From the yoke and burden of the Ceremonial, and curſe alſo of the moral.

V. 18. But we all with open face,&c.] Gr.uncovered.Going forwards in the allegory of the covering, he compareth the Goſpel to a Glaſs, which though it be moſt bright and radiant, yet it doth not onely not dazle their eyes that look on it, as the law did, but alſo transformeth them with its beams, ſo that they be alſo partakers of the glory and ſhining of it to lighten others; as Chriſt ſaid to his Diſciples, Ye are the light of the world, Matth. 5. 14.

are changed into the ſame image] As, ſaith Oecumenius, Silver ſet againſt the Sun, by the beams thereof caſt upon it, becomes it ſelf radiant; ſo we being enlightned by the Spirit, caſt light upon others. Now that inſtead of the Veil of thoſe Moſaical figures, God hath given to his Church the clear glaſs of his Goſpel, all the faithful do freely behold there by faith the glorious light of his mercy, truth, and the reſt of his divine attributes; and by means thereof they are made like unto him in the glory of holineſs, and in newneſs of life. Moſes put away the Veil that hung over his face, when he appeared before the Lord, and by this beholding of God had his face lightened, and ſhining with beams; ſo have we now a free acceſs unto God by the Goſpel, which is not as a dark Veil, but a pure reſplendent glaſs wherein the glorious countenance of God is ſeen by us, and we are thereby renewed, and as it were glorified in our minds according to the ſame image of God.

from glory to glory,even as by the Spirit of the Lord] Or, of the Lord the Spirit. By the Spirit of the Lord,or by the Lord the Spirit, by the Spirit who is the Lord; that is, one of the ſame being and ſubſtance with the Father and the Son. This Spirit worketh in us by degrees, and this work of his is ſtill in progreſs here in this life,until we attain to the perfection of the life to come;& as we grow from grace to grace, by this ſpirit of ſanctification in us,ſo alſo from glory to glory, till we be perfectly renewed, according to the image of God,in holineſs and righteouſneſs.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. SEeing we have this miniſtery] Gr. having this miniſtery.

we faint not] Gr. we ſhrinck not back; Or,grow weary and ſlothful. Though we are broken in peeces with heart-griefs and calamities,yet we yeeld not, notwithſtanding all the diſcouragements we find in the world, we ſlack not our pace, nor remit any thing of our zeal for Gods glory, which like fire, is kindled more, and not at all quenched by the blaſts of oppoſition.

V. 2. hidden things of diſhoneſty] Gr. ſhame. All ſecret underhand dealing, all lurking holes to hide ſhameleſs practices. As we preach the clear and evident truth of the Goſpel, ſo our carriage is open and fair, not hating the light, as they who do evil.

nor handling the word of God deceitfully] They handle the Word deceitfully,who either corrupt it by mingling falſe doctrines or humane traditions with it; or thoſe who preach the pure and ſincere truth,but not ſincerely ſeeking by the preaching thereof their own glory or gain, as did the falſe Apoſtles, Phil. 1. 15, 16.

V. 3. But if our Goſpel be hid] Becauſe he had ſaid before in the laſt Verſe of the former Chapter, We with open face behold the glory of the Lord,here he prevents an objection which might be made againſt him, If you preach the Goſpel with ſuch plainneſs and ſincerity, delivering the naked truth nakedly, how cometh it to paſs that ſo few are enlightned by your preaching, and that the Goſpel is hid to ſo many? He anſwereth, that the fault is not in the preachers, but in themſelves, whoſe eyes Satan hath pluck'd out, or blinded ſo, that they can ſee nothing, though it be never ſo clear and evident in it ſelf.

that are loſt] Or, that periſh.

V. 4. the god of this world] S. Auſtine in his book de Spiritu & lit. ad Marcel. underſtandeth by the god of this world, the true God, who juſtly blindeth the minds of infidels, non infundendo malitiam, ſed ſubtrahendo gratiam, not by infuſing any malice into them, but by taking away from them, or not giving unto them enlightning grace. And true it is, that as obduration of the heart, ſo excecation of the underſtanding is in Scripture attributed to the true God, who juſtly inflicteth them as puniſhments upon them, who wilfully oppoſe the light of his truth, and not onely reſiſt, but deſpight the Spirit of grace; yet by comparing this Text of the Apoſtle with John 12. 31. The Prince of this world is caſt out, and Epheſ. 6. 12. it ſhould ſeem rather,that the Apoſtle by the god of this world, underſtandeth Satan,who by the juſt judgement of God hath gotten ſuch a dominion over unbeleevers, as if he were their God, and he uſurpeth the honour and ſoveraignty of God, and they readily obey and ſerve him as their Lord and God. And it is worth our obſervation, that the Apoſtle ſtyleth him not the god of the world ſimply, but the god of this world, verſ. 12. which wholly lyeth in wickedneſs, 1 John 5. 19.

the light of the glorious Goſpel of Chriſt] Gr. the light of the Goſpel of the glory of Chriſt. Wherein is manifeſted the Majeſty of the perſon and reign of Chriſt, the ſoveraign excellency of his benefits,and the divine efficacy of his Word and Spirit in us.

the image of God] In whom the Father ſetteth forth himſelf to be ſeen and beholden, who is the ingraven form of his perſon, Heb.1.3. And this is ſpoken of him, not onely in regard of his divine nature, being the eternal Word and Wiſdom of the Father; but alſo in regard that he is God, revealed in the fleſh, by whom the glory and righteouſneſs, grace, wiſdom, and power of God is revealed unto us in the Goſpel, as in a glaſs, Col. 1. 15.

V.5. we preach not our ſelves] We make no oſtentation of our gifts, nor in the exerciſing of our Miniſtery ſeek our own glory,but Chriſts; neither carry we our ſelves as Lords over your faith, but as your ſervants in and for him, Chap.1.24.

V. 6. commanded] Gr. ſaid to.

the light of the knowledge] That being lightened of God we ſhould in like ſort give that light to others,as a candle tinded giveth light to the whole room.

in the face of Jeſus Chriſt] Or, in the perſon of Jeſus Chriſt. The glory of God ſhined in the face of Jeſus Chriſt; for as S.John affirmeth, chap. 1. ver. 14. The Word became fleſh, and dwelt among us, and we ſaw his glory,as the glory of the only begotten Son of the Father, full of grace and truth. Or, ἐν προσώπῳ, in the perſon, that is, in the room, ſtead, name, and authority of Chriſt, whoſe Ambaſſadours we are.

V. 7. in earthen veſſels] Or, in veſſels of ſhell. He here taketh away a ſtumbling block, to wit, that the Apoſtles were vile,weak,frail and miſerable men; Paul anſwereth,that he and his fellow Apoſtles were as it were earthen Veſſels of ſmall price, and ſubject to many knocks and falls, yet that there was moſt excellent treaſure of wiſdom and knowledge in them. Some conceive that the Apoſtle alludeth to glaſs lanthorns; in which lights are carried, and that he hereby intimateth, that they hid not their light, but that it ſhined through them as a Candle doth through a lanthorn. If we render ὀστράκινον, Veſſel of ſhell, then the Apoſtle manifeſtly alludeth to precious Pearl which is found in ſhels; the pearl is that rich pearl mentioned in Matth. 13. 46. which the Merchant ſold all he had to buy; the ſhell or mother of pearl, are the Apoſtles and Paſtours.

V. 8. yet not diſtreſſed] In the Original στενοχωρούμενος, ſignifieth not every preſſure, but to be ſo preſt by a throng in a narrow place, ſo that we cannot poſſibly get out; the meaning of the Apoſtle is then, that though they were laid in wait for, and beſet on all ſides, and were enforced to ſtrive and ſtruggle with all their might,yet that they eſcaped, and that God gave them an iſſue with the temptation how great ſoever it were, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

not in deſpair] Or, not altogether without help, or means.

V. 10. dying of the Lord Jeſus] Or, mortifying. That is, in our ſufferings we repreſent the death and paſſion of Jeſus Chriſt.

V. 11. For we which live] Which live that life,to wit,by the Spirit of Chriſt among ſo many and ſo great miſeries.

V. 12. death worketh in us] A paſſionate concluſion: as if he ſhould ſay, We dye that you may live by our death; we venture into all dangers for the building of the Church ſake,and ceaſe not to confirm all the faithful by the examples of our patience; and you by all our afflictions and dangers of death are ſtrengthened more and more in the life of the Spirit: ſo that even all theſe ſtraights we are put unto,turn to your advantage,and are means to maintain the life of grace in you here, and further your eternal life and happineſs hereafter. Or for the preſent I do principally prove the effects of my conformity to the death of Chriſt by the afflictions that I ſuffer in his behalf, whereof it ſeems you have no ſhare, nor ſenſe; ye only partake of his life and glory, being exempted from the like calamities, and abounding in all manner of bleſſings; and ſo the latter words carry in them a cloſe, but ſharp reproof.

V. 13. We] Gr. But, or, And.

we having the ſame Spirit] He ſheweth that he and his fellow Apoſtles dye in a ſort to purchaſe life to others,but yet notwithſtanding they are partakers of the ſame life with them, becauſe they have the ſame faith by the inſpiration of the ſame Spirit, and beleeve that which they propound to others to beleeve, to wit, that they alſo ſhall be ſaved together with them in Chriſt.

I beleeved] See Pſal. 116. 10.

V. 15. that the abundant grace] When it ſhall pleaſe God to deliver me, and reſtore me to you, that exceeding benefit which ſhall be powred upon me, ſhall in like ſort redound to the glory of God.

redound] Gr. abound.

V. 16. faint not] Or, ſlack not. See ver. 1.

yet the inward man is renewed day by day] That is, gathereth new ſtrength (Eſa. 40.31.) that the outward man be not overcome with the miſeries, which come freſhly one on the neck of another, being maintained and upholden with the ſtrength of our inward man. By the outward man he underſtandeth our bodies; or rather our perſons in the natural eſtate and condition of this life, which do decay and conſume away by continual ſufferances: by the inward man he underſtandeth our ſouls, or perſons, conſidered according to our ſpiritual eſtate, which cannot be diſcerned by any bodily eye, but onely by the light of the ſpirit: this inward man renewed by the ſpirit of God is ſtrengthned and confirmed more by daily preſſures and tribulations; as the Palm-tree groweth the higher, and flouriſheth the more,the more burthens are laid upon it; and as Antæus in his wreſtling with Hercules, is ſaid by the Poets to gain new ſtrength by every fall on the earth.

V. 17. light affliction] Afflictions of the godly are not light in themſelves,but comparatively, to the infinite and eternal weight of heavenly glory,which our affliction worketh for us not by any merit of ours; but out of Gods meer grace for Chriſt his ſake. Rom. 8. 17, 18. Or they are called light, becauſe they lightly and ſpeedily paſs away; or becauſe God maketh them ſeem light unto us by the ſtrong ſupport and comfort of his Spirit, Rom.8.37.

for us] Or, to us.

eternal weight of glory] The Apoſtle ſeemeth to allude to the Hebrew word, which ſignifieth both weight and glory: to gold and precious things the weight addeth to the value, as the more maſſie and weighty a crown is, the more it is worth; and he implieth that we ſhal at the laſt be crowned with ſuch a crown of infinite glory, which even in this world we lively apprehend by faith, & the contemplation thereof taketh off all the conſideration, love and eſteem of all the things in this world,which are ſeen,our heart being fixed on the eternal things in heaven, which are not ſeen.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. Houſe of this Tabernacle] S. Paul who was a Tent-maker elegantly compareth our body to a Tent,and that in many regards: 1. A Tent or Tabernacle is eaſily raiſed up, and as eaſily taken down and ſpoyled; ſo is our body by ſickneſs and outward violence,Job 4.19. 2. A Tent is an habitation proper for pilgrims or ſouldiers which continue not in the ſame place; and ſuch are all Chriſtians whileſt they live upon earth, ſtrangers and pilgrims, (*Pſal.*39. 12.) and ſouldiers fighting under Chriſts banner, Job 7. 1. 3. A Tent is a moveable houſe or habitation; ſo are our bodies,which are now like Tents pitched upon the Earth, but ſhall be hereafter tranſported into heaven. 4. Tents are foul without, and ſoil'd with wind and weather, but have precious things within: ſo the body and outſide of a Chriſtian is but vile and contemptible, but his inſide is moſt beautiful and glorious (Pſal. 45. 13.) with ſpecial treaſures of ſpiritual graces; like the Tents of Solomon, (Cant. 1. 5.) which were moſt richly furniſhed within. 5. A Tent is deſtroyed not by the conſuming of the parts, but by taking them aſunder: ſo the death of the body is nothing but the diſſolution of the parts whereof man is compoſed, and taking aſunder the ſoul from the body.

eternal in the heavens] The grave is ſometime called οἰκία αἰώνιος, domus ſeculi, or domus æterna, a long home, Eccleſ. 12.5. or houſe of eternity, becauſe the bodies or ſomething of them remains long there, even to the end of the world: but our habitation in heaven is moſt truly and properly called an eternal houſe, which though ſome take here for the celeſtial glory, wherewith our immortal bodies ſhall be glorified at the laſt day: yet ſeeing the Apoſtle doth here expreſly ſpeak of a building or houſe, which we ſhall have of God, after this tabernacle is diſſolved, as ſoon as we ſhall go to dwell without our bodies, as appears by the 6. and 8. verſes, it may as fitly be underſtood of the celeſtial glory in general, wherewith the ſoul is adorned and clothed as it were, as ſoon as ſhe leaveth off this tabernacle, and wherewith the body alſo ſhall be clothed hereafter being raiſed from the dead.

V. 2. which is from heaven] He calleth this houſe heavenly, not that the ſubſtance of it is heavenly,but for the glory of it,and becauſe it ſhall be incorruptible as the celeſtial bodies are.

V. 3. If ſo be that being cloathed] Or, ſince that. We do not without cauſe deſire to be clad with this heavenly houſe, that is, with that everlaſting and immortal glory as with a garment. For when we depart hence,we ſhall not remain naked, having once caſt off the covering of this body: but we ſhall take our bodies again,which ſhall put on as it were another garment beſides; and therefore we ſigh not for the wearineſs of this life,but for the deſire of a better.

V. 4. do grone] There is a double grone,one of nature, from the apprehenſion and fear of death,another of grace,out of an earneſt deſire of eternal life,which the ſpirit kindleth in us.

being burdened] Both with the burden of ſinne,and of manifold heavy croſſes laid upon us.

not for that we would be unclothed,but clothed upon] Gr. for that we would not be. The Saints deſire ſo to be clothed with a celeſtial body, that they put not off their mortal body, but have the immortal glory put upon it, as an upper robe: which ſhall be their happineſs, who ſhall live in the body till Chriſt come, for they ſhall not die, but be changed, as the Apoſtle teacheth us, 1 Cor. 15.51.

that mortality] Or, that which is mortal.

V. 5. wrought us for the ſelf ſame thing] The Apoſtle taketh a metaphor from Goldſmiths, who burniſh gold, or Carvers and Engravers, who work upon wood or ſtone, & make it fit for that for which it is naturally unapt: ſo doth God by his ſpirit work upon us, and make us fit for that by his ſpirit, of which naturally we are moſt uncapable, to wit, an immortal and ſpiritual body.

V. 6. we are always confident] Always reſolved with a quiet and ſober mind, to ſuffer what danger ſoever, nothing doubting but our end ſhall be happy.

V. 7. For we walk by faith] The faith of thoſe things we hope for, as not having them preſently in our view.

V. 8. We are confident] Gr. but, or, and. We are in ſuch ſort bold, and do ſo paſſe in our pilgrimage with a valiant reſolution and quiet mind, that yet notwithſtanding we had rather depart home to the Lord; and ſeeing it is ſo with us, we ſtrive to live ſo, that both in this our pilgrimage here we may pleaſe him, and that at length we may be received home to him.

V. 9. labour] Or, endeavour.

V. 10 For we muſt all appear] See Rom. 14.10. That no man might think it indifferently to appertain unto all what he ſpake of that heavenly glory, he addeth that every one ſhall firſt render an account of his pilgrimage after he is departed from hence. The word in the Original φανερωθῆναι, ſignifieth more than to appear in perſon, as thoſe do who are cited into a Court; it implies to be laid open, and to have our whole life rip'd up, and all our thoughts, words, and works diſcloſed and diſcovered before men and Angels, Rom. 2.16. Rev. 2.23. and 20.12.

done in his body] Gr. by his body. That is, in this bodily life of ours, or by the body; for whilſt we live here, our ſoul worketh by the body, and ſeeing the body is, as Methodius ſpeaketh elegantly, σύζυγον τῆς ψυχῆς, the colleague of the ſoul, it is juſt with God that the body ſhould be partaker with the ſoul, either in immortal bliſſe, or endleſſe torment, according as they have both joyned in this life, either in the ſervice of God, or in the ſervice of Satan and this wicked world.

whether it be good or bad] Whether good, the reward of the ſame by grace; or bad, the recompence thereof by deſert. Eccleſ. 12.14.

V. 11. Knowing therefore the terrour of the Lord] The dreadfull Tribunal of Chriſt, the Judge of quick and dead, before whom we muſt give a ſtrict account of all our actions, ſpeeches, yea and our inward thoughts, intentions, and affections.

V. 12. glory on our behalf] Or, rejoyce for us.

which glory] Or, rejoyce.

which glory in appearance] Gr. in the face. In outward diſguiſing, and that coloured ſhew of mans wiſdome and eloquence, and not in true godlineſſe which is ſeated in the heart; or who glory in the multitude of their followers, and applauſe of their hearers, but want the teſtimony of a good conſcience.

V. 13. whether we be beſides our ſelves] Either the meaning is, if we are in our extaſies and raptures it is to God; that is, in our private devotions when we ſpeak to him: but to you we ſpeak alwayes words of ſobriety and in a moderate temper; or he hath reference to the commendation of his Apoſtleſhip. For ſo much as it ſeemeth to be the part of mad and fooliſh men to commend themſelves, and then the meaning is, that if we exceed at any time, and are ſo tranſported in the contemplation in the dignity of our Apoſtleſhip, that we ſeem to be beſides our ſelves, we do it not to arrogate glory to our ſelves, but to maintain the glory and honour of God: and if on the other ſide we ſpeak modeſtly of our ſelves, and our miniſtery, it is for your good, to teach you modeſty, and to condeſcend to your capacity, and to uſe all means to bring you to Chriſt.

ſober] Or, in our right mind.

for your cauſe] Gr. to you.

V. 14. conſtraineth us] Or, keepeth us in.

V. 16. know we no man after the fleſh] Neither my ſelf nor any of the Apoſtles have any worldly or carnal affection, nor take notice of mens outward appearance, kindred, quality, honour, wiſdome, or eloquence; but meerly know them after the ſpirit; that is, according to the ſpiritual power, virtue, or grace that is in them.

known Chriſt after the fleſh, &c.] If we have had earthly and carnal thoughts and hopes of Chriſt, like unto the reſt of the Jews, that he as the King of Iſrael ſhould begin an earthly temporal Kingdome, and we enjoy all manner of earthly and carnal benefits in the ſame; as honour, riches, and power, &c. yet now we know him no more, we have put off all ſuch carnal imaginations of his Kingdome. To know Chriſt no more after the fleſh, ſaith Luther, is to ſeek or expect no fleſhly thing with him, as the Diſciples did before his ſuffering; but to content our ſelves with the Word. Or the words may carry this meaning; we ſerve not men, nor deſire to pleaſe them; but all our deſire is to pleaſe Chriſt and him onely; to whom alſo we ſtand no longer affected after any meerly humane, civil, or naturall manner of affections, ſuch as thoſe bare unto him who converſed with him here in this world, but altogether in a Divine and ſpiritual manner agreeable to the ſtate of glory whereunto he is exalted: ſee Joh. 20.17. And this the Apoſtle mentioneth here, to take off the edge of that argument, whereby the falſe Apoſtles ſought to vilifie and abaſe his miniſtery below that of the Apoſtles, namely, that he had not been converſant with Chriſt in the fleſh.

V. 17. If any man be in Chriſt] Every true Chriſtian inſerted into the body of Chriſt by his ſpirit, is and ought to be changed in all his ſenſes, motions, deſires, and affections: and therefore he is freed of vanity, and ſelf-love, according as every faithful one (the generall ſtate and condition of the Church being renewed by Chriſt) ought to participate of this newneſſe of life.

he is a new creature] Or, let him be. As a thing made new of God. For though a man be not newly created when God giveth him the ſpirit of regeneration; but onely his qualities are changed: yet notwithſtanding it pleaſeth the Holy Ghoſt to ſpeak ſo, to teach us that we muſt attribute all things to the glory of God: not that we are ſtocks and blocks, but becauſe God createth in us both the will to will well, and the power to do well.

old things are paſt away] See Iſa. 43.19. Rev. 21.5.

all things are become new] Namely, in the Kingdom of Chriſt: and here the Apoſtle hath reference to the promiſe of God, Eſa. 65. 17. and 66.22. where this renovation of all things is promiſed, whereof part is now already fulfilled in all true beleevers, who are renewed by the Spirit of God, and the reſt ſhall be accompliſhed in the life to come. See 2 Pet. 3.13. Rev. 21.5.

V. 19. committed unto us] Gr. put in us.

V. 20. Now then we are Ambaſſadors] Gr. we are therefore Ambaſſadors.

Beſeech] Or, exhort, or perſwade.

in Chriſts ſtead] Gr. for Chriſt.

V. 21. he hath made him to be ſinne for us] That is, a ſacrifice for ſinne, or he hath imputed the ſins of the world to Chriſt (who was moſt righteous and innocent himſelf) and hath put upon him all the puniſhment and malediction due to us, that all the faithful may be reputed before God as holy and perfect as righteouſneſs it ſelf, by virtue of Chriſts righteouſneſs, which is given to them by God, and onely is able to ſtand in his judgment.

who knew no ſinne] That is, who knew no ſin by himſelf, who was conſcious to himſelf of no ſinne. For other ways he beſt knew the nature and power of ſin, who bare our ſins on his body on the tree.

of God in him] In Chriſt, in regard that we are in him, and that his righteouſneſſe is imputed to us. Non noſtra, nec in nobis. Ità Hieronym.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. W*Orkers together with him*] That is, with God, mentioned in the laſt verſe of the former Chapter. Now this cooperation of the Miniſters with God is not onely neceſſary before they to whom they preach have received grace, that they might be partakers of it; but alſo after they have received grace, that they may continue in it.

beſeech] Or, exhort.

the grace of God in vain] By the grace of God he meaneth the outward means of ſalvation in the miniſtery of the Goſpel: or enlightning grace, in the underſtanding, which they receive in vain, who are not thereby bettered in their life and converſation, as the earth receiveth ſeed, and the former and latter rain in vain, which is barren and beareth no fruit, Heb. 6.8.

V. 2. I have heard thee] See Iſa. 49.8.

a time accepted] That is, in a time of acceptation, wherein God will accept us, if we by faith and repentance come unto him, or in a time liked of, and made choice of by God, wherein he will open the treaſures of his mercy and bounty unto us.

time] Or, ſeaſon.

V. 3. Giving no offence] See 1 Cor. 10.32. That is, give no juſt occaſion of offence, or ſcandal: for ſcandal or offence is rightly diſtinguiſhed into ſcandalum datum, & ſcandalum acceptum, a ſcandall given, and a ſcandal taken. A ſcandal taken is when any out of prejudicate opinion, or ill-affection wilfully miſconſtrue any ſpeech or action of ours, and make the worſt of it; here the ſcandal is taken, but no way given. The giving offence, which the Apoſtle here forbiddeth, is when either we ſpeak ſo ambiguouſly, or do any thing ſo indiſcreetly and unſeaſonably, that a good Chriſtian, though otherwiſe well-affected to us and our miniſtery, cannot but be ſcandalized.

V. 4. approving our ſelves] Or, commending. In the Original it is, we commend our ſelves, which though it be done in words, unleſſe we be forced thereunto for the clearing of our innocency, or juſtifying our calling, may ſeem vain, quia laus propria ſordet in ore: yet to do it in the Apoſtles ſenſe, to commend our miniſtery by the effects of it, by our indefatigable labours in the Goſpel, and ſufferings for it, is moſt praiſe-worthy and profitable.

V. 5. in tumults] Or, in toſſings to and fro. The word in the Original, ἀκαταστασίαις, is ambiguous: for it may be referred either to our ſelves, and then it ſignifieth in the uncertainty of our ſtate and abode, who have no place of reſt or quietneſſe, or to others, and then it ſignifieth in tumults or commotions, ſuch as were raiſed againſt St. Paul at Epheſus, and Jeruſalem, and at other places.

in labours] Either which he took in his continual travels, and perpetual preaching; or the pains he took to maintain himſelf in his trade of Tent-making, that he might not be any ways chargable to the Church.

V.6. By pureneſſe] Gr. in. The Original ἁγνότης, ſignifieth as well chaſtity and purity of body, as cleanneſs of hands, free from bloud, bribery, and corruption by receiving gifts; it is taken alſo ſometimes for ſincerity: and in all theſe ſenſes St. Paul walked and converſed, ἐν ἁγνότητι, for he led both a moſt chaſt life, and preached the Goſpel ſincerely, and made no merchandiſe of the Word, as he elſe-where ſpeaketh, he was alſo pure and clear from the bloud of all men. Act.20.26.

by knowledge] Gr. in.

by long-ſuffering] Gr. in.

by kindneſs] Gr. in.

by the Holy Ghoſt] Gr. in.

by love unfeigned] Gr. in.

V. 7. By the word of truth] Gr. in.

by the power of God] Gr. in. Either by this power which manifeſted it ſelf in my effectual and powerful miniſtery, or the power of God, whereby I wrought many miracles among you.

by the armour of righteouſneſſe] Gr. by the weapons of.

on the right hand and on the left] Some take the Apoſtles meaning to be, that himſelf was, and every good Chriſtian ought to be, ἀμφιδέξιος or περιδέξιος, (ſuch as was Aſteropæus in Homer, Il.φ. ἥρως Ἀστεροπαῖος ἐπεὶ περιδέξιος ἦεν) that is, men who could uſe both hands alike, and lay about them, as if both were right hands; but there is no neceſſity of this Expoſition. For all ſouldiers, though they fight not with both hands alike, yet they may make uſe of both, and they have weapons and armour on both. But the greater doubt is, what the Apoſtle meaneth by right hand and left? whereunto the Greek Scholiaſt anſwereth, that by the right hand he underſtandeth honour and eſtimation among men? and by the left hand, injuries, perſecutions, and diſgraces; and his meaning then is, that they are armed with righteouſneſs or uprightneſs in both, in ſuch ſort that Satan cannot wound them on either ſide, ſith they are neither puffed up with honour, abundance and proſperity, nor caſt down by penury and adverſity. It may be the Apoſtle in the metaphor of right and left hand alludes to the words of the Wiſe-man, who ſpeaks of bleſſings on the right hand, and on the left, Prov. 3. 16. As God giveth us bleſſings with both hands, ſo Chriſt gives us armour for both hands, to defend us from Satan, the fleſh, and the world, who lay at us on all ſides.

V. 8. By honour] Gr. glory.

as deceivers] Not ſo indeed, but reputed as deceivers, or traduced for ſuch as Chriſt himſelf was, Mat. 27.63. for this, as St. Cyprian noteth, hath been the practice of the Devil in all ages, by his Inſtruments to caſt falſe and foul aſperſions upon the moſt ſincere and faithful ſervants of Chriſt, ut qui conſcientiæ ſuæ luce clareſcunt, alienis rumoribus ſordidentur.

V. 9. well known] Gr. acknowledged.

V. 10. having nothing, and yet poſſeſſing all things] As having nothing, re, yet poſſeſſing all things ſpe: or having nothing, quoad κτῆσιν, yet poſſeſſing all things, quoad χρῆσιν: having not the wealth of the world in our hands, according to the ſubſtance of the things themſelves; yet having the fruit and benefit of them in the ſupply of our neceſſary wants and inward contentment: or having nothing actually in our own hands, yet poſſeſſing all things in the charity of good Chriſtians, who think nothing too good or too much for us at our need.

V. 11. our mouth is open unto you] The opening of the mouth and heart, betokeneth a moſt earneſt affection in him that ſpeaketh, as it fareth commonly with them, that are in ſome joy: for joy dilateth the heart, as on the contrary ſorrow contracteth it.

V. 12. Ye are not ſtraitned in us] You are in my heart as in a houſe, and that no narrow or ſtrait houſe; for I have opened my whole heart to you: but you are inwardly ſtrait-laced to meward.

in your own bowels] According to the phraſe of the Hebrew, he calleth thoſe tender affections which reſt in the heart bowels: as in the Epiſtle to Philemon, verſ.12. he requireth Philemon to receive Oneſimus as his own bowels, that is, as one whom he moſt tenderly affected.

V. 13. Now for a recompence in the ſame] Gr. for the ſame recompence. The Apoſtle by this phraſe underſtandeth no reward from the Corinthians, or recompence by way of ſatisfaction, though the Greek word ἀντιμισθίαν, derived from μισθὸς, ſeem to import as much; but onely that as good children, they ſhould anſwer their Father in tender love and affection: and Bernard juſtly taxeth thoſe who are banckrupts in love, with ingratitude and hardneſs of heart, Duri eſt animi amorem ſi nolis impendere, nolle rependere.

V. 14. unequally yoked together with unbeleevers] Gr. diverſly yoked: or, drawing the other part of the yoke with. Now he rebuketh them boldly for taking part with Infidels, and being fellows with them in outward Idolatry, as if it were a thing indifferent; but ſuch, ſaith he, as the Lord vouchſafeth the name of his children, muſt keep themſelves pure, not onely in mind, but alſo in body, and abſtain even from all appearance of Idolatry and ſuperſtition. The word in the Original, ἑτεροζυγοῦντες, may be diverſly interpreted, either draw not down the beam, or any way encline to the part of the Infidels. So the Greek Scholiaſt. And indeed ζυγὸς is ſometimes taken pro æquilibrio lancis or trutinæ; Or it may be rendred, be not unequally yoked, as when beaſts of divers kinds, or of the ſame kind, but of diverſe ſtature and bigneſs, draw together; for then the yoke cannot lye equally upon both: and in this ſenſe the Apoſtle may ſeem to touch upon their matching with Infidels. Or it may be rendred, alteram jugi partem ne trahite, draw not the other part of the yoke with Infidels, that is, be not any ways coupled with them.

fellowſhip] Gr. participation.

V. 15. what concord hath Chriſt with Belial] Belial ſignifieth wicked, but here it is taken for Satan, as the Syriack Interpreter rendreth it, who is wicked, κατ' ἐξοχὴν in a tranſcendent manner, ὁ πονηρὸς, that wicked one, as Chriſt termeth him.

V. 16. ye are the temple of the living God] See 1 Cor.3.16.

I will dwell in them] Gr. among. See Lev.26. 12. God dwelleth among us, either becauſe Chriſt is become God with us, or becauſe the Spirit dwelleth in our hearts by faith.

V.17. Wherefore come out from among them] See Iſa. 52. 11. That is, eſtrange and ſeparate your ſelves from them, have no intimate converſation or communion with them, leſt thereby you be induced to the imitation of their ſinnes, and participation of their puniſhment.

V. 18. And will be a Father unto you] Gr. for I will be unto them for, or inſtead of a Father. See Jer.31.1.

my ſons] Gr. to me for, or inſtead of ſons.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. ALl filthineſſe of the fleſh] Or, pollution. Becauſe, as he ſhewed before, the faithful are Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, and God hath promiſed, that he will take them for his ſonnes and daughters; he exhorteth them to cleanſe themſelves from all pollution of ſinne, that they may be fit Temples for ſo pure a ſpirit, and meet Children of ſo holy a Father. By filthineſſe of the fleſh, he meaneth fornication, gluttony, and drunkenneſs, &c. By filthineſſe of the Spirit, Idolatry, ſuperſtition, ſects, ſchiſms, and factions, which vices he taxed before. Or, by filthineſſe of the fleſh, the outward acts of all manner of ſin committed in, and by the body, Gal.5.19, &c. by filthineſſe of the Spirit, the inward acts of ſinne committed in the ſoul, as impure thoughts, wicked deſires, unſanctified conceptions and opinions of God, crafty and malicious projects, deſigns and purpoſes, or the like.

perfecting holineſſe] Or, conſummating. Finiſhing the work of ſanctification, begun in our regeneration; for though regeneration, as alſo generation be done at once, yet ſanctification is wrought in us by degrees, and every good Chriſtian muſt profit in Chriſts ſchool, and grow continually, as in knowledge, ſo in grace, till we arrive to ſuch perfection, as we are capable of in this life; (2 Pet.3.18.) which as Saint Auſtine termeth it, is but an imperfect perfection at the moſt; a perfection of parts, but no way of degrees.

V. 2. Receive us] Let us have ſome place amongſt you, that we may teach you; or, give way to my juſt defence; or, alluding to what he ſpake before, Chap.6.13. Be ye inlarged: he now deſireth, that having made a room for him in their hearts and affections, they would admit and receive him thereinto.

we have wronged no man &c.] In clearing himſelf and his fellow-Miniſters from the particular imputations following, he layeth an aſperſion upon the falſe Apoſtles, who offended in all thoſe kindes, wronging the Corinthians in their reputation, corrupting them in their judgments, and defrauding them in their eſtates; the firſt proceeding from detraction, the ſecond, from flattery or heretical perſwaſions, the third, from covetouſneſs.

V. 4. my glorying of you] Gr. my rejoycing for you.

V. 5. troubled] Gr. preſſed, or, afflicted.

without were fightings, within were fears] Perſecutions from without, from Infidels, who made havock of the Church; and fears from within, leſt any of the members of the Church ſhould be drawn from the body by the violence of torments and perſecutions. Or outward fightings with open and profeſſed Enemies, and fears within from falſe brethren. Or fightings without, by the continual aſſaults of outward temptations; and terrours within, by ſpiritual derelictions and conflicts with deſpair; for even to theſe the deareſt children of God are ſubject in this life.

V. 6. thoſe that are caſt down] Gr. humble. The word in the Original is ταπεινοὺς, quaſi ἐδαφινοὺς, caſt upon the ground; either overthrown by violence, or dejected in our minds, our very hearts being caſt down. The word ſignifieth alſo humble or lowly; but becauſe it is againſt humility to profeſſe it in our ſelves, the word here rather ſignifieth lowlineſſe in condition, than in affection; and the meaning of the Apoſtle is, that God comforteth us when we are very far ſpent with grief, and raiſeth us when we are upon our knees, and relieveth us when we are deſtitute of all other help or comfort.

by] Gr. in.

V. 7. by the coming] Gr. in the coming.

by the conſolation] Gr. in.

in you] Or, of you.

fervent mind toward me] Gr. zeal for me.

V. 8. with] Gr. in.

V. 9. not that ye were made ſorry] As a good Phyſician rejoyceth not in that he hath miniſtred to his patient a bitter potion, but that thereby he hath procured him much eaſe; neither is the Chirurgion glad that by launcing the ſore he hath put the parts ill-affected to pain, but that by this pain hath healed them; in like manner, the Apoſtle doth not rejoyce ſimply, that he had made the Corinthians ſorrowful, but that by this their ſorrow they gained health of their ſouls, and many ſpiritual graces, mentioned in the eleventh verſe.

after a godly manner] Or, according to God.

V. 10. For godly ſorrow] In the Original κατ' Θεὸν, a ſorrow according unto God, a ſorrow coming from God, pleaſing to God, and bringing the ſinner unto God, when his heart is truly rent for having offended God by his ſins; and withall confident of the forgiveneſſe of the ſame by Jeſus Chriſt, and fully and ſtedfaſtly reſolved, as far as God ſhall enable him, to ſhun and avoid all ſin for the future: for as S. Ambroſe hath it; Ille verè plangit commiſſa, qui non committit plangenda; he truly bewaileth that which he hath done, who never doth that afterward which he hath bewailed.

but the ſorrow of the world worketh death] By ſorrow of the world he underſtandeth that which is proper to men of the world, ſuch as are not regenerated by the ſpirit of God, whoſe grief and ſorrow is nothing but the bitter ſmart of their miſery, without any ſerious and ſincere repentance, or elſe a remorſe and pricking of their conſciences for their ſins indeed; but without faith, and without purpoſe of amendment, and without converſion unto God: wherefore alſo all this grieving and ſorrowing of theirs is nothing elſe but a preparation to eternal death, and a kind of beginning of the ſame; ſuch as Nero felt after he had put both the Apoſtles Peter and Paul to death, it is ſaid of him, that he felt the torments of hell in his conſcience, and ran about crying, Have I no friend or enemy that will kill me, and rid me of my pain? Or, by ſorrow of the world, is meant a ſorrow onely for the loſſe of worldly things, or which is onely cauſed from the fear of Gods judgment in unbeleevers, whereupon there followeth commonly hardneſſe of heart, and a reprobate ſenſe, and after, deſpair and damnation it ſelf, (as we ſee in Cain, Saul, Achitophel, Judas, and the like) which waſteth the body, and haſteneth death.

V. 11. after a godly ſort] Gr. according to God.

what carefulneſſe] Or, diligence. Study and diligence, readily and carefully to put in practice what I commanded you, to correct your errour and neglect, in not inflicting the cenſure of the Church upon the inceſtuous perſon.

clearing of our ſelves] That is, declaration of your innocence that you wilfully offend not, which you made good upon the ſight of your errour, by your ſevere proceeding againſt the guilty offendour.

what indignation] Diſtaſte and offence which you took, both at the ſinne and ſinner.

what fear] That is, holy dread of the provoked judgment of God upon the whole Church, by ſuch an abominable ſinne committed, and not puniſhed.

vehement deſire] Great affection to the glory of God, and my own perſon and miniſtery, and unfained willingneſſe to amend what was amiſſe.

what zeal] In executing that with great fervour and ſeverity that the Apoſtle gave them in charge, for removing and avoiding the ſcandal.

what revenge] Either taken upon the inceſtuous perſon, by the cenſure of Excommunication pronounced againſt him, or againſt your ſelves, by the great grief you expreſs'd for having been ſo negligent before, puniſhing your ſelves for not puniſhing him.

clear in this matter] Not indeed of all fault, for neglect of exerciſing eccleſiaſtical diſcipline in them was a fault, but clear from any taking part with that foul perſon, or giving any liking or approbation of that inceſtuous contract.

V. 12. I did it not for his cauſe that had done the wrong, &c.] That which moved me to write unto you ſo ſharply, was not the injury either offered by the ſon, or ſuffered by the Father, but the publike ſcandal of the Church; εἰς τὸ κοινὸν πληγέντος καὶ τῆς ἐκκλησίας διαβληθείσης, as Saint Chryſoſtome well obſerveth; though the ſinne were in the inceſtuous perſon onely, and the particular wrong done to his Father; yet in regard that this inceſtuous contract was tolerated among the Corinthians, and no cenſure inflicted upon the delinquent, the whole Church received a wound in it, and the enemies of the truth took occaſion to blaſpheme the holy name and profeſſion of Chriſtians, as if ſuch foul facts as this was, were fruits of Chriſtian liberty, or practices allowed by the doctrine of the Goſpel.

V. 14. before Titus] Or, concerning Titus.

V. 15. inward affection] Gr. bowels.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. WE do you to wit of the] Or, we declare, or, make known unto you the.

the grace of God beſtowed] The bounty of the Macedonians he calleth χάριν, either from χαίρειν, or from χαρίζομαι, either as the word is derived from a verb ſignifying to rejoyce, becauſe what they beſtowed upon the Saints at Jeruſalem, they did it moſt willingly and cheerfully; or as the word is derived from a verb ſignifying freely to give, thereby intimating, that that charity whereby we freely give to others, is a free gift of God to us, Donatur nobis, non tantùm quod donamus, ſed etiam ut donemus.

V. 2. in a great trial of affliction] For thoſe manifold afflictions wherewith the Lord tryed them, did not onely not ſlack their joyfull readineſſe, but alſo made it much more excellent and famous. Affliction is as a File, whereby God brightens the graces of the ſpirit in his Children.

and their deep poverty] As a dark foyl ſets off an orient diamond, ſo the great afflictions of the Churches of Macedonia ſet off their ſpiritual joy, and their extream poverty their rich liberality.

their liberality] The Original ἁπλότητος, which though it be ſometimes taken for liberality, as Rom. 12. 8. yet properly it ſignifieth ſimplicity; that which Clemens Alexandrinus termeth ἀπολυλτων ϗ ἀνεπίδεικτον, ſingleneſſe of heart; a virtue whereby a man is inclined to do works of mercy and bounty freely and abſolutely, without any ſecret ends to gain any thing thereby to himſelf; as he whom the Poet taxed did, Munera magna quidem miſit, ſed miſit in hamo, Et piſcatorem piſcis amare poteſt. He who contributeth to the neceſſity of the poor, ſimply to releeve them, and in obedience of Gods command, without any other motive or inducement, deſerveth that commendation which the Apoſtle here giveth to the Macedonians of πλοῦτος τῆς ἁπλότητος.

V. 5. not as we hoped] He amplifieth the forwardneſſe of the Macedonians in this, that they alſo deſired Paul to ſtir up the Corinthians to accompliſh the giving of alms by ſending again of Titus unto them, they were not onely free of their own bounty towards the Saints at Jeruſalem, but alſo excited others to the like bounty; and as Bernard ſaith, Major eſt in amore Dei, qui plures traxerit ad amorem Dei; He more loves God, or is greater in his love, who draws more to his love: ſo ſaith the Oratour, That charity is greater, which not onely releeveth it ſelf the poor, but moveth others alſo to the like releef, and openeth not onely our own treaſures, but the treaſures of others to charitable collections.

V. 8. I ſpeak not by commandment] Though the Apoſtle might have laid his command upon them in this kind, ſith charity is a duty required of every Chriſtian, who is bound to contribute to the neceſſity of the Saints, according to his ability; yet he rather commendeth this duty unto them, than commandeth it, Philem. 8, 9. becauſe the more willing and free our charitable contributions are, the more acceptable to God and man: As the Myrrhe which ſweateth out of the tree of its own accord, is far more precious than that which runneth out after the tree is prick'd or cut; Sudant ſponte priuſquam incidantur ſtacten dictam cui nulla præfertur. Plin. nat. hiſt.

and to prove] Gr. and proving.

V. 9. for your ſakes he became poor] He who as God was Lord of all, yet for our ſakes ſuſtained poverty upon earth, that by his temporal poverty we might be enriched ſpiritually; by whoſe example the Corinthians ought to part with ſome of their temporal goods to ſupply the poverty of their brethren, that by their prayers they might be enriched ſpiritually. What ſhould we not willingly beſtow upon our poor brethren for Chriſts ſake, who not onely beſtoweth all graces upon us, but was alſo himſelf beſtowed for us?

rich] Gr. enriched.

V. 10. not onely to do] But alſo to do willingly: for he noteth out a ready willingneſſe, without any enforcement by any other men, much leſſe came it of ambition or vain-glory.

forward] Gr. willing.

V. 12. it is accepted according to that which a man hath] Bounty is not to be eſteemed according to mens wealth and the outward gifts they beſtowed, but according to their free heart. The two Mites which the poor widow caſt into the treaſury, Luk. 21. 3. were more in Gods account, and more to her alſo, than two talents from ſome other, who might better ſpare two talents than ſhe one Mite.

V. 14. that there may be equality] That is, that they and you may be charged alike; they when they are full to ſupply your wants; and you when you are full, to ſupply their wants.

V. 15. He that had gathered much, &c.] See Exod. 16. 18. Though the Children of Iſrael in the wilderneſſe, according to Gods command, gathered Manna, ſome more, ſome leſſe; yet when they did mete it with an Omer, he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered leſſe, had no lack: this hiſtory the Apoſtle elegantly applyeth to the diſpenſation of Chriſtian bounty and charity, which ought to be ſo ordered by the diſcretion of the Governours of the Church, that they who receive more, may have no overplus, and they that receive leſſe, may ſuſtain no want; that as all the Iſraelites had according to their eating, and the number of their family, that which was ſufficient ; ſo here by a careful diſtribution,with an eye to the ſeveral wants of them that are to be releeved, all may be ſufficiently provided for.

V. 18. whoſe praiſe is in the Goſpel] That is, either in the Goſpel written by him,and (if the words be taken in that ſenſe, as Saint Jerome obſerveth) he meaneth St.Luke the Evangeliſt : or in the Goſpel preached by him,and then he may mean ſome other, as Barnabas and Apollo, who were praiſed in all Churches for their excellent gifts in preaching the Goſpel.

V. 19. grace] Or, gifts.

V.21. Providing for honeſt things] It is not ſufficient that we doe thoſe things which are in themſelves honeſt and juſt in the ſight of God; but we muſt ſo do them, that men may take no juſt offence at them,or ſuſpect that we have any ſiniſter end in doing them : As we muſt approve our Conſcience to God,ſo we muſt have an honeſt care of our reputation among men. See Rom.12.17.

V.22. I have in you] Or,he hath.

V.23. Whether any do inquire of Titus] He commends thoſe in ſpecial whom he ſends to receive the collection for the Saints, that the Corinthians might not doubt to put into their hands thoſe ſummes of money which were given for the relief of the Saints at Jeruſalem : and the meaning of the whole verſe is this, For Titus, if any inquire of him,that which I can ſay of him, is, that I ſo far truſt him that he is my fellow and helper to you-ward ; and for the other brethren, if any inquire of them, the teſtimony I can truly afford them is this, that they are truſted by divers Churches, whoſe meſſengers they are, and their life and converſation is ſuch, that they have gained much glory to Chriſt,and are an honour to the Goſpel.

V. 24. the proof of your love and of our boaſting] That is, give this experiment of your love,and make good my boaſting of you, that all Churches may be witneſſes of your godly dealing, in whoſe preſence you are, for ſo much as there are with you meſſengers, whom they have choſen by all their conſent, and ſent them unto you.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ. 1. T*Ouching the miniſtring*] He wiſely meeteth with the ſuſpition which the Corinthians might conceive, as if in urging them ſo earneſtly to contribute liberally to the poor, he ſhould doubt of their good will and inclination of themſelves to ſo charitable a work,therefore he profeſſeth,that he doth it not to teach them that they ought to releeve the Saints by their bounty, ſeeing that he had become ſurety for them to the Macedonians, but onely to ſtirre them up,who were running of themſelves, to the end that all things might both be in a better readineſſe at his coming, and the collection more liberal.

V.2. Achaia was ready a year ago] Achaia is the Countrey wherein the City of Corinth was ſituated, and ſometimes the word is taken generally for all Greece, ſometimes particularly for a part of Peloponeſus, known by that name. So Heſychius, Ἀχαιοὶ οἱ ἕλληνες κυρίως δὲ ἀχαιοὶ, οἱ κατῳκηκότες μέρος τῆς Πελοποννήσου τὴν καλουμένην ἀχαΐαν.

your zeal hath provoked very many] Or, ſtirred up. The Apoſtle in this Chapter termeth the bountiful contributions of the Corinthians to the Saints by the name of divers virtues, Ζῆλος, ἁπλότης, χάρις, εὐλογία, and δικαιοσύνη, zeal, ſimplicity, grace, benediction, and righteouſneſs. Zeal, becauſe it proceeded out of fervent love, and ſo much tended to Gods glory ; ſimplicity, becauſe they did it out of a free mind and ſingleneſs of heart,without any ſiniſter intention, or expecting any retribution : grace, becauſe it was the gift of God proceeding from his grace : benediction or bleſſing, becauſe Gods bleſſing enables them to it, and the poor Saints bleſſe God for this ſupply of their wants : laſtly, righteouſneſſe , either becauſe pious bounty is a part of that righteouſneſſe or juſtice in general, which compriſeth all virtues ; ἐν δὲ δικαιοσύνῃ συλλήβδην πᾶσ' ἀρετή ἐστι, juſtitia in ſeſe virtutes continet omnes : or becauſe we are not Lords of the goods of this life, but ſtewards onely,and he is an unjuſt Steward who holds that wholly in his own hands,for his own advantage, which by order from his Maſter he ought to diſpenſe to others for their releef and ſuſtenance.

V.4. in this ſame confident boaſting] Gr.in the ſubſtance, or foundation of this boaſting. The word in the Original, ὑπόστασις,may either ſignifie ſuch a ſtayedneſſe and ſetledneſſe of mind, as cannot be moved with any terrour or fear,and ſo it ſheweth the aſſured confidence Saint Paul had in them, that they would make good what he had promiſed in their behalf : or it may ſignifie a ground or a foundation ; and ſo the meaning is,that he ſhould not be aſhamed of his boaſting to others of their readineſſe, becauſe there was a good ground and foundation for it ; either the publike faith of the Corinthians, who engaged themſelves to contribute liberally to the Saints ; or ſome preſent pledge which he ſaw thereof ; namely ſome remarkable ſums collected a yeer before.

V. 5. make up] Or, make fit, or ready.

bounty] Gr.bleſſing.

whereof ye had notice before] Or, which hath been ſo much ſpoken of before.

of bounty, and not as of covetouſneſſe] Gr.bleſſing. Or,as an advantage. The words may carry a double ſenſe, either that the Apoſtle would have them ſpeedily to ſend this collection as being a free benevolence, and not to ſlack the ſending it out of covetouſneſſe to make any benefit of the money of the poor ſo long in their hands. Or that it might be ready as a matter of bounty, that is freely coming from them and cheerfully ; not as money comes out of the hands of covetous men ; that is, hardly, and with much grudging and repining.

V. 6. He which ſoweth ſparingly] Alms muſt be given neither niggardly nor unwillingly,but frankly and freely, ſeeing it is the ſowing of that ſeed that will bring us a plentifull harveſt both here and hereafter : other ſeed where we ſow it, there we reap the encreaſe of it ; but of this ſeed we reap not onely a plentiful crop where it is ſowed on earth,but a much more plentiful in heaven.

he which ſoweth bountifully] Gr.with bleſſings. Word for word it is,he which ſoweth in benedictions or bleſſings ſhall reap in benedictions ; and the Apoſtle alludeth either to Pſal.68. 9. or Ezek. 34. 26. in which a plentiful ſhowr of rain is called a ſhowr of bleſſing or bleſſings : the Apoſtles meaning is,that he who contributeth liberally to the poor,and ſoweth very much ſeed, ſhall reap in bleſſings, that is, thereby ſhall receive from Gods hand not one kind of bleſſing onely,but divers,bleſſings of the right hand, and bleſſings of the left, temporal bleſſings,and ſpiritual bleſſings, in this life, and in the life to come.

bountifully] Gr.with bleſſings.

V. 7. God loveth a cheerful giver] See Prov.11.25. Rom.12.8. Eccleſ.35.9. That which is extorted from a man he properly giveth not ; for liberality implyeth liberty, and neceſſity in this kind and liberty cannot well ſtand together : God loveth a cheerful giver, becauſe he gives his heart firſt to God, before he gives his almes to the poor ; and giving that which he giveth with a cheerful countenance, he more comforteth the receiver,giving hope of future bounty. For what a man doth cheerfully, he will do again upon a like good occaſion. Pliny writeth that it was obſerved among the Romanes, that never any good came to a man by offering a beaſt in ſacrifice, renitentem & trahentem ſe ab aris ; by a beaſt that violently drew back from the Altar, and could not be brought to it but with much force : and moſt certain it is, that God eſteemeth of no offering of ours which is not as free as liberal,according to our ability.

V. 8. make all grace abound towards you] The Greek Scholiaſt acutely obſerveth, that the Apoſtle here prayeth for the Corinthians, ἐν τοῖς σαρκικοῖς αὐτάρκειαν, ἐν τοῖς πνευματικοῖς περισσείαν, a ſufficiency in temporal bleſſings, but an exuberancy or abounding in ſpirituall. For in temporals we have too much,as well as too little ; and therefore Solomon prayeth for a mediocrity : but of ſpiritual bleſſings, eſpecially ſuch as appertain to our ſanctification and ſalvation, we cannot have too great a proportion; the more we abound in them,the more happy are we.

V.9. He hath diſperſed abroad] See Pſal.112.9.

his righteouſneſſe] Righteouſneſſe in this place is taken for bounty, as elſe-where,Hoſ.10.12. Sowe to your ſelves in righteouſneſſe ; and Mal.4.2. Chriſt is called the Sun of righteouſneſſe, becauſe he freely and bountifully communicates both enlightening and ſanctifying graces,as the Sun doth his light and his heat.

for ever] Though the gift he beſtoweth paſſeth away, yet his bounty remaineth for ever,both in the fame of his virtue, and much more in the eternal reward thereof in heaven, Quas dederis ſolas ſemper habebis opes.

V. 10. miniſtreth ſeed to the ſower] See Iſa.55.10.

V. 12. adminiſtration of this ſervice] Gr.oblation and ſervice, or office, Rom.15.16. An excellent and double fruit of liberality towards the Saints is,that it giveth occaſion to praiſe God,and that our faith alſo is thereby made manifeſt. The word in the Original is λειτουργία, which ſignifies not every ſervice or miniſtery, but properly the publike ſervice and holy office of prayers and oblations to God ; and thereby implyeth that theſe their alms-deeds were rather acts of piety than liberality, becauſe they contributed to them of Jeruſalem not onely as poor, but as Saints of the ſame profeſſion with them, and that they ſent them as a holy offering unto God for the releef of his deareſt ſervants.

V. 13. they glorifie] Gr. glorifying.

V. 15. Thanks be unto God for his unſpeakable gift] Leſt the Corinthians ſhould be puffed up with his great commendation and praiſe of their pious bounty,he ſhutteth up his exhortation with this paſſionate exclamation, wherein he aſcribeth the glory and thankſgiving not to the Corinthians, who were but the conduits of Gods bounty,but to God himſelf,who is the fountain of all goodneſſe, who both enclined their hearts, and furniſhed them with means thus liberally to ſupply the neceſſity of his Saints. Some by this unſpeakable gift underſtand Chriſt himſelf,who is called the gift of God, Joh.4.10. Others, the Goſpel, which is likewiſe an unſpeakable gift : but the coherence with the former words ſeemeth rather to refer us to the exceeding grace of God in the Corinthians mentioned in the verſe immediatly going before ; ſo the plain meaning is,Thanks be unto God for his unſpeakable gift, which he hath beſtowed upon you in filling you with his grace, and ſtirring up your hearts in ſo liberal a manner to releeve the Saints at Jeruſalem, whereby ſo much glory redoundeth to God, and honour to our holy profeſſion.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. G*Entleneſſe of Chriſt*] Here he beginneth to vindicate his miniſtery from the contempt and ſcorn which the falſe apoſtles put upon it; and firſt of all he profeſſeth that he was gentle and moderate after the example of Chriſt: but if they continued ſtill to deſpiſe his gentleneſſe, he proteſteth unto them that he will ſhew indeed how farre they are deceived, who make no other account of the office of an Apoſtle, than they do of worldly Offices, that is, according to outward appearance. The word in the Original ἐπιεικεία, is derived from εἴκω, to give place, or to yeeld, and it ſignifieth a condeſcending to the infirmity of others, and a moderating the rigour and ſeverity of the law by equity; for ſummum jus eſt ſumma injuria.

in preſence] Or, in outward appearance.

in preſence am baſe among you] Greek lowly. This he ſpeaketh ironically: not that he was vile and baſe when he was preſent with them; or as if he carried not himſelf according to the dignity of his place; but as it were, by way of conceſſion for the preſent, as if he had ſaid, If my bodily preſence be weak, and my ſpeech contemptible, as the falſe apoſtles would have you beleeve, how mean and baſe ſoever they eſteem of me in preſence, yet I deſire you not to provoke me to ſhew what I am, and exerciſe boldly that power which Chriſt hath given me.

V. 2. think] Or, reckon.

walked according to the fleſh] As though I had no other aid and help than that which outwardly I ſeem to have. Fleſh here, that is, his weak condition and ſtate in reſpect of outward means, he ſetteth againſt his ſpiritual and Apoſtolical dignity.

V. 3. For though we walk in the fleſh] Gr. For walking in. Though we be like unto other frail men, yet we come furniſhed with that ſtrength which no force of man can match: whether they reſiſt by craft and deceit, or by force and might; becauſe we fight with divine weapons, although we be men and live in reſpect of this life and the actions thereof according to the manner of other men with a great deal of weakneſſe and meanneſſe: yet notwithſtanding in our publike office, and chiefly againſt our adverſaries who oppoſe the Goſpel, we are armed with a divine and invincible power to confront all daring boldneſſe; and to beat down all rebellion, and to diſcover and confound all plots and machinations againſt the truth. Hereof we have an evident proof in the hiſtory of the Acts, in which the miraculous judgements of God are executed by the hands of the Apoſtles upon the enemies of the truth; as namely, Acts 5. 5, 10. and 13. 11. 1 Tim. 1. 20. Others do underſtand it of the efficacy of the Apoſtolical preaching, by denouncing and ſealing unto the wicked their condemnation, and making ſenſible impreſſions upon their conſciences, whereupon there followed many remarkable judgements, Acts 3. 20, 21. and 24. 26. 2 Cor. 13. 3.

V. 4. the weapons of our warfare] The means we employ to defend the cauſe of God, and to fight againſt Satan and his inſtruments.

are not carnall] That is, ſuch as natural men have recourſe unto, and gain authority withall, and do great things. As namely, riches, friends, honour, eloquence, favour of Princes, and the like: we conquer not our enemies by any of theſe, but rather by the contrary; poverty, weakneſſe, infamy, rudeneſſe, and plainneſſe of ſpeech; and fooliſhneſſe in the worlds account. Theſe weapons are made mighty through Gods power, who in nothing more ſheweth his glory, than by confounding glory by infamy; nor his power, than by confounding power by weakneſſe; nor his wiſdome, than by confounding wiſdome by that which in the worlds account is folly. 1 Cor. 1. 26, 27.

but mighty through God] Or, to God. Oecumenius will have us obſerve how farre the Apoſtle is from all kind of arrogancy, οὐκ εἶπεν ἡμεῖς ἐσμὲν δυνατοί, ἀλλὰ τὰ ὅπλα, he ſaith not, We are mighty through God, but our weapons are mighty through God, that is, by the virtue and power which God doth adde thereunto, both in working of miracles, Mark 16. 20. and in moving the heart and convincing the conſcience by his Spirit, Acts 16. 14. and in puniſhing thoſe that withſtand the Goſpel, Acts 13. 11. In the Original it is, δυνατὰ τῷ Θεῷ, mighty to God; that is, to accompliſh his will, who is the great Warriour, the Lord of Hoſts, that manageth this war for the Church.

V. 5. imaginations] Or, reaſonings.

every high thing that] Gr. every height that.

bringing into captivity] An amplification of the ſpiritual virtue of the weapons above mentioned, which in ſuch ſort conquer the enemies of the truth, be they never ſo crafty and mighty, that it bringeth ſome of them by repentance unto Chriſt, and juſtly puniſheth others that are ſtubbornly obſtinate, ſeparating them from others who yeeld obedience to the Goſpel.

V. 8. for edification, and not for your deſtruction] Though the power of the Church proveth deſtructive unto ſome, namely, to ſuch as by the cenſures thereof are not brought to repentance and an humble confeſſion of their ſins, and ſubmiſſion to the Governours of the Church; but ſtand out in their obſtinacy: For they are cut off from Chriſts myſtical body, and from the means of grace and the communion of Saints: yet this power was given for edification, and even this tendeth much to the edification of the Church, that all ſcandals be removed, and thoſe perſons ſevered from the Congregation, who would otherwiſe infect it with hereſie, ſchiſm, or ſcandalous converſation.

V. 10. his bodily preſence is weak] Gr. the preſence of his body is weak.

V. 11. think this] Or, make account.

V. 12. For we dare not make our ſelves of the number] Being conſtrained to refell the fooliſh brags of the falſe apoſtles, he profeſſeth that they are able to do nothing anſwerable to their great brags; but that they arrogated falſely to themſelves thoſe things which they neither did, nor could do: and as for himſelf, though he might boaſt of excellent things, yet he will not paſſe the bounds which God hath meaſured him out; according whereunto he came even unto them in preaching the Goſpel of Chriſt; and truſteth that he ſhall go farther when they have ſo profited that he ſhall not need to tarry any longer amongſt them to inſtruct them.

meaſuring themſelves by themſelves] Gr. in. They contemn others, and meaſure all their actions by the line which they have drawn to themſelves.

amongſt] Gr. with, or, to.

are not wiſe] Or, underſtand not.

V. 13. without our meaſure] Though the whole world were the Apoſtles Dioceſſes, and they had commiſſion to preach to all nations; yet they took their journeys into ſeveral parts, where God chalked them out the way, and they were careful as not to interrupt or hinder one another, ſo neither to enter upon one anothers labours: on the contrary, the falſe apoſtles ranging whereſoever they liſt wrought upon advantage, and arrogated to themſelves the converſion of thoſe countreys, where the true Apoſtles had before planted the faith.

rule] Or, line.

V. 15. of other mens labours] Gr. in.

enlarged by you] Or, magnified in you.

V. 16. not to boaſt in another mans line] Or, rule. A metaphor taken from builders, who ſtretch their line out where they mean to build; and the Apoſtles meaning is, that he would not intrude into any other mans work; nor deſire to ſow the ſeed of the word in thoſe Regions and Countreys which other men had prepared and husbanded with the preaching of the Goſpel.

V. 17. But he that glorieth, &c.] See Jer. 9. 24. 1 Cor. 1. 31.

glory in the Lord] He ſomewhat mitigateth that which he ſpake of himſelf, and therewith alſo prepareth the Corinthians to hear other things of the like kind, profeſſing that he ſeeketh nothing elſe but to approve himſelf to God whoſe glory he only ſeeketh.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ. 1. I*N my folly*] Gr. of folly. He granteth that after a ſort he may ſeem to incurre the cenſure of folly, but he addeth withall, that he doth it againſt his will for their profit, becauſe he ſeeth them deceived by certain cunning men through the craft and ſubtilty of Satan. To commend a mans ſelf, though truly, ſeems to ſavour of folly and vain-glory, yet in Saint Pauls caſe to ſpeak the truth concerning the infallible teſtimonies of his Apoſtleſhip, and to ſtop the mouths of the falſe apoſtles, who traduced his perſon, and vilified his miniſtery, with a ſweet rhetoricall inſinuation and craving pardon, as he doth, was a part of godly wiſdome.

bear with me] Or, you do bear with me.

V. 2. with godly jealouſie] Gr. the zeal of God. He ſpeaketh as a wooer, yet as one who ſeeketh them not for himſelf, but for God.

eſpouſed you to one husband] The Greek word, ἡρμοσάμην, ſignifieth, either I have fitted and prepared you, or, I have eſpouſed you: and the Apoſtle ſeemeth to allude to Hoſea 2. 19. the husband is Chriſt, Matth.25.6. the Virgin Bride the Church of Corinth in regard of her faith, yet unſpotted: the contract is made in this life, but the marriage celebrated in the life to come, Apoc. 19.7.

V.3. through his ſubtilty] Gr. in.

corrupted from the ſimplicity that is in Chriſt] As precious Liquour is corrupted by mingling it with other water; ſo is the doctrine of the Goſpel, by mingling therewith either Philoſophical ſpeculations, or Jewiſh traditions, wherewith the falſe Apoſtles blended it. Chap. 2. 17. Col.2.8,16.

V.4. preacheth another Jeſus] A more perfect doctrine of Jeſus Chriſt. In which words he ſheweth that they deceive themſelves, if they look to receive of any other man, either a more excellent Goſpel, or more excellent gifts of the holy Ghoſt, than they had received by his miniſtery: withall in the words, he that cometh, he taxeth the falſe Apoſtles, Gal.1.8,9. who came of themſelves and were not ſent by God.

V.5. ſuppoſe I] Gr. conceive, or reckon that I. Chap.10.11.

chiefeſt apoſtles] Gr. over and above, or, exceedingly above.

V.6. But though I be rude in ſpeech] Saint Paul lacked not that kinde of eloquence which was meet for an Apoſtle of Chriſt, and fit for the Goſpel, but he willingly wanted that painted kinde of ſpeech, and affected ſtrains which the falſe Apoſtles ſo much bragg'd of. Though S. Jerome upon the third of the Epiſtle to the Epheſ. noteth certain ſolæciſmes, hyperbata, & deficiencies, in Saint Pauls manner of expreſſing of himſelf: yet S. Auſtin in his 4. Book, De Doct. Criſt.cap. 7. and S. Chryſoſtome in his Comments, and the ſame Jerome, Epiſt. 61. highly extoll Saint Pauls eloquence, to which few or none ever attained, but this eloquence proceeded not from the ſtudy of rhetorick, nor was taught him in the Schools, but given him by the Spirit.

V.7. Have I committed an offence] Among other aſperſions which the falſe Apoſtles caſt upon Saint Paul, this was one, that he was a poor ſilly man, getting his living by his handy-craft, and preaching gratis, not entertained by the Church, nor allowed any honourable ſtipend; whereunto the Apoſtle anſwereth, that the Corinthians in this behalf were more beholding to him, that he was content to take any pains for their ſakes, and when he lacked, to travel for his living with his own hands in part, and partly alſo when poverty conſtrained him, he choſe rather to make uſe of the benevolence of other Churches, that he might not be any wayes burdenſome to the Corinthians.

V.8. I robbed other Churches] It was lawful for Saint Paul to receive a ſtipend for his labours in the miniſtery, yet becauſe when he preached at Corinth, he received wages to defray his neceſſary charge from other poorer Churches, he by a metaphor calleth that a kinde of robbing them, becauſe he received from them that which they could not well ſpare, and that he ought to have received it rather from the Corinthians, with whom he then reſided, and exerciſed his miniſtery, and ſhould have had his wants ſupplyed by them.

V.9. I was chargeable to no man] Or, I chill'd, or benummed none, or fainted not in any thing. See chap. 12.13. The word in the Originall, κατενάρκησα, as the Greek Scholiaſt obſerveth, ſignifieth a fainting or ſlackneſſe, chilneſſe, or benummedneſſe: and the Apoſtles meaning is, that though he were in great want, when he preached to them, and was not ſupplyed by them; yet his zeal was no whit thereby cooled, nor his induſtry abated, he flagg'd not any way in his miniſtery, no nor ſolicited any of the Corinthians to afford him neceſſary maintenance, nor lay heavy upon them, though their bounty ſlackned to him.

V.10. no man ſhall ſtop me] Gr. this boaſting ſhall not be ſtopped in me.

V.13. deceitful workers] Or, workmen. Who ſeem to labour in the Lords vineyard, but indeed trifle out the time, and rather do hurt than good. Or, he calleth them deceitful, becauſe whatſoever mask of zeal they put upon them, as if they ſought nothing but Gods glory, yet indeed they ſought their own gain and wrought upon advantage.

transforming themſelves into] Gr. transfigured into.

V.14. transformed] Or, transfigured.

an angel of light] A good and holy one, partaking of the brightneſſe of the celeſtial glory, living and dwelling in the ſame, whereas the evil angels are confined to everlaſting darkneſſe, Col. 1. 13. 2 Pet.2.4. Jude 6. Now Satan may be ſaid to transform himſelf to an angel of light, either when he aſſumes unto himſelf a lightſome body, as if he were an angel of heaven, or when he ſuggeſteth things that ſeem to ſavour of piety, zeal, and holineſſe, as if the motion proceeded from an holy and bleſſed angel: whereas thoſe things which he ſuggeſteth, as he ſuggeſteth them, tend indeed and truly to the diſhonour of God, and the ruine of their ſouls.

V.15. transformed] Gr. transfigured.

V.16. receive me] Or, ſuffer.

V.17. I ſpeak it not after the Lord] Whatſoever Saint Paul wrote in his Epiſtles, he wrote by divine inſpiration, yet when he delivereth that for which he hath no expreſſe commandement from God, he ſaith, he ſpeaketh by permiſſion, and not by command, 1 Cor. 7. 6. and verſe 12. to the reſt ſpeak I, not the Lord] and ſo in this place, becauſe the Spirit of God in Scripture no where adviſeth to commend our ſelves, or glory of our gifts, but the contrary rather; he ſaith, he ſpeaketh not this according to the Lord, but as it were by way of folly; not by way of folly indeed, but as it were fooliſhly: take the words as they ſound by themſelves, they ſeem to ſavour of folly and vain-glory, but conſider upon what occaſion they are ſpoken, and to what end, and what profitable truth is contained in them, and ſo they ſavour of nothing leſſe than folly.

confident of boaſting] Or, ground of my boaſting. See chap. 9. 4.

V.20. bring you into bondage] Here he deſcribeth the inſolent carriage of the falſe apoſtles, and toucheth alſo upon the Corinthians themſelves, who perſwading themſelves that they were very wiſe men, did not mark in the mean ſeaſon, how their new Teachers abuſed their ſimplicity for advantage.

V.21. I ſpeak fooliſhly] Gr. in fooliſhneſſe.

V.22. ſo am I] See Phil. 3. 5.

V.23. I am more] Paul being honourable indeed, not onely defendeth his miniſtery openly, but magnifieth it alſo: not for his own ſake, but becauſe they wounded the Goſpel through his ſides, and by the vilifying of his perſon and office, he ſaw his doctrine come into hazard.

in deaths oft] In the pangs and ſorrows of death, or in danger of preſent death.

V.24. fourty ſtripes ſave one] The Apoſtle alludeth to the 25. of Deuteronomie v. 3. But then it may be demanded, why in ſcourging Saint Paul, they abated one laſh, and gave him but 39. ſtripes. Manahemus Recinenſis ſaith, that the Jews inflicted 39. ſtripes, with a reference to the curſes mentioned in the Law, which were preciſely 39. Others conceive that out of ſome pity, and that they might be ſure to keep within ſome compaſſe, and the number of ſtripes permitted by the Law, they abated one. Abenezra bringeth their cabala or tradition for it; and moſt likely it is, that ſuch a cuſtome was among them, or elſe out of their hatred to the Apoſtle, they would not in five beatings have omitted five ſtripes.

V.25. beaten with rods] See Acts 16. 22.

once was I ſtoned] See Acts 14.19.

ſuffered ſhipwrack] See Acts 27.

I have been in the deep] Some by the deep, here underſtand a deep dungeon whoſe name was Bythos, where S. Paul lay hid for a time at Lyſtra. Others more probably that by deep is meant the Sea in which he floted, or ſwam after divers his ſhipwracks: thus the Greek Scholiaſt underſtandeth it: νυχθήμερον ἐνχέμενος μετὰ τὸ ναυάγιον, and Sulpitius epiſt. 1. Non minor mihi videtur Gentium prædicator quem fluctus abſorbuit, & poſt triduum totidemq; noctes emergentem ex fundo unda reſtituit.

V.26. waters] Gr. rivers.

V.28. that are without] The Greek word παρεκτὸς, ſignifieth not properly the things that are without, but the things that are beſides, and over and above: and the meaning is, beſides thoſe things which I have now reckoned with the reſt, the care of all the Churches lyeth upon me.

that which cometh upon me daily] Gr. my cumberance is daily.

V.29. Who is weak] That is, wavering in his faith, conſtancy, or patience, who is ready to ſtumble or fall, and I my ſelf am not weak? that is, do not tremble for his ſake, and for the danger of his falling? By weakneſſe, in the ſecond place he meaneth not the imbecillity of his own faith, or want of ghoſtly ſtrength or courage, he being to comfort and ſtrengthen them all, but a tender taking to heart, and a compaſſionate care of thoſe that are weak in the Church.

who is offended, and I burn not] Gr. ſcandalized, 1 Cor. 8. 13. That is, who is diſtempered, or ſcandalized by any offence, imprudency, temerity of others being in danger of falling, and I burn not with ſorrow and holy indignation, and with ardent zeal, for the glory of God and the ſalvation of thoſe that are ſcandalized?

V.30. If I muſt needs glory] He turneth that againſt the adverſaries which they objected againſt him, as if he ſhould ſay, they allege my calamities to take away my authority from me, but if I would boaſt my ſelf, I would take no better argument than my ſufferings for the Goſpel, and God himſelf is my witneſſe, that I deviſe and forge nothing.

V.32. In Damaſcus the governour under Aretas the King] See Acts 9. 24.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. I Will come] Gr. For I will come.

viſions and revelations] Some diſtinguiſh viſions from revelations,after this manner : a viſion,ſay they,is when ſomething is ſupernaturally repreſented to the ſight, whereof yet the party knoweth not the meaning and ſignification : ſuch was the viſion of Pharoah and Nebuchadonoſor : a revelation is, when ſomething is ſupernaturally repreſented to the ſight, and the meaning and ſignification thereof is made known to the party,who hath ſuch a viſion, and ſuch were the viſions of the Prophets. But becauſe it is not probable that S.Paul had any viſion,but withall Chriſt revealed unto him what that viſion meant,and imported: Others with more probability diſtinguiſh viſions from revelations, that viſions may be without an extaſie, as when the women ſaw the Angels at the Sepulcher they were affrighted,yet not in an extaſie ; but revelations, ſuch as S. Paul here ſpeaketh of,were apparitions in an extaſie,ſuch as was that of Peter in the Acts 10.17.and S.John's,Apoc.1.10.

V. 2. I knew a man in Chriſt] Or,know. Either the meaning is, I ſpeak this in Chriſt , that is, be it ſpoken without vain-glory ; for I ſeek nothing but Chriſt Jeſus onely : or I knew a man in Chriſt , that is , a Chriſtian and beleever, a man even my ſelf, who for all that will not be accounted otherwiſe of, than a man, no God, no Angel: thus he ſpeaketh of himſelf in a third perſon, in token of his humility , as if it were a matter that befell him without himſelf. The words in Chriſt may alſo carry the form of an oath, as Rom. 9. 1. and ſo in Chriſt, is all one, as if he had ſaid by Chriſt.

whether in the body, &c.] Whether this was brought to paſſe by God, framing in my ſoul ſome repreſentation of thoſe heavenly things without any actual ſeparation of the ſoul from the body ; or whether my ſoul was ſeparated a while really from the body, and tranſported into heaven to contemplate there theſe marvellous things I know not ; but ſure I am,ſuch things were really repreſented unto me. Or,the words may carry alſo this ſenſe , whether I was caught up into heaven with body and ſoul together, or with the ſoul onely,is unknown to me. Aquin.and other Schoolmen argue, that Saint Paul was onely in an extaſie,and for a time beſides himſelf , and that his ſoul was not actually ſevered from his body, for then he ſhould have been dead,and when afterwards he came to himſelf, raiſed from the dead. But neither will this follow (for according to the opinion of Philoſophers, and ſome Divines alſo, who diſtinguiſh the Spirit, or reaſonable ſoul, from the vegetative and ſenſitive , the reaſonable ſoul of Saint Paul might have been actually ſevered from his body for a time , and yet he not dead : his ſenſitive ſoul remaining ſtill in his body) nor can any man without preſumption take upon him to determine that which the Apoſtle himſelf could not reſolve, ſuch a determination how probable ſoever it may ſeem, S.Auſtine in his 12. book De. Gen. ad lit. cap. 3. & lib.de pec.Orig.cap.23. deſervedly cenſures for impudent and raſh.

caught up to the third heaven] That is, into the Empyreal heaven, the heaven of heavens , or ſeat of the bleſſed ; It is called the third heaven , becauſe the Scriptures ſpeak of a three-fold heaven ; the Aerial heaven , in which the fowls flying are called fowls of heaven, Matth.6.26. The ſecond,the Sidereal, in which the lights are,called *Stars of heaven,Gen.*15.5. The third, the uppermoſt of all,the Empyreal, in which the Angels reſiding are called the Angels of heaven , *Mat.*24.36.

V. 3. knew] Or,know.

V. 4. caught up into Paradiſe] The Rabbins diſtinguiſh Paradiſe from heaven , affirming Paradiſe to be the receptacle or place of abode for ſouls, after the ſeparation from the body, but heaven the place where after the day of judgment the bodies and ſoules of the righteous ſhall everlaſtingly dwell. But neither can any ſuch diſtinction be proved out of Scripture, nor if it could,can Paradiſe be taken ſo in this place ; for it is evident by comparing this verſe with the ſecond,that the ſame place is meant by Paradiſe and heaven. If there lye any myſtery in the varying of the word, and putting Paradiſe for heaven, it ſeems to be this, that the Apoſtle in this fourth verſe intimates, that in this rapture , beſides the contemplation of Celeſtiall myſteries , he felt unſpeakable delight and pleaſure , like to, or exceeding that which Adam took in the terreſtriall Paradiſe.

unſpeakable words] The Greek ἄῤῥητα , ſignifieth words not uttered, or, not to be uttered ; becauſe either they tranſcend mans capacity in this life,or that Saint Paul was forbidden to utter them,they being revealed to him in particular, to ſtrengthen him againſt all the difficulties he was to encounter withall in his Miniſtery , and not for the publike uſe of the Church ; for otherwiſe Paul hath faithfully revealed the whole counſell of GOD to the Church concerning mans ſalvation. See Acts the 20. 27.

lawful] Or,poſſible.

thorn in the fleſh,&c.] Or, ſharp ſtake,or,ſplinter. See Ezek. 28. 24. Some by this thorn in the fleſh underſtand concupiſcence , but neither will the words following, added by the Apoſtle by way of explication,viz. the meſſenger of Satan to buffet me, well agree to concupiſcence ; neither is it likely that Saint Paul who ſpent all his time in travel or toilſome labour, watching and faſting , ſhould be troubled with fleſhly luſts, and if he had been , no doubt he would have uſed that remedy which he preſcribed to others, affected with the like malady, 1 Cor. 7. 9. Others therefore underſtand by it , Alexander the Copperſmith, or ſome other Inſtrument of Satan , who uſed the Apoſtle reproachfully , and was as a thorn in his ſide ; or Satan himſelf, who, through Gods permiſſion,had power to puniſh the Apoſtle in his body, as he did Job, and Saint Jerome , and other Saints,if we may beleeve Eccleſiaſtical ſtories. But the remedy being ſpiritual,mentioned verſe 9. it is not probable that the malady was corporal. It ſhould ſeem therefore , that becauſe the Apoſtle was exalted by Viſions and Angelical apparitions, it pleaſed God to humble him in the like kind,by ſuffering Satan, transforming himſelf into an Angel of light , to ſet upon the Apoſtle in ſuch a furious manner , laying ſo hard both at his faith and his ſincerity , that the Apoſtle was much diſheartned thereby. This fearful aſſaulting and reproaching him to his face , was a kind of brow-beating or buffeting him : and becauſe it ſomewhat hindered him for a while in the chearful proſecuting of his buſineſſe , it is not unfitly compared to a thorn in the foot , with which a man cannot go but lamely, and with very great pain. In which regard the Apoſtle earneſtly beſought God that this Angelus Satan,or Satanæ , this evil and malignant Angel might depart from him ; which his requeſt though God granted not, yet at the third asking he vouchſafed him this gracious anſwer, That though he would not remove this wicked Angel ſuddenly from him, yet he would ſo fortifie the Apoſtle with his grace againſt this wicked Fiend , that hee ſhould get the Victory over him.

V. 9. My grace is ſufficient for thee] That is, my grace ſhall ſo ſtrengthen thee in all aſſaults of temptation, that thou ſhalt be more than a Conquerour through me : or, content thy ſelf with my favour and love , which neither by this nor any other affliction is taken away or impaired ; therefore faithfully indure this exerciſe of thy faith ; for the more thou or any of the faithfull are aſſaulted, the more grace doe I confer upon you, to conquer all temptations.

my ſtrength is made perfect in weakneſſe] The ſtrength or vertue of God can be neither increaſed nor diminiſhed , yet then is it ſaid to be perfected , when it manifeſteth it ſelf to the full , and demonſtrateth that nothing can overcome or conquer it. The greater infirmities men have , the grace of God ſheweth it ſelf the ſtronger and perfecter in ſupporting them in all aſſaults of temptation.

glory in mine infirmities] He concludeth, that he will onely ſet his croſſes and afflictions againſt the vain brags of the falſe Apoſtles, and therewith alſo excuſeth himſelf, for that by their importunity he was conſtrained to ſpeak ſo much of thoſe things as he did ; to wit , becauſe that of his Apoſtleſhip were contemned,his doctrine muſt needs fall to the ground.

may reſt upon me] Or,dwell. The Greek word σκηνώσῃ , ſignifieth to cover,or compaſſe me as a tent,whereby men doe ſhelter themſelves from the ſcorching of the Sun, and other injuries of the ayr , ſo the meaning is,that the power of Chriſt may be my onely ſafety and protection.

V. 10. I take pleaſure in infirmities] Gr. I think,or,like well of infirmities. I doe not onely bear them patiently , but alſo take great comfort in them.

when I am weak,then am I ſtrong] When I am weak in my ſelf,I am ſtrong in Chriſt ; or,when I am weak in the fleſh, I am ſtrong in the ſpirit. When he was caſt in priſon, and his feet made faſt in the ſtocks,he by his prayer cauſed the foundation of the priſon to be ſhaken ; when after he had ſuffered ſhipwrack, and was caſt into a barbarous Iſland,and there a Viper light upon his finger, and the Iſlanders gave him for a gone man , he not onely ſhook off the Viper without hurt,but alſo got great favour of the chief man in the Iſland, by curing his Father of a fever and bloudy flux ; and when he was brought before Nero,and all forſook him,yet even there (being a forlorn priſoner) he got the better of his potent adverſaries, and was delivered out of the mouth of the Lion. Thus God in his greateſt infirmities and diſtreſſes ſtrengthned and delivered him , that the Hiſtory of his life made good that which he here affirmeth of himſelf.

V. 11. for I ought to have been commended of you] You ought to have maintained the authority of my miniſtery, and given a teſtimony to the truth , how innocently I and my fellows carryed our ſelves among you. And here again he appealeth to the conſciences of the Corinthians,and maketh them witneſſes of thoſe things, whereby God had ſealed his Apoſtleſhip among them ; and again he declareth by certain arguments,how far he is from all covetouſneſs , and how tenderly and affectionately he loveth them in Chriſt.

for in nothing am I behind the very chiefeſt Apoſtles] Gr. was I inferiour to thee. See Chap.21.6.

V. 12. the ſignes of an Apoſtle] He taketh not the word ſigns here, as afterwards in this verſe, for wonders and mighty deeds, but by ſignes he meanes demonſtrationes à ſigno, evident arguments, whereby it may well appear, that he was indeed an Apoſtle of Jeſus Chriſt.

V. 13. I my ſelf was not burdenſome to you] Or, was not ſlack, or, failed in any thing towards you. See Chap. 11.9.

V. 14. I will not be burdenſome to you] Or, ſlack in any thing towards you.

V. 15. gladly ſpent and be ſpent] That is, not onely beſtow my pains and my eſtate, but alſo my body, and lay down my life for you. Here the Greek Scholiaſt noteth ſeven ſteps or degrees in the Apoſtles love; the firſt, he might have received maintenance from them, (Chriſt ſo commanding it, that the Miniſters of the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel) yet he would not. The ſecond, he was in want, yet would not be chargable to them any way to releeve him. The third, he preached conſtantly to them, though they allowed him nothing for his pains. The fourth, he was at great expence with them. The fifth, he not onely gladly beſtowed what he had among them, but was willing to be beſtowed, and ſacrifice his life for them. The ſixth, this all he doth for thoſe who did but coldly affect him. The ſeventh, though they in no way anſwered him in his love, but as his love ſtill grew hotter to them, theirs grew colder to him, yet he diminiſhed nothing of his love to them, or care for them.

you] Gr. your ſouls.

V. 19. think you that we excuſe our ſelves] He concludeth, that he writeth not theſe things unto them, as though he needed to defend himſelf, for he is guilty of nothing that is laid againſt him; but becauſe it is behovable for them to doubt nothing of his fidelity, who was their Inſtructer and Apoſtle.

V. 20. I ſhall be found unto you, ſuch as you would not] Having confirmed his authority unto them, he rebuketh them ſharply, and threatneth them alſo like an Apoſtle of Chriſt, that he will not ſpare them hereafter, unleſſe they repent, ſeeing that this is the third time he had warned them.

V. 21. God will humble me] He calleth the inflicting cenſures upon the Corinthians the abaſing of himſelf, becauſe as their proficiency in Chriſts School and growth in grace was a great cauſe of exaltation and glorying to him: ſo their falling into enormous crimes, and continuing in them without repentance, enforcing him to uſe his Apoſtolical power in cenſuring them, was a great hearts greef unto him, and occaſion of much dejection of mind.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. Coming to you] Gr. Tec. ready to come to you.

In the mouth, &c.] See Deut. 9.15.

V. 2. if I come again I will not ſpare] He threatneth here that he will make uſe of his Apoſtolical power, which was very great and extraordinary; for they not onely inflicted ſpiritual Cenſures, but alſo corporal: Paul ſtrook Bar-jeſus with blindneſſe, Act. 13. 11. Peter, Ananias and Saphira with death; and as was noted before, thoſe who were delivered by them to Satan, ſuffered not onely in ſoul, thereby being terrified in their conſcience, but alſo were often tormented in their body.

V. 3. Since ye ſeek a proof of Chriſt] A ſharp reprehenſion; for that while they deſpiſe the Apoſtles admonition, they tempt Chriſts own patience, and while they contemn Paul as a miſerable man, they lay nothing herein againſt him which is not common to him with Chriſt. If ye ſeek a proof of Chriſts ſpeaking in me, look to your ſelves, who had all your ſoundneſſe from my Miniſtery, if ye have any.

V. 4. through weakneſſe] Saint Hilary in his ninth book de Trinitate expoundeth this place; through the weakneſſe of his fleſh, which was ſubject to all humane infirmities, ſinne onely excepted: or touching the vile form of a ſervant, which he took upon him when he abaſed himſelf. To clear which paſſage, Oecumenius farther obſerveth that the word ἀσθένεια in Saint Paul, is taken in a three-fold ſenſe; ſometimes for bodily ſickneſſe, as 1 Cor. 11. 30. ſometimes for imbecility and wavering in faith, Rom. 14. 1. ſometimes for outward perſecutions, temptations, and afflictions, as it is taken in the former Chapter, verſ. 9, 10. and ſo he takes the word in this place, ἐπελὴν ὑπομείνας καὶ κίνδυνον καὶ ὕβριν. To infirmities painful Chriſt in his ſtate of humiliation here upon earth was ſubject, but no wayes to any infirmities that are ſinful.

in him] Or, with him.

V. 5. Examine] Or, try.

whether ye be in the faith] He confirmeth that which he ſpake of God appearing in his miniſtery; and he gathereth by the mutuall relation between the peoples faith and the Miniſters preaching, that they muſt either reverence his Apoſtleſhip, upon whoſe doctrine their faith is grounded; or they muſt condemn themſelves of infidelity, and muſt confeſſe themſelves not to be of Chriſts body. Whether ye are in the faith, that is, in the ſtate of faithful Chriſtians; and whether Chriſt live in you by his Spirit which you received by my Goſpel.

reprobates] Or, unapproved, or, rejected.

V. 6. reprobates] Or, unapproved, or, rejected.

V. 7. as reprobates] Or, unapproved, or, rejected. Not reprobates, but as reprobates, nor ſo ſimply, but in the opinion of ſome. In this verſe he mitigateth his former ſharpneſſe, truſting that they will ſhew themſelves towards their faithful Apoſtles, apt and willing to be taught: adding this moreover, that he paſſed not for his own fame and eſtimation, ſo he may any way further their ſalvation, which is the onely mark that he ſhooteth at.

V. 8. we can do nothing againſt the truth] Though it be a true axiome, Magna eſt veritas & prævalebit; &, Veritas laborare poteſt, opprimi non poteſt; the truth is moſt ſtrong, and cannot be ſubverted: yet it ſeems the Apoſtle here underſtandeth not ſo much truth of doctrine, as truth of life, ſincerity, and true piety. For he threatneth to uſe his Apoſtolical power in puniſhing, which that they might eſcape, he prayeth to God in the ſeventh verſe, that they might do no evil; which exhortation he bindeth with this reaſon; For we cannot doe any thing againſt the truth; that is, if you be innocent and walk in the truth, you need not fear any Anathema, or Church-cenſure. For the power which the Lord hath given us, is for the ſupporting of the Church, and not deſtroying it, to uphold and maintain innocency and righteouſneſſe, true Religion and virtue, and ſuppreſſe the contrary.

V. 9. even your perfection] That all things might be in good order amongſt you, and the members of the Church reſtored, which have been ſhaken and put out of their places.

V. 11. Be perfect] To three principal maladies, of which the Corinthians were ſick, ignorance, puſillanimity, and faction, he applyeth three remedies: to the firſt, growth in grace, and the knowledge of Chriſt, and a ſtriving to perfection; ſaying, be ye perfect: to the ſecond, ſpiritual courage; ſaying, be of good comfort: to the third, unity: be of one mind, live in peace.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE GALATIANS.

The Argument and Analysis.

AFter Saint Paul had preached the Goſpel to the Galathians, ſome falſe Teachers addicted to Judaiſme, ſought to inveigle them to their Sect, perſwading them to be circumciſed, and to obſerve all the Moſaical Rites, without which they affirmed, That they could not be juſtified or ſaved: And becauſe this their Doctrine could not conſiſt with that which the Apoſtle had delivered, they derogated what they could from his Authority and Miniſtery, Miniſtery, giving it out, That he was a Diſciple of the Apoſtles,and not of Chriſt ; and that Peter,James,and John,who were the Pillars of the Church forbad not the obſervation of the legal Rites ; yea moreover,that Paul himſelf,who now ſo much ſtickleth againſt circumciſion, had formerly circumciſed Timothy. Againſt theſe corrupters of his Doctrine,and vilifiers of his Perſon and Authority, he was cheefly moved to write this Epiſtle to the Galatians ; wherein he proveth,That his calling was immediately from Chriſt,that he was no way inferiour to the cheef Apoſtles, and that the doctrine which he had delivered,concerning Juſtification by Faith without the Works of the Law,was the Truth of God,and firmly grounded upon Scripture.

The parts of this Epiſtle are three:

1. Hiſtorical,*concerning himſelf,and the courſe of his Miniſtery,*Chap.1,2,unto the 16.verſe.
2. Doctrinal, concerning Juſtification by Faith,and the Abolition of legal Rites and Ceremonies. From Verſe 16. of the 2. Chapter,unto Verſe 14. of the 5.Chapter.
3. Moral,wherein he exhorteth the Galatians to Chriſtian duties ; namely,To walk and live in the Spirit,to mildneſſe in cenſuring their Brethren,to charity in bearing one anothers burdens,to bounty to their Teachers,to perſeverance in good Works, and rejoycing in the Croſſe of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. From Verſe 14. of the 5.Chapter, to the end.

CHAP. I.

Verſ.1. NOt of men,neither by man] Or, from men. Not of men : not by the Apoſtles , as Matthias was made an Apoſtle ; nor by the ſuffrages of any particular Church, as Barnabas and Silas ; nor by any man, that is, any mortal man, or any meer man ; but by Chriſt,God and Man, after his reſurrection. This deſcription the Apoſtle addeth of purpoſe to maintain his Apoſtolical calling,and authority, againſt the ſlanders of the falſe Apoſtles, who gave out that he was not lawfully called to the apoſtleſhip. For there are two ſorts of lawful callings to the Miniſtery of the Word : ordinary and extraordinary : the ordinary being indeed of God ; but yet by men following therein the order of God, & ſuch is the calling of the ordinary Miniſters of the Word:another calling there is without humane means,of and by God ; or the Lord Chriſt himſelf ; and ſuch was the calling of the Prophets in the Old Teſtament,and the Apoſtles in the New. This calling is extraordinary,and ever accompanied with the infallibility, or never-erring in doctrine,2 Pet.1.21. Joh.16.13. Now that the Apoſtle Paul had ſuch an extraordinary calling is clearly proved , and the manner thereof deſcribed,Act.9.

but by Jeſus Chriſt] Chriſt no doubt is man,but he is God alſo, and head of the Church, and in this reſpect exempted out of the ordinary number of men : the Apoſtles meaning is,that no meer man, whoſoever was the Author , means , or inſtrument of his calling to be an Apoſtle ; and therefore it is not onely lawful, but altogether divine and equal to that of the reſt of the Apoſtles ; which the Apoſtle urgeth,to ſtop the mouthes of the falſe Apoſtles that vilified his Miniſtery in compariſon of others , to the end that they might introduce the neceſſity of the Moſaical ceremonies , which the Apoſtles made uſe of among the Jewiſh novices, but Paul had quite caſheered amongſt the Gentiles.

V.4. Who gave himſelf for our ſins] Gave himſelf to death, to expiate our ſins by his moſt precious bloud.

deliver us from] Gr. take us out.

preſent evil world] Out of that moſt corrupt ſtate which is without Chriſt,Joh.17.15.

V.5. for ever and ever] Gr.for,or,to worlds of worlds.

V.6. removed] He uſeth the paſſive voyce to caſt the fault upon the falſe Apoſtles,and the Preſent Tence, μετατίθεσθε, to give them to underſtand,that it was not already done,but in doing.

from him that called you] Either from God, who of his great mercy called you inwardly to the knowledge of his free grace in Chriſt, or from me who called you outwardly by the preaching of the Goſpel to the grace of Chriſt.

V.7. pervert the Goſpel of Chriſt] For there is nothing more contrary to free juſtification by faith , which is the ſumme and main ſcope of the Goſpel , than to maintain juſtification by the Moſaicall rites,or the works of the Law.

V.8. though we,or an Angel from heaven] Or, if we. This is an impoſſible caſe , but the Apoſtle by propounding it, moſt confidently averreth the certainty of the curſe that ſhall come upon thoſe that preach any other Goſpel. See the like form, Joh.8.55. If I ſhould ſay I know him not,I ſhall be a lyar ; and 1 Cor.13.1,2,3.

other Goſpel unto you,&c.] Adding of his own invention any thing unto the ſubſtance of the doctrine, any article of faith or ſacrament; which was the practice of the falſe Apoſtles ; teaching, that we muſt be juſtified, not by faith alone , but by Moſaical rites alſo , and the works of the law. And it is worthy the obſerving, that the Apoſtle ſaith not , If we or an Angel from heaven preach unto you any Goſpel contrary to that which we have preached ; but, παρ' ὃ, τὸ ὅσον δήποτε μικρὸν, beſide that, or other than that we have preached : whereby he inſinuates , *ſaith Chryſoſtome and Oecumenius, that it is an accurſed thing to make any the leaſt addition to the doctrine of the Goſpel,*Rev.22.19.

than that] Gr.beſide that.

V.9. than that] Gr.beſide that.

V.10. perſwade men,or God] Or, make faith to men ; or, ſeek to endear our ſelves to men ; or,plead my cauſe before men. That is,doe I perſwade you to obey men,or God ? or,do I ſtudy to pleaſe,or ſeek to approve my ſelf and my miniſtery to men, or to God ? for ſo the word πείθω ſometimes ſignifieth,as in that proverbial verſe, δῶρα θεοὺς πείθει, δῶρ' αἰδοίους βασιλῆας for if I yet pleaſed men] If I ſhould yet ſeek to pleaſe men, as I did when I was zealous of the traditions of my fathers , and perſecuted the Church of God extremely , to gain the more favour of mine own Nation, I ſhould not be a true ſervant of Chriſt, but diſſemble with God and the world.

V. 12. revelation of Jeſus Chriſt] Whether this revelation was when he journied to Damaſcus, and was ſmitten to the ground, and there ſhone round about him a light from heaven , and Chriſt ſpake unto him, Act.9.5. as Saint Jerome conceiveth ; or when he was rapt up in Paradiſe, 2 Cor.12.4. as Aquinas imagineth , it cannot be certainly defined ; onely this is certain, that Saint Paul had the knowledge of the Goſpel by immediate revelation from Chriſt.

beyond meaſure,&c.] See Act.9.1.

V. 14. above many mine equals in mine own Nation] Gr. equals in years.

traditions of my fathers] Either he meaneth the Phariſaical traditions,for he was a Phariſee, and the ſon of a Phariſee. Or, he may underſtand by traditions ſuch ordinances as his fathers received from God himſelf ; but with this erroneous opinion of the Phariſees ,that he might be juſtified before God for thoſe legall obſervations. This Text ſeemeth to be parallel to Phil. 3. 6. Concerning zeal , perſecuting the Church, touching the righteouſneſſe which is in the Law , blameleſſe.

V.15. ſeparated me from my mothers womb] He ſpeaketh of Gods everlaſting predeſtination, whereby he appointed him to be an Apoſtle,whereof he maketh three degree;The everlaſting counſel of God, his appointing from his Mothers wombe, and his actual calling. See Rom.1.1.

V. 16. I might preach him,&c.] See Epheſ.3.8.

I conferred not with fleſh and bloud] Or, conſulted. This may ſeem contrary to that which himſelf ſaith, Chap.2.2. I communicated the Goſpel with them at Jeruſalem. But the reconciliation is eaſie ; here he denyeth that he conſulted with fleſh and bloud, that is, with any man living, namely, whether he were rightly inſtructed in the Goſpel , or whether he ought to preach it ; for of this he neither did nor could make queſtion after he received the Goſpel by the immediate revelation of Chriſt : but there he affirmeth, that he communicated with the Apoſtles at Jeruſalem , not to learn any thing from them,for that he expreſly denies Verſe 6. but to receive a teſtimony from them of his conſent with them in the doctrine he had preached in Arabia and Syria ; for he had preached the Goſpel before he conferred with them.

V. 18. I went up] Or, I returned.

to ſee Peter]Gr.Tec. to enquire of Cephas. The Greek word ἱστορῆσαι, ſignifieth more than to ſee or viſite,namely, as Heſychius explaines the word, πυνθάνειν ἐρωτᾷν, to enquire into, to take ſpecial notice of, and acquaint himſelf with Peter and his proceedings.

V. 19. other of the Apoſtles ſaw I none] Becauſe it might be objected, that indeed he was called of Chriſt in the way, but afterwards was inſtructed by the Apoſtles and others,and ſo was not of the number of them that were to be credited without exception : Saint Paul anſwereth, that he began ſtraightway after his calling,to preach the Goſpel at Damaſcus,and in Arabia,and was not from that time at Jeruſalem,but onely fifteen days,where he ſaw onely Peter and James; and after he began to teach in Syria and Cilicia , with the conſent and approbation of the Churches of the Jews , who knew him onely by name , ſo far off was it that he was there inſtructed by them.

V. 22. And was] Or, But was.

V. 24. And they glorified God in me] They glorified Chriſt who ſpake in me ; or they glorified God for me , they bleſſed his Name for my converſion ; or as the Greek Scholiaſt , they praiſed God in me : not this or that Teacher , but God himſelf, who alone was my Teacher.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 2. I went up by revelation] Gr. according to revelation. He was not ſent for by the Apoſtles to Jeruſalem, there to give an account of his preaching; but the Spirit by ſpecial revelation moved him, that by conferring with the Apoſtles themſelves, and knowing their reſolution in the main point then in difference concerning the obſervation of legal Rites, he might ſtop the mouthes of the falſe Apoſtles, who gave out that he taught divers doctrines from them, and conſequently that the faithful were rather to follow them than him, they being more, and he but one; they converſing with Chriſt himſelf, and called to the Apoſtleſhip before his Aſcenſion, Saint Paul after.

communicated unto] Gr. conſulted with. Chap. 1. 16.

privately] Or, ſeverally.

had run in vain] By the metaphor of running, he ſetteth forth his alacrity, earneſtneſs and diligence; like to theirs who prove maſteries, and run in a race for a rich prize. (1 Cor. 9. 26. 2 Tim. 4. 7.) Now in thoſe that run in a race, two things are conſiderable, their labour and ſwiftneſs in running, and the end for which they run; to wit, the gaining the prize; which if they miſs, they run in vain. This prize he accounted the fruit of his preaching, which had been little or none among the Jews, who were zealous of the Moſaical Rites, if by his communicating with the chief Apoſtles he had not taken away that rub which was caſt in his way, that his preaching and practice was diſſonant from theirs: although the Apoſtle nothing doubted of the certainty of his doctrine, yet becauſe there were certain reports caſt abroad of him, that he was of another opinion than the reſt of the Apoſtles were, which thing might have hindered the courſe of his Miniſtery, and in ſome places quite ſtop'd it, he took this journey to Jeruſalem, to remove that obſtacle.

V. 4. which we have in Chriſt Jeſus] Freedom from the curſe of the moral Law, and the burden of the ceremonial, which we have in Chriſt, that is, in Chriſtianity, or purchaſed by Chriſt, who in the fulneſs of time was made of a woman, and made under the Law; to redeem them that are under the Law, Gal. 4.4. Chap. 5. 1.

V. 5. gave place,&c.] We gave no way to thoſe crafty companions, who by deceit and counterfeit holineſs crept in among the faithful, who came to eſpie our liberty, that thereby they might enſnare and enthral us: to theſe we gave no reſpit not for an hour, to lay their traps for us, nor in any thing yeelded unto them, to betray our Chriſtian liberty.

with you] Gr. to.

God accepteth no mans perſon] See Rom. 2. 12.

ſeemed to be ſomewhat] Gr. are of reputation.

V. 7. The Goſpel of the uncircumciſion was committed unto me] That is, I had commiſſion to preach to the Gentiles who were uncircumciſed, as Peter to the Jews: which commiſſions were not yet ſo reſtrictive, but that Saint Peter preached to the Gentiles, and Saint Paul to the Jews, as it may be clearly proved out of the Acts of the Apoſtles; but the Goſpel of circumciſion is ſaid here to be committed to Saint Peter, and of uncircumciſion unto Paul; becauſe Peter was firſt and chiefly ſent to preach to the Jews, and Saint Paul to the Gentiles, and God moſt bleſſed Saint Peters labour among the Jews, and Saint Pauls among the Gentiles.

V. 8. was mighty in me towards the Gentiles] Gr. wrought in me. Word for word, wrought effectually: and this efficacy ſhewed it ſelf in three things eſpecially; the great number of converts, the power of miracles, and the extraordinary gift of the holy Ghoſt beſtowed upon the faithful by the means of his miniſtery.

V. 9. who ſeemed to be pillars] Or, were counted. Whom alone, and onely theſe men counted for pillars of the Church, to ſupport it, and the doctrine of faith, by whoſe authority if my preaching were not upheld, it muſt fall to ground. Oecumenius out of Euſebius his firſt book of Eccleſiaſtical Story, and Clemens Alexandrinus writeth, that this Cephas mentioned with James and John, was not Peter the Apoſtle, but one of the 70 diſciples of that name: but S. Jerome in his Comment. in epiſt. and Greg. Hom. 18. upon Ezekiel refute this opinion, and it may eaſily be diſproved out of this Text, for it is not likely that the Apoſtle would have ranked any of the 70 diſciples with James and John, two of the chief Apoſtles and pillars of the Church; neither would the falſe Apoſtles have oppoſed the authority of one of the 70 diſciples againſt Saint Paul, whom they could not deny to be an Apoſtle. Beſides, to take away all ambiguity, the Apoſtle verſe 11. calleth him Peter.

V. 10. ſhould remember the poor] That is, to make collections in the Churches of the Gentiles for the Saints of Jeruſalem; which Saint Paul did moſt willingly and effectually, as appears out of the 1 Cor. 16. & 2 Cor. 8. 9.

forward to do] Gr. diligent, or careful.

V. 11. Peter] Gr. Tec. Cephas.

I withſtood him to the face, becauſe he was to be blamed] Gr. condemned. Some interpret κατὰ πρόσωπον, in outward appearance and in ſhew: for they conceive that Peter and Paul were not in earneſt, but the one reproved the other before the multitude, and the other replied not at all though he could juſtly, that by the reproof of the one, and ſilence of the other, both Jews and Gentiles there preſent, might learn that the Judaical rites were not to be eagerly retained, but by degrees to be relinquiſhed, and as it were honourably to be interred; This was the opinion of S. Jerome (who is as hot with S. Auſtine about this quarrel of the Apoſtles, or rather hotter than the Apoſtles themſelves) And of the Greek Fathers, whom he alleageth for himſelf. Their chief reaſon was this, that if Saint Paul had reproved Peter in earneſt for his complying at this time with the Jews, he had reproved him for that of which himſelf was guilty. For he as he profeſſeth, that to the Jews he became a Jew, that he might win the Jews, ſo by the advice of James and the Elders, Acts 21. 24. he ſhaved his head, and purified himſelf with four other men that had a vow on them. But S. Auſtine affirmeth moſt truly, that Saint Paul reproved Saint Peter in earneſt. For the Text ſaith, which is part of the Canonical Scripture, and therefore infallible, that Saint Peter was faulty and to be blamed. His fault was, as is afterwards expreſſed, diſſimulation, and halting between two opinions; before the Jews came from James, he freely converſed with the Gentiles, and did eat of meats prohibited by the Law of Moſes: but after theſe came, for fear of diſpleaſing them, in the lawful uſe of his Chriſtian liberty, he withdraweth himſelf from them, and giveth a great ſcandal to the Gentiles, and a blow to Saint Pauls preaching, who had taught that thoſe legal ceremonies were now aboliſhed, and all Chriſtians freed from that yoke. What Saint Paul did was of another nature by the advice of James, to refute a falſe ſlander caſt upon him, when there was no Gentiles by, to be ſcandalized thereat.

V. 13. diſſembled likewiſe with him] Gr. joyned in hypocriſie with.

diſſimulation] Gr. hypocriſie.

V. 14. walked not uprightly] Gr. with a right foot. Word for word, the Original ſignifieth, to walk with a right foot, which he oppoſeth to halting and diſſembling.

truth of the goſpel] He calleth the truth of the Goſpel, both the ſincere doctrine it ſelf, and alſo the uſe of the ſame, which we call practice.

If thou, being a Jew, liveſt after the manner of Gentiles] He meaneth not that Saint Peter lived diſſolutely after the manner of the Gentiles, as thoſe whom the zealous Father reprehending ſaith, Gentes agimus ſub nomine Chriſti: But that like the Converts among the Gentiles, he uſed his Chriſtian liberty, in eating all ſorts of meats, without putting a difference between clean and unclean.

why compelleſt thou the Gentiles] Gr. Tec. how is it that thou compelleſt.

V. 15. not ſinners of the Gentiles] Sinners eſtranged from the covenant of grace, deſtitute of the Rule of the Law, men in a deplorate and deſperate eſtate, ſuch as the Jews accounted all the Gentiles and Paynims to be in, Epheſ. 2. 12. and yet themſelves could not be juſtified by the Law, which they of all other might have made the leaſt claim unto.

V. 16. by the works of the law ſhall no fleſh be juſtified] See Rom. 3. 20.

V. 17. But if while we ſeek to be juſtified] Before he goeth any further, he meeteth with their objection who abhorred the doctrine of free juſtification by faith; becauſe, ſay they, men are by this means withdrawn from the ſtudy of good works, and in this ſort they framed their objection; If ſinners ſhould be juſtified through Chriſt by faith without the law, Chriſt ſhould ſeem to approve ſinners, and as it were exhort them thereunto by his miniſtery: Paul anſwereth, that this conſequence is falſe, becauſe Chriſt deſtroyeth ſin in all true beleevers. For therefore, ſaith he, do men flee unto Chriſt through the terrour and fear of the law, that being quit from the curſe of the law, they may be ſaved by him, and that he together with his juſtifying them, beginneth in them by little and little that ſtrength and power of his, which deſtroyeth ſin, to the end, that the old man being aboliſhed by the virtue of Chriſts death, he may live in them, and they may conſecrate themſelves to God: therefore if any man give himſelf to ſin after he hath received the Goſpel, let him not accuſe Chriſt, nor the Goſpel, but himſelf, for that he deſtroyeth the work of God in himſelf.

by Chriſt] Gr. in. See Rom. 3. 4.

V. 18. deſtroyed] Gr. have diſſolved.

V. 19. through the law am dead] Or, by. Gr. was. The law which terrifieth the conſcience, bringeth us to Chriſt, and he onely cauſeth us to die to the law. Indeed, becauſe that by making us righteous, he taketh away from us the terrour of conſcience, and by ſanctifying us, cauſeth a through-mortifying of luſt in us; that it cannot take ſuch occaſion to ſin by the reſtraint which the law maketh. See Rom. 7. 10, 11.

V. 20. I now live in the fleſh] By living in the fleſh, he underſtandeth not walking according to the fleſh, or living in a carnal and fleſhly manner, but living in this frail and mortal body.

gave himſelf for me] What he ſpeaketh of himſelf belongeth to all true beleevers; but he applieth the benefit of Chriſts paſſion to himſelf in particular, as well to teach us ſpecial faith and affiance in Chriſt, as to enflame our love to him, to whom we are as much indebted, as if he had ſhed his bloud for us alone and in particular.

V. 21. dead in vain] Although there be many uſes and benefits of Chriſts death, beſides our juſtification; yet the Apoſtles argument is very ſtrong, that there would have been no neceſſity for our ſalvation that Chriſt ſhould have died, and by his bloud expiated our ſins, if men might have been juſtified by the works of the law, either ceremonial or moral.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. WHo hath bewitched you] The word in the Original, ἐβάσκανε, is derived, ἀπὸ τοῦ φάεσι καίειν, burning with the eye, ſignifying a kind of witchcraft practiſed upon the eyes of young children and cattel, according to that of the Poet; Neſcio quis teneros oculus mihi faſcinat agnos: and the meaning of the Apoſtle is, that as thoſe witches, who caſt venemous beams out of their eyes, miſchief children and ſucklings; ſo thoſe falſe teachers poyſoned the tender faith of the Galatians: or as the devil by thoſe witches put out the eyes of the body, ſo the evil ſpirit by thoſe falſe teachers his inſtruments, put out the eyes of their minde; ut quomodo tenera ætas noceri dicitur faſcino, ſic etiam Galatæ in Chriſti fide nuper nati & nutriti lacte veluti quodam faſcinante ſint nociti, & ſtomacho fidei nauſeantes Spiritus ſancti fidem evomuerint.

crucified among you] Chriſt was laid before you ſo notably and ſo plainly, that you had his lively image as it were repreſented before your eyes, as if he had been crucified in your ſight: or Chriſt was crucified among you, that is, ſuffered much in his members perſecuted among you. In which ſenſe Chriſt ſpeaking to S. Paul ſaid; Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? Act. 9. 5, 6. and to S. Peter, a little before his death, I go again to Rome to be crucified, as we read in the Eccleſiaſtical Stories.

V. 2. received ye the Spirit] Thoſe ſpiritual graces and gifts, which were a ſeal as it were to the Galatians, that the Goſpel that was preached unto them was true. But here it may be objected, that the Galatians received not the Spirit by faith, but faith by the Spirit. For faith is the gift of God, and a ſpecial work of the Spirit in the heart. Hereunto it may be anſwered, that either the Apoſtle meaneth by the Spirit, the extraordinary gifts of the ſpirit, as the gift of tongues, and healing, which the Galatians received by Pauls preaching the Chriſtian faith among them; or elſe he meaneth by the Spirit, the ſpirit of comfort, and ſanctification, which goeth not before, but followeth true faith; for being juſtified by faith we have peace with God, and feel the ſpirit of comfort within us.

of faith] That is, the word and doctrine of faith, Rom. 10. 8.

V. 3. perfect by the fleſh] By the fleſh, he meaneth the ceremonies of the law, againſt which he ſetteth the Spirit, that is, the ſpiritual working of the Goſpel. Heb. 7. 16. & 9. 10.

V. 4. ſo many] Or, ſo great.

in vain] εἰκῆ, That is, without any profit; So S. Baſil uſeth the phraſe, Hom. adv. Heb. ὦ πόσας νύκτας εἰκῆ ἠγρυπνήσατε, O how many nights have you watched, how many days have you ſpent unprofitably?

V. 6. Even as Abraham beleeved God] See Gen. 15. 6. accounted to him] Or, imputed.

for righteouſneſs] Gr. to.

V. 8. In thee ſhall all nations be bleſſed] See Gen. 12. 3.

V. 9. with faithful Abraham] Not by faithful Abraham: to give us to underſtand, that the bleſſing cometh not from Abraham, but from him by whom Abraham and all his poſterity is bleſſed.

V. 10. are of the works of the law] They who are of the works of the law, that is, they which ſtand upon the works of the law for their juſtification, or which value their righteouſneſs by the performance of the law are accurſed, therefore they are bleſſed which are of faith, that is, they who have righteouſneſs by faith.

Curſed is every one that continueth not in all things] See Deut. 27. 26.

V. 11. The juſt ſhall live by faith] See Hab. 2. 4. Rom. 1. 17. Heb. 10. 38.

The man that, &c.] See Levit. 18. 5.

V. 12. the law is not of faith] The Law promiſeth life to all that keep it, and therefore if it be kept it juſtifieth and giveth life; but the Scripture attributing righteouſneſs and life to faith, taketh it from the Law, ſeeing faith juſtifieth by imputation of anothers righteouſneſs, and the law by the performing of the work in our own perſon.

V. 13. hath redeemed us from the curſe of the law] In theſe words he preventeth an objection, How can they be bleſſed whom the Law pronounceth to be accurſed? becauſe Chriſt ſuſtaineth the curſe which the Law laid upon us, that we might be quit from it.

Curſed is every one, &c.] See Deut. 21. 23.

V. 15. covenant] Or, teſtament.

V. 16. And to ſeeds, as of many; but as of one] The word ſeed is ſometimes taken for the whole poſterity, as Gen. 15. 18. Sometimes for a particular perſon deſcended from ſuch an one, as Gen. 4. 25. and 21. 13. and here the Apoſtle ſheweth that it muſt be taken in the ſecond ſenſe, teaching that Chriſt is that ſeed, as it is afterwards expounded.

which is Chriſt] That is, all his myſtical body, viz. the whole Church, having all their life and being from him, and alſo participating of the glory of his name; all which are as one ſeed conſiſting of Jews and Gentiles, 1 Cor. 12. 12. For it is the ſcope of the Apoſtle to prove the aſſurance of eternal life to all beleevers for Chriſts ſake, according unto the promiſe made unto Abraham.

V. 17. which was four hundred and thirty years after] Theſe years are to be reckoned from the promiſe firſt made to Abraham, which fell upon the 75. year of his age.

V. 19. Wherefore then ſerveth the Law] If the inheritance be not by the law, then why was the law given after the promiſe was made? the Apoſtle anſwereth, to reprove and convince men of ſin, and ſo to teach them to look unto Chriſt in whom at length that promiſe of ſaving all people together ſhould be fulfilled, and not that the law was given to juſtifie men.

becauſe of tranſgreſſions] To make them known, Rom. 3. 20. & 7. 7. and to convince men thereof; to diſcover the hainouſneſs of ſin, and to ſeal the condemnation thereof; thus to drive men to ſeek for the remedy of grace in the promiſed Meſſiah.

till thy ſeed ſhould come] This uſe of the ſervile manuduction was to laſt during the Churches infancy, and proneneſs to fall into ſin by infirmity, or ignorance; but it was to be laid by and ſurceaſe at the coming of Chriſt into the fleſh, who collecting into one and the ſame body the whole Church of Jews and Gentiles together, ſupplying the ſame with the abundant graces of the Spirit in knowledge and virtue, hath made the ſame to be effectually acknowledged the bleſſed ſeed, or progeny of the children of God, verſ. 26. wholly ſet and bent to love and obey him by the Spirit of adoption and grace, and not by the ſpirit of terrour as of old, Rom. 8. 15.

ordained by angels] God would ſhew in the very outward manner which he obſerved in giving the law, that thereby there was no acceſs for man to his grace for obtaining life and the inheritance; and therefore he appeared there in ſuch an extremity of terrour, that upon the peoples requeſt which was not able to endure thoſe terrours, it was needful that Moſes came between, who was as the mediatour of that communication, Exod. 20. 19. Heb. 12. 19. being therein the type of Chriſt the onely Mediatour of propitiation, by whom we have acceſs to God with confidence. Now although there is no mention made of the miniſtery of Angels by Moſes in giving the Law, yet may it well be gathered from divers other Texts of Scriptures, as Act. 7. 53. Heb. 2. 2.

in the hand of a Mediatour] Some by this Mediatour underſtand Moſes, whom God did uſe as an interpreter between himſelf and the people in giving the Law: others underſtand Chriſt himſelf by whom God led the people of Iſrael out of Egypt through the wilderneſs, and ſpake to Moſes on Mount Sinai, Act. 7. 38. 1 Tim. 2. 5.

V. 20. Now a mediatour is not a mediatour of one] Either the meaning is, a Mediatour is not a Mediatour of one party, but betwixt two, and thoſe diſagreeing; this ſheweth that at the giving of the Law there was a difference and a diſtance between God and us, which difference grew from this, that we were tranſgreſſours of the Law: or the meaning is, a Mediatour is not a Mediatour of one Covenant onely, but as well of the Covenant of grace as of the Covenant of works.

but God is one] In theſe words he taketh away an objection, leſt any man might ſay, that ſometimes by conſent of the parties which have made a Covenant, ſomething is added to the Covenant; or the former Covenants are broken; this, ſaith the Apoſtle, cometh not to paſs in God, who is always one and the ſelf ſame, and like to himſelf, and hath the ſame ſcope and end in both his Covenants; for Chriſt is the end of the Law: or, that God is ſtill the ſame in holding a diſtance between himſelf and tranſgreſſours, if they ſeek to be juſtified by the Law.

V. 22. all under ſin] See Rom. 3. 9.

V. 24. Wherefore the law was our ſchool-maſter] A means and inſtrument to rule and regulate our minds and actions agreeable to the infancy of the Church with a great deal of auſterity. The Jews under the law here are compared to children, and the faithful under the Goſpel to men of riper years that need no ſchool-maſter; the ſchool-maſter is the Law, both Moral and Ceremonial. For the Moral Law leadeth unto Chriſt by convincing us of ſin, and denouncing the curſe againſt it, ſhewing us thereby that if we deſire to eſcape that curſe we muſt flie to Chriſt for refuge, who hath redeemed us both from ſin and curſe; and the Ceremonial Law alſo brings us unto Chriſt; becauſe the ſame not onely convinceth men of ſin, but alſo exhibiteth types and figures of Chriſt and his benefits: and teacheth that whatſoever was ſhadowed out by them, was truly to be found in Chriſt, Heb.9.10,11.

V. 27. as many of you] See Rom.6.3.

as have been baptized into Chriſt] To all that are baptized in Chriſts Name with the inward baptiſm as well as the outward Chriſt is effectually applyed, even like a garment to the body, to communicate unto them his juſtice, life, right, and dignities: that as himſelf is the Son of God by nature, they ſhall be made his children by grace and adoption, and that without all diſtinction of either nation, ſtate, or condition.

have put on Chriſt] As a ſpiritual garment wherewith our ſpiritual ſhame and nakedneſs is covered, and we are adorned as with rich and comely apparel.

V. 28. for ye are all one in Chriſt Jeſus] That is, countrey, ſex, or nation makes no difference; but if we are true beleevers, we are in equal eſteem with God; or we are all one in Chriſt, that is, we make all one myſtical body communicating with Chriſt as our head, and one with another as members.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. N*Ow I ſay*] He declareth that by another ſimilitude which he ſaid before, concerning the ſchool-maſter: for he ſaith that the Law, that is, the whole government of Gods houſe according to the law, was as it were a kind of Tutorſhip, or office of an Over-ſeer appointed for a time, and that we ſhould at length come to be at our own liberty, and live as children, not as ſervants. Moreover he ſheweth by the way, that that governance of the Law was as it were an A. B. C. or Accidence in compariſon of the doctrine of the Goſpel.

V. 3. elements of the world] Or, rudiments. By the elements of the world he underſtandeth the corporal types and carnal Ceremonies of the Law, which are called elements or rudiments; becauſe that God by them inſtructed the Church as it were by rudiments, and afterwards powred out his holy Spirit moſt plentifully in the time of the Goſpel.

V. 4. when the fulneſs of the time] The full grown age of the Church to be freed from under this wardſhip; or when the time was fulfilled which God had appointed for to ſend his Son into the world.

God ſent forth his Son] ἐξαπέστειλε, He ſent out of himſelf, or his eſſence; or from heaven: for God would have that the eternal Son in his boſom by taking humane fleſh ſhould come out of him as it were, and manifeſt himſelf unto the world; or iſſue forth out of the eternal palace of his glory, and in his own perſon upon earth fulfill the work of the redemption of mankinde.

made of] Not born as other men, but made by the holy Ghoſt out of the fleſh and bloud of the Virgin Mary, without the concurrence of man, Gen. 3. 15. Iſaiah 7. 14. Mic. 5 3. Luk. 1. 31. & 2. 2.

a woman] The word γυνὴ, is here taken, as often elſe where in Scripture, for the name of the ſex, and generally a maid that is marriageable is termed by the Greeks γυνὴ. So ſaith Procopius, γυνὴ λέγεται ϗ ἡ παρθένος, ἡλικίας γὰρ κλῆσις, and ſo the civil Lawyers; titulo de verb. ſignif. Mulieris appellatione etiam virgo viripotens continetur. This text therefore maketh nothing for Helvidius, nor againſt the perpetual virginity of Mary.

made under the law] Having taken upon him the form of a ſervant, Phil. 2. 7. he made himſelf ſubject to the entire obſervation and ſatisfaction of the whole law: thereby to purchaſe to all beleevers the right and claim to eternal glory, and to deliver them not onely from the malediction of the Law, but alſo from the burden of all the legal rites and ceremonies.

V. 5. under the law] That is, that were under the yoke of the ceremonial law, and alſo under the curſe of the moral; whereof he ſpeaketh in the former Chapter.

the adoption of ſons] Therefore was the Son of God ſent to redeem us, that he might purchaſe and graciouſly communicate the right of Son-ſhip (which he hath by nature) to all the faithful, 2 Cor. 6. 18. This adoption of the Son of God was from everlaſting, but is revealed and ſhewed in the time appointed for it.

V. 6. And becauſe ye are ſons] He ſheweth that we are in ſuch ſort free and ſet at liberty, that in the mean ſeaſon we muſt be governed by the Spirit of Chriſt, which reigneth in our hearts, and teacheth us the true ſervice of the Father; but this is not to ſerve, but rather to enjoy true liberty as becometh ſons and heirs.

the Spirit of his Son] See Rom. 8. 15. The holy Ghoſt is both of the Father and the Son: but there is a peculiar reaſon here why he is called the Spirit of his Son; to wit, becauſe the holy Ghoſt ſealeth up our adoption in Chriſt, and giveth us a full aſſurance of it.

V. 7. a ſervant] The word ſervant is not taken here for one that liveth in ſin, which is proper to infidels, but for one that is yet under the Ceremonies of the Law, which is proper to the Jew.

an heir of God] Some read heir by God, that is, by his grace and mercy; others, heir of God, becauſe coheirs of Chriſt, who is the Son and Heir of God.

V. 9. turn ye again] Or, turn ye back.

to the weak and beggarly elements] Or, rudiments. The carnal Rites of the Moſaical Law are called here weak and beggarly elements, being conſidered apart by themſelves, without Chriſt; and for the Galatians to fall back from Chriſt to theſe Ceremonies, was nothing elſe but to caſt away riches, and follow beggery.

V. 10. Ye obſerve days] Ye, following the doctrine of the falſe apoſtles, place holineſs and righteouſneſs in the Moſaical obſervations of days, the Jewiſh Sabbath returning every week; and moneths, that is, the Feaſts of the new Moons; and times, that is, the ſolemn yearly feaſts of the Paſsover, the Pentecoſt, and Tabernacles; and years, that is, every fiftieth year, being the year of Jubile.

V. 12. be as I am] He mitigates and qualifies thoſe things wherein he might have ſeemed to have ſpoken too ſharply, declaring his good will towards them in ſuch ſort, that the Galatians could not but either be utterly deſperate, when they read theſe things, or acknowledge their own lightneſs with tears, and deſire pardon. Be you as I am, that is, take me for an example, who was once as zealous for thoſe Legal Rites, as you are now; but now I count them, and all things elſe, but as dung, in compariſon of the excellent knowledge of Chriſt. Phil. 3. 9.

V. 13. through the infirmity of the fleſh] Either through the infirmity of your fleſh I preached unto you; that is, I condeſcended to your capacity, and preached ſuch doctrine as you were able to bear away: or, through the infirmity of my fleſh, either being infirm in body, or much broken through manifold griefs and afflictions which I ſuffered among you. 1 Cor. 2. 3.

V. 14. And my temptation] That is, thoſe daily troubles wherewith the Lord tried me amongſt you. Acts 20. 19.

V. 15. where is then the bleſſedneſs] Or, what was then. What is become of the great applauſe which you gave me at my firſt preaching, counting your ſelves moſt happy in me your Apoſtle? or, what talk was there abroad in the world, how happy you thought your ſelves, and bleſſed the time God ſent me amongſt you?

V. 16. Am I therefore become your enemy, &c.] Sith all men naturally deſire the truth, and love it, how comes it to paſs that any man ſhould be hated for ſpeaking the truth? Saint Auſtine in his confeſſions yeeldeth a reaſon by diſtinguiſhing of truth, Omnes amant veritatem lucentem, ſed non redarguentem; all men love the truth, when that truth concerneth not themſelves, they love truth ſhining, but not convincing; they love the truth when ſhe diſcovereth her ſelf, not when ſhe diſcovereth themſelves. Hence is that true proverb, Obſequium amicos, veritas odium parit. The beams of the Sun, which refreſh and clear a ſound eye, offend a ſore eye, urit enim fulgore ſuo.

V. 17. They zealouſly affect you] Or, they are jealous over you. He compareth the falſe teachers to jealous wooers, who can by no means endure any corrival; therefore, ſaith the Apoſtle, they exclude you from me, and the true doctrine of faith, which I have delivered unto you, that you may be wholly theirs, and I have no part in you: they zealouſly affect you, but not well, becauſe not to a good end, but to impropriate you to themſelves, and make advantage of you.

exclude you] Or, exclude us.

V. 18. But it is good to be zealouſly affected always] The faithful are to be commended for their zealous affection, and entire love to their Paſtours, eſpecially if it be conſtant, and for the truths ſake; but the Galatians have quite forgotten me, ſince my departure from you: Out of ſight, out of minde.

V. 19. of whom I travail] Ye are my children, whom with much pain and travail I brought forth before to Chriſt, but now ye have corrupted and defaced his image, and are fallen away from your former profeſſion; and therefore I am now in labour with you, and travail with exceeding great pain the ſecond time, till Chriſt be again perfectly formed in you, and you receive the right ſhape of Chriſtians.

V. 20. change my voice] That is, either uſe other words among you, and turn my complaints into praiſes; or change my ſpeech into groans, and my words into tears, to bewail your apoſtaſie; and by thoſe true ambaſſadours of my affection to perſwade you to return to your former profeſſion.

I ſtand in doubt of you] Or, I am perplexed for you. Gr. in you.

V. 23. born after the fleſh] That is, born, as all men are, by the common courſe of nature; for Agar was young, and it ceaſed not to be with her after the manner of women; whereas the womb of Sara was dead, and ſo the birth of Iſaac from her was, as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, a ſimilitude of the reſurrection, above the power and force of nature.

by promiſe] By virtue of the promiſe which Abraham laid hold on for himſelf and his true ſeed: for otherwiſe Abraham and Sara were paſt begetting and bearing of children.

V. 24. Which things are an allegory] Which are indeed a true ſtory of things paſt, but yet do ſignifie ſomewhat elſe beſides, as being types and repreſentations of ſpiritual things, as likewiſe was the Braſen Serpent, John 3. 14. the marriage of Adam and Eve, Epheſ. 5. 32. the paſſing of the Iſraelites over tho Red ſea, 1 Cor. 10. 1, 2. and the deluge, 1 Pet. 3. 21.

for theſe are the two covenants] Or, Teſtaments. That is, ſhew forth, point, and ſignifie a ſacramental kinde of ſpeech, like to that, Geneſ. 41. 26. and Matth. 26. 26. The two Covenants are the old and the new; the old, of the Law, wherein promiſe is made, that thoſe who perfectly keep the Law ſhall thereby obtain ſalvation: and the new, of the Goſpel, wherein eternal life is promiſed to ſinners that repent and beleeve in Chriſt. Jer. 31. 31. Heb. 8. 8, 9.

which gendreth to bondage] Which bringeth forth children that are in bondage: for the law requireth a perfect obedience of men, or in caſe of failing, pronounceth a curſe upon them; and of it ſelf it is unable to free them from their natural ſervitude, and much more unable to procure them the grace of God, and the inheritance of everlaſting life.

V. 25. For this Agar is mount Sinai in Arabia] Either the meaning is, Agar is alſo called Sinai, a mount in Arabia, whither Agar fled with her ſon Iſmael, being thruſt out of Abrahams houſe, from whom the mount it ſelf (as ſome affirm) was afterwards called Agar by the Arabians, and from thence they themſelves are called Agarens, Pſal. 83. 6. Or the meaning is, Agar is a figure or image of Sinai, and of the Covenant of the Law, which was proclaimed on it; as Agar was a ſtranger without the bleſſed Seed, ſo was Sinai in Arabia the land of the Iſmaelites, who iſſued forth from Agar, without the limits of the land of promiſe.

and anſwereth to Jeruſalem] Or, is in the ſame rank with Jeruſalem. Some read bordereth upon Jeruſalem; and Genebrard in his Comment upon the Pſalms affirmeth, that there is a continual tract from it to Jeruſalem; Perpetuo enim in dorſo ſeſe verſus Sionios montes exporrigit. But the Geographical Tables ſhew no ſuch thing: and as Bencius a Sorbonick Doctour, acknowledgeth, Sinai is full twenty days journey from Jeruſalem. The better Tranſlation therefore is, it anſwereth to Jeruſalem, that is, in the allegory and myſtical ſignification.

V. 26. But Jeruſalem which is above] The true Chriſtian Church, which ſeeketh her ſalvation, not by the firſt Covenant of the Law, but by the ſecond, of the Goſpel, which is ſaid to be above, partly becauſe it hath its original from heaven, partly in reſpect of the part triumphant in heaven, partly in reſpect of the militant, which ſteers its courſe to heaven, Phil. 3. 20. and ſhall in the end be brought thither.

which is the mother of us all] As Sara was the mother of Iſaac, the proper heir of his father Abraham, ſo is the Chriſtian Church the mother of all the faithful, who are heirs of the Kingdom of heaven, whether they be Jews or Gentiles.

V. 28. as Iſaac was] Gr. according, or, after the manner of Iſaac. Who was as the firſt begotten of the ſupernal Jeruſalem, as Iſmael was of the ſlaviſh Synagogue.

are the children of promiſe] See Rom. 9. 8.

V. 29. born after the Spirit] That is, by virtue of Gods promiſe, and after a ſupernatural and ſpiritual manner, Sara conceiving in her old age rather by faith than by luſt.

V. 30. Nevertheleſs] Gr. But.

Caſt out the bond-woman and her ſon] Gr. Tec. her ſelf and her ſon. See Gen. 21. 10.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. S*Tand faſt,&c.*] Gr. Tec. Chriſt hath made us free, ſtand therefore in that liberty, and.

and be not intangled] Gr. held, or, kept in with. Tied or faſtned thereunto as it were with cords and ropes. A compariſon taken from Oxen, who have the yoke bound faſt to their horns or neck, thereby to force them, ſubdue, and keep them in.

again with the yoke of bondage] It doth not appear that theſe Galatians had ſubmitted themſelves to the yoke of Moſes before their converſion to Chriſt, and now after their falling away from Chriſt, had enſlaved themſelves the ſecond time to thoſe legal obſervations; but the meaning is, Before ye were ſubject and enſlaved to your Idols, being redeemed from that ſlavery, do not enthral your ſelves again to a new bondage of Ceremonies, take not upon you a new yoke, and ſo heavy an one as neither we nor our fathers were able to bear, Acts 15. 10.

V. 3. I Paul ſay unto you, that if ye be circumciſed] See Acts 15. 1. If ye be circumciſed, out of this perſwaſion, to be juſtified thereby, Chriſt ſhall profit you nothing; for juſtification by faith, and juſtification by the works of the Law cannot ſtand together; he inſtanceth particularly in circumciſion, becauſe it was the ground of all the ſervice of the Law, and chiefly urged by the falſe Apoſtles. It is true, Circumciſion in another place is called the Seal of the righteouſneſs of faith; but here we muſt have conſideration of the circumſtances of time, for now had Baptiſme come in the place of Circumciſion: and moreover Paul reaſoneth according to the opinion that his oppoſites (the falſe teachers) had of it, who made it a matter of ſalvation, and neceſſary means of juſtification.

V. 3. For] But, or, And.

is a debtor to do the whole law] Becauſe he that obſerveth the Ceremonial Law in one thing, is bound to obſerve it in all; and what a ſervitude were that? The reaſon is evidently drawn from the connexion which is between all the parts of the Ceremonial Law, and the curſe pronounced againſt all who fulfill not that whole law to a tittle.

V. 4. Chriſt is become of no effect unto you] Gr. Ye are made void, fruſtrate, or aboliſhed from Chriſt.

are juſtified by the Law] That is, ye fruſtrate and make void your juſtification by Chriſt, who ſeek to be juſtified by the Law, for indeed no man is, or can be juſtified by the Law. See Rom. 3. 20.

ye are fallen from grace] That is, from the true doctrine of Chriſts free grace, for that cannot conſiſt with juſtification by the works of the Law.

V. 6. For in Jeſus Chriſt] Seeing in Chriſt we have ſpiritual circumciſion, there is no need of carnal; they therefore who were circumciſed before they beleeved, namely, ſuch of the Jews as were called to the knowledge of the truth, gain nothing thereby, neither do the unbeleeving Gentiles loſe by their uncircumciſion, Chap. 6. 15.

but faith which worketh by love] The word in the Original ἐνεργουμένη, being in the Mean voice, may be taken either actively or paſſively, if paſſively, the meaning is, that faith is actuated, quickened and moved by love to do good works; if actively, then the meaning is, that it is not a dead and unworking faith that juſtifieth us, but a living and operative faith, according as S. James teacheth us, Jam. 2. 26. and it muſt be a living faith by which the juſt ſhall live.

V. 7. Ye did run well] You were in the right way, and ye made ſo good progreſs, that ye out-ſtrip'd many; and had ye not been ſtop'd and hindered, would have obtained the prize, which is eternal life.

who did hinder you] Or, who did drive you back.

V. 9. A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump] See 1 Cor. 5. 6. He addeth this, that he may not ſeem to contend upon a trifle, warning them diligently by a ſimilitude borrowed from leaven, (Matt. 13. 33.) not to ſuffer the purity of the Apoſtolical doctrine to be infected with the leaſt corruption that may be. By a little leaven, as S. Jerome obſerveth, he underſtandeth either, an errour but in one point or two, which corrupteth the whole Doctrine of Chriſtianity; as a ſmall quantity of Ratsbane poiſoneth the whole milk: or a few falſe teachers, or erroneous beleevers are able to infect a whole Church or Congregation.

V. 10. through] Gr. in.

but he that troubleth you, ſhall bear his judgement] He ſingleth out ſome one, who was the ring-leader of all the reſt, and either threatneth to excommunicate him, by his Apoſtolical authority, or denounceth againſt him Gods fearful judgement at the laſt day.

V. 11. why do I yet ſuffer perſecution] He willeth them to conſider, how that he ſeeketh not his own profit in this matter, ſeeing that he could eſchew the hatred of men, if he would joyn Judaiſme with Chriſtianity: for at this time the Chriſtians were moſt perſecuted by the Jews, whoſe hatred was not ſo exaſperated againſt the Apoſtles for preaching Chriſt crucified, as for teaching, that the Law of Moſes was aboliſhed, for which they were moſt zealous.

Croſs] Gr. Tec. Croſs of Chriſt.

V. 12. cut off] He compareth thoſe who corrupt the doctrine of Chriſt, who maliciouſly ſet themſelves againſt his preaching, to rotten members, which are to be cut off; leſt the Gangrene ſpread over the whole body: and he alludeth, as the Greek Scholiaſt noteth, to the practice of Circumciſion, which is a cutting off of the foreskin of the fleſh, and caſting it away; wiſhing, that they themſelves might ſuffer what they do, that is, be cut off as ſuperfluous fleſh.

V. 13. only uſe not liberty for an occaſion to the fleſh] Becauſe men are very apt to abuſe their liberty, and turn the grace of Chriſt into wantonneſs, he addeth here, as elſe-where, a wholeſome caution, that Chriſtian liberty is not a licenſe to do what men liſt, but a freedom from the heavy yoke of the law; to the end, that they may take upon them Chriſts eaſie yoke, and light burden, and more cheerfully ſerve him. Where the carnal Goſpellers ſuck poyſon, there the Holy Ghoſt ſets an antidote, as Luk. 1. 74. He hath redeemed his people, that being delivered out of the hands of our enemies we might ſerve him without fear in holineſs and righteouſneſs before him all the days of our life: and Rom. 8. 1. There is no condemnation to them that are in Chriſt Jeſus, who walk not after the fleſh, but after the Spirit: & Rom. 6. 1. Where ſin abounded grace did much more abound, what then? ſhall we continue in ſin that grace may abound? God forbid: and Titus 2. 11. The grace of God that bringeth ſalvation hath appeared to all, teaching us that denying ungodlineſs and worldly luſts, we ſhould live ſoberly and righteouſly in this preſent world.

V. 14. all the law is fulfilled in one word] Some reſtrain the word, all the Law, to the ſecond Table: others take it abſolutely for the whole law; becauſe none can love his neighbour as himſelf, but he muſt needs love God: and the love of God and our neighbour contains in it the whole law. Others underſtand the words thus, all the law is fulfilled in this one word, Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour; Rom. 13.8. This precept is the complement of the whole law; that is, this precept added to the former Table, makes up the whole law. For ſo the Greek word, πληρῦν, is often taken.

Thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thy ſelf] See Lev. 19.18. Mat. 22.39. Rom. 13.9.

V. 16. This] Gr. but.

Walk in the Spirit] That is, diſpoſe all your life and actions according to the inſtructions and motions of the holy Spirit, as well in the Spiritual frame of Religion, proper and peculiar to the Goſpel, as in all holineſs of life and converſation. Some by the Spirit, underſtand the rational appetite, and by the fleſh the ſenſitive, as Lyra: Some by the Spirit, underſtand the holy Ghoſt, and by fleſh carnal concupiſcence: as Theodoret and Oecumenius. Others with more probability affirm, that when Spirit and fleſh, are ſet in oppoſition one againſt the other, that by Spirit, is to be underſtood that part of man which is regenerated by the Spirit, and by the fleſh the natural corruption which cleaveth ſtill unto the regenerate. See Rom. 8. 1.

ye ſhall not fulfil the luſt of the fleſh] Or, fulfil not.

V. 17. the fleſh luſteth againſt the Spirit] For the fleſh dwelleth even in thoſe that are regenerate; but the ſpirit reigneth in them, although not without great ſtriſe. S. Auſtine in his Expoſition upon the Epiſtle to the Galatians, affirmeth that they are under the law, and not under grace, in whom the fleſh ſo luſteth againſt the ſpirit, that they cannot do what they would; but in the 24. Chapter of his firſt book of Retractations, he correcteth his former opinion, acknowledging that theſe words of the Apoſtle are meant, even of them, who are in the ſtate of grace: Quia & ipſi concupiſcentias carnis habent contra quas Spiritu concupiſcunt, nolentes eas habere ſi poſſent, & ideo non quæcunq; volunt faciunt, qui volunt iis carere nec poſſunt; tunc autem eas non habebunt, quando nec corruptibilem carnem.

do the things that ye would] Gr. do not what ye would.

V. 19. Now the works of the fleſh] He ſetteth out that particularly, which he ſpake before generally, reckoning up ſome chief effects of the fleſh, and oppoſing them to the fruits of the Spirit, that no man may pretend ignorance.

V. 22. But the fruit of the Spirit] Therefore they are not the fruits of free-will, but ſo far forth as our will is made free by grace. He ſaith not, the works of the Spirit, as before the works of the fleſh, but the fruits of the Spirit; to teach us, that good works are not onely the effects of Gods Spirit, but alſo that they are acceptable and pleaſing unto him, like moſt ſweet and wholeſome fruits, Matth. 3. 8. John. 15. 8.

V. 23. againſt ſuch there is no law] Such may be either referred to the fruits of the Spirit, or to the perſons who bring forth ſuch fruit, againſt men ſo qualified there is no law to condemn them: for the law of God which is ſo ſevere and terrible to all men that are in the ſtate of ſin, is not ſo for all that unto the children of God, that do not maliciouſly ſet themſelves againſt it; neither are they lyable to the malediction thereof, they ſubmitting themſelves willingly to the ſame, as a gentle miſtreſs of their actions, and guide of their life and converſation.

V. 24. have crucified the fleſh] We are not onely to mortifie our fleſhly members, but alſo our inward affections, and to do this out of a reſpect to Chriſts Croſs, which is a ſpecial means to crucifie theſe our luſts, when we conſider that ſin is ſo great and hainous an evil in the ſight of God, that nothing but the bloud of the Son of God could expiate it.

affections] Or, paſſions.

V. 25. If we live in the Spirit] Or, by. If we be indued with the quickening Spirit of God; which cauſeth us to dye to ſin and live to God, let us ſhew it in our deeds by holineſs of life.

in the Spirit] Or, by.

V. 26. Let us not be deſirous of vain-glory] He addeth particular exhortations, according as he knew the Galatians ſubject to diverſe vices, and firſt of all he warneth them to take heed of ambition, which vice hath alwaies two companions, backbiting, and envie, out of which two it cannot be, but many contentions muſt needs ariſe.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. I*F a man be overtaken in a fault*] Or, although. Gr. taken before, or, preoccupated. The word in the Original, προληφθῇ, derived from πρὸ, and λαμβάνω, ſignifieth to be taken before he is aware, or to be preſumed to be an offender, or taken before you, that is, publikely convicted of ſome fault or miſcarriage: moderate and temper your reprehenſion of him with Chriſtian meekneſs, according to that golden Rule of S. Auſtine; Salſedinem correptionis amor Chriſti temperet; & dilectionem proximi ſal juſtitiæ condiat.

reſtore ſuch an one] Gr. ſet him right, or, in joynt again.

leſt thou alſo be tempted] He toucheth the ſore, for they commonly are moſt ſevere Judges, who forget their own infirmity; and on the contrary, as S. Auguſtine obſerveth; The true ſenſe and feeling of the infirmities we are ſubject to our ſelves, makes us tender and compaſſionately affected towards others; Nihil tam ad miſericordiam inclinat quàm proprii periculi cogitatio. And Virgil brings in Queen Dido for a pattern in this kind, ſaying of her ſelf, Non ignara mali miſeris ſuccurrere diſco.

V. 2. Bear ye one anothers burdens] He ſheweth that this is the end of reprehenſion to raiſe up our brother which is fallen, and not proudly to inſult over him. To bear our brothers burden, is to have compaſſion on our brothers failings, and infirmities, which lye upon him, as a heavy load and burden, to ſupport him with comfort, and uſe the beſt means we can to eaſe and releeve him, and by diſcreet reprehenſion amend him.

and ſo fulfil the law of Chriſt] That of loving one another, Joh. 13. 34. Which Chriſt calls his new commandment. For although it were alſo preſcribed by Moſes, Levit. 19. 18. yet it is called Chriſts law, foraſmuch as it is not fulfilled but by his Spirit, and for that Chriſt ſo particularly commendeth it to his Diſciples, as well by precept, as by his own example.

V. 4. let every man prove his own work] Let every man ſeek to have commendation of his own life, by examining and reproving himſelf, and not by reprehending others. In theſe words, the Apoſtle taxeth that vice in the Galatians, which is too too common in moſt men; who are ſharp-ſighted to eſpie ſmal motes in other mens eyes, and cannot diſcern a beam in their own. Nemo in ſeſe tentat deſcendere, nemo; Sed præcedenti ſpectatur mantica tergo.

rejoycing] Gr. boaſting.

V. 5. For every man ſhall bear his own burden] See 1 Cor. 3. 8. A reaſon, wherefore men ought to have the greateſt eye upon themſelves, is, becauſe that every man ſhall be judged before God according to his own life, and not by comparing himſelf with other men. S. Jerome upon this place noteth, that the Apoſtle in theſe words, obſcurely intimateth, that whileſt we live in this world, we may be help'd by the counſels, good advice, and prayers one of another; but after this life, we muſt ſtand or fall to our ſelves; no other can ſtead us by their prayers or other ways. Dum in præſenti ſeculo ſumus, ſive orationibus ſive conſiliis invicem poſſe nos coadjuvari, cùm autem ante tribunal Chriſti venerimus, non Job, non Daniel, non Nohe rogare poſſe pro quoquam, ſed unumquemque portare onus ſuum. Which though it be a truth, and maketh much againſt Popiſh invocation of Saints, and prayers for the dead, yet it ſeemeth not to be the natural interpretation of this Text; but rather that of Saint Auſtine. De conſen. Evang. lib. 2. cap. 30. Where reconciling the ſeeming contradiction between this firſt verſe and the ſecond, he ſaith, that the word burden is taken in a different ſenſe; Alia ſunt onera participandæ infirmitatis, alia reddendæ rationis Deo de actibus noſtris. In the Original, the words are different; in the ſecond verſe, it is βάρη; in this φορτίον, there by burdens are meant ſuch ſins and infirmities, wherewith our brother is aggrieved and burdened, but here by burden is meant the puniſhment of every mans own ſin.

V. 6. Let him, &c.] See 1 Cor. 9.14.

that is taught in the word] Gr. catechiſed. See Rom. 2. 18. The word in the Original is, κατηχούμενος, a word derived from ἠχὼ, a ſound, and ſignifieth to reſound, or inſtruct others, vivâ voce, by word of mouth, by ſpeech ſounding to their ears, to teach familiarly, as when children are taught the principles of religion; and hence cometh our Engliſh word catechiſing. Howbeit, as the Greek Scholiaſt truly obſerveth, It is taken more generally for him that is any way taught and inſtructed; whether it be in the firſt principles, and rudiments, or points of greater difficulty: whether plainly and familiarly, as catechiſers uſe to do; or more profoundly, as Doctors in the chair.

communicate unto him that teacheth] Gr. catechiſeth; or, inſtructeth in the principles of faith, 1 Cor. 14. 9. Let him afford him comfortable maintenance according to his ability; he ſaith not, μεταδιδότω, but κοινωνείτω, contribute, but communicate unto him, as Oecumenius obſerveth, to ſignifie unto us, that the relief of the Paſtour is not an alms-deed, but a kind of commerce and exchange of ſpiritual things for carnal. For he that teacheth beſtoweth on his flock ſpiritual treaſures; and they who are taught of him give him part of their temporal goods, (1 Cor. 9. 11.) ſo there is a communication on both ſides.

V. 7. Be not deceived; God is not mocked] He commendeth liberality both to their Paſtours, and to the poor; and firſt he reproveth them for pretending this and that, & all becauſe they would not help their neighbours, as though they could deceive God: afterward he compareth works of charity to a ſpiritual ſowing, which ſhall have a moſt plentiful harveſt, and he compareth covetouſneſs and niggardlyneſs to a carnal ſowing, whereof nothing can be gathered but ſuch things as being unprofitable fade away and periſh by and by.

V. 8. For he that ſoweth to his fleſh] That is, to the commodities of this preſent life; he that ſeeketh after wealth or honour, and ſuch things onely whereby he may give ſatisfaction to his fleſh, and enjoy carnal delights and pleaſures, ſhall reap corruption; that is, a conſumption in his eſtate, rottenneſs in his bones, and eternal death. But he that ſoweth to the Spirit, that is, deſireth increaſe of ſpiritual graces, and by the grace of the Spirit diſtributeth liberally to the poor, and performeth all works of piety and charity in this life, ſhall have a moſt plentiful harveſt in the life to come, and reap a moſt plentiful crop.

V. 9. And let us not be weary in well doing] See 2 Theſſ. 3. 13. He taxeth ſuch as are liberal at the beginning, but continue not in well-doing, becauſe the harveſt ſeemeth to be deferred very long, as though the ſeed-time and harveſt were at one inſtant.

V. 10. houſhold of faith] They who are bred up in the ſame Church, which is the Houſe of God, they who are joyned with us in the profeſſion of the ſelf-ſame true religion, ought to be preferred before all other in our charity: yet ſo notwithſtanding that our liberality extend in ſome meaſure to all. Saint Auguſtine upon theſe words inferreth that all men are equally to be loved; and that we muſt with a like affection wiſh to all men eternal life, though we cannot perform to all the like offices of charity. This ſeemeth to be repugnant to the doctrine of other Fathers, and the Schools generally, who teach that we ought more to love thoſe of our kin than ſtrangers, Chriſtians than Infidels, right beleevers than hereticks, friends than enemies; but they quarrel with this religious Father without cauſe, for elſewhere he defineth all virtue to be ordo charitatis, an order of charity, whereby we love firſt God, then our ſelves, after our neighbours, and then differently as we owe more obligation to them, or they better deſerve of us: his meaning therefore in this place can be no other than this, that we ought to love all men pari dilectione, that is, with a like ſincerity of true love, though not a like ardency of Chriſtian affection; or that we ought to love all men alike as they are men, and deſire truly their ſalvation, though as he ſpeaketh, we neither can nor are bound to perform the ſame offices of charity to all.

V. 11. How large a letter] The words in the Original, πηλίκοις γράμμασι, may ſignifie either with how great characters I have written unto you; or what a large letter I have written unto you; thoſe who follow the firſt Tranſlation make this to be the ſenſe, to diſabuſe and undeceive you I have made ſhift though I cannot write well, yet with mine own hand in great and ill-ſhaped letters to give you an undoubted teſtimony that I preach not circumciſion; ſo Oecumenius. Others interpret the words thus, You ſee with what capital letters I have written divers ſentences in this Epiſtle, that you might take ſpecial note of them, ſuch letters Jerome in his Preface upon Job, calleth unciales literas; and the Poet grandes, Grandibus in tumuli marmore cæde notis. They who follow the latter Tranſlation, make this conſtruction of it: You ſee what pains I have taken for your ſatisfaction, to write to you a letter of a large ſize, and that with mine own hand; which I uſe not to do. It is true that the Apoſtle wrote larger letters than this, as namely to the Romanes, and to the Corinthians: but he wrote them not with his own hand, as he did this. For that to the Romanes was written by the hand of Tertius, Rom. 16. 22. And the Epiſtles to the Corinthians are ſuppoſed by the Learned to have been written by others; the firſt by the hand of Soſthenes, the ſecond by the hand of Timothy.

V. 12. make a fair ſhew in the fleſh] Gr. good face, or fair countenance. A fair ſhew againſt the truth in keeping carnal rites and ceremonies; they urge circumciſion upon you, not out of any affection and zeal that they bear to the Law; but onely for this purpoſe, that they may purchaſe themſelves favour among thoſe of their own ſort, and eſcape the malice and perſecution of the Jews.

in the fleſh] Or, in your fleſh. In cauſing you to be circumciſed.

for the croſs of Chriſt] For preaching the doctrine of Chriſt crucified.

V. 14 By whom the world is crucified, &c.] Or, whereby. S. Gregorie in the firſt of his Morals thus paraphraſeth upon theſe words: becauſe neither Paul ſought after the world, nor the world after him, he ſaith, he is crucified to the world, and the world to him. Bernard in his ſixth Sermon de Quadrageſima, conceiveth this to be the meaning: The world is crucified to me in my judgement and reputation thereof, and I am crucified to the world by an affection of compaſſion: Non incongruè poteſt intelligi crucifixum et mundum reputatione, ipſum verò mundo crucifixum compaſſione. Others illuſtrate thus the words, Al the honors, delights, and pomps which the world ſo much doteth upon, are as a croſs to me; and thoſe things which the world eſteems as croſſes, I take delight in, and am faſtened unto them. But the moſt natural expoſition ſeems to be this; God forbid that I ſhould glory in any thing ſave the death and paſſion of my Saviour; by the power whereof I am not onely dead, but even crucified to the world: ſo that I have neither love nor liking more to the world and the luſts thereof, than to a dead man hanging upon a Gibbet, or Croſs, which is not onely a miſerable, but an ignominious ſpectacle: on the other ſide, the world hath no more power on me to move me, than ſenſual objects have to move or affect a dead man.

V. 15. availeth any thing] Gr. Tec. is any.

but a new creature] Georgius Syncellus writeth that theſe words of the Apoſtle are taken out of a Book intituled Apocalypſis Moſis, the Revelation of Moſes, but the Book is Apocryphal, and it is more likely that the Authour of it bearing a falſe title is of latter date, and tranſcribed theſe words out of Saint Paul, rather than that Saint Paul ſhould borrow them from that book. For the meaning of them it is evidently this; That in attaining ſalvation by Chriſt, neither Circumciſion, nor uncircumciſion is conſiderable, or available, but a new creature, a man renewed in the ſpirit of his mind, and reformed according to Chriſts Image. 2 Cor. 5. 17.

V. 16. upon the Iſrael of God] The true Iſrael circumciſed in heart, and in the ſpirit, and not in the letter, whoſe praiſe is not of men, but of God, Rom. 2. 29.

V. 17. I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jeſus] The word in the Greek ϛίγματα, properly ſignifieth brands, that is, ſuch marks as are burnt into a mans fleſh; but here it is taken for all thoſe ſtripes and wounds which the Apoſtle received for Chriſt, and his doctrines ſake: and hereby he intimateth that he ſtartled at no perſecution; as his oppoſites the falſe Apoſtles did, and he oppoſeth his miſeries & the marks of thoſe ſtripes which he bare for Chriſts ſake, againſt the ſcar of the outward circumciſion, as the true mark of his Apoſtleſhip: and the meaning of the whole verſe ſeemeth to be this; I admoniſh all the faithful to have this regard unto me, as not to adde affliction to my affliction, nor vex my ſpirit farther with oppoſitions and contradictions, I having already ſuſtained and ſuffered ſo much for Chriſt, (2 Cor. 11. 23, &c.) whoſe marks I continually bear about me, and whereby I have ſufficiently teſtified the loyalty and faithfulneſs of my miniſtery. 2. Cor. 6. 4, 5.

V. 18. with your ſpirit] With your minds and hearts; or, grace be with your ſpirit, that is, guide and direct your ſpirit, that you may diſcern the deceits of theſe falſe Apoſtles who indeavour to inthral you to carnal rites; or becauſe grace chiefly worketh upon the ſoul and is reſident in it, he expreſſeth that part, but meaneth the whole, and it is as much as if he had ſaid, Grace be with you. From this prayer of the Apoſtle it ſeemeth the ancient Church in her Liturgy took that reſpond mentioned by Saint Chryſoſtome, in his Comment upon the tenth of Matthew, And to, or with thy ſpirit, ὅταν εἴπω, εἰρήνη ὑμῖν, καὶ ὑμεῖς εἴπητε, καὶ τῷ πνεύματί σου. When I ſay, Peace unto you, and you anſwer, And to thy ſpirit; not with your voyce onely, but with your heart: whence alſo in our Liturgy, tranſcribed for the moſt part out of the ancient Liturgies of the Church, after the Creed the Miniſter ſaith, The Lord be with you, and the people anſwer, And with thy ſpirit.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THe Apoſtle hearing that Epheſus, the Metropolis of Aſia minor, was reclaimed from the Idolatrous worſhip of Diana, to the pure worſhip of the true God in Chriſt, writeth this Epiſtle to the Congregation of the faithful there, to confirm them in the Myſteries of Chriſtian Religion, and more fully to inſtruct them in the duties of an Holy Life, agreeable to their profeſſion.

The whole Epiſtle divideth it ſelf into two parts,

1. Contemplative, wherein he diſcourſeth profoundly of the cauſes of mans ſalvation, Gods eternal election and adoption by grace, and the incorporating of the Jews and Gentiles into one Body, (the Church of Chriſt) made known to him by Revelation, Chap. 1, 2, 3.
2. Practick, wherein he inciteth them to ſhew forth good works, as the Badges of their Chriſtian Profeſſion. Theſe are ranked into two ſorts: Some required of them,
   1. In reſpect of their general calling to the knowledge of the Truth; as namely, To walk worthy their vocation, in humility, meekneſs, unity, purity, truth, love, circumſpection, devotion, and acquitting themſelves manfully in their warfare againſt Satan and all the powers of darkneſs.
   2. In reſpect of their ſpecial callings, as Husbands or Wives, Parents or Children, Maſters or Servants. From the 3. Chapter, to the end of the Epiſtle.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. TO the ſaints] Gr. Tec. to all the ſaints.

V. 3. Bleſſed be the God,&c.] See 2 Cor. 1. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 3.

bleſſings] Gr. benedictions.

heavenly places] Or, things. Heavenly bleſſings are oppoſed to earthly, upon which the Old Teſtament moſt runneth, now ſpiritual bleſſings in Chriſt are called heavenly, either becauſe God the Father gave us them from his high Throne above; or becauſe the Saints have theſe gifts beſtowed on them which belong properly to the citizens of heaven; or becauſe by virtue of theſe gifts, even whileſt we are upon earth, our converſation is in heaven, Phil. 3. 20.

V. 4. choſen] According as God by his election framed a new body out of mankind in oppoſition to the firſt, whoſe head was Adam, in whom they did all ſin and die, and ordained Chriſt to be their head, that in him all might be gathered and made partakers by him of his grace, life and glory; ſo alſo hath he accompliſhed this counſel of his in time, diſpenſing all his graces unto his Church by Chriſt in his ſacred communion. See Chap. 3. 11. 2 Tim. 1. 9. Election or choice here is taken for the eternal decree of election, which is of certain men in time drawn out of the common lump of corrupt mankind. See John 15. 16. Rom. 8. 29. 1 Theſ. 2. 13. 1 Pet. 1. 2.

in him] Or, by. That is, in Chriſt as our head; or by Chriſt as our Mediatour.

foundation of the world] Gr. caſting, or, laying, viz. of the foundation of the world.

that we ſhould be holy] God did not chooſe us becauſe we were, or otherwiſe would have been holy; but to the end that we ſhould be holy, being clothed with Chriſts righteouſneſs through faith, which though it be not here expreſſed, yet it is neceſſarily implyed. For there can be no holineſs, nor love without true faith, ſith by faith it is that our hearts are purified, Acts 15. 9.

and without blame before him] Not onely before men, as hypocrites may for a while, but in ſincerity, as in Gods preſence. See Gen. 17. 1. Luke 1. 6. And this holineſs and unblameableneſs is true and unfained in this life, and here begun by the power of Gods Spirit; but it ſhall not be perfected in all parts and degrees till the life to come, 1 Cor. 13. 10. Epheſ. 5. 27. Phil. 3. 12. Yet even this unperfect holineſs and unblameableneſs of ours in this preſent life is acceptable to God in Chriſt, and received as perfect, he forgiving us our failings, through faith in Chriſt, Coloſ. 2. 10. Heb. 13. 21. 1 Pet. 2. 5.

in love] This ſome do underſtand of the love wherewith God loved us, conſtruing it with the word choſen; yet it may be fitly joyned with the words holy and without blame, and underſtood of our love towards God and our neighbour, wherein this holineſs doth chiefly manifeſt it ſelf, 1 Cor. 13. 1. Gal. 5. 6.

V. 5. the adoption of children] Of this adoption whereby we are made children of God, and coheirs with Chriſt, we have here indeed the beginning and expectation, John 1. 12. Rom. 8. 15. but the full fruition of this adoption and inheritance we ſhall not enjoy it till hereafter, Rom. 8. 23. Gal. 4. 5. Heb. 9. 15. 1 John 3. 2.

to himſelf] Or, into himſelf. To his glory, or for his own ſake.

according to the good pleaſure of his will] Not for any deſert or worth of our own, but only out of his own free undeſerved grace and favour, Rom. 9. 11, 12, 15, 16. & 11. 6. & 2 Tim. 1. 9.

V. 6. To the praiſe of the glory of his grace] That is, to the praiſe of his glorious grace, that as his bountiful goodneſs deſerveth all praiſe, ſo alſo it ſhould be ſet forth and publiſhed.

hath made us accepted in the beloved] Gr. hath ingratiated us in the beloved.

V. 7. grace] Gr. Tec. bounty. or, goodneſs.

V. 8. in all wiſdom and prudence] In perfect and ſound wiſdom. Wiſdom and prudence ſo differ, that wiſdom principally reſpects contemplation, and prudence, action. Wiſdom is a virtue of the minde, whereby we know celeſtial myſteries; prudence, whereby we wiſely order the affairs of our life, and regulate our Chriſtian converſation. By all wiſdom here, as in Coloſ. 1. 6. either all kind of wiſdom is underſtood, or all ſaving wiſdom.

V. 9. according to his good pleaſure] Not onely the election, but alſo the vocation of the adopted ſons of God, proceedeth from meer grace.

V. 10. in the diſpenſation] Gr. Tec. according to the diſpenſation. That is, in the time prefixed by his providence, the diſpenſer of times, and of order in all things, for the accompliſhment of the promiſes concerning the Meſſiah. The Greek word οἰκονομία, ſignifieth ſuch a diſpenſation, as houſe-keepers uſe in the governing of their houſe and family, ordering and diſpoſing their proviſions, and every thing elſe in a fit time, and a convenient manner. Thus alſo hath God ordained and ſetled in his houſe, that is, in his Church, even from the beginning of the world, certain times, in which, and manner, according to which, and perſons, by whom all things are to be performed.

fulneſs of times] See Gal. 4. 4.

gather together in one] The word in the Original ἀνακεφαλαιώσασθαι, ſignifieth to reduce into one capital ſum, or, bring under one head.

both which are in heaven, &c.] Hereby ſome underſtand the faithful, whereof ſome are already in heaven, others are yet upon the earth. Others underſtand this place, not of the bleſſed ſouls in heaven, and beleeving men upon earth gathered by Chriſt under one head, and into one body; but of the Angels in heaven, which by Chriſt are reconciled to men, and both gathered together under one Head, which before-time had been divided and rent aſunder by reaſon of tho ſins of men, Heb. 12. 22, 23. Revel. 19. 10.

heaven] Gr. the heavens.

in him] The faithful are ſaid to be gathered together in Chriſt, becauſe they are joyned together with him, through faith, and become as it were one man.

V. 11. In whom alſo we have obtained,&c.] Gr. Tec. In whom we are called, being.

all things] All things are attributed to the grace of God, without exception, and yet for all that we are not ſtocks, for he giveth us grace both to will, and to do thoſe things that are good, Phil. 2. 13.

counſel of his own will] He ſaith not ſimply, according to his will, but according to the counſel of his will; to teach us, that God, as an intelligent and moſt wiſe Agent, doth all things upon moſt juſt and prudent grounds, known to himſelf, and hath always a reaſon for his will, though to us his will muſt ſtand for the ſupreme reaſon; ſtat pro ratione voluntas.

V. 12. who firſt truſted in Chriſt] Or, hoped. Either he ſpeaketh this of the Jews, who were called to the faith of Chriſt before the Gentiles, or he ſpeaketh it of the Apoſtles, who were ſimply the firſt-fruits of all beleevers, and brought both Jewes and Gentiles to the Chriſtian faith.

V. 13. ſealed with that holy Spirit of promiſe] Or, the holy Spirit. The manner of ſpeech is taken from men, who for better aſſurance and confirmation of any promiſes, are wont to give ſealed Bills, Bonds, or Letters; and that for the moſt part, with imprinting or ſtamping their own Arms or Cognizance upon them. Now the promiſes of the pardon of our ſins, of our adoption and everlaſting inheritance are made unto us in the Goſpel, and applyed to us by faith, and the ſealing of the Spirit, that is added thereunto, is our regeneration, and the renewing of Gods image within us, which is, as it were, printed upon our ſouls, when we beleeve in Chriſt, to aſſure us more and more of the accompliſhment of thoſe his promiſes. 2 Cor. 1. 22. Chap. 4. 30.

V. 14. until] Or, for.

purchaſed] Or, purchaſe.

V. 17. in the knowledge] Or, for the acknowledgement.

V. 19. Exceeding greatneſs of his power] The greatneſs of Gods power is as much manifeſted in the raiſing of our ſouls from the death of ſin to the life of grace, as in the raiſing dead bodies from the grave: and the very phraſe ſheweth, that the work of the holy Ghoſt in breeding faith in us, is more than a moral ſwaſion, to which we may yeeld, or not; for ſuch a ſwaſion cannot be ſaid to be the working of Gods mighty power, like to that whereby he raiſed Chriſt from the dead.

of his mighty power] Gr. of the might of his power.

V. 20. and ſet him at his own right hand] See Rom. 8. 34.

V. 21. principallity] Or, rule.

every name that is named] Above every thing whatſoever it be, or above all perſons, be they of never ſuch power or excellency. Honourable and famous men are called men of name, and the Name of the Lord is often taken in Scripture for the Lord himſelf. (Phil. 2. 9.) The Apoſtles meaning is, that Chriſt, even as man, is exalted, not only above all States and Potentates upon earth, but alſo all Angels and Archangels in heaven.

V. 22. And hath put all things under his feet] See Pſalm 8. 6. 1 Cor. 15.25.

head over all things to the Church] Chriſt is ſaid to be the Head of the Church in three reſpects eſpecially: Firſt, in that he is above the Church, and ruleth it, as the head guideth the body. Secondly, becauſe he conveyeth life into it, as the head doth to the members. Thirdly, becauſe he provideth for it, as the head doth for the members, and participates in the ſame nature with it, as the head doth with the members.

V. 23. the fulneſſe of him that filleth all in all] The love of Chriſt is ſo great to the Church, that though he doth fully ſatisfie all with all things, yet he eſteemeth himſelf but as a maimed and imperfect head, unleſſe he have the Church joyned to him as his body.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. AND you hath he quickned] See Coloſ. 2. 13.

dead in treſpaſſes and ſins] Not dead to ſins, but dead in ſins: He is dead to ſin, in whom ſin hath little or no power (Rom. 6.2, 11.) but he is dead in ſin, who hath no life of grace in him: all that are unregenerate, are dead in this ſenſe; for as the immortality of them which are damned, is no life, ſo the uniting of body and ſoul is properly no life, but death in them who are not ruled by the Spirit of God. By treſpaſſes and ſins ſome underſtand the ſame, for ſin is called παράπτωμα, as it implyeth a ſlip or falling; but ἁμαρτία, as it is an aberration from, or miſſing the right way. Others diſtinguiſh between treſpaſſes and ſins, and make treſpaſſes the beginning as it were, and ſins the conſummation of wicked works; or, as Saint Auſtin conceiveth, a treſpaſſe is an omiſſion of good; ſin, a commiſſion of evil.

V. 2. according to the courſe of this world] The Original αἰὼν τοῦ κόσμου, is by ſome rendred, the age of this world; by others, the life of this world; or, generation of this world; by the Syrian Interpreter and Tremelius, mundi vanitatem, the vanity, or, word for word, worldlineſſe of this world: the meaning is, after the common courſe and faſhion of worldlings, that think of no other world than this preſent.

according to the prince] According to the will, inſtigation and ſuggeſtion of Satan, who being caſt out of the higher heaven of glory, Luke 10. 18. Revel. 12. 8. doth wander about now, and exerciſe the power God permits him in theſe lower regions of the air, until he be ſhut up into the dungeon of eternal torments. 2 Cor. 4. 4.

of the power of the air] That hath power in moving the air, and raiſing ſtorms there, as appeareth by the ſtory of Job, (Job 1.) and continually fighting againſt the faithful out of the air, Epheſ. 6. 12. Or, the word ἀὴρ may be taken, as it is often, in Heſiod. and Homer, for, σκότος (as Heſiod. Ἔργ. καὶ Ἡμερ. Ἠέρα ἑσσάμενοι πάντῃ φοιτῶντες ἐπ' αἶαν, caligine induti] that is, darkneſſe; and that indeed is his proper ſtyle, for as God is the father of lights, ſo the Devil the Prince of darkneſſe.

now worketh in the children of diſobedience] The particle now is added here, by reaſon that Satan, ſince the preaching of the Goſpel, hath loſt that operation and full ſway in the faithful, which formerly he had indifferently over all, albeit he doth not ceaſe to aſſault and moleſt them; but the power that is left him now, is cheefly over the unbeleevers, 2 Cor. 4. 4. 2 Theſſ. 2. 9, 10. and thoſe whom God hath given over to Satan, who maliciouſly refuſe the Goſpel; and he by his operations and ſuggeſtions, leadeth them whitherſoever he will.

V. 3. Alſo we] After that he had condemned the Gentiles, he confeſſeth, that the Jews (among whom he numbreth himſelf) were no whit better.

in the luſts of our fleſh] By the name of fleſh, in the firſt place he meaneth the whole man, which he afterwards divideth into two parts, into the fleſh, which the Philoſophers term the ſenſitive or irrational part; and into the minde, which they call the rational; ſo that he leaveth nothing in man that is not dead in ſin: and concludeth, that the whole man is born ſubject to the wrath and curſe of God. (John 3. 6.)

the deſires] Gr. the wills.

were by nature the children of wrath] Children of wrath may be underſtood, either actively, ſuch as deſerve wrath, as Judas is ſaid to be the childe of perdition, (John 17. 12.) and the Phariſees Proſelytes, the children of hell: (Matth. 23. 15.) or paſſively, ſuch as are lyable to the wrath of God, and the ſentence of eternal death; men in Gods hatred, as well as others, that is, profane people which know not God.

V. 6. And hath raiſed us up together] To wit, as he addeth afterwards, in Chriſt: for as yet this is not fulfilled in us, but onely in our head, by whoſe Spirit we have begun to die to ſin, and live to God, until that work be fully brought to an end; but yet the hope is certain, for we are as ſure of that we look for, as we are of that we have received already.

V. 7. through Chriſt Jeſus] Or, in.

V. 8. by grace are ye ſaved through faith] Chriſt is the meritorious, grace the efficient, and faith the inſtrumental cauſe of our juſtification and ſalvation; grace and faith ſtand one with another, to which two theſe are contrary, to be ſaved by our ſelves or our works. And becauſe it might be objected, that faith is our work, and conſequently that if we are juſtified by faith, we are juſtified by works; the Apoſtle immediatly addeth that though this faith be in us, yet it is not of us, that is, not from the power of nature, but that it is meerly the gift of God: and this is to be meant not onely of the habit of faith, but the very act, as Saint Auguſtine in his 107. Epiſtle, Proſp. l. 1. de vocat. Gent. and the Synod held at Auraſica canon the laſt, clearly prove out of Philippians 1. 29.

V. 10. his workmanſhip] We are Gods workmanſhip, both in reſpect of our firſt creation, and in reſpect of our regeneration, which is a ſecond creation: of which theſe words are to be underſtood, for he ſpeaketh not of us we are by nature, but as new creatures in Chriſt by grace.

ordained] Or, prepared.

V. 11. remember that ye] Applying the former doctrine to the Gentiles, he ſheweth that they were not onely as the Jews by nature, but alſo after a ſpecial ſort ſtrangers and without God, and therefore they ought the rather to remember ſo great a benefit of God as was their admittance into the covenant of grace.

by that which is called the circumciſion] Or, in regard of that. Either he meaneth by circumciſion the Jews, who were known and diſtinguiſhed from the Gentiles by circumciſion the mark of the covenant; or if he take not circumciſion, as he doth Galatians 2. 7. for the Jews who were circumciſed, but for the ſacrament it ſelf; then the meaning is, that the Epheſians were uncircumciſion in reſpect of the carnal circumciſion, that is, were utterly deſtitute of it. If it be objected, that the Egyptians and Ethiopians, and Colchians, and Arabians, and ſome other nations were circumciſed; as Herodotus, l. 2. Hieron. upon Jer. 9. Alexander ab Alexandro Genialium l. 2. report: the anſwer is eaſie; That though they were cut in the fore-skin of the fleſh as the Jews were, yet that was done to another end, either as a mark of their Nobility, or for ſome other purpoſe. They received it not as the ſeal of Gods Covenant; their circumciſion was no ſacrament at all, neither by virtue thereof had they any entrance into the true Church of God.

V. 12. without Chriſt] He beginneth firſt with Chriſt, who was the end of all the promiſes, and ſhadowed out to the Jews under all their types.

being aliens from the common-wealth of Iſrael] That is, had no right nor title to the common-wealth of Iſrael.

without God in the world] The Gentiles were not ſimply Atheiſts; for they worſhipped ſome one, ſome more gods; yet becauſe they worſhipped not the true God; or if they worſhipped the true God, yet they worſhipped him not as God, nor glorified him in their life and converſation; but became vain in their imaginations, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, &c. Rom. 1. 21, 23. they are ſaid to be without God: and in this ſenſe, the Turks and all Infidels may be rightly termed ἄθεοι, without God, becauſe they worſhip not the true God in Chriſt.

V. 13. But now in Chriſt Jeſus] Chriſt is the onely bond both of Jews and Gentiles, whereby they are tied and united both to God, and one to another.

V. 14. For he is our peace] That is, the Authour and cauſe of our peace; as well of the peace between God and us, as between our ſelves: he is the cement, the onely tie, and ground of the true union of Jews and Gentiles into one and the ſame Church.

the middle wall of partition] By the ceremonies and worſhip appointed by the law, the Jews were divided from the Gentiles: but now, Chriſt having broken down the partition-wall, joyneth them both together both in himſelf, and betwixt themſelves, and to God. In this manner of ſpeech the Apoſtle hath regard to that partition which was in Solomons Temple between the outward court of the Gentiles, and that of the people which was Lorica lapidea, whereof Joſephus de bello Judaico, l. 6. c. 6. ſpeaketh, a wall that hindred all paſſage, ſight, and communion betwixt them, Ezek. 42. 20. The meaning is, that the Gentiles had gotten a free acceſſe now by the Goſpel unto the Church, and the benefits thereof; being not accounted profane any longer. And it may be alſo, that the Apoſtle in this alluſion had an eye to the renting of the veil in the Temple, Matth. 27. 51. Luke 23. 45.

V. 16. in one body by the Croſſe] He alludeth to the ſacrifices of the law, which repreſented that true and onely ſacrifice.

having ſlain the enmity thereby] Or, in himſelf. For he deſtroyed death by his death, and faſtened it as it were to the Croſſe, and the cauſe of ſin being taken away, all hatred and enmity betwixt God and man neceſſarily ceaſed.

V. 17. which were afar off, and to them that were nigh] To them that were afar off, that is, to the Gentiles, (Iſa.57.19.) aliens from the common-wealth of Iſrael and ſtrangers from the covenants of promiſe, verſe 12. and to them that were nigh; that is, to the Jews, who were nearer to God by reaſon of his Covenant with them, and Ordinances among them.

V. 18. through him, &c.] See Rom.5.2.

by one ſpirit] Or in.

V. 19. ye are no more ſtrangers] The Gentiles are taken into the fellowſhip of ſalvation, and he deſcribeth the excellency of the Church, calling it the City and Houſe of God.

V. 20. and are built] Gr. having been built. That is, your faith, whereby you ſubſiſt in the communion of Saints, hath for its infallible and immoveable ground, the whole doctrine of the Old and New Teſtament, the main ſubject whereof is Chriſt, who in his own perſon is the reall and eſſential foundation, and as it were, the corner-ſtone, where the great ſtrength of the building lyeth, (Pſal.118.22. 1 Pet.2.6,7.) joyning the two walls together; that is, the two different Nations of the Jews and Gentiles, of whom the Church is compoſed.

V. 21. framed together] So that God is the workman, not onely of the foundation, but alſo of the whole building.

V. 22. for an habitation of God] Both the whole Church and every particular beleever is an habitation of God; for God dwelleth in the Church, Lev.26.11,12. and in every true beleever by his Spirit, 2 Cor.6.16.

through the Spirit] Gr. in.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. F*Or this cauſe*] He maintaineth his Apoſtleſhip againſt the offence of the Croſſe, from whence alſo he taketh an argument to confirm his miniſtery, affirming that he was not onely appointed an Apoſtle by the mercy of God; but was alſo particularly appointed an Apoſtle of the Gentiles to call them to ſalvation, becauſe God had ſo determined it from the beginning, although he deferred a great while the manifeſtation of that his counſel.

the priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt] Not impriſoned by him, but for him: as likewiſe in Philemon, he ſtyleth himſelf a priſoner of Jeſus Chriſt: verſe 9. caſt in priſon for the Goſpels ſake, and in particular a priſoner for the Gentiles; not onely becauſe he was their ſpecial Apoſtle, but becauſe the ground of his ſufferings at this time was the hatred of the Jews his countrey-men, who by their accuſation procured him to be impriſoned at Rome: and the greateſt cauſe why the Jews his countrey-men, thus maliced and perſecuted him was, for that he made the Gentiles equal unto them, as thereby are, they conceived, impeached the privileges and prerogatives of the Jews above the Gentiles.

V. 2. the grace of God] Gr. Tec. of his grace.

V. 3. He made known] Gr. Tec. was made.

afore] Or, a little before.

V. 5. which in other ages was not made known] He meaneth not that none knew the calling of the Gentiles before, but becauſe very few in compariſon knew of it: and they that did know it, had it revealed unto them darkly, and for the moſt part under figures in general and confuſedly. The myſtery of the calling of the Gentiles was revealed in former ages, but not ſo diſtinctly and particularly as now it is.

by the Spirit] Gr. in.

V. 7. according to the gift of] Gr. according to the efficacy of.

V. 8. leſſe than the leaſt] Or, far the leaſt.

the leaſt of all ſaints] The word in the Original ἐλαχιστότερος, is as it were a double diminitive, and ſignifieth leſſer than the leaſt, if leſſer might be; whereby we may learn that this eminent Apoſtle had deſcended to the loweſt of thoſe three degrees of humility above mentioned. See Rom. chap. 12.

is this grace] Gr. was.

I ſhould preach] See Gal.1.16.

unſearchable] Gr. not to be traced out, or, found.

V. 9. make all men ſee] Gr. to make clear, or, lightſome to all men.

which from the beginning of the world hath] Gr. from the worlds, or, ages hath.

V. 10. unto the principalities and powers] That is, the bleſſed Angels, Rom.8.38. Epheſ.1.21. Coloſſ. 1.16. 1 Pet.3. 22. They are thus called by reaſon that God doth often make uſe of their miniſtery in the governing of Countreys, and Kingdomes, Dan.4.13. and 10. 12. And theſe Angels themſelves are very deſirous alſo to look into, and contemplate the manifold wiſdome of God in the governing of his Church, and the diſpenſing of his gifts and graces in Chriſt to the faithful, 1 Pet.1.12.

known by the Church the manifold wiſdome of God] That in this glorious renovation of the world by Chriſt, not onely we, but even the Angels themſelves alſo, may have a new proof and document of the wiſdome of God in a different effect from what he demonſtrated at other times by the different eſtate and condition of the Church under the Old and New Teſtament.

V. 11. eternal purpoſe] Eternal, as the Schools rightly diſtinguiſh, is ſaid in a three-fold ſenſe; à parte ante onely, and ſo is that which had no beginning, but ſhall have an end: ſo are the Decrees of God, even of ſuch things as are accompliſhed in time, and have their period, eternal: and ſo is that purpoſe of God eternal, of which the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh concerning the calling and incorporating of the Gentiles into the myſtical body of Chriſt and true Church of God. Secondly, eternal à parte poſt onely, that had beginning, but ſhall have no end; and ſo are Angels and the ſouls of men eternal. Thirdly, eternal à parte ante, & à parte poſt, that which never had beginning, nor ſhall have an end; and ſo God onely is eternal.

V. 12. with confidence] Gr. in.

V. 13. faint not] Gr. ſhrink not back.

at my tribulation] Gr. in.

V. 14. For this cauſe I bow my knees] He teacheth by his own example, that the efficacy of the doctrine dependeth upon the grace of God, and therefore we ought to joyn prayers to the preaching and hearing of the Word; which are needful, not onely to them who are novices in Religion, and Babes in Chriſt; but even to thoſe of ripeſt years and underſtanding in heavenly myſteries; that they growing up more and more by faith in Chriſt; being confirmed with all ſpiritual gifts, may be grounded and rooted in the knowledge of that unmeaſurable love, wherewith God the Father hath loved us in Chriſt, ſeeing that the whole family, whereof part is already received into heaven, and part is yet here upon earth, dependeth upon that adoption of the heavenly Father in his onely Son.

V. 15. whole family in heaven and earth] Or, fatherhood, or whole flock. Nyſſen in Pſal. c.8. defineth this family to be the whole number of all that are written in the Book of life. Πατειὰν δὲ ὀνομάζει τὸ σύστημα τῶν εἰς τὸν θεῖον κατάλογον συντελούντων, ſo the meaning is, That God who is the Father of Chriſt by nature, is alſo by adoption the father of all the Church, which is as it were his family, and the whole congregation of his children as well of thoſe that are already glorified in heaven, as of the reſt that yet do live by faith here on earth. See Epheſ. 1.10.

V. 16. grant] Gr. give.

in the inner man] See 2 Cor.4.16.

V. 17. rooted and grounded in love] Gr. founded. Either rooted and grounded in that love wherewith God loved us, which is the root and very foundation of our election: or the meaning is, that our love, wherewith we love God who dwelleth in us by his Spirit, may be firm and conſtant. Ficta omnia ſicut floſculi celeriter decidunt, vera gloria radices agit: the like may be ſaid of charity, Feigned affections and inconſtant deſires, like bloſſomes are blown away with every wind of temptation; true love takes deep root.

V. 18. what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and heighth] Many wits run riot in their Geometrical and Moral diſcourſes upon theſe dimenſions: ſome conceive that the Apoſtle alludeth to the dimenſions of the Croſſe, and by heighth underſtand the wiſdome of Chriſt; by depth his humility; by length his longanimity, by breadth his charity. Others place the breadth in the extent of charity; the length in perſeverance; the heighth in the hope of celeſtiall rewards; and the depth in the inſcrutable judgements of God, Rom. 11.33. See Auguſt. Ep. 112. Et de doct. Chriſt. l.2. c. 41. Others thus reckon theſe dimenſions: He (ſay they) comprehendeth the length of the Croſſe, who hath learned from the beginning of the world to the end, no man was ever juſtified or ſaved but by the Croſſe: he comprehendeth the breadth who conceiveth the Catholike Church ſcattered over the face of the whole earth to have iſſued out of Chriſts ſide: he comprehendeth the height who conſidereth with himſelf what is the height of the glory to which Chriſts humility raiſeth us: he comprehendeth the depth, who ſounds the bottome, ſo far as by the Scripture he may, of Gods election, and ſeparating ſome from the maſſe of corruption and perdition wherein he leaveth others. The Gloſſe upon the New Teſtament reſolveth all theſe dimenſions into the immenſity of Gods love, ſaying, Quæ ſit latitudo, longitudo, ſublimitas, profunditas hoc ſignificat, ut ſicut in ſphæra tanta longitudo quanta latitudo, & tanta latitudo quantum profundum; ità in Domino omnia æqualia ſint immenſæ infinitatis. It is certain that the ſpeech is figurative clothed with a metaphor taken from the Geometricians, who if they will perfectly know any building or ſtructure, exactly meaſure it according to all theſe dimenſions; and hereby the Apoſtle would have us labour as exactly to meaſure the ſpiritual temple of God, as the Prophets were exact in deſcribing the dimenſions of the material, (Ezek. 40.) that ſo they may underſtand how perfect it is in every part.

V. 19. And to know the love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledge] Gr. Tec. the exceeding love of the knowledge of Chriſt. If it paſſeth knowledge, how may we know it? The anſwer is, either it paſſeth all other knowledge, or that it paſſeth all the capacity of our wit, to comprehend it fully in our minde. For otherwiſe, who ſo hath the Spirit of God perceiveth ſo much, according to the meaſure that God hath given him, as is ſufficient to ſalvation, 1 Cor. 2. 15.

filled with all the fulneſſe of God] Gr. unto. That you may have abundantly in you, whatſoever things are requiſite to make you perfect with God, that you may be repleniſhed with all ſpirituall graces.

V. 20. Now unto him that is able] He breaketh forth into a thankſgiving, whereby the Epheſians may be confirmed in hope of obtaining any thing they ask of him: for he that is able to give us above all that we ask, is more bountifull than we can imagine; will certainly freely give us whatſoever we ask according to his will.

in us] Gr. Tec. in you.

V. 21. by] Gr. in.

ages, world without end] Gr. generations of a world of worlds.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. OF the Lord] Or, in the Lord.

walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called] See Phil. 1. 27. Col. 1. 10. 1 Theſſ. 2. 12. Though all men ought to walk worthy their ſpecial calling, that is, ſo as it becometh men of ſuch a calling, as namely, Magiſtrates ought to carry themſelves, as it befitteth their place of authority, and Miniſters, as it becometh their ſacred function: yet the verſes following ſhew, that the Apoſtle here by calling, meaneth the general calling of the faithful, which is this, to be holy as our God is holy, and as we are called to the knowledge of the Goſpel, ſo we ſhould walk according to the preſcript of the Goſpel, 1 Pet. 1. 15, 16.

V. 3. Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace] He exhorteth to perfect agreement, but yet ſuch as is knit with the band of the holy Ghoſt. By the unity of the Spirit, we may underſtand, either a full conſent and agreement in our ſpirits, that is, our judgements and affections, that we ſweetly conſpire together in the love of the ſame truth, and ſeek that truth in love: or by the unity of the Spirit may be underſtood the union of all the members of the entire Church, united together by the holy Spirit, after the manner of a ſpiritual and myſtical body.

V. 4. one body; and one Spirit] An argument of great weight, for an earneſt entertaining of brotherly love and charity one with another, becauſe we are made one body, having one God and Father, enlivened with one Spirit, worſhipping the Lord with one faith, and conſecrated to him with one Baptiſm, and hope of one ſelf-ſame glory, whereunto we are called: whatſoever therefore breaketh charity, breaketh all theſe bonds aſunder.

V. 5. One Lord, one faith, one Baptiſm] Not to touch upon the Grammatical note, that the Apoſtle in this verſe declineth, εἷς, μία, ἕν, unus, a, um, unus Dominus, una fides, unum baptiſma; By one Lord, he underſtandeth not onely one Lord, our Governour and our Keeper; but alſo one Lord our Redeemer, who hath dearly bought us, that we ſhould ſerve him in holineſſe and righteouſneſſe all the days of our life. By one faith, he meaneth one doctrine of our faith Chriſt Jeſus, or beleef in him, whereby all the faithful who lived before under the Law, and now under the Goſpel were juſtified and ſaved. By one baptiſm, he underſtandeth not onely one ſpecie, that is, one kinde of Baptiſm inſtituted by Chriſt in the Goſpel; but one Baptiſme alſo numero: for every man is but once baptized; and ſo the word one Baptiſm is taken in the Nicene Creed, wherein we profeſſe to beleeve one Baptiſm for the remiſſion of ſins, 1 Cor. 8. 6. Luke 1. 75.

V. 6. One God and Father of all] See Mal. 2. 10. as in the former verſe, by the word Lord, the Father is not excluded from being our Lord, nor the holy Ghoſt who is ſtyled the Lord, 2 Cor. 3. 17. ſo alſo neither is the Son excluded here by the word one God, nor the holy Ghoſt; but by this diverſity of titles, onely the order and propriety is ſhewed, which each perſon hath in this work. Above all, ſome refer to the Father, who is the Authour of all, and fountain as it were of the Deity; through all, or by all, to the Son, by whom all things were created; in all to the Spirit, who dwelleth in the hearts of all the faithful. Others refer all three to the Father, and thus paraphraſe the words; God the Father of all the members of the Church, which is the body of Chriſt, over all, over whom he hath the higheſt command and authority, by all, by whom he exerciſeth his ſpecial providence, and in all in whom he dwelleth by his Spirit. But becauſe the Apoſtle ſaith, One God and Father of all; it is moſt probable that the three propoſitions are to be attributed not to any one perſon or more in ſeveral, but to the Deity in common, and over relateth to God his authority, through to his providence, and in to his grace: one God who is above all by his authority, through all by his providence, and in all you that are beleevers by the graces of the Spirit.

in you all] Gr. Tec. in all.

V. 7. meaſure of the gift of Chriſt] Therefore not according to merits of congruity or condignity; As the Pelagians taught, whoſe hereſie is condemned in the Council held at Dioſpolis, wherein the Fathers pronounce an Anathema to all that affirm, Gratiam Dei ſecundum merita hominum dari. Now if all diverſity of grace proceed from the meaſure of Chriſts gift, none ought to repine at anothers gifts, nor be proud of his own.

V. 8. When he aſcended, &c.] Pſalm 68. 18. The Pſalmiſt out of whom the Apoſtle tranſcribeth this verſe, alludeth to the manner of great Princes or Conquerours; who in the day of their triumph, mounting on an high Steed, or taking their chariot, led the captives, ſome before, and others after them, bound with fetters and chains, and when they came to their palace, divided the ſpoils which they had taken from their enemies, and beſtowed rich gifts upon the captains and ſouldiers, that deſerved beſt in their wars. Some by aſcending on high, underſtand Chriſt lifting up himſelf on the Croſſe, but that was properly no aſcenſion, for he was nailed, firſt to his Croſſe, and then the Croſſe ſet up above the earth indeed, but not high. The true meaning of the Text is, when he mounted up through the air, and aſcended to the higheſt heaven the Seat of the bleſſed, above the viſible Spheres. He led captivity captive, that is, as ſome interpret, a certain number of captives, namely, thoſe Saints that were long held in captivity of death, whoſe bodies aroſe at Chriſts death, Matth. 28. 52. and now they accompanied Chriſt in his triumphant march into heaven. Others underſtand this captivity more generally, and they diſtinguiſh of an active and a paſſive captivity; of both which the words of the Apoſtle may be fitly underſtood; if they be underſtood of paſſive captivity, then the meaning is, he took away from Satan, Death, and Hell, all their captives, and made them his captives; changing their miſerable captivity, εἰς καλὴν καὶ συμφέρουσαν, into an holy and happy captivity, whereby they are brought into the obedience of the Goſpel: if captivity be underſtood actively, then the meaning is, that Chriſt hath captivated the world, fleſh, devil, death, and hell; which in ſeveral kindes had before captivated mankinde. By the gifts, are meant the gifts of the holy Ghoſt, conferred upon the Church after Chriſts aſcenſion.

captivity captive] Or, a multitude of captives.

V. 9. lower parts of the earth] Either down in the earth, which is the loweſt part of the world, or into the grave, which is called the heart of the earth, Matth. 12. 40. For the heart of the earth is the middle of the earth, as our heart is in the middle of our bowels; and the middle of the earth, as the Philoſophers demonſtrate, is the loweſt part of the earth. For whatſoever is above it any way is nearer the heaven, and conſequently higher. Howbeit it is not improbable, that the Apoſtle alludeth unto Pſalm 139 15. My ſubſtance was not hid from thee, when I was made in ſecret, and formed in the loweſt parts of the earth; and then the meaning of the Apoſtle is; He deſcended into the loweſt parts of the earth; that is, into the Virgins womb, Ezek. 28. 2.

V. 10. that he might fill all things] Or, fulfill. Either he deſcended and aſcended, that he might fill both heaven and earth with his preſence, or repleniſh the Church with his gifts: or fulfill (for ſo the word πληροῦν, ſometimes ſignifieth) all the foregoing Prophecies of him, or fill the whole world with his knowledge and glory, Eſa. 11. 9. Or he doth ſhew himſelf every where preſent by his divine virtue, in the adminiſtration which he hath received of God, both in heaven and earth, Matth. 28. 18.

V. 11. And he gave ſome Apoſtles &c.] See 1 Cor. 12. 28.

and ſome Evangeliſts] By Evangeliſts ſome underſtand here the four Writers of the Goſpels; ſome thoſe who are endued with a ſingular gift of preaching the Goſpel, ſuch as Philip was, Acts 21. 8. who was yet but a Deacon; others the companions and fellows of the Apoſtles in the execution of their Office, being not able to ſupply all places themſelves, and ſuch an Evangeliſt was Timothy, 2 Tim. 4. 5.

V. 12. perfecting] Or, making up, or, reſtoring.

the body of Chriſt] The myſtical body of Chriſt, which is the Church.

V. 13. Till we all come in the unity of the faith] Or, meet together into the unity. The uſe of the miniſtery is perpetual, ſo long as we are in this world, that is, until having put off the fleſh; and throughly and perfectly agreeing betwixt our ſelves, we ſhall be joyned with Chriſt our Head, which is done by the knowledge of the Son of God encreaſing in us, and he himſelf by little and little growing up in us, until we come to be a perfect man, which ſhall be in the world to come, when God ſhall be all in all.

the ſtature of the fulneſſe of Chriſt] Or, age. Some expound this of the reſurrection, in which as they conceive, all ſhall riſe in the ſtature and full age of Chriſt at his reſurrection, which was in the three or four and thirtieth year of his age. But the Apoſtle here ſpeaketh not of our age, or ſtature, nor of Chriſts growth and full age in himſelf, but in us; and the meaning is, until Chriſt his myſtical body grow to ripeneſſe and perfection, both in reſpect of all the members to be added thereunto, and alſo of their growth and perfection in grace, and the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

V. 14. no more children] Betwixt childhood, that is to ſay, a very weak eſtate, and our perfect age, which we ſhall have at length in another world, there is a mean or middle eſtate, to wit, our youth and going forward to perfection.

toſſed to and fro] Or, floting to and fro. He compareth them which reſt not themſelves upon the word of God, to little Boats or Skiphs, which are toſſed hither and thither with the doctrines of men, as it were with contrary winds; and withall he forewarneth them, that it cometh to paſſe, not onely by the lightneſſe of mans brain, but alſo by the craftineſſe of certain Teachers, who made as it were an art of it.

by the ſleight of men] Gr. by the cogging of a Die; or, cheating. In the Original it is κυβεία from κύβος, a Die; whereby is ſignified, either the levity or inconſtancy of men, whoſe opinions are as variable, and doctrines as uncertain as the caſting of a Die; or elſe their ſubtilty is meant, who cheat men with falſe ſophiſms, as Gameſters do with falſe Dice.

whereby they lye in wait to deceive] Gr. Tee. according to the circumvention of deceit; or, crafty fetches of the Devil.

V. 15. But ſpeaking the truth in love] Or, being ſincere. See Zech. 8. 16. By earneſt affection to the truth and love, we grow up into Chriſt; for he (being effectual by the miniſtery of his Word, which, as the vital ſpirits, doth ſo quicken the whole body, that it nouriſheth all the limbs thereof, according to the meaſure and proportion of each) quickeneth and cheriſheth his Church, which conſiſteth of divers functions, as of divers members, and preſerveth the property of every one; and thence it followeth, that neither this body can live without Chriſt, neither can any man grow up ſpiritually, who ſeparateth himſelf from the other members.

V. 16. From whom,&c.] See Col. 2. 19.

every part] Gr. Tee. every member.

V. 17. vanity of their minde] See Rom. 1. 21.

V. 18. Having the underſtanding darkned] Gr. Being darkned in the underſtanding.

being alienated from the life of God] Of Chriſt, who after the manner of the ſoul, quickneth all his members.

blindneſſe of their heart] Or, hardneſſe of their heart. See Rom. 1. 21.

V. 19. paſt feeling] Or, remorſeleſſe. Having their conſcience ſeared, as it were, with an hot iron. The word in the Original ἀπηλγηκότες, ſignifieth properly, without grief, or remorſe for their ſin, being ſtupid, like a member that is benummed, which hath no ſenſe in it. To this ſtupidity cuſtome in ſin bringeth a man; for, Conſuetudo peccandi tollit ſenſum peccati.

with greedineſſe] Or, in exceſſe.

V. 21. by] Gr. in.

as the truth is in Jeſus] As they have learned who acknowledge Chriſt in deed, and in truth, or as the true rule of life and manner of living is in Jeſus, as in the head.

V. 22. put off] See Col. 3. 8.

the old man] See Rom. 6. 6.

corrupt according to the deceitful luſts] Gr. corrupted according to the luſts of deceit.

V. 23. be renewed in the ſpirit of your] See Rom. 11. 2.

V. 24. that ye put on] The Apoſtle compareth here the renewing of a man, to a new garment, the natural corruption, to an old out-worn one, which he ſaith, the faithful ought to put off, and put on the other; for that now being regenerated by the Spirit of God, they ſhould advance, and put on more and more, by the uſe of the means which God hath appointed for it, as by manful reſiſtance againſt ſin, by the Spirit of God, Rom. 8. 13. by ſtirring up the gift of God in them, 2 Tim. 1. 6. by attentive hearing and meditating on Gods Word, Pſalm 1. 2. 2 Tim. 3. 16. by the worthy participation of the Sacrament, 1 Cor. 11. 27, 28. by pouring out fervent prayers to God, Epheſ. 6. 18.

the new man] Thus the Apoſtle calleth the regeneration or renewing of man, and changing of the will to holineſſe and righteouſneſſe, wherein conſiſteth the image of God; the former part whereof is expreſs'd in this place, and the latter Col. 3. 10. See 2 Cor. 5. 17.

V. 25. putting away lying] Lying in opinion, which is errour; in ſpeech, which is falſhood; in life and converſation, which is hypocriſie and diſſimulation: becauſe we are members one of another, and there is a near tye betwixt us, it is a ſin to deceive any by lying and falſhood, but a greater to deceive thoſe of the ſame corporation, eſpecially ſo holy a corporation, as is the myſtical body of Chriſt: for if in the natural body (as S. Chryſoſtome obſerveth) the members deceive not one another, the eye deceiveth not the foot, nor the foot the eye, nor the tongue the ſtomach; how much more abſurd and monſtrous a thing would it be, if the members of the ſame myſtical body of Chriſt ſhould deceive or ſupplant one another?

ſpeak every man truth with his neighbour] See Zech. 8. 16.

V. 26. Be ye angry and ſin not] See Pſalm 4. 4. There can be no true love of God, nor zeal of his glory, where there is no anger nor indignation taken againſt thoſe who diſhonour God: the Apoſtle doth not therefore ſimply forbid anger, but teacheth us how to bridle our anger in ſuch ſort, that although it be hot, (Jam. 1. 20.) yet that it break not out into contumelious ſpeeches or actions, but that it be ſtraightway quenched, before we ſleep, leſt Satan taking occaſion to give us evil counſel, through his wicked counſels deſtroy us.

V. 27. Neither give place to the devil] See Jam 4. 7.

V. 28. to give] Or, to diſtribute.

V. 29. Let no corrupt communication] Word for word, no rotten communication: whereby either he underſtandeth impure and filthy ſpeech, or, unſavoury and unprofitable. The metaphor is taken from ſtinking and unſavoury meat, which the ſtomach loathes; ſo doth the ears of the godly all corrupt communication.

to the uſe of edifying] Or, to edifie profitably.

V. 30. grieve not the holy Spirit of God] Be not refractory unto him, offend him not, leſt he diſpoſſeſſe your heart of thoſe joyes and comforts which formerly he hath wrought there, according to his office; and that he be not forced to withdraw himſelf from you, as from a loathed and offenſive harbour. The phraſe ſeemeth to be taken from the words of Eſay, c. 63. v. 10. and they imply that the Spirit of God which dwelleth in us, is provoked by ſuch ſins he formerly mentioned, they being loathſome and odious to him, to ſuſpend his friendly and comfortable operations in us, and in ſtead of his love, let us feel his anger: as a Father doth caſt a ſad look upon his children, while they are committing ſome evil in his ſight, and he muſt needs, though never ſo unwilling, chaſtiſe them, in ſtead of embracing them.

whereby ye are ſealed] Or, in whom ye are ſealed. See Epheſ. 1. 13.

V. 32. And be ye kinde one to another] See 2 Corinth. 2. 10. Col. 3. 12, 13.

forgiven] Or, freely pardoning.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. FOllowers of God] It is the part of children to imitate their father; and Seneca ſaith truly, Optimus animus pulcherrimus Dei cultus eſt; the cheef worſhip of God is that which is inward, and conſiſteth not ſo much in the contemplation and admiration, as imitating, ſo far as we are able, the divine perfection of God, which is the brightning of his image in our ſoul.

V. 2. and walk in love] See John 13. 34. and 15. 12.

an offering and a ſacrifice] There were two Altars in the Temple, the brazen and the golden; the brazen for bloody ſacrifices; the golden for the offering of Incenſe: the former was a type of Chriſts bloody offering upon the Croſſe; the latter of his interceſſion for us. In regard of both, the Apoſtle here ſaith, that Chriſt gave himſelf, both for an offering, and a ſacrifice of a ſweet ſmelling ſavour to God for us.

V. 3. But fornication, and all uncleanneſſe or covetouſneſſe,&c.] See Col. 3. 5. 1 Theſſ. 4. 3, &c. In the ſenſitive appetite the Philoſophers place two faculties, the iraſcible, as they term it, and the concupiſcible. Now the Apoſtle having in the former chapter, verſe 31, 32. given rules for the rectifying of the affections ſeated in the iraſcible part, or faculty of the ſoul, here begins to give precepts for the bridling of the concupiſcible part, in which the diſorderly affections may be reduced to two principals, immoderate deſire of wealth, which is covetouſneſſe, and the inordinate deſire of pleaſure, which is voluptuouſneſſe.

V. 4. filthneſſe] Or, obſcenity.

nor jeſting] Or, ſcurrility, or jearing. The word in the Original εὐτραπελία, ſignifieth facetiouſneſſe of ſpeech, and by the Philoſophers is taken in a good ſenſe, who make it a virtue; but the Apoſtle takes it in an ill ſenſe, for ſcurrilous jeaſting and unſeemly mirth, unbefitting the gravity and ſanctity of a Chriſtian: and as in this word, ſo hath it fallen out in many other, evil manners of men have ſpoiled them, as pharmacon, tyrannus, ſophiſta, latro, & magus, which at the firſt were taken in a good ſenſe, but now for the moſt part, if not altogether, in a bad.

V. 5. For this ye know, that no whoremonger, &c.] Becauſe theſe ſins are ſuch as the moſt part of men made light of, accounting them either as no ſins, or very ſmall ones; he awaketh the godly by this dreadful denunciation, to the end they ſhould ſo much the more take heed to themſelves, flie from them, as moſt hurtful plagues.

who is an idolater] Unuſquiſque (ſaith Jerome upon Amos) adorat ſua vitia, every man makes thoſe vices his god to which he wholly giveth himſelf, and whoſoever giveth any part of the worſhip which is due unto God, either with his body, or with his ſoul, to any creature, is an idolater: Guloſis venter Deus eſt, avarus colit mammona, hæreticus dogma, quod finxit; the politician idolizeth his brain; the heretick, his fantaſtical opinion; the glutton, his belly; the wanton, his Miſtreſſe; the ambitious, his honour; the covetous, his money; to whom the name of an idolater, in a peculiar manner belongeth; firſt, in reſpect of the object common to him, and an idolater properly ſo taken. The idols of the Heathen (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) are gold and ſilver, ſo are they of the covetous man; the one (as Paulinus acutely obſerveth) worſhippeth the image of his gods of gold and ſilver in the Church, the other, of the Prince ſtamp'd upon his coin in his cheſt. Secondly, in reſpect of the acts common to them both; for as an idolater feareth his gods, ſo doth the covetous his gold, daring not to diſpoſe of it for his neceſſary uſe. And as the idolater putteth his truſt and confidence in his gods, ſo doth the covetous man in his goods; and as the idolater conceiveth that he holdeth his life from his gods, ſo the covetous man beleeveth that his life conſiſteth in the abundance of the things which he poſſeſſeth, Luke 12. 15. Laſtly, as the idolater ſetteth his heart, and ſetleth his affections, and placeth his happineſſe in his idoll gods; ſo the covetous man ſets his heart upon his gold and ſilver, and holdeth them for his cheefeſt good, and higheſt felicity.

V. 6. diſobedience] Or, unbeleef.

V. 7. Be not ye therefore partakers with them] Becauſe we are not ſo ready to any thing as to follow ill examples, therefore the Apoſtle warneth the godly to remember always, that the wicked are but as it were darkneſſe, and that they themſelves are as it were light: (1 Theſ. 5.) and therefore the other commit all villanies, as men are wont in the dark: but they ought not only not to follow their examples, but alſo as the property of light is, to diſcover, and convince their darkneſſe, (John 3. 19,20.) and to walk ſo, having Chriſt the true light going before them, as becometh the children of the light.

V. 8. light in the Lord] The faithful are called light, not onely becauſe they have the outward light of the Word before them, and the inward light of the Spirit within them; but alſo becauſe they give light to others, inſomuch that their honeſt converſation reproveth the life of wicked ones. Matth. 5. 16. Phil. 2. 15.

V. 11. have no fellowſhip with the unfruitful works of darkneſſe] Sins are called works of darkneſſe, for four reaſons eſpecially; firſt, becauſe they proceed from darkneſſe, that is, the ignorance of Gods truth in the unregenerate. Secondly, becauſe they damp the light of nature in all men, and of grace alſo in the regenerate. Thirdly, becauſe they ſeek darkneſſe, and are for the moſt part committed in the dark; for he that doth evil, hateth and ſhunneth the light. Laſtly, becauſe (without repentance) they bring men to utter and everlaſting darkneſſe in hell.

but rather reprove them] Or, convince them. Not onely by ſeaſonable admonitions and reprehenſions, but eſpecially by your godly and exemplary life.

V. 12. a ſhame even to ſpeak of] Sit honos auribus as well as oculis, there ought to be a continual regard had to the ears, as well as to the eyes of the godly. As elſewhere the Apoſtle maketh uſe of the verſes of Epimenides and Aratus, ſo here he ſeemeth to allude to that verſe of Sophocles in his Oedipus, ἀλλ' ὦ γὸ αὐδᾶν ἐσθ' ἃ μηδ' ὁρᾶν καλόν.

V. 13. reproved] Or, diſcovered.

whatſoever doth make manifeſt, is light] Either ſenſible light, which maketh things manifeſt to the eye; or intellectual, which maketh things evident to the underſtanding; and that is either natural, as the light of reaſon, or ſupernatural, as the light of Gods Word, and his Spirit.

V. 14. Wherefore he ſaith, &c.] Some do take theſe to be the Apoſtles own words, uttering them as moved by the Spirit of Chriſt, as it is ordinary with the Prophets to teſtifie, Thus ſaith the Lord; wherefore he ſaith, that is, God ſaith by me unto you. Others, as Georgius Syncellus, conceive, that as S. Jude alleageth a ſentence out of the Apocryphal book of Enoch, ſo S. Paul here alleageth this out of an Apocryphal book of Jeremy, in which theſe formal words are found. S. Cyril conceiveth, that theſe words are taken out of Eſay 51. 9. Awake, awake, &c. but the words following, O arm of the Lord, awake, as in the ancient days, ſhew, that there God calleth not upon us to awake, but we upon him. It ſeemeth moſt probable, that this allegation of the Apoſtle is taken out of divers prophetical words, collected together, as namely, in the ſix and twentieth chapter of Eſay and the nineteenth verſe, The dead ſhall live, awake and ſing ye that dwell in duſt; and chap. 60. verſ. 1. Ariſe, for the light is come.

Awake thou that ſleepeſt, &c.] See Iſa. 60. 1. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh of the ſpiritual ſleep, both of ſin and death; and this his exhortation concerneth as well the faithful, as the unbeleevers; the faithful ſleep ſometimes in ſome one ſin or other, the unbeleevers are dead in treſpaſſes and ſins: the former he exhorteth to be lively and vigilant, by the power of the Spirit of God, whereof they are made partakers already; the other, to riſe up from the dead, that by theſe exhortations apprehending the quickening power of Chriſt, they ſhould obey the ſame; even as Lazarus roſe by the word and power of Chriſt from his bodily death, John 11. 43, 44. In ſumme, foraſmuch as all men are to give an account of all their works, at the dreadful tribunal of God, ſo they are all of them called and ſummoned by his Word, to make ready their accounts, and prepare for the great Audit-day, and to awake from their ſleep, and death of ſin, to be enlightened by the light of the Goſpel, and to walk anſwerably to that light.

and Chriſt ſhall give thee light] Or, enlighten thee. In the Original ἐπιφαύσει, ſhall ſhine upon thee. For he is the Sun of righteouſneſſe, Mal. 3. 2. The true light that lighteneth every man that cometh into the world, John 1. 9.

V. 15. See then that ye walk circumſpectly] Gr. how exactly ye walk. See Col. 4. 5.

V. 16. Redeeming the time] Gr. ſeaſon, or, opportunity of time. Some conceive that the Apoſtle alludeth to the words of King Nebuchadnezzar to the Chaldeans, Dan. 2. 8. where in the Tranſlation of the Seventy we read, ἐξαγοράζετε καιρὸν, you delay or gain time, and then the meaning is, Stretch out the time as long as you can, by imbracing all occaſions of doing good. Others conceive it to be a metaphor taken from Merchants, who preferre the leaſt profit that may be, before their pleaſures, cloſely following their buſineſſe when the markets are at beſt. We may alſo give a third interpretation, purchaſe at any rate all occaſion of doing good, that ye may thereby in ſome ſort redeem that precious jewel of time, which ye have formerly loſt; as travellers that have ſtayed long at their Inne, when they finde the night coming upon them, they mend their pace, and go as many miles in one hour, as they did before in many.

becauſe the dayes are evil] The days are not evil in themſelves, for they are all Gods creatures, and it is a fooliſh ſuperſtition of the Gentiles and Aſtrologians to make difference of days, as if ſome days of the moneth or week were lucky, ſome unlucky: but the days are ſaid to be evil, in reſpect of the corruption of the time, and the perſecution of Gods Church; and the meaning of the Apoſtle is, that the faithful are to look for hard and diſmal times, wherein the opportunities of doing good will be cut off, or very much ſtraitned, and therefore it is very needful to anticipate them, by doing as much good as may be, while the time permitteth. See Ecclef. 11. 2. John 9. 4. and 11. 9. and 12. 35. Gal. 6. 10.

V. 18. Be not drunk with wine wherein is exceſſe] Lycurgus for the abuſe took away all uſe of wine among the Lacedemonians, and commanded all the vines to be pluck'd up by the roots: and the Mahumetans for a like reaſon forbid any of their Sect to drink wine under pain of death; their Muſſelmans and Darviſes affirming, that there lurks a devil under every grape: But the Apoſtle is ſo farre from ſimply condemning all uſe of wine, that he enjoyneth, 1 Timothy 5. 23. to uſe a little wine for his ſtomachs ſake: and in this very place he doth not forbid the Epheſians to drink wine, but to be drunk with wine wherein is exceſſe, that is, all kinde of riot, joyned with all manner of filthineſs, and uncleanneſs; For as S. Jerome rightly obſerveth, Venter mero æſtuans facilè deſpumat in libidinem; according to that of the Poet; Ebrietas ignis in igne fuit.

exceſſe] Or, intemperance.

with the Spirit] Gr. in.

V. 19. in pſalms, and hymns, and ſpiritual ſongs] Some conceive that theſe three words are Synonymaes, and that the epitheton added to the laſt, namely, ſpiritual, is to difference them from profane, light, laſcivious, and carnal ſongs. Others thus diſtinguiſh them, by Pſalms he meaneth ſongs of divers arguments, whether they contain Hiſtorical narrations, complaints and expoſtulations, or good nurture and inſtruction: but by hymns he underſtandeth ſuch ſongs onely, as contain the praiſes of God, and extolling his wondrous works: and by ſpiritual ſongs, ſuch as contain the praiſes of God, ſed auguſtiore quadam formâ; ſuch as were more muſical, and ſet to parts, or in a higher key. But it ſeemeth moſt probable, that by Pſalms, he meaneth the Pſalms of David ſet to the harp or pſaltery, by Hymns, certain Ditties made upon ſpecial occaſion; and by ſpiritual Songs, ſuch as were not compoſed before-hand, and prick'd before them with muſical notes, but ſuch as men endited by an extraordinary gift.

making melody in your heart] That is, with an earneſt affection of the heart, and not with the tongue onely; For, Non vox ſed votum; non cordula muſica, ſed cor; Non clamans, ſed amans cantat in aure Dei. Whence is that of S. Jerome, Deo non voce, ſed corde cantanda, nec in tragœdorum modum guttur & fauces dulci modulamine colliniendæ, ut in eccleſiis theatrales moduli audiantur & cantica. In which words he condemneth not ſimply artificial ſinging and elaborate muſick, but ſuch a kinde of light and effeminate muſick, as better became the Theatre than the Quire: and whoſoever are more taken with the ſtrains of muſick, and ſweetneſſe of the voice, than with the matter of the ſong, muſt acknowledge with S. Auſtine in the tenth of his Confeſſions, that they are at a fault, and their heart ought to ſmite them for it. Cùm mihi accidit ut me ampliùs cantus quam res quæ cantatur moveat, pœnaliter me peccare confiteor, & tum mallem me non audire cantantem.

V. 21. Submitting your ſelves one to another] A ſhort repetition of the end, whereunto all things ought to be referred, to ſerve one another for Gods cauſe.

V. 22. Wives, ſubmit your ſelves unto your own husbands] See Col. 3. 18. Tit. 2. 5. 1 Pet. 3. 1.

as unto the Lord] That is, in obedience to Gods command: for they cannot be diſobedient to their husbands, but they muſt reſiſt God alſo, who is the Authour of this ſubjection.

V. 23. For the husband is the head of the wife] See 1 Corinth. 11. 3.

As Chriſt is the head of the Church] See 1 Cor. 11. 3.

V. 24. ſubject unto Chriſt] Gr. ſubordinate.

in every thing] Either with this reſtriction in the Lord; or in every thing which pertaineth to the husband as her head and ſuperiour, and concerneth the good of the family.

V. 25. Husbands, love your wives,&c.] See Col. 3.19.

V. 26. with the waſhing of water by the Word] Gr. laver. By Chriſts bloud ſhed upon the Croſſe, and repreſented by the water of Baptiſm. For it is Chriſts bloud which cleanſeth us from all our ſin, 1 John 1. 7. By the Word, either he underſtandeth the ſacramental words uſed in Baptiſm, or the promiſe of free juſtification and ſanctification in Chriſt received by faith.

V. 27. not having ſpot or wrinkle] By ſpots we may underſtand the deformity of any ſinful work; by wrinkle, any duplicity, folding in, or inſincerity in the intention: or by ſpot greater ſinnes which defile the conſcience, and ſtain the reputation; by wrinkle, leſſer ſins, and thoſe of infirmitie, which are ſome blemiſh to our ſpiritual beauty. But then there grows a queſtion, whether the Apoſtle ſpeaketh of preſenting the Church to God in this world, or in the world to come in celeſtial glory. The anſwer is, that there is a double perfection, purity and beauty of the Church; abſolute, without any ſpot or wrinkle, and that is not to be found in any of the ſons of men, while they are clothed with this body of death; and if we ſpeak of that purity and beauty, the Church is ſaid to be pure, and to have no ſpot or wrinkle, (2 Cor. 11. 2.) not becauſe ſhe is ſo at the preſent, but becauſe ſhe is prepared to be ſo hereafter. As S. Auſtin noteth, Lib. de nat. & grat. And in the firſt of his Retractations: Quod dixi quam ſibi Deus elegit glorioſam eccleſiam, non habentem maculam neque rugam, non ideo dixi quia nunc jam omni ex parte talis eſt, (quamvis ad hoc electa non dubitetur ut talis ſit) ſed quando Chriſtus apparuerit vita ejus, tunc enim & ipſa cum eo apparebit in gloria. The ſecond is a purity and perfection, pro conditione hujus vitæ, according to the ſtate of this preſent life; and it conſiſteth in this, that all ſins are avoided or repented of and in Chriſt forgiven, and his righteouſneſſe imputed: in this ſenſe the Church is now preſently pure and undefiled, and yet not free from all ſinful imperfection.

Blemiſh] Or, blame.

V. 29. no man ever yet hated his own fleſh] That is, his own body. That is, no man in his right wits wrongeth his own body, though ſometimes mad men tear their own fleſh, and others out of erroneous religion, either cut their fleſh, as the Baalites did, 1 King. 18. or flea it off, as the ancient hereticks, called the Flagellantes or Whippers, and the Popiſh Monks and Friers do at this day.

V. 30. of his fleſh, and of his bones] Gr. made out of his. He alludeth to the making of the woman, which ſignifieth our coupling together with Chriſt, which is wrought by faith, and ſealed to us in the ſacrament of his Supper.

V. 31. For this cauſe ſhall a man leave his father and mother, &c.] See Gen. 2. 24. Matth. 19. 5. Mark 10. 7.

two ſhall be one fleſh] See 1 Cor. 6. 16. Gr. into one.

V. 32. This is a great myſtery] Not that of the bodily marriage, but that of the ſpiritual, betwixt Chriſt and his Church, as the Apoſtle here declareth himſelf; which union he termeth a myſtery, by reaſon that the ſame can no way be apprehended by any natural man, nor to be ſearched out by any underſtanding whatſoever, but is acknowledged by faith, that Chriſt is our Head and Bridegroom, and we his ſpiritual Bride and members, whereby all Chriſts benefits requiſite to our ſalvation, are beſtowed upon us by Chriſt our Bridegroom, as a dowry, and communicated to us from Chriſt as our Head, as life in the natural body is conveyed to all the members from the Head.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. C*Hildren obey your parents*] See Col. 3. 20.

in the Lord] For the Lord is the Authour of all fatherhood, and therefore we muſt yeeld ſuch obedience as he will have us. In the Lord, implyeth both a commandment of childrens obedience from the Lord, and a reſtriction alſo, that they ſo far obey their parents, as they ſwerve not from the true worſhip of God. For it is true as Bernard teacheth, that we muſt yeeld obedience to our parents and ſuperiours, who are in the place of God, as unto God, but then we muſt adde his limitation, in thoſe things which are not againſt God.

right] Gr. juſt.

V. 2. Honour thy father and mother] See Exod. 20. 12. Deut. 5. 16. Ecclus. 3. 8. Matth. 15. 4. Mark 7. 10.

the firſt commandment with promiſe] Gr. in. Seeing there is a promiſe annexed unto the ſecond commandment, how doth the Apoſtle ſay, that this is the firſt commandment with promiſe? The anſwer is, either that the Apoſtle by ἐντολὴ, derived from ἐντέλλω, underſtandeth a mandate or injunction of an affirmative duty; and ſo this is the firſt commandment with promiſe. For the ſecond commandment in the decalogue is a prohibition of idolatry, the fourth is a poſitive or affirmative precept, but with no promiſe annexed unto it. Or the Apoſtle underſtandeth it of ſpecial promiſes, the ſecond commandment is with promiſe of mercy to a thouſand generations, but that promiſe is general; whereas the promiſe annexed to this fifth commandment, is a ſpecial promiſe; That thy days may be long, &c.

V. 4. And ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath] See Col. 3. 21.

admonition of the Lord] Or, inſtruction. Such admonitions, inſtructions, and precepts, (for the word παιδεία, extends ſo far) as are taken out of Gods Word, and are acceptable unto him.

V. 5. Servants, be obedient to them,&c.] See Col. 3. 22. Tit. 2. 9. 1 Pet. 2. 18.

with fear] That is, with careful reverence: for ſlaviſh fear is not allowable in any, much leſſe in Chriſtian ſervants, who are ſpiritually free: yet their ſpiritual freedome taketh not away corporal ſervice; in ſo much that they cannot be Chriſts, unleſſe they ſerve their maſters willingly and faithfully, ſo far forth as they may with a ſafe conſcience.

V. 6. Not with eye-ſervice] Either the meaning is, that whatſoever they do in their maſters buſineſſe or affairs, they ſhould do it faithfully and ſincerely; and not in ſhew and ſemblance onely; or that they ſhould be as careful of doing their duty in their maſters abſence, as when their maſters eye is upon them; knowing that though their maſter be out of the way, Gods eye is alwayes upon them, and that he will reward their faithful ſervice, though their maſters do not: as on the contrary, ſeverely puniſh their unfaithfulneſſe, though their maſter do not, or cannot.

heart] Or, ſoul.

V. 9. And ye maſters do the ſame things] It is the duty of maſters to uſe the authority that they have over their ſervants moderately and holily, ſeeing that they in another reſpect have a common Maſter, which is in heaven, who will judge both the bond and the free, the maſter and the ſervant.

forbearing] Or, moderating.

your maſter] Some read, both your and their maſter.

neither is there reſpect of perſons with him] Wiſd. 6. 7. Ecclus. 35. 12. Rom. 2. 11.

V. 10. be ſtrong in the Lord] Be ye ſtrengthened daily more and more by the power of the Lord againſt your enemies, whereof the means are ſet down and deſcribed, from the 13. verſe to the 19. Or theſe words in the Lord, contain an argument of confidence; be ye encouraged to hold out by that communion which ye have with the Lord by faith; drawing from him all the ſtrength ye ſtand in need of.

V. 11. Put on the whole armour of God] Having before muſtered his Forces, and ſet all Chriſtians in their ranks, now he armeth them cap à pe. By the whole armour of God he underſtandeth all the furniture, and ſtore of Chriſtian virtues, together with all the means which God hath ordained to arm and defend us againſt the temptations of Satan.

that ye may be able to ſtand] That is, to keep your ſtation, not to flye, but to overcome and get the victory over your enemies.

againſt the wiles of the devil] Or, ſubtile aſſaults, or, fetches. The Greek μεθοδείας, being derived from μετὰ, and ὁδὸς, ſignifieth properly a way-laying, circumvention, or going about, as they do who ſeek after their prey: and the Apoſtle may ſeem to allude to the firſt of Job, verſe 7. where the Lord demanding of Satan, from whence he came; Satan anſwered, from going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it, and ſo μεθοδεύειν, in S. Paul, and περιπατεῖν, in Saint Peter, 1 Pet. 5. 8. are much at one.

V. 12. we wreſtle not againſt fleſh and bloud] The phraſe of wreſtling againſt fleſh and bloud, intimateth that our adverſarie is very neer us; we fight not eminùs, but cominùs, not at a diſtance, but neer at hand; our enemy comes within us, and grapples with us. We wreſtle not againſt fleſh and bloud, that is, frail and feeble men, ſuch as we are, not againſt humane and bodily power. By which words the Apoſtle doth not free us from our warfare againſt the world and the fleſh, our two other enemies: but his meaning is, we wreſtle not alone, nor cheefly againſt theſe: for our principal enemy is Satan, who ſets the world and the fleſh againſt us; and they ſerve as it were under his banner.

V. 12. but againſt principalities] The Apoſtle doth give here theſe titles to the devil and his angels, not as if they were ſet and ordained of God to be true Princes and Governours of the world: but that they do ſtill by force and ſtratagems uſurp that power over this corrupt and wicked world, (which the good Angels have from God) and that by the juſt judgement of God it is permitted unto them for a time to uſe that power to the puniſhment of the wicked, and the exerciſe of the godly, 2 Cor. 4. 4. 2 Theſſ. 2. 9, 10. Epheſ. 3. 10.

againſt the rulers of the darkneſſe of this world] That is, of the ſtate of ignorance, ſin, death and confuſion which reigneth in this world.

againſt ſpiritual wickedneſſe] Or, wicked ſpirits. τὰ πνευματικὰ τῆς πονηρίας, Word for word, the ſpirituals of wickedneſſe; that is, either ſpirits that are given to all wickedneſſe, and ſeek to bring man unto the ſame: or the ſpiritual nature and kinde of wickedneſſe, which is the improvement of wickedneſſe, and far more odious to God and dangerous to the ſoul (ſuch as are blaſphemous injections by Satan and damnable hereſies, and deep plots againſt Religion) than carnall wickedneſſe or fleſhly pollutions.

in high places] Or, heavenly. Of theſe words there are divers expoſitions given. Saint Chryſoſtome and Occumenius take ἐν for διὰ, or ὑπὲρ, in for for, and they thus expound the Text, We fight not for ſuch trifles as the earth affordeth, but for heavenly things, for the Kingdome of heaven, and our adoption, whereby we are made the ſons of God, and co heirs with Chriſt of a celeſtial crown. Others underſtand by ἐπουρανίοις, high places, places above us, that are upon earth, to wit, in the regions of the air; called ſometimes in Scripture heaven. For Satan hath no place nor power more left him in the true and proper heaven, 2 Peter 2. 4. Jude 6. Revelations 12. 8. Or by wickedneſſe in celeſtial places, he meaneth wickedneſſe in ſacris & divinis, wickedneſſe in the Church, and corruption in the diſpenſing and adminiſtration of holy and heavenly things.

V. 13. evil day] See Epheſians 5.16.

having done all] Or, having overcome all.

V. 14. having your loins girt about with truth] The ſouldiers of old time had broad and ſtrong girdles, or belts made of durable ſtuffe, beſet with many iron and braſſe plates, whereby the weaker parts of the body, that is, the loins and upper part of the belly were armed. Girding faſteneth the body, and ſtrengtheneth it, and is uſually in Scripture taken for an expreſſion and ſign of ſtrength and vigour, as Job 12. 21. Eſa. 5. 27 and 22. 21. with truth: by truth ſome underſtand Chriſt himſelf, who is the Way, the Truth, and the Life: John 14. 6. whom all that are baptized put on, Gal. 3. 27. Others the truth of doctrine oppoſed to errours and hereſies; others ſincerity and uprightneſſe; oppoſed to hypocriſie; which is the truth of our life and actions; and this virtue indeed makes a man firm and ſteady in all his actions; whereas nothing makes a man more weak and fickle, and faint-hearted in ſtrong trials, than hypocriſie and falſhood.

having on the breaſt-plate of righteouſneſſe] By the breaſt-plate of righteouſneſſe, which is the onely fence for the heart, he underſtandeth a good conſcience, which is not onely, as the Greek Scholiaſt termeth it, χιτὼν σιδηρᾶ, an impenetrable coat of male, or armour of proof; but as the Poet ſtyleth it a braſen wall, Hic murus aheneus eſto, Nil conſcire ſibi, nullâ palleſcere culpâ.

V. 15. And your feet ſhod] By the feet he underſtandeth the ſhins and legs alſo up to the knees, which the ancients were wont to arm with greaves, which are a kinde of braſen boots, ſuch as the Scripture affirmeth that Goliah went out with againſt David; 1 Samuel 17.6. theſe ſerved not ſo much to ward the legs from the injuries of the weather, as from the hurt of darts, arrows, blowes, or thruſts.

with the preparation of the Goſpel of peace] Gr. in. That is, with being ever ready and prepared to profeſſe the faith, and to give an account of the hope that is in you, Rom 10. 10. 1 Pet. 3 15. For thoſe who are ignorant, or aſhamed, or timerous in this behalf, Satan eaſily foileth, and bringeth to back-ſliding from their holy profeſſion: but thoſe who are well prepared, by frequent and profound meditations upon the Goſpel, which is the doctrine of our peace with God, are provided with ſuch ſhoes, buskins, or boots, as it were, that they may freely paſſe, and cruſh all impediments in the world, and finiſh the courſe of their heavenly calling without any let or offence.

V. 16. Above all] Or, over all.

taking the ſhield of faith] We muſt take the ſhield of faith above all, that is, in our account and eſteem; whatſoever other defenſive armour we want, let us not want this: Or over all, to cover and defend all other armour. By faith is meant not an Hiſtorical faith, or faith of miracles, but a ſpecial truſt and confidence in God by Chriſt. For this indeed covers and ſhelters the weakneſſe and imperfections of all other graces, and beſt defendeth them and us againſt all the aſſaults of Satan, Pſalm 91.1,9. 1 Peter 1.7,8.

wherewith] Greek, in which.

able to quench] Not onely to repel and keep off, but alſo to take away and deſtroy all their venemous power of hurting you.

all the fiery darts] That is, ſaith the Greek Scholiaſt, concupiſcence, or luſts which kindle a fire in the ſoul, all incentives to ſin; as alſo the moſt dangerous temptations of incredulity, diſtruſt, and deſpair. For the metaphor of fiery darts, ſome underſtand it of venemous darts, which by their poiſon ſo infect the body, that it burneth as it were with fire. Others underſtand ſuch darts whoſe points were put into the fire to be hardened, that ſo they might do the more hurt: both ſorts well agree with the nature and property of Satans temptations, which do infect the ſoul, as it were, with poiſon; and ſcorch it, as it were, with fire, if they be not ſpeedily reſiſted and quenched.

the wicked] Or, that wicked one.

V. 17. And take the helmet of ſalvation] The hope of ſalvation purchaſed by Chriſt, by whoſe merits ye are ſaved already, and may lift up your ſelves as being already victorious in the combate which you are to fight, 1 Theſſalonians 5.8. Take for an helmet the hope of ſalvation.

and the ſword of the Spirit] That is, the ſpiritual ſword, which the holy Ghoſt hath prepared and put into the hands of the faithful, which hath ſuch an excellent edge, that it will cut off all Satans temptations.

which is the word of God] The Word of God is called the ſword of the Spirit, for four reaſons: Firſt, becauſe the Spirit maketh this weapon to our hands, 2 Peter 1. 21. Secondly, becauſe it ſlayeth our ſpiritual enemies, Eſa. 11. 4. Thirdly, becauſe it is ſharper than a two-edged ſword, and pierceth to the dividing of the ſoul and ſpirit, Hebrews 4. 19. Fourthly, becauſe it is no carnal, but a ſpiritual weapon, 2 Cor. 10. 4.

V. 18. Praying alwaies with all prayer and ſupplication] Although prayer and ſupplication are uſually taken for the ſame; yet here ſome diſtinguiſh them thus; prayer is here taken, ſay they, for a deprecation of ſome evil, or temptation, that it may not overtake us: by ſupplication, an earneſt requeſt to God for his help and grace, that if it be his will and pleaſure to let us fall into ſome temptation, we may yet continue conſtant in this trial of our faith, and obtain an happy iſſue, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

in the Spirit] That is, being divinely moved and excited by the Spirit, Rom. 8. 25. Or earneſtly and heartily, John 4. 24. Rom. 12. 11.

V. 19. And for me] See Col. 4. 3. 2 Theſſ. 3. 1. utterance] Gr. Speech.

that I may open my mouth] Greek, in the opening of my.

boldly] Greek, in liberty, or freely.

V. 20. an ambaſſadour] The Apoſtles are called Ambaſſadours in four regards eſpecially: Firſt, becauſe as an Ambaſſadour ſpeaketh nothing but what he hath commiſſion for from his Prince: ſo neither ought the Apoſtles and Miniſters of God to deliver any thing but that for which they have commiſſion from God. Secondly, becauſe as Ambaſſadours have reſpect whereſoever they are ſent, and protection alſo; in regard they repreſent the perſon, and deliver the words of their Prince: ſo ought the Miniſters of the Goſpel alſo to be reſpected and protected, becauſe they are ſent from the Prince of heaven, and deliver his meſſage. Thirdly, becauſe as Ambaſſadours are publike Miniſters of State, and confined to no particular place, but are to go whereſoever the Prince ſends them: ſo the Apoſtles were publike Miniſters of God, confined to no certain countrey, but ſent to preach to all Nations. Fourthly, becauſe as Ambaſſadours of all other Meſſengers ſpeak the moſt freely, and boldly, being backed with the authority of their Prince, and warranted by their commiſſion: ſo of all other the Miniſters of the Goſpel ought to uſe freedome and boldneſs of ſpeech, 2 Cor. 5. 20. & 7. 4. & 10. 1. Epheſ. 6. 19.

in bonds] Or, in a chain. In the Original it is ἐν ἁλύσει, in a chain. For as the Learned Antiquaries obſerve, the Apoſtle at this time was not in priſon with fetters, but in the cuſtody of a Souldier with whom he might go abroad, having a chain on his right arm, which was tyed to the ſouldiers left arm.

therein] Or, thereof.

boldly] Gr. freely.

V. 24. in ſincerity] Or, with incorruption ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ, word for word in incorruption; or with incorruption: and the meaning is, either the grace of Chriſt be with you, which grace is incorruptible: or grace be with them that love Chriſt in incorruption, that is, in ſincerity, not feignedly and hypocritically; or that love Chriſt to incorruption, that is, by him to obtain life everlaſting.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THe Philippians hearing of the impriſonment of the Apoſtle at Rome, were much troubled at it, and preſently diſpatched Epaphroditus to viſit him, and ſupply his wants; by whom the Apoſtle underſtanding that there were ſome falſe Teachers and ſcandalous livers crept in amongſt them, who corrupted the Doctrine of the Goſpel, and became enemies to the Croſſe of Chriſt: Upon this occaſion writeth this Epiſtle, wherein he acquainteth them with his preſent condition, thankfully acknowledgeth their tender love and care over him, paſſionately complaineth of the perverters of his Doctrine, and diſturbers of their peace, and with many godly Admonitions and Exhortations, endevoureth to frame their lives to an heavenly converſation.

The divine conceptions and expreſſions in this Epiſtle, branch themſelves into

1. Conſolations againſt the ſcandall of the Croſſe, ſhewing that all the ſufferings of the godly, redound to the furtherance of the Goſpel, and their unſpeakable comfort, and everlaſting reward. From the 12. verſe of the firſt chapter to v. 27.
2. Exhortations to concord, to humbleneſſe of minde, and patience; to mortifie the fleſh, and account all things loſſe for Chriſt; to ſet their heart and affections upon Heaven and Heavenly objects, in a continual expectation of Chriſt from thence; to moderation, devotion, and all Chriſtian virtues: from the 27. verſe of the firſt chap. to verſe 10. of chap.4.
3. Gratulations for their zeal, love, knowledge, fruits of Righteouſneſſe, and in ſpecial, for their bounty to him, at which he much rejoyced; not ſo much for the ſupply of his own wants, as the abounding of Gods grace in them. Chapter 1. to verſe 12. and chapter 4. from verſe 10. to verſe 20. where he concludeth his Epiſtle with ſalutations and prayers.

CHAP. I.

WHich are at Philippi*] Gr. which are in Philippi. V. 1.

with the Biſhops and Deacons] The Synod of Nice forbad two or more Biſhops to have their Seats in one City; and before that, Cornelius Biſhop of Rome upbraids Novatus with ignorance (as Euſebius writeth in his ſixth Book of Eccleſiaſtical ſtory) for that he knew not that there ought to be but one Biſhop in that Church, in which he could not be ignorant that there were fourty ſix Presbyters: and Occumenius and Chryſoſtome affirm as much of Philippi, it being but one City, it cannot be ſuppoſed that there ſhould be in it at the ſame time, more Biſhops in that reſtrained ſenſe, as the word Biſhop was afterwards taken. Here therefore by ἐπίσκοποι, and διάκονοι, we are to underſtand the whole Miniſtery at Philippi, conſiſting of Presbyters, to whom the government of the Church was committed; and Deacons, who not onely had the care of the poor, but alſo aſſiſted the Miniſters in their Eccleſiaſticall function.

V. 3. remembrance] Or, mention.

V. 5. For your fellowſhip in the Goſpel] Or, concerning. That by our Miniſtery ye have been brought to the communion and fellowſhip of the profeſſion of the Goſpel, and have ſo continued from the firſt day that you heard of it, even till now.

V. 6. will perform it] Or, will finiſh it.

until the day of Jeſus Chriſt] The Spirit of God will not forſake you unto the very latter end, until your mortal bodies ſhall appear before the judgement of Chriſt to be glorified.

V. 7. I have you in my heart] Or, you have me in your heart.

in as much as both] Or, how that both.

ye all are] Or, ye all were.

partakers of my grace] Or, partakers with me of grace; or, of the ſame grace with me. Ye are all partakers with me of the ſame grace and mercy of God, in your effectual calling: Or, by grace he meaneth that honour which God conferred upon him, in making him a noble Confeſſour of the truth, and thinking him worthy to ſuffer for ſo good a cauſe. It ſeemeth therefore that ſome of the Philippians were partakers with the Apoſtle in his bonds, which the Apoſtle was ſo far from eſteeming any diſgrace or diſparagement to him, that he accounted them a grace, and an ornament to him. As alſo did the noble Martyr Babylas, who gave charge at his death, that his bolts ſhould not be knock'd off his feet, but be buried with him.

V. 9. in knowledg] By knowledg ſome underſtand the contemplative ſcience of divinity and celeſtial myſteries: by αἰσθήσει, a practical or experimental knowledge, a ſenſible feeling of the work of grace in our hearts.

judgement] Or, ſenſe.

V. 10. approve things,&c.] Or, trie. The words in the Original δοκιμάζειν τὰ διαφέροντα, may bear a double conſtruction, Either I pray God that your love may abound in all knowledge and judgement ſenſibly to diſcern the difference between the truth of God, and vain fancies of men; or between earthly traſh and heavenly treaſure: or, I pray God your love may abound in all knowledge and judgement, whereby you may approve of, and rightly value the excellent myſteries of ſalvation.

are excellent] Or, differ.

V. 11. filled with the fruits of righteouſneſſe] Gr. Tec. fruit. The fruits of righteouſneſſe are good works, both pleaſing to God, and profitable to men. For righteouſneſſe may be compared fitly to a tree, whoſe buds are good intentions and purpoſes; bloſſomes, good words; and fruits, good works. If we follow the reading of Tecla, and the Greek Scholiaſt; καρπὸν in the ſingular number, then by this fruit which we bear by being ingraffed into the true Vine, Chriſt Jeſus, we may underſtand peace and joy in the holy Ghoſt, which is the fruit of the righteouſneſſe of faith.

are] Gr. Tec. is.

V. 12. underſtand] Gr. know.

have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Goſpel] Gr. come rather. Here he preventeth the offence that might be taken at his perſecution, whereby divers took occaſion to diſgrace his Apoſtleſhip; to whom he anſwereth, that God had bleſſed his impriſonment in ſuch wiſe, that he is by that means become more famous, and the doctrine of the Goſpel is by this occaſion further ſpread, although not with like affection in all men.

V. 13. my bonds in Chriſt] Or, for Chriſt. That is, the bonds and impriſonment which I ſuffer for Chriſts ſake, howſoever they were by Satan and his complices intended to the diſgrace and hinderance of the Goſpel, yet quite contrary by the providence and goodneſſe of God, they are turned to my great honour, and the advancement alſo of true religion; for all Nero's Court rings of my bonds, and the cauſe thereof.

the palace] Or, Cæſars Court.

in all other places] Or, to all others.

V. 14. word without fear] Greek Tec. Word of God without fear.

V. 16. The one preach Chriſt of contention] Either out of envy, to out-ſtrip me, or a deſire to procure my death, that Nero through their preaching, hearing of the general diſperſing of the doctrine taught by me, might be thereby inraged to take away my life, whom he hath now in bonds, to do with me what he will.

ſincerely] Or, purely.

adde] Gr. Tec. ſtir up.

V. 17. ſet for the defence of the Goſpel] Κεῖμαι, ſignifieth properly to lye, and ſo it may be here taken, and then the meaning is, ſome out of love preach the Goſpels to further my account at the laſt day, knowing that I lye in priſon for the Goſpel ſake, and by that my impriſonment am hindred in the exerciſe of my Apoſtolical function. If we retain the common tranſlation, I am ſet for the defence of the Goſpel, then the meaning is, God hath appointed me a Champion of the Goſpel, and ſet me in my ſtation, to maintain it; which, through the power of his grace, I will keep, whatſoever dangers or terrours are before me.

V. 18. and I therein do rejoyce] He ſheweth by ſetting forth his own example, that the end of our afflictions is true joy, and that through the operation of the Spirit of Chriſt, which giveth to them that ask.

V. 19. ſhall turn to my ſalvation] As Joſeph ſpake to his brethren, Gen. 50. 20. You thought evil againſt me, but God turned it to good; ſo the Apoſtle here comforteth himſelf with this, that whatſoever miſchief his adverſaries pretended againſt him, by adding affliction to his bonds, yet that God would ſo order all things, that even the perſecution which was raiſed againſt him, ſhould turn to the furtherance of his ſalvation, and increaſe of his joy here, and glory hereafter.

V. 20. earneſt expectation, and my hope] We muſt continue even unto the end, with great confidence, having nothing before our eyes but Chriſts glory; whether we live or die, my hope is, that in nothing I ſhall be aſhamed; that in nothing they can do, or that can befall me, I ſhall have any cauſe to be dejected, abaſhed, or diſcouraged.

with] Gr. in.

V. 21. For to me to live is Chriſt, and to die is gain] Or, Chriſt is to me life, and death is gain] In Greek, as ſometimes alſo in Latine, a Verb in the Infinitive mood is put for a Noun, as, Noſtrum hoc vivere triſte, for, noſtra hæc vita triſtis; and Scire tuum nihil eſt, for ſcientia tua nihil eſt: ſo here, mihi vivere eſt Chriſtus, for, mihi vita Chriſtus, ἐμοὶ τὸ ζῆν, ἤγουν ζωὴ, ὁ χριϛός. And in this ſenſe Nyſſen underſtandeth the phraſe in Epitaph. Baſil. χριϛὸς ἦν ἀμφοτέροις τὸ ζῆν, which the learned Interpreter thus rendereth, Chriſtus vita utrique erat, Chriſt was life to them both, and death a like advantage: The meaning is evidently this, Chriſt is my life here by grace, and hereafter by glory; he is both the Author and the end of my life; I live for him, I live to him, I live in him, I live by him, and if I be put to death, that ſhall no way endamage me, but rather bring me great advantage, in regard that thereby I ſhall exchange and gain heaven for earth, and an happy eternal life, for this miſerable and mortal. Or all the gain I aym at in life or death, is Chriſt, namely, to glorifie him by my ſervice. Act. 20. 24. & 21. 13.

V. 22. But if I live in the fleſh, this is the fruit of my labour] Or, But whether to live in the fleſh be profitable for me, or what I ſhould chuſe. That Chriſt is magnified in my body, whether of the two I ſhould chuſe, life or death, I cannot reſolve.

V. 23. For I am in a ſtrait betwixt two] I am perplexed and doubtful betwixt theſe two deſires and wiſhes, there being very forcible and weighty arguments on either ſide.

having a deſire to depart] Or, be diſſolved; or, looſed. To return to my own and proper home, 2 Cor. 5. 6, 8, 9. 2 Tim. 4. 6. The word in the Original ἀναλύσαι, or, ἀναλύεσθαι, ſignifieth either to be reſolved, namely, into my firſt principles, as the Philoſophers ſpeak; or, diſſolved, whereby the Apoſtle intimateth, that death is no deſtruction, but a diſſolution onely, or taking aſunder the parts, of which we are compoſed; that is, a ſeparation of the ſoul from the body. The word ſignifieth alſo to change our abode or dwelling, that is, to depart this life, by a metaphor taken from thoſe that quit their Inns, to further their travel homewards; or from ſuch as be ready to go to Sea, and to ſet Sail for another countrey, untie and looſen the cables, whereby the ſhip lay faſtened and bound at the ſhore. It ſignifieth alſo, to be releaſed, and ſet at large, and at liberty; and it is very probable, that the Apoſtle in this phraſe ἀναλύσαι, had a reference both to his bonds and to his death; and his meaning is, I deſire to be diſcharged and releaſed, as out of a common Gaol, ſo alſo out of the priſon of my body, that I may preſently be with Chriſt my Saviour in heaven, in reſt and bliſs.

V. 24. Nevertheleſs to abide in the fleſh] Here we have an example of a true ſhepheard, who maketh more account how he may profit his flock, than of any commodity of his own whatſoever, though it were better for his own particular to glorifie Chriſt by his preſent death and Martyrdom, that ſo he might preſently enjoy Chriſt, and receive his Crown of glory; yet he chuſeth rather to abide in the fleſh, and prolong his life, though in miſeries, perils, and bonds, for the furtherance and joy of their faith.

V. 26. for me] Gr. in me.

V. 27. Onely let your converſation be, &c.] See Epheſ. 4. 1. Col. 1. 10. 2 Theſ. 2. 12. Having ended his Preface, he deſcendeth now to exhortation; and firſt of all, he exhorteth to unity and conſent, that being knit together with common bonds, they continue through the ſtrength of faith to bear all adverſity in ſuch ſort, that they do nothing unworthy the profeſſion of the Goſpel.

ſtand faſt in one ſpirit] It is a metaphor taken from wreſtlers, that keep their ground, and ſhrink not a foot.

V. 28. in nothing terrified by your adverſaries] We ought not to be diſheartened, but rather encouraged by the perſecutions which the enemies of the Goſpel threaten and raiſe againſt us, ſeeing that they are certain witneſſes and evidences from God himſelf, both of our ſalvation, and of their deſtruction.

V. 29. For unto you it is given] Gr. Tec. unto us. He proveth what he ſaid before, that ſuffering perſecution is a token of our ſalvation, becauſe it is a gift of God to ſuffer for Chriſt, which gift he beſtoweth upon his own, as he doth the gift of faith. (2 Tim. 3. 12. 2 Theſ. 1. 5.)

V. 30. Having the ſame conflict which you ſaw in me] Or, ſame fight. At my being with you, whereof we reade, Acts 16. 19, &c.

and now hear to be in me] By the relation of others what I now endure in my bonds here at Rome.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. ANy conſolation] A moſt vehement exhortation to unity and Chriſtian love, by way of Rhetorical adjuration; as if he ſhould ſay, As ever you look to receive any comfort in Chriſt, or reap benefit by his love, and the communion between you and the Saints of God, fulfil my joy, by keeping the unity of the Spirit in the bond of love.

V. 4. Look not every man] The Apoſtle uſeth a word, which doth properly ſignifie to aym or look narrowly as to a mark we ſhoot at; and his meaning is, that we ſhould not principally or onely aym at our own honour, or profit: for otherwiſe a Chriſtian ought to provide for his own houſhold, 1 Tim. 5. 8.

V. 5. Let this minde be in you] Or, the ſame. Be you ſo humble and charitably minded, and ſo reſpect the good of others, even with neglect of your own, as we ſee Chriſt our Saviour did.

V. 6. in the form of God] Either in the nature and eſſence of God, being very God, as the ancient Fathers generally expound the word μορφὴ here uſed; or in the ſtate, that is, glory and majeſty of God, appearing no otherwiſe, neither to Angels, nor to men, than as God in Divine glory and majeſty.

not robbery] It was his right by nature (See John 5. 8.) to be equal with God, and therefore the challenging it, could be no uſurpation of anothers right, or taking to himſelf, that which was not his own: A like phraſe is uſed in the Syriack Ritual, where when Chriſt came to John to be baptized of him, John anſwereth, οὐ δύναμαι ἁρπαγμὸν ἁρπάζειν, that is, I cannot commit a robbery by taking that upon me which belongeth not to me.

V. 7. made himſelf, &c.] Gr. emptied himſelf.

of no reputation] Deveſted himſelf of his robes of majeſty and glory, and brought himſelf as it were to nothing. Word for word, evacuated himſelf; laid aſide for the time his divine Majeſty; ſo Nazianzen, κένωσις δόξης ὕψωσις.

form of a ſervant] Either the true nature of man, who is a ſervant to God; or the quality and condition of a ſervant living in ſubjection, and receiving ſtripes for us. See Eſa. 53. 2, 3, 4, 5.

likeneſs of men] Or, habit. Like other meer men, as Heb. 2. 14. and 4. 15. Rom. 8. 3.

V. 8. faſhion as a man] Or, ſhape. As a true man (not in ſhew and appearance onely) as Joh. 1. 14. We ſaw his glory as the glory of the onely begotten Son of God. Where as is demonſtrationis, non ſimilitudinis.

he humbled himſelf] In this verſe there is a kind of gradation: for it is more to become obedient than to humble himſelf: more to yeeld unto death, than to become obedient: more to be crucified, than ſimply to die. For it was to ſubmit himſelf to a moſt painful, ignominious and a curſed death, Gal. 3. 13.

V. 9. Wherefore God] Becauſe he humbled himſelf ſo low, God exalted him ſo highly, viz. above the grave in his reſurrection, above the earth in his aſcenſion, above the heavens in placing him at his right hand.

above every name] That is, a dignity, glory, and power, above all names. For by means of this exaltation he hath enſtalled him in the poſſeſſion and glorious adminiſtration of his heavenly kingdom, wherein his divine Majeſty which had been eclipſed for a while, doth ſhine again in full and perfect glory.

V. 10. at the name of Jeſus] The Apoſtle in theſe words ſeemeth to have reference to Eſa. 45. 23. and the meaning is, that all creatures ſhould adore, and worſhip Chriſt, and yeeld him all obedience, either voluntarily, or by conſtraint, as to their Soveraign King, at whoſe very name they ſhould fear and tremble. This is in part now performed in the Catholike Church diſperſed through the whole world; but ſhall be perfectly accompliſhed at the dreadful day of Judgement, Rom. 14. 11.

of things in heaven, &c.] Or, thoſe. Of all creatures whereſoever they are, either in heaven as Angels, and the ſouls of them that ſleep in the Lord; or on earth, as men living; or under the earth, as devils in hell and damned Ghoſts. For though Angels and Spirits have neither corporal knees, nor fleſhly tongues, as men have; yet they have ſome means, whereby they are bound, and ſhall whether they will or no, expreſs and teſtifie their ſubjection to our Lord and Saviour. See 1 Cor. 13. 1. and Apoc. 1. 7. and 5. 13. Or, Angels, men alive, and devils, Rev. 5. 13.

things on earth] Or, thoſe.

things under the earth] Or, thoſe.

V. 12. work out your own ſalvation] That is, employ all your abilities, and endeavours to approve, and practiſe all the means, which God hath appointed for the accompliſhment of your ſalvation, 2 Cor. 7.1. Finiſh your ſanctification in the fear of God.

with fear] Fear and trembling are not here oppoſed to ſpiritual confidence, but to carnal ſecurity; and imply no more than a holy reverence, humility and carefulneſs, (Pſal.2.11. Heb.12.28.) as Fulgentius ſpeaketh, nè ſuperbi amittamus quod indigni accepimus. Fear we may, and muſt out of the conſideration of our own infirmity: yet always truſt and be confident in God, who worketh in us both the will and the deed; by whoſe power we are kept through faith to ſalvation, 1 Pet.1.5.

V. 15. harmleſs] Or, ſincere.

ye ſhine] Or, ſhine ye, or, appear.

V. 17. and if I be offered] Gr. poured forth. If I be poured forth as a drink-offering upon the ſacrifice of your faith; as if he had ſaid, I have brought you Philippians to Chriſt, and now my deſire is, that you preſent your ſelves a lively ſacrifice to him, and then ſhall it not grieve me to be offered up as a drink-offering, to accompliſh this your ſpiritual ſacrifice, 2 Tim. 4. 6.

V. 19. But] Or, moreover.

V. 20. like minded] Or, ſo dear unto me.

your ſtate] Gr. thoſe things that concern you.

V. 21. For all ſeek their own] See 1 Cor. 10. 24. All, that is, the greater part: for he excepteth Timothy and Epaphroditus: and his meaning is, that it is a vice incident to moſt, to prefer their own profit and worldly ends, before the glory of Chriſt.

V. 25. meſſenger] Gr. Apoſtle.

V. 28. the leſs ſorrowful] Gr. more without ſorrow.

V. 29. hold ſuch in reputation] Or, honour ſuch.

V. 30. work of Chriſt] By the work of Chriſt, he meaneth his labour in preaching: or his watching and pains taking in miniſtring to Pauls neceſſity, calling it the work of Chriſt to viſit Chriſt being poor and in bands in the perſon of Paul, Matth. 25. 36, 40.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. R*Ejoyce in the Lord*] Not in worldly comforts and contentments; or not in carnal rites and obſervations; but in the Lord with a ſpiritual and heavenly joy.

V. 2. Beware of dogs] By dogs he underſtandeth the falſe Apoſtles, whom he calleth by this vile and reprochful name, becauſe they barked at the light of truth, ſnarled and bit ſound and ſincere preachers with their ſlanders: or becauſe they returned unto their former groſs and ſcandalous vices, as the dog to his vomit, 2 Pet. 2. 22.

evil workers] Either deceitful workers, as 2 Cor. 11. 13. who ſeemed to ſeek the glory of God; but indeed aimed at their own profit, honour, or glory: or falſe teachers, who under pretence of building Gods Church, pulled it down; who took great toyl and pains, but onely to vent and further ſpread their erroneous and dangerous doctrine.

the conciſion] He calleth them ſo, not for that they made cuttings in their fleſh, after the manner of the ſuperſtitious Gentiles; but becauſe by urging circumciſion they made a rent and conciſion in the Church: or the prepoſition κατὰ in κατατομὴ, in κατάχρησις, and divers other words, is taken in the worſer ſenſe, to diſgrace and diſparage the circumciſion they ſo much boaſted of, which was now no more a ſeal of Gods covenant, but a meer cutting of the fleſh with an inciſion alſo, and wounding of the conſcience.

V. 3. we are the circumciſion] We now are to be accounted of the true circumciſion, who have our hearts circumciſed, and our wicked luſts and affections cut off, by the grace of Chriſt ſerving God in purity of life.

V. 4. confidence in the fleſh] Truſt not, nor value our ſelves by external privileges which concern the outward man, or rely not upon carnal rites.

V. 5. of the ſtock of Iſrael] See 2 Cor.11.22.

an Hebrew of the Hebrews] Not a proſelyte, but a native Hebrew, born of Hebrew parents, without any mixture of Gentiles in my lineage.

as touching the Law, a Phariſee] According to the ſtrict obſervation of the law, Act.23.6. & 26.5.

V. 6. perſecuting the Church] See Act.22.4. & 26.11. 1 Cor.15.9. Gal.1.13.

V. 7. were gain to me] Thoſe things which while I was a Jew I accounted rare and ſingular prerogatives, I now make no reckoning of; but ſlight them as not onely worthleſs, but ſome way prejudicial to my better calling.

V. 9. be found in him] That I who was loſt before in my ſelf, might be found in him, as a branch engraffed into the true Vine, Joh.15.2. or a member incorporated into his myſtical body.

not having mine own righteouſneſs] That is, to be in Chriſt, to be found not in our own righteouſneſs, but clothed with the righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed to us.

V. 10. That I may know him] Not onely contemplatively, but alſo practically; that I may feel the power of his reſurrection, in raiſing me firſt from the death of ſin to the life of grace; and after from the death of nature, to the life of glory.

the fellowſhip of his ſufferings] That I may experimentally finde what exceding joy and comfort it is to ſuffer for him, and with him.

V. 11. reſurrection of the dead] He ſpeaketh not of the reſurrection of the dead common to all, but of a reſurrection to a glorious and immortal life, Luk.14.14. Joh.5.29. In the Original it is not ἀνάστασις, but ἐξανάστασις which ſome of the learned obſerve to be alwaies taken for the reſurrection of the juſt; or reſurrection of life, which is oppoſed to the reſurrection of condemnation.

V. 12. for which alſo I am apprehended] For we run, but ſo far forth as we are laid hold on by Chriſt; that is, as God giveth us ſtrength, and ſheweth us the way. Or, I now follow hard to overtake and lay hold on Chriſt, who when I before wandred and fled from him, apprehended me and laid hands on me by his grace, Pſal. 119.176.

V. 13. reaching] Gr. ſtretching.

V. 14. the mark] The prize of heavenly glory, for which we run in the holy race ſet before us, 1 Cor.9.24, &c.

V. 15. as many as be perfect] As many as are fully inſtructed in this myſtery, and truly ſtrive for Chriſtian perfection. He ſaid before verſ. 12. that he was not already perfect; ſo that in this place he calleth them perfect which had well profited in the knowledge of Chriſt and the Goſpel, whom he ſetteth againſt the ruder and more ignorant. See more 1 Cor. 2. 6. Or, as many as think your ſelves perfect.

V. 16. By the ſame rule] Of faith and life, to wit, the word of God, not croſſing one another in our ways of teaching, or courſe of living.

V. 17. followers together of me] See 1 Cor.4.16.

V. 18. For many walk] He ſetteth forth the falſe Apoſtles in their colours, not out of malice, or emulation; but with ſorrow and tears; to wit, that they regarded nothing elſe, but the commodities of this life; that is to ſay, their enjoying peace and quietneſs, and to flow in abundance of wealth, and worldly pleaſures, and live in honour and eſtimation among men, whoſe miſerable end he forewarneth them of.

enemies of the Croſs of Chriſt] Though they preach Chriſt crucified, yet partly by not mortifying their fleſhly luſts; partly by preaching righteouſneſs by the law, they undermine the doctrine of the Croſs, and really oppoſe the power and virtue of Chriſts paſſion.

V. 19. whoſe end is deſtruction] Both of body and ſoul in hell. Mat. 10.28. See alſo Rom.6.21,23.

glory is in their ſhame] Who glory in thoſe things whereof they ought to be aſhamed; or which in the end will prove their ſhame and confuſion, Rom.6.21.

V. 20. For our converſation is in heaven] Zanchius tranſlateth it our burgeſſhip; others our civil ſociety, or politie; the Syriack our trade, or affairs. The Original πολίτευμα, ſignifieth more than can be expreſſed in one word in our vulgar language. The full meaning is we look higher than the earth, we ſet our affection upon the things that are above; we carry our ſelves like fellow citizens of Saints; there we live according to the laws of heaven; and here on earth in part enjoy the privileges of the celeſtial Jeruſalem.

look for the Saviour] See 1 Cor.1.7. Tit.2.13.

V. 21. our vile body] Gr. the body of our vileneſs.

his glorious body] Gr. the body of his glory.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. M*Y joy and my crown*] My honour and greateſt ornament; or for whoſe knowledge and profiting in the Goſpel through my labours among you, a crown is laid up for me in heaven, 2 Tim. 4. 8.

V. 2. beſeech Evodius] Or, exhort.

beſeech Syntyche] Or, exhort.

V. 3. true yoke-fellow] By yoke-fellow the Apoſtle underſtandeth not his wife, as ſome of the ancients imagined: for he had no wife when he wrote his firſt Epiſtle to the Corinthians, as appears, 1 Cor. 7. 7. and we read not that ever he married afterwards; but either he underſtandeth the husband of one of the women he mentioned before, or ſome chief and principal paſtour to whom the Epiſtles of the Apoſtles were uſually addreſſed, and by them afterwards read before all the congregation.

women which laboured with me in the Goſpel] Not which preached the Goſpel with S.Paul, but who took pains to miniſter unto the Apoſtle, and were partakers of the combats and difficulties which he ſuffered from the enemies of the Goſpel.

whoſe names are in the book of life] See Revel.3.5. & 20. 12. & 21. 27. A metaphor taken from the enrolling of Citizens or Souldiers, that they may be known and held for ſuch. This roll is called here the book of life, becauſe therein are written all the elect who are ordained to eternal life, Exo.32.32. Luk.10.20. Revel.3.5. & 17.8. & 20. 12, 15.

V. 4. Rejoyce in the Lord] See Philip.3.1.

V. 5. moderation] Or, equity, or equal carriage.

The Lord is at hand] Either for your preſent ſuccour, Pſal. 33. 18.

or he will come ſhortly to ſet an end to all your ſufferings; and revenge all the wrongs, done to all his Saints, viz. at the day of Judgement.

V. 6. Be careful for nothing] See Matt.*6.*31,34. 1 Pet.5.7.

ſupplication with thankſgiving] So David beginneth very often with ſupplication and tears, but endeth with thankſgiving.

V. 7. peace of God] Gr. Tec. Chriſt. The true ſpiritual and incomprehenſible reſt and quietneſs of minde wrought by Gods Spirit in your hearts, will keep you from all terrour, anxiety and trouble. See Rom.5.1.

hearts and minds] He divideth the heart and the minde; by the heart, underſtanding the will and affections; by the minde, the underſtanding or intellective faculty.

through] Or, in.

V. 8. honeſt] Or, venerable.

V. 10. your care of me hath flouriſhed again] Or, is revived. A metaphor taken from Plants which are dead in the Winter, but revive and flouriſh in the Spring: ſo it ſhould ſeem that their care for the Apoſtle was intermitted for a ſeaſon; either through forgetfulneſs, or want of opportunity to ſend unto him; but now put forth as it were again, as flowers do in the Spring.

V. 11. be content] See 1 Tim.*6.*5,8.

V. 12. abaſed] Or, humbled.

V. 13. I can do all things] The word in the Original ἰσχύω, ſignifieth not properly I can do all things, but I am able for all things; namely, thoſe things he mentioned before, which were rather paſſions than actions, as to be abaſed and to ſuffer need, &c.

through] Gr. in.

V. 15. as concerning giving] Or, to the account of giving.

V. 17. Not becauſe I deſire a gift] It is all one to me whether I want or abound; but in this I deſire a benefit may accrue unto you: for this fruit of your love will be allowed upon your account at the laſt day.

V. 18. I have all] Or, I have received all.

an odour of a ſweet ſmell] He alludeth to the ſweet ſmelling ſavours offered in the old law.

a ſacrifice acceptable] See Heb.13.16.

V. 22. of Cæſars houſhold] This Cæſar was Nero, in whoſe palace S.Pauls bonds were made manifeſt, Phil. 1.13. and God gave ſuch a bleſſing to his preaching and ſufferings, that he made ſome Converts there, who afterwards proved martyrs, namely, Evellius and Torpetes, if at leaſt we may beleeve the Romane Martyrologie.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE COLOSSIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

SAint Paul according to his Apoſtolical Function, taking care of al Churches, and hearing that at Coloſſe divers Weeds ſprang up, which hindered the growth of the Goſpel; namely, Heatheniſh opinions, concerning the mediation of Angels, and Jewiſh ſuperſtitions in the obſervation of legal Rites, writeth this Epiſtle to them, wherein he rooteth up theſe Weeds, proving to them, that Chriſt is our onely Mediatour, by whom we have acceſs to God; and that the Body being come, the legal ſhadows are to vaniſh away.

The godly inſtructions treaſured up in this Epiſtle, partly tend to,

- 1. The confirmation of the Chriſtian Faith in the Deity and Kingdom of Chriſt, and his triumph over principalities and powers, and our redemption, regeneration, and juſtification by him, Chap. 1. 2.
- 2. The regulating a godly life and converſation, by performing all ſuch duties as are required of all that embrace the Goſpel.
  - 1. Abſolutely, and in general, as to mortifie the luſts of the fleſh, to ſpeak the truth, to avoid ſcandal, and to do works of Mercy and Charity.
  - 2. Relatively, and in particular, as namely, ſuch as are required from;
    - 1. Fathers to Children.
    - 2. Children to Fathers.
    - 3. Husbands to Wives.
    - 4. Wives to Husbands.
    - 5. Maſters to Servants.
    - 6. Servants to Maſters.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 2. W*Hich are at Coloſſe*] Coloſſe is a City ſituated in Phrygia, not far from Hieropolis and Laodicea, on the ſide they bend towards Lycia and Pamphilia.

and peace from God] See Rom. 1.7.

V. 4. to all the Saints] See 2 Cor. 1. 1.

V. 5. For the hope] Hope is here taken by a Metonymie, for the thing hoped for; to wit, thoſe glorious things which our hope aſſureth us are laid up for us in heaven, Rom. 8. 24.

V. 8. your love in the Spirit] Your ſpiritual love, or your love which cometh from the Spirit.

V. 9. in all wiſdom] See Epheſ.1.8.

V. 10. walk worthy of the Lord] See Epheſ.4.1.

unto all pleaſing] Or, to pleaſe him in all things.

V. 11. his glorious power] Gr. the power of his glory.

with joyfulneſs] Our patience muſt not be unwilling, and as it were, drawn from us by force, but proceed from a joyful minde, Act. 5.41. Rom.5.3. Jam.1.2.

V. 12. unto the Father] We cannot otherways conſider of God to our ſalvation, but as he is Chriſts Father in whom we are adopted: beſide, the efficient cauſe of our ſalvation is the onely mercy of God the Father, who maketh us meet to be partakers of eternal life by the Word and Spirit.

to be partakers of the inheritance of the ſaints in light] Gr. for, or, to a part of the lot of ſaints in light.

in light] In the Kingdom of his grace and glory, which is called light, in regard of the true knowledge of God that ſhineth therein; and becauſe of the eternal glory and brightneſs in heaven which followeth upon the ſame, Jam.1.17.

V. 13. his dear Son] Gr. the Son of his love.

V. 14. we have redemption] See Rom.3.24.

V. 15. Who is the image] See Heb.1.3. Chriſt is here ſaid to be the image of God, as well in reſpect of his eternal birth from the Father, being the expreſs and eternal image of his perſon, Heb.1.3. as alſo in reſpect that being made man, God the Father did in him, and by him, as a lively image ſet forth before our eyes his glorious attributes of wiſdom, goodneſs, righteouſneſs, and almightineſs, &c. John 14.1. & 14.9. 1 Tim. 3. 16.

of the inviſible God] The Father is called the inviſible God, not onely becauſe his eſſence or being is inviſible, 1 Tim. 6. 16. but for that he never revealed himſelf before the eyes of men, as the Son hath done in his humane nature, 1 John 18.

the firſt-born of every creature] Or, of all the creation. Some, as Iſidorus Peluſiota, reade not, πρωτότοκον, but πρωτοτόκον, with the accent in penultimâ, and accordingly render the word, not the firſt-born, but the firſt bringer forth of all creatures. Others conceive that Chriſt is called the firſt-born, in reſpect of his eternal birth from the Father before all creatures, John 1.2 3. A third ſort interpret the word, firſt-born of every creature, the heir of all, and make this Text parallel to the firſt of Hebrews the ſecond.

V. 16. For by him were all things created that are in heaven] See John 1.3. thrones, or dominions, &c.] This name together with thoſe that follow, ſignifie the Angelicall creatures with their ſeveral degrees and dignities as well among themſelves, as in regard of the inferiour world, and the government thereof. See Rom. 8.38. Epheſ. 6.12. In particular, by thrones, many probably conceive the Cherubins to be meant, over whom it is ſaid, that God is ſitting as upon a throne, by a figure taken from the Cherubins that were over the Ark, whereupon appeared the glory of God, 1 Sam. 4.4. 1 Chron. 28.18. Pſal. 68. 1. Ezek. 10.1.

V. 17. And he is before all things, &c.] See 1 Cor. 8.6. John 1.3.

V. 18. head of the body] That is, of the Church, his ſpirituall body, receiving from him ſpirituall life, and being governed by him as the head, Epheſ. 1.22. & 4.15,16.

the firſt-born from the dead] See 1 Cor. 15.20. Revel. 1.5. The firſt-born among thoſe that are to riſe from the dead to eternal glory, whereby, as by the word beginning is intimated, not onely that he is the firſt in order, and the cauſe of the reſurrection of the reſt; but beſides this alſo, that he ſhall himſelf according to his humane nature in glory far ſurpaſs them all, as the firſt-born in the Old Teſtament had a preheminency above the reſt, 1 Cor. 15.20.

in all things] Or, among all. As in the creation and natural eſtate of the world; ſo alſo in the redemption and ſpiritual eſtate of the Church. Or, among all, viz. the children of God, Rom. 8.29.

V. 19. all fulneſs dwell] All perfection of grace, wiſdom, power, goodneſs, and mercy: See Epheſ. 4.10.

V. 20. having made peace] Or, making peace.

bloud of his croſs] By his bloudy oblation made upon the croſs, Heb. 10.10.

reconcile all things] By ſin heaven and earth were ſet at variance, and the creatures in them: but by Chriſt there is unity ſet not onely betwixt God & man, but alſo betwixt men and the Angels that are in heaven, as alſo the creatures that are upon the earth.

V. 21. in your mind by wicked works] Or, by your mind in wicked works.

now hath he reconciled] See 2 Cor. 5.18.

V. 22. the body of his fleſh] The fleſh is added either to diſtinguiſh his natural body from his myſtical body, of which he ſpake, verſe 18. or, to teach us, that his humane body was not a phantaſtical, but a true ſubſtantial body.

V. 23. grounded] Gr. founded.

ſettled] Or, ſtable.

every creature which is under heaven] Mark 16.15.

V. 24. rejoyce in my ſufferings] See verſ. 11.

for you] For your profit and good, to ſtrengthen and confirm you by my example.

behind of the afflictions] This is not to be underſtood of Chriſts ſufferings for our ſins, as if there ſhould be ſomething wanting for our redemption, for that is perfect and compleat in all parts thereof, and nothing wanting. Verſ. 20. Heb. 10.14. 1 John 1.7. & 2. 2. 2. But of the ſufferings of Chriſts members for his ſake, 2 Cor. 1.5. Heb. 11.26. For we muſt conceive of Chriſt and his Church, as of one body and perſon, whoſe afflictions are limited by the providence of God. Now, Chriſt the head having ſuffered already, it remaineth now that the Church and every member thereof do ſuffer their ſhare likewiſe in their turn, according to his example; albeit to different ends; in as much as the ſufferings of Chriſt are the price of our redemption, wheras thoſe of the faithful are nothing elſe but exerciſes and trials of their faith and patience.

of Chriſt] The afflictions of the Church are ſaid to be Chriſts afflictions by reaſon of the ſympathy between the Head and the members, Acts 9.4. 2 Cor. 1.5. & 4.10. Heb. 11.26.

V. 25. to fulfil the word of God] Or, fully to preach the word of God, Rom. 15.19.

V. 26. the myſtery, &c.] See Rom. 16.25. 1 Cor. 2.7. Epheſ. 3.9.

V. 27. In you] Or, amongſt you.

V. 28. in all wiſdom] Or, with. Perfect and ſound wiſdom, which is perfection it ſelf, and ſhall in the end make them perfect, that follow it. See verſ. 9.

V. 29. mightily] Gr. in power.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. C*Onflict*] Or, fear, or, care.

for you] Gr. concerning you.

face in the fleſh] Or, perſon.

V. 3. In whom] Or, wherein.

hid all the treaſures of wiſdom] Either the meaning is, that Chriſt hath in him the perfection of all wiſdom and knowledge; or that all ſaving knowledge and true wiſdom conſiſteth in this, that we rightly know Chriſt, out of whom there is no precious knowledge.

V. 6. received Chriſt] As you have received the doctrine of Chriſt, ſo perſevere you in it, and live according to it: or, as you have received Chriſt by faith, ſo walk you in him, who is the Way to eternal life.

V. 7. with] Gr. in.

V. 8. ſpoil you] Carry you away for a ſpoil, or a prey, namely, from Chriſt and his truth, to other doctrines or means of ſalvation without Chriſt: A compariſon taken from ſuch Theeves, or Pirats, as do not onely take and carry away the goods of thoſe they rob, but their perſons alſo, to make them their own, or other mens ſlaves.

through Philoſophy] Or, by. Hereby is not meant true Philoſophy, which is a gift of God, and a great help to the knowledge of Divinity: but he meaneth Sophiſtry, and captious ſubtilties of ſome Heathen Philoſophers, as the following words, vain deceits, do explain it, and as Paul ſpeaketh thereof, Rom. 1.21,22. Which Philoſophers had propounded divers matters in their vain ſpeculations, meaſuring heavenly myſteries by their natural reaſon.

rudiments of the world] Or, elements. Ceremonies of the law, for as much as it pleaſed God in the infancy of the Church to lead the Iſraelites, and conſequently in them the reſt of the world that were ſaved unto Chriſt by this means, even as a childe is led to reade by learning the A.B.C. or a Scholar by his Accidence to his Grammar. See Gal. 4.9.

not after Chriſt] Not according to the doctrine and inſtitution of Chriſt, which only ought to take place in the Church, Gal. 1.6,8,9. & 2.21. & 5.2.4.

V. 9. in him dwelleth] By the union of the Divine nature with the humane in the unity of his perſon; the God-head dwelleth in Chriſt as the ſoul in the body.

all the fulneſs of the God-head] Or, the whole fulneſs. The perfect Deity of the Son with all his attributes, and not onely in regard of ſome particular gifts and graces, as he dwelleth in the Prophets, Apoſtles, and other Saints.

bodily] That is, perſonally, as the Greek word σῶμα, ſometimes ſignifieth; or ſubſtantially, in oppoſition to the ſhadows and figures of the Old Teſtament, as the word is taken in this very Chapter, Verſe 17. yet the meaning is much at one, in whether of the two ſenſes we take the word. For God is ſaid in the Old Teſtament, to dwell in the Tabernacle, Ark of the Covenant, and Temple, but onely as in the ſhadowes and figures of Chriſts humane nature, which he ſhould take on him in the fulneſs of time, to dwell in the ſame perſonally, or really and ſubſtantially with all his fulneſs: from whence the Apoſtle inferreth, that we muſt not look for any ſalvation without him; neither in the Ceremonies of the Law, nor in any humane inſtitution, but onely in him and his Word.

V. 10. Principality and power] See Col. 1.16.

V. 11. Circumciſion made without hands] Not a carnal and outward Circumciſion, but an inward; not whereby a ſmall part of the fleſh or skin, but the whole body of ſin is taken away. Rom. 6.6.

the body of the ſins of the fleſh] Gr. Tec. the body of the fleſh.

V. 12. Buried with him in baptiſme] See Rom. 6.4.

V. 13. dead in your ſins] See Epheſ. 2.1.

V. 14. Blotting out] The Law was as the Writ or the Obligation, the uſe of the Ceremonies the ratification and acknowledgement of the debt, the bloud of Chriſt the payment thereof, whereupon the Obligation was cancelled.

hand-writing] The Greek word χειρόγραφον, ſome take for a Writing by Gods own hand in Tables of ſtone, Exod. 34.1. and thereby underſtand the Moral Law, or ten Commandements, ſaid here to be againſt us, in regard of that ſevere requiring of perfect obedience, which we were not able to perform; and thereby became ſubject to the curſe thereof, which Chriſt did bear on the Croſs on our behalf, and thereby redeemed us from it; Gal. 3.13. Yet foraſmuch as the Apoſtle here purpoſely diſputeth againſt Circumciſion and other Ceremonies of the Law, it ſeemeth moſt probable, that by the hand-writing we are to underſtand the Ceremonies of the Law, which are called a hand-writing againſt us, becauſe they were as an Obligation or bond whereby men did daily acknowledge their treſpaſſes and debts unto God, and that they deſerved the ſame death which the beaſt did endure; and could not by the outward uſe thereof be acquitted of the debt, as the Apoſtle declareth to the Hebrews, c. 10. v. 1, 2.

V. 15. ſpoiled] Taken from the Devil the unrighteous prey of ſo many ſouls, or ſtripped and unfurniſhed them of their power and armour, which were ſin and death, whoſe ſtrength was the Law, 1 Cor. 15.55,56. Luke 11.22. A metaphor taken from conquered and ſubdued Souldiers and Commanders, who were wont to be ſtrip'd bare of their Arms, and to be publikely led in triumph, to be a ſpectacle to all men, until they were brought to priſon, and either there kept in bonds, or put to death.

a ſh w of them] Bringing them to open ſhame.

in it] Or, in himſelf. The Croſs was a Chariot of triumph, no Conquerour could have triumphed ſo glorioſly in his Chariot, as Chriſt did on his Croſs; there he took away from Satan, that had the power of death, all ability to hurt us: for although he doth aſſault us ſtill, yet we are aſſured of an abſolute victory. Luke 10.17. Rom.8.37. & 16.20. Rev.22.10.

V. 16. in meat] Or, for eating and drinking.

in reſpect] Or, in part.

V. 18. beguile you of your reward] Or, judge againſt you. Permit no man to uſurp a power of domineering over your conſciences, and to judge them guilty in theſe things; or, let no man take the prize which is laid ready at the Goal for you, by drawing you aſide, under pretence of voluntary humility to thoſe opinions and obſervances, which are not warrantable, as to uſe the Angels for your Mediators, under a colour of awful modeſty, in not making your immediate addreſs to God.

in a voluntary humility] Gr. being a voluntary humility.

intruding into thoſe things] Uſurping upon Chriſts office, and ſpeaking as confidently of thoſe his doctrines and laws, concerning Gods worſhip, as if they had come down from heaven, whereas they were nothing elſe but humane devices and ſpeculations, without any ſolid ground at all.

V. 19. not holding the head] Not holding himſelf to the true knowledge of Chriſt, who is the only head of the Church, from whom all the body of the univerſal Church, being knit together by the joynts and bands of one common ſpirit, receiveth ſpiritual nouriſhment and augmentation, with the increaſing of God, that is, which cometh of God.

V. 20. from the rudiments of the world] Or, from the elements of the world.

ſubject to Ordinances] Or, burdened with opinions, or, traditions. The word δογματίζεσθε, ſignifieth as well an enthralling our ſelves to doctrinal errours, as ſuperſtitious Rites and Ordinances.

V. 21. Touch not, taſte not] Theſe are the ſpeeches of ſuperſtitious men, which Paul here inſerteth, ſhewing thereby, that ſuperſtition doth grow from one degree to another. For firſt, they forbid to touch, that is, to eat or to drink; then, to taſte; and laſtly, to handle at all; for that the ſpeech is here onely of ſuch things wherewith the body is fed, appeareth by the two next following Verſes. Or, becauſe touch not, and handle not, ſeem little to differ, or not at all; it may be here ſaid to one, touch not; to another, taſte not; to a third, handle not, ſuch or ſuch meats.

V. 22. to periſh] Gr. to corruption.

with the uſing] Gr. in the conſumption of them.

V. 23. neglecting of the body] Or, puniſhing, or, not ſparing of the body.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. SEek thoſe things that are above] Give your ſelves to the ſtudy and practice of a ſpiritual and Angelical life, elevating your hearts and thoughts into heaven, without ſetting any more your affections upon the things on the earth, or putting any opinion of holineſs in any outward earthly thing whatſoever. By the things that are above, he meaneth everlaſting happineſs and glory, whereof Chriſt hath taken poſſeſſion for us in heaven, together with all ſpiritual gifts, requiſite for ſalvation, which Chriſt at the right hand of his Father doth impart and diſtribute to his Church. Acts 2. 11. Eph. 4.8.

ſitteth on the right hand of God] Or, at. See Mark 15.19. Luk. 24.51. Acts 7.55. Rom. 8.34.

V. 2. affection] Or, minde.

V. 3. ye are dead] Dead to the world, dead to the fleſh, dead to all the vain and ſinful motions and deſires thereof.

your life is hid] Your life of grace and of glory is hid and laid up in Chriſt with God, as out of the knowledge, ſo out of the danger of the world. Or, it is hid with Chriſt, that is, as Chriſts life and glorious reign in heaven, ſo your ſpiritual life is concealed from the eyes of worldly men.

V. 4. When Chriſt who is our life] That is, in whom, and by whom we live, who is not onely the efficient and meritorious cauſe, but the pattern alſo of our ſpiritual life.

V. 5. your members] Thoſe members which we made weapons of unrighteouſneſs, or the evil affections and motions of corrupt nature, which is as it were a maſs of ſin, called expreſly the body of ſin, Rom. 6. 6. Col. 2. 11. Theſe motions may be called members, becauſe the reaſon and will of corrupt man doth uſe them, and produce operations by them, as the body doth uſe the members.

upon the earth] Thus the Apoſtle calleth theſe vicious deſires, in regard they do ever move men to earthly things; viz. to the luſts of the fleſh, the luſts of the eye, and the pride of life, 1 John 2. 16. whereof we ſhall be altogether freed in heaven. Rev. 21.27.

fornication] See Epheſ. 5.3.

inordinate affection] Gr. paſſion. The word πάθος, in the Original ſignifieth ſome kinde of uncleanneſs, in which men are rather paſſive than active; ſuch as the Apoſtle intimateth, Rom. 1.26. παρέδωκεν αὐτοὺς εἰς πάθη ἀτιμίας.

covetouſneſs, which is idolatry] Some conceive the Apoſtle here to ſpeak by way of aggravation; as when in 1 Sam. 15. 23. rebellion is ſaid to be the ſin of witchcraft, and ſtubbornneſs to be idolatry; not that they are ſo properly, but that they are moſt hainous and execrable ſins, as witchcraft and idolatry were deſervedly eſteemed. Yet farther, how covetouſneſs may be termed idolatry, ſee the note upon Epheſ. 5. 5.

V. 6. children of diſobedience] An Hebraiſm, unbeleeving or diſobedient children, properly ſuch as no good perſwaſion can work upon. Epheſ. 5. 6.

V. 7. the which ye alſo] Gr. Tec. theſe ye alſo.

in them] Or, among them.

V. 8. you alſo put off all theſe] Or, put you alſo from you all theſe.

V. 9. old man with his deeds] Our unregenerate condition, or our old depraved nature, with the ſinful works thereof. See Rom. 6. 6. & Auguſtinum de vera relig. c. 26. Vetus homo exuitur primùm in Baptiſmo, deinde quotidiano profectu novitatis.

V. 10. put on] He uſeth the metaphor of putting on, to ſhew that theſe graces are an addition to our nature, and that we are naked without them, and that they are as a beautiful ornament to our ſoul. Epheſ. 4.24.

new man] See Epheſ. 4.24.

in knowledge] Gr. to knowledge.

V. 11. Greek nor Jew] From theſe words Epiphanius noteth four ſects or ſorts of religion which one after another bore ſway in the world; from Adam to the Flood, Barbariſme; from the Flood to Abraham, Scythiſm; and after that, Helleniſm, and Judaiſm: But whether S. Paul had reference unto theſe, it is uncertain. His plain meaning is this, That if we ſpeak of renovation and ſalvation in Chriſt, there is no reſpect of perſons at all; (Act. 10.34.) for every man is accepted according to that meaſure of grace, by which Chriſt dwels and worketh in him. Gal. 3. 28.

Chriſt is all, and in all] See Gal. 3.28.

V. 12. Put on] See V. 10.

V. 13. quarrel] Or, complaint.

V. 14. which is the bond of perfectneſs] Whereby all the members of the Church are perfectly united together, and do ſhew one another all due and brotherly affection. Or, the bond of perfection, that is, the bond which tyeth all Chriſtian virtues together, and perfecteth them. Rom. 13. 8.

V. 15. peace of God] See Phil. 4. 7.

V. 16. dwell in you richly] Be familiarly acquainted with the Word, let it not paſs by you as a ſtranger, or lodge and ſojourn with you for a ſhort ſpace; but let it continually abide with you, and give it rich, that is, liberal entertainment, by frequent reading, hearing, meditating upon, and conferring about the Scriptures.

teaching and admoniſhing] Teaching the ignorant, admoniſhing and warning the careleſs. He ſeemeth not here to ſpeak of publike teaching and admonition, by the explication and application of the Scriptures, in Sermons, Homilies, and other exhortations, which particularly appertain to the Paſtoral function; but a private inſtruction, advice, direction, or admonition out of Holy Scriptures, whereby all the faithful are to impart their knowledge to others, and edifie and comfort one another.

in Pſalms and Hymnes] See Epheſ. 5.19.

with grace] Gr. in grace; or, gracefully.

V. 17. And whatſoever ye do] See 1 Cor. 10.31.

in the name of the Lord] Call upon the name of Chriſt when ye do it; or do it to Chriſts praiſe and glory. 1 Cor. 10. 31.

V. 18. Wives ſubmit your ſelves] See Epheſ. 5.22. Tit. 2.5. 1 Pet. 3.1. Either the meaning is, that it is fit and agreeable to Gods Word, that they ſhould ſubmit; or ſubmit in ſuch ſort, & with ſuch a kind of ſubmiſſion, as is fit for wives, not with a ſervile, but with a conjugal ſubmiſſion.

V. 19. Husbands love your wives] See Epheſ. 5.25.

V. 20. Children, obey your parents in all things] See Epheſ. 6.1.

V. 21. Fathers provoke not your Children, &c.] See Epheſ. 6.4.

to anger] Gr. Tec. above that is fitting.

V. 22. Servants, obey in all things] See Epheſ. 6.5. Tit. 2.9. As the Apoſtle exhorteth the Children before, ſo here he will have ſervants obey their Maſters in all things; but with a limitation expreſs'd, Ephe. 6.1. viz. in the Lord; in all things warrantable for the maſters to command, and the ſervants to perform.

with eye-ſervice] Gr. in eye-ſervices. See Epheſ. 6.6.

V. 23. it heartily] Gr. from the ſoul.

V. 24. the reward of the inheritance] He calleth it a reward, becauſe he ſpeaketh of ſervants; but addeth, of an inheritance, becauſe that if they faithfully ſerve their maſters, or rather the Lord Chriſt in them, the time ſhall come, when they ſhall be made ſons of ſervants, and partakers of the Heavenly inheritance.

V. 25. the wrong which he hath done] Gr. what he hath wronged.

there is no reſpect of perſons] See Rom. 2. 11. Eph. 6.9.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. Juſt and equal] Gr. equity. Though there be a great inequality between Maſters and ſervants, in reſpect of their outward and civil condition ; yet there is an equality in reſpect of their ſpiritual, having both one maſter. And thus much the Heathen ſaw by the light of nature ; Servi ſunt ? imò contubernales : ſervi ſunt? imò humiles amici : ſervi ſunt ? imò conſervi. Or it is equal for maſters to do their office to ſervants, as well as for ſervants to do their duty to them.

V. 2. Continue in payer] See Luk.18.1. 1 Theſ.5.17.

V. 3. withal, praying for us,&c.] See Epheſ.6.19. 2 Theſ.3.1.

door of utterance] He prayeth,not that God would open for him the gate of the priſon, but a door of utterance ; for he more deſired the free paſſage of the Goſpel, than his own enlargement. By the door of utterance is here meant a fair and happy opportunity of preaching the Goſpel, or powerful aſſiſtance, or ability of ſpeech,for which David prayeth, Pſal.51.15.

V. 5. Walk in wiſdom] See Epheſ.5.15. That is, adviſedly and circumſpectly, that ye neither learn any evil by converſing with them that are without, nor give them any offence at all by your carriage, 1 Cor.10.32.

redeeming the time] See Epheſ.5.16.

V. 6. with grace] Or, gracious.

ſeaſoned with ſalt] With diſcretion and prudence, that it may well reliſh in the palate of them that hear you ; Mark 9.51. Or,let your diſcourſe be ſavory,avoiding all corrupt communication ; for by ſalt the meat is made ſavory,and preſerved from corruption.1 Cor.15.33. Epheſ.4.29.

anſwer every man] Whether he be within or without the Church, whether it be to give an account of your faith, 1 Pet.3.15. or to comfort and exhort one another. 1 Theſ. 5.11.

V. 7. my ſtate ſhall] Gr. things concerning me ſhall.

Miniſter] Or, Deacon.

V. 8. your eſtate] Gr. the things that concern you.

V. 12. labouring] Or, ſtriving.

compleate] Or, filled.

V. 13. a great zeal for you] Gr. Tec. much labour for you.

V. 16. cauſe that it be read, &c.] Laodicea was a neighbor Church to Coloſſe,& the ſame falſe Apoſtles, who introduced errours among the Coloſſians (it is very like) ſet them abroach alſo at Laodicea, againſt which the reading of this Epiſtle in their Church,might ſerve them as a ſoveraigne Antidote.

from Laodicea] The Apoſtle doth not here ſpeak of any Epiſtle which himſelf had written to thoſe of Laodicea , as ſome conceive ; exhibiting alſo a certain Epiſtle which is yet to be found in divers Latine and Dutch Teſtaments,intituled, The Epiſtle of S.Paul to the Laodiceans ; (which Epiſtle is ſpurious and Apocryphal) but of an Epiſtle ſent to him from Laodicea, either by the Church, or ſome Apoſtolical men there ; in which letter there was a further declaration of the abovesaid errours, or the authours of them, which might alſo ſerve the Coloſſians for further warning and inſtruction, being compared by them with this preſent Epiſtle.

V. 17. ſay to Archippus] This Archippus ſeemeth to be the fellow Miniſter of Epaphras in this Church , whom the Apoſtle would have admoniſhed and quickened , becauſe Epaphras being abſent , the whole burden lay upon him.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE THESSALONIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THE Theſſalonians, though they gladly embraced the Doctrine of the Chriſtian Faith, and continued conſtant in the Profeſſion thereof , yet were much diſcouraged and diſmayed at the perſecutions raiſed againſt the godly for the Truth-ſake, by the Jews , and for the loſs of ſome eminent profeſſours, and their dear Friends, whom God had taken out of the world. Whereof the Apoſtle having notice , writeth this Epiſtle unto them, to build them in their moſt holy Faith, and to comfort them againſt the ſcandal of the Croſs ; which is the common lot of the godly, and the fear of death it ſelf, which he ſheweth to be nothing elſe, but a paſs to immortal bliſs ; whereof they ſhall not be partakers onely, who ſhall be alive at Chriſts coming, but all other that die in the Lord. In the mean while, they ought ſo to carry themſelves in all holineſs of converſation , that they may be thought worthy the glory that ſhall be then revealed.

The ſpecial contents of the Epiſtle are
- 1. Commendations of their ſincerity and conſtancy, Chap. 1.
- 2. Declarations of his faithful and powerful Miniſtery, and love to them, Chap. 2, 3.
- 3. Conſolations in time of perſecution for the Goſpel, and againſt the terrour of death, to which , he oppoſeth the glory of the Reſurrection and Chriſts ſecond comming to judgement, Chapter 2. from Verſe 13. to Verſe 17. and Chap. 4. from Verſe 13. to the 10. Verſe of the 5. Chapter.
- 4. Exhortation to duties of
  - 1. Chriſtian charity, Chap. 4. Verſe 1. to the 12.
  - 2. Piety, Chap. 5. Verſe 11. to the 25.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. Silvanus] Saint Jerome is of opinion that Silvanus (through the errour of ſome that tranſcribed this Epiſtle of S. Paul) was put for Silas ; and by comparing this Chapter with divers paſſages in the Acts of the Apoſtles, it ſhould ſeem, that he who is called here Silvanus, was no other than Silas ; and he might be ſometimes called by the name of Silas, and ſometimes of Silvanus , as S.Paul himſelf was ſometimes called Paul, ſometimes Saul.

and Timotheus] There are three reaſons alleaged by Salvianus and others, why the Apoſtle addeth Silvanus and Timotheus in the inſcription of this Epiſtle : the firſt,that the Theſſalonians might know,that they were all three together,who are joyned in this inſcription when the Apoſtle dictated this Letter. Secondly, to ſhew their conſent in doctrine, and that what they had taught before ſeverally , they now deliver joyntly. And thirdly, that the Epiſtle might carry the more authority,being ſent from three ſuch eminent Paſtors. See Gal.1.1.

V. 2. We give thanks to God] See Phil.4.

V. 3. your work of faith] Your faith which is not a dead , but a living faith,working through love ; although faith be oppoſed to the works of the Law, by this Apoſtle (Rom.3.28.) who concludeth,that we are juſtified by faith, and not by the works of the Law; yet is faith a work of grace, and of the Goſpel, and ſo is called by Chriſt himſelf, John 6.29.

and labour of love] The duties of true love,exerciſed and practiſed by you, without ſparing your ſelves in hard and dangerous times and occaſions.

patience of hope] Your voluntary and conſtant patience under the Croſs, for the Goſpel, which is upheld by the aſſured hope of a far exceeding and eternal weight of glory; 2 Cor. 4. 17.

in our Lord] Gr. of our Lord.

in the ſight of God] Either the meaning is,what time ſoever we preſent our ſelves before God,to pray unto him, we remember you: or this may be added to ſignifie the truth and ſincerity of theſe virtues in the Theſſalonians.

V. 4. Knowing] By Gods bleſſing upon our labours, in your true converſion, and the fruits of true faith,brought forth by you,that you are elected of God.

beloved, your election of God] Or, beloved of God, your election.

V. 5. but alſo in power] Either powerfully teſtified by miracles,or a moſt powerful working upon your hearts.

and in the holy Ghoſt] Either he meaneth the extraordinary gifts of the holy Ghoſt, or the teſtimony of the Spirit,aſſuring them of their effectual calling.

V. 6. with joy of the holy Ghoſt] A ſpiritual joy wrought in you by the holy Ghoſt.

V. 8. Word of the Lord] The Goſpel is ſo termed,either becauſe the Lord is the Author, or,the object of it; for it is both à Domino,and de Domino.

V. 9. entring in we had] That is, what loving entertainment, and kinde acceptance we had from you,and how cheerfully you embraced the Goſpel. Act.17.

ſerve the living and true God] God is ſaid to be the true God in oppoſition to all falſe Gods, John 17.3. but, the living God, partly in oppoſition to idols, which were images of dead men, and themſelves liveleſs being ſenſleſs ſtocks; or to teach us, that God hath life in himſelf,and is the Author of all life, both of nature,grace and glory.

V. 10. wrath to come] Chriſt delivereth us from the wrath of God, both preſent, and to come; yet the Apoſtle nameth onely wrath to come, as Saint John Baptiſt likewiſe doth, Matth. 3.7. becauſe that is the moſt dreadful wrath, and the deliverance from that, the greateſt and moſt illuſtrious deliverance of all. Apoc.6. 16,17.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. I*N vain*] The meaning is, either that he preached not vain things unto them, as Poetical fictions, or curious ſpeculations, but true and neceſſary doctrines: or that his preaching among them was not without fruit, but through the operation of the Spirit, fruitful and effectual: in which ſenſe the ſacred ſymbols or elements are truly affirmed by Proteſtants not to be κενὰ, the word here uſed, that is, bare,vain, or empty ſigns, becauſe the Spirit worketh by them, and they really exhibit to the ſoul that which is ſignified by them.

V. 2. ſhamefully entreated] Cruelly beaten with rods, and after caſt into priſon, and his feet ſet faſt in the ſtocks, Acts 16.23,24. as if he had been a vagabond, a rogue: but the more diſgrace the enemies of the Goſpel put upon him, the more God honoured him by miraculouſly ſhaking the foundation of the priſon, & looſening his & all his fellow-priſoners bands, and converting the Gaoler himſelf to the Chriſtian faith.

at] Gr. in.

Philippi] See Acts 18.22.

bold in our God] That is, truſting in Gods help,who powerfully aſſiſted us, and as it were owned us. The poſſeſſive our here, as my elſewhere, Pſal.18.2. Eſa.25.1. Dan.9.18,19.Luk.1.47. Phil.3.8.Rev. 3.12. ſhew the ſpecial affiance,which the faithful have in God,which becauſe the Romaniſts diſclaim, they ſhew they underſtand not the nature of true juſtifying faith.

with much contention]Gr.*in much ſtrife.*With much fervency of zeal, and ſtrong conteſtation with all gain-ſayers of the truth. For it is not ſufficient to hold the right faith,or preach it; but we muſt ſtrive and earneſtly contend for it, Jude 3.

V. 3. not of deceit] The heretikes and falſe Apoſtles, propoſed to themſelves chiefly three ends, applauſe, gain, and voluptuouſneſs: the firſt they ſought to attain by ſoothing their hearers,& colloguing with them; the ſecond by crafty fetches,and cloaks of covetouſneſs; the third by ſowing pillows under mens elbows, and preaching doctrines tending to carnal liberty; from all which the Apoſtle calls God himſelf to be his compurgatour, from the firſt verſ. 6. from the ſecond verſ. 5. from the third verſ.3.

V. 4. allowed of God] As God hath thought us fit to be truſted with the preaching of the Goſpel, and given his approbation to our miniſtery: ſo we ſeek to approve our ſelves to him in all things,and not to men, as the falſe Apoſtles do, who are time-ſervers and men-pleaſers.

trieth] Or, proveth.

our hearts] Jer.17.10. Acts 1.24. Rom.8.27.

V. 5. nor a cloak of covetouſneſs] For the ſincerity of his teaching and actions he calleth them, but for the ſincerity of his intentions,he calleth God to witneſs. The word in the Original πρόφασις, ſignifieth a fair and ſpecious pretext, which they commonly uſe to beguile their hearers with, who go about under hand to make a gain and a prey of them.

V. 6. been burdenſom] Or, uſed authority. When we might have taken upon us, and exerciſed our Apoſtolical authority,and required of you ſuch maintenance and chargeable entertainment, as might befit the Amabaſſadours of Chriſt, yet we took a contrary courſe, we put you to no coſt at all, nor came unto you with a rod,but with the ſpirit of meekneſs, 1 Cor.4.21.

V. 7. gentle among you]Tenderly affected, as a nurſe which beareth with a froward childe,and patiently taketh all pains with it, as if ſhe were the mother.

V. 8. our own ſouls] Either to have imparted and communicated unto you all our ſecreteſt intentions, and the very bottom of our hearts: or we would have been contented even to have laid down our lives for you,ſo far were we from going about to make any gain or advantage of you.

V. 9. labouring night and day] See Act.20.34. 2 Theſ.3.8.

be chargeable] See 1 Cor.4 12.

V.10.how holily] Holily in reſpect of God,juſtly in reſpect of men, unblameably in reſpect of our ſelves: or holily in our miniſterial function,juſtly in our civil affairs and commerce,and unblameably in reſpect of our private carriage with our familiar and moſt intimate friends. This text ſeemeth to be parallel to Titus 2. 12. for holy anſwereth to godly there,juſtly to righteouſly, and unblameably to ſoberly.

V. 11.charged] Gr. teſtifying.

as a father doth his children] Before he compared himſelf to a nurſe which tenderly affecteth,and carefully attendeth and cheriſheth the infant committed to her: but becauſe a nurſe cannot be of the like natural affection as the parent, nor hath the like power to do it good, nor authority over it, he improveth the former metaphor, and withal amplifieth his love unto them, by reſembling his care over them,and affection towards them to that of a father: and truly Paſtours are as ghoſtly fathers, both in reſpect of their fatherly affection, and fatherly power, and eſpecially, becauſe in Chriſt Jeſus they beget us through the Goſpel, 1 Cor.4.15.

V.12. That ye would walk worthy of God] See Epheſ.4.1.Phil.1.27. Coloſ.1.10.

V. 13. word of men] Who are ſubject to errour,and as themſelves, ſo their words are impotent and weak, but as the word of God, which is mighty in operation, and ſharper than a two-edged ſword, Heb. 4. 12. Or ye received it as the word of God with reverence, and religious attention, and full aſſurance of the truth thereof, yeelding both your aſſent and obedience thereunto.

V. 14. as they have of the Jews] What in particular the beleevers among the Jews ſuffered of their countreymen is ſet down, Heb. 11. 32,33,34. not onely reproaches,but alſo ſpoyling of their goods,with other grievous perſecutions.

V. 15. killed the Lord Jeſus]He preventeth an offence which might be taken, for that the Jews eſpecially,above all others,perſecuted the Goſpel,that is no new thing, ſaith he,ſeeing they ſlew Chriſt himſelf, and ſtoned his Prophets, and have baniſhed me alſo.

perſecuted us] Or, chaſed us out.

contrary to all men] Who are of a froward and perverſe diſpoſition, oppoſing themſelves againſt all men, in reſiſting the courſe and ſucceſs of the Goſpel among the Gentiles,and as much as in them lyeth, hindering the ſalvation of all men: juſt of the temper of thoſe Lawyers, againſt whom our Saviour pronounced a dreadful wo, Luk. 11. 52. who neither entred themſelves into the Kingdom of God, nor ſuffered any others to enter.

V. 16. fill up their ſins] The Jews intended not by perſecuting the Church of Chriſt; to fill up the meaſure of their ſins, and ſo to draw vengeance from heaven upon themſelves: but the Apoſtles meaning is, that God in his juſt judgement permitted them thus to make up the full meaſure of their own, and their forefathers ſins, becauſe he intended to ſweep them away with the beſom of deſtruction, in the hand of the Romanes. In the phraſe and manner of expreſſion he alludeth to Gen.15.16. & Matth.23.32.

come upon them to the uttermoſt] Or, ſuddenly fallen upon.

V. 18. Satan hindered us] By his agents and inſtruments,raiſing up new ſtirs and troubles in other Churches, where our preſence was required to compoſe them,and thereby we were hindered from coming to you. Or by laying blocks in our way through manifold perſecutions ſtirred up againſt us, ſtopping up all paſſage to you.

V. 19. our hope] In theſe words he paſſionately expreſſeth his love to them, ſaying, you are my hope, that is, they from whoſe growth in the knowledge of Chriſt through my miniſtery,I hope I ſhall receive praiſe of God; and ye are my joy, that is, they who bring me much joy and comfort; and my crown, that is, ye are they for whom by my faithfulneſs in the exerciſe of my miniſtery among you,I ſhall receive a crown at the laſt day, 2 Tim.4.8. 1 Pet.5.4. Or,ye are the crown of my rejoycing or glorying, that is, I more rejoyce and glory in you than in a crown.

rejoycing] Or, glorying.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. C*ould no longer forbear*] Before he compared himſelf to a Father, Chap. 2. verſ. 11. and here he ſheweth how his bowels yearned towards the Theſſalonians,as his children; and becauſe he would not leave them comfortleſs, he left himſelf helpleſs; ſending his fellow-labourer Timotheus unto them, and ſtaying himſelf alone at Athens.

V. 2. to eſtabliſh you] The troubles and afflictions which beſel the Apoſtle their teacher, were likely to unſettle the faith of the weak, and diſcourage them in their holy courſe he had ſet them in; therefore out of wiſdom and love he ſendeth Timotheus ſeaſonably unto them, both to ſtrengthen them in their faith, and comfort them in their fears, and arm them againſt the temptations of Satan.

V.3. for your ſelves know] From my mouth,for at one and the ſame time that I preached unto you Chriſt crucified, I forwarned you that you were to bear his croſs.

appointed thereunto] The word in the Original κείμεθα,is the ſame with that which Simeon uſed when he bleſſed our Saviour,ſaying,Behold, this child is ſet for the fall and riſing of many.(Luk.2.34.)The godly are ſet as a mark, at which the arrows of perſecution are ſhot: for in the Decree of their predeſtination to life,God hath ſo ordered, that they be conformable to the Image of his Son, firſt in their ſufferings, and after in glory, Rom.8.17,29.

tempter have tempted you] Or, had. By tempter he meaneth the devil. See Math.4.1.

be in vain] Or, had been.

V. 8. For now we live] Notwithſtanding all our croſſes and afflictions,and that death doth hunt us continually; yet are we glad,and rejoyce, and our ſpirit is revived when we hear of your conſtancy in the truth.

V. 9. our God] See 1 Theſſ.2.2.

V. 10. perfect that which is lacking in your faith.] The word in the Original, καταρτίσαι, ſignifieth to make even, and conſequently to perfect: for an even number is a perfect number, and an odde number imperfect. The Apoſtle before commended them for their ſtedfaſtneſs in the faith, they wanted not conſtancy therefore; what they knew they ſtedfaſtly beleeved, and conſtantly profeſſed: but it ſeems they were not fully inſtructed in all points, but needed either a farther information in ſome doctrines of faith, which they had not yet learned; or a reſolution of ſome doubts which might trouble and perplex their conſcience: theſe lackings in their faith were partly ſupplyed by Timothy his ſending unto them; and partly by the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle: and it is very probable, that what he prayed for ſo earneſtly day and night, God granted unto him, a proſperous journey to the Theſſalonians, that he might water where before he had planted; and finiſh the building where he had ſo happily laid the foundation.

V. 11. direct] Or, guide.

V. 13. ſtabliſh your hearts] See 1 Cor.1.8. chap. 5.23.

unblameable] See 1 Cor.1.8.

holineſs] Gr. Tec. righteouſneſs.

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. BEſeech you] Or, requeſt.

exhort you] Or, beſeech.

by the Lord Jeſus] Gr, in. That is, by the command of the Lord Jeſus: or, in the Lord Jeſus, that is, in the Name of the Lord Jeſus.

V. 3. the will of God] He meaneth the object of Gods will; or his commandment, which is, that we endeavour to keep our ſelves holy, both in body and ſoul; and carefully ſhun all pollution both of fleſh and ſpirit, 2 Cor.7.1.

your ſanctification] Or, holineſs. The word in the Original ἁγιασμὸς, ſignifieth ſometimes ſanctification, as Matth. 6. 9. 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. Sometimes ſanctimonie, or holineſſe, as Rom. 6. 19. It may be taken here in either ſenſe: for if we refer it to the former words, the meaning is, This is Gods revealed will, or word which ſanctifieth you, as Joh.17.17. if it be referd to the latter words, it may be well rendred your holineſſe: for abſtaining from all filthineſſe, is a great part of our holineſs.

from fornication] He taketh here fornication generally for all uncleanneſs committed alone, or with others, men, or women, ſingle or married: as alſo all inceſtuous marriages within the degrees prohibited, 1 Cor. 5. 1.

V. 4. poſſeſs his veſſel] Or, keep. Some of the ancients, as S. Auguſtine l. de nupt. c. 8. underſtand our wife,or the body of our wife; applying this exhortation peculiarly to married folks, that they keep their bed undefiled, and that they wrong not one another in that kind. For though ſuch defrauding and wrong be done never ſo ſecretly; yet God, to whoſe eyes all things are naked,taketh notice thereof. But by the antecedents and conſequents, and ſcope of the place, it ſhould ſeem that the exhortation is general; and that by Veſſel, here he underſtandeth the body of every man, or woman, which is σκεῦος, as a veſſel, or utenſil of the ſoul, which we ought not to proſtitute to any manner of uncleanneſs, but uſe and govern it holily and chaſtly; keep it in honour, and in holineſs, as the veſſels were kept clean and ſweet, which were dedicated to the ſervice of the Sanctuary.

V. 5. luſt of concupiſcence] Gr. paſſion. In the Original it is ἐν πάθει ἐπιθυμίας, which ſignifieth a paſſion or diſeaſe of the minde, whereby a man is inſlaved to beaſtly and inordinate deſires; ſo the word is uſed, Rom. 1. 26. πάθη ἀτιμίας.

V. 6. and defraud] Or, over-paſs, or, over-reach. Either by falſe weights or meaſures, or lying words, or fraudulent intentions, or over-reaching policies and devices: for though theſe things come not, at leaſt uſually, within the walk of mans juſtice, yet God will meet with ſuch perſons, and revenge all ſuch wrongs done to our brethren.

in any matter] Or, in the matter.

V. 7. unto holineſs] Gr. in.

V. 8. that deſpiſeth] Or, rejecteth. Theſe wholeſome and Apoſtolical counſels and commands; or he that maketh light of ſuch fraudulent dealing above mentioned, ſlighteth God himſelf, and rejecteth his holy commands.

V. 9. taught of God] See Joh.13.34.& 15.12.

V. 11. do your own buſineſs] In theſe words he reproveth two vices; idleneſs and curioſity; idleneſs,in neglecting their own buſineſs; and curioſity, in intermedling with other mens affairs, which vice he reproveth alſo elſe-where, 1 Tim.5.13.

V. 12. walk honeſtly] Or, decently. See Col.4.5.

of nothing] Or, of no man.

V. 13. which are aſleep] Act.7.60. 1 Cor.15.20.

ſorrow not] He forbiddeth not Chriſtian ſorrow for the dead, but heatheniſh; not moderate, but exceſſive,and immoderate; either in reſpect of time,or the meaſure of our grief: we may water our plants for our deceaſed friends,but not drown them.

no hope] To wit, of the reſurrection of the dead: ſuppoſing that their departed friends are utterly loſt, and periſhed,and they ſhall never ſee them again.

V. 14. them alſo which,&c.] See 1 Cor.15.23.

ſleep in Jeſus] The dead in Chriſt who continue in faith, whereby they are graffed into Chriſt even to the laſt gaſpe.

God bring with him] He will raiſe their bodies,and joyn their ſouls unto them,and ſo bring them with him to heaven; or to ſee the face of God. And it is to be obſerved, that the Apoſtle here ſpeaking of the reſurrection, maketh no mention at all of the reſurrection of the wicked to condemnation; but onely of the reſurrection of the elect to life and glory: and the reaſon hereof is two-fold: Firſt, becauſe his purpoſe was in this part of his Epiſtle to comfort the Theſſalonians, verſ. 18. whereas the doctrine of the raiſing of the wicked to their condemnation and everlaſting puniſhment, is a doctrine of terrour. Secondly, becauſe he directeth his ſpeech here to them who lived and dyed in the faith of Chriſt; who as members of Chriſt ſhall be raiſed with him to everlaſting glory, and never experimentally know any reſurrection to condemnation.

V. 15. by] Gr. in.

word of the Lord] Some underſtand this word of the Lord to be the Promiſe of Chriſt,Mat.24.31. & Joh.5.28,29. Some take it for a peculiar revelation of Chriſt to S.Paul, when he was rapt up into the third heaven, 2 Cor.12.4.

alive and remain] In theſe words the Apoſtle doth not imply that he and thoſe to whom he wrote, ſhould continue living in the fleſh until the day of judgement; for the event ſhewed the contrary: but dividing all the faithful into two ranks, thoſe that were already dead,and the reſt which were yet living; he reckoneth himſelf among the living,as then he was, and the ſecret he revealeth unto them is this, That the dead which have long lyen in their graves, and their bones reſolved to duſt, ſhall notwithſtanding by the mighty power of God, be aſſoon brought before Chriſt,and glorified,as they that ſhall be alive at his ſecond coming, 1 Cor.15.51,52. Or he ſpeaketh of theſe things as though he ſhould be one of them,whom the Lord ſhall find alive at his coming,becauſe that time is uncertain,and therefore every one of us ought to be in ſuch a readineſs as if the Lord were coming at every moment.

V. 16. with a ſhout] Gr. in. ἐν κελεύσματι. The word doth properly ſignifie ſuch voyces and cries, as are uſed by Mariners, or gatherers of the vintage,to encourage one another to joyn their ſtrength together,and go on cheerfully with their work.

with the voyce] Gr. in.

voyce of the arch-angel] Or, an. See 1 Cor.15.52.

with] Gr. in.

the trump of God] See 1 Cor.15.52.

V. 17. in the clouds] Theſe clouds ſhall ſerve as chariots in which the Saints ſhall be carried up into the ayre,as it is ſaid of Elias,2 Kin. 2.11. and of Chriſt, Act.1.9.

V. 18. comfort] Or, exhort.

with] Gr. in.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. TImes and ſeaſons] For the year, moneth,day, or hour,in which the Son of man ſhall come to Judgment, as it is curioſity for you to enquire,ſo it is not given to any man or Angel to reſolve you therein; or preciſely determine the times and ſeaſons which the Father hath put in his own power, Mat.24.36. Mar.13.32. Act.1.7.

V. 2. the day of the Lord, &c.] See Mat. 24.43, 44. 2 Pet. 3. 10. Rev. 3.3. and 6.15.

theef in the night] It cannot be from hence gathered, that Chriſts coming ſhall be in the night, as ſome have imagined: but that his coming ſhall be ſudden, and unexpected; it ſhall ſteal upon men when they dream not of it, Luke 12.39,40.

V. 3. Peace and ſafety] General ſecurity is a fore-runner of the day of Judgement, Luke 17.27. when the light of the truth is taken away; when the heart of the good man of the houſe is at reſt, and his eyes are darkened that he cannot ſee, and all his ſenſes are drowned in worldly pleaſures: when the world like Laiſh, (Judg. 18. 7.) is moſt ſecure and cares for nothing, or thinks of nothing; then will the Son of man come to Judgement, then ſhall deſtruction ſuddenly fall upon them.

a woman with child] Women that are with child, though they may have certain ſignes, that the time of their delivery is neer, yet they cannot know the very day and hour: ſo likewiſe though Chriſt in the Goſpel hath given us many certain ſignes of the approach of his coming, yet not of the day or hour.

V. 5. children of the day] See Rom. 13.12.

V. 6. let us not ſleep] Returning to exhortation, he warneth us which are enlightned with the knowledge of God, that it is our duty not to live ſecurely and deliciouſly, leſt we be ſuddenly taken in a dead ſleep in pleaſures; but on the contrary, wiſely to have an eye to the Lord, and to take care that our hearts be not oppreſſed with ſurfetting and drunkenneſſe, and the cares of this life, and that day come upon us at unawares, Luk. 21.34.

others] Gr. the reſt.

V. 8 putting on, &c.] See Iſa. 59.17. Ephe. 6.16, 17.

V. 9. to obtain ſalvation] Gr. for purchaſing ſalvation.

V. 11. comfort] Or, exhort.

and edifie one another] See 1 Cor. 14.3. Col. 3.16.

V. 12. to know them] Or, take notice of them. See Heb. 13.17.

over you in the Lord] The Elders that rule well, and labour in the Word, 1 Tim. 5.17. In the Lord, that is, in the fear of the Lord: or as ſet over you in thoſe things which pertain to Gods ſervice, (Heb. 13.7,17.) ſo is the Eccleſiaſtical function diſtinguiſhed from civil authority.

admoniſh you] Or, inſtruct.

V. 13. very highly] Gr. over and above.

for their works ſake] He calleth the paſtoral function here, as 1 Tim. 3.1. a work κατ᾽ ἐξοχὴν, partly to ſignifie that it is a moſt laborious function; for faithful paſtours like lamps ſpend the oyl of their lives to give light to their flock: partly in reſpect of the excellency of their work, wherein they are fellow-labourers with God to bring men unto ſalvation, 1 Cor. 3.9.

V. 14. exhort] Or, beſeech.

warn them that are unruly] Or, diſorderly. We muſt have conſideration of every mans condition, and affection; and as the diſeaſe is, ſo muſt the remedy be uſed of admonition to them that are diſorderly; conſolation to them whoſe hearts ſinks under the burden of their croſſes; of ſupport to weak conſciences, and of meek patience towards all who are diſeaſed in minde, and troubled with any ſpiritual malady.

V. 15. See that none, &c.] See Prov. 17.13. and 20.22. Matth. 5.44. Rom. 12.17. 1 Pet. 3.19.

V. 16. Rejoice evermore] Carnal joyes are but like a blaze of a fire nouriſhed with ſtubble, which ſoon goes out: they who rejoice in their goods, in their children, in their peace, and worldly ſafety, in their honour and preferments, (Eccl. 7. 6.) or their deſcent of their pedegree, their joy is tranſitory: but thoſe who rejoyce in the holy Ghoſt, and the comforts of the Spirit, their joy is everlaſting. Wherefore though ye finde many troubles in the world and cauſes of grief, (Phil. 4.4.) yet ſtill rejoice in the Lord, and comfort your ſelves with the hope of a better life: and even when you ſorrow and mourn for your ſins, rejoice in this, that you ſorrow after a godly manner, and that the more abundantly you ſow in tears, the more plentifully you ſhall reap in joy.

V. 17. Pray without ceaſing] See Luke 18.1. Col. 4.2. Be inſtant and conſtant in prayer, becauſe we ſtand in continual need of Gods help, either to give us ſomething that is good, or to deliver us from that which is evil. The Apoſtle biddeth us pray continually, Col. 4. 2. not that we ſhould ſpend all our time in prayer, and do nothing elſe, as the Euchites and the Meſſalians taught, but that we ſhould be ready to pray upon all occaſions; and whenſoever we have opportunity to lift up our hearts to God, either in ſet and compoſed prayers, or ſudden and heavenly ejaculations.

V. 18. In every thing give thanks] Whatſoever God ſends receive it thankfully; in proſperity give thanks unto him, becauſe he crowneth you with temporal mercies; in adverſity, becauſe he thereby trieth your faith and patience, and gives you a ſight and ſenſe of your ſins; in wealth, becauſe he affordeth you thereby means of doing much good; in want, becauſe he taketh away from you many nouriſhments of vice, and teacheth you to depend upon him and his promiſes for your ſupply and ſupport, and not upon outward means and helps: in all the paſſages of your life, for his care and providence over you; and at your death, for his delivering you from the miſeries of this life, and preſently receiving you into his heavenly kingdome.

for this is the will of God] A thing acceptable unto God, ſuch as he liketh well of, 1 Theſ. 4.3. Rom. 12.2.

V. 19. Quench not the Spirit] Stop not the motions of the Spirit in your ſelves, nor reſtrain the gifts thereof in others. The ſpeech is Metaphorical, taken from the fire of the Altar, which never was to go out. The Spirit is compared to a fire both in reſpect of the light that it giveth to the underſtanding, and the heat and fervour to our affections. When we feel this fire within us, either in our private meditations, or at the hearing of the Word, we muſt endeavour to keep it ſtill burning, and if it ſlack in us, we muſt ἀναζωπυρεῖν, ſtirre it up in us, 2 Tim. 1.6. by ſuch means as God hath ordained for that end.

V. 20. Deſpiſe not propheſyings] Contemn not the preaching of the Word, how mean ſoever the Preachers gifts ſeem unto thee, ſet not light by the declarations and applications of the Scriptures, either by ſuch as have the Extraordinary gift of propheſying, 1 Cor. 14. 1,5. Or by the ordinary gift which the Miniſters of the Goſpel receive by impoſition of hands, 2 Tim. 1.6. In this prohibition the Apoſtle meeteth with thoſe, who thought themſelves wiſe enough of themſelves, and that they had no need of any ſuch help, Heb. 10. 25. 2 Pet. 1.19.

V. 33. whole Spirit and ſoul] Either he taketh the ſpirit for the underſtanding, and the ſoul for the will and affections: or the ſpirit for the rational part of the ſoul, containing in it both the underſtanding and the will; and by the ſoul the ſenſitive and locomotive faculty.

unto] Gr. in.

V. 26. with] Gr. in.

V. 27. charge] Or, adjure.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

To the THESSALONIANS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

The Apoſtle being hindered from coming to the Theſſalonians, according to his deſire and promiſe, to ſupply the want of his preſence, writeth this Epiſtle to them; wherein he comforteth them in their afflictions, eſpecially by arguments drawn from the righteous judgement of God, and the certain expectation of his ſecond coming; the ſigns whereof he foretelleth, and with divers godly precepts, both to flye the company of diſorderly perſons, and to give him notice of ſuch, to exerciſe his Apoſtolical power upon them, with prayers and ſalutations, he concludeth his Epiſtle.

The parts whereof are three, anſwerable to the Chapters;

1. Pathetical, expreſſing great love to the Theſſalonians, and joy for their faith and perſeverance, chap. 1.

2. Prophetical, deſcribing the ſtate of the Church, and the Revelation of Antichriſt, the man of ſin, before the day of the Lord come, chap. 2.

4. Parenetical, perſwading them by his example to labour in their Callings, and to ſhun idleneſſe, as alſo to avoid and cenſure thoſe who ſhewed themſelves refractory to his Godly and wholeſome admonitions, chap. 3.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. IN God our Father] As God is in his Church by his ſpecial grace, ſo the Church alſo is in God by his power ſupporting it, as the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, Acts 17.28. In whom we live. Or the meaning is, which by faith relyeth on God our Father; or which is gathered by God our Father, ἐν being often taken for διά.

V. 3. We are bound, &c. See 1 Theſ. 1.2,3.

your faith groweth exceedingly] There is no ſurer argument of the ſincerity of our faith and charity, than the growth of both, and our proficiency in Chriſtianity: we may not ſtand at a ſtay, but go on forward in our holy race. In particular, our faith groweth, and is encreaſed either in regard of the object, when we apprehend more profound myſteries of faith than before; or in regard of the ſubject, when we are more confirmed in thoſe myſteries we apprehended before, and give a more full aſſent thereunto, without any ſtaggering or doubting. Our charity encreaſeth either intenſively, by a greater fervour of our affection to God and our brethren; or extenſively, by doing good to more, and more and more abounding in works of mercy.

V. 4. faith in all your perſecutions] Your confidence in God, that he will enable you to bear them, and graciouſly reward you who ſuffer for his Names ſake.

V. 5. a manifeſt token] He openeth here the fountain of all true comfort, to wit, that in afflictions which we ſuffer of the wicked for righteouſneſſe ſake, we may behold, as it were in a glaſſe, the teſtimony of that judgement to come, and the iſſue thereof, which will be moſt acceptable, and deſirable unto us, but moſt dreadful to Gods enemies.

counted worthy] He ſaith not, that we may be worthy, for the ſufferings of this preſent time are not worthy the glory which ſhall be revealed, Rom. 8.18. but we ſhall be by God in his great mercy accounted worthy, and that for Chriſts ſake, in whoſe quarrel we ſuffer, Digni dignatione Dei, non dignitate noſtrâ.

for which ye alſo ſuffer] This he ſaith, not that the faithful conceive, that they merited this kingdome by their ſufferings, but becauſe they knew that they ſhould never attain it, unleſſe they patiently ſubmitted to Gods good pleaſure, and willingly endured all ſorts of perſecution for the teſtimony of a good conſcience. For we muſt, through many tribulations, enter into the Kingdome of God, Acts 14.22.

V. 6. righteous thing with God] It is moſt agreeable to juſtice, that wicked perſecutors ſhould not go unpuniſhed, but receive according to their works; and it is juſt alſo, that they who have unjuſtly ſuffered of the wicked in this world, ſhould be righted in another world, and greatly rewarded by God; partly becauſe they ſuffer for his cauſe, partly becauſe he hath promiſed them ſuch a reward, Matth. 5.10,12.

tribulation] Gr. affliction.

trouble] Gr. afflict.

V. 7. troubled] Gr. afflicted.

when the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from] Gr. in the revelation of the Lord Jeſus from. See 1 Theſ. 4.16.

his mighty angels] Gr. the angels of his power.

V. 8. taking] Or, yeelding.

know not God] Which know not God in Chriſt: for there is no knowledge of God unto ſalvation without the Goſpel of Chriſt. Moſt fearful therefore is the caſe of all Infidels, who are utterly ignorant of, or wilfully reject the Goſpel; as alſo of all ſuch Chriſtians in name, who have received the knowledge of the Goſpel, but yeeld not obedience thereunto: for though they deny not Chriſt in their words, yet they deny him in their works, Tit. 1. 16.

V. 9. everlaſting deſtruction] Not onely the fire of hell is everlaſting, as the Origeniſts themſelves confeſſed, being convinced by the expreſſe words of our Saviour, Matth. 25. 41. but the damned ſhall be everlaſtingly tormented in it, Jude 7. Rev. 14. 10.

from the preſence of the Lord] The puniſhment of the damned is two-fold, the puniſhment of ſenſe, ſet forth by flaming fire; the puniſhment of loſſe expreſſed in theſe words, From the preſence of the Lord, and the glory of his power.

V. 10. glorified in his Saints] Not onely in himſelf, but in his Saints alſo, whoſe glory, as it cometh from him, ſo it redoundeth alſo to him, Rom. 11.36.

admired in all them] When the world ſhall ſee them, who are accounted the off-ſcourings of all things in the world, then ſhine as ſtarres for evermore, in whoſe brightneſſe and conformity to the glorious body of Chriſt, his infinite goodneſs and mercy ſhall be then admired of all.

V. 11. count] Or, vouchſafe.

of this calling] By calling, he meaneth not the very act of calling, but that whereunto they are called, to wit, the glory of that heavenly Kingdome, ſo is the word taken, Eph. 4.4. Phil. 3.14.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. BY the coming of our Lord] A kinde of religious adjuration; the meaning whereof is, As truly as you look for the coming of the Lord, or, I beſeech you, by that dear account that ye make of the coming of our Lord, and of that glory which we ſhall enjoy by, and in him. So the Prepoſition ὑπὲρ, is uſed by the Poet, Il. μ. ὑπὲρ πατέρος ϗ μητέρος ἠυκόμοιο λίσσω.

V. 2. ſhaken in minde] Gr. moved from our minde. The word σαλευθῆναι, properly ſignifieth to be toſſed in the ſea with a tempeſt: and his meaning is, that they ſhould not be tranſported by any violent blaſt of falſe doctrine from the truth of the Goſpel, or from their right ſenſe and judgement.

neither by ſpirit] We muſt take heed of falſe Prophets, who go about to deceive for the moſt part after three ſorts; for either they brag of feigned viſions, and prophetical revelations, or by conjectures and ſophiſtical reaſons of their own, or they uſe counterfeit Writings; with which three the Apoſtle meeteth in this verſe; the firſt he taxeth in the firſt, by ſpirit; the ſecond in the next, by word, the third in the laſt, by letter, as it were, from us. (Although ſome conceive, and not improbably, that the falſe apoſtles forged not any letter of the Apoſtle, but falſly gloſſed upon ſome paſſages in the former Epiſtle to the Theſſalonians, from thence inferring erroneouſly, that the Apoſtle ſhould intimate, that the day of judgement was then at hand.)

V. 3. falling away firſt] Some underſtand by the word Ἀποστασία, a falling away of many Kingdomes from the Roman Empire; but the word Apoſtaſie in the New Teſtament, is taken for a falling away from the truth of doctrine, and the purity of the Goſpel: and ſuch a kind of general and univerſal revolt, and defection from true faith, love, and obedience to the Goſpel of Chriſt, is foretold to come to paſſe in the latter days, by the Apoſtle, 1 Tim. 4.1.

man of ſin] An Hebraiſme, ſignifying, a man notoriouſly ſinfull, and a loſt ſon, or a ſon of perdition, ſuch an one as Judas is termed, John 17.12.

V. 4. exalteth himſelf above] Not only above all that are called gods, that is, Kings and Princes, to whom that ſtyle is given; but alſo above the true God, croſſing and contradicting his Word and Ordinance, and oppoſing Chriſt and his doctrine, and Offices; whence he hath his name Antichriſt, although he ſhall pretend nothing leſſe; therefore alſo two horns are attributed to him, like the horns of the Lamb, Rev. 13.11.

is worſhipped] ἢ σέβασμα, the Greek word doth ſignifie that which is held in the higheſt degree of reverence, whether religious or civil, as is the Majeſty of Kings.

he as God] He ſhall be honoured with the honour that is due unto God, he ſhall be carried upon the ſhoulders of men, and waited upon by Kings and Princes; he ſhall take to himſelf the ſupreme Authority and Prerogative which appertains to God, and not ſtick at the very Title of God, and be adored upon the Altar at his conſecration. See Concil. Later. ſeſ. 4. Tu es alter Deus in terra: and Extravag. Jo. 22. in gloſ. Dominus Deus noſter Papa.

ſitteth in the Temple of God] That is, reigneth and domineereth. In the phraſe the Apoſtle alludeth to Ezek. 28.2. By the Temple of God, he meaneth the aſſembly of men, which ſometimes were the ſpiritual Temple of God; that is, his undoubted true Church, and ſtill beareth that title. Saint Auguſtine and others interpret εἰς τὸν ναὸν, not in the Temple of God, but againſt the Temple of God; and they conceive hereby to be meant, that antichriſt ſhall riſe up againſt the Church of God. Both ways it may be applyed to the antichriſt of Rome.

V. 6. what withholdeth] Or, holdeth. That which now did hinder and keep him back yet at preſent, until the time prefixed by God. This (by the judgement of Tertullian, Hierome, and Chryſoſtome, and other ancient Doctors of the Church) was the Romane Empire, which ſubſiſting and flouriſhing then, withheld the manifeſtation of antichriſt, who ſhall riſe upon the ruines of that Empire, Rev. 13. 1, 11. & 17.9,10,11.

V. 7. myſtery of iniquity] The word myſtery was written on the Popes Miter. See Caſaub. not. in Teſt. Nov. there the myſtery of iniquity is oppoſed to the myſtery of godlineſs, 1 Tim 3.16. and it ſignifieth the ſecret riſing of antichriſtian dominion, whereof ſome foundations were ſecretly laid in the Apoſtles times by Satan and his inſtruments, who by deſire of preheminency in the Church, 3 John 9, 10. and by introducing of falſe and ſuperſtitious doctrine, began to build his Romiſh Babel.

V. 8. that wicked] In the Greek ἄνομος properly ſignifieth a lawleſs man, he that holdeth himſelf ſubject to no law; and this title well befitteth him, who in the Canon Law is ſaid to be ſolutus omni lege humanâ; and again, nec totus clerus, nec totus mundus poteſt Papam judicare, aut deponere; and that if he fall into damnable errour, and draw thouſands of ſouls after him to perdition, no man may here ſay, Why doth he ſo? Diſt. 40.

ſhall conſume] The word ἀναλώσει, doth properly ſignifie to waſte and conſume by little and little, till a thing come to nothing; ſo ſhall Chriſt conſume antichriſt by little and little, in his own time, and make him loſe his power and authority by degrees, in Chriſtendome.

with the ſpirit of his mouth] See Eſa. 11. 4. Hoſea 6. 5. Revel. 2. 16. By the pure preaching of his Goſpel, whereby the Spirit of the Lord is powerful in the hearts of men, Eſa. 11. 4. Heb. 4. 12. for the Miniſters of the Word are as a mouth, whereby the Lord breatheth out that mighty and everlaſting Word, which ſhall bruiſe his enemies, and break them in ſunder like a rod of iron.

deſtroy] Or, bring to nought.

brightneſſe of his coming] At the day of judgement, for then he ſhall come in flaming fire, 2 Theſ. 1. 8. and then ſhall the beaſt, and falſe prophet be put to death, and caſt into the lake of fire, Rev. 19. 20.

V. 19. with] Gr. in.

lying wonders] Gr. of lie, or, falſhood. Either falſe and counterfeit ſigns and wonders, or true ſignes and wonders, miranda non miracula, wrought by the power of Satan, to confirm erroneous doctrines and lies, and to maintain his ſervants in their reputation, and purblinde men in their falſe conceits and ſuperſtitions: ſuch are Popiſh miracles (falſely ſo called) being either lying prodigies, or prodigious lies.

V. 10. with] Gr. in.

V. 11. ſhall] Gr. Tec. doth.

ſend them ſtrong deluſion] God, by withholding his grace, ſhall blinde their eyes, who wilfully ſhut them againſt the truth; or for their obdurate malice and incredulity, ſhall give them over to Satan, to captivate their mindes and underſtandings, and powerfully ſeduce and deceive them, 1 Kings 22. 22. Job 12. 26. Eſa. 19. 14. Ezek. 14. 9. Rom. 1. 24, 28. 2 Cor. 4. 4.

beleeve a lie] Forged and falſe doctrines.

V. 12. damned] Gr. judged.

pleaſure in unrighteouſneſſe] That is, in lies, as appears by the oppoſition to truth; and moſt juſtly are they condemned, who liked lies ſo well, that they had pleaſure in them; which is the greateſt madneſſe that may be.

V. 13. through] Gr. in.

ſanctification of the ſpirit] Either through the ſanctification of your ſpirit, your hearts being purified by faith; or, through ſanctification wrought in you by the Spirit of God and beleef of the truth] Faith which layeth hold, not upon lies, but upon the truth of God, which is the Goſpel.

V. 15. hold the traditions] The doctrines, precepts, or inſtructions, which we delivered unto you, either by word of mouth, when I was preſent with you, or by my letters in my abſence; to both yeeld like credence and obedience.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. P*Ray for us*] See Epheſ. 6. 19. Col. 4. 3.

may have free courſe] Gr. may run.

and be glorified] As the Word of the Lord is diſhonoured and condemned when it is either not beleeved, or not obeyed; ſo it is glorified, and God by it, when it is mixed with faith and obedience in the hearers, Heb. 4. 2.

V. 2. unreaſonable and wicked men] Gr. abſurd. Froward and perverſe men, both falſe hypocrites which cloſely undermine the Goſpel, and thoſe publike oppoſers of the truth, which perſecute us for the profeſſing of it.

for all men have not faith] Greek, faith is not of all men. It is no marvel that the Goſpel is oppoſed and hated by ſo many, ſeeing that faith is a rare gift of God; notwithſtanding the Church ſhall never be deſtroyed by the multitude of the wicked, becauſe it is founded upon the faithful promiſe of God, Mat. 16. 18.

from evil] Or, that evil one. Either from the Devil, that wicked one, his ſnares and temptations, or from any evil thing that may hurt you.

V. 5. Into the love] Or, to the love.

the patient waiting of Chriſt] Or, the patience of Chriſt.

V. 6. In the Name of the Lord] In Chriſt his behalf.

withdraw your ſelves] Have no familiar communion with ſuch, after due knowledge is taken of them by the Church, and they, being admoniſhed, remain diſobedient ſtill. Mat. 18. 15, 17. 1 Cor. 5. 11.

walketh diſorderly] This may be taken, either in general for all kinde of evil carriage and misbehaviour, whereby ſcandall is given to the Church of God; or of that particular diſorder, whereof he maketh mention verſe 11. of thoſe who attend not on their own calling, but curiouſly enquire into the lives and manners of others, and thruſt their Sickle into anothers harveſt.

V. 7. follow] Gr. imitate.

V. 8. for nought] That is, not paying for it, though if he had not paid for it, he had not received it for nought, for the labourer, as our Saviour teacheth, Mat. 10. 10. is worthy of his hire: and they who miniſter carnal things for ſpiritual, miniſter not for nought, but make a gainful exchange. Yet the Apoſtle, to give a good example of painfulneſſe to others; beſides his labours in his Miniſterial function, for which he might have required due maintenance from the Theſſalonians, took pains day and night at his profeſſion, which was Tent-making, thereby to ſupply his wants, and ſpare the Churches, Acts 18. 3. chargeable to any of you] The Greek word ſignifieth burdenſome; not that indeed the affording comfortable maintenance to their faithful Paſtours, is, or ought to be accounted a burden to their flocks; but becauſe moſt men, who are worldly minded, eſteem it ſo.

V. 10. that if any would not work] He ſaith not, If any do not work, for ſome would work if they could get any employment; ſome are not able to work, through age and natural infirmity; yet God forbid that either of theſe ſhould ſtarve for want of food: but the Apoſtle forbiddeth any ſuch to be releeved by the charity of the Church, who are in want through their own idleneſſe, who may have work, and are able to perform it, but will not take any pains for their Living.

V. 11. buſie-bodies] There are none more buſie in other mens matters, than they who neglect their own, 1 Pet. 4. 15.

V. 12. eat their own bread] The bread which they earn by their labour, and not that which is given them of alms.

V. 13. be not weary in well-doing] Or, faint. See Gal. 6. 9. Take heed that ſome mens unworthineſſe cauſe not you to be ſlack in well-doing.

V. 14. By this Epiſtle, note that man] Or, ſignifie that man by an Epiſtle. Set a brand upon him, as Rom. 16. 17. Mark thoſe which cauſe diviſions and offences contrary to the doctrine which you have learned. Or, give me notice of him by letter, that I may take ſome courſe with him.

V. 15. as an enemy] We muſt ſo eſchew familiarity with excommunicated perſons, that we diligently ſeek all occaſions and means that may be, to bring them again to the right way.

admoniſh] Or, inſtruct.

V. 16. Lord of peace] Prayers are the ſeals of all exhortations, wherewith the Apoſtle concludes all his Epiſtles.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THe Apoſtle in the former Epiſtles, propounded general Doctrines and inſtructions to all Chriſtians, both concerning Faith and Manners: But in theſe enſuing Epiſtles to Timothy and Titus, he delivereth peculiar precepts to the Miniſters of the Goſpel, as well thoſe who are in place of Authority, as Timothy and Titus, as inferiour Paſtours, Presbyters, and Deacons: And though he had other fellow-Labourers, as Silas,and Luke, and Mark and Tychicus: Yet he writeth to theſe two onely, becauſe the other were for the moſt part with him: But theſe were appointed by him to govern thoſe Churches in which he had laid the Foundations of Chriſtianity.

The parts of this Epiſtle are anſwerable to the eminent Parts and Gifts of the Authour, who was both an Apoſtle, and a Prophet, and a Paſtour of the Church.

1. As an Apoſtle he preſcribeth Canons concerning publike prayer, and the habit and carriage of Women in the Church, chap. 2. Concerning the Office of Biſhops, and Deacons, chap. 3. Concerning the cenſuring and reproof of all Degrees, the Ordination and maintenance of Elders, choice and proviſion for Widows, chap. 5. Concerning the duty of ſervants, and particular charge of the rich, chap. 6.

2. As a Prophet he foretelleth the Apoſtacy of many in latter times, whoſe deviliſh doctrine he relates, and confutes, chap. 4.

3. As a Paſtour;

    1. He inſtructeth Timothy in the right end and uſe of the Law, and the main ſcope alſo of the Goſpel, chap. 1. As alſo in the Doctrine of the Church, and the bleſſed Truth, therein taught and profeſſed, chap. 3. And of the lawful uſe of all Creatures taken with thankſgiving. chap. 4.
    2. He exhorteth him to proficiency in his Miniſterial Function, chap. 5. To conſtancy in his Profeſſion, obſervance of his Precepts, eſpecially, That he eſchew all vain bablings, and diſputes of Sophiſtry, and continue in the ſimplicity of ſincere Doctrine, chap. 6.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. BY the commandement] Gr. according to the commandement.

our hope] Hope is here taken for the cheef object of our hope, which is Chriſt, by whoſe merits we hope to obtain remiſſion of our ſins, and eternal life.

V. 2. own ſon] He calleth him his own ſon in the faith, either becauſe he was a means and inſtrument whereby Chriſt was perfectly formed in Timothy; or becauſe he ſerved him as a ſon doth his father, viz. in the Miniſtery; or becauſe he reſembled the Apoſtle both in his preaching, and in his life, as a natural ſon is like his father.

grace, mercy, and peace] Grace is the fountain from whence mercy and peace flow; for the free good-will of God, whereby he hath choſen us in Chriſt, procureth us mercy in the forgiveneſſe of ſins, and by the apprehenſion of this mercy we have peace of conſcience.

V. 3. at Epheſus] Gr. in Epheſus.

teach no other doctrine] The cheef Paſtours of the Church, who were endued with Apoſtolical authority, as was Timothy, were to forbid any to preach, not onely doctrine that was contrary, but that which was beſide that which the faithful have received from the Apoſtles, Gal. 1.8,9.

V. 4. Neither give heed to fables] See chap. 4.7. and 6.4. 2 Tim. 2.23. Tit. 1.14. and 3.9. The doctrine of faith is corrupted, not only by falſe opinions, but alſo by vain and curious ſpeculations, which no way tend to godly edifying.

and endleſſe] He calleth them endleſſe, not becauſe in the Genealogies there was no end, neither upwards, nor downwards; but becauſe thoſe of the Jews, who embraced Chriſtian religion, were ſo addicted to theſe Genealogies, that they might have a pretence of claiming kindred of Chriſt, that they made no end of drawing down their lines of deſcent from David, or from Abraham: or becauſe the queſtions moved concerning Genealogies, by reaſon of the ſlender proof and ground they had for them, could receive no determination or end.

miniſter] Gr. exhibit, or, yeeld.

V. 5. Now] Or, but.

end of the Commandment] That is, the perfection and complement of the Law, Rom. 13.8. Or the main ſcope and drift of the Commandments of God, both in the Law and Goſpel.

charity, out of a pure heart] There is neither love without a good conſcience, nor a good conſcience without faith, nor faith without the Word of God.

V. 6. having ſwerved] Or, not aiming at.

V. 7. whereof they affirm] Or, concerning what things they undertake to make good, or confirm.

V. 8. if a man uſe it lawfully] Gr. Tec. ſhall uſe. The Law is given to excellent purpoſe, if we make ſuch uſe of it as we ought, not ſeeking to be juſtified by the obſervation thereof, but to be directed by it in our obedience, as a perfect rule of life, and to be brought by it to Chriſt, Gal. 3.24.

V. 9. righteous man] The Law is not made for the coertion, reſtraint, condemnation, or puniſhment of the righteous, but of lawleſſe and diſorderly perſons.

for ſinners] Such as make ſin all their employment and occupation, ſuch as goe on in their ſinnes with pleaſure and delight.

murderers of fathers] He ſetteth down ſome of the moſt enormous ſins, not as if the Law did not condemn as well all the reſt, to the very leaſt; but only to convince thoſe hypocritical zealots of the Law, who were themſelves obnoxious to horrible vices; ſuch as they are, which the Apoſtle inſtanceth in.

V. 10. men-ſtealers] Or, making ſlaves of men.

ſound doctrine] Or, wholeſome. That is, not tainted with hereſie. Or, wholeſome, that is, which brings health to the ſoul.

V. 11. glorious Goſpel] Gr. Goſpel of glory.

V. 13. injurious] Or, wrong-doer; or, contumelious traducer.

V. 15. a faithful ſaying] πιστὸς, that is, ἀξιόπιστος, a firm truth, a ſure foundation, upon which we may build our beleef.

Chriſt Jeſus came into the world, &c.] See Matth. 9.13. Mark 2.17.

I am cheef] Though Saint Paul were now a convert, and a Saint, yet he ranketh himſelf among the greateſt ſinners, in regard of his former life which had been ſtained with the foul ſins of blaſphemy againſt Chriſt, and perſecution of the profeſſors of the Goſpel unto death.

V. 17. eternal] Gr. of ages, or, worlds.

for ever and ever] Gr. to worlds of worlds, or, ages of ages.

V. 18. by them] Gr. in them.

warre a good warfare] A good warfare; as a Chriſtian, againſt the world, the fleſh, and the devil; as a faithful Miniſter of the Goſpel, againſt all falſe apoſtles, and corrupters of the true faith, 2 Tim. 4.7.

V. 19. Holding faith] That is, the profeſſion or doctrine of the true faith, as appears by the oppoſition to the blaſphemings of Hymeneus, and Alexander.

good conſcience] An upright conſcience, that directeth a man in all his doings to that whereof he hath been inſtructed out of the Word of God.

ſome having put away] Some whom God, for giving reins to a licentious courſe of life, againſt the dictates of their own conſcience, hath puniſhed, by taking away the light of his Spirit from them, that in the midſt of their courſe they ſhould loſe their moſt precious ſpiritual merchandiſe, and be drowned in errour and hereſie, after the manner of thoſe who in a ſea-tempeſt ſuffer ſhip-wrack.

V. 20. Hymeneus and Alexander] Some do hold this Alexander to be he of whom mention is made, Acts 19. 33. whereof there is no certainty; yet being joyned here with Hymeneus, it is moſt probable, that he was guilty of the ſame blaſphemous hereſie, for which Hymeneus is taxed, 2 Tim.2.18. viz. the denyal of the reſurrection of the dead.

whom I have delivered unto Satan] By Eccleſiaſtical excommunication; whereof ſee a further declaration upon 1 Cor.5. 5.

learn not to blaſpheme] That they may conſider themſelves better, and come to the acknowledgement of their errour, which is the end and ſcope of Eccleſiaſtical diſcipline: Or, if they did not retract their errours, they might do leſſe hurt to the Church, and by their puniſhment be a warning to other blaſphemers and ſeducers; for the Greek word παιδευθῶσι, ſignifieth, not onely to be taught, but to be chaſtened and corrected.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. EXhort] Or, deſire.

ſupplications, prayers] Either theſe words are Synonymaes, all ſignifying the publike devotions of the Church in her ſervice and Liturgy; or, they may be thus diſtinguiſhed: by δεήσεις, are meant ſuch prayers as we make in our neceſſities and diſtreſſes, to prevent and avoid evils that may befall us, or are come upon us; by προσευχὰς, ſuch prayers wherein we ſue for good things at Gods hands, namely, ſpiritual and temporal bleſſings; by ἐντεύξεις, ſuch prayers wherein we intreat for the good of others.

for all men] That is, all kindes of men, Jews, Gentiles, bond, free, faithful, infidels, friends, enemies, great men, and mean ones, publike and private; or, as the word is often taken in Scriptures, as Matth. 4. 23. πᾶσαν νόσον, all diſeaſes, that is, all ſorts of diſeaſes, Luke 11.42. πᾶν λάχανον, all manner of herbs.

V. 2. For Kings] He mentioneth Kings particularly, either becauſe the Kings and Magiſtrates were then enemies to the Church, and perſecutors of the ſaints of God, and ſome might peradventure make ſcruple whether they ought to pray for ſuch; the Apoſtle therefore reſolves, they ought; and yeelds a double reaſon for it, the former in this verſe, that through Gods bleſſing upon their government we may enjoy peace, (Jer. 29. 7.) The latter in the fourth verſe, becauſe God excludeth no ſorts or conditions of men from the means of ſalvation. Or, he nameth Kings in the firſt place, becauſe they are higheſt in dignity, and upon the good uſe of their power very much dependeth the ſafety of the Church and Common-wealth.

authority] Or, eminent place.

honeſty] Or, comelineſſe.

V. 4. all men to be ſaved] By as much as appeareth unto us by his will revealed in the Goſpel, he excluding none by name, neither nation nor condition whatſoever, Matth. 28. 19. Mark 16. 15. Or, all, may be taken, not pro ſingulis generum, but pro generibus ſingulorum. Verſ.1.

knowledge of the truth] That is, the doctrine of the Goſpel, as the word is taken, John 5.33. & 8.32. & 18.37.

V. 5. between] Gr. of.

the man Chriſt Jeſus] The Apoſtle doth not adde man to exclude the divine nature from his Mediatorſhip: for he is God revealed in the fleſh, 1 Tim.3.16. and God hath purchaſed his Church by his bloud, which through the eternal Spirit he offered without ſpot unto God, Heb.9.14. but to expreſſe that nature in which he paid the ranſome for us, mentioned in the verſe following; and to ſhew that our Mediatour being a man, all ſorts of men have by faith free aceſſe unto him, and his offering, Heb.2.10.

V. 6. a ranſome for all] All that do beleeve in him, Matth. 20. 28. John 3.16. and 10.15. and Rom.1.16. and 3. 22.

to be teſtified in due time] Or, a teſtimony. Gr. Tec. for all in due time. The word μαρτύριον, is left out in the Greek copy written by Tecla, and the ſenſe is full without it, Who gave himſelf a ranſom for all in due time; but if we retain the word becauſe moſt copies have it, the meaning is, That the ranſome he paid was a real teſtimony of his Mediatourſhip betwixt God and man, whereby he reconciled both. Or the meaning is, That though their ranſome were paid at one time, yet it is teſtified to ſeveral Nations καιροῖς ἰδίοις, at ſeveral ſeaſons appointed by God for their converſion.

V. 7. Wherunto] See 2 Tim.1.11.

ordained a preacher] Gr. Tec. truſted to be a preacher.

teacher of the Gentiles] See Gal.2.7,8.

V. 8. pray every where] Devotion is not now confined to one place as the ſolemn ſacrifice and ſervice was in the time of the law; but as occaſion is offered we are to pray every where, looking not ſo much to outward circumſtances, as to the inward devotion of the heart, lifting up our hands to God in holineſſe, charity, and faith.

V. 9. Women adorn themſelves, &c.] See 1 Pet.3.3.

broidered hair] Or, plaited. Women ought to deſire rather inward than outward ornaments, and in adorning themſelves outwardly, they muſt have a care that it be done in a faſhion that may argue neither wantonneſſe, nor curious niceneſſe, nor waſtfulneſſe, nor pride, 1 Pet. 3.3.

V. 11. ſilence with all ſubjection] Gr. in. Learn of their own husbands, not to take upon them to teach them: but in modeſt ſilence to receive inſtruction and command from them, 1 Cor. 14. 34.

V. 12. I ſuffer not a woman, &c.] See 1 Cor. 14.34.

ſilence] Gr. quietneſſe.

V. 13. Adam was firſt formed] Adam had the priority in his creation, the woman was made after him, and for him, and of him, Gen 2.7.21,22. 1 Cor.11.8.

V. 14. Adam was not deceived] Immediately of the devil as Eve was: neither doth the ſtory it ſelf ſay that Adam was deceived by Eve, but onely that he took the forbidden fruit of her and did eat, Gen.3.6.

was in the tranſgreſſion] The woman was firſt and deepeſt in the tranſgreſſion, and a means to induce her husband to ſin, wherefore alſo by way of puniſhment ſhe was more ſtraitly ſubjected to her husband, Gen 3.16.

V. 15. in child-bearing] Or, by child-bearing. If διὰ be taken, as it is moſt commonly, to ſignifie by, or through, then the meaning is, That though painful child bearing were part of the puniſhment inflicted upon Eve and her ſex, for her firſt tranſgreſſion, in eating the forbidden fruit, and tempting her husband to ſin likewiſe; yet ſhe and all faithful women ſhall be ſaved by Maries bearing the holy child Jeſus. For as κτίσις, ſignifying creation, is taken by a metonymie for the creature, Rom. 8.19,20, 21, 39. ſo alſo τεκνογονίας, for τέκνου γεννηθέντος, child bearing for the child born, the bleſſed fruit of the Virgins womb, Luke 1. 42. But if the prepoſition διὰ be taken for in, as Rom.4. 11. πιστευόντων δι' ἀκροβυστίας for ἐν ἀκροβυστίᾳ, and in many other places, then the meaning is, That notwithſtanding by child-bearing and ſubjection to man, God hath imprinted on women the mark of the puniſhment inflicted upon Eve, and all women that conceive and bring forth children; whence ſome peradventure might have conjectured that in regard of this curſe, there was no hope of ſalvation for women unleſſe it were for the unmarried, or thoſe that were childleſſe: yet the Apoſtle teacheth that this ſhall not hinder their ſalvation, if they abide in the faith, nor the bodily evils and ſorrows that they endure to ſtop the operation of the Spirit of grace in them. Or, bearing and breeding children is an ordinary way through which women go heaven, chap.5.14.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. A True ſaying] Gr. faithful. See 1 Tim.1.15.

If a man deſire] Not ambitiouſly affect, but findes in himſelf a fitneſſe and willingneſſe to take upon him that office, moved thereunto by an holy and ſincere affection to conſecrate himſelf unto God in the ſervice of his Church, and to employ and improve there thoſe gifts which he hath received of him for the edification of Gods people.

a biſhop] That is, the office of an over-ſeer; which word may either have relation to the flock of Chriſt onely, and in that ſenſe it belongeth to all Paſtours who have cure of ſouls: Or, to the Paſtours themſelves alſo, as well as the flock; and in that ſenſe antiquity hath appropriated the word to ſignifie the cheef Presbyter, or Miniſter, who had a ſuperintendency over an whole Church compriſed within a City, or Dioceſſe, in which there were divers inferiour Paſtours. See the note upon Philippians 1.1.

a good work] See 1 Theſſ.5.13.

V. 2. A biſhop, &c.] See Tit.1.6,&c.

blameleſſe] The word ἀνεπίληπτος, ſignifieth not faultleſſe, for there are no ſuch in the world, but ſuch an one who hath not been, or cannot be appeached with any crime, a man that is not tainted with any common blemiſh, 1 Cor.1.8. Luke 1.6.

the husband of one wife] He that is to be choſen a Biſhop, muſt not neceſſarily be a married man, but neceſſarily be no polygamiſt; that is, ſuch an one who hath been husband but of one wife at once, Hieron. Epiſt.82. c.2. For though polygamy were a common practiſe among the Jews, yet it was ever held a ſcandal and a brand among Chriſtians: therefore none who had that brand upon him, ought to be choſen either Biſhop, or Deacon, ver. 12.

of good behaviour] Or, modeſt.

apt to teach] Not only men endued with ſufficient knowledge to teach, but ſuch as are willing and ready upon all occaſions to inſtruct the people of God.

V. 3. Not given to wine] Or, not ready to quarrel and offer wrong, as one that is in wine.

filthy lucre] He forbiddeth in a Biſhop not only covetouſneſſe, which is afterwards taxed, but the taking of any baſe courſe, or uſing any unworthy means, to improve his eſtate: in which kinde the Biſhops of Rome of all other are moſt notoriouſly faulty, who make a gain of all ſorts of ſin, even thoſe that are not to be named among Chriſtians.

not covetous] Gr. not a lover of ſilver.

V. 4. gravity] Gr. comelineſſe.

V. 6. a novice] Or, one newly come to the faith. νεόφυτον. Not a man newly planted, or engraffed into Chriſt by baptiſm; or not ſuch an one who hath newly entered into the ſtudy of divinity.

lifted up] Gr. puffed up, or, ſwollen with.

fall into the condemnation of the devil] Leſt by reaſon of his ſudden advancement to that degree, he take occaſion to be proud, which will undo him, and ſo he fall into the ſame condemnation that the devil himſelf is fallen into. Or leſt he be ſubject to the cenſure of calumniating perſons.

V. 8. grave] Or, honeſt.

V. 9. Holding the myſtery of the faith] Either deeper and more abſtruſe and hidden points of ſaving knowledge; or in general the doctrine of the Goſpel which is a myſtery indeed, for fleſh and bloud cannot reveal it unto us, nor can the moſt learned perfectly comprehend it, 1 Cor. 2.7.

V. 10. uſe the office of a deacon, being] Or, miniſter, and being.

V. 11. grave] Or, honeſt; or, modeſt.

V. 12. deacons be the husbands] See verſe 2.

V. 13. uſed the office] Or, miniſtred.

good degree] Deſervedly obtain the honour to be preferred to an higher office in the Church.

boldneſſe in faith] Or, liberty of ſpeech. Greater courage and holy boldneſſe in the profeſſion of the Goſpel: for the teſtimony of a good conſcience, and the faithful diſcharge of the Miniſtery makes a man bold as a lion, whereas the contrary ſtops a mans mouth, and makes him a coward in Chriſts quarrel.

V. 14. ſhortly] Gr. ſooner.

V. 15. houſe of God] As the Catholike Church is as it were the whole houſe of God; ſo every particular Church, as this of Epheſus was, in which Timothy reſided, was a part thereof, and by a Synecdoche may be called the houſe of God, becauſe God dwelleth therein by his Word and Spirit, 1 Cor. 3. 16. Heb. 3.5,6.

the living God] See Rom. 9.26. 2 Cor. 3.3. 1 Theſ. 1.9.

pillar and ground of the truth] Or, ſtay. Some referre theſe words to them that follow, verſe 16. and thus make the conſtruction. The pillar and ground of truth, and without controverſie great is the myſtery of godlineſſe, viz. God, &c. Others referre them to the words immediately going before, the houſe of God, which is called the pillar and ground of truth in reſpect of the profeſſion, and maintenance of the true religion of God, which it both ſupporteth as a pillar, and maketh it openly known to others, as the Magiſtrates uſed to hang and affix their Orders and Proclamations on pillars, or other places of ſtrength and firmneſſe; and here conſequently is declared the office and duty of the Church in publiſhing the ſame truth, and defending it againſt all errours, contradictions, and corruptions whatſoever. Or it may be referred to Timothy, as it is by divers of the Ancients, and read, he being a pillar and upholder of the truth, Gal. 2.9. Rev. 3.12.

V. 16. myſtery of godlineſſe] Not barely of ceremonies, as were thoſe myſteries of the law of Moſes, nor of vain and profane ſuperſtitions, as thoſe of the Gentiles; but moſt holy indeed and truly religious, whereby God is ſerved in ſpirit and truth.

God] That is, the eternal Son of God, as the word is taken, Joh. 1.1. Acts 20.28. Rom. 9.5.

was manifeſt] Made his Divinity known, Luke 24. 19. Joh. 1. 14.

in the fleſh] That is, in the humane nature which he aſſumed into the unity of his perſon, John 1.14. Rom. 1.3. Heb. 2.14.

juſtified in the Spirit] In or by the Spirit, which is to be underſtood of the divine nature of Chriſt, whereby he hath raiſed himſelf again from the dead; and conſequently alſo was approved to be righteous and innocent, notwithſtanding he was condemned both by Jews and Gentiles as a malefactour. Or declared to be the Son of God, Rom. 1.4.

ſeen of Angels] As of his meſſengers and miniſters, both at his nativity, Luke 2. 14. and at his temptation, Matth. 4. 11. and at his paſſion, Luke 22. 43. and at his reſurrection, Luke 24.4. and at his aſcenſion, Acts 1.10.

preached unto the Gentiles] Gr. among.

received up into glory] To the right hand of his Father, from whence he poureth out the gifts of his Spirit upon the Church, and manifeſteth his glory by ſigns and wonders, Mark 16.19,20. Acts 1.2. and 2.4.33.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. Spirit ſpeaketh expreſly] In the Scriptures concerning apoſtaſie from the faith in general, and ſeduction by falſe teachers, Matth. 24.23,24. Luke 18.8. but to me by ſpecial revelation, that the falſe prophets ſhall broach ſuch falſe and damnable doctrines in particular as are after mentioned.

in the latter times, &c.] See 2 Tim. 3.1. ſeducing ſpirits] Either he meaneth devils, who are lying ſpirits, or wicked or ungodly men, who are the devils inſtruments, to ſpread errours and hereſies, as the word is taken, 1 John 4. 1.

V. 2. ſeared with an hot iron] Either branded conſciences, or ſtigmatized with the marks of many foul and enormous crimes; A metaphor taken from rogues who are burnt in the hand, or ſome other part of the body. Or conſciences ſo inſenſible of their own dangerous eſtate, and of the fearful judgements of God, as dead and hard fleſh ſeared with an hot iron, whereby Phyſitians conſume rotten fleſh to ſave the ſounder parts.

V. 3. Forbidding to marry] This prediction is verified at this day in the Romiſh Church, which forbiddeth any in holy Orders to marry. It is true, the Manichees, Eucratites, and other hereticks diſparaged marriage, and diſallowed it in thoſe they called their perfect ones: but we read of none that by laws and canons prohibited marriage, ſave the Biſhops of Rome, and ſuch as adhere unto them.

to abſtain from meats] Either theſe words have a reference to the former words, verſe 1. doctrines of devils, and all the words between are to be encloſed in a parentheſis, and ſo the coherence is giving heed to doctrines of devils, namely, this, to abſtain from meats, &c. Or elſe there is an Ellipſis, and the word κελευόντων, or ſome ſuch like is to be underſtood; a like example whereof we have above, chap. 2. 12. γυναικὶ διδάσκειν οὐκ ἐπιτρέπω, ἀλλὰ (ſupple ἐπιτάττω) εἶναι ἐν ἡσυχίᾳ, and 1 Cor. 14.34. Or like that 1 Cor. 3. 2. For the meaning, the Apoſtle doth not condemn it for an heretical practiſe, to abſtain from certain meats out of a meer politick reſpect to ſave the breed of cattle, or medicinable, to avoid ſome diſeaſes; but upon pretence of holineſſe, or conſcience, as if ſome meats were unclean in their own nature, or at leaſt leſſe holy than others, Col. 2.21.

V. 5. ſanctified by the word of God] It is made pure and holy in reſpect of us, ſo that we may uſe it with a good conſcience as received at the Lords hand.

and prayer] That our meats may be ſanctified to us, we muſt firſt confeſſe and acknowledge that God is the Creatour and giver of theſe creatures which we uſe. Secondly, that we are of the number of thoſe who through Chriſts benefit have recovered that right over all the creatures which Adam loſt by his fall. Thirdly, by our prayers we crave of the Lord that we may uſe thoſe meats with a good conſcience, which we receive at his hands. Fourthly, we make an end of our eating and drinking with thankſgiving to God, as we begin it with prayer.

V. 7. unto godlineſſe] It is not onely requiſite that the Miniſter of the Word be ſound in doctrine, but alſo, that his life be godly and religious.

V. 8. bodily exerciſe profiteth little] Or, for a little time. Some hereby underſtand the exerciſes of thoſe that ſtrived for prizes, by wreſtling, running, or the like; of which the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, 1 Cor. 9.25. But the Apoſtle here treating of good works, others do more fitly underſtand this of external exerciſes of mortification, whereby the body is tamed and kept under; as watching, abſtinence from ſuch and ſuch meats, lying hard, and the like; which are otherwiſe lawful in themſelves, and indeed may have ſome uſe; but little in compariſon of godlineſſe, in regard that all the benefit that can accrue thereby, is but to ſubdue the members of the body, and curb the outward motions and actions thereof, 1 Cor. 9. 27. They are no way able to purifie the heart, and the inward man, as a lively faith and the true fear and love of God doth, Rom. 8.13.

promiſe of the life that now is] Of the bleſſings of this preſent life, ſo far as they conduce to our eternal happineſſe, and of the life to come abſolutely.

V. 10. Saviour of all men] God in general not only ſaveth all men, but beaſts alſo, Pſalm 36. 6. Saviour here is taken for protectour or preſerver, becauſe he conſerveth all men in their natural and temporal being in general: but he is ſaid the Saviour eſpecially of thoſe that beleeve, becauſe he is the conſerver of them in their eternal and ſpiritual being: he conſerveth all creatures in their eſtate, men in their ways and callings, but the faithful in the ſtate of grace: he preſerveth all creatures from diſorder and utter confuſion, all men from manifold calamities, and miſeries, but the faithful from the power of ſin and death.

V. 14. Hands of the Presbytery] Or, Eldership. Some by Presbytery underſtand the office of a Presbyter, which Timothy received by impoſition of hands; but the word πρεσβυτέριον, is never taken in the Scripture for the office of a Presbyter; but for the company of the Elders, who here laid hands upon Timothy, when he was ordained: for though he were ordained by Saint Paul, 2 Tim. 1. 6. yet this ordination was performed in the aſſembly of the Elders, and with the laying on of their hands alſo: agreeable whereunto is the Canon of the fourth Council of Carthage, and the practiſe of the Church of England and other reformed Churches at this day.

V. 15. to all] Or, in all things.

V. 16. Take heed to thy ſelf] To thy life and carriage, that it be inoffenſive; and to thy doctrine, that it be ſound.

ſave thy ſelf] Thy Miniſtery ſhall be an effectual means both to ſave thy ſelf and others: for faith is by hearing, and hearing by preaching, and therefore the Miniſters of the Word are ſaid to ſave themſelves and others; for that to them the Lord hath committed the word of reconciliation.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. N*Ot an elder*] In reprehenſions we muſt have regard to the degrees both of ages and ſexes, and conſider all as in a ſpiritual conſanguinity with us.

V. 2. with] Gr. in.

V. 3. Widows indeed] He ſpeaketh of ſuch widows who were ſervants to the Church, and appointed to be maintained by the publike contribution: ſuch as were paſt all other labour, and deſtitute of all comfort both of husband, and of children, and nephews, or any other kinde of allies to releeve them.

V. 4. Shew pity at home] Or, kindneſſe. Let thoſe children and nephews in a thankful duty endeavour to repay their parents care and love: which the Greek elegantly expreſſe by a metaphor taken from the Stork (ἀντιπελαργεῖν) which feedeth her aged parents, and carrieth them upon her ſhoulders, and in that regard, in Hebrew is called חסדה, that is, pious and merciful.

V. 6. in pleaſure] Or, delicately.

dead while ſhe liveth] Such a widow is a kinde of monſter half dead and half alive, dead in reſpect of the actions of the ſpirit, though vigorous, and alive in reſpect of the fleſh; or alive to the world, but dead to God. In a like ambiguous ſenſe we are to underſtand thoſe words of our Saviour, Let the dead bury the dead, Matt. 8. 22. that is, Let the dead ſpiritually, bury their dead corporally, as the Jews in that their elegant ἀντιμεταβολὴ, Cùm ego à te diſcedo vivens morior, at cùm tibi adhæreo moriens vivo.

V. 8. houſe] Or, kindred.

denyed the faith] Though not in words, yet in his deeds, and hath caſt away both humanity and religion, and therein is worſe than an Infidel, who take care of their own, and love thoſe that love them, Mat. 5. 46.

V. 9. taken] Or, choſe. wife of one man] That is, which hath had but one husband at once, or if her husband had ſent her a bill of divorce upon his repudiation of her, hath married no other.

V. 10. waſhed the Saints feet] This was an office of courteſie performed to ſtrangers in thoſe hotter countreys, Gen. 14. 32. and 43, 24. Luke 7. 44.

V. 11. younger widows refuſe] Take them not into the college of widows or deaconeſſes, which are to be maintained at the Church s charge.

V. 12. Having damnation] Or, being liable to juſt cenſure.

caſt off their firſt faith] Or, former, as Rev. 2. 4. Making themſelves lyable to juſt cenſure and blame, becauſe they have violated that promiſe and engagement, wherein they bound themſelves to the continual ſervice of the Church.

V. 13. buſie-bodies] See 2 Theſ. 3. 11.

V. 14. younger women marry] I ordain that the younger women be left to their liberty to marry, and not tyed by covenant or agreement to the publike ſervice of the Church.

to ſpeak reproachfully] Or, for their railing.

V. 15. turned aſide after Satan] They have been led by him to wanton courſes, to the great ſcandal of the Church.

V. 17. Elders that rule well] See 1 Cor. 9. 14. Gal. 6. 6. He meaneth not Elders in age, but in office, that is, Biſhops, or Paſtours, that are employed in the government of the Church, as well as preaching.

double honour] Both of reverent reſpect, and comfortable maintenance (ſtipendia honoraria) as appeareth by the verſes following, labour in the word] In the Original it is κοπιῶντες, which ſignifieth a toylſome labour, and hereby he commendeth thoſe who beſides their care and pains in governing, diligently and conſtantly preached the Word.

V. 18. Thou ſhalt not muzzle the Oxe that treadeth, &c.] See Deut. 25. 4.

Ox that treadeth] In the Eaſtern Countreys it was not the manner to threſh out corn as we do, but their Oxen trod it out; to which the Apoſtle allegorically compares the laborious Paſtours of the Church, who expounding the Scriptures, after a ſort cruſh out that corn of which the bread of life is made, 1 Cor. 9. 9.

The labourer is worthy of his reward] See Matt. 10. 10.

V. 19. an elder receive not] Or, presbyter. Do not onely not condemn him without ſufficient witneſſes, as thou oughteſt not any man according to the law of Moſes, Deut. 19. 11. but do not ſo much as receive an accuſation, or give any credit to it; the reaſon is, that ſuch men being in publike offices of governing the Church, in which they muſt exhort and admoniſh every one, and correct thoſe that are unruly, they may eaſily get the ill will and hatred of many. Alſo the receiving an accuſation againſt them, maketh them to be ſuſpected, and it tendeth to the ſcandal of the Church. Beſides, their ſacred calling is to be held in reverence, and they who have been thought worthy of it, ought not to be ſuſpected of any notorious default or guilt without very good evidence and ſtrong proof.

Before] Or, under.

V. 21. Without preferring one before another] Or, without prejudice.

V. 22. Lay hands ſuddenly on no man] Admit not any into the Miniſtery without ſufficient examination and good proof both of his ſufficiency in learning and godly converſation.

partaker of other mens ſins] Either of thoſe that would make choice of an unfit perſon into the Miniſtery, or of the Miniſters themſelves, who if they prove ill and unworthy of that ſacred function, the blame will light upon thee, who by the laying on of thy hands admitteſt them into the Church.

pure] Or, chaſte.

V. 24. Some mens ſins are open before-hand] Or, manifeſt. Either theſe words are referred to the laſt judgement, as the ancient Fathers underſtand this text, and then the meaning is, that ſome mens ſins are notorious, and may be judged and cenſured in this life, others are ſecret and hidden, the judgement whereof is reſerved to the laſt day. Or, they relate to the examination before admittance into the Church, and then the meaning is, ſome there are who offer themſelves to ordination, whoſe ſcandals are or may be known before-hand, who are to be repelled from the Miniſtery; others offences are not known till after they be ordained; on the other ſide the learning and good parts of ſome are ſo well known, that they may be received at the firſt meeting without fear of doing amiſſe in it; but if there be any who are not ſo well known, a ſmall delay or pauſe will not hinder them, or, obſcure their virtues, but rather after full and exact tryal of them, make them more conſpicuous.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. U*Nder the yoke*] To wit, of ſervitude under Maſters that were Infidels. This ſervitude was an heavy yoak, lying not ſo much upon their bodies, as upon their ſouls, inſomuch that they were forced to ſerve them who ſerved not the true God; who notwithſtanding ought to be hereby ſatisfied, that touching thoſe things which appertain to everlaſting life, they are no way ſubject to them.

be not blaſphemed] For if they ſhould refuſe to ſerve their Maſters, though infidels, under pretence of their Chriſtian liberty, this would occaſion their Maſters to reproach Chriſtian Religion, as if it taught them contumacy and diſobedience.

V. 2. becauſe they are brethren] Their fraternity in Chriſt, ought not to abate ought of their due reſpect and obſervance to their Maſters: for this ſpiritual conſanguinity doth not alter their outward and civil eſtate and condition.

faithful] Or, beleeving.

V. 4. He is proud] Gr. is puffed up.

doating] Or, ſick.

ſtrifes of words] Frivolous queſtions and quarrels, rather about words than matter, and by words he meaneth all thoſe things which have no pith in them, and whereby we can reap no profit.

V. 5. Perverſe diſputings, &c.] Or, gallings one of another.

V. 6. Godlineſſe with contentment is] Not only becauſe it enricheth the ſoul, and giveth true contentment, but alſo becauſe it hath the promiſe of outward bleſſings, 1 Tim. 4. 8.

V. 7. For we brought nothing into this world, &c.] See Job 1. 21.

V. 8. And] Gr. But.

V. 9. and a ſnare] Of the devil, who by means of this their inordinate deſire to grow rich, doth tempt them to take many unlawfull courſes, and keepeth them thereby as with a ſnare, that they cannot get again out of the intanglings of the world.

drown] Or, plunge.

V. 10. money] Gr. ſilver.

erred] Or, been ſeduced.

pierced themſelves through] Chriſt compareth the deceitfulneſſe of riches and cares of the world to thorns, which prick not the fleſh only, but pierce through the minde and heart, and wound the ſouls and conſciences with manifold hurts and ſmart pains, Matth. 13. 22.

V. 11. O man of God] All righteous men are the ſervants of God, but the title of man of God implyeth more: for in Scripture it is attributed only to men of eminent ſanctity, who had more familiarity and inwardneſſe with God, as Moſes, Samuel, David, Elias, Elizeus, and here Timothy. A man of God is he who is wholly devoted unto God, and his cheef employment is to bring Meſſages from God, as Prophets do, and bring men unto God, as the faithful Miniſters of the Goſpel do.

and] Gr. but.

V. 12. Fight the good fight of faith] Either contend thou earneſtly for the maintenance of the true Faith and Goſpel, Jude 3. Or, fight the good fight of Faith it ſelf againſt all temptations of the Devil, perſecutions of the world, and oppoſitions and contradictions of heretical teachers and great wiſards of this world, 2 Tim. 4. 7.

lay hold on eternal life] A compariſon taken from thoſe that run for a prize, and as they approach neer the mark they ſtretch forth their hands to apprehend and touch it, verſe 19.

profeſſed a good profeſſion] Either he underſtandeth the ſolemn vow Timothy had made in his Baptiſm, or at his ordination, wholly to dedicate himſelf unto, and employ his uttermoſt endeavours to the ſervice of God.

V. 13. I give thee charge] A vehement kinde of adjuration to obſerve and keep all the premiſes faithfully, with his eyes fixed upon the coming of Jeſus Chriſt, whoſe glory we are to ſet againſt the vain gliſtering of this world, and his power againſt all the terrours of the wicked, 2 Tim. 4. 1.

Pilate witneſſed] See Matthew 26. 64. Matthew 27. 11. John 18. 37.

Confeſſion] Or, profeſſion.

V. 15. the King of kings] See Rev. 17. 4. and 19. 16.

V. 16. Who onely hath immortality] Eternally ſubſiſting of himſelf, and by no other. Angels and the ſouls of men are immortal, but by participation only from God, as the Moon and Starres ſhine continually, but with light derived from the Sun.

dwelling in the light] Poſſeſſing ſuch perfection and excellency in himſelf, as none is able to comprehend, as the word light is taken, 1 John 1. 5. Or dwelling in that increated and infinite glory of divine Majeſty, the ſight and knowledge whereof no creature is able to attain unto.

whom no man hath ſeen] See John 1. 18. 1 Tim. 1. 17. 1 John 4. 12.

V. 17. uncertain riches] Gr. uncertainty of riches.

giveth] Gr. affordeth.

V. 18. willing] Or, ſociable.

V. 19. Laying up in ſtore, &c.] See Matth. 6. 20. Luke 12. 33.

good foundation] That is, a certain and infallible argument and ground of hoping for eternal life; not as if the liberality of the rich did merit the ſame; but in regard of the promiſe of God made to all thoſe that in faith apply themſelves to the practiſe of good works, Mat. 10. 42. Gal. 6. 8, 9. Heb. 13. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 5.

V. 20. keep that which is committed] The precious treaſure of ſound and wholeſome doctrine which is committed to thee, as a pledg to keep it ſafely thy ſelf, and carefully tranſmit it to poſterity; and withal the talent of thoſe gifts which appertain unto the preaching of the ſame.

oppoſitions of ſcience falſly] Made againſt ſound doctrine out of erroneous grounds and principles of ſciences ſo termed, but falſly. In which words, the Greek Fathers conceive that he pointeth at the Gnoſticks, a certain ſort of hereticks, who have their name from ſcience, and profound knowledge, which they arrogated to themſelves.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE To TIMOTHY.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

SAint Paul being ready to lay down his Earthly Tabernacle, ſendeth for Timothy to come unto him, and to bring with him ſuch things as he moſt needed: Withal, he foretelleth his own Martyrdome, and the Crown of Righteouſneſſe which he ſhould thereby receive, and fully inſtructeth Timothy how to carry himſelf in the Government of the Church, after his departure.

The Epiſtle it ſelf is partly
1. Commendatory of Timothy himſelf, and his parents, and Oneſiphorus, and others, chap. 1, 2.
2. Exhortatory to Chaſtity, Faith, Charity, Peace, and Meekneſſe, chap. 2. To undaunted fortitude, in withſtanding all oppoſition againſt the Truth, and to the ſtudy of the Scriptures, chap. 3. To diligence in his Paſtoral Function, watchfulneſſe, patience, and to godly prudence, and conſtancy in his holy profeſſion to the end, chap. 4.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. P*Romiſe of life*] Eternal life hid in Chriſt, which God hath promiſed to all that beleeve in him.

V. 2. beloved ſonne] He calleth Timothy his ſon in a natural, civil and ſpiritual, or Eccleſiaſtical reſpect: Firſt, in a natural, becauſe Paul was now aged, and Timothy but a young man. Secondly, in a civil or moral, becauſe Paul affected him, as if he were his own ſon, and Timothy ſerved him as a ſon doth his father; Phil. 2. 22. Thirdly, in a ſpiritual or Eccleſiaſtical, becauſe Paul ordained him a Miniſter of the Goſpel. See 1 Tim. 1, 2.

V. 3. fore-fathers] Not his immediate fore-fathers, who bred him up in Phariſaiſme, but his Anceſtours Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, &c. who ſerved God in the ſame true religion, for ſubſtance, which the Apoſtle now profeſſeth, Acts 23. 1. and 24. 16.

with pure] Gr. in pure.

V. 5. call] Gr. calling.

V. 16. ſtir up] Gr. kindle again; or, quicken, as fire burneth under aſhes, ἀναζωπυρεῖν, ſignifieth to re-kindle, or revive; for the gift of God is as it were a certain lively flame kindled in our hearts, which the fleſh and the devil go about to put out; and therefore we on the contrary muſt labour, as much as we can, to foſter and keep it burning. In the metaphor the Apoſtle ſeemeth to allude to the type of the Prieſts in the Old Teſtament, by whoſe Miniſtery the holy fire on the Altar was cheriſhed, (that it might not go out) and as it ſlaked, blown to a brighter flame.

the gift] Some by this gift underſtand the gift of Miracles, which he received by the impoſition of the Apoſtles hands; and that by the laying hands of the Presbytery, 1 Tim. 4. 14. he was admitted into the holy miniſtery; but becauſe there is no proof in Scriptures or undoubted Antiquity, that Timothy had the gift of miracles, it is more probable, that by gift is here meant that Ghoſtly power or office which Timothy received at his ordination, by the laying on of the Apoſtles hands on him, in the preſence of the Presbytery, who all gave conſent thereunto, and teſtified it by putting their hands upon him alſo, 1 Tim. 4. 14.

V. 7. ſpirit of fear] The meaning is, rouze up the gifts of God in thee, and ſuffer not them to be ſlaked or abated by carnal fear, for ſuch a fear doth in no wiſe proceed from the working of the Spirit, but is quite contrary to the ſame which the Apoſtle doth mention here; leſt Timothy might be affrighted with the affliction of the Church, and of Pauls in particular.

but of power] Of courage and reſolution to go through with the work of the Miniſtery, notwithſtanding all oppoſitions and dangers.

of love] Of an holy love of God and Chriſt, wherewith the faithful being inflamed, do chearfully undergo all manner of troubles and adverſities for his ſake.

ſound minde] Whereby the holy Ghoſt doth reduce the troubled minde to tranquillity, and baniſh all turbulent paſsions, ſuch as fear is. Or the ſpirit of moderation and diſcretion, that we bring not cauſleſs troubles upon our ſelves, and when they come upon us, break not out into a rage or impatience.

V. 8. afflictions of the Goſpel] Be a cheerful partner with me of thoſe troubles and afflictions which follow the profeſsion of the Goſpel. Theſe are called afflictions of the Goſpel, becauſe as Chriſt ſuffereth in the perſecution of his Members, ſo the Goſpel after a ſort ſuffereth, when the preachers thereof are oppoſed, diſgraced, ſilenced, and impriſoned, or any way hindered from the free and powerful preaching thereof.

V. 9. not according to our works] See Tit. 3. 5. Not for the merit of our works, but for his own mercies ſake; or, not according to works done by us in time, or foreſeen by God before the world was; for theſe works, as in time they flowed from the grace of God, ſo they were foreſeen likewiſe no otherwiſe than as effects of his grace in us, and conſequently not as cauſes or inducements to God, to elect us to eternal life.

before the world began] Gr. ſecular times. or, everlaſting. See Epheſ. 1. 4. Tit. 1. 2.

V. 10. who hath aboliſhed death] By taking away the fear and ſting of the natural death in all true believers, 1 Cor. 15. 55. Heb. 2. 15. and freeing them from the guilt and puniſhment of the eternal and ſecond death. Rev. 2. 11. & 20. 6.

life and immortality to light] Hath given us a full and clear ſight of immortality, whereof before we had but as a glimpſe; or ſhewed us a clear way to life and immortality.

V. 11. Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, &c.] See 1 Tim. 2. 7.

V. 12. believed] Or, truſted.

keep that which I have committed] Either my precious ſoul which I have committed to his care and cuſtody to bring it forth glorious at that day of his appearing: Or, my eternal life, happineſs and crown of glory, which I have as it were depoſited with him by faith and hope.

V. 13. form of ſound words] Gr. wholeſom, or, healthful ὑγιαινόντων, ſuch as conduce to the health of our ſouls, rather wholſom than delicate; or words not tainted with, nor ſavouring of any errour or hereſie, falſe or corrupt doctrine.

V. 14. committed unto thee] See 1 Tim. 6. 20.

by the Holy Ghoſt] Though it be a hard thing to do it, conſidering what enemies lie in wait to rob us of it: yet the Spirit of God is mighty, who hath endued us with power and virtue to keep it.

V. 15. turned away from me] Leaving me in my trouble and affliction, and being aſhamed of my bonds.

V. 16. my chain] See Epheſ. 6. 20.

V. 17. ſought me out] By this it appears, that S. Paul was not in priſon for then Oneſiphorus needed not to have made any great ſearch to finde him; yet was he not free, but committed to the cuſtody of the keeper, with whom he might go abroad to diſpatch his affairs; and therefore in the verſe going before, he ſpeaketh not of chains in the plural number, but of a chain in the ſinglar, with which he was tyed to the ſouldier that kept him. Vid. Senec. l. 1. de tranquil. an. c. 10. Eadem catena tam reum quam militem tenet.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. MY ſon] See Chap. 1. 2.

in the grace that is in Chriſt Jeſus] Be ſtrong and couragious in the maintenance of the Goſpel of Chriſt: or confidently relie on the favour of God, wherewith the Father embraceth us for his ſon Chriſt Jeſus ſake.

V. 2. among many witneſſes] Or, by many witneſſes. Either the things which thou haſt heard confirmed by many witneſſes and teſtimonies of holy Scripture, as the word witneſſes is taken, Heb. 12. 1. Or, which thou heardeſt of me at thy ordination among the whole Presbytery: Or, not ſpoken in a corner, but publikely in my preaching, before many witneſſes.

V. 3. endure hardneſs] Or, ſuffer affliction. The Miniſtery of the Word is a ſpiritual warfare, wherein no man can ſo ſerve that he may pleaſe his Captain or General, but he muſt forgo and part from all hinderances which may draw him from it, and alſo endure much hardneſs and be put to many a hot brunt.

V. 4. No man that warreth] Warriours and ſouldiers buſie not themſelves with merchandizing, handicraft works, husbandry or houſhold affairs; but are always attending their watchings, marchings, and other ſervices and commands of their Leaders and Captains: ſo neither muſt a faithful Miniſter of the Goſpel trouble or diſtract himſelf with any worldly matters and affairs that may hinder him in the faithful diſcharge of his ſacred function.

entangleth himſelf] Gr. is entangled.

V. 5. ſtrive for maſteries] The Miniſtery is like to a game, or ſtriving for the maſtery, wherein no man is crowned unleſs he ſtrive according to the laws that are preſcribed, be they never ſo difficult or painful.

V. 6. The husbandman, &c.] Or, The husbandman labouring firſt, muſt be partaker of the fruits.

V. 8. Remember that Jeſus Chriſt] He confirmeth two principles of our faith which are always aſſaulted by hereticks; the one, that Chriſt is the true Meſsias, God incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and made of the ſeed of David; and the other the higheſt Article of our Creed and myſtery of our ſalvation, his reſurrection from the dead.

V. 9. but the word of God is not bound] Though they may confine me, and binde me faſt, yet they cannot bind and fetter the Goſpel of Chriſt, that word of his ever is and ſhall be free, not onely preached by thoſe who are at liberty, but even by me and other ſervants of Chriſt who are reſtrained and in durance.

V. 10. endure all things] Not in their ſtead, or that my ſufferings may be imputed unto them, but I indure afflictions for thoſe offices, which I do towards the furthering of the ſalvation of Gods elect.

V. 11. if we be dead with him] See Rom. 5. 8. If we be afflicted with him, and perſecuted even to death for his ſake, we ſhall alſo live together with him eternally, and moſt happily in heaven.

V. 12. If we ſuffer] See Rom. 8. 17.

if we deny him] See Matt. 10. 33. Mark 8. 38.

V. 13. If we believe not] See Rom. 3. 3.

he abideth faithful] Though we alter never ſo much, yet God is the ſame, moſt juſt and faithful in all his promiſes, and undertakings, Rom. 3. 3. Mal. 3. 6. Jam. 1. 17.

V. 14 ſtrive not about words] μὴ λογομαχεῖν. Not to ſtrive about words onely, when the controverſie is meer verbal or nominal, and no way real, or not at all importing faith or good manners: or, ſtrive not with words bandying contumelious ſpeeches, or bringing no better proof than vaunting words and boaſtings.

V. 15. rightly dividing] By adding nothing to it, neither over-ſlipping any thing, neither mangling it, nor renting it in ſunder, nor wreſting of it; but marking diligently what his hearers are able to bear, and what is fit for edification. The Metaphor is taken either from the cutting and ſquaring out of the ſtreets and high-ways, and ſetting out the bounds of mens lands and poſſeſsions: or from the Prieſts of the Old Teſtament, who having ſlain the beaſts that were to be ſacrificed, did joynt and divide the ſame in an accurate manner: or from houſe-keepers that cut out and divide to every one in their families their ſhare and portion of meat, 1 Cor. 3. 2. Luk. 12. 42. Heb. 5. 12.

V. 16. increaſe] Or, proceed.

V. 17. eat as doth a canker] Or, gangrene. γαγγραῖνα from γραίνω, ſignifying to eat, as the diſeaſe called a Wolf or a Canker doth, which if it be not looked to in time groweth incurable, and not onely conſumeth the part where it is, but ſpreadeth farther in the fleſh: ſuch is the nature of heretical doctrine, if it be not ſtopt in the beginning, and cured by ſolid confutations, and Eccleſiaſtical cenſures inflicted upon thoſe that are obſtinate, it will ſpread far, and run over the whole body of the Church, and corrupt the ſame, 1 Cor. 5. 7. Gal. 5. 9.

Hymeneus and Philetus] He nameth here the chiefeſt of thoſe profane, and vain bablers, that being known they might be the better ſhun'd.

V. 18. erred] Or, miſſed the mark.

reſurrection is paſt] It is probable they taught that there was no other reſurrection but the ſpiritual riſing of the ſoul from the death of ſin; or the renovation of the condition of the world under the Goſpel, according as the word reſurrection is ſometimes taken.

overthrow the faith of ſome] That is, infect them with their hereſie, and thereby ſubvert their orthodox faith.

V. 19. Nevertheleſs] Although ſome ſlide away from the truth, we muſt not be offended thereat, as if the ſalvation of the elect were not ſure.

the foundation of God] The eternal election, which is the firſt ground-work of the ſalvation of the faithful, laid by God himſelf, cannot be ſhaken in ſuch ſort, that the elect of God ſhould be ſeduced by the like hereſies, and fall away from faith, Matth. 24. 24.

ſure] Or, ſteady.

having this ſeal] The Book of life in which the names of the elect are written is confirmed as with a ſeal, and the number of the elect in the fore-knowledge of God is ſealed up as in a Book.

Let every one] Though the Lord hath eternally fore-known thoſe that are his, yet not ſo that we preſuming upon that Decree ſhould caſt away all care of our ſalvation, and let looſe the reins to all carnal liberty. For on our parts who are thus mercifully fore-known and elected to ſalvation, there is required a holy and a conſcionable obedience, and a careful endeavour to pleaſe God in all things, and ſhun all manner of ſin.

V. 20. and ſome to honour] See Rom. 9. 21.

V. 21. If a man therefore purge] Cleanſe himſelf from theſe heretical and impure doctrines, and keep himſelf uſpotted of the world by the grace and virtue of the holy Ghoſt that dwelleth in him, 1 Pet. 1. 22. 1 Joh. 5. 5.

veſſel unto honour] The counſel of God ſhall be fulfilled in him, and he ſhall be really and effectually according as he is ordained unto it of God, a veſſel of honour. Or, he ſhall ſhew and approve himſelf to be ſuch a veſſel indeed. The like expreſsion we have Joh. 15. 8.

V. 23. fooliſh and unlearned] See 1 Tim.1.4. Tit. 3.9.

V. 24. muſt not ſtrive] Muſt not be of a contentious diſpoſition, nor at all ſtrive about fooliſh and unlearned queſtions, verſ. 23.

patient] Or, forbearing. To win them through our patient bearing with them, but not to pleaſe them, or excuſe them in their wickedneſs.

V. 25. oppoſe themſelves] Gr. ſet themſelves againſt him, or, are ill affected to him.

repentance to the acknowledging] The knowledge of the truth goeth before repentance, yet true repentance goeth before the publike recantation of their errour, and particular acknowledgement of that truth before gain-ſayed and oppoſed.

V. 26. recover] Gr. awake.

ſnare of the devil] Heretical doctrines are the ſnares wherein the devil intangleth the underſtanding of ſeduced men, as vitious provocations are the ſnares wherein he intangleth the wills and affections of diſſolute perſons.

taken captive] Gr. taken alive.

at his will] Gr. to.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. IN the laſt days] See 1 Tim.4.1. 2Pet.3.3. Jude 18. The end of the world is the harveſt, and when the ſins of Antichriſt and of all his followers ſhall be ripe, than will the Angel thruſt in his ſickle and mow the earth, Apoc. 14.26.18. 1 Tim.4.1.

perilous times] Gr. hard. We may not hope for a Church in this world without corruption, but there ſhall be rather great abundance of moſt wicked men, even in the very boſom of the Church, who notwithſtanding ſhall make a ſhew and countenance of great holineſs.

V. 2. lovers of their own ſelves] Such perſons have been in all ages of the Church, but towards the end of the world, being as it were the lees and dregs of time, there ſhall be almoſt none but ſuch: theſe vices being ſpread over the whole face of the Church, and the mentioned evils become Epidemical.

covetous] Gr. lovers of ſilver; or, money.

boaſters, proud] See Rom.1.29,30.

V. 3. falſe accuſers] Or, make-bates.

V. 4. high-minded] Gr. puffed up.

V. 5. Having a form of godlineſs] Or, formality. Not μορφὴν, but μόρφωσιν, not the true form and eſſence of godlineſs, but an outward conformation thereunto, a reſemblance, vizard, or ſhew of holineſs; mens religion conſiſting in a formal profeſſion of godlineſs, (Tit.1.16.) without expreſſing the power and efficacy thereof in their lives: Or, in external geſtures, behaviours, rites, and ceremonies, without the pure inward worſhip of God in ſpirit and truth.

V. 6. women laden with with ſins] Silly women are more eaſily deceived, and thoſe of them are more apt to be miſled in their judgements which are given up to lewd and wanton courſes. Joſephus Antiq. Jud. 2. obſerveth that the Phariſees had their Gynæcea, Colledges or meeting of women; and S. Jerome ad Cteſ. that Simon Magus had his Helena, Marcion his female forerunner, Apelles his Philumena, Montanus his Maximilla, Donatus his Lucillia, Elpidius his Agape, Priſcillian his Galla, Arius the Prince his ſiſter; and generally all arch heretikes ſome ſtrumpet or other, by whom they ſpread the poiſon of their hereſie.

V. 7. Ever learning] The Apoſtle taxeth not theſe women for endeavouring by continual learning to improve their knowledge; but for curious inquiring into every novelty of doctrine, and following now one teacher, now another, having no care to attain to ſound and ſaving truth.

V. 8. Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes] The names of the chief of the Egyptian ſorcerers that ſtrove with Moſes, whoſe names are not expreſſed, Exo.7.11. yet are here related by the Apoſtle, either out of ſome Jewiſh writers, not now extant, or from ſome ancient tradition. Howſoever, certain it is, that theſe Magitians names were famous, or infamous, for Numerius the Pythagorean Philoſopher, and Artabanus the Hiſtorian make mention of them both, and Plinie in his Natural Story, *l.*3.*c.*1. nameth one of them to wit, Jannes. See *Euſeb. de præp. Evang. l.*9.*c.*3.

reprobate concerning the faith] Or, of no judgement. Whoſe doctrines are abominable before God, and ought to be rejected of all; or, who have loſt all right and ſound judgement in things that belong to the Faith, Rom.1.18.26. Tit. 1. 16.

V. 9. proceed no further] He addeth a comfort, that God will at length pluck off all the vizards of Hypocrites and falſe teachers.

folly] Or, madneſs.

V. 10. thou haſt] Or, thou haſt been a follower of.

fully known] Thou knoweſt throughly, not onely what I taught and did, but alſo how I was minded and diſpoſed.

V. 11. afflictions] Gr. ſufferings.

V. 12. ſhall ſuffer perſecution] Gr. ſhall be perſecuted.

V. 13. worſe and worſe] 2 Pet.2.20,22.

deceiving, and being deceived] Deceiving others by their ſophiſmes and fair ſhew of holineſs, and being deceived by Satan.

V. 15. from a child] There is nothing more profitable than to be exerciſed in the Scriptures from our infancy; for the veſſels that are at the firſt ſeaſoned with the ſavour of life, ſeldom or never loſe it, Prov.22.6. And though while they are very young, they cannot come to much underſtanding, yet the having of Scripture phraſe and texts by heart, is very uſeful, and will much ſtead them after they come to riper yeers, and are able to dive deeper into the meaning of thoſe things they retain perfect in their memories from their childhood.

wiſe unto ſalvation, through faith] Although the Scripture ſufficiently inſtruct us unto ſalvation, yet we cannot be ſaved without a lively faith working through love, therefore he addeth, through faith: Or, by Scriptures he meaneth the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament which it is like were onely extant when Timothie was a child, the knowledge whereof could not ſave Timothie without faith in Chriſt, whereby he beleeved the accompliſhment of all thoſe things which were fore-ſhewed in the Old Teſtament, both by predictions and types.

V. 16. All Scripture is given] See 2 Pet. 1. 21. Or, the whole Scripture, as the word is taken, 1 Cor. 13. 2. and elſewhere. Every part of Scripture is divinely inſpired, 2 Pet. 1. 20,21. and is profitable to ſome of theſe ends, to furniſh the man of God to ſome good works: but the whole Scripture is profitable to all thoſe ends, to furniſh him to every good work. The parts of the Scripture as they were delivered, were ſufficient for the inſtruction of thoſe to whom they were delivered; and now the whole is moſt ſufficient for us, and all Churches to the end of the world.

V. 17. man of God] The Miniſter of God in his Church, 1 Tim. 6. 11.

perfect] Gr. accompliſhed.

throughly furniſhed] Or, perfected.

furniſhed unto all good works] That is, to all the ſervices of his profeſſion, to thoſe works of his calling, he mentioned before, namely doctrine of the principles of Chriſtian Roligion, reproof of errours and falſe doctrines, correction of life and evil manners, and inſtruction in the precepts of a holy life and Chriſtian converſation.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. I Charge thee therefore] Gr. teſtifie, or, denounce. This is my principal and chief charge of all.

before God and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt] This deep kinde of charging Timothie, in ſo vehement and pathetical a manner, ſheweth how urgent and important the matter is, how ſimply neceſſary diligent and conſtant preaching is in a Miniſter of the Goſpel, and how fearful his caſe is, if he fail in this duty of his function.

judge of quick and dead] See 1 Cor.15.51. 1 Theſſ.4.17.

V. 2. in ſeaſon, out of ſeaſon] Upon all occaſions, with a holy importunity. There is no contradiction in theſe commands, both may and ought to be done by a faithful Miniſter of God, who preacheth in ſeaſon, when God offereth him a fair opportunity, and the hearers deſire, Neh.8.1. and call for the Word, and the argument he handleth, is ſeaſonable for the time. Out of ſeaſon, when a door of utterance is opened unto him, that he may preach, but his hearers are not willing to hear, either becauſe they are il-affected to the Word, or diſtracted by other buſineſſes, or they like not to hear ſuch points touched or medled with at ſuch a time, when yet he knoweth it to be needful for the health of their ſouls, to hear ſuch doctrines handled, or duties preſt.

exhort] Or, comfort.

V. 3. ſound doctrine] Gr. wholſom. See 1 Tim.1.10.

V. 4. ears] Gr. hearing.

V. 5. watch thou] Or, be ſober. The wickedneſs and falling away of the world ought to cauſe faithful Miniſters to be ſo much the more careful and vigilant; and ſo likewiſe the taking away of thoſe who laboured with them before in that office. Verſ. 6. John 1.2. Col 4. 17.

make full] Or, fulfil.

ready to be offered] To be ſacrificed or Martyred. The word in the Original σπένδομαι, ſignifieth properly libation, or a drink-offering; and he alludeth to the pouring out of bloud, or wine which was uſed in ſacrifice, and ſeemeth withal to intimate the manner of death wherewith he was to glorifie God, which was not by being offered as a holocauſt by fire, as Polycarp, and many others were, but by a death wherein his bloud was ſhed or poured out, namely beheading.

departure] Gr. diſſolution. See Philip.1.23.

V. 7. fought a good fight] Gr. that good fight. See 1 Tim.6.12.

I have finiſhed my courſe] I am come to the period of my days; Vixi, & quem dederat curſum fortuna, peregi. And in this metaphor he ſeemeth to allude to the manner of his whole life, which after his converſion was ſpent, as it were, wholly in running from place to place, ſpeedily to diſperſe the doctrine of the Goſpel, and now he was come to the laſt Stage or Goal at Rome, where he was to receivo his Garland, after the manner of thoſe who ran for prizes. 1 Cor.9. 24, 25.

kept the faith] The true doctrine of faith; or the gift of ſaving and juſtifying faith; or the faithfulneſs which he promiſed Chriſt in the diſcharge of his Apoſtleſhip, Rev.2.10.

V. 8. a crown of righteouſneſs] A reward of juſt and holy works, an incorruptible Crown of glory, which though it be a Crown of mercy, Pſal. 103. 4. and a gift of grace, Rom. 6.23. yet he calleth it here a Crown of righteouſneſs, which the righteous Judge ſhall give him, the more fitly to follow the metaphor taken from runners or wreſtlers for prizes, at their ſolemn exerciſes or games in Greece, in which there were certain Judges appointed to obſerve thoſe that proved maſteries, and give juſt ſentence on the Conquerours ſide, if he ſtrove lawfully, and fairly won the prize. And the meaning of the Apoſtle is, that he had kept the laws of proving maſteries, and ſo acquitted himſelf in running and wreſtling, that he might juſtly expect the prize. Beſides, eternal life may be rightly termed a Crown of righteouſneſs, both ex parte Dei, who promiſeth it to every one that overcometh, Revel. 2. 10. & 3. 21. and ex parte rei, becauſe it is juſt and righteous with God to render unto them, who have endured for his ſake toylſom labours, painful torments, and diſgraceful reproaches, eaſe, joy and glory. 2 Theſ. 1. 6, 7.

love his appearing] That they may ſee him in glory, who ſuffered ſo much for them in this world, and that they may receive from him their everlaſting reward.

V. 10. loved this preſent world] Hath given over to tend on me in my affliction any longer, chuſing rather to follow his worldly occaſions, and provide for his own ſafety and profit.

V. 13. cloak that I left at Troas] φελόνην, which ſome take for a riding Coat, or travelling Cloak, as if it were made by a tranſpoſition of letters, from the Latine penula; but the moſt ancient Syriac interpreter takes it for domum, or, repoſitorium ſcriptorum; and Heſychius a moſt exquiſite Greek Grammarian inclineth to that opinion, that by it the Apoſtle meant ſcriniolum, a little Desk or Coffer, wherein he laid his books or writings.

V. 14. Alexander the Copper-ſmith] Covetouſneſs is the bane of religion. Two of the greateſt enemies S. Paul had, were two Smithes, the one a Silver-ſmith, Acts 19. 24. and this Copper-ſmith here, and both of them, as it is conceived, maligned and oppoſed him, and his preaching for the ſame reaſon, becauſe the Apoſtle taught they were no Gods that were made with hands, and thereby hindered their gain, and marred their Handicraft, which was to make ſilver, or Copper Shrines, or Images to the Heathen gods and goddeſſes.

the Lord reward him] Gr. Tec. ſhall reward him. This is not a curſe, proceeding from anger, or a revengful heart, which is contrary to the doctrine of Chriſt, Matt. 5. 44. and of S. Paul himſelf, Rom. 12. 14. but a Prophetical commination out of a godly zeal, and a prediction inſpired by the holy Ghoſt, of the puniſhment which was ready to be executed upon him. See Pſal. 5. 10. & 109. 7. & deinceps. With this interpretation agreeth the Greek Copy of great Antiquity, written, as it is ſuppoſed by Tecla, wherein the Verb is not ἀποδῴη, but ἀποδώσει. the Lord reward, but the Lord ſhall or will reward him according to his works.

V. 15. our words] Or, our preachings.

V. 16. anſwer] Gr. apologie, or, defence of myſelf.

that it may not be laid to their charge] It is not ſufficient for us to maintain the truth our ſelves, but we muſt aſſiſt them who ſtand up for the truth, and not timorouſly ſhrink from them when they are in trouble for it.

V. 17. ſtood with me] Gr. by me, or, aſſiſted me.

mouth of the lion] Out of great and imminent danger of death. Some by the Lion underſtand the Emperour Nero, ſo called for his rage and cruelty; as generally Tyrants and powerful enemies of the Church are called. Ezek. 19. 2. Pſal. 35. 17. & 91. 13. Prov. 28. 15. Jere. 2. 15. & 47. And Marſyas certifying his Patron at Rome of the death of Tiberius, uſeth this phraſe, τέθνηκεν ὁ λέων, the Lion is dead. Joſephus antiqu. l. 18. c. 16.

V. 18. every evil work] From forſaking or wronging the truth, or doing any thing out of cowardly fear that may blemiſh this my holy profeſſion.

V. 20. at] Gr. in.

at] Gr. in.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TITUS.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

IN the Iſland of Creet (now Candie) the Foundations of a Chriſtian Church were laid, and the Walls rear'd up: But the Roof was wanting. Some abuſes were reformed, but not all: In ſome Cities there were Godly Paſtours, but not ſo through the whole Iſland. For which cauſe S. Paul left Titus there to ſupply what was lacking, and appoint Elders in every City; and to the end he might the better perform this task, he furniſheth him in this Epiſtle with wiſe and godly directions, whereof

Some
- 1. Concern all Chriſtians in general; as namely, To be ſubject to Principalities and Powers, to be zealous of good Works, to ſtudy neceſſary and wholeſome points of Doctrine, and avoid curious and unprofitable queſtions, Chap. 3.
- 2. Others concern certain men in particular, and theſe either Teachers.
  - 1. Good, Chapter 1. from Verſe 6. to the 10.
  - 2. Bad, From Verſe 10. to the end.
- 3. Or hearers whom he ranketh according to their ſex, into
  - 1. Men.
  - 2. Women.
  - 2. Their Age.
    - 1. Young.
    - 2. Old.
  - 3. Their Condition.
    - 1. Maſters.
    - 2. Servants, Chap. 2.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. ACcording to the faith*] Either the doctrine of faith which the Elect of God have ever believed from the beginning; or according to the faith which was wrought in the Elect, and whereby they are led to the acknowledgement of the ſaving truth of Chriſtian Religion.

V. 2. In hope] Or, for hope.

before the world began] Or, ſecular, or, everlaſting times. See 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Pet. 1. 20.

V. 4. own ſon] See 1 Tim. 1. 2.

common faith] That which before he called the faith of the Elect, he here calleth the common faith: as Jude verſ. 3. the common ſalvation, that is, the ordinary means of ſalvation, or the faith communicated to all the Elect through the whole world; or the faith common to me and thee, for there is but one way of ſalvation, common both to the Paſtour and the flock, to the father in Chriſt, as the Apoſtle was, and the ſon begotten by him in the Goſpel, as Titus was.

V. 5. left I thee in Crete] Crete is an Iſland in the Mediterranean or Mid-land Sea, now called Candie; of which ſee Acts 2, 11. & 27. 7, 12.

ſet in order] Either to correct and amend what was done amiſs, or farther to ſupply and perfect whatſoever was lacking of things behooveful to the Church.

wanting] Or, left undone.

ordain elders] Gr. appoint. That is, Paſtours, one or more in all places, where there is a convenient number of the faithful.

had appointed] Gr. gave order to.

V. 6. If any be blameleſs] See 1 Tim.3.2,&c.

V. 7. a biſhop] See Philſ.1.1. 1 Tim.3.2.

good men] Or, good things.

V. 9. as he hath been taught] Or, in teaching.

exhort] Gr. Tec. comfort thoſe that are in affliction.

V. 11. whoſe mouthes muſt be ſtopped] Either by ſolid confuting their errours or by ſuſpenſion and Eccleſiaſtical cenſures.

V. 12. a Prophet of their own] Some will have this allegation to be taken out of Callimachus his hymne in praiſe of Jupiter; where the firſt part of this verſe is found, but Callimachus was no Prophet of the Cretians: the Apoſtle therefore certainly meaneth Epimenides, who himſelf was a Cretian, whoſe Poem is called a book of Oracles or Prophecies; among whom this whole Verſe is found, viz. the Cretians are alwayes lyers, that is, crafty companions, falſe in their words and deeds, as the Latine Proverb, Cretizare cum Cretenſibus, declareth: Evil beaſts, that is, fierce, intractable, and dangerous to deal withal; and ſlow bellies, that is, given to ſloth, and idleneſs, and luxurious gluttons. Which cenſure of the Cretians, the Apoſtle here confirms, not to diſcredit thoſe Iſlanders, or blaſt their reputation, but to diſcover the maladies of that people to him, whom he there left as a Phyſitian, to cure them by ſound and wholeſome doctrine.

V. 13. ſharply] Gr. cuttingly, touching them to the quick.

V. 14. Not giving] See 1 Tim.1.4.

commandments of men] The Apoſtle forbiddeth not ſimply to give heed to the commandments of men: for elſewhere he requireth us to obey the lawful commands of our ſuperiours in Church and Commonwealth: but to the traditions of thoſe of the circumciſion, whom he taxeth, verſ. 10. and generally of ſuch men as walk not with a right foot to the Goſpel; for it is not here ſaid ſimply the commandments of men, but of ſuch men as turn from the truth, and therefore we muſt turn from them.

V. 15. Unto the pure all things] See Rom. 14.20. That is, all meats and other creatures of God. For the ceremonial Law of Moſes which made a diſtinction of clean and unclean meats, being abrogated by the Goſpel, the uſe of all thoſe things is pure and holy to the faithful, being themſelves pure, that is, cleanſed by the blood of Chriſt, and ſanctified by his Spirit; whereas on the contrary, the ſpiritual uncleanneſs of unbeleevers maketh, that the very things otherwiſe permitted by Moſes, become unclean to them, Hag. 2.13.

their mind and conſcience is defiled] Impurity and uncleanneſs doth not conſiſt in the outward abſtinence from any meats, or the eating of them, but it lyeth within the ſoul of man, and the faculties of the ſame, which are all of them unclean and defiled with ſin in the unbeleevers. Thoſe two parts of man which may ſeem moſt pure and free from ſin; viz. the mind, which retaineth yet ſome light of knowledge, and the conſcience, that applyeth this light, to teſtifie, diſcern, and judge of mens actions good or evil; now by that inward and inbred corruption of ignorance and perverſneſs, is become impure to man, the former hindring the knowledge of the latter conformity to the will of God; by the former he tempteth God, and by the other he offendeth and reſiſteth him ſo long as he continueth in his unregenerate eſtate.

V. 16. reprobate] Or, void of judgement.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. SPeak thou] The doctrine of faithful Paſtours muſt not onely be generally pure and ſound, but particularly and diſcreetly applyed to all ages, and ſexes, and callings, according to the diverſity of circumſtances.

V. 2. ſober] Or, vigilant.

V. 3. holineſs] Or, holy women.

falſe accuſers] Or, make-bates.

given] Gr. ſubject; or, enſlaved.

to much wine] δεδουλωμένας ſignifieth more than given to much wine, it implyeth as much as overcome or enſlaved: whereby it appears, that as the men of Crete were given to their belly and luxurious feeding, chap. 1.12. ſo the women alſo were given to their palate and more liberal drinking of wine, even to diſtemper: an odious vice in men, but much more in women.

V. 4. ſober] Or, wiſe.

V. 5. obedient] See Epheſ. 5.23.

V. 6. ſober-minded] Or, diſcreet.

V. 7. A pattern of good works] A faithful Miniſter muſt preach the Goſpel, as well in his life as in his Sermons: ſo S. Peter (Ep.1.ch.5. ver.3.) requireth the Elders to carry themſelves, not as Lords over Gods inheritance, but as enſamples to the flock.

V. 9. ſervants] See Epheſ.6.5. Coloſſ.3.22. 1 Pet.2.18.

anſwering] Or, gain-ſaying.

V. 10. adorn the doctrine of God] As the evil lives of profeſſors is a great obloquie and blemiſh, ſo on the contrary, their godly converſation is a great honour and ornament to the Doctrine of the Goſpel.

V. 11. grace of God] The exceeding mercy and goodneſs of God: or the Doctrine of the grace of God, exhibited to us by Chriſt, and comprehended in the Goſpel.

that bringeth ſalvation,&c.] Or, that bringeth ſalvation to all men, hath appeared.

hath appeared] ἐπεφάνη illuxit, hath clearly manifeſted it ſelf, or ſhined forth as a light in the darkneſs of the ſhadows of the Old Teſtament, and of the ignorance of heatheniſm, Eſa. 42.7.16,18. Acts 26.18. Rom.13.12. Epheſ.5.8. 1 Pet.2.9 1 John 2.8.

to all men] Without diſtinction of Nations, ſex, age, or condition, 1 Tim.2.4.

V. 12. Denying ungodlineſs] That is, renouncing and forſaking them. Under the name of ungodlineſs he compriſeth all breaches of the firſt Table; under worldly luſts, all inordinate deſires againſt the ſecond: which are called worldly, both in reſpect of the object, becauſe they are converſant about ſuch things as belong to the preſent eſtate of this life and world, and in regard of the ſubject, viz. ſuch luſts as are found and reign in worldly and unregenerate men, which are deſcribed, Epheſ.2.2,3. & 4,17,18,19. 1 Pet.4.3. 1 Joh. 2.16.

we ſhould live ſoberly] As in the former words were compriſed all the negative, ſo under theſe three adverbs all the affirmative precepts of the Law, which have a three-fold reference: the firſt to our ſelves, the ſecond to our neighbour, the third to God. Soberly, in reſpect of our ſelves; righteouſly, in reſpect of our neighbours, and holily or godly, in reſpect of God. Hæc tria perpetuò meditare adverbia Pauli, Hæc tria ſint vitæ regula ſancta tuæ.

V. 13. Looking] See 1 Cor.1.7. Phil.3.20.

bleſſed hope] The bleſſed recompenſe of reward which we ſtedfaſtly hope for, everlaſting life and glory, which we ſhall be fully poſſeſſed of at the ſecond coming of Chriſt, which ſhall be with great majeſty and glory, Col.1.5.

the great God] To the confutation and confuſion of all that deny the Deity of Chriſt, the Apoſtle here calleth him not onely God, but the great God, that is, immenſe, and of infinite power: for as life when it is attributed to God, ſignifieth immortality, and wealth all-ſufficiency, and age eternity, and ſtrength omnipotency, ſo greatneſs immenſity.

V. 14. redeem us from all iniquity] From the guilt, puniſhment and power of all ſin.

purifie unto himſelf] Purifie by faith in our juſtification, by charity and other graces of the Spirit in our ſanctification: or, purifie, that is, ſanctifie or conſecrate to himſelf.

a peculiar people] A people exempt and ſeparate from the reſt of the world, a people whom he receives into his ſpecial favour and protection, whom he eſteems as his chief treaſure and pretious Jewels, Mal. 3.17. 1 Pet.2.9.

zealous of good works] Not onely careful to ſhew forth good works, but bearing a fervent affection to them, and earneſtly ſtriving that none may out-ſtrip or excel you in them.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. TO be ſubject] Rom.13.1. 1 Pet.2.13.

principalities and powers] Some conceive that there were divers in Crete and other parts who were infected with the doctrine of Judas Galileus, of whom Gamaliel ſpeaketh, Act.5.37. who denyed that any ought to be called Lords ſave God; and that the people of God ought to pay tribute to none: and for this cauſe the Apoſtle both here and elſewhere preſſeth the doctrine of obedience to all civil Magiſtrates under the name of principalities and powers.

V. 2. brawlers] Gr. fighters.

all meekneſs] Though all ſinners are not alike to be handled, but on ſome we are to have compaſſion, others to ſave with fear, pulling them out of the fire, Jude 23. yet the Miniſters of God muſt do nothing in rage or paſſion, but with the ſpirit of meekneſs, ſhewing all meekneſs to all men, Gentiles as well as Jews, enemies as well as friends, and that eſpecially out of this conſideration, that the beſt of Chriſtians before their converſion were as bad as the worſt of them whoſe carriage is moſt offenſive to the Church, verſ. 3.

V. 3. we our ſelves] 1 Cor.6.11.

V. 4. kindneſs and love] Or, pitie. See Chap.2.11.

V. 5. Not by, &c.] 2 Tim. 1.9.

works of righteouſneſs] That is, ſuch as are done according to the Law of God, which is the rule of all righteouſneſs: ſo that here all works are excluded from being meritorious cauſes of our ſalvation, not onely the works of the Ceremonial Law, but alſo Moral; not onely done before our converſion, but after; for here the mercy of God is ſet againſt all works done by us, and to it alone is our ſalvation aſcribed.

waſhing of regeneration] By the regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghoſt, which is like unto a Bath of water, whereby the filth of our ſins is waſhed away and cleanſed, Ezek. 36. 25, 26, 27. whereof the Font of Baptiſm is a ſign and ſeal. See the like manner of ſpeech, Rom.4.11. 1 Pet.3.21.

and renewing of the Holy Ghoſt] The renewing, which the virtue of the Holy Ghoſt worketh, who applyeth the bloud of Chriſt to the ſoul of the faithful, as the expiation for ſins, whereupon a man is made a new creature, regenerated according to the image of God in righteouſneſs and holineſs.

V. 6. abundantly] Gr. richly.

V. 8. maintain good works] Gr. go before others, or, excel in good.

V. 9. avoid fooliſh queſtions] 1 Tim.1.4. 2 Tim.2.23.

V. 10. A man that is an heretick] An obſtinate defender and ſpreader of erroneous doctrine, repugnant to the foundation of faith, and tending to the diſturbing and diſtracting of the Church.

after the firſt and ſecond admonition] This word comprehendeth not onely warning given by the Church, but inſtructions reſolving of his doubts, clear refutations of his errours, friendly exhortations both in private and publike.

reject] Do not trouble thy ſelf to diſpute any more with him, for that were to caſt holy things before dogs, Matt.7.6. give no more eare to his replies, cavils, and objections, but according to thy office excommunicate him, hold him for a profane perſon, and as a member cut off from the body of the Church, Rom.16.17. 1 Cor.5.13. Gal. 1.8,9. & 5.12. 2 Theſſ.3.14.

V. 11. is ſubverted] Quite deſperate, perverted both in mind and will in things concerning the faith, like to a building that is broken down to the very foundation.

V. 11. condemned of himſelf] Sinneth wilfully and in a high degree, being convinced in his own conſcience, that he ſhuts his eyes againſt the light, and reſiſteth and oppoſeth the known truth.

V. 12. to Nicopolis] A city in Macedonia, which had that name, as ſome affirm, given it from νίκη, and πόλις, becauſe at that city, as S. Jerome writeth, Auguſtus got a famous victory againſt Antony and Cleopatra.

V. 14. maintain good works] Or, profeſs honeſt trades.

ANNOTATIONS

ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO PHILEMON.

The ARGUMENT.

This Epiſtle was written by the Apoſtle Paul unto Philemon, one of his Fellow-Labourers in the Miniſtery of the Goſpel, in the behalf of one Oneſimus, a Servant of his, who had withdrawn himſelf from his Maſters ſervice, and had alſo, as it ſeemeth, wronged him in his Temporal Eſtate: But coming to Rome where Paul then abode under reſtraint, had been by his Miniſtery converted; and after he had been for a while detained there, to attend upon him, was with this ſent back to his Maſter. The Apoſtle therein intreating him to admit him into his ſervice again, remitting to him his offence formerly committed, and engaging himſelf to make good whatſoever damage he had ſuſtained by him. The Epiſtle though written upon ſuch a private occaſion, yet is ſo penned, as it carries with it, the lively Character of an Apoſtolical Spirit, and contains very pregnant expreſſions of Pauls good eſtimation, and entire affection to Philemon, tender bowels of compaſſion towards a ſincere convert, and hearty deſire of the Welfare of thoſe whom he hath occaſion any way to mention in the ſame.

CHAP. I.

Verſ.1. PRiſoner of Jeſus Chriſt] That is, for Jeſus Chriſt, as verſ. 13. bonds of the Goſpel, Epheſ.3.1. Which circumſtance he toucheth upon, the rather to move Philemon to pity and compaſſion, that he would not deny his earneſt requeſt in the behalf of Oneſimus, and thereby adde affliction to his affliction.

V. 2. beloved] Gr. Tec. ſiſter.

Apphia] Theodoret affirmeth that this Apphia was Philemons wife; and in the ſubſcription of this Epiſtle in a very ancient manuſcript theſe words are, To Philemon and Apphia, Maſter and Miſtreſs of Oneſimus. And if ſhe were not Philemons wife, it is not like the Apoſtle would have put her in the inſcription in this letter, which he wrote in behalf of Philemons ſervant.

Archippus] This Archippus is conceived to be the ſame of whom the Apoſtle ſpeaketh, Col. 4.17. to whom Oneſimus delivered Saint Pauls Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, who being Paſtor at Coloſſe might prevail the more with Philemon, one of his flock, at whoſe houſe he lay.

V. 4. I thank my God,&c.] See 1 Theſſ.1.2. 2 Theſſ.1.3.

V. 5. toward all ſaints] Either he taketh faith in a larger ſenſe, and ſo it may extend to ſaints. For although we beleeve not in them, yet we believe them, as we read Exod. 14.31. They believed the Lord and his ſervant Moſes. Or elſe the words towards all ſaints, are to be referred to the word love, and towards the Lord Jeſus to the word faith; and this is made more evident by the Syriack tranſlation, in which the words are tranſpoſed after this manner, hearing of thy faith, and thy love which thou haſt towards the Lord Jeſus, and towards all ſaints, Col.1.4.

V. 6. communication of thy faith,&c.] That is, the fruits of thy faith In ſome copies it is, may be made evident, ἐναργὴς, not ἐνεργὴς, and that ſeemeth to be true reading: howſoever the ſenſe is much at one, I pray that the charitable actions which proceed from thy faith may be a clear evidence, and give an effectual demonſtration of the holy graces that are in thee.

by] Gr. in.

in] Gr. to.

V. 7. bowels of the ſaints] Thou haſt comforted the ſaints at the very heart, and given them much eaſe and refocillation in the heat of perſecution.

V. 10. for my ſon] Gr. concerning.

Oneſimus] See Coloſſ.4.9.

V. 11. unprofitable] He evidently alludeth to the name ὀνήσιμος, Oneſimus, which in Greek ſignifieth profitable: while he was thy ſervant before and an unbeleever, he was contrary to his name, utterly unprofitable; but now upon his converſion he will make good his name, and prove truly Oneſimus, that is, profitable to thee and me.

V. 12. mine own bowels] As if he were my own ſon, begotten of mine own body, 2 Sam. 16.11.

V. 16. both in the fleſh and in the Lord] Both in worldly and civil reſpect, and alſo ſpiritual. It may be alſo that Oneſimus though a ſervant, yet was ſome way of kin to Philemon.

V. 19. with my own hand] This is as it were a bill or obligation wherein he promiſeth to pay the damage Oneſimus had done unto his Maſter, that it might not ſtand in the way of his reconciliation.

albeit I do] Gr. that I may not ſay.

I do not ſay] I might requeſt thee to put up that debt or damage in exchange of thoſe ſpiritual gifts which thou haſt received by my means, whereby thou art obliged to me for the ſalvation of thy ſoul, but in this I will gladly forgo my own right, intending to give thee full and entire ſatisfaction for any dammage thou haſt ſuſtained by Oneſimus.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Apoſtle Paul obſerving, that the Hebrews (at leaſt a great and conſiderable part of them) were ready to fall from the faith of Chriſt into their former Judaiſm, by reaſon of thoſe cruel perſecutions which they ſuffered, hence took occaſion to write this Epiſtle unto them; wherein he laboureth to confirm them in that faith which they had received, and to ſtir them up to ſtand ſtedfaſt in it; and that by divers arguments: as firſt, from the excellency of Chriſts nature, perſon, and offices; but chiefly of his Prieſtly office above that of Aarons. Secondly, from the danger of Apoſtaſie, Thirdly, from the excellency and great power of faith. Fourthly, from the gracious effects and fruits of affliction. And then concludes the Epiſtle with exhortations to divers Chriſtian duties, both general and particular.

There is ſome Controverſie about the Author of this Epiſtle. Some aſcribing it to Barnabas. Others, to Clemens of Rome: Others, to Luke: But generally it is received, that S. Paul was the Author thereof. And it is obſerved, that all the Greek Copies, ſave one, bear this inſcription: and generally, by an Hebrew, we are to underſtand the whole poſterity of Abraham, by Iſaac, who was the firſt (we read of) who was ſtyled an Hebrew, Gen. 14. 13.. The cauſe wherefore that name was given unto him, you may ſee in the Annotations upon Gen. 14. 13. But more particularly in this place, we are to underſtand hereby thoſe of the Hebrews, who having received the Goſpel, continued in Judea before their diſperſion.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. GOD] That is, the Father; for when the name [God] is mentioned in the Scriptures, with relation unto the Son, thereby we are to underſtand God the Father.

at ſundry times] Or, by, or, in ſundry parts. The Original word ſignifieth thoſe ſeveral parts or degrees wherewith the doctrine of the Goſpel was revealed unto the Fathers; that it was not at once altogether revealed, but a little, and a little; now this, now that, as God in his wiſdom ſaw moſt requiſite.

divers] Thereby is meant thoſe ſeveral and different kinds or ſorts of revelation, whereby the word God was revealed, as ſometimes by Angels, ſometimes by viſions in the day, ſometimes by dreams in the night, &c. ſometimes more plainly, ſometimes more obſcurely, Num. 12. 6.

in time paſt] That is, both before and under the Law.

by] Or, in. Both prepoſitions, both in the Hebrew and in the Greek, are promiſcuouſly taken one for the other; yet this latter ſeems to be more emphatical in this place, intimating that God moved their hearts and tongues. Matt. 10. 20. 2 Cor. 13. 3. 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11, 21. A king ſpeaketh by, he doth not ſpeak in his Ambaſſadour; God doth both.

V. 2. In theſe laſt days] What we are to underſtand by the laſt times, we muſt gather from the ſubject matter or circumſtances of the place. Sometimes it is taken for the day of judgement; as John 6. 44. Sometimes neer the end of the world, or the day of judgement; as 2 Tim. 3. 2 Pet. 3. 3. Sometime for the time of the Goſpel, which is called, the fulneſs of time, Epheſ. 1. 10. Gal. 4. 4. and ſo Eſay 2. 2. Mich. 4. 1. 1 Pet. 1. 10. This is called the end of the world, Chap. 9. 26. Now, the time of the Goſpel is ſtyled, the laſt times, becauſe we are not to expect any other revelation after this time: or in oppoſition to the times before and under the Law, which is called the old time, Matth. 5. 21. or becauſe our Lord Chriſt hath now made all things new, 2 Cor. 5. 17. Acts 2. 17. See the notes on Gen. 49. 1.

ſpoken] That is, fully and plainly.

by] See verſ. 1.

Son] Deut. 18. 15. compared with Act. 3. 22. & 7. 37. Matth. 17. 5. John 1. 18. That is, his naturall Son, coeſſential, or of the ſame eſſence with the Father, called therefore the onely begotten, Joh. 1. 14. & 3. 16. for others are called the ſons of God by grace and adoption, John 1. 12. Rom. 8. 14. Gal. 4. 6.

appointed heir] That is, ordained Poſſeſſor, Lord, and Diſpenſer; which is not to be underſtood of that eſſential dominion or Lordſhip which he had common with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, being God equal with them; but of that œconomical, diſpenſed, or delegate dominion or Lordſhip, whereunto he was foreordained before the foundations of the world, being appointed the Mediatour of the new Teſtament, and wherein he was actually conſtituted and placed, after that he had finiſhed the work of mans redemption, Pſal. 89. 27. Matt. 28. 28. Luk. 24. 26. John 5. 27. Act. 2. 36. Rom. 14. 9. Eph. 1, 20. Phil. 2. 9, 10, &c. Rev. 4. 11.

all things] Whether they belong to this life, or the life to come: ſo that whatſoever we want we muſt ſeek in and through him, Joh. 3. 35. & 13. 3.

by whom] Prov. 8. 27——30. Joh. 1. 3. 1 Cor. 8. 7. Col. 1. 16. Heb. 1. 10. It is not as by an inſtrument or inferiour cauſe, but by him, as by his eternal wiſdom, and by way of a conjoyned, cooperating and equal cauſe; ſo that by this particle [by] is meant only the order of working; it is the Father by the Son, and not the inferiority of cauſes.

made] That is, created, as John 1. 3. Col. 1. 16.

the worlds] That is, the worlds continuation through its ſeveral ages, and all things viſible and inviſible, meaſured by time, or whatſoever hath any duration or ſucceſſion. Chap. 11. 3. Neh. 9. 6.

V. 3. Who being, &c.] Wiſ. 7. 26. Joh. 1. 14. Phil. 2. 6. Col. 1. 15.

brightneſs] Or, ſent forth light. The ſpeech is metaphorical, taken or borrowed from a lightſome body, and the beams or ſplendor which it ſends forth; God the Father being herein compared unto the lightſome body, God the Son unto the beam or ſplendor ſent forth; and ſo are the words following, wherein God the Father is compared unto a Seal, God the Son unto an impreſſion reſulting from the Seal. Now the Son of God may be called the ſent-forth light of his Fathers glory, and the imprinted form of his Eſſence or Perſon; either in reſpect of his Deity, and then thereby is ſignified, both the manner of his eſſential generation; viz. that it was eternal from his Father, as alſo his conſubſtantiality with the Father; that is, that he is of the ſame eſſence with him: or elſe in reſpect of his incarnation, or manifeſtation in the fleſh, becauſe in Chriſt manifeſted in the fleſh the Glory and Majeſty of God the Father ſhined forth, which otherwiſe was inviſible, and could not be beholden.

expreſs image] Or, imprinted form. See the former note.

upholding] That is, continuing their natures and governing of them Num. 11. 14. Deut. 1. 9.

by the word] That is, by his powerful word, or by his words of power, by his mighty command, and according to his own will and pleaſure, Chap. 11. 3.

when] Or, after that. Here the Apoſtle gives another reaſon why Chriſt was made heir of all things, verſ. 2. viz. becauſe by himſelf he purged our ſins.

by himſelf] That is, the ſacrifice of himſelf: whereby is implyed the ſuperexcellency of Chriſts ſacrifice above all others. See Cha. 9 v. 12. 14, 26.

purged] That is, taken away the guilt of ſins, by making ſatisfaction unto the juſtice of God for them. Chap. 9. 22, 23. Ephe. 5. 26. Tit. 2. 14. Joh. 1. 1, 7. 1 Pet. 1. 2. Revel. 1. 5.

ſate down] Herein the Apoſtle alludeth to the cuſtom of Kings, who place him at their right hand whom they put next in authority and power under them; ſo that hereby is denoted the ſupreme and high dignity, power and dominion, which Chriſt obtained when he aſcended into heaven. Chap. 12. 2, Matt. 26. 64. Rom. 8.34. Col. 3. 1.

of the Majeſty] That is, of God the Father. See Chap.8.1.

V. 4. Being] At this verſe S. Paul begins to confirm that which he had before ſpoken, touching the excellency of Chriſts perſon, by preferring him unto Angels,and conſequently unto al other Creatures.

made] The Original word doth not onely ſignifie being made, but alſo ſimply being, John 1.15. Act.7.38. and not onely ſo, but being declared or acknowledged, Rom.3.4. James 1. 12.

inheritance] Chriſt hath a double inheritance; one as the natural Son of God by eternal generation; another, as God and man, or as the Mediatour of the New Teſtament, both may be underſtood in this place: ſee verſ. 2.

more excellent] Eph.1.21. Phil.2.9. That is, more honourable and glorious Titles and Attributes, or greater Honour, Power,Dominion, Majeſty and glory than the Angels.

V. 5. Thou art my Son] The place of the Pſalmiſt, Pſal.2.7. in the literal ſenſe, is to be underſtood of David, as the Type,who after many troubles, was at length ſettled in his Kingdom, which God had promiſed him; but in the myſtical ſenſe it is underſtood of Chriſt the truth: Now Chriſt may be ſaid to be the Son of God, and to be begotten of him in a three-fold reſpect. Firſt, of his eternal generation, ſee verſ. 2. Secondly, of his incarnation, Luke 1.35. Thirdly, of his reſurrection, whereby he was begotten unto an eternal Kingdom and Prieſthood. And of this we are to underſtand this place, as we may gather from Saint Pauls expoſition hereof, Act. 13.33. And it cannot be probably conceived, how Davids exaltation unto his Kingdom, can be a type of Chriſts eternal generation.

I will be] This place is of the like nature with the former; in the literal ſenſe it is meant of Solomon the type,but in the myſtical, of Chriſt the truth: ſee 2 Sam.7.14. 2 Chron 22.10.

V. 6. And again] Or, And when he bringeth his firſt begotten again; or,the ſecond time. Whether we underſtand the place either of Chriſts coming, that is, in the fleſh; or elſe of his ſecond, that is,to judgement,it proves the truth intended, viz. that Chriſt is more excellent than the Angels.

firſt-begotten] Rom. 8. 29. So called, to denote his excellency above his brethren in nature, office, glory, dominion, Exod. 4. 22. Pſal. 89. 27. Jer. 31. as alſo in that love wherewith God the Father loveth him above all his brethren, Deut. 21. 16. Mic. 6. 7. Zech. 12. 10.

And let all] Pſal.97.7. And this was fulfilled, Luk.12.13,14. Mark 1.13. Rev.5.11,12.

V. 7. maketh] Pſal.104.4.

Spirits] That is, as the winds: ſee the Note following.

as a flame] Or, as the lightnings. By both which we are to underſtand their readineſs to execute Gods will; for as the winds and lightnings ſuddenly paſs from one end of the earth to the other, ſo the Angels preſently fulfill Gods will, Matth.6.10.

V. 8. Thy throne] Pſal. 45. 6. Eſay 9. 7. The Pſalm whence this is taken, is allegorical; ſee the notes thereon; expreſſing the ſpiritual marriage between Chriſt and his Church; and therefore here it is properly applyed.

V. 9. Therefore] Rather for this end God did anoint thee: for if we underſtand by anointing, Chriſts ſeating in his Kingdom, or entring into his glory, the ſenſe will be abſurd, viz. Thou haſt adminiſtred thy Kingdom with juſtice, therefore God hath ſeated thee in thy Kingdom: He was firſt to be ſeated in his Kingdom, before he could adminiſter it with juſtice: So that by (Therefore) we are to underſtand the cauſe wherefore God did anoint him, and not the fruit or effect of Chriſts righteous government.

anointed] Qualified thee with the gifts of his Spirit, for the adminiſtration of thy Kingdom: ſee Luk.4.18.

oyl] With his Spirit: compared to oyl,becauſe as oyl ſtrengtheneth the body,ſo the Spirit of God ſtrengtheneth and rejoyceth the ſoul, 1 Theſſ.1.6. This anointing was when the Son of God aſſumed our humane nature into the unity of his perſon; whereby the Spirit of God and all the graces of his Spirit were communicated unto his humane nature, ſo far as it was capable of them.

above] Not by meaſure, but in fulneſs; that all others of his fulneſs might receive grace for grace, John 1. 14.& 3 34. Col. 1. 19.

fellows] All men; becauſe all men are his fellows in reſpect of our humane nature which he aſſumed. Or, all thoſe who have received the Spirit of God; or, all Kings, prieſts, and prophets, becauſe thoſe in ancient time were wont to be anointed. Now our Lord Chriſt being a King,prieſt,and prophet, thoſe in an eſpecial manner may be called his fellows.

V. 10. And thou] Pſal.102.25. Eſa.34.4. verſ. 2.

V.12. And as a veſture ſhalt thou fold them up, and they ſhall be changed] Or we may read it thus; As a garment doſt thou ſhake them, and they ſhall paſs away. Or if we read it (fold) the words allude unto a tent,which when it is to be removed, is folded up.

V. 13. Sit] Reign; as it is expounded, 1 Cor.15.25.

footſtool] It is an alluſion unto a cuſtom in the Eaſtern parts,where they were wont to put their feet upon the necks of thoſe whom they have conquered: So that hereby we are to underſtand that perfect victory which Chriſt had over all his enemies, Eſay 8.8. Joſh. 10.24. 2 Sam.22.41.

V. 14. Are they,&c.] Verſ.7. 2 Kin. 2. 11. & 6. 17. Pſal. 34. 7. & 91. 11, &c.

heirs] They are principally for the elect, and for their ſake they are occupied about the wicked: As an Angel deſtroyed the hoſt of Sennacherib, 2 Kin.19.35. and Herod, Act.12.23.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. THerefore] From the former doctrine touching Chriſts excellency and dignity above angels and all other creatures, Saint Paul infers this exhortation. The ſcope whereof is to ſtir up the Hebrews to ſtand faſt in that faith which they had received.

heed] The more earneſtly keep and obey: or more abundantly.

let them ſlip] Gr. run out as leaking veſſels.

ſlip] In which words there is a metaphor, which ſome conceive to be taken from a leaking veſſel: And the ſenſe then is this; Take heed, that you ſuffer not the things which you have heard to ſlip out of your memories: to which is oppoſed, the hiding of the word in our hearts, Pſal.119.11. Luke 2. 51. Others, from water poured upon the ground, which cannot be gathered up again, 2 Sam. 14. 14. And to this Expoſition, the context of the next verſe ſeems to lead us. See Prov.3.21.

V. 2. word] That is, either the law given upon Mount Sinai,Deu. 33.2. Act.7.53. Gal.3.19. Or elſe all thoſe revelations which God made unto the prophets by Angels, or other meſſengers: ſee Chap. 10.28,29.

by Angels] Which muſt not be underſtood of the Law given by the Miniſtery of Angels, which ſome have gathered from thoſe places, Act.7.53. Gal.3.19. for if we well weigh the words in the original, they imply not ſo much. Stephen ſaith not, that they received the Law by the Miniſtery of Angels, but among the orders or ranks of angels, by whom the fearful trumpet was ſounded, and who were, (as it were) a heavenly Army attending upon God at that preſent time, when he gave the Law to the people: and in Gal. 3. 19. it is among the Angels, by the hand of a Mediatour: but hereby we are to underſtand here any doctrine or admonition whatſoever, which God ſent to man by the miniſtery of Angels under the Old Teſtament.

ſtedfaſt] That is, was of ſuch force and authority, that no man tranſgreſſed ſtubbornly and willingly, unpuniſhed: ſee Deut.32.35. 1 Cor.10.6,7,8,9,10.

a juſt] Condigne puniſhment, Rom.1.27.

V. 3. great ſalvation] That is, the knowledge, Luke 1. 77. or the word, Act.13.26. or the Goſpel of ſo great ſalvation, Eph.1.13. our eternal redemption and freedom from the bondage of ſin, Satan, and death; called great, in compariſon of all temporal and corporal deliverances.

began] Not that Chriſt delivered the doctrine of ſalvation imperfectly,and left it to be fully delivered by the Apoſtles,but becauſe he firſt preached it, and that fully and plainly, which before was but obſcurely revealed: ſee Chap.1. v. 1, 2.

unto us] That is, unto our times: or elſe S.Paul here joyns himſelf with thoſe Hebrews, who were called into the fellowſhip of the Goſpel, that thereby his exhortation might leave the deeper impreſſion in thoſe,unto whom he did write: ſee 1 Cor.19.8,9. 1 Pet.4.3.

V. 4. God alſo bearing] Mark 16.20. At this verſe S.Paul reſumes the former compariſon between Chriſt and the Angels.

gifts] Gr. diſtributions: ſee Rom.12.6. 1Cor.7.17.& 12.11. Eph. 4.8. becauſe gifts of the ſpirit were not given all unto one, but to ſeveral perſons.

V. 5. the world to] The Apoſtle following the Tranſlation of the Septuagint, Eſa.9.6. calls the church under the Goſpel, eſpecial,after Chriſts reſurrection and aſcention, when he had entred upon his eternal kingdom, and prieſthood,the world to come: firſt,in relation unto the church before and under the Law: ſecondly, becauſe of the reſtauration of all things by Chriſt begun already, 2 Cor. 5. 17. and ſhall be finiſhed hereafter at the general day of reſurrection, which is called the time of reſtitution of all things, Act.3.21. Ephe. 1. 10.

ſpake] Hereof he had ſpoke, Chap.1. v. 2,3,13.

V. 6. what is man] Pſal.8.4. The words in the literal ſenſe, are to be underſtood, both of the miſery and baſeneſs, as alſo of the prerogative and dignity of man in general, eſpecially of the faithful: but in the myſtical or prophetical ſenſe, they are to be underſtood of the humiliation and exaltation of the man Chriſt Jeſus, in whom they are moſt exactly and exquiſitely fulfilled.

V. 7. little lower] Or, a little while inferiour. The Original, both in the Hebrew and the Greek ſignifieth, both a little deal, as Gen. 18. 4. & 24. 17. Joſh. 6. 7. and a little while, a Gen. 30.39.

Exod.17.4. Lev. 25.52. Luke 22.58. Acts 5.34. and the place may be underſtood of both according to the two-fold ſenſe obſerved in it: according to the litteral or hiſtorical ſenſe, or as theſe words ſpeak of the baſeneſſe and dignity of man, we may underſtand them of a little deal, but according to the prophetical ſenſe: as they ſpeak of Chriſt, we may underſtand them a little while, and of a little deal.

Angels] In the Original it is מצלהו▭, which is one of the names of God; and therefore ſome have tranſlated it, a little lower than God: but becauſe the original word is often attributed unto the angels and magiſtrates, therefore the Apoſtle properly alleageth the place, for the proof of that, which he intended.

V. 8. But now] All power was given unto Chriſt at his reſurrection, Mat. 28. 18. John 5. 27. but yet he doth not fully exerciſe this power: this is left to the judgement of the great day, when all his enemies ſhall be put under his feet: ſee chap.1.13.

V. 9. But we ſee] That is, by his reſurrection, aſcenſion, and thoſe gifts of the Spirit, which he poured down upon his Apoſtles and the whole Church after his aſcenſion, Acts 2. 4. Eph. 4. 8. ſee verſe 4.

for] That is, that he might ſuffer death: the Greek prepoſition ſometimes implying the final cauſe: ſee Rom.4.25. Or, in that he did dye, which the angels do not: ſee Phil.2.4.

grace of God] John 3.16. Tit.2.11.

taſte] That is, dye, Mat. 6. 28. Mark 9. 1. Luke 9. 27. Or it may be underſtood of Chriſt dying without ſeeing corruption, Pſalm 16.10. Acts 2.17. & 13.35. Or, Chriſt may be ſaid but to taſte of death, becauſe he continued but a ſhort time under the power thereof, it being impoſſible, that he ſhould be holden of it, Acts 2. 24.

for every man] Rom.5.18. 1 Tim.2.6. 1 John 2. 2.

V. 10. For it] Here Saint Paul proceeds to ſhew the reaſon, wherefore it became him, who was ordained to be the Prince and Captain of our ſalvation, to be man, and in our humane nature to ſuffer death.

became] Whether the work of mans redemption could have been wrought without the humiliation of the Son of God, is not determinable by men; but that it was the moſt admirable way, which wiſdom, juſtice, and mercy could require, cannot be denied.

for whom] Rom.11.26. 2 Cor. 5.15.

glory] So the eternal happineſſe of the Saints is often ſtyled: ſee Rom.8.18. 2 Cor.4.17. Eph. 1.18.

to make] That is, to conſecrate unto his everlaſting kingdom and prieſthood. So the original word is uſed by the Septuagint, Exod.29.10.

Captain of their] Acts 3.15. & 5.31.

V. 11. ſanctifieth] By (ſanctifie) here underſtand not onely the renewing of our natures, but alſo our juſtification: ſee chapter 9. 9. & 10.10. Eph. 5.26. by both which the Prince of our ſalvation brings ſons unto glory. Or Chriſts conſecrating us unto his Father, Rev.1.6.

of one] That is, of one maſſe or lump, or of the ſame nature. It is conceived by ſome that this rule is taken from the manner of ſanctifying under the Old Teſtament, under which the high prieſt and thoſe whom he ſanctified, were of one and the ſame nature; and ſo the firſt-lings and firſt-fruits were of the ſame nature with the whole flock and crop, which was ſanctified in them.

brethren] That is, to reckon himſelf amongſt them as one of the ſame nature and condition; for in thoſe Texts afterwards alleaged, he doth not in expreſſe words call them brethren, but only imply it.

V. 12. Saying] Viz. Pſalm 22.22. Which though it be to be here underſtood of David as the type, yet is likewiſe to be underſtood of Chriſt as of the truth; it being a continued relation of the ſtory of Chriſts ſufferings, and is oftner alleaged to that purpoſe by the Evangeliſts, than any chapter in the Old Teſtament.

V. 13. I will put] Pſalm 13. 2. & 22. 30. It is the duty of man ſubject to miſery and affliction to put his truſt in God, and therefore when Chriſt affirms of himſelf (I will put, &c.) thereby he implyes his humane nature ſubject to miſery and affliction.

Behold] Iſaiah was a type of Chriſt: hence that which he affirms of himſelf, is true of Chriſt.

children] Not only Iſaiah himſelf was a type of Chriſt, but his children alſo were a figure of thoſe whom Chriſt was to bring unto glory: ſee Iſa.8.18.

V. 14. Foraſmuch then, &c.] The Apoſtle having ſhewed before, that Chriſt was of the ſame nature with other men, comes at this verſe to ſhew the reaſon why it was ſo requiſite.

fleſh and blood] Underſtand thereby mans humane nature ſubject to weakneſſe, miſery, and death. So Mat.16. 17. Gal. 1.16. Eph. 6.12. ſee chap.5.7.

took] That is, did aſſume into the unity of his perſon, or humane nature, ſubject to the ſame common blameleſſe infirmities.

that through death] 1 Cor.15.54,55.

through] As it were by his own weapon.

him] That is, the power and kingdom of Satan, which ſtands in three things: Firſt, in tempting man to ſin. Secondly, in holding him under the bondage of ſin. Thirdly, in accuſing him to God for ſin. Hence Chriſt may be ſaid by death to deſtroy the devil, that is, the power of the devil, becauſe by the merit and vertue of his death he took away both the reigning and condemning power of ſin, Rom. 6. 3, &c. 1 John 3.8.

power of death] That is, through ſin whereunto he had ſeduced man, and under which he kept him ſtill, 1 Cor.15.56.

devil] He ſpeaks of one as of that prince, not excluding the reſt: ſo often in the Scripture, as John 8.44. Eph.6.11. James 4.7.

V. 15. of death] That is, joyned with the anger of God as it is without Chriſt, who hath taken away its ſting: ſee verſe 14.

bondage] And ſo could not take pleaſure in any thing, ſeeing death was always ready to ſurpriſe them.

V. 16. took] The original ſignifieth to lay hold upon one that is flying away, or in danger. Anſwerable hereunto it may in this place ſignifie Chriſts redeeming not the angels, but the ſeed of Abraham: that is, man, when he fled from him, Gen. 3. 8. ſome underſtand it of Chriſts taking upon him our humane nature.

V. 17. in all things] Sin excepted: ſee chap. 4.15. Hereby we are given to underſtand, that Chriſt was perfect man, conſiſting of an human body, and an human ſoul, ſubject to all the common infirmities and weakneſſes of both; or all thoſe infirmities, whether of body or ſoul, which imply neither pollution nor impotency in his ſufferings.

behoved] See verſe 10.

a merciful] Chap.4.15. & 5.2. that is, pitiful, ready to have compaſſion, and to help.

faithful] In executing Gods will for mans redemption.

to make] That is, by the ſacrifice of himſelf, or merit of his paſſion: ſee chap.1.3.

V. 18. tempted] Both in body and ſoul, yet without ſin: tempted of God in his agony, Luke 22.44. of the devil, Mat. 4.1. and by his inſtruments through his whole life.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. W*Herefore*] At this verſe the Apoſtle proſecutes the exhortation begun, chap.2. verſe 1. and continues it to the end of the fourth chapter.

Holy brethren] Such who are made holy by Jeſus Chriſt the holy one of God, 1 Cor.6.11. and he calls them brethren, not by merit, in reſpect of their carnal generation; but becauſe they were all partakers of the ſame holy and precious faith now with him.

heavenly] That is, effectual calling, whereby they beleeved and obeyed the Goſpel of Chriſt. Called heavenly: Firſt, in reſpect of the authour, God, Phil.3.14. Secondly, in reſpect of thoſe things whereunto they were called to be partakers of, which were heavenly, 1 Theſ. 2.12. 2 Theſ. 2. 14. 2 Tim. 1. 9. 1 Peter 2. 9. and 3. 9. and 5.10. 2 Peter 1.3. ſome underſtand thereby, that Goſpel, or the preaching thereof, which was the outward means of their calling.

conſider] That is, diligently, attentively: ponder with all your heart and mind his dignity and excellency, that ſo ye might adhere unto him, and obey him.

Apoſtle] That is, whom God hath ſent as his ambaſſadour to make known his will unto you: ſee chap. 1.2.

high] Whom God hath ordained to make ſatisfaction for your ſins: ſee chapter 1. 3. and of whom the high prieſt under the law was a type.

profeſſion] Whom we beleeve with our hearts, and whom we confeſſe with our mouths, Rom.10.10. or of the doctrine which we beleeve and ought to confeſſe, chap. 4. 14. and 10. 13. 2 Cor. 9. 13. 1 Tim.6.12,13.

V. 2. faithful] That is, in diſcharging that office, which God had appointed to him for mans redemption: ſo the original word is often uſed, as Mat.24.45. and 25.21. Acts 16.15. 1 Cor.4.2. Eph. 6.21. Col.1.7. ſee chap.2.17. 1 Pet.1.20.

appointed] Or, made: ſee 1 Sam.12.6. Acts 2. 36. Now he is ſaid to be made, not as if he were a creature made of God, but he is ſaid to be made in reſpect of his office; made the apoſtle and high prieſt of our ſalvation.

Moſes] Num.12.7.

houſe] That is, the Church of God in his time, and wherein God did dwell.

V. 3. man was] 1 Cor.15.21. 1 Tim.2.5.

Moſes] As before he preferred Chriſt to the angels, ſo here unto Moſes, ſhewing both wherein they agreed, and wherein they differed; they agreed in that both were faithful in their office, verſe 2. they differed; firſt, in that Chriſt was the builder of the church, whereas Moſes was but a part thereof, verſe 3. ſecondly, in that Moſes governed the church but as a ſervant or ſteward; but Chriſt as a Son, whom his Father had made heir of all things, verſe 5, 6.

V. 4. ſome man] Or, ſome one.

V. 5. teſtimony] that is, to be a witneſs of thoſe things which he ſhould in the name of God report unto the people: Or we may underſtand the place of thoſe ceremonies and types of the Old Teſtament ſet forth by Moſes, to be afterwards more plainly and fully declared by Chriſt and his Apoſtles.

V. 6. own] Chriſt hath a propriety in his Church, and therefore he is ready to uſe all fidelity, mercy, and power, to govern and defend it.

houſe] Chriſt dwelling in our hearts by faith, Epheſ. 3. 17. See 1 Cor.3.16. 2 Cor.6.16. 1 Pet.2.5. confidence] That is, the profeſſion of our faith with boldneſſe, Acts 4.29. Rom.10.10. Epheſ.6.19. 1 Theſ.2.2.

rejoycing] That is, glorying in thoſe things for which we hope, Col.1.5. 1 Theſ.5.8. Tit.1.2. Or, our hope, which makes us to rejoyce, Rom.5.2.

unto the end] Mat.10.22.& 4.13. Rev. 3.10.

V. 7. wherefore] In as much as Gods wonders in Egypt, and in the wildernes,the conducting of his people into the land of Canaan, and their rebellious behaviour in it,were true types or ſhadows of the like events in future times under the Goſpel, therefore the Apoſtle upon good ground alleageth this of the Pſalmiſt, not onely as an exhortation appliable to his times, but alſo as a Prophecy.

holy Ghoſt] By David,Pſalm 95.7. See 2 Sam.23 2. Acts 1.16. 2 Peter 1.21.

to day] Pſalm 95.7. The place being underſtood as a prophecy: by to day, we are here to underſtand the time of the Goſpel, called the accepted time and day of ſalvation, 2 Cor.6.2. Or, underſtand thereby the preſent time, whenſoever ſalvation is offered.

if] Or, when; as Gen.38.9. Exodus 20. 25. & 22. 25. Lev. 2, 14. Numb.36.4. Judges 20.30. Mat.5. 23.

V. 8. Harden] Contemn not his voyce, but beleeve it, cleave faſt and be obedient unto it, Zech.7.11,12. Acts 7. 51. where reſiſting is oppoſed unto it.

provocation] That is, day of provocation: whereby underſtand not onely that ſpecial time mentioned, Exodus 17.2, &c. Numb.20. 1,&c. and Deut.6.16. but the whole ſpace, wherein they tempted God in the wilderneſſe: ſee Pſalm 78.1,&c.

V. 9. When] Gr. where.

tempted] When they tempted me, by calling into queſtion my preſence, power, and providence, Pſalm 78.20.

me] That is, Chriſt,1 Cor.10.9.

proved] Out of unbeleef, notwithſtanding they had experience of my power and preſence with them.

and ſaw] Or, notwithſtanding they ſaw.

fourty years] See Pſalm 95.9.

V. 10. grieved] That is, was grievouſly offended. I abhorred.

known] That is, not ſeriouſly conſidered the courſe of my providence, and the ways of my commandments.

V. 11. So I ſware] Numb.14.23.

they ſhall not enter] Gr. if they ſhall enter. But that particle is often negative: ſee Pſalm 89.33. If I lye unto David; I will not lye unto him: It is obſerved, that an oath uſually implyeth an imprecation, which for the moſt part is concealed: ſee 1 Sam. 14. 44. 1 Kings 20.10.

reſt] Literally it was underſtood of the land of Canaan, which was a type of the eternal reſt of the faithful in heaven, chap.4.9.but in as much as the land of Canaan was a type of heaven, therefore we are further to underſtand it of the excluſion of unbeleevers out of heaven.

V. 12. Take heed] Here the Apoſtle begins to comment upon, or expound the former paſſage of the Pſalmiſt.

unbeleef] Whereby is implyed, that infidelity is the original and fountain of all diſobedience.

V. 13. exhort] Whereby underſtand reproof, admonition, comfort, and the like.

daily] Continually, upon all good occaſions.

to day] While it is the accepted time, or day of ſalvation,or while the Lord doth afford you opportunity and means of grace, Pſalm 32. 6. Iſa.55.6.

deceitfulneſs] Epheſ.4.22.

V.14. For we] This verſe ſhould be with a parentheſis.

of Chriſt] And all ſpiritual bleſſings.

if we hold] Col.1.23.

beginning] Or, that faith which we had in the beginning.

of our confidence] The Original word ſignifieth a foundation, or prop which upholds the building: hence faith is denoted thereby, becauſe it is the foundation of all ſpiritual graces, and prop which upholds Chriſtians in this vale of tears, Jude v. 20. Or by it we may underſtand [expectation] it being by faith that we certainly expect things hoped for, chapter 11.1. Pſalm 39.7.

unto the end] See verſe 6.

V. 15. This verſe cohereth with the 13.

whiles] Or, even as it is ſaid.

carkaſſes] Num.14.29. Jude verſe 5.

V. 18. ſware] Num.14 30. Deut.1.25.

V. 19. So we ſee] Pſalm 106.24,25, 26, 27.

unbeleef] That is, becauſe they did not truſt upon Gods promiſes, but murmured againſt him in the wilderneſſe.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. T*Herefore*] Our Apoſtle having in the former chapter exhorted the Hebrews to take heed, leſt they entered not into that reſt formerly mentioned, reneweth his exhortation at this verſe; and then proceeds to a further amplification of that reſt.

any of you] chapter 12. 15.

ſeem] That is, ſhould come ſhort: ſo Luke 8. 18. compared with Luke 19. & 26. & 25.29. 1 Cor.11. 16.

come ſhort] As thoſe who run in a race, and yet come not to the gaol, and ſo receive not the price, 1 Cor.9.24. or, come late, as the fooliſh virgins, Matth.25.10.

V. 2. the word preached] Gr. the word of hearing; for faith cometh by hearing, Rom. 10.17.

not being mixed with faith in] Or, becauſe it is not received by faith. That is, not being joyned or accompanyed with faith. It is thought that herein the Apoſtle alludes unto a potion not well mingled, which rather hurts than doth any good.

V. 3. reſt] That is, that ſpiritual and eternal reſt, whereof David ſpeaks, Pſalm 95.11. which is begun in this life in the joy of the holy Ghoſt, and in the peace of a good conſcience, and ſhall be perfected hereafter in the joyes of heaven.

ſaid] Not in expreſſe terms, but by neceſſary conſequence; for where God ſwears, that unbeleevers ſhall not enter into his reſt, there he doth implicitely promiſe, that beleevers ſhall enter thereunto.

As I have ſworn] Pſalm 95.11.

although] At this clauſe the Apoſtle begins to ſhew, what that reſt was whereof the Pſalmiſt ſpake, Pſalm 95. and of which he had exhorted them not to come ſhort, verſe 1. viz. not the reſt of the ſeventh day, ſpoken of, Gen.2.2. which he ſheweth to verſe 7. neither that reſt whereunto Joſhua brought the children of Iſrael, that is, their reſt in the land of Canaan; this from the ſeventh verſe to the tenth; but of another reſt, whereof the former were but types and ſhadows, which the Pſalmiſt cheefly intends.

V.4. And God did reſt] Gen.2.2. Exod. 20.11.

works] That is, of creation, not of continual preſervation; or, making of the world then.

V. 6. Seeing] Becauſe the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks of a reſt, which was to be long after that reſt in Canaan, even four hundred yeares: Hence the Apoſtle inferreth in this and the two following verſes, that the Pſalmiſt intends another reſt than that corporal and civil reſt.

it was firſt preached] Or, the Goſpel was firſt preached.

V. 8. Jeſus] That is, Joſhua.

V. 9. There] Seeing that the Pſalmiſt cannot be underſtood onely of the two former reſts, hence the Apoſtle concludeth, that there remaineth another kind of reſt; now what that reſt is, he ſheweth in the verſe following.

reſt to the people of God] Or, keeping of ſabbath.

V. 10. own works] From thoſe afflictions and ſorrows, which he ſuffers in this life, Rev. 14. 13. & 21. 4. thereby the Apoſtle intends the happineſſe of the ſaints in heaven, where all tears ſhall be wiped from their eyes, Eſa.25.8. Rev. 7. 17. and whereof we receive the firſt-fruits and pledge, even in this life: ſee verſe 3.

V. 11. labour] That is, diligently, or with all our might; or let us ſtudy and uſe our beſt endeavour, Luke 13.24.

unbeleef] Or, diſobedience.

V. 12. Word of God] Some underſtand it of the Word written or ſpoken, and of the great power thereof; whereof Saint Paul ſpeeaks, 1 Cor.14 24. But with more probability, if we obſerve both the antecedents and the conſequents of the place, we may underſtand it of Chriſt, who is called the Word, John 1.1. Rev. 19. 13. becauſe he was to reveal the counſel and will of God his Father, unto his people: but it is likewiſe applyable unto the word written or preached.

quick] living. Whereby he is oppoſed to the Idols of the Heathen, who had eyes and ſaw not, and ears and heard not, &c. but Chriſt the Word of God is living, beholding all the thoughts and actions of men, that ſo he might give to every man according to his deeds.

powerful] He is not onely omniſcient, but alſo full of power, to execute his wrath upon thoſe that are diſobedient.

ſharper] By this ſimilitude is likewiſe expreſſed the omniſcience of Chriſt, unto whom nothing is ſecret, no not the thoughts and intentions of our hearts: A two-edged ſword eaſily enters, it makes way for it ſelf.

V. 13. opened] As it were anatomized and cleft aſunder; ſo that he ſees every turning and winding of our hearts.

with whom] That is, ſay ſome, unto whom we muſt give an account, Rom. 2. 16. & 14.10. but it ought rather to be tranſlated, of whom is our ſpeech; or, of whom we ſpeak: So the Greek prepoſition is often uſed. See chapter 1. 7. Luke 20. 19. Romanes 10.21.

V. 14. great high] Chap. 3.1. Who both knowes the deepeſt and moſt ſecret thoughts and intentions of our hearts, and is likewiſe able to puniſh us for them.

paſſed into the heavens] chap. 7. 26. 12. 24. whereby Chriſt is preferred unto the Levitical high prieſts, who entred only into the Holy of Holies.

hold faſt] Chap.10.23. that is, ſtedfaſtly without wavering, cleave and adhere to the doctrine of Chriſt, which we profeſſe, and not ſuffer our ſelves to be drawn from it by any temptations or perſecutions, chap.10.23.

V. 5. For we have not] chap.2.17,18.

infirmities] Both of body and ſoul; he means not only the miſeries of this life, but likewiſe all thoſe afflictions whereby we are uſually tempted unto ſin, and tryed.

tempted] See chap.2.17. Luke 22.28.

without ſin] 1 Pet.2.22.

V. 16. therefore] Knowing that we have ſuch an high prieſt, who is both able and willing to ſuccour us when we are tempted.

come] By faithful and fervent prayer.

boldly] Or, freely: chap.10.19. Eph.2.28.

throne] That is, God reconciled unto us in Chriſt, typified by Gods ſitting between the cherubims upon the Mercy-Seat, Exod. 25.22.

to help in time of need] Gr. for ſeaſonable help. When God, in his infinite wiſdom, ſhall ſee it moſt needful.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. F*Or*] At this chapter the apoſtle makes a farther declaration of Chriſts Prieſthood, comparing it unto, and preferring it before the legal prieſthood. Our Apoſtle having ſhewed that Chriſt was a great and merciful high prieſt, chap. 2. 17. Firſt, he ſheweth what was required in the high prieſt for his qualification unto his office; and then ſheweth how that both theſe were fulfilled in Chriſt.

high] He ſaith (high prieſt) not every meſſenger ſent from God; for ſometimes Angels were his meſſengers. But herein God manifeſteth his wiſdom in ſending unto us, not only his Son, clothed with our human infirmities; but alſo men ſubject to the ſame ſinfull infirmities, that they might the better have compaſſion upon us.

from] And ſo was Chriſt: ſee chap.2.11,14,16.

ordained] Chap.8.3.

for men] That is, for their good, viz. that they might teach them, pray for and bleſſe them, and in their behalf offer gifts and ſacrifices: ſee chap.2.17.

things pertaining to God] See chap.2.17.

for ſins] To make ſatisfaction for ſins: not that the Levitical ſacrifices did of themſelves take away ſin, but here that is attributed to thoſe ſacrifices as types and ſhadows, which properly and only agrees unto that our ſacrifice of Chriſt, who was the truth and body of thoſe ſacrifices.

V. 2. can] Or, can reaſonably bear with. Or, can prudently conſider, Pſalm 41.1. Who being a man ſubject to infirmity like unto them, is qualified with meekneſſe, gentleneſſe, and meet moderation to have compaſſion. See Gal.6.1.

with infirmity] Chap.7.28. that is, not only afflictions and temptations; as chap.4.15. but alſo ſin it ſelf, as appears by the verſe following.

V. 3. And] Or, for which alſo.

for himſelf] Chap. 7. 27. Wherein appears the excellency of Chriſts ſacrifice above that of Aarons, becauſe he needed not offer for himſelf, being without ſin, chap.7.27. ſee Lev.14.3.

V. 4. And no man] 2 Chron. 26.18.

taketh] That is, ought to take. Verbs active, in the phraſe of the Scripture, ſometimes import, not the act it ſelf, but duty or office, as Gen.20.9. Lev.4.2. & 13. Pſalm 32.8. Uzziah, though a king, muſt not take the prieſts office upon him, 2 Chron. 26. 16.

as was Aaron] Exod.28.1. 1 Chron.23.13.

V. 5. Chriſt] John 8.54.

he] That is, called him to his honour, who ſaid, Thou, &c.

Thou] Pſalm 2.7. chap.1.5.

V. 6. Thou] Pſalm 110.4. ſee chap.7.verſe 1, &c.

for ever] The prieſthood of Chriſt is unchangeable, chap. 7. 24. and therefore more excellent than that of Aaron; and herein ſtands our comfort, that when we ſin, we have an advocate with the Father Chriſt Jeſus our great high Prieſt, making interceſſion for us, 1 John 2 1.

order] chap.7.14.

V. 7. in the days of his fleſh] That is, of his humiliation, while he was ſubject to our common, human, yet blameleſs infirmities. The word fleſh often imports weakneſs in the Scripture: ſee chap. 2. 14. Pſalm 78.39. Iſa.31.3.

ſtrong] He meaneth that moſt earneſt prayer which Chriſt uttered in the Garden, when he ſweat drops of blood, Matth. 26. 36. Mark 14.33. Luke 22.39.

unto him] Mark 14.36.

was heard] Pſalm 34.4. That is, delivered, as Pſalm 22.21.

in that he feared] Or, for his piety. Or, from his pious fear. From that which he ſo piouſly and mightily feared, viz. that cup of anguiſh, thoſe unknown pains which he ſuffered in his agony, when the whole power of darkneſs ſet upon him, from this he was delivered, Luke 22.43. John 12.27. Or, in reſpect of his pious fear, Eſa. 11.2.

V. 8. learned] That is, by experience.

obedience] That is, paſſive, patiently to ſubmit his will unto his Fathers.

V. 9. perfect] Or, conſecrated. See chap.2.10.

obey him] Eſa. 55.3.

V. 10. Called] That is, appointed or publikely declared, viz. at or by his reſurrection.

V. 11. Of whom] The Apoſtle from this verſe to the 13. of the next chapter makes a digreſſion, wherein he gives them a ſharp, though a moderate reproof, for their negligence in labouring for knowledg, that ſo he might make them the more attentive to that which he ſhould ſpeak afterwards.

to be uttered] Or, to be expounded.

V. 12. time] Conſidering how long ye have enjoyed the means of knowledge.

ye have need that one teach you again] Or, ye need to be taught again your ſelves.

principles] It is an alluſion unto children, who are firſt taught their letters before they can be taught to ſpell or to read perfectly; herein their great negligence is taxed, inaſmuch as yet they were to learn their Catechiſm; the A. B. C. as it were of the doctrine of Chriſt.

milk] 1 Cor.3.2. What the Apoſtle called the firſt principles, here he calleth milk, alluding again unto children, who are fed with milk, food eaſie of digeſtion, and not with ſtrong meat.

ſtrong] That is, a more full and ample inſtitution in the myſteries of the Goſpel, which is called the ſpeaking of the wiſdome of God in a myſtery, 1 Cor. 2.7. ſee Epheſ. 3.4. & 6.16. Col.2.2.

V. 13. is unskilful] Gr. hath no experience.

righteouſneſs] Which teacheth the righteouſneſs both of juſtification and ſanctification, or a righteous word, Pſalm 19.7. Prov. 8.6, &c.

babe] 1 Cor.14.20. Epheſ.4.14.

V. 14. of full age] Or, perfect. Not abſolutely, but in compariſon of thoſe whom he compares to babes, v.13.

of uſe] Or, of an habit, or perfection. Or, habit attained by hearing, reading, and meditating on the word.

ſenſes] Their faculties of underſtanding and judgement: for words of ſenſe often import faculties of the underſtanding part, and that both in general, as Luke 9.45 compared with Luke 18.34. Phil. 1.9. as alſo in particular, as Gen. 42.1. & 2.31. & 11.7. Pſalm 34.8. 1 Pet.2.3.

to diſcern] 1 Cor.2.13,15. For the good and refuſing that which is evil.

CHAP. VI.

Verſe 1. T*Herefore leaving*] Not that we are to neglect the firſt principles of religion, but to labour for a greater meaſure of knowledge, 2 Pet. 3.18. It is as if he had ſaid, Seeing it is a ſhame always to be babes, let us as men grown, ſeek after ſtronger meat.

leaving] Not caſting them for ever behinde our backs, ſuffering them to ſlip quite out of our memories; but not ſtaying only upon theſe, let us goe forward, as good travellers, in our Chriſtian race.

the principles of the doctrine of Chriſt] Or, the word of the beginning of Chriſt. The firſt principles of Chriſtian religion are here compared unto the foundation of a building, on which the more perfect knowledge of the myſteries of the Goſpel were to be built.

let us go on] Let us be carried on, or, let forward: ſee chap.2.3.

unto perfection] Col.3.16.

of] Theſe (as is thought) were the ſix principles of the Apoſtles Catechiſm.

dead works] chap.9.14. that is, ſin; ſo called, firſt, becauſe they make a man lyable unto death, Rom. 6. 16, 21, 23. and chap. 7. 5. James 1.15. ſecondly, becauſe they proceed from man, by nature ſpiritually dead, Eph. 2.1.

V. 2. baptiſms] Or, baptizings. The plural number for the ſingular; as ſacrifices, for ſacrifice, chap.8.22,23. ſome give this reaſon for it, viz. becauſe in thoſe times many baptiſms were adminiſtred at once, there being ſet days appointed for it. Others conceive, that the apoſtle following the Hebrew phraſe, alludes unto the ſeveral waſhings under the law.

laying] Which is uſually called confirmation, which ſtood, firſt, in examining thoſe who had been baptized, what progreſs they had made in the doctrine of chriſtianity: ſecondly, in praying for them, that God would continue them in the faith, and give them more grace, ſtrengthening them by his holy Spirit. Now when the cheef paſtour or paſtours of the church prayed for them, they layd their hands upon them; whence the apoſtolical conſtitution was called the laying on of hands: ſo Auguſtine, lib. de fide & operibus, cap. 11. and ſo moſt of the Fathers, with one conſent. Or, underſtand thereby a ceremony uſed in the ordination of Miniſters.

V. 3. If God permit] 1 Cor.4.19. James 4.15.

V. 4. For it is impoſſible] chap.10.26. the apoſtle obſerving that the Hebrews were ready to revolt from the chriſtian faith into Judaiſm, and by little and little to fall into the impardonable ſin, which here he deſcribes, labours to keep them from both: Firſt, by manifeſting the danger of ſuch a relapſe, verſe 4—9. Secondly, by aſſuring them of an happy ſucceſs, if they did continue in that faith and courſe of life which they had begun, verſe 9—13.

impoſſible] In reſpect of Gods wiſdom and juſtice, giving them up unto an impenitent heart.

thoſe] Here is a deſcription of the quality of thoſe perſons, unto whom the ſin againſt the holy Ghoſt is cheefly incident, or moſt peculiar.

enlightned] With the knowledge of the truth: ſee chap. 10. 26.

heavenly gift] Some underſtand hereby ſome peace and tranquillity of conſcience, ariſing out of an hope that their ſins were pardoned: others underſtand it of faith, which is the gift of God, Epheſians 2. 8. Some underſtand it of Chriſt, John 4. 10. and 6.32.

holy Ghoſt] That is, of the gifts of the holy Ghoſt, mentioned chap.2.4.

V. 5. taſted] Have found ſweetneſs in the Word of God, as Herod, Mark 6.20. and thoſe who are compared to ſtony ground, Mark 4. 16.

powers] The joyes of heaven; as Balaam, Numb.23.10.

V. 6. If] Or, After.

fall away] That is, by univerſal apoſtaſie into Judaiſm or Paganiſm, maliciouſly and deſpightfully contemning, perſecuting, or oppoſing the faith of Chriſt, of whoſe truth they are convinced in their conſciences by the holy Ghoſt.

crucifie] So much as in them lyeth; and if Chriſt were upon the earth again, they would be as malicious enemies unto him, as ever any were.

V. 7. For the earth, &c.] He illuſtrateth the former commination by a ſimilitude taken from the earth; as the earth painfully tilled, and plentifully watered with rain from heaven, is good for nothing but to be burnt, if in ſtead of good fruit it bringeth forth thorns and thiſtles: ſo theſe who have been plentifully watered with many ſweet ſhowres of the Word of God, and enriched with divers excellent graces, are good for nothing but to burn in hell fire for evermore. See Eſa.55.10,11.

V. 7. by whom] Or, for whom.

V. 9. But beloved] To moderate and ſweeten his former harſhneſs, here he ſhews his good opinion which he had of the Hebrews, and to comfort them, by giving them aſſurance of Gods mercy in rewarding them, if they continued ſtedfaſt in their profeſſion. See chap.10.39.

accompany] Or, which have ſalvation. We are perſwaded, that you are in the number of thoſe who ſhall be ſaved, or, accompany the things neer unto ſalvation.

V. 10. unrighteous] That is, unfaithful or inconſtant, ſo as to forget his promiſes of rewarding: ſee 2 Theſ. 1. 6. 1 John 1. 9. It is but fooliſh, which popiſh writers here conclude for the merit of good works. It is juſt with God ſo to do, not in regard of mans merits, but of his own promiſe.

labour] 1 Theſ. 1. 3. becauſe they manifeſted their love with much danger, and through many diſcouragements.

toward] For his name ſake; or out of love and obedience unto God, and not for carnal reſpects.

V. 11. deſire] It is, as if the apoſtle had ſaid; as you have begun well, ſo we deſire that you would perſevere unto the end.

full aſſurance] That is, that your faith and hope may be without anxiety and doubting.

unto the end] Chap.3.6,14.

V. 12. ſlothful] That is, negligent and careleſs to grow in faith, and to bring forth the fruits thereof. See chap.5.11,12. The contrary whereunto was Saint Pauls preſſing hard towards the price of the high calling in Chriſt Jeſus, Phil.3.13,14.

patience] Chap.10.36. James 5.7.

V. 13. For when] The Apoſtle proveth by the example of Abraham the father of the faithful, what he had teſtified of all their faithful forefathers in the precedent verſe; and he maketh choice to inſtance in Abraham, becauſe the ſubſtance of that promiſe made unto him, was made alſo to all his children according to promiſe; that is, to all the faithful, Rom. 9. 8. or becauſe the Jews boaſted exceedingly of him, John 8.33.

he ſware] Gen.22.16,17.

V. 14. bleſſing] See Gen 22.17.

V. 15. promiſe] That is, the thing promiſed, viz. the abundant multiplication of his ſeed, the poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan, and his eternal happineſs in heaven; which though he obtained not while he was alive, yet is ſaid to have obtained, becauſe in the appointed time they were performed unto him, though dead. See chap.11.39.

V. 16. For men] From the uſe of an oath amongſt men, the Apoſtle infers the reaſon why God ſometimes confirms his promiſes by an oath, viz. to declare the immutability of the thing promiſed.

greater] That is, (by God) who knoweth the truth, and will in due time puniſh lying.

V. 17. wherein] In the which thing, or in the which oath, or for the which cauſe.

more abundantly] The thing promiſed by a bare promiſe, may be reverſed in reſpect of ſome change in the perſon, to whom the promiſe is made, without any change in God; but a thing promiſed by oath ſhall be immutable: ſo that an oath added unto a promiſe, implies the immutability of the thing promiſed. See 1 Sam. 2 30.

ſhew] To make a lively and more evident demonſtration of the immutability of his counſel.

confirmed it by an oath] Gr. interpoſed himſelf by an oath.

V. 18. immutable] That is, his promiſe and oath.

V. 19. which hope] Rom.8.25.

anchor] Whereby the ſoul in time of trouble, layes hold upon Chriſt the rock of our ſalvation.

veil] That is, heaven, whereof the holy of holyeſt was a type or ſhadow, chap.9.24.

V. 20. fore-runner] That is, Chriſt, ſo called, becauſe he is aſcended into heaven, to prepare manſions for us, John 14. 2,3.

made] Here the apoſtle reſumeth the matter which he had left off, chap. 15. 11. viz. to ſhew that Chriſt was a Prieſt after the Order of Melchiſedec, and therein the excellency both of his perſon and prieſthood.

CHAP. VII.

Verſe 1. F*OR this Melchiſedec*] Gen.14. 18. &c. the apoſtle having before, chap.5.6. and 10. and chap.6. 20. affirmed, that Chriſt was a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedec, here gives an hiſtorical deſcription of him, that ſo it might the better appear wherein he was a type of Chriſt, and by conſequence wherein the prieſthood of Chriſt was better than that of Aarons.

king] Herein Melchiſedec was a type of Chriſt, becauſe he was both a king and prieſt.

Salem] Some are of opinion that this Salem, is that place which is called Sichem, Gen.33.18. and that it is that Salem, mentioned John 3.23. a place neer unto Jordan; but it is moſt probable, that it was that place which afterwards was called Jeruſalem; for Salem and Sion was all one, Pſalm 76.2. now Sion is Jeruſalem: ſee the notes on Gen.14.18,&c.

Prieſt] Some have tranſlated, Gen. 14. 18. prince of the moſt high God; becauſe (Cohen) ſignifies a prince as well as a prieſt, 2 Sam.8.18. but becauſe we read of none ever called the prince of the moſt high God. And becauſe Paul here, and the ſeventy tranſlate there, ἱερεὺς, which always ſignifie a prieſt, not a prince; therefore it is not probable, that it is to be read, prince of the moſt high God.

moſt high God] Pſalm 78.56. Daniel 3. 26. and 5. 18. That is, in eſſence and glory above all creatures; ſo God is often called, in oppoſition to the falſe gods of the Heathen.

bleſſed him] Numbers 6.23. 1 Chronicles 23.13. Not only by way of requeſt, but with a ſolemn and prieſtly bleſſing: and herein he was a type of Chriſt, in whom it was promiſed, that all the nations of the earth ſhould be bleſſed, Gen.22.18. and who now ſitting at the right hand of God, bleſſeth us with the bleſſings of this life, and the life to come.

V. 2. gave a tenth] And ſeeing our Lord remaineth for ever a prieſt after the order of Melchiſedec, why ſhould not tithes belong unto him, and in him thoſe who in his ſtead exhort us to be reconciled unto his Father? 2 Cor. 1.20.

peace] Herein a type of Chriſt, who hath reconciled us unto God, Rom.5.1.

V. 3. Without] So deſcribed, becauſe neither his father, mother, deſcent, birth, or death are regiſtred; in whoſe omiſſion he was made a type both of the eternity of Chriſts perſon, and of his prieſthood: not that our Saviour Chriſt was with out Father,&c. for theſe we finde recorded; but becauſe that which was cheefly intended by the deſcription of Melchiſedec, doth moſt abſolutely, and perfectly agree unto Chriſt, and that was the eternity of his perſon, and of his prieſthoed.

without deſcent] Gr. without pedegree.

made] Or, transformed and turned out of his proper ſhape and likeneſs, that he might be like unto the Son of God.

V. 4. unto whom] By two circumſtances the apoſtle gathers the preheminence of Melchiſedec above Abraham: firſt, becauſe Abraham paid tithes unto him, verſe 4.5. Secondly, becauſe Melchiſedec bleſſed Abraham, verſe 6.7.

Patriarch] That is, cheef of Fathers, Numbers 18.19. Deut.8.1. Joſh.14.4.

ſpoils] Or, of the beſt things: not that Abraham made choice of the beſt things, and of them gave the tenth part only; for it is ſaid verſe 2. that he gave a tenth of all; but that he made choice of the beſt things to pay the tenth part of the whole, as it was afterward ordained, Numbers 18.12.

V. 5. they that] Numb.18.21. and 26.

to take tithes] Or, to tithe.

V. 6. deſcent] Or, pedegree. That is, neither from Abraham nor from Levi.

bleſſed] See verſe 1.

promiſes] Gal.1.6.

V. 7. the leſſe] The original is of the neuter gender, but put by an analogy for the maſculine, as Eph.1.10.

Bleſſed] That is, by way of prieſtly office; but otherwiſe by way of common charity, the leſſe did bleſſe the greater.

V. 8. here] That is, under the Levitical law.

there] viz. Gen.4.20.

liveth] Becauſe his death is not recorded.

ſo ſay] Or, to ſpeak in a word, or breefly.

V. 11. If therefore] In as much as God promiſed to raiſe up a prieſt after another order than that of Aaron, and whoſe prieſthood ſhould excel that of Aaron; hence is inferred the imperfection and abrogation both of the legal prieſthood, and of that covenant which was eſtabliſhed or ratified upon it.

perfection] That is, if the Levitical prieſthood could have juſtified, ſanctified, and ſo conſequently brought unto ſalvation.

for] This clauſe is inſerted to ſhew the mutual relation between the Levitical prieſthood and the old covenant.

under it the people receive of the Law] Or, upon it the Law was ratified unto the people.

Law] Old covenant.

V. 12. changed] Or, tranſlated.

change] Or, tranſlation.

Law] That is, of the old covenant, which was eſtabliſhed or ratified upon it, verſe 11.

V. 14. Juda] Rev. 5.5.

V. 16. Who is made] That is, conſecrated unto his Prieſthood.

after the law] That is, not as thoſe legal prieſts were by outward purification and ſanctification, conſiſting in outward anointings, waſhings, offerings, and the like; which ſerved only for the ſanctifying of the perſon from legal pollutions: ſee chap. 9.13.

power] That is, of God, or the anointing of the holy ghoſt; which was to continue upon him, & to qualifie and enable him to be an everlaſting prieſt, who ſhould always live to make interceſſion for us, and communicate unto us the merit and power of his ſacrifice, which he once offered for us unto everlaſting life, Rom. 6. 9. Rev.1.8.

V. 17. Thou art] Pſalm 110.4.

V. 18. commandment] That is, of the covenant.

weakneſſe] Gal.4.9. viz. to juſtifie, ſanctifie, and bring unto ſalvation by reaſon of the fleſh, Rom. 8. 3. that is, of us men who are not able to fulfil the law by reaſon of that corruption, which dwells in our fleſh, Acts 15. 10. Gal. 3. 21. and note that here S. Paul ſpeaketh of the old covenant, as underſtood by the Jews; viz. of fulfilling the law: for otherwiſe the covenant was a perfect covenant, for thoſe times, or the nonage of Gods people, though not ſo perfectly revealed, as in the time of the Goſpel.

V. 19. law] That is, old covenant; as verſe 11, 12.

perfect] See verſe 18.

but the bringing in] Or, but it was the bringing in.

bringing] The Greek word ſignifieth the ſuperinduction, or the bringing in of one thing after another.

better hope] That is, the new covenant, called a better hope, becauſe it being a covenant of grace and mercy, worketh in us ſure hope and confidence.

did] Or, doth make perfect through Chriſt (upon whoſe prieſthood it is eſtabliſhed) that which was impoſſible unto the law: ſee verſe 18.

draw nigh] Eph 2.18. and 3.12.

V. 20. And in as much] It is as if the apoſtle had ſaid: It muſt needs be a great thing, and of ſingular weight and importance which God Almighty ratifieth with an oath.

V. 21. without an oath] Or, without ſwearing of an oath.

The Lord ſware] Pſalm 110.4.

V. 22. better teſtament] Chap.8.6.

V. 23. And they] The ſame he proves again from the mortality of the legal prieſts, and the immortality of Chriſt; whence he concludes, that he hath an unchangeable Prieſthood, Verſ. 24.

V. 24. Unchangeable Prieſthood] Or, which paſſeth not from another.

V. 25. to the uttermoſt] Or, evermore. That is, fully, perfectly, or to the end; ſo that no part of our ſalvation muſt be ſought either in our ſelves, or in any other. The Original word ſignifieth all manner of perfection.

come] That is, by a true and lively faith.

interceſſion] Rom.8.34. 1 John 2.1.

V. 26 For ſuch] Here is another prerogative of Chriſt, and ſo conſequently of his prieſthood; they ſinners, but he holy.

higher] Chap.4.14.

V. 27. thoſe high Prieſts] Lev.9.7. and 16.6. Heb.5.3.

once] Chap.10.10. that is, once for all; fully, perfectly. See 1 Pet.3.18.

V. 28. infirmity] Chap.5.2.

word of the oath] That is, the prophecie or promiſe of God by the Pſalmiſt confirmed by an oath.

conſecrated] Gr. perfected: chap.1.3.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſe 1. R*ight hand*] Chap.1.3.

V. 2. of the ſanctuary] Or, of holy things. Not of the corporal, but of that which was ſhadowed by it: what that is, is expreſſed in the words following.

Sanctuary] Which ſome interpret of the Sancti, but generally in this Epiſtle, by the original word ἅγιον, we are to underſtand the heavens, as we may plainly gather from ch. 9.11.

and] That is, which is: Or, that is of the true tabernacle.

true tabernacle] Chapter 9.11. that is, of his own body or human nature, whereof the corporal tabernacle was a type: hence Saint John ſaith, That the word tabernacled with us, John 1. 14. ſpeaking of his being in our fleſh. Or his taking upon him our human nature, chapter 7. 27. and chapter 9. 14. ſee John 2. 19. Col.2.9.

the Lord pitched] It being conceived of the holy Ghoſt, and was not erected by the hand of man; or not conceived by the concurrence of the man: ſee chapter 9.11.

V. 3. For every] Here is a reaſon given of that which was ſaid in the former verſe, taken from the analogy between the ſhadow and the ſubſtance, or type and truth: the legal prieſts had ſomething to offer; ſo Chriſt was to have ſomething, and that was his own body: ſee v. 7.

gifts and ſacrifices] Chap.5.1. and 9.9.

V. 4. For if] In this and the next verſe there are reaſons given why Chriſt could not be a Prieſt upon earth: Firſt, becauſe the earthly prieſts were ordained by the Law to offer only earthly and carnal ſacrifices; but there were no ſuch ſacrifices required of the Prieſt according to the order of Melchiſedec, Pſalm 40.6. verſe 4. Secondly, the legal prieſthood and the ſacrifices adminiſtred by it, were ſhadows of heavenly things, viz. of the prieſthood of Chriſt and his ſacrifice: whence it evidently follows, that his Prieſthood was to be an heavenly Prieſthood, and his ſacrifice to be an heavenly ſacrifice, verſe 5.

He ſhould not be, &c.] viz. having fulfilled and accompliſhed all things required of him, as a prieſt upon earth: and therefore his miniſtery would have ended, but now he was to fulfill alſo that which remaineth of his prieſtly office in heaven, in the Holy of Holies.

there are prieſts] Or, they are prieſts.

according to the law] Here is another reaſon given, why our Lord Chriſt ought not to be a prieſt upon earth, viz. ſuch an one, who ſhould according to the law, adminiſter the prieſthood upon earth: the ſubſtance whereof is this; becauſe God under the law ordained no prieſt; but thoſe of the tribe of Levi, and no offerings or ſacrifices but ceremonial, whereof Chriſt was not ordained or conſtituted a miniſter, but of that which was prefigured by them, as is ſet down in the words following.

V. 5. Who ſerve] The whole earthly tabernacle, with the Prieſthood, Sacrifices and Ceremonies, appertaining to it, were types and ſhadows of Chriſt, and of heavenly things to be obtained through him.

ſhadow] Chap.10.1. Col.2.17. Here our Apoſtle deſcendeth to the deſcription of the Levitical Prieſts, and of their office, which conſiſted firſt in the manner of their ſervice. Secondly, in the matter of their ſervice: for the manner, their ſervice was but a ſhadow of the true ſacrifice, and for the matter thereof, it conſiſted of corporal things.

For ſee] Exod.25.40. Acts 7.44.

pattern] That is, copy, example, according to which a thing is done, or built.

V. 6. miniſtery] That is, Prieſthood.

by how] Becauſe the Prieſthood muſt be anſwerable unto the covenant.

mediatour] Chap. 7.22. and 9.15. and 12.24. 1 Tim.2.5.

a better covenant] Or, teſtament: chapter 7. 22. ſo called from the manner of the confirmation thereof, viz. by the death of Chriſt.

better promiſes] Firſt, becauſe they depend upon faith, Rom.4.13, 16. Gal.3.16, 17. Secondly, becauſe God had promiſed to pour out a greater meaſure of his Spirit under the new, than he did under the old Covenant, Eſa.44.3. John 2.28. Acts 2.16. Gal. 3.2.

V. 7 faultleſs] That is, without imperfection. See chap. 7.18.

V. 8. Behold] Jer.31.31,32,33,34. Though the Apoſtle doth not keep himſelf to the words of the Prophet; yet he retains his matter: ſee notes on Jer.31.31,—35.

houſe of Iſrael, &c.] Under which terms, we are to underſtand all the faithful, not only the Jew, but alſo the Gentile, who was to be ingraffed into the true olive tree: ſee Rom.11.17, &c.

V. 9. with their fathers] In the wilderneſs, by the hand of Moſes, Exod. 20.1.

took them by the hand] As a tender compaſſionate father, to guide his weak childe.

regarded not] Or, loathed. In the Prophet it is, ſhould I have continued an husband unto them? but the ſenſe is the ſame.

V. 10. put my laws] Gr. give.

in their hearts] Or, upon.

V. 13. old] That is, diſannulled, or abrogated; not actually, but by way of prediction, viz. when the new Covenant ſhould be eſtabliſhed.

CHAP. IX.

Verſe 1. Covenant] Not Tabernacle, though divers Greek copies have it ſo: for it is not probable that the Apoſtle ſhould ſay, that the Tabernacle had a Tabernacle.

ordinances] Or, ceremonies.

worldly] That is, earthly and corporal, it being here oppoſed to the heavenly and ſpiritual Tabernacle.

V. 2. For] What the Apoſtle called the worldly or earthly Tabernacle or Sanctuary, here he further deſcribeth, with the principall furniture thereof; dividing it into two parts, making as it were two Tabernacles of one: Whereof the firſt was a type of Chriſts human nature, ch.8.2. the ſecond of heaven, ver. 12.

the firſt] Exod.40.4. He deſcribes not the court of the people, becauſe it did not make to his purpoſe; neither doth he deſcribe the Temple made by Solomon, but the Tabernacle made by Moſes.

the ſanctuary] Or, holy.

V. 3. ſecond] Called ſo, to diſtinguiſh it from the veil through which they entred into the firſt Tabernacle: ſee Exod. 26.31,36.

V. 4. golden cenſer] It is probable that hereby is meant, eihter that particular cenſer, which the high Prieſt carried into the Holy of Holieſt, once in the year, Lev.16.12. Or elſe the golden Altar of incenſe, deſcribed Exod.30.1, &c. which though it was not within the Holy of Holieſt, yet the Holy of Holieſt may be ſaid to have it, becauſe it was made for the ſervice thereof; being placed before the veil of the Holy of Holieſt; that ſo the incenſe burnt thereon, might cloud the Holy of Holieſt. Hence it is ſaid to be before the Ark of the Teſtimony, Exod.40.5. The Original word ſignifieth any Utenſil, wherein, or whereon incenſe might be burnt; and it may be called golden, becauſe it was over-laid with gold: ſee Exod.4.5. and Lev.4.11.

wherein] Both the Greek prepoſition and the Hebrew anſwerable unto it, ſignifie not only in or within, but alſo by, neer unto, or before: ſee Joſh.5.13. Judg.18.12. Jer.13.5. Luke 9.31. Hence not only the Tables of the Covenant, but likewiſe the golden Pot which had the Manna, and Aarons Rod that budded, are ſaid here to be in the Ark, notwithſtanding the Tables of the Covenant were only within it, 1 Kin.8.9. 2 Chron.5.10. becauſe we have no anſwerable prepoſition in the Engliſh, to ſignifie the latitude and extent of the Original. Some refer (wherein) to Tabernacle, verſe 3. and it is true, that ſometimes the relative hath relation unto the more remote antecedent: ſee John 8.44.

the golden pot] Exod.16.34.

Aarons rod] Numb.17.10.

the tables of the covenant] Deut.10.5. 1 Kings 8.9. 2 Chron.5.10.

V. 5. over it the] Exod.25.22.

Cherubins] Theſe were figures or repreſentations of Angels, inclining their faces one towards the other, and touching one another with their wings, Exod.25.18. The uſe of theſe was, to cover, or over-ſhadow the Mercy-ſeat with their wings, Exod.2.20. And from this ſeat God uſed to ſpeak unto Moſes, Exod.25.22. Numb. 7.89. which may be applyed unto Chriſt, whoſe mediation was ſignified by the Mercy-ſeat: whence it is ſaid, that he is a propitiation or covering Mercy-ſeat, Rom.3.25. 1 John 2.2. and 4.10 becauſe by his obedience all our unrighteouſnes is covered.

V. 7. once every year] Exod.30.10. Lev.16.2. The tenth day of every moneth, or day of reconciliation; as Lev.16.18,&c. whereby was ſignified the perfection of Chriſts ſacrifice once for all, ver.28.

errours] That is, all ſorts of ſins, becauſe all ſorts of ſins ariſe from ſome errour in judgement, chap. 5.3. and 7.29. Luke 16.16.

V. 8. a way] That is, the ſacrifice was not yet offered, by virtue whereof the faithful had free acceſſe unto God into heaven: not that the faithful were not in heaven before Chriſts aſcenſion; but to ſhew by whom, or by virtue of whoſe bloud they entred, chap. 10. 19,20.

V. 9. Which] Or, which parable was for. That is, which ſimilitude or type of the high Prieſt, of the Tabernacle, and of the furniture and ſervice thereof.

for the] That is, of the nonage or minority of the Church.

in which] Or, according to which. That is, according to which time of the nonage or minority of the Church, God fitted his publike worſhip. For the people of the Jews being a groſſe people, and much addicted to idolatry, it ſeemed good unto the wiſdom of God, to exerciſe them with a more groſſp and bodily worſhip, that ſo he might keep them from it, ſee Gal.4.1,2,3.

gifts and ſacrifices] Chap.5.1. and 8.3. by gifts and ſacrifices, we are to underſtand the whole ſervice of the Tabernacle, whereof the Apoſtle makes mention of ſome particulars in the verſes following: thus incenſe is called an offering, Numb. 16. verſe 15. compared with verſe 17. and the Ephah of fine flowre, uſed at the conſecration of Aaron and his ſons, a meat-offering, Lev.6.20.

that could not] That is, they could not in themſelves be ſeparated from their ſpiritual ſignifications, either ſatisfie the conſcience that ſin was pardoned, and reconciliation obtained with God, becauſe the conſcience could not have ſound ſatisfaction how Gods juſtice ſhould be ſatisfied by thoſe offerings, chap. 10.4. or ſanctifie or purifie the conſcience, they being corporal, and ſo could not reach unto it.

him] Or, the worſhipper; chap.10.2. perfect] Chap.7.19. and 10.1.

V. 10. impoſed] Or, being impoſed, or which were impoſed, only underſtand it of the gifts and ſacrifices mentioned in the former verſe.

and carnal ordinances] Or, rites, or ceremonies, or juſtifications of the fleſh. Or, and in ſuch like carnal Ordinances. The Apoſtle ſumming up that in general, whereof he had made mention in ſome particulars before. Called carnal ordinances, or juſtifications of the fleſh, becauſe they did ſanctifie only to the purifying of the fleſh, verſe 13. that is, freeing thoſe who uſed them from legal pollutions and irregularities: ſee 2 Chron.30.19. John 11.55.

time of, &c.] That is, of Chriſts coming, who ſhould and did reform the carnal rites, or ceremonies and ſervices of the Law, by fulfilling them; exhibiting the truth and thoſe ſpiritual bleſſings typified and ſignified by them; and by inſtituting a more ſimple and ſpiritual worſhip. This is that which is meant, when God promiſes to create new heavens, and a new earth, Eſay 65.17. and when S. Paul ſaith, All things are made new, 2 Cor 5.17.

V. 11. But, &c.] Here followeth the explication and application of the former type: and the compariſon is cheefly made between the remedy appointed for ſins, meerly ceremonial, that is, Legal pollutions and irregularities, which was the bloud of Bulls and Goats, &c. and the remedy of thoſe ſins, which in their own nature poiſon the ſoul; and this is only the bloud of Jeſus Chriſt.

an high Prieſt] Or, for to be an high Prieſt.

good, &c.] Chap.10.1. That is, of all thoſe ſpiritual mercies and benefits which were purchaſed by his bloud: as juſtification, ſanctification, adoption, and everlaſting ſalvation.

greater, &c.] That is, of his own body. See chap.8.2.

made, &c.] As the legal Tabernacle was. See more on ch. 8.2.

V. 12. bloud, &c.] Eph.1.7. Col. 1.14. Rom.3.24,25. Wherewith the high Prieſt entred the Holy of Holieſt, Lev.16.3.

once] See chap 7.27.

holy place] That is, heaven, whereof the Holy of Holieſt was a type.

having, &c.] Firſt.

eternal] Eſay 51.6.

V. 13. the bloud] Lev.16.14.

the aſhes] Numb.19.17, &c.

unclean] The Greek ſignifieth common, but in the Scriptures, eſpecially of the New Teſtament, it ſignifieth unclean. See Mat. 15.11. Mar.7.15. Acts 10.14. It is meant here of ſuch who were made unclean: that is, diſenabled to enter into the Temple, through legal pollutions; as by touching the dead, &c.

ſanctifieth] See verſe 10.

V. 14. bloud, &c.] 1 Pet.1.19. Applyed by faith. See Acts 15. 9. and 26.18.

eternal] That is, God-head, Acts 20.28. Rom. 1.4. 1 Pet. 3.18. implying thereby, that the ſacrifice of Chriſts death had its value and virtue both to ſatisfie and ſanctifie from his Deity.

ſpot] Or, fault. Typified by the ſpotleſs ſacrifices commanded to be offered under the Law, Exod.12.5. Numb.19.2. and 28.3. Rom. 3.25. 1 Pet.1.19.

purge, &c.] 1 John 1.9. Both in reſpect of juſtification and ſanctification.

dead, &c.] See Heb.6.1.

ſerve, &c.] Luke 1.74. Implying, that no ſervice is acceptable to God unto ſalvation, unleſs the conſcience be firſt purified by the bloud of Jeſus Chriſt. See 1 Pet. 2.5.

V. 15. And for] Or, And ſo, or, ſo then.

Mediatour] Chap.8.6. and chap.12.24.

that by the means of death] Or, to the end that. Gr. death being made.

tranſgreſſions that were under the firſt teſtament] Rom. 3. 5. It is not the meaning of the Apoſtle, that ſins committed under the Old Teſtament were not pardoned before Chriſt dyed, but that they were pardoned only by virtue of Chriſts death, who was the Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the world Rev.13 8.

called] That is, effectually, or thoſe who have beleeved.

eternal, &c.] Called eternal redemption, verſe 12.

V. 16. is] That is, in force.

by the death] Or, be brought in.

V. 17. after men are dead] Or, after the dead; or, till they are dead.

teſtatour liveth] In whoſe power it was to alter it.

V. 18. dedicated] Or, purified; that is, ratified, or confirmed.

V. 19. precepts] The conditions of that firſt covenant: ſee ch. 7.12. Eph.2. 15.

calves] So the Apoſtle calls the younger bullocks, by reaſon of the neerneſs of their age unto calves.

goats] There is expreſs mention made only of bullocks, Exod.24. 5. but by the ſacrifice of bullocks, as of the principal, we are to underſtand the ſacrifices of all other beaſts.

with water, &c.] There is no expreſs mention made of theſe particulars, Exod.24.8. Whence ſome conceive, that Saint Paul had them either by tradition, or revelation; but it is more probable, that he gathered it from the uſual cuſtome of ſprinkling bloud under the law, which was with water, ſcarlet-wooll, and hyſſope: ſee Lev. 14.6. Num.19.6. and 18. Pſalm 51.7.

ſcarlet] Or, purple.

book] We read not that the book was ſprinkled: it ſeems therefore that the book was upon the Altar, and ſo ſprinkled with it: this book was not the two Tables of ſtone, for theſe God made, but ſome other ſhort ſumme of the firſt covenant which Moſes himſelf did write: ſee Exod.24.4. Some are of opinion, that thereby are meant the 20, 21, and 23. chapters of Exodus.

people] That is, the twelve pillars which repreſented the twelve Tribes: ſee Exod. 24.4.

V. 20. This is the bloud] Exod.24.8.

enjoyned unto you] Or, hath ordained concerning you, Heb. 1.7.

V. 21. Moreover] Though not at the ſame time, for then the tabernacle was not made: ſee Exod. ch. 25, &c.

tabernacle] We read that God commanded the Altar, and all the veſſels to be anointed with oyl by Moſes, Exod. 24. 8, &c. and accordingly they were anointed by him, Lev.8.10. but we no where read expreſsly, as ſome are of opinion, that he either was commanded, or did ſprinkle the tabernacle and the furniture thereof with bloud: It is ſuppoſed therefore by ſome, that Saint Paul gathered thus much from Exod.29.12. Lev. 8. 15. and 16.14. where there is mention made of ſprinkling with bloud the Altar and Mercy-ſeat, &c. where, by the principal part, we may underſtand the whole tabernacle and all the furniture thereof. Or it may be thus much is plainly expreſſed, Lev.16.16. Joſephus reports, lib. 3. Antiqu. Hebr. c.9. that the whole tabernacle was ſprinkled.

V. 22. almoſt] Some refer (Almoſt) to all things, becauſe we read that ſome things were cleanſed by fire and water, Numb.31.22. Others refer it unto purged; that is, from their legal impurities, and make the ſenſe this; All things are by the law almoſt purged, though not altogether by bloud; becauſe ſometimes other things were required: theſe are of opinion, that in all cleanſings there was the uſe of bloud. And ſo the words following (And without, &c.) they conceive are to be underſtood, otherwiſe there will ſeem to be a contradiction between (Almoſt) in the firſt clauſe, and (without) in the ſecond. Or may be the former part of this verſe may be underſtood of things whereof ſome might be cleanſed without bloud, and the ſecond part of perſons which could not.

V. 23. patterns] Called figures, verſe 24. and ſhadows, ch.10.1. ſee ch. 8.2.

heavenly things] Some underſtand thereby Chriſt himſelf, and thoſe ſpiritual bleſſings which the faithful obtain through faith in him. For Chriſt himſelf was conſecrated, or made perfect through ſufferings, chapter 2.10. Others underſtand thereby the Church under the Goſpel, and thoſe ſpiritual graces whereof the members are made partakers therein. The Church under the Goſpel being called the heavenly Jeruſalem, chap. 12. 22. and thoſe graces being called ſpiritual bleſſings in heavenly places, Epheſ. 1.3. Others underſtand thereby heaven it ſelf, whereinto Chriſt entred, verſe 24.

ſacrifices] The ſingular number for the plural, which is frequent in the Scriptures. Or may be the Apoſtle ſtyles the one ſacrifice of Chriſt [Sacrifices] becauſe it was anſwerable unto all the legal ſacrifices, and far beyond them.

V. 24. hands] verſe 11.

heaven] Chap.4.14.

to appear] 1 John 2.1. chap. 7. 25. Rom. 8. 24. anſwerable to the high Prieſts entrance into the Holy of Holyeſt once a year, to make atonement for the people, Exod.30.10.

V. 25. often] Verſe 28. ch. 7.27.

every year] Verſe 7.

others] That is, not with his own, but with the bloud of beaſts.

V. 26. For] That is, had Chriſt offered himſelf often, then he ſhould have ſuffered often: for without ſuffering, no propitiatory ſacrifice. Where is then the ſacrifice of the Maſs?

in the end of the world] Chapter 1. 2. 1 Cor. 10, 11. Gal. 4.4. Eph.1.10.

appeared] Or, made manifeſt, 1 Tim.3.16. 1 John 3.8.

to put away ſin] That is, to aboliſh or make void the guilt or obligation of ſin, whereby it bindes over unbeleevers unto condemnation; ſo that unto beleevers, ſin is of no force to accuſe or condemn them, or to ſhut them out of heaven.

himſelf] Chap.1.3.

V. 27. appointed] Job 30.23. Pſalm 89.48. Eccl.6.6.

once] That is, according to the common or ordinary courſe of nature, though there be ſome extraordinary examples.

judgement] Underſtand it of every mans particular judgement preſently upon his death.

V. 28. So] Or, even ſo, Chriſt being once offered to bear the ſins of many, ſhall appear or be ſeen the ſecond time without ſin unto ſalvation, to all thoſe who expect him.

Chriſt was] 1 Pet.3.18.

bear] Or, carry up the ſins of many upon the Croſs, there to make ſatisfaction for them, by the ſacrifice of himſelf, 1 Pet. 2. 24. Or, take up ſin; that is, the guilt of our ſin upon himſelf.

many] Matth.26.27. Rom.5.19.

look] Phil.3.10. 1 Theſſ.1.10. 2 Tim.4.8. Tit.2.13.

ſecond] Oppoſed to his firſt appearance, viz. in the fleſh, verſe 26. when he came with the guilt and burden of our ſinnes upon him.

without ſin] That is, without the guilt or ſacrifice of ſin, having made full ſatisfaction for it, by his own ſacrifice of himſelf upon the Croſs.

unto ſalvation] Some refer this unto (look for him.) ſalvation] That is, both of ſoul and body in heaven, chap. 5.9. 1 Pet.1.19.

CHAP. X.

Verſe 1. Law]' That is, the old Covenant. So the word Law is taken, ch 7.12. and 19.

ſhadow] Some are of opinion, that here Saint Paul alludes to the cuſtome of Painters, who firſt make a rude draught, and then out of it a perfect and lively picture. Theſe make the ſenſe this, viz. That the old Covenant did contain only dark reſemblances and types of heavenly things, no lively repreſentations of them; this being reſerved unto the time of the Goſpel, wherein Chriſt and al ſpiritual bleſſings in him are clearly and plainly manifeſted. Others are of opinion, that Saint Paul alludes unto the ſhadow of a body, and theſe make this the ſenſe of the words, viz. That the old Covenant had only types, wherein Chriſt and heavenly things through him, were darkly repreſented, not the ſubſtance and truth of the things themſelves. This is the more probable opinion: ſee Col. 2.17.

of good] Ch.9.11.

image] That is, the ſubſtance or truth. See the former Note, and 2 Cor.4.4. Col.1.15. Phil.2.6.

perfect] Verſe 4. That is, as touching the conſcience: ſee ch. 9.9.

V. 2. For] Or, otherwiſe they would have, &c. Whether this clauſe be read with or without an interrogation, the ſenſe will be the ſame: the ſcope of the Apoſtle being to ſhew the weakneſs and inſufficiency of the legal ſacrifices to purge the conſcience from the guilt of ſin, from their often repetition.

becauſe] Verſe 18.

worſhippers] Ch.9.9.

once] That is, if they had been once purged from the guilt of their ſins.

conſcience] Should not have their conſcience any longer under the burden or guilt of thoſe ſins.

V 3. remembrance] viz. when Aaron and his ſucceſſours laid both their hands, in the name of the people, upon the head of the ſcape-goat, confeſſing their ſins, and ſending him into the wilderneſs; by this ſign diſcharging them, and laying all the burthen of their ſins upon the beaſt, which was a figure of Chriſt, who bare our ſins upon the Croſs, Heb.9.28.

ſins] That is, the ſame ſins. For upon the day of propitiation there was confeſſion of, and reconciliation for the ſins of the whole year.

V. 4. take away ſins] Verſe 1. ch.9.9.

V. 5. when] That is, the Son of God being to come, Mat.11.3. or foretelling of his coming. into the world] John 16.28. and 18.37. 1 Tim.1.5. Underſtand it of his being made fleſh, John 1.14. or being manifeſted in the fleſh, 1 Tim.3.16.

ſaith] By David who was a type of him, and unto whom this paſſage agrees, though not in that exactneſs as it doth unto Chriſt.

Sacrifice] Pſalm 40. 6, &c. Though Saint Paul keeps not himſelf unto the expreſs words of the Pſalmiſt, yet he retains the ſubſtance and matter of them.

body] Heb. mine ear haſt thou opened ; or, digged open. It is a proverbial manner of ſpeech, whereby there is implyed the qualifying, or fitting a man unto obedience in ſervice : the ear, or opening of the ear, being an embleme, or ſymbole , or a metaphoricall ſign of obedience : ſee Iſa. 50 5. Job 33.16. Now Saint Paul following the tranſlation of the Septuagint, and being directed by the Spirit of God, expounds this of Gods ſanctifying and fitting a body unto Chriſt, wherein he was obedient even unto the ſhameful death of the Croſſe.

haſt thou prepared me] Or, thou haſt fitted me.

V. 6. ſacrifices for ſin] Rom.8.3.

V. 7. Lo, I] John 4.34. and 5.30. and 6.38.

volume] Luke 24.37,44. John 1.45. and 5.46. See the note on Pſalm 40.7.

V. 8. by the Law] Or, according to the law.

V. 9. firſt] That is, the legal ſacrifices.

ſecond] That is, the one ſacrifice of Chriſt.

V. 10. will] That is, of the Father, who appointed his Son to take our nature , and therein by death to make ſatisfaction for our ſins. Or of the Son in his willing obedience unto his Father.

ſanctified] That is, freed from the guilt of our ſins, and conſecrated to Gods ſervice.

once] Chap.7.27. and 9.26. 1 Pet.3.18.

V. 11. take away] verſe 4.

V. 12. man] 1 Tim.2.5.

for ever] Chapter 1. 3. ſome refer it to (ſacrifice,) others to (ſate.)

V. 13. till his enemies] Pſalm 110.1. 1 Cor.15.25. chap.1.13.

V. 14. perfected] That is, as concerning the remiſſion of their ſins : having by his own offering paid the full price for the pardon of them.

ſanctified] See verſe 10.

V. 14. Holy Ghoſt] Chap.9.8. Mark 12.36. Acts 1.16. and 28. 25. 2 Peter 1.21.

ſaid before] Or, firſt ſaid ; or, ſaid in the firſt place.

V. 16. This is the covenant, &c.] Or, This is the covenant that I will make with them : then followeth, After thoſe days, ſaith the Lord, I will put, &c.

I will put] Which we are not ſo to underſtand, as if God had not put his Laws in the hearts of his children, and written them in their minds, under the law ; but of a more plentiful meaſure of his grace under the Goſpel : In which reſpect, Joel 2.28. it is promiſed, that God will pour out of his Spirit upon all fleſh under the Goſpel : ſee Eſay 44.3. Acts 2. 17.

V. 18. Now, where, &c.] See verſe 2.

V. 19. Having] Here the Apoſtle reſumes again the exhortation which he had begun, chapter 2.1. and farther preſſed, chap.3. to the fifth.

therefore] That is, the pardon of ſin being purchaſed , ſins only excluding from heaven.

boldneſs] Or, liberty ; or, freedom.

holieſt] Chapter 9.8,12. That is, heaven, whereof the holy of Holieſt was a type.

by] Through the merit of the, &c.

V. 20. new] Which the Apoſtle oppoſeth unto the old way, either by the bloud of beaſts, wherewith the high Prieſt entred into the Holy of Holieſt once in the year ; or by the material veil ; or unto both.

living] That is, everlaſting way which ſhall never fail, John 4. 10. and 6.51. and 7.38. and which ſhall bring unto eternal life.

way] John 14.6.

conſecrated] Or, new made. It is not improbable , that herein Saint Paul doth allude unto the cuſtome of thoſe, who in a ſnow or like caſe beat or tread out the way for thoſe that are to follow after. It is by virtue of Chriſts reſurrection and aſcenſion , that all true beleevers ſhall enter into heaven. Hence he is called the firſt-fruits of thoſe who ſleep, 1 Cor.15.20.

veil] The veil was a type of Chriſts human nature, wherewith his Divine nature was hid and obſcured, and through which he entred into heaven : even as the veil of the Temple did hide the Holy of Holieſt, and as the high Prieſt through it did enter therein.

fleſh] Human nature, Pſalm 16.9. and 27.2. John 1.14. called fleſh, becauſe of the infirmities and weakneſſes thereof , Pſalm 78. 39. and whereby his Divine nature was veiled and covered over ; even as the ark of the covenant, the Mercy-ſeat, and the moſt holy place were by the veil.

V. 21. high prieſt] Chapter 2.17. and 3.1. and 4.14.

houſe] Chapter 3.6. that is, the church of the faithful , Epheſ. 1.22. 1 Peter 2.5. and 4.17.

V. 22. draw near] Chapter 4.16. & 7.25. & 11.6. 1 Peter 2.14.

true heart] That is, with an upright and ſincere heart, without hypocriſie, Pſalm 51. 6. and with a conſtant heart without drawing back, verſe 38. Luke 16.11. John 6. 32. Hereunto is oppoſed an evil heart of unbeleef, chapter 3.12. ſee Matthew 15.8.

full aſſurance] That is, with a ſtedfaſt faith, without wavering and doubting, verſe 23. James 1.6. Some are of opinion, that here and in other places there is an alluſion unto ſhips under full ſail: and then the tranſlation may be this; viz. With the full ſail of faith. Faith is that grace, whereby we either do or may approach unto God , with full aſſurance of acceptance. Thus the righteouſneſs of faith, Rom. 4.13. is called the righteouſneſs through faith, or by faith, Rom. 9. 38. & 10.6. Phil. 3.9. ſee chapter 6. 11. Col. 2. 2. 1 Theſ. 1. 5. Luke 1.1. Rom.14.5.

having] Or, being ſprinkled in, or, as touching our hearts.

ſprinkled] By the bloud of Chriſt, chapter 12. 24. 1 Peter 1.2.

hearts] That is, our ſouls ; the heart being the cheef ſeat of the ſoul.

evil conſcience] That is, from the accuſation of an evil conſcience. So long as our conſciences are under the guilt of ſin, we cannot draw neer unto God with confidence of acceptation in any duty : ſee chapter 9.14.

having] Or, being waſhed in, or as touching our bodies.

bodies] Both ſoul and body are named ; becauſe every ſin is either of the ſoul or body : ſee 2 Cor.7.1.

waſhed] See Acts 22.16. 1 Cor. 6.11.

pure water] Ezek.26.25. that is, with the bloud of Chriſt, whereof the legal waſhings were a type : ſee Rev. 1. 5. and 7. 14. ſome are of opinion, that here Saint Paul hath relation unto the ſacrament of Baptiſm ; as John 3.5. Titus 3.5.

V. 23. hold faſt] See chapter 4. 14.

profeſſion] Chapter 3.1.

faith] Gr. hope.

faithful that hath promiſed] Deut.17.9. and 32.4. 1 Cor 1.9. and 10.13. 1 Theſ.5.24. 2 Theſ.3.3. chapter 6.10. and 11.11.

V. 24. conſider] That is, let us take care of our watch over one another, prudently obſerving one anothers diſpoſitions, gifts, graces, and defaults, that we may the better fit our ſelves to do good, each one of us to another, and to receive good each one of another.

V. 25. Not forſaking] Here is propounded one means or help, whereby they might incite one another to good works, Rom. 1.12.

aſſembling] That is, the publike congregation of the faithful , wherein the Word of God is taught, the Sacraments adminiſtred , and common prayer and thankſgiving made , unto which God hath promiſed a bleſſing, Matth.18.20. ſee Pſalm 27.4. and 122.1.

manner] Either out of fear, or negligence, or pride, ſelf-conceit and ſingularity, or out of what cauſeleſs reaſon elſe.

exhort] Chap. 3.13. Luke 19.17. Eph. 5. 11. Whereby underſtand not only exhortation properly ſo called, but alſo admonition, conſolation, reproof, example, and the like. It may be a metaphor taken from a ſharpning tool, Deut.6.7. Prov.27.17.

and ſo much] Rom.13.11.

ſee] That is, by plain and evident foretold tokens, and ſigns of the times ; ſee Mat.24.33.

day] Some underſtand it of the ſecond or laſt coming of our Saviour Chriſt, or of his coming to judgement ; whereof ſee 2 Pet. 3. 9. &c. but it is not improbable that here we are to underſtand it of the time of the utter deſtruction of Jeruſalem, and the Temple ; at which time there ſhould be ſo great affliction that by reaſon thereof, many ſhould fall from the faith : ſee Mark 13.19.

V. 26. For if we ſin wilfully] See chap.6.4. wilfully] The Apoſtle doth ſpeak here of all kind of wilful ſin, or falling away : but only of that which our Lord Chriſt calleth blaſphemy againſt the holy Ghoſt, Mat.12.3. and which Saint John calls a ſin unto death, 1 John 5.16.

remains] In as much as ſuch wilfully reject and ſcorn the only ſacrifice of the New Teſtament ; viz. the Lord Jeſus, and all his merit: ſee Numb.15.30,31.

no more ſacrifice for ſin] For as much as thoſe who wilfully reject and ſcorn the only ſacrifice of the New Teſtament , viz. the Lord Jeſus and all his merits : Some conceive that Saint Paul alludeth to Numb. 15. 30,31. where in like manner, according to the tenor of the law, there was no atonement left , for thoſe who ſhould ſin preſumptuouſly : becauſe thereby he reproached the Lord.

V. 27. looking] Whereas the godly with comfort and joy expect the appearance of Chriſt : ſee chap.9.28.

devour] Chap.5.8.

adverſaries] Luke 19. 17. thoſe who againſt the conviction of their conſciences, wilfully reſiſt and perſecute the Goſpel. See cha. 6.4.

V. 28. deſpiſed Moſes] Numb.15.30,31.

under two or three witneſſes] Deut. 19.15. Mat. 18. 16. John 8. 17. 2 Cor.13.1. 1 Tim.5.19.

V. 29. Of how much] Chap. 2. 3. and 12.25.

troden] In treading his truth under their feet, by a malicious reſiſting and perſecuting thereof, they do as it were tread Chriſt himſelf under their feet ; or thereby they ſhew ſuch a ſpiteful mind againſt him, that they would (if it were poſſible) pull him out of heaven, and trample him under their feet. For that which we reject and forſake , that we hold as impure, and unholy in Gods worſhip.

bloud] Mat. 26.28. Luke 22.20. chap.17.20. That is, the bloud of Chriſt, whereby the new covenant was ratified and confirmed: ſee chap.9.10, &c.

ſanctified] By which their ſins were pardoned, in regard of that meritorious ſufficient ſatisfaction purchaſed by it: ſee verſe 10. and 14.

unholy] Gr. common, Mark 7. 2. Acts 10. 15. They make no more account of the bloud of Chriſt, than of the bloud of ſome malefactour, or of a brute beaſt.

deſpite] That is, by a wilfull and malicious reſiſting the work of the holy Ghoſt, teſtifying and convincing them of, and ſealing unto them the truth of the Goſpel: ſee Acts 6. 10. and 7. 51. and 54.

Spirit of Grace] That is, Authour of grace, Rom.15.16. 1 Cor. 12. 8. Gal.5.22. Eph. 5.9. Or, gracious Spirit, that is, which God of his free grace and mercy beſtows on his people.

V. 30. know] And therefore our condemnation ſhall be the greater, if knowing how juſt God is in revenging all impiety, we wilfully ſin againſt him, Luke 12.47. John 15.22.

Vengeance belongeth unto me] Deut. 32. 35. Rom. 12.19. Pſalm 94.1.

The Lord] Deut.32.36. Pſalm 50.4.

V. 31. hands] 2 Sam.24. 14.

living God] Chap.3.12. and 9.14. Job 37.22.

V. 32. But] In as much as theſe converted Hebrews had ſtood it out ſtedfaſtly againſt manifold afflictions, even at their firſt entertaining of the Goſpel; hence the Apoſtle inferreth, that therefore it did the much more become now to ſtand to that faith, which they had ſo long profeſſed: ſee Gal. 3.4.

illuminated] Converted to the faith of Chriſt, Acts 26.18. Epheſ.3.9.

fight] Or, wreſtlings of afflictions, whereby Satan ſought to overthrow your faith: the Apoſtle alludes to the cuſtome of wreſtlers, who ſeek to trip up one another; this wreſtling was by faith, chap. 11.36. 1 Tim.6.12. 2 Tim.4.7.

V. 33. gazing ſtock] Or, placed, or ſhewed upon theaters or ſtages. Underſtand it either metaphorically, as it were ſo handled; or properly, for it was the cuſtome of the heathen to ſet chriſtians upon theaters or ſtages, to be ſcorned and laught at: ſee 1 Cor. 4.9.

companions] Having a fellow-feeling of their miſeries, and ſo aſſiſting them to their ability, chap.13.33. as alſo adjoyning themſelves unto them, being not diſcouraged by their afflictions, 2 Tim. 1. 16. Phil.1.7.

V. 34. joyfully] Acts 5.41. and 21.13. James 1. 2.

knowing] 2 Cor.5.1.

enduring] Chap.11.31. Mat.6.20. Joh.6.27.

V. 35. confidence] Verſe 23. and ch. 3 6,14.

confidence] Or, cheerfulneſs. Your cheerful profeſſion ſpringing forth out of the cheerful confidence of your faith and hope.

recompenſe] Chap.11.26. and 12.2. 1 Cor.15.58.

V. 36. need] Conſidering thoſe great afflictions, which yet ye might endure.

promiſe] The thing promiſed, that is, heaven and the joyes thereof.

V. 37. yet a little while] Habbac.2. 3, 4. Luke 18. 8. 2 Pet,3. 8, &c.

a little while] Which words may ſeem to be taken from the Prophet Habbakkuk, which our Apoſtle doth not cite here word by word, but relates only the ſenſe of them, and ſo applyes them to his preſent purpoſe.

ſhall come] The Meſſiah, or Chriſt, Mat. 11.9. Rev.1.4.

V. 38. Now] Here the Apoſtle from the Prophet Habbakkuk, directeth them to that grace, whereby they might be enabled to ſtand ſtedfaſt in the faith, in the ſad and diſcouraging times of affliction. See Eph.6.16.

the juſt] Rom.1.17. Gal.3.11.

but] Here is a tranſpoſition and change of the words, yet without any alteration of the ſenſe. It is by pride that they truſt not in God, but in themſelves, and ſo by unbeleef withdraw themſelves from God, and ſuch who do ſo have not upright hearts, and in theſe God hath no pleaſure.

draw back] From their faith and patient expectation, by falling away and denying Chriſt and his truth.

V. 39. But] See chap. 6. 9. Hereby he mitigates his precedent threatning, viz. that he hath not ſuch apprehenſion of them: ſee chap. 6.9.

we] See chap.2.3.

ſaving] John 3.16. 1 Pet.5.9.

CHAP. XI.

Verſe 1. Subſtance] Or, ground, or confidence, or expectation. See chap.3.14. this verſe ſome have tranſlated thus; Now faith is the expectation of that which is hoped for, and the hope of things which are not ſeen.

hoped for] Becauſe faith aſſents not only to the promiſes of God as true, but likewiſe as good, and that above all, which the world can yeeld unto us.

evidence] Or, conviction, John 16. 8. That is, whereby the ſoul of a beleever is aſſured of the certain truth of thoſe things which appear not unto ſenſe, becauſe it reſteth it ſelf upon the immutable truth of Gods Word, and the infiniteneſs of his power.

not ſeen] That is, of ſuch things which are not, neither can be comprehended by ſight or natural reaſon.

ſeen] Verſe 7. 2 Cor.5.7.

V. 2. by it] That is, by the efficacy and power of their faith, enabling them to ſuffer and to obey, and to work miracles and great exploits.

good report] verſe 39.

V. 3. underſtand] That is, according to all the particular circumſtances of the creation, though ſomething thereof may be known by the light of reaſon, 2 Pet.3.5. Rom.1.20.

the worlds] Gen.1.1. ſee chap.1.2.

the world] Pſalm 33.6. and 9. 2 Pet.3.5.

appear] But out of nothing.

V. 4. Abel] Gen.4.4. 1. Cain had the more worthy name. Cain, i. e. acquiſition. Abel, vanity or weeping. 2. He had the worthieſt trade: he was an husbandman, and bread is the ſtaff of life. Abel, a ſhepherd. 3. He was the firſt-born: yet Abel is preferred before him, becauſe he was found faithful.

more excellent] Gr. fuller ſacrifices, not in reſpect of the ſubſtance of the ſacrifice, but of his affection.

obtained witneſs] verſe 2.

teſtifying] That is, of the acceptance of his gifts, either by fire from heaven, Lev.9.24. 1 Reg.18.38. 1 Chron.21.26. or by ſome like token: ſee Gen.4.4.

yet ſpeaketh] Or, is yet ſpoken of. Some underſtand it of his bloud crying for vengeance, chap.12.24. Gen. 4. 10. Others more probably of his example, whereby he yet preacheth unto the world for imitation.

V. 5. Enoch] Gen.5.24. Wiſd.4.10. Ecclus.44.16. and 49.14.

tranſlated] Or, taken away: the manner how, is not determinable by man. Thus Eliah was afterward tranſlated, 2 Kings 2. 11. See likewiſe 1 Cor. 15 51. and 1 Theſ.4.17.

teſtimony] Either in that it is ſaid, that he walked with God, whence it may be inferred, that he pleaſed God; or elſe becauſe God did by ſome more than ordinary means teſtifie ſo much of him, as he did of Abels ſacrifice, verſe 4.

V. 6. without faith] Becauſe Faith is that grace which unites us unto Chriſt, 2 Cor.13.5. Eph.3 17. in whom God is well pleaſed with us, Eph.1.6. 2 Pet.1.17. Mat. 3.17.

cometh] That is, for refuge in this life, and ſalvation in the life to come.

rewarder] Not out of merit, but mercy, Rom.4.4.

V. 7. Noah] Gen. 6.13.

ſeen] Verſe 1.

moved with fear] Or, being wary, or piouſly fearing: ch. 5. 7.

by the which] That is, by building of which ark through faith and obedience unto God, he witneſſed againſt the diſobedient and ungodly (1 Pet.3 20. 2 Pet. 2. 5.) of the old world, to the greater condemnation of their infidelity.

V. 8. Abraham] Gen. 12.4.

he] That is, in his poſterity.

obey] Forſaking his countrey, his kindred and fathers houſe, Gen. 12.1. which might ſeem to be againſt reaſon, in that he left a certainty for an uncertainty.

not knowing] For God did not at firſt tell him of the place whither he ſhould go, for the greater tryal of his faith, Gen.12.1. but when he was come into Canaan, then he told him that that was the place, Gen. 12.7.

V. 9. ſojourned] Gen. 17.7. and 23.4.

ſtrange] For there he was conſtrained either to buy, or hire, or borrow both a place for his dwelling, Gen.14.13. as alſo for the burial of his dead, Gen.23.4, &c. tabernacles] Gen.12.7.

V. 20. foundations] That is, a firm and enduring city, which the Apoſtle oppoſeth to the tents wherein Abraham dwelt, which had no foundations, but were moveable; hereby is meant heaven, wherein is immutable happineſs, Pſalm 16.11. 2 Cor.5.1. 1 Pet.1.4.

V. 11. Through faith] Though weak, for ſhe laught at the promiſe of a ſon improbable, Gen.18. 12.

Sara] Gen. 17.19. and 21. 2.

her ſelf] Though barren, Gen.11.30.

to conceive] Or, for a foundation of ſeed, that is, for a foundation to retain ſeed. It is an alluſion unto a building, where the foundation is firſt laid.

when ſhe was] Gr. beyond the fit time of age, ſhe being ninety years old before ſhe conceived, Gen. 17.17.

faithful] Chap.10.23.

dead] Rom.4.19.

ſtarres] Gen.15.5. and 22.17.

V. 13. All] Underſtand it of Abraham, Sara, Iſaac, and Jacob, unto whom the three following verſes properly and directly agree.

in faith] Gr. according to faith: that is, perſevering in faith.

promiſes] That is, the Land of Canaan which was promiſed, and which was a type of heaven.

ſaw] As Abraham did the day of Chriſt, John 8.56.

afar] For Abrahams poſterity had not the poſſeſſion of the Land of Canaan till above four hundred years after, Gen.15.13.

embraced] Laid hold on them. It may be an alluſion to the cuſtom of ſaluting one another by embracings, or laying hold of each other. Some are of opinion that the Apoſtle alludes to the cuſtom of Mariners, who when they ſee land, joyfully ſalute it, though afar off.

confeſſed] Gen.23.4. & 47.9. 1 Chr.29.15. Pſa.39.12. & 119.19.

V.16. But now] That is, ſeeing that they did not return when they might, hereby they manifeſtly declared, that they deſired a better.

heavenly] 2 Cor.5.1.

aſhamed] That is, accounted it an honour to be called their God, becauſe by their faith they gave glory unto God, thereby acknowledging his power and faithfulneſs: or, in an eſpecial manner to be called their God, though he were the God of the whole world, Gen. 24.3.

called] Gen.26.24. Exod.3.6,15. & 4.5. prepared] Matt.27.34. 1 Cor.2.9.

V.17. Abraham] Gen.22.9.

tryed] Pſal.11.5.

offered] Jam.2.21. That is, in diſpoſition and full purpoſe and willingneſs of mind, which God accepteth for the deed, 2 Cor.8.12.

and he that had received the promiſes] Or, even he who had received the promiſes, offered his onely begotten, of whom, &c.

begotten ſon] Of Sara his lawful wife; or his onely begotten then in his houſe, for Hagar and her ſon were caſt out, Gen.21.14.

V.18. Of whom] Or, to. So the Greek prepoſition is uſed, chap.1.7. & 4.13.

That in Iſaac] Gen.21.12. Rom.9.7.

V.19. Accounting] Or, Reaſoning.

in a figure] Gr. parable; or after a ſort. Which is to be underſtood either of Iſaac's iſſuing from the dead body of Abraham and Sara's dead womb, Rom.4.19. or of his neerneſs unto death, when his Father was about to ſacrifice him, Gen.22.10.

V.20. Iſaac bleſſed] Gen.27.27,39.

V.21. bleſſed] Gen.48.15.

both] Gr. Every one of the ſons of Joſeph, which were but two when Jacob came into Egypt, Gen.47.5.

worſhipped] Gen.47.31.

ſtaff] See Gen.47.31.

V.22. Joſeph] Gen.50.24,25.

made mention] Or, remembred. Or, put his brethren into remembrance.

commandment] So did Jacob his Father, Gen. 47.30. both thereby evidently manifeſting their faith touching that promiſe. Gen.15.13. as alſo giving a pledge and token thereof.

V.23. By faith] Grounded (as it is very probable) on ſome particular revelation; or on his general providence.

Moſes] Exod.2.2. Act.7.20.

proper child] Or, goodly, or very fair child, or comely.

not afraid] That is, not ſo much as others.

commandment] Exod.1.16.

V.24. Moſes] Exod.2.11.

daughter] And ſo conſequently (as is probable) to be the next King of Egypt.

V.25. pleaſures of ſin] Or, ſinful pleaſures.

ſeaſon] Luke 12.19, &c.

V.26. of Chriſt] Or, for Chriſt, Chap.13.13. 1 Cor.1.5. Gal.6.17. It is manifeſt hence, that Chriſt was before he was born of the Virgin: ſee likewiſe, 1 Cor.10.9. Joh.8.58.

reſpect] verſ.6. Ezek.10.34,35. Chap.12.2.

V.27. endured] That is, patiently and couragiouſly perſevered through faith, Act.2.42. Eph.6.18. Some conceive, that herein the Apoſtle alludeth to Hounds, who will never give over till they have got the game.

ſeeing] Pſal.16.8.

inviſible] Col.1.15. 1 Tim.1.17.

he kept] Exo.12.21, &c. Or, celebrated, Matt.26.18. Luk.22.19.

touch] That is, hurt: ſee Gen.16.11. Joſh.9.19. Ruth 2.9. Job 5.19. Pſal.105.15.

V.29. they paſſed] Exod.14.22.

V.30. the walls] Joſh.6.20.

V.31. the harlot] Joſh.6.23. Jam.2.25.

that beleeved not] Or, that were diſobedient.

ſhe had received] Joſh.2.1.

V.32. time] An hyperbolical ſpeech, like that, John 21.25.

Gideon] Judg.6.11.

Barak] Judg.4.6.

Sampſon] Judg.13.24.

Jephtha] Judg.11.1. Though a baſtard, yet is here numbered amongſt the faithful; whence it is evident, that baſtards were not excluded heaven by that. Deut.23.2.

David] 1 Sam.16.13.

Samuel] 1 Sam.1.20.

V.33. ſubdued] Judg.4. & 6. & 15. & 16. 2 Sam.8.1. Judg.11. 2 Sam.2.6.

righteouſneſs] That is, that which was right in the ſight of God.

promiſes] That is, the benefit and accompliſhment of thoſe particular promiſes, which were made unto them.

ſtopped the mouths of the Lions] Judg.14.5. 1 Sam.17.34. Dan.6.22.

V.34. Quenched] Dan.3.25.

weakneſs] 2 King.20.7.

V.35. Women] 1 Kin.17.22. 2 Kin.4.35.

tortured] 2 Mac.7.7. By grievous threatnings and tortures.

that they] See verſ. 26.

better reſurrection] chap.10.34.

V.36. trial of cruel mockings] chap.10.32. 1 Pet.1.7. Or, ſuffered mockings.

V.38. worthy] Notwithſtanding they were hated and perſecuted of all, Matth. 24.9. and accounted the filth and off-ſcouring of the world, 1 Cor. 4.13.

V.39. good report] verſ. 2.

promiſe] That is, Chriſt, and the happy and glorious eſtate of the Church under him.

V.40. having] According to the counſel of his will, whereby he doth diſpoſe of times and ſeaſons, Act.1.7.

provided] Or, foreſeen; or, ordained.

better] That is, a better condition and far greater privileges for us under the Goſpel, in that he hath now ſent his Son in the fleſh, and made him the Mediator of a better Covenant, chap. 7.22. & 8.6. under which the doctrine of ſalvation is more manifeſtly revealed, Col. 1.16. 2 Tim.1.9,10. and the gifts of the Spirit more plentifully poured out, Act. 2.16.

they] Who were under the law or firſt covenant.

ſhould not be, &c.] That is, made partakers of that better condition without us or before us. Some underſtand it of that perfection whereof all the faithful ſhall be made partakers, as well in body as in ſoul, at the reſurrection of the juſt. Others do underſtand it of their happineſs in heaven; but this would contradict that, which is ſaid concerning Enoch, viz. and that which is ſaid of their hope, verſ.16. and Chriſts own promiſe, Matth. 5.12. and divers other places of Scripture: nay, it would contradict the time, when S. Paul was writing this Epiſtle, Chriſt being aſcended into heaven long before that time, and therefore the beleeving fore-fathers are in heaven. And therefore it is more probable, that it is to be underſtood of Chriſts coming into the fleſh, and touching the accompliſhment of the ſtate of the Church under the Goſpel or New Teſtament.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. WHerefore] By which particle, the Apoſtle ſheweth the reaſon why he had recited the example of the Saints in the Chapter going before, viz. that we ſhould follow them, in running the race ſet before us: for if they ſo willingly kept the faith, we ſhould do much more ſo, God having provided better things for us.

ſeeing we alſo are compaſſed about with ſo great a cloud of witneſſes] Gr. having ſuch a cloud of witneſſes compaſſing us about. Cloud] i. e. Multitude. See Jer.14.13. Ezek.38.9. Some are of opinion, that here the Apoſtle alludes to that cloud whereby the children of Iſrael were guided, Exod.13.21. viz. That as that cloud guided the Iſraelites from Egypt to the Land of Canaan: So this company of the faithful may direct all the right way from the kingdom of darkneſs to the ſpiritual Canaan, the Kingdom of heaven.

let us lay aſide] Gr. laying aſide, or putting off; as Epheſ. 4.22. It is an alluſion unto the cuſtom of thoſe who being to run a race, put off and caſt away all things burthenſome and troubleſome. The ſame word is uſed, Jam.1.21.

weight] That is, all worldly contents, ſo far as they are a burthen unto us and to hinder us in our journey to heaven, Matth. 5.29. Secondly, all manner of ſin, and eſpecially pride and conceit of ſelf-ſufficiency, Rom. 10.3.

eaſily] Entangleth or wraps about: It is a borrowed ſpeech taken from a net or a long garment. Some underſtand it of original ſin, others, of ſin in general.

and let us] Gr. let us.

with patience] Gr. by patience. Our race is long, and full of rubs and difficulties, and therefore there is great need of patience, leſt we faint and give over our courſe.

race that is ſet before us] 1 Cor. 9.24. Gal. 5.7. 2 Tim. 4.7.

V.2. Looking] The original word ſignifieth an averting or drawing off the eye from one object to another. In our chriſtian race we muſt take off our minds from every thing which might divert and diſcourage us, and we muſt fix them upon Chriſt for our imitation.

Jeſus] Before and above all others: For otherwiſe it is not amiſs to look upon other mens example for our imitation; which Saint Paul intends by bringing in that cloud of witneſſes, chap. 11. but above all others, we muſt caſt our eys upon Chriſt, who is the Prime leader of our faith, and the onely accompliſher of it.

author] Or, beginner, or, Captain; as Acts 5.13, 15. Heb. 2.10.

joy] Viz. Which by his ſuffering, he was not onely to attain unto himſelf; but likewiſe to make others partakers thereof, Luke. 24.26. 1 Pet. 1.11.

the ſhame] Put upon him by ſinners, both in his life and in his death, as is declared in the verſe following.

is ſet down] viz. after that he had overcome all difficulties by conſtancy & patience, for an example unto us, of the like happy iſſue.

right hand] Chap.1.3. and 8.1. Phil.2.9,&c.

V. 3. conſider] Seriouſly and diligently.

contradiction] Thereby underſtand all that Chriſt ſuffered from man in the days of his fleſh or humiliation.

of ſinners] Whom he could have confounded with the leaſt blaſt of his mouth.

leſt ye be wearied and faint in your mindes] Or, leſt fainting in your mindes, ye be wearied.

wearied] Rev. 2.3. Or, remiſs and ſlack in the Chriſtian race.

faint] Verſe 5. Gal. 6.9.

V. 4. Ye have not] Though ye have ſuffered much, ch.10.32,&c. yet ye have not reſiſted unto death, as your Captain did: Or, may be herein the Apoſtle alludes to thoſe heatheniſh conflicts and combats which ſeldom were determined without bloud, or wherein it was a ſhame to yeeld before bloud was drawn.

ſtriving] With all our might and main, as combaters and wreſtlers were wont to do.

ſin] Or, ſinners: as Pſalm 49.5. and 119.133.

V. 5. And ye have, &c.] Or you may read it by way of interrogation; And have ye forgotten, &c.

the exhortation] Or, that conſolatory exhortation.

which] Wherein God diſcourſes or reaſons with you, as with children.

My ſon] Job 5.17. Prov.3.11. ſee the Notes on Prov.11.12.

V. 6. whom the Lord] Rev.3.19.

V. 7. If ye endure] That is, patiently, then thereby ye may know that God corrects you in mercy, for your good, as a father doth his ſons: Or, if you be chaſtened, which may ſeem to be the ſcope of the place, by that which follows, verſe 8.

V. 8. all] That are ſons, verſe 7.

V. 9. Furthermore] Or, what? ſeeing we have had the fathers of our bodies chaſtiſers, and have reverenced them, how much rather ought we to be, &c.

fleſh] That is, bodies, Rom.2.28. 1 Cor.5.5. Eph.6.5. 1 Pet.4.6. ſpirits] Souls, Numb.16.22. and 27.16. Eccleſ. 12. 9. Eſa. 57. 16. Zech.12.1. 2 Cor.7.1. 1 Pet.4.6. God is more eſpecially ſtyled the Father of our ſpirits, becauſe our ſouls are immediatly created by him.

live] The life of grace here, verſe 10. and the life of glory hereafter, Acts 14.21. affliction fitting and preparing for both.

V. 10. few days] For a ſhort time, that is, in the days or time of our childhood.

pleaſure] Or, as it ſeemed good to them; or, judgement, which often is corrupt, whereby many times they doe more hurt than good.

be partakers] Or, partake.

holineſs] See verſe 9.

V. 11. chaſtening] Gr. παιδεία; which word doth properly ſignifie, that which is uſed for the correction and amendment of children.

ſeemeth] Or, is. See chap.4.1. joyous] Gr. of joy, 1 Pet.1.6.

grievous] Gr. of griefs.

yeeldeth] By training, diſciplining, and fitting a man to an holy life; which bringeth peace of conſcience, paſſing all underſtanding, Pſalm 119.67,71.

V. 12. lift] Eſa. 35.3. Job 4.43. Take heart and courage, faint not, or give not over, becauſe of the ſharpneſs of your afflictions: Or, may be here, as verſe 4. the Apoſtle alludes to thoſe combats of the heathen, wherein it was a token of yeelding, when a man hung down his hands: Or, to thoſe who run in a race, following the former ſimilitude, verſe 1. Or, may be to both; lift up your hands to fight, and your feet to run.

V. 13. ſtraight] Or, even. That is, walk ſeemly, or keep a right courſe, Prov.4.26,27.

V. 14. Follow peace]. Rom. 12.18. Pſalm 34.14.

holineſs] 2 Cor.7.1.

ſee the Lord] Mat.5.8.

V. 15. leſt] Chap.6.4. and 10.26.

fail] Or, fall from; or, come ſhort: ſee chap.4.1. Rom.3.23.

grace] That is, free favour and mercy of God, offered in the Goſpel, 2 Cor.6.1. Tit.2.11. or the doctrine of grace in the Goſpel.

root] Underſtand thereby either a corrupt and evil heart, which will ſend forth the bitter fruits of ſin, chap.3.12. Or, any apoſtatizing or backſliding perſon, who by his example may trouble and cauſe many to fall, Deut.29.18.

defiled] 1 Cor.5.6. Gal.5.9.

V. 16. profane] That is, impure perſon, or rather a deſpiſer of, or trampler upon holy things; as upon Chriſt, and thoſe benefits which are offered through him, chap.10.29.

as Eſau] Who in deſpiſing his birth-right, which he ſold at ſo low a rate, became a type of ſuch, who deſpiſed Chriſt, of whom the firſt-born were a type.

who] Gen.25.33.

one morſel] Or, one meals meat.

ſold] Or, gave away.

birth-right] Or, the right and privilege of his being firſt-born.

V. 17. when] Gen.27.38.

place of repentance] Or, way to change his minde.

repentance] That is, in his Father, to reverſe or call back that bleſſing wherewith he had bleſſed his younger brother Jacob above him.

V. 18. For ye] The Apoſtle further preſſeth on the Hebrews the exhortation begun verſe 12. from the excellency of their condition who are under the Goſpel, or New Covenant, above others who were under the Law or Old Covenant. Thoſe ordinances in giving and receiving the law, being ſo terrible, ſo that the people could not bear that which was commanded, ſhewed the nature and uſe of the law, viz. that it was a killing letter, working wrath, Rom. 4.15. contrary to the Goſpel given upon mount Sion. The ſame argument or motive, in ſubſtance S. Paul had uſed, Rom. 5.18.

the mount] Exod.19.12,18,19. That is, Sinai, whereon the law was given.

touched] In it ſelf, though not in reſpect of Gods charge, ver.20.

burned] By this terrible manner of giving the law, we are given to underſtand the ſlaviſh, ſervile, and fearful condition of thoſe who were under it.

V. 19. voice] Underſtand thereby, either that terrible manner, wherewith the law was given; or the law it ſelf, the rigour whereof, they were not able to bear. See Exod.20.18,19. Rom.8.3. intreated] Exod.20.19. Deut.5.5. and 18.16.

V. 20. And if ſo] Exod.19.13.

V. 21. Moſes ſaid] Some conceive that this may be gathered from Exod. 19.14. Others, that the Apoſtle had it either by tradition, as thoſe names of Jannes and Jambres, 2 Tim. 3. 8. and the propheſie of Enoch, Jude 14. or elſe by divine revelation, as Moſes had the Hiſtory of the Creation, and of other things, before his own time.

mount Sion] Gal.4.26. That is, to the Church under the Goſpel, whereof Mount Sion was a type, Pſalm 14.7. and 50.20. Eſa. 2.3. and where the Goſpel was firſt proclaimed without that terrour wherewith the law was delivered, Eſa.2.3.

unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jeruſalem] Or, unto the heavenly Jeruſalem, which is the City, &c.

heavenly] So called, firſt, becauſe it cometh from heaven, through Gods effectual calling, Rev.3.12, and 21.2,10. Secondly, becauſe it ſhall aſcend unto heaven, Col.3.4.

Angels] Who are both a part of the Church generally conſidered, and alſo Guardians and Miniſters thereof. chap.1.14. Pſalm 34.7.

V. 23. To the general] Some underſtand this clauſe by way of explication or amplification, as if the Apoſtle hereby intended further to explain and amplifie the laſt clauſe of the former verſe: but more probably hereby we are to underſtand the Church of the Elect ſtyled the firſt-born, becauſe of thoſe ſpecial prerogatives which they enjoyed above thoſe who are only outwardly called, and only make an outward profeſſion of the Goſpel: even as the firſt-born under the law had ſome ſpecial prerogatives.

written in heaven] Or, enrolled, Luke 10.20.

judge of all] Rom.2.6,16. and 14.10.

juſt men] The Elect here on earth may be ſaid to be gathered to thoſe departed, becauſe they make but one Church, whereof one part is on earth, the other in heaven.

made perfect] That is, according to their ſouls, not bodies.

V. 24. mediatour] Chap.8.6. and 9.15.

covenant] Or, teſtament.

the bloud of] 1 Pet. 1. 2. That is, to the bloud of Jeſus Chriſt ſprinkled, as the word of hearing is the word heard, chap. 4. 2. See 1 Pet.1,2. And this is added, becauſe that Chriſt by his bloud confirmed the New Covenant, &c.

better] Chriſts bloud cries for mercy and pardon, whereas Abels cried for vengeance, Gen.4.10.

V. 25. See that] Chap.2.2. and 10.28.

him that ſpake on earth] Or, from the earth; That is, Moſes.

from heaven] That is, Chriſt, who came from heaven, Joh.3.13.

V. 26. then ſhook] At the giving of the law, Exod.19.18.

Yet once] Hag.2.6,7. The Hebrew particle ſignifieth both once and a little while, and the place of the Prophet may be underſtood of both; yet the Apoſtle makes uſe only of the firſt, in the next verſe, becauſe that only was to his purpoſe.

ſhake] Which was fulfilled in thoſe prodigies and ſigns which appeared upon the earth, and in the heavens, before, and at our Saviours coming in the fleſh, to proclaim and confirm the Goſpel. Some underſtand it of Chriſts ſecond coming, that is, to judgement, whereof Saint Peter ſpeaks, 2 Pet.3.10. but it is plain, that the Prophet ſpeaks of ſhaking the earth and the heavens which ſhould be while the ſecond Temple ſtood; for it is ſaid, that the deſire of all Nations, that is, the Meſſias ſhould come and fill the ſecond Temple with glory: ſee Hag.2.6,7.

V. 27. once] From this word [once] the Apoſtle infers the removing of the Law, or Old Covenant, given by Moſes, and the immutability and unchangeableneſs of the Goſpel, or New Covenant.

are ſhaken] Or, may be ſhaken.

V.28. kingdom] That is, the Goſpel, often called the Kingdom of God. See Matth.13.11,24,31. Mark 1.15. & 15.13. Rom.14.17.

moved] That is, altered or changed. Luk.1.33.

let us have grace] Or, let us hold faſt.

grace] See verſ. 15.

with reverence] Pſal.2.11. Exod.19.18.

V.29. our God is a conſuming fire] Chap.10.31. Deut.4.24.& 9.3. Pſal.50.3.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ.1. B*Rotherly*] Rom.12.10. Epheſ.4:2. 2 Pet.1,7. The Apoſtle ſpeaketh not of that love which ſhould be between natural brethren and kinsfolk, though this is required, but of that which ſhould be between thoſe who profeſs themſelves to be brethren through faith in Chriſt, Chap.2.11. Col.1.2.

continue] Firmly, and ſtedfaſtly.

V.2. Be not forgetful] Rom.12.13. 1 Pet.4.9.

ſome have entertained angels] Gen.18.3.& 19.2.

V.3. Remember them] 2 Cor.11.29.

ſuffer adverſity] Or, evil entreated. Or ſuppoſe your ſelves to be the ſame, who are afflicted.

in the body] That is,as members of the ſame body, 1Cor.12.25,&c. Or, as being yet living, and ſo ſubject to the ſame afflictions.

V.4. and the bed] That is, with the bed, or ſo that the bed be undefiled, as the words following imply.

adulterers] Mal.3.5.

judge] That is, puniſh, Gen.15.14. 1 Sam.2.25. 2 Chron.20.12. Though the Magiſtrate be negligent in puniſhing them, yet God will judge them. And God will judge them ſundry kinde of wayes, i.e. in this life. 1. his judgement upon their ſouls, which are tranſlated from God unto the devil: Wine and adultery take away the heart, Hoſ.4.11. 2. upon their bodies, filling them with loathſome diſeaſes. 3. upon their goods. The ſin of adultery hath brought many a rich man to beggery, Prov.29.3. the prodigal childe quickly waſted his goods on harlots. 4. on their good names, they are odious unto all men.

V.5. covetouſneſs] Luk.12.15. Col.3.5.

content] Luk.3.14. 1 Tim.1.6,8.

I will never] Deut.31.8. Joſh.1.5. 1Kin.8.57. Gen.28.15. Which promiſe was made unto Joſhua: And hence it appears, that particular promiſes may be generally applied, when the thing promiſed appertains unto all. See Rom.15.4.

V.6. The Lord is] Pſal.56.4,11. & 118.6.

V.7. have the rule] Or, are the guides. Verſ.17.24.

faith] That is,cleave ſtedfaſtly unto that faith, which they profeſſed.

follow] Chap 6.12. Phil.3.17.

conſidering] Or, often conſidering. How patiently they ſuffered in defence thereof.

end] See Jam.5.11.

V.8. Jeſus Chriſt the ſame] Rev.1.8. Phil.1.12,&c. Pſal.102.17. Same, that is,unchangeable in his Eſſence, promiſes and doctrine.

V.9. carried] That is, as the waves of the Sea, or as the clouds of the ayr are now this way, now that, by the winds, Eph.4.14. Jude 12. but be conſtant in that faith which you have received, Col.2.7.

divers] Sometimes with this, ſometimes with that doctrine.

ſtrange] Different and diſagreeing unto that faith which you once received, Jude 3.

grace] That is,either with the doctrine of grace, or elſe with thoſe graces which are wrought in the ſoul by the preaching of the word or doctrine of grace: as faith,love,&c.

meats] Rom.14.17. That is, with a Legal obſervance,or choice of meats: whereby we may underſtand by a Synecdoche all the Legal Ceremonies.

walk] That is,who addict,or tye themſelves unto it. Or,who ſuperſtitiouſly uſe them.

V.10. altar] Underſtand hereby Chriſts divine Nature, whereby his fleſh or humane nature was ſanctified and qualified, to be a ſufficient ſacrifice to make atonement for the ſins of the whole world; and this was typified by the legal Altar which ſanctified the gifts that were offered upon it, Matth.23.19. Or Chriſt may be called our Altar, becauſe we muſt offer up our prayers and thankſgivings unto God by him. See verſ.15. Rev.6.9. & 8.3. Or, underſtand by Altar, the ſacrifice offered upon it; that is, the fleſh or humane nature of Chriſt, which is the true food of the ſoul, John 6.

eat] That is, to be partakers of. See 1 Cor.10.16,17,18.

ſerve] Which ſtill ſtubbornly obſerve the Levitical ceremonies. Such cut themſelves off from the Communion of Chriſt, Gal.5.3.

V.11. For] Here is a reaſon given of that which went before, Verſ. 10. and it ſtands thus: Even as thoſe who ſerved the Tabernacle, might not eat of thoſe beaſts, which were burnt without the camp or tents: ſo thoſe who now cleave to the Tabernacle, cannot be partakers of Chriſt. This is further illuſtrated, Verſ. 13. where the Apoſtle ſhews, that thoſe beaſts were a type of Chriſt, and the place of their burning, a type of the place of Chriſts ſuffering.

the bodies of thoſe beaſts] See Levit.4.11,12. & 6.30. & 16.27.

ſanctuary] Viz. into the Holy of Holieſt,on the day of atonement, Lev.23.17.

without the camp] Gr. Tent. And after that they were ſeated in Canaan, and the Temple was in Jeruſalem, they carried them out of the city. The Camp, during their pilgrimage, being a type or pattern of Jeruſalem.

V.12. wherefore] See verſ.11.

ſanctified the people with his own blood] 1 Joh.1.7. Rev.1.5.

V.13. Let us] Here is a further accommodation or application of the former type.

go forth] Underſtand the place, either of our forſaking the legal ceremonies, which were adminiſtred within the camp, cleaving ſtedfaſt to Chriſt and his doctrine; or of our forſaking the world in our affections, viz. of our denying our ſelves, and taking up Chriſts croſs and following him. This laſt may ſerve to be implyed by the words following.

Camp] Gr. Tent. See verſ.11.

his reproach] See Cha.11.26. 2 Cor.1.5. Col.1 24.

V.14. For here we have no continuing city] See Chap. 11.16. Mic.2. 10. Heb 11.10.

V.15. By him] See verſ.10. Epheſ.5.20. 1 Pet.2 5.

the fruit of our lits] Hoſ.14.2.

giving thanks to] Gr. confeſſing to.

V.16. with ſuch ſacrifices] Matth.25.34. Phil.4.18.

well pleaſed] Through Chriſt. See verſ. 10.

V.17. Obey them] 1 Theſſ. 5. 12.

have the rule over you] Or, guide. Or, your leaders. See verſ.7.

for they watch for your ſouls] Ezek.3.17,&c. & 33.2——7.

V.18. conſcience] Acts 24.16.

V.20. Now the God of peace] With this prayer, the Apoſtle, according to his cuſtom,concludes this Epiſtle,& calleth God, a God of peace; as alſo Rom.15.33.& 16.20.& 2 Cor.13.11. and that in reſpect of the Goſpel of peace, whereby there is proclaimed peace betwixt God and Man, and the ſame alſo really communicated unto us, Rom.5.1.

great ſhepherd] So called, not onely becauſe he delivered his ſheep in an extraordinary manner; but alſo becauſe he is the Shepherd of all other ſhepherds, John 10.11. & 1 Pet.5.4.

through the blood] Gr. in. i.e. whereby the new and conſequently, the everlaſting Covenant is confirmed and eſtabliſhed, Chap.9.12.

everlaſting Covenant] Which ſhall never be altered, as the former was, and conſequently, whoſe vertue and power abides for ever.

V.21. make you perfect] Or, prepare and fit you for every good work, i.e. accompliſh that in you, which as yet may be wanting; as the Greek word (καταρτίσαι) implyeth properly.

through Jeſus Chriſt] It may have relation either to working, or to well-pleaſing. See verſ. 10.

working in you] Gr. making in you, viz. by his Holy Spirit, Phil. 2.13.

To whom be glory] viz. to Chriſt Jeſus. This phraſe is never attributed in the word of God, but unto the true everlaſting God.

V.22. ſuffer the word] The Apoſtle ſpeaketh this to qualifie the ſeeming boldneſs of ſome exhortations ſprinkled here and there in this Epiſtle,eſpecially in the ſixth and tenth Chapters.

V.23. Hence it is certain, that the ſubſcription of this Epiſtle is ſuppoſititious,becauſe what need ſhould there be of certifying that Timothy was ſet at liberty, if ſo be that this Epiſtle was ſent by him?

written from Italy] Doubtleſs this ſubſcription was added by ſome ignorant perſon, becauſe we find it expreſly ſaid, that Timothy was not yet come unto him, verſ. 23.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE GENERAL EPISTLE OF JAMES.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Author of this Epiſtle was the Apoſtle James, not the Son of Zebedeus, and the Brother of John, Matth. 10. 2. (as ſome have ſuppoſed) who was ſlain not long after our Saviour Chriſts Aſcenſion, Act. 12. 2. But James the ſon of Alpheus, Matth. 10. 3. called James the leſs, Mark 15. 40. and the Brother of the Lord, Gal. 1. 19. Commended for a principal Pillar in the Church of God, Gal. 2. 9. Who abiding at Jeruſalem after that moſt of the Apoſtles were departed thence, as having a more ſpecial care and charge of his own Nation, the Jewiſh people, wrote this Epiſtle in general to ſuch of them, as were diſperſed into ſeveral Countreyes and Provinces abroad: And it is probable, That he wrote it after ſundry of Saint Pauls Epiſtles, and in particular of thoſe two to the Romanes, and to the Galathians: And obſerving how many profeſſing the Faith of Chriſt, perverted that wholeſome and comfortable Doctrine by him in thoſe Epiſtles delivered, concerning free Juſtification by Faith without Works; taking thereby occaſion to neglect the practice of good works, he preſſeth the neceſſity of them, for the Juſtification of ſound and ſincere Profeſſion. In the courſe of this Epiſtle, Firſt, he perſwades them to patience, cheerfulneſs, and wiſe carriage under the croſs, and a ſanctified uſe thereof. Secondly, To ſhew the ſoundneſs of their Profeſſion, and the ſincerity of their Faith, by an exemplary courſe of life, in the practice of all Chriſtian duties, and fruitfulneſs in well doing Thirdly, diſſwades from cenſorious taxing of others, and bitter contentions with them, either by foul language, or injurious courſes. Fourthly, denounceth Gods Judgements againſt the rich, cruelly oppreſſing the poor. Fifthly, Exhorts the faithful to patient carriage under ſuch oppreſſions, and to a Chriſtian demeanour, anſwerable to their ſeveral eſtates, and conditions, and a brotherly care of the ſpiritual welfare, one of another, wherewith he cloſeth his Epiſtle.

CHAP. I.

Verſ.1. I*Ames*] There being two of this name, viz. James the ſon of Zebede, and James the ſon of Alpheus, Matth. 10. 2, 3. it is moſt probable, that here is to be underſtood the latter; becauſe the former was killed by Herod, before (as it is likely) the Apoſtles began to write. See Act. 12. 2. ſervant] See Rom. 1. 1.

ſcattered] Or, in diſperſion.

greeting] Act. 15. 23. 2 John 10, 11.

V. 2. joy] Matth. 5. 11, 12. 2 Cor. 12. 10. Heb. 10. 34. 1 Pet. 4. 13. That is, Be ſo far from fainting under your afflictions, Heb. 12. 5. as to account them the matter or occaſion of great joy; both becauſe you are counted worthy to ſuffer for the Name of Chriſt, Act. 5. 41. 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. as alſo becauſe of the bleſſed fruits of them, Heb. 12. 11. Rom. 5. 3.

divers] Both inward and outward. See 2 Cor. 7. 5. temptations] Or, tryals; That is, afflictions, verſ. 12. Luke 8. 13. Act. 20. 19. 1 Cor. 10. 13. Gal. 4. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 6. & 4. 12. whereby the ſoundneſs of your faith, love, and obedience is tryed. See Gen. 22. 1. Heb. 10. 32.

V. 3. Knowing] Rom. 5. 3.

trying] Saint James his meaning is not, that afflictions of themſelves work patience; for we ſee the contrary often, both in the wicked and the godly; as in Job, Chap. 3. David, Pſal. 73. & Jere. Chap. 12. 1. but that faith being proved to be ſound through affliction, doth work it, becauſe thereby it is experimentally aſſured of Gods gracious preſence and aſſiſtance in afflictions, and deliverance out of them.

V. 4. perfect] That is, be patient unto the end, Matth. 10. 22. & 24. 13. Heb. 10. 35, &c. Rev. 2. 26.

that ye may] 2 Cor. 9. 8.

perfect and entire] See 1 Theſſ. 5. 23.

V. 5. wiſdom] Though all true wiſdom be from God, yet here more particularly we are to underſtand that ſpiritual wiſdom, whereby Chriſtians may be enabled rightly to judge of the Author, cauſes, and fruits of afflictions; for want whereof many of Gods children have murmured againſt God, and fainted under them, Job 3. 1. Pſa. 73. 2. Jer. 12. 1. & 20. 8. Unto this Chriſtians are directed, Heb. 12. 5---12.

let him ask of God] Matt. 7. 7. & 21. 22. Luke 11. 9.

liberally] The original word in the firſt notation thereof ſignifieth ſimply, or ſingly, or ſincerely; that is, without any mixture of by-reſpects, or without hypocriſie; ſo 2 Cor. 1. 12. & 11. 3. Epheſ. 6. 5. Col. 3. 22. But becauſe thoſe who give with a ſingle and ſincere heart, give liberally according to their ability: hence conſequently, or in a ſecondary ſenſe, it ſignifieth liberally. So Rom. 12. 8. 2 Cor. 8. 2. & 9. 11, 13.

upbraideth] When he gives to thoſe who ask; though he doth to thoſe who unthankfully abuſe his bleſſings, not walking worthy of them, Eſay 1. 2, &c. & 5. 1, &c. Jer. 2. 4.

V. 6. in faith] That is, reſting upon Gods power, whereby he is able; and upon his truth, whereby he will be faithful; and upon his goodneſs and mercy through his Son Jeſus Chriſt, whereby he will be ready to make good his promiſes for the hearing of thoſe who call upon him, Joh. 16. 23. Mark 11. 24.

wavering] That is, not doubting, diſputing, or calling into queſtion the former Attributes of God, Matt. 21. 21. See Act. 10. 20. & 11. 12. Rom. 4. 20. 1 Tim. 2. 8. and hangs wavering between God and man. Hereby is meant ſuch a doubting which excludes all faith: for otherwiſe God doth not reject a weak faith which cannot be without doubting. See Matt. 17. 20. Mark 23. 24. Pſal. 31. 22.

like a wave] By this ſimilitude Saint James illuſtrateth the property of a wavering minded man. As the waves of the Sea through tempeſtuous winds ſomtimes are caried up to heaven, ſomtimes deſcend as low as the deep: So a wavering minded man ſomtimes is of this opinion and reſolution, and ſometimes of that. See verſ. 8.

V. 7. think] Perſwade himſelf as many vainly do, that he ſhall receive any thing, becauſe he hath no promiſe for it: notwithſtanding God out of his general providence and goodneſs, whereby he cauſes the Sun to ſhine, and rain to fall upon the wicked, Matt. 5. 45. often beſtowes temporal bleſſings upon them.

V. 8. double-minded] Chap. 4. 8. Whom he ſtyled wavering, and compared to a wave of the Sea, driven with the wind, and toſſed with blaſts; the ſame he ſtyles double-minded, becauſe he is ſometimes of one mind, ſometimes of another: unſettled in his reſolutions and purpoſes, having not a foundation of faith to build them upon: and ſuch an one muſt needs be inconſtant in his ways; that is, practices, courſes, and undertakings.

V. 9. low degree] That is, who is afflicted with poverty, diſgrace, or any kind of calamity.

rejoyce] Or, glory.

exalted] That is, in that he is rich in faith and the knowledge of God, and highly honoured to be the Son of God by grace and adoption.

V. 10. low] That is, in his humility: becauſe God hath given him an humble and lowly heart notwithſtanding his riches and honours.

for] Here and in the next verſe Saint James ſhews by what means God doth work humility in rich and honourable men endued with faith: viz. by putting into their hearts a ſerious conſideration of their own inſtability & vanity, & of all thoſe outward comforts which they enjoy, Pſal. 103. 15. Eſa. 40. 6, &c. 1 Pet. 1. 24. Luk. 12. 20, &c. & 16. 19.

as the flower of the graſs] Eſa.40.6. 1 Pet.1.24. Job 14.2. Pſa.10.2. & 103. 15.

V. 11. wayes] Whatſoever he ſtudies, purpoſes, or practiſeth, ſhall periſh. See Pſal.1.3.

V. 12. Bleſſed is the man] Pſal.94.12. Job 5.17. Mat.5.10, &c.

endureth] It is thought to be a military word taken from undaunted Souldiers, who couragiouſly without giving back receive the fierceſt onſets of the enemies: anſwerable hereunto, to endure, &c. is patiently and with courage to undergo them, ſubmitting their wills to Gods, without fainting, murmuring, or repining.

temptation] Affliction, whereby he is tryed. See verſ. 2.

when] Or, being is made, or, ſound proof, or, ſound.

tried] Rev.2.10. It is a metaphor taken from metals, whoſe truth and goodneſs are uſed to be tryed, and their droſs purged from them, by fire: Pſal.66.10. Prov.17.3. 1 Pet.1.7. Afflictions ſerve to both theſe ends and uſes.

the crown of life] 2 Tim.4.8. 1 Pet.4.5.

V. 13. ſay] Either with his tongue, or in his heart; as Pſalm 14. 1. tempted] That is, in reſpect of himſelf, becauſe he is infinitely and immutably good and holy; yet in regard of men he is often tempted. See Exod.17.2. Mal.3.15. Act.15.10.

evil] Or, evils.

tempteth] That is, by inciting and moving them to ſin, for God wills it not. See Pſa.5.5. Eſa.65.12. Zech.8.17. Zeph. 3. 5. Though he doth for the proof and trial of their faith, conſtancy and patience, Gen.22.1. Deu.13.1, &c.

V. 14. But] Here S. James ſheweth the ſource, original, and fountain of all temptation unto ſin; viz. that natural corruption which we brought into the world with us, Pſal.51. Rom. 7. 7. without which, neither the Devil nor the world could hurt, they tempting by working upon our concupiſcence.

drawn] Here are ſet down two wayes, whereby luſt tempts unto ſin. Firſt, by withdrawing from that which is good. Secondly, by enticing unto that which is evil, under ſome appearance of that which is good and pleaſant: even as fiſhes and other beaſts are allured unto the hook, nets, or ſnares, by ſome pleaſing bait. See Gen. 3. 5, &c. 2 Sam. 11.2, &c.

V. 15. conceived] It is an alluſion to, or a metaphor taken from teeming women, who firſt conceive, and then bring forth. Now luſt may then be ſaid to have conceived, when the will entertains thoſe evil motions with conſent and delight, which luſt hath ſtirred up.

bringeth forth ſin] That is, in outward act and deed; and therefore though luſt be not ſuch a ſin, yet it may be, and is properly ſin. See Rom.7.7.

finiſhed] Or, fully perfected. That is, committed adviſedly, deliberately, or with the full conſent of the will: or come to its height.

V. 16. Do not] It is a metaphor taken from Travellers, when they go out of the way, Pſa.119.176. 1 Cor.6.9. Gal.6.7.

V. 17. Every] Here is a reaſon given, why we ſhould not conceive that God is the Authour of ſin; and the reaſon is, becauſe God is the Authour of all good: now if he ſhould likewiſe be the Authour of ſin by tempting man unto it, there would be found a change in him.

good gift] Whether of nature, grace, or glory.

from above] That is, from God, whoſe throne is in heaven. See Mat. 5.34. Joh.19.11. Mat.21.25. Joh.3.27.

Father of lights] So called, Firſt, becauſe he is in himſelf light, 1 Joh.1.5. Secondly, and that chiefly here, becauſe he is the fountain of all wiſdom and knowledge, See verſ.5. John 1.19. and every other good and perfect gift.

variableneſs] Exo.3.14, &c.

V. 18. Of] The Apoſtle having taught, verſ. 17. that every good gift came from God, exemplifies this here in the great work of mans regeneration.

will] That is, out of his good pleaſure, and not for any merit in man. See Rom.9.11. Ephe.1.9. Phil.2.15. 2 Tim.1.9. Joh.1.13.

with the word] Or, by, Ephe.1.13. Col.1.5. See Rom. 10.14. 1 Pet. 1. 23.

a kind of firſt-fruits] Herein S. James alludes unto the firſt-fruits under the law, which were certain handfulls of firſt ripe corn, and ſo conſequently of the beſt, which they were to offer unto God. See Levit.23.10,11. Numb.15.20,21. Hence firſt-fruits ſometimes import the firſt in order. So it is ſaid the houſe of Stephanus was the firſt-fruits of Achaia: firſt called into the fellowſhip of the Goſpel, 1 Cor.16.15. And ſo ſome underſtand this place, viz. of the Apoſtles and the Jews which were firſt regenerate. Sometimes again the beſt and chiefeſt. So Jer.2. 3. And thus moſt underſtand this place; interpreting it of all the faithful, who are called the firſt-fruits, becauſe of their dignity and excellency above all men; being ſeparated out of the world, Epheſ. 1. 4. 1 Pet. 2. 9. and conſecrated to God.

creatures] Of men. So Mar.16.15.

V. 19. ſlow to ſpeak] Pro.17.27.

ſlow to wrath] Tit. 1.7.

V. 20. wrath of man] That is, the unadviſed and immoderate wrath of man.

righteouſneſs] That is, that which is right in Gods ſight: it rather leads him to that which is unlawful.

V. 21. lay] Gr. laying aſide, or, putting off, &c. Heb.12.1. Col.1.8. 1 Pet. 2. 1.

filthyneſs] That is, all manner of ſin, ſo called from the polluting nature thereof: hence ſin is compared unto thoſe things which are moſt filthy and loathſom: as to the vomit of a dog, and the myre of a hogge, 2 Pet.2.22.

ſuperfluity] Or, remainder.

receive] As good ground. See Mat.13.8,23. Mar.4.3.

engraffed] Rather, the implanted word. It is an alluſion to the ſowing and planting of ſeeds, herbs or young trees, wherein faithful miniſters are compared to planters. See 1 Cor. Thoſe who tranſlate the Original [engraffed] ſuppoſe that it is a metaphor taken from the art of engraffing twigs into a ſtock, who turn the ſtock into their own nature.

V. 22. be ye doers of the word] Mat.7.21. Rom. 2. 13. Luke 11.28. Joh.13.17. 1 Joh.2.4.

deceiving] By falſe concluſions and inferences, as if it were ſufficient to hear without practice.

V. 22. like] By this ſimilitude, S. James intendeth to teach us that thoſe, who are hearers and not doers of the word, quickly forget what they have heard.

V. 25. looketh] The original word ſignifieth an accurate and intentive looking upon a thing, bowing and ſtooping down to it. See John.20.5. 1 Pet.1.2. So that hereby we are to underſtand a diligent and intentive hearing, or reading Gods word, and meditating thereon.

law] Chap. 2. 12. Thereby underſtand the whole word of God regiſtred in the Scriptures, Pſal. 1. 2. which is called perfect, becauſe it contains all things neceſſary to be beleeved or practiſed; and the law of liberty, becauſe thereby we are born again to a new ſpiritual life, and ſo freed from the bondage and ſlavery of ſin, verſ.18.

continueth] That is, in the belief and practice thereof: ſo the words following import.

deed] Or, doing.

V. 26. ſeem] Flatters himſelf with a vain conceit and perſwaſion, that he is truely religious.

bridleth] Pſa.39.1. It is a metaphor taken from unruly horſes, which muſt be bridled and curbed, that they may be ruled.

vain] Notwithſtanding all his boaſting.

V. 17. before God] That is, which God requireth, as pleaſing unto him.

world] Underſtand thereby both wicked men, unto whom we muſt not conform our ſelves, Rom.12.2. as alſo the pollution or luſts of the world. See 1 Joh.2.15,16.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. OF glory] Act.7.2. 1 Cor.2.7.

reſpect] Levit.19.15. Deut.1.17. & 16.19. Pro.24.23. To reſpect perſons is for mens outward condition in the world, to reſpect and honour ſome, as for their riches and the like, and neglect and contemn others, though equally or better deſerving, as for their poverty and the like: and this is that fault which S. James warns the converted Jews to take heed of in this verſe, and blames in them in the verſes following.

V. 2. For if] A fault too common even in theſe days in many aſſemblies, wherein the poor are not allotted or allowed a ſeat to ſit in.

aſſembly] Gr. ſynagogue.

V. 3. in a good place] Or, well, or, ſeemly.

V. 4. Are ye not] Or, are you not condemned in your ſelves, that is, convinced in your own conſciences, that ye do evil in ſo doing? See verſ. 9.

judges] Or, are ye not herein il-affected judges? or are ye not judges of your own evil reaſonings? ſeeing by this your dealing it is plain that you reſpect perſons.

V. 5. choſen] 1 Cor.1.26,28.

rich in faith] Luk.12.21.

the] Or, that.

V. 6. deſpiſed the poor] 1 Cor.11.22.

V. 7. name] That is, the name of Chriſt, from which we are called Chriſtians.

by the which ye are called] Gr. which is called upon you.

V. 8. royal law] The law of loving our Neighbour as our ſelves is called the royal law, as high-ways are called the Kings, that is, becauſe they are common to all: So this law ſhould be extended to all, whether poor or rich: there is no limitation in the law. Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour, whoſoever he be, without reſpect of perſons.

Thou ſhalt love thy Neighbour] Lev.29.18.Rom.13.9.Mat.22.39.

V. 9. reſpect to perſons] Verſ.1.

V. 10. For whoſoever, &c.] The Apoſtles meaning is this, viz. That ſuppoſe a man ſhould keep the whole law in ſubſtance, except in ſome one particular, yet by allowing himſelf in this particular, thereby he manifeſts that he kept no precept of the law in obedience and conſcience unto God; for if he did, then he would be careful to keep every precept; thus much the words following import, and hereby he manifeſts that he is guilty of all. Some conceive, that therefore ſuch an one may be ſaid to be guilty of all, becauſe by allowing himſelf in any one ſin, thereby he lyes under that curſe which is threatned againſt the tranſgreſſors of the law, Deut. 27.26.

V. 11. he that ſaid] Or, that law which ſaid.

V. 12. law of liberty] See Chap.1.25.

V. 13. For he ſhall] Mat.6.15. & 18.35.

and] Or, but.

rejoyceth] Or, glorieth.

judgement] Or, condemnation: that is, the condemnation of Satan and ſin, becauſe of thoſe gracious promiſes which are made to merciful men, Pſa.31.1, &c. Matt.5.7. Luk.6.37.

V. 14. What] The drift and ſcope of the Apoſtle in the enſuing diſcourſe is to prove, that neither the bare outward profeſſion of faith, nor that faith which is without works can juſtifie or ſave, but that it muſt be an operative or working faith, fruitful in good works.

faith] That is, which is without works. And the interrogation (can, &c.) is a ſtrong negation, as in the former clauſe (what doth it profit, &c.)

V. 15. In this and the next two verſes, Saint James compares that faith, which is without works, to the good words of him who wiſheth well to a poor man, but doth nothing at all for him. This ſimilitude ſtands thus; even as fair words, where no relief is given, do nothing profit the needy, naked, and hungry man: ſo neither a bare profeſſion of faith, nor that faith which is without works can profit, that is, juſtifie or ſave.

V. 16. ſay unto them] 1 John 3.18.

warmed] Job 31.20.

V. 17. dead] Not that works give life unto faith; or are, as ſome ſpeak, the form of faith; for it is plain, that faith giveth life unto all good works that are acceptable unto God, as appeareth, Heb.11.6. and through the whole courſe of that chapter, and from Hab. 2. 4. But ſuch a faith is ſaid to be dead in reſpect of the work or office of juſtifying and ſaving, that is, that it availeth nothing to them, as may appear by the former ſimilitude; but is like a dead corps, which hath not power to produce any actions of life. Thus Abrahams body and Sara's womb are ſaid to be dead, becauſe they were unfit for generation, Rom. 4. 19. And the reaſon thereof may be this, viz. becauſe he that is deſtitute of good works, at leaſt of a ſincere reſolution to walk in obedience, cannot by faith apprehend the promiſes of life; for though faith onely apprehend the promiſes of life, yet theſe promiſes are made onely to thoſe who walk in ſincere obedience. See Pſal.15.1, &c.

alone] Gr. by it ſelf.

V. 18. a man] That is, one that hath indeed a true juſtifying or ſaving faith.

may ſay] So one that ſaith, that he hath a true juſtifying and ſaving faith, and yet doth not manifeſt it by his works.

without thy works] Some copies read, by thy works.

by my works] Becauſe an uniform, unpartial and univerſal obedience to Gods commandments, is a ſure and certain token of a juſtifying faith, 1 Joh.2.3.

V. 19. Thou] Hereby it is evident that S. James in this diſcourſe doth not onely ſpeak of a bare profeſſion of faith, or of a ſhew and ſhadow of faith, but of ſome kind which is true in its kind, though not juſtifying or ſaving; this is generally called an hiſtorical or dogmatical faith, and is nothing elſe but an aſſent unto the word of God as true in general.

It is well] Yet not ſufficient, and the reaſon hereof is taken from the faith of devils, whoſe faith is not ſufficient to ſalvation, though they beleeve thoſe truths which are contained in the word of God.

beleeve] Matt.8.29. Mark 5.7.

tremble] By reaſon, that by their faith they beleeve that judgment wherewith they ſhall be ſentenced at the laſt day.

V. 20. dead] See Verſe 17.

V. 21. Was not] There were many other works performed by Abraham abundantly, teſtifying the truth of his faith; but the Apoſtle chuſeth this above all other, becauſe it was the moſt conſpicuous work by which his faith was tryed, and God ſeemed to take eſpecial notice hereof, Gen. 22.12.

our father] That is, according to the fleſh, becauſe thoſe to whom S. James did write were the ſcattered Jews, Chap.1.1.

juſtified] That is, ſay ſome, declaratively and in the ſight of men, his works bearing witneſs of, or to his faith, and not cauſally and in reſpect of God; but becauſe S. James here diſputes againſt thoſe who looked to be juſtified by a faith ſeparated from good works, and that cauſally, and in the ſight of God, it cannot ſtand with the ſcope of the Apoſtle, unleſs here by [juſtified] we underſtand that juſtification whereby we are juſtified cauſally in the ſight of God; the ſtate of the queſtion being not, whether we are juſtified declaratively, or in the ſight of men by faith without good works; but, whether we are juſtified in the ſight of God without works.

works] That is, a working faith, for in this diſcourſe or diſpute, works are not oppoſed to a juſtifying or ſaving faith, but to ſuch a faith which hath not works; ſo that we may well by [works] as a part for the whole, or the effect for the cauſe, underſtand here ſuch a faith which hath works conjoyned with it. Beſides, how could the Apoſtle conclude as he doth, verſe 23. that the Scripture was fulfilled, viz. that Abraham beleeved, and it was accounted to him for righteouſneſs, from Abrahams being juſtified by works, when he offered up his ſon Iſaac, unleſs by works here we underſtand a working faith? Did not the Apoſtle mean the ſame thing by works, verſ. 21. and by faith, verſ. 23? Hence it appears, that there is no contradiction between Saint Paul, Rom. 4. 2. where he proves that Abraham was not juſtified by works, and Saint James, who here affirms, that he was, although they expreſs themſelves diverſly, diſputing againſt adverſaries of different diſpoſitions: Saint Paul diſputes againſt thoſe who looked to be juſtified or ſaved by their own perfect or inherent righteouſneſs or works; Saint James againſt thoſe who looked to be ſaved by a faith without works; now there is a mean between theſe two extream opinions, wherein both agree, and that is, that juſtification is by a faith which hath works, or a working faith.

offered] Gen.22.9. That is, in readineſs of affection and full reſolution, though not in real act. See Heb.11.17.

V. 22. Seeſt thou] Gr. thou ſeeſt.

wrought] Or, cooperated to his works, that is, ſupported and directed him in the doing of them: Or which moved him to them. See Heb.11.17.

perfect] That is, declared to be perfect, even as it is ſaid that Gods power is perfected in weakneſs, 2 Cor. 12. 9. That is, declared to be ſo.

V. 23. fulfilled] It was fulfilled before, Gen.15.6. How then is it ſaid here, that it was fulfilled at the oblation of Iſaac, which was many years after? Thus, the truth of that which was verified before, was then again confirmed by a new and evident experiment; or it may be ſaid to be fulfilled at Iſaacs oblation, though fulfilled before, becauſe Abraham was juſtified after the ſame manner through the whole courſe of his life. See Verſ.21.

Abraham] Gen.15.6. Rom.4.3. Gal.3.6.

friend] 2 Chron.20.7. Eſa.41.8.

V. 24. by works] That is, working faith. See verſ.21.

by faith] That is, which is alone, or without good works. See Verſ. 17.

V. 25. Rahab] Joſh.2.1, &c. Heb.11.31.

by works] That is, a working faith. See Verſ. 21.

V. 26. ſpirit] Or, breath. No ſimilitude muſt be ſtretched beyond its ſcope: Now the ſcope of the Apoſtle in this ſimilitude is to ſhew, that faith without works is dead, and not that works are the form of, or give life unto faith, as the ſoul is the form of, and giveth life unto the body; for works cannot be the form of faith, ſeeing no outward thing can be the form of, or eſſential unto that which is internal; now works are outward, but the habit of faith internal. Some conceive, that the original word ſignifieth breath, and then the ſimilitude ſtands thus; even as the want of breath argues a dead body, ſo want of works a dead faith.

dead] See verſ. 17.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. BE not] That is, let no man uſurpe (as many imperiouſly do) authority to judge and cenſure others: that is, raſhly, rigorouſly, Mat.7.1, &c. Luk.6.37, &c. Rom.2.1.

condemnation] Or, judgement. That is, puniſhment; as Mat.23.14. Mar.12.40. Luk.20.47.

V. 2. offend all] 1 Kin.8.46. Prov.29.

If any man] Ecclus, 14.1. & 19 16. & 25.8.

perfect] That is, endued with much wiſdom and diſcretion; or elſe a ſincere Chriſtian indeed, Joh. 1. 47. though not abſolutely perfect according to all parts and degrees of perfection.

bridle] See Chap.1.26.

whole] That is, all the members of his body: as his eyes, ears, &c. becauſe it is eaſier to govern all other members than the tongue.

V. 3. bits in the horſes mouths] Pſal.32.9.

V. 4. fierce winds] Or, ſtrong.

V. 5. boaſteth great things] Pſal.12.3. & 37.8.

a matter] Or, wood.

V. 6. world] That is, a mighty deal, or multitude, or heap: it commits a multitude of iniquity by flattering, lying, ſwearing, ſlandering, &c. amongſt] Gr. in the midſt.

whole] As little fire doth a whole wood.

courſe] Gr. wheel. Or whole frame of nature, either with luſt, anger, pride, or the like.

hell] That is, of the Devil. As Heaven is ſometimes taken for God, whoſe throne is in heaven, Matt. 6. 9. Pſal. 2. 4. & 11. 4. Eſa. 66. 1. Mat. 5. 34. & 23. 22. Act. 7. 49.

V. 7. kind] Gr. nature.

mankind] Gr. nature of man.

V. 8. full] Pſal. 140. 3.

deadly] That is, which brings death. Some think that herein Saint James alludes unto Pſal. 140. 4.

V. 9. Therewith] Amongſt other faults of the tongue the Apoſtle chiefly reproveth backbiting, ſpeaking evil, and curſing of our neighbours, and that in them eſpecially, who would ſeem godly and religious.

curſe] Thereby underſtand all thoſe vices of the tongue, whereby we offend againſt our neighbours, the chief being put or mentioned for all: as in the Negative precepts of the ſecond Table of the Law.

the ſimilitude of God] Gen. 1. 26.

V. 10. Out of one] The intention of the Apoſtle in this and the two next verſes, is to ſhew, that bleſſing of God, and curſing our brethren, cannot ſtand well together.

V. 11. place] Or, hole.

V. 13. who is wiſe] It is as if the Apoſtle had ſaid; you perſwade your ſelves that in cenſuring others you ſhew much wiſdom and knowledge; but if there be that wiſdom and knowledge in you as ye pretend, then ſhew it by your works, without imperious, and rigid, and proud cenſuring your brethren. See verſ. 17.

meekneſs of wiſdom] That is, that meekneſs which is guided by true Chriſtian wiſdom.

V. 14. envying] Or, emulation.

glory not] Of your wiſdom.

lie] Becauſe true wiſdom doth not conſiſt with ſuch bitter emulation and ſtrife. So it is ſaid, That he that ſaith, that he hath no ſin, is a liar, 1 John 1.

V. 15. This] Which thoſe imperious cenſurers of other mens lives and actions pretended.

earthly] See John. 3. 12. 2 Cor. 5. 1. Phil. 2. 10 & 3. 19.

ſenſual] Or, natural. And not from the Spirit of grace, 1 Cor. 2. 14.

deviliſh] That is, that which the devil practiſeth, Job 1. 10, 11. Rev. 12. 10.

V. 16. confuſion] Gr. tumult, or unquietneſs.

V. 17. above] See Chap. 1. 17.

pure] See 2 Cor. 11. 2, Phil. 4. 8. Tit. 2. 5. 1 Pet. 3. 2. 1 Joh. 3. 3.

gentle] Or, patient. Act. 24. 4.

without partiality] Or, without wrangling; or, without judging.

V. 18. fruit] That is, life eternal, which is the fruit of righteouſneſs, not by way of merit, but of grace, Rom. 4. 4.

ſown] Becauſe the world perſwadeth it ſelf, that they are miſerable which live peaceably; therefore the Apoſtle here pronounceth, that they ſhall at length reap the harveſt of a peaceable righteouſneſs, Mat. 5. 9.

make peace] That is, who are not onely of a peaceable diſpoſition, but ſeek peace, Pſal. 34. 15. 1 Pet. 3. 11. and labour to make peace between thoſe who are at variance.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. WArres] That is, thoſe emulations, ſtrifes, and contentions, whereof the Apoſtle had ſpoken, Chap. 3. 14. and not open warrs, when as one Army is brought up againſt another; for there was no ſuch thing between Chriſtians in thoſe times wherein Saint James wrote, though open wars and fightings ariſe and ſpring from the ſame fountain.

fightings] Or, brawlings.

luſts] Or, pleaſures. Called pleaſures in the Original, becauſe of that delight or pleaſure which men take in them.

war] 1 Pet. 2. 11.

members] That is, in you, or in your members, becauſe luſts exerciſe a dominion over the members of the body, making uſe of them for the compaſſing of that which they deſire to bring to paſſe; and ſo they do over the faculties of the ſoul.

V. 2. ye kill] Some copies have, ye envy.

deſire to have] Or, eagerly deſire.

ye fight] See verſ. 1.

luſt] See verſ. 1.

V. 3. Ye ask] In the former verſe it is ſaid, that they did not ask why then is it ſaid here, that they did ask? Thus it is by way of ſuppoſition; as if the Apoſtle had ſaid; viz. or ſuppoſe ye ask, yet ye receive not, becauſe, &c.

amiſſe] Job 35. 12. Becauſe to no good end, as the words following import.

luſts] Or, pleaſures.

V. 4. Ye adulterers] There is a double adultery mentioned in the Word of God; the one is uſually called ſpiritual adultery, whereby or when as a man or woman forſaking God, beſtows his love upon the creature, or the world, See Jer, 13. 27. Ezek. 23. 44. 45 Hoſ. 2. 2. The other is uſually called corporal adultery whereof there are ſeveral degrees; as firſt, adulterous thoughts, and inward burnings, Matt. 5. 28. 1 Cor. 7. 9. 2 Pet. 2. 20. Secondly, wanton words, Epheſ. 4. 29. Thirdly, laſcivious geſtures, Prov. 5. 20. & 7. 13. Jer. 5. 8. Fourthly, the act it ſelf, Deut. 23. 17. Levit. 19. 29. Some underſtand this place of the former; others, of the latter, which is the more probable opinion, becauſe of the words following.

the friendſhip] 1 Joh. 2. 15. Mat. 6. 24. 2 Cor. 6. 15.

V. 5. Scripture] Not in any particular place, or in ſo many words, though the ſenſe may be gathered out of the Scriptures. Some conceive that the Apoſtle relates to Gen. 6. 5. & 8. 21. others to Numb. 11. 29.

The ſpirit] If we underſtand by [ſpirit] the ſpirit of a man unregenerate, as ſome do, then the laſt clauſe muſt be rendred, [luſteth to envy] that is, inciteth, or putteth on, or moveth earneſtly unto envy, and the like: but if by [ſpirit] we underſtand here the Spirit of God, which is the more probable opinion, becauſe that clauſe [dwelleth in us] is often attributed to the Spirit of God, Exod. 25. 8. & 29. 4. Rom. 8. 11. 1 Cor. 11. 16. then that clauſe muſt be underſtood of the Spirit of God, ſtriving and fighting againſt envy. See Gal. 5. 17. The Greek prepoſition many times ſignifies againſt; as Luk. 20. 19. Heb. 12. 4.

to envy] Or, enviouſly.

V. 6. God reſiſteth] Prov. 3. 34. 1 Pet. 5. 5. Pſal. 101. 5.

V. 7. God] Who beſt knows how to beſtow his gifts for your good. This rule is here preſcribed as a means to beat down, and bring in ſubjection the high thoughts of envy and emulation.

reſiſt the devil] Epheſ. 4. 27.

V. 8. Draw nigh] By faith, obedience, and fervent prayer.

he will] In mercy, and his gifts.

cleanſe] Eſay 1. 16.

hands] Underſtand hereby the whole body: it is uſual to put the part for the whole.

double] See Chap. 1. 8.

V. 10. Humble your ſelves] Job 22. 29. Luke 23. 12. 1 Peter 5. 6.

V. 11. judgeth] Mat. 7. 1. Rom. 12. 1. 1 Cor. 4. 5.

law] Becauſe by his evil ſpeaking and judging of his neighbour, he doth in deed, though not in word, ſpeak evil of and judge the Law, which hath forbid it. Levit. 19. 16. Pſal. 138. 6.

V. 12. who art thou] Rom. 14. 4, 10.

V. 13. Go to now] Prov. 27. 1.

V. 14. Whereas] Pſal. 103. 14, &c.

it is] Or, for it is.

V. 15. If the Lord] 1 Cor. 4. 19. Act. 8. 21.

V. 16. boaſtings] That is, in your preſumptions that ye ſhall live long; and gain much.

evil] 1 Cor. 5. 6. Becauſe hereby ye manifeſt that ye neither think of Gods providence, or the brevity, or uncertainty of your own lives.

V. 15. ſin] That is, a greater ſin, and ſo conſequently deſerve greater puniſhment. See Luk. 12 47. Matt. 11. 20, &c. John 9. 41. & 15. 22 ——— 24. Rom. 1. 20, &c. and 2. 23.

CHAP. V.

Verſ. 1. RIch] Saint James threatneth not all rich men, but ſuch only who made not either a right uſe of their riches, v. 2, 3. becauſe they did hoard up, and not diſtribute them to the neceſſities of the brethren; or elſe abuſed them to oppreſſion, v. 4. & 6. or to luxury, v. 5.

miſeries] Luke 16. 23.

V. 22. corrupted] Or, rotted.

V. 3. cankered] Or, grown ruſty.

a witneſs] Matth. 10. 18. and 23. 31. and 24. 14. Mark 1. 44.

eat] That is, the abuſe of your riches ſhall be like fuel to put on fire the wrath of God againſt you. Some conceive, that S. James intends hereby that their carking for riches ſhould conſume them, or ſhorten their days. See Matt. 6. 25, &c.

treaſure] It is as if the Apoſtle had ſaid, viz. Ye thought that ye had provided for many years, Luke 12. 19. and it is true, ye have done it, but it is a treaſure of wrath, Rom. 2. 5. Some underſtand the place, as if hereby the Apoſtle condemned their folly in heaping up riches in the laſt times, or in their luſts, and therefore not likely to enjoy them.

V. 4. the hire of the labourers] Job 31. 38, &c. Levit. 19. 13. Deut. 24. 15.

cryeth] Though all ſin deſerves Gods wrath, yet ſome eſpecially are called, for their greatneſs, crying ſins, becauſe they cry unto God for ſudden vengeance, and as it were violently force God unto it:

thus bloud, Gen. 4. 10. the ſins of Sodom, Gen. 18. 20. & 19. 13. oppreſſion, Job 31. 34. and the keeping of the wages of the hirelings, here.

ſabaoth] Or, hoſts: or, armies. So God is often ſtyled, becauſe all creatures are his armies, and are ready to execute his will at his command, Eſay 1 9. Jer. 11.20. Rom.9.29.

V. 5. nouriſhed] Or, pampered.

in a day] That is, ſay ſome, unto the day of ſlaughter, as if here were an alluſion unto the fatting of beaſts for ſlaughter: or, as others conceive [in the day] that is, as in a day of feaſting. Prov.7.14. Iſa.22. 13. becauſe at ſuch times there is uſually made a ſlaughter of beaſts; this, theſe rich men did daily. See Luke 16.19.

V. 7. Be patient] Or, be long patient, or ſuffer with long patience. 2 Tim.2.3. Heb.6.12.

early and latter rain] Deut.11.14.

V. 8. ſtabliſh] By meditating upon that crown of glory, which is laid up for you. See 2 Tim.4.6,&c.

for the coming] Job 19.25.

nigh] The time of ſuffering in this life is but ſhort, but for a moment in compariſon of that eternity of glory, which the faithful ſhall enjoy hereafter. Hence it is ſaid, that the coming of the Lord draweth nigh; Yet a little while, and he that cometh will come, Rev. 22. 20.

V. 9. Grudge not] Or, groan, or grieve not. Hereby S. James forbids not all grieving for, or ſenſibleneſs of afflictions, or a groaning & ſighing for the day of our redemption; but that groaning, grieving, or inward complaining and crying for vengeance, which is joyned with impatiency and murmuring againſt God.

condemned] That is, leſt God chaſtiſe and puniſh you for it.

Judge] That is, Chriſt. See John 5.22. Act.10.34. & 17.31. 2 Cor. 5.10. 2 Tim.4.8.

ſtandeth] It is a proverbial ſpeech, whereby the nearneſs of a thing is denoted. See Gen.4.7. Matt.24.33. Mark 13.24. The Judge, &c. that is, he is nigh at hand. See verſ. 8.

V. 10. Take my brethren] Heb.13.7.

of ſuffering affliction] Gr. of ſuffering evil.

V. 11. happy] Chap. 1. 12.

end] That is, how God rewarded his patience, or what end God gave unto it. See Job 41.10.

pitiful] Gr. of many bowels. Even as a tender mother hath her bowels moved, when her child is to ſuffer. See 1 Kin.3.26. Luk.1.78.

V. 12. Swear not] Matt.5.34. & 23.15,28. Saint James doth not forbid all ſwearing, as unlawful; See Deu.6.13. Eſay 65.16. Jer. 12. 16. Rom.9.1,2. 2 Cor.1.13. Phil.1.8. Heb.6.16. but raſh and cuſtomary ſwearing, too uſual (it ſeems) in his time. Some conceive, that the Apoſtle forbids only ſwearing by the creature. Or, do not above all things, through impatience, be moved to take Gods Name in vain.

let your] That is, that which ye have to affirm, affirm it ſimply, without an oath; and that which ye have to deny, deny it ſimply, without an oath.

leſt ye fall] Exod.20.7. See verſ.9.

condemnation] Some Copies read, hypocriſie.

V. 13. Is any amongſt you afflicted] Or, doth any amongſt you ſuffer evil.

afflicted] He ſhews the beſt remedy againſt all affliction, viz. prayers. See Job 16.12. Pſal.77.8.

pſalms] Epheſ.5.19,20.

V. 14. ſick] Or, weak.

elders] That is, thoſe who had the gift of healing by miracle, which was given to ſome in thoſe Primitive times. See Mark 6.13. & 16.18. 1 Cor.12.9.

pray] Gen.20.7. That God would be pleaſed to pardon his ſins, and reſtore his health.

anointing] This was an extraordinary ſign of that extraordinary manner of healing by miracle, and not an ordinary ſign of any ſacrament under the Goſpel.

in the Name] That is, by calling on the Name of the Lord.

V. 15. of faith] Which proceedeth from faith, or made in faith. See Chap. 1.6.

ſave] See Matt.9.22. Mar.5.23. Luk.8.36.

raiſe] See Matt.9.5,&c. Mar.9.27. Luk.8.54. John 5.8.

if he have] It is not the Apoſtles intention by this conditional ſpeech, to intimate, as if any man was without ſin; See 1 Joh.1.13. but here he ſpeaks of ſuch ſpecial ſins, for which God doth often lay ſickneſs upon men. See John 5. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 5. & 1 Corinth. 11. 30.

V. 16. Confeſs] Some underſtand it of forgiving one another, but the Original is no where found in that ſenſe; it is applyed to confeſſing of ſins, Matt.3.6. Mar.1.5. Act.19.18. and ſo here.

one to another] That is, ſay ſome, to thoſe Elders which were to be ſent for; but others more probably of all the faithful, whether Paſtors of people, though chiefly the Paſtors, it being preſumed, that they are beſt able to comfort them, who find any ſin lye heavy upon their ſoul, and to aſſiſt them with their prayers.

pray] Epheſ.6.8. 1 Tim.2.1,2. effectual] Or, vehement, or, earneſt.

righteous] Joh.9.31.

V. 17. paſſions] Act. 14.15.

he prayed] 1 Kin. 17.1.

earneſtly] Or, in his prayer.

ſix moneths] Luk.4.25.

V. 18. he prayed] 1 Kin. 18.42,45.

V. 19. if any of you] Matth.18.15.

erre] As a wandring traveller doth out of his way.

truth] That is, of the Goſpel, either in faith or manners. See verſ. 20.

convert] That is, the means or inſtrument, through Gods bleſſing, of converting him.

V. 20. hide a multitude of ſins] Some underſtand this clauſe of the ſins of the converting, as of Gods rewarding out of promiſe and mercy, thoſe who take pains to convert others; See 2 Cor.2.15. Others, of the ſins of the converted, whoſe ſins the converting are ſaid to hide, becauſe they are a means of Gods hiding and not imputing them unto them.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE FIRST EPISTLE GENERAL OF PETER.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Apoſtle Peter having by a ſpecial agreement of the Apoſtles among themſelves, the charge of thoſe of the Circumciſion committed unto him, Gal.2.7,8,9. was accordingly careful (becauſe he could not viſite them all in perſon, being diſperſed into ſo many, and ſo remote Regions) to write unto them this Epiſtle, which might reach to them in their ſeveral places of abode. Therein his principal ſcope is, to perſwade them unto patience, and holy carriage, under thoſe afflictions, that either at preſent they were exerciſed withal, or were further to expect; And that by Arguments taken from the example of Chriſt, Gods calling them thereunto, the Glory that thereby ſhould redound unto God, and the good iſſue thereof, in regard of themſelves. And amidſt general Exhortations to ſuch Religious courſes, and unblameable converſation, as might adorn their Chriſtian Profeſſion, and ſtop the mouthes of malignant Adverſaries, he intermixeth Admonitions concerning the duties of ſeveral perſons in their ſpecial places; as of Subjects towards Magiſtrates, Servants towards their Maſters, Husbands and Wives, either to other, and of the Miniſters of God towards the People of God, committed unto their charge, the younger ſort towards the elder, and of equals one to another; Concluding all with Benedictions and Salutations.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. PEter] Called firſt Simon , or Simeon , John 21. 1. 2 Pet. 1. 1. afterwards Peter ; but at what time, that is, whether when he firſt came to Chriſt , John 1. 42. or when he was called to be an Apoſtle, Mark 3. 16. Luke 6.14. or when he made that good confeſſion, Mat.16. 18. is not ſo eaſie to be determined. to the ſtrangers] Gr.to the elect ſtrangers. Some underſtand hereby the Jews only, others both Jews and Gentiles ſcattered by perſecution.

ſcattered] Gr. of the diſperſion, James 1.1.

V. 2. Elect] That is, ſequeſtred and ſeparated from the world.See John 15.19. Rev.17.14. in which place, elect, called, and faithful, are put for the ſame ; ſo that here we are to underſtand by [elect] thoſe who were effectually called, or who had obeyed the Goſpel.

fore-knowledge] Or, pre-ordination ; or, fore-appointment ; that is, as God had before decreed. See verſe 20.

through] Here is ſet down the principal cauſe of their effectual calling, viz. the ſanctification of the Spirit. See v.22.

obedience] That is, that ye might obey the Goſpel,and ſo be reconciled unto God , through the ſprinkling of the bloud of Jeſus Chriſt.

ſprinkling] Heb.12.24.

V. 3. Bleſſed] 2 Cor.1.3. Eph.1.3.

abundant] Gr. much.

begotten] That is, confirmed in us a living hope ; or quickened or revived unto us a living hope, by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt, becauſe God raiſed him up, that we might beleeve and hope in God for our reſurrection unto glory. See verſe 21. Acts 13. 33, 38. Rom. 1. 4. and 10. 9. Chriſts reſurrection being a pledge of ours : hence he is called the firſt-fruits of the dead , 1 Cor. 15. 23. and the firſt-born, from the dead, Col. 1.15,18. and Rev. 1.5. Some underſtand it of Gods renewing us by Chriſts reſurrection.See Rom.6.5,&c.

lively hope] Or, living hope. That is, a conſtant, permanent,or an hope that ſhall not fail, as living waters, John 6.51. or to an hope of life.

V. 4. To an inheritance] Rom.8.17. Gal.3.18. Col. 1. 12. Here is ſet down the object of that hope.

fadeth] Chap.5.4.

reſerved in heaven for you] Or, for us, Col.1.5. 2 Tim.1.12.

V. 5. kept] Or, guarded.

power of God] John 10.28,29. 1 Cor.1.8.

faith] Becauſe by faith we lay hold on the power of God, and in his power fight againſt all our ſpiritual adverſaries. See Epheſ. 6. 10.

laſt time] 1 John 3.2. That is, at Chriſts appearance,verſe 7.

V.6. wherein] That is, in which hope of ſalvation. See Mat. 5. Luke 6. Rom.12. 2 Cor.6. Rom.5.2.

for a ſeaſon] 2 Cor.4.17.

if need be] That is, if it be Gods will. See chap.3.17. or, if it ſhall be your good, 1 Cor.11.32.

heavineſs] Heb. 12.11.

manifold temptations] See James 1.2.

V. 7. the tryal] Job 23.10. James 1.3.

more precious] Chap. 4. 13. James 1.12.

V. 8. not ſeen] John 20.29. 1 John 4.20.

in whom] Conſidering that great and plentiful redemption which he hath wrought for you.

full of glory] Or, glorious , either becauſe this their rejoycing was a taſte of their future glory , or becauſe it made them glorious in the eyes of men. The Original word may be tranſlated celebrated, or renowned, or ſpoken of to praiſe, or glorified, or commended, or honoured. See Luke 4 15. John 13.31.

V. 9. end] That is, reward. See Rom.6.21,22. 2 Cor. 11. 15. Phil.3.19. James 5.11.

ſalvation] S. Peter means hereby that ſalvation which is begun in this life, in the peace of a good conſcience, and the joy of the holy Ghoſt, and which ſhall be perfected hereafter in heaven.

ſouls] By a cheef part of man we are here to underſtand the whole man. See Gen.12.5. and 14.21. and 17. 14. Luke 6. 9. Rom.13.1. for the body alſo ſhall be made partaker of ſalvation at the reſurrection, Phil.3.20,21.

V. 10. ſearched] Mat.2.8.and 10.11.

propheſied] Acts 3.18.

grace] So here the fulfilling of the promiſes of Chriſts coming in the fleſh, of his preaching the acceptable year of the Lord, of his dying for our ſins, and riſing for our juſtification, or theſe things themſelves, and the like exhibited, are ſtyled in oppoſition to the types, figures and ſhadows of this grace, John 1.17.

V.11. of Chriſt] Gal.4 6. So the holy Ghoſt by which the Prophets ſpake, (2 Pet.1.21.) is called, becauſe Chriſt ſent the holy Ghoſt upon the Prophets, as he did upon the Apoſtles. See John 12.15,26.

in them] See Heb.1.1.

teſtified] Luke 24.25,&c. Acts 17.2,3. Rom.1.2,3. and 16. 26. 1 Cor.15.2,4.

V. 12. the things] That is, the coming of Chriſt, and thoſe particulars mentioned, v. 10,11. and not the fruits and effects of them; for the faithful before Chriſts coming were ſaved by the grace of Chriſt, even as we , Acts 15.9.

with the holy Ghoſt] Acts 2.4. That is, by the aſſiſtance of the holy Ghoſt.

which things] Eph.3.10. That is, which myſteries of the Goſpel, revealed in the latter times.

look into] Narrowly, as they who bowing or ſtooping down , look upon a thing. See James 1.25. Luke 24.12. John 25.11.

V. 13. Gird up the loins of your mind] Gr. having the loins of your mind girded. It is a metaphor taken from an ancient cuſtom in the Eaſtern countries, where they were wont to wear long garments, which they girded to their loins, to make them expedite, nimble, and ready for travel, or ſome other ſervice, 1 Kings 18. 46. 2 Kings 4. 29. and 9.1. Luke 12.37. Hence it is tranſlated here and in other places, as Job 38.3. and 40.7. Luke 12.35. to the mind, to import its preparedneſs and readineſs for Gods ſervice.

be ſober] Gr. being ſober. Hereby Saint Peter directs us unto that wherein the preparation of the ſoul doth conſiſt, or unto the means whereby it muſt be prepared for Gods ſervice, and that is ſoberneſs; that is, a moderation not only in meats and drinks, but in all earthly things. See verſe 4. and Luke 12. 35,&c. 1 Theſ.5.8.

and hope] Gr. hope.

to the end] Gr. perfectly, Luke 21.34. Tit.2.12. Hoſ.12.6. Heb. 6.11.

grace] Some underſtand hereby that grace which is now revealed and offered unto us, by the preaching of the Goſpel : as Epheſ.1.6, 7. Tit.2.11. and theſe read the words following thus , viz. which is brought unto you by the revelation of Chriſt ; that is, by his preaching of the Goſpel unto you, or in, or at his appearing, or being manifeſted in the fleſh. Others underſtand here by [grace] that ſalvation and glory which ſhall be revealed at the ſecond coming of Chriſt ; as chap.3.7.

that is to be brought] Or, that is brought.

at the revelation] 2 Theſ.1.10.

V.14. obedient children] Gr. children of obedience.

not faſhioning] Gr. not faſhioned. Here S. Peter may ſeem to allude to thoſe things which receive their figure, form, or ſhape from a mould, and is, as if he had ſaid, Let not your lives and converſations be formed or moulded according to your former luſts ; ſee Rom. 12.2. The ſame is imported, when men are ſaid to walk after their luſts, making their luſts their Captains, or Leaders. See Eph. 2. 3. and 4.22. 2 Tim.3.6. Tit.3.3. 2 Pet.3.3. Jude 18.

former luſts] Eph.4.22.

ignorance] Eph 4.18. Acts 17.30. That is, before you were called to the knowledge of the truth.

V. 16. Be ye holy] Lev.11.44. and 19.2 and 20.7.

V. 17. who without] Deut.10.17. Rom.2. 11.

according to] Eccl.12.14.

ſojourning] The Original word ſignifieth a dwelling for a time in a place, which is not native unto us. See Exod. 6. 4. Acts 7. 6, 29. Heb.11.9. Hence when it is applyed to our living upon the face of the earth, thereby is implyed, that here we have no abiding City. See chap. 2.11. Gen.47.9. Heb. 13. 14.

in fear] Chap.2.18. and 3.2,16. Eph.6.5. Pſalm 2.12. 2 Cor.2. 3. and 7.1,15.

V. 18. vain converſation] So called, becauſe it did proceed from the vanity of their minds, Eph.6.17. and becauſe of the unprofitableneſs of it, Hab.2.13. Rom.6.21.

tradition] That is, either by their example or teaching. Some ſuppoſe that here the Apoſtle intends thoſe idle and Phariſaical traditions which they had learned from their fathers.

fathers] Ezek.20.18.

V. 19. pretious] 1 Cor.6.20.

bloud] Eph. 1. 7. 1 John 1.7. Rev.1.5.

lamb] Herein Saint Peter relates unto the Paſchal Lamb , and the Lamb for the daily ſacrifice, both which were to be without blemiſh or ſpot. See Exod.22.5. Numb.28.3,19. and both which were types of Chriſt, John 1.29. 1 Cor.5.7.

without blemiſh] Heb.6.26.

V. 20. Who verily] Rom.16.25. Coloſſ. 1.26. 1 Tim.3. 10. Tit. 1.2.

fore-ordained] Gr. fore-known. See v.2. Acts 10. 42. Epheſ.3.11.

manifeſt] That is, in the fleſh. See 1 Tim.3.16. 1 John 3. 8.

laſt times] See Gen.49.1.

V. 21. by him] For we can have no confidence in God, as reconciled unto us, but through Chriſt. See John 14.6. Acts 10.36. Eph. 2.14,15. and 3. 12. Col.1.20.

raiſed] Eph 1.20.

glory] See verſe 11.

that your faith] See verſe 3.

V. 22. purified] Tit.3.5,6.

obeying] That is, by faith, by which you obey the truth. See Rom.1.5,16,26.

through the Spirit] Acts 15.9. unfeigned] 2 Cor.6.6. 1 Tim.1.5. 1 Cor. 6. 11.

love] Rom.12.10. chap.2.17.

fervently] Gr. extenſively. That is, with a ſtretched-out love, or extended love.

V. 23. corruptible] As they are who are born after the common courſe of nature.

by the word] Jam.1.18. It is uſual in the Scripture, John 1. 13. and 3.3. to compare the Word of God to ſeed. See Luke 8.5.

which liveth] Pſalm 119.89.

V. 24. For] Or, for that.

all fleſh is as graſs] Iſa. 40. 6. and 54. 10. 2 Cor. 5. 21. James 1.10.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. W*Herefore laying*] See Jam.1.21. Heb. 12.1. Eph.4.22, 25. Col.3.8.

all malice] 2 Cor.7.1. 1 Theſſ.5.23.

V. 2. deſire] Or, earneſtly deſire, Pſalm 119. 20,81,82.

ſincere] That is, uncorrupted, unfalſified: whereby is meant the purity of Gods Word, it is without falſhood; ſee Pſalm 14. 8. and herein it is compared to milk, which of it ſelf is uncompounded.

milk] What is here meant by milk, is expreſſed, chap. 1. 25. viz. the Goſpel, or the Word of God revealed in the Goſpel; compared to milk; firſt, becauſe of the ſweetneſs of it, Eſa.25.6. Pſalm 19.10. and 119.103. Prov. 24. 13, 14. Secondly, becauſe of the purity thereof. See the note before. Thirdly, becauſe of the nouriſhing property thereof; ſo eſpecially here. See Eph.4.11, &c. 2 Tim. 3. 16, 17.

of the Word] The Syriack tranſlation renders it [ſpiritual] and not without good probability, it being here oppoſed or compared to that bodily milk which new-born babes earneſtly deſire, and becauſe it is the food of the ſoul, which is a ſpirit. Heb. 12.9. and ſo the Original word may be taken, Rom.12.1.

V. 3. If ſo be] As you profeſs and perſwade your ſelf.

taſted] That is, have had any experimental knowledge of the goodneſs and mercy of God in Chriſt; by our taſte we make experience what is ſweet, and what is ſowre, or bitter. It may ſeem that S.Peter relates to Pſalm 34.9. It is conceived by ſome, that hereby the Apoſtle followeth the former ſimilitude, becauſe children do by their taſtes eaſily diſcern their nurſes milk.

Lord] Chriſt Jeſus.

gracious] Underſtand it of that grace which is manifeſted and offered in the Goſpel. See Eph.6.9,27. Tit.3.4. Heb.6.5.

V. 4. coming] That is, by faith. See John 6.35. and 5.40.43,44. Heb.10.22.

living ſtone] When Chriſt in the Scriptures is compared to a ſtone, it is either to the foundation-ſtone, to ſhew that the whole Church is built upon him. See 1 Cor.3.11. or elſe unto the cheef corner-ſtone, to ſhew that the whole Church, or all the faithfull are coupled and united together in him. See Eph. 2. 13,14, 20. and 4.16. Col.1.19. He is further called, a living ſtone, becauſe he giveth life unto all thoſe who by faith are united unto him, John 5.26.

diſallowed indeed of men] Luke 2.24.

choſen] See chap.1.20.

V. 5. lively ſtones] That is, as having received life from him. See verſe 4.

are built] Or, be ye built. Or, build up your ſelves: that is, more and more. Verbs paſſive, both in the Hebrew and the Greek, have ſometimes a reciprocal ſignification. See chap. 1. 14. 2 Sam. 20.10. Mal.2.15. Gen.46.29.

ſpiritual] Uſually in the Scriptures the Church of God is compared unto an houſe, and that both the Church Militant, Pſalm 27.4. and 69.10. and 84. Iſa.56.6,7. Eph 2.19,22. 1 Tim. 3. 15. Heb. 3.6. and 10.21. as alſo the Triumphant, John 14.2. 2 Cor.5.1,2. And the reaſon may be, becauſe God dwelleth in the Church, by his grace and glory. It is further compared unto a ſpiritual houſe, either in oppoſition to our material houſes, or elſe becauſe it is built up by the Spirit of God. See chap.1.22.

holy Prieſthood] So all the faithful are ſtyled, becauſe (as the Prieſts under the Law) ſo theſe are ſeparated from the world to the ſervice of God, as the words following import. See chap. 1. 22. Iſa.61.1.

ſpiritual] That is, your ſelves, and all that ſpiritual ſervice which ye perform unto God. See Pſalm 4. 6. and 50.14. and 51. 19. and 107.22. and 141.2. Iſa.56.7. Hoſ.14.3. Rom.12,1. Phil.2. 17. Heb.13.15.

By Jeſus Chriſt] See Heb.13.10,15,16.

V. 6. ſcripture] That is, partly, Iſa. 8. 14. and 28. 16. and partly, Pſalm 118. out of which places the Apoſtle alleageth theſe words, keeping faithfully the ſenſe, though not the very words.

Behold] Iſa.28.16. Rom 9.33.

confounded] See Rom.9.33.

V. 7. precious] Or, an honour.

diſobedient] That is, unto the Goſpel.

the ſtone which the builders diſallowed] Pſalm 118. 22. Mat.21. 42. Acts 4.11.

V. 8. And a ſtone of ſtumbling] Iſa.8.14. Rom.9.33.

a ſtone] A metaphor taken either from thoſe, who, making haſte, ſtumble at a ſtone in their way, and ſo hurt themſelves: or from mariners who ſplit their ſhips upon rocks. See 1 Cor.1.23. So that by ſtumbling, here, the cauſe being put for the effect, we are to underſtand that judgement which unbeleevers incurre, through their infidelity.

at the word, being diſobedient] Or, being diſobedient unto the word.

diſobedient] That is, becauſe they are diſobedient unto the Goſpel. Participles oftentimes imply the cauſe of that which went before. See Heb.11.31.

whereunto] This clauſe hath reference, not to diſobedient; for God ordains no man thereunto, Pſalm 5 5. James 1. 13. but unto ſtumbling: whereby is ſignified, that hurt and condemnation which unbeleevers receive from the word through their infidelity: thereby it becomes the ſavour of death unto death unto them, 2 Cor. 2. 16. See before. Hence the ſenſe of this clauſe is this, viz. whereunto; that is, unto which hurt or condemnation, expreſſed by ſtumbling. They; that is, thoſe unbeleevers were appointed or ordained by God, through his judgement, for their infidelity. Some by ſtumbling, underſtand diſobeying, or, unbeleeving: and theſe make this the meaning of the words, viz. Into which diſobedience or unbeleef God ſuffered them to fall, through his juſt judgement, for their former ſins. Others refer this clauſe to word, and make this the Apoſtles meaning, viz. Unto the obeying or beleeving of which word they were called of God.

V. 9. choſen] That is, whom God hath effectually called out of the world. See chap.1.2. Deut.7.7.

royal] That is, Kings and Prieſts. See Exod.19.6. Rev. 1.6. and 5.10. Kings, becauſe of that power which they have, through Chriſt, over their luſts. See Phil.4.13. Prieſts, becauſe ſeparated to the ſervice of God. See v.5.

holy nation] See Exod 19.6. and Deut.7.6,&c.

a peculiar people] Or, a purchaſed people.

peculiar] Or, a people for poſſeſſion: that is, a people whom God hath purchaſed to be his own. See Exod. 19. 5. Deut.4.2. and 7 6. and 26.18. Pſalm 135.4. Tit.2.14. Acts 20.18. Eph.1.14. 1 Theſ. 5. 9.

praiſes] Or, virtues. That is, that we might glorifie God in our converſations, thereby ſhewing forth the abundant mercy and great power of God in calling us, Iſa. 8.13.

called you out of darkneſs] Col.1.13.

darkneſs] That is, ignorance, chap. 1. 14. whereby is meant our ſinful and miſerable eſtate by nature, under which men are kept, through the ignorance of the Goſpel, Epheſ.4.18. and 5. 8. Col. 1.13.

his marvellous] Hereby is meant our eſtate of grace, through the effectual calling of God, by the knowledge of the truth. See 2 Cor. 4.6. Acts 13.47. and 26.18. Eph.1. 18. and 5. 8. called marvellous, becauſe of the great myſtery of godlineſs, which is revealed in the Goſpel: and called his, becauſe God revealeth it. See the places before.

V. 10. Hence it is gathered by ſome, that this Epiſtle was not written to the Jews only, but alſo to the Gentiles; becauſe that of Hoſea 2.23. is to be underſtood of the calling of the Gentiles, Rom. 9.25.

V. 11. ſtrangers] 1 Chron.9.15. Here is a reaſon given why we ought to live holily, viz. becauſe in this world we are ſtrangers and pilgrims, and therefore we ought not to live according to the laws and luſts of the world, which is moſt corrupt.

pilgrims] See chap.1.17.

abſtain from fleſhly luſts] Rom.13.14. Gal.5.16. Col.1.5. 1 Theſ. 2.5.

fleſhly] Fleſh is often taken for corrupt nature, as Rom.7.25. and 8,1,5,9,13. Gal.5.19,24. Hence thoſe luſts are called fleſhly luſts, or the luſts of the fleſh, which proceed from corrupt nature, Gal.5. 1. Rom.13.14. Eph.2.3. 2 Pet.2.18. Sometimes the luſts of the fleſh are taken for thoſe luſts which are againſt the ſeventh commandment, as 1 John 2.16.

war] Rom.7.23. Gal.5.17. James 4.1.

V. 12. Having your converſation honeſt] Chap. 3. 16. 1 Theſ. 4. 12.

whereas] Or, wherein.

ſpeak againſt you] Chap.3.16.

they may by your good works] Mat.5.16.

viſitation] When God in mercy ſhall call them to the fellowſhip of the Goſpel, Pſalm 106.4. Luke 19.44.

V. 13. Gr. Therefore] Hereby two things are implyed: 1. That diſobedience to the civil Magiſtrate proceeds from fleſhly luſts. See James 4.1. 2. That diſobedience unto the civil magiſtrate opens the mouth of unbeleevers againſt the profeſſors of the Goſpel. See v.11.

Submit your ſelves] Rom. 13. 1. Tit. 3. 1.

ordinance of man] By ordinance, is meant, the framing and ordering of civil government: called the ordinance of man, not becauſe it is invented by, or hath its original from men: (for all power is from God, Rom.13.1,2. though ſometimes he uſeth men as means to derive power or government to ſuch or ſuch a perſon or perſons, that ſo they might be the more willing to yeeld obedience) but becauſe it is proper to men, or becauſe it is diſcharged by men.

for the Lords ſake] That is, out of obedience and conſcience unto God, who hath ordained the Civil Magiſtracy, and alſo hath commanded obedience unto it, verſe 14. Rom.13.1,&c.

ſupreme] That is, under God. There is therefore no other ſupreme on earth above the King, in his dominions.

V. 14. for the puniſhment of evil doers] Rom. 13. 3.

V. 15. ſilence] Gr. ſtop, or bind up the mouth of, &c. See Matth. 22.12,34. 1 Cor.9.9.

men] Who are ready, out of their ignorance and folly, to charge the Goſpel, and to blaſpheme it, as if it countenanced thoſe ſins which the profeſſours thereof practiſe.

V. 16. free] 1 Cor.7. 22. Here the Apoſtle ſeems to prevent a ſecret objection. Some might reply; We are free, and therefore owe no obedience to any above us. The Apoſtle granteth the antecedent, underſtanding it of their freedome from the burthen and curſe of the Law, and from the bondage of ſin and Satan; but withal he admoniſheth them, not to withdraw, under the pretext of this their freedom, their obedience due unto the Magiſtrate.

uſing] Gr. having.

V. 17. Honour] Or, Eſteem, Rom.12.10. Phil.2 3.

all men] According to every mans ſtate and calling.

brotherhood] Thoſe who are brethren in Chriſt.

V. 18. Servants, be ſubject to your maſters] Eph.6. 5. Col. 3. 22. Tit.2.9.

all fear] Not onely of puniſhment, but alſo of offending God.

good] Who gently and kindly bear with you in your religious profeſſion and practices. The Apoſtle ſeems here to ſpeak of ſuch ſervants who lived under unbeleeving maſters, as it may be gathered from the next verſe.

froward] Gr. crooked; that is, who uſe you frowardly, hardly and ſcornfully, becauſe of your Chriſtian profeſſion.

V. 19. thank-worthy] Or, thank.

for conſcience] Gr. of God; that is, becauſe of that religion which you profeſs, and thoſe religious duties which you perform, out of obedience or conſcience unto God.

V. 20. glory] Luke 6.33.

acceptable] Or, thank.

V. 21. called] 2 Tim.3.13. Acts 14.22. As diſciples of Chriſt to bear his croſs. See Matth.10.38. and 16. 24.

for us] Some read, for you. Heb. 2. 9. Rom. 5, 7, 8. 2 Cor. 5.14.

example] John 13.15. It is a borrowed kind of ſpeech, taken from painters or ſchool-maſters.

V. 22. who did no ſin] Iſa.53.9.

V. 23. committed himſelf] Or, committed his cauſe. That is, gave up or delivered over his will unto his Fathers, in his ſuffering, Matth.26.39. Or, he committed the revenge of his innocency unto God, giving us an example hereby not to revenge our own cauſe, though never ſo innocent.

V. 24. bare our ſins] Iſa.53.4,5,6. Or, bare up our ſins, Heb. 9. 28. That is, the puniſhment of our ſins: ſee Lev. 5.1. and 10, 17. Gal.5.10.

on] Or, to.

tree] That is, the croſs, whereon he did conſummate and perfect his ſatisfaction for our ſins, Eph.2.16. Col.1.20.

dead] Luke 1.95. Rom.6.1,2,&c. Tit.2.11,12, &c. 2 Cor.15. 5. See Rom.6.2.

ſtripes] See Iſa.53.5.

V. 25. For] Here he calleth ſervants back from the conſideration of thoſe injuries which they ſuffered for Chriſt, unto thoſe benefits which they received by him, that ſo he might work them unto patience.

ſheep going aſtray] Iſa.53.6.

Shepherd] Ezek. 34.25. and 37.24. John 10.11. Heb.13.20.

CHAP. III.

Verſe 1. YE wives] Geneſis 3.16. Epheſ. 5.22. Coloſſ.3.18. Tit. 2.5.

be in ſubjection] Or, ſubject your ſelves. See chap.2.5.

husbands] He ſpeaks of unbeleeving husbands, unto whom beleeving wives ſhould be the more ſubject, that ſo, by their honeſt and chaſt converſation, they might gain them unto the Lord; that is, be an occaſion of gaining them. See Matth. 18. 15. 1 Cor.9.19. For, ſuch husbands ſeeing the good converſation of their wives, may be brought to have a liking and good opinion of the Goſpel, and ſo to have a deſire to it, and by the grace of God, to frame their life unto it.

be won] 1 Cor.7.16.

V. 2. fear] Both of offending their husbands, and of offending God.

V. 3. Whoſe adorning] 1 Tim.2.9. Iſa.3.16.

adorning] The Apoſtle doth not here abſolutely forbid women to adorn themſelves; ſee Gen.29.30. ſo it be without exceſs and pride, and according to their places: but comparatively, that is, that they make not that outward adorning their cheef ornament.

V. 4. hidden] This is oppoſed to the outward decking of the body. Hereby is meant the new man, which according to God is created in righteouſneſs and true holineſs, Epheſ. 4.24. See Rom.2.29. and 7. 22. 2 Cor.4.16.

in that] That is, which hidden man of the heart is manifeſted by a meek and quiet ſpirit, without hypocriſie.

the ornament of a meek and quiet Spirit] Gr. in the ſincerity of a meek and quiet, &c. ſee Eph.6.24. Tit.2.7.

V. 5. being in ſubjection] See verſe 1.

V. 6. calling him Lord] Gen.18.12.

daughters] Gr. children.

and are] Becauſe women are by nature fearful, he giveth them to underſtand, that he requireth of them that ſubjection which is not wrung out of them by force and fear. Or, and are not afraid with any amazement ariſing out of an accuſing conſcience of doing evil.

V. 7. husbands] Col. 3. 14. Here the Apoſtle turns himſelf to beleeving husbands, ſhewing them how they ſhould behave themſelves to their beleeving wives.

according] That is, carry your ſelves wiſely and diſcreetly towards them.

giving honour] That is, giving them due reſpect, taking care and providing for them, and bearing with them in their weakneſſes.

weaker] It is uſual in the Scripture to compare man in general unto a veſſel; ſee 1 Sam.21. 1 Theſ. 4. 4. 2 Cor. 4. 7. Hence the woman is here called weaker veſſel, becauſe generally ſhe is weaker both in the faculties of her ſoul, and the conſtitution of her body. And in that ſhe is called the weaker veſſel, thereby is implyed the reaſon wherefore husbands muſt ſo carry themſelves as before, viz. becauſe women are the weaker veſſels. Weaker veſſels, as thoſe of glaſs and earth, we uſe carefully and tenderly: and ſo husbands ſhould carry themſelves towards their wives.

and as being heirs together of] Some copies read, and as to heirs with you of, &c.

grace] That is, life eternal, which is through grace, Rom. 6. 23. 2 Tim.1.9.

hindered] By brawling and chiding, ariſing out of your indiſcreet carriage. And here, by prayers, underſtand all other duties belonging to the worſhip of God.

V. 8. Finally] Here Saint Peter cometh to common exhortation, and commendeth concord, and whatſoever things make thereunto.

one minde] Rom.12,16. and 15. 5. Phil.3.16. 1 Cor.1.10.

love as brethren] Or, loving to the brethren.

V. 9. Not rendering evil for evil] Prov.17.13. and 20. 22. Matth. 5.39,44. Rom.12.14,17. 1 Theſ.5. 15.

knowing] Here is a reaſon given why they ſhould not render evil for evil, viz. becauſe of that great bleſſing of eternal life, whereunto they were called.

V. 10. He that will love life] Pſalm 34.12,&c. tongue from evil] Prov. 4 24. and 18.21.

V. 11. eſchew evil] Iſa.1.16.

V. 12. againſt] Gr. upon.

V. 13. And who] Hereby is implyed, that the honeſt converſation of the faithful, doth oftentimes prevail with, and mollifie the hearts of cruel perſecutors.

V. 14. But and if ye ſuffer for righteouſneſs ſake] Matth. 5.10.

happy are ye] Mat.10.28. James 1.12. 1 Pet.4.14.

be not afraid] Iſa.8.12,13. he means that kind of fear and trouble of mind, wherewith wicked men fear in times of trouble, that is, with a fear without patience and truſt in God, and ſuch as is accompanyed with conſternation and amazement, ſo that they know not which way to turn themſelves. See Iſa. 7. 2. Matth. 2. 3. John 14.1. and 16.1.

V. 15. ſanctifie] That is, glorifie God by your patient ſuffering, and faithful truſting in him. Or, bleſs God in your hearts, for that he hath accounted you worthy to ſuffer for righteouſneſs ſake, ſee Acts 5.41. 2 Cor.3.11. Phil.1.29. Col.1.24.

every man] That is, if Gods honour and the good of thoſe who ask or require it; otherwiſe we muſt not caſt pearls before ſwine: ſee Matth.7.6.

fear] Or, reverence.

V. 16. Having] Chap.2.12. ſee chap.2.19.

ſpeak evil] See chap.2.12.

in Chriſt] That is, according to his doctrine.

V. 17. better] That is, it is good to ſuffer for well-doing, and not for evil: See the like, Pſalm 118.8. 1 Cor. 7.9.

the will of God] Chap.4.19.

V. 18. Far] Here he again propounds the example of Chriſt, as chap.2.21.

once] Heb.7.26. For all, never to dye or ſuffer again. See Rom. 5.6. Heb.9.28.

the juſt for the unjuſt] Rom.5.6,&c.

bring] Reconcile us unto God. See Eph.2.13,&c. Col.1.19,&c. 2 Cor.5.18.

being put to death] 2 Cor.13.4.

in the fleſh] That is, according to his human nature. See chap.4.1. Rom. 1.3.1Tim.3.16.

Spirit] By his Divine nature. So Rom. 1. 4. 1 Tim. 3.16. Heb.9.14.

V. 19. went] Not by any local motion, but by the manifeſtation and power of his Spirit. See chap.4.14. Gen. 6.3.

preached] That is, by the Miniſtery of Noah, or ſome others, Eph.2.17.

ſpirits in] That is, now, when Saint Peter wrote this Epiſtle; though not ſo, when they were preached unto.

V. 20. diſobedient] That is, unbeleeving. See John 2.26. Acts 14.2. Rom.7.8. Heb.3.18.

by water] That is, through the means of water, which did bear up the ark.

V. 21. The like] That is, anſwerable to which ſalvation by water.

not] There is no reaſon for this parentheſis.

anſwer] Herein Saint Peter may ſeem to have reſpect unto that rite or ceremony, which was uſed in the baptiſm of thoſe who were of age. The perſon baptizing, asked the perſon to be baptized, Whether he beleeved; and he anſwered, I beleeve, &c. Hence, by the anſwer of a good conſcience, we may underſtand that unfeigned faith whereof they made confeſſion at their baptiſm, and whereby their conſciences were purified, and whereby they received the remiſſion of their ſins, teſtified by Chriſts reſurrection from the dead. Some underſtand, by the anſwer, &c. that covenant whereinto they entred at their baptiſm, the embracing whereof they teſtified by their unfeigned confeſſion of their faith.

V. 22. the right hand of God] Pſalm 110.1. Heb.1.3.

CHAP. IV.

Verſe 1. F*OR*] The ſcope of Saint Peter here, is to perſwade them to abſtain from the luſts of the world, from their communion and fellowſhip in the death of Chriſt, whereby they were dead unto ſin; and therefore they ought not any longer to live therein. See this argument preſſed more largely, Rom.6. 6, &c. Gal. 5. 24. and 6. 14.

ſuffered] That is, dead unto the fleſh, that is, in his corrupt nature: or, who hath his corrupt nature crucified in him.

fleſh] See chap.3.18.

ceaſed] He ſpeaks of what they ought to do, not of that which they always do.

V. 2. reſt] That is, ſo much of this preſent life which yet remaineth to be paſſed over.

to the luſts of men] Rom.12.2.

V. 3. For] By putting us in mind of our former life ſpent in the luſts of the world, he calleth us unto repentance.

V. 4. wherein they think it ſtrange] Iſa.59.15.

ſtrange] So verſe 12.

V. 5. him] See James 2. 5, 8.

judge the quick and the dead] Acts 10.42.

V. 6. dead] That is, in Saint Peters days, though not when the Goſpel was preached unto them.

that] Here is the end wherefore the Goſpel was preached unto them, viz. for the mortification of their fleſh, and the renewing in their ſpirits, according to the will of God. See verſe 2.

judged] That is, mortified in the fleſh. The antecedent is put for the conſequent: ſee 1 Cor. 5.5.

V. 7. the end] See James 8.9.

all things] 1 John 2.17.

at hand] Phil.4.5.

ſober and watch] Matth.26.41. 1 Pet.5.8.

watch] That is, be aſſiduous or conſtant in prayer, watching all opportunities to perform that ſervice unto God. See chap.5.8. Luke 18.1. and 21.36. Rom.12.12. 1 Theſſ.5.17. Eph.6.18.

V. 8. fervent] See chap.1.22.

ſhall] Or, will.

cover] It doth, as it were, bury a multitude of ſins in others, and thereby preſerveth peace and concord: ſee Prov.10.12.

V. 9. Uſe hoſpitality] Rom.12.13. Heb.13.2.

grudging] Or, murmuring, Phil.2.14.

V. 10. As every man hath received] Rom.12.6.

ſtewards] Matth.21.14. Luke 12.42. 1 Cor.4.1,2.

ld] 1 Cor.12.4. Rom.12.6.

] That is, gifts beſtowed through the free and undeſerved of God.

V. 11. as oracles] That is, reverently, conſidering diligently whoſe word it is: ſee Rom.3.2.

miniſter] Some underſtand this of the duty of deacons; but more probably it is to be underſtood of the duty of all Chriſtians; all being bound to help one another, according to that meaſure of gifts which God hath beſtowed on them.

V. 12. ſtrange] See verſe 4. Becauſe hereunto ye are called.

fiery trial] That is, thoſe cruel perſecutions which ye ſuffer. It is a metaphor taken from gold-ſmiths, who try their gold in the fire; ſee chap.1.7. Pſalm 66.10.

try] See 1 Cor.6.4. James 1.3.

V. 13. rejoyce] Luke 6.23. Col. 1.24.

of Chriſts ſufferings] Or, ſufferings for Chriſt.

glory ſhall be revealed] Col.3.3. James 1. 12.

V. 14. If ye be reproached] Matth.5.11.

for] That is, it is an argument that the Spirit of God is in you, upholding you under ſo great trials. See Col.1.11.

happy are ye] Chap.3.14. James 1. 12.

Spirit of glory] That is, the glorious Spirit of God.

glorified] By your true and bold profeſſion of him, under ſo many and ſo cruel trials.

V. 15. ſuffer as a murderer] Chap. 2.20.

V. 16. Chriſtian] The profeſſours of Chriſt are ſo called, from Chriſt, in whom they beleeve, and whom they profeſs. See James 2. 7.

V. 17. time is come] Iſa.10.12. Jer.21.29. and 49.12.

judgement] That is, thereby underſtand thoſe chaſtiſements wherewith God chaſtiſeth his own people for their ſins.

houſe] That is, his Church and faithful people: ſee Eph. 1.

and if it firſt begin at us] Luke 23.31.

V. 18. And if the righteous ſcarcely be ſaved] Prov. 11.31.

V. 19. will of God] Chap.3.17.

commit] It is a metaphor taken from thoſe who uſe to commit jewels, or gold, and the like, to the truſt of ſome faithful friend, for ſafe keeping. Hence thoſe are ſaid to commit themſelves to God, who in their afflictions, through faith, reſt on Gods faithful promiſes of taking care for them.

ſouls] That is, themſelves.

Creatour] Who will not forſake the work of his own hands, Pſalm 138.8.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. E*lders*] So the Miniſters of Gods Word are ſtyled, becauſe uſually men of good age were choſen to that office, 1. That they might not be deſpiſed for their youth, 1 Tim. 4. 12. 2. That they might be well grounded in the truth, and ſo not be apt to be carried away with divers doctrines, Eph.4.14.

and a witneſs of the ſufferings of Chriſt] Luke 24.48.

a partaker] Rom.8.17,18.

glory] This he ſpeaks, either in reſpect of his being preſent at our Saviours transfiguration, Matth.17.1, &c. which was a glimpſe of that glory wherewith he ſhall appear at the laſt day; or elſe in reſpect of thoſe firſt-fruits of glory, whereof he himſelf was partaker in this life.

V. 2. flock of God] Acts 20.28.

which is among you] Or, as much as in you is.

lucre] Tit.1.7. 1 Tim.3.3,8.

V. 3. being lords over] Or, over-ruling.

lords] That is, not imperiouſly commanding your own inventions, in ſtead of the doctrine of the Goſpel; nor carrying themſelves inſolently and magiſterially towards Gods people, 3 John verſe 9.

heritage] So the faithful are called, becauſe of that peculiar right which God hath in them.

enſamples to the flock] Phil. 3. 17. 2 Theſſ. 3. 9. 1 Tim. 4. 12. Tit.2.7.

V. 4. Shepherd] Heb.13.26.

fadeth not away] Chap.1.4. 1 Cor.9.25.

V. 5. all of you be ſubject to one another] Rom.12.10. Eph. 5.21.

God reſiſteth the proud] James 4.6.

V. 6. Humble] See James 4.10.

V. 7. Caſting] See chap.4.19. Pſalm 37.22. Matth. 6. 25.

V. 8. Be ſober] Chap. 4.7. Luke 21.36.

V. 9. reſiſt ſtedfaſt in the faith] Eph.6.11. James 4.7.

knowing] The perſecutions which Satan ſtirreth up againſt Gods people, are neither new, nor proper to any one man; but from old, and common to the whole Church; and therefore we muſt ſuffer that patiently, wherein we have ſo many fellows of our conflicts and combats.

V. 10. a while] Chap.1.7. 2 Cor. 4. 17.

perfect] Heb.13.21.

V. 12. breefly] Heb.13.22.

exhorting] Here is a breef argument of the whole Epiſtle.

V. 13. elected] See chap.1.2.

V. 14. Greet ye one another] Rom. 16.16. 1 Cor.16.20. 2 Cor. 13.12. 1 Theſſ. 5.26.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF S. PETER.

The ARGUMENT.

IT ſeems, that after the writing of the former Epiſtle, wherein the Apoſtle had laid down the true Doctrine of Salvation by Chriſt alone, and ſome Rules for good life, becoming ſuch as ſhould be ſaved by him; there aroſe certain men, who were remiſſe in their lives; others who were forgetful of Gods Truth, laid down in the Scriptures; as alſo, falſe Teachers, who living looſely themſelves, miſled and corrupted others, and ſcoffers at the coming of Chriſt to judgement. The Apoſtle therefore after ſalutation, chapter 1.1,2. and mention of the riches of Gods Mercy to true Chriſtians, verſe 3, 4. Perſwades to good works, from verſe 5. to verſe 12. from thence, to the end of the firſt Chapter: He being very old, and neer unto death, verſe 14. before his departure, minds them of Truths forgotten by many of them. In the ſecond, he arms them againſt falſe Teachers, and deters them from Apoſtacy. In the ten firſt verſes of the third chapter, he confutes ſuch as ſcoffe at the coming of our Saviour, and the end of the world: From thence to the 17. verſe, he ſtirs them up to prepare for that day, and to fit themſelves for that glorious eternal habitation that is prepared for them. In the two laſt verſes, he exhorts them to take heed of being miſled, and to increaſe in Grace, and in the knowledge of Chriſt; which the Lord give us grace alſo to do, through Jeſus Chriſt our only Lord and Saviour. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. SImon] Gr. Symeon, as it is tranſlated, Acts 15. 14. The name of one of Jacobs ſons, Gen. 29. 33. and of another godly man, Luke 2. 25. He is called Simon alſo, Matth. 10. 2. John 21. 16. as we commonly call him. It ſeems that this was the name that was given him by his parents, at his circumciſion.

Peter] A ſirname given him by Chriſt, John 1. 42. It may be to diſtinguiſh him from Simon the Canaanite, who was alſo an Apoſtle, Matth. 10. 2, 4. It was renewed, upon his confeſſion, Matth. 16. 16, 17, 18. The former name Simon, comes from a word that ſignifies hearing. This later name Peter ſignifies a ſtone. The name imports, an hearer, and firm obſerver of Gods Word; and ſuch an one indeed this Apoſtle was, Matth. 7. 24. It is obſerved by the Learned, that Πέτρα ſignifies a rock, and Πέτρος a ſtone. This ſuits well with Matth. 16. 18. where Chriſt is the rock, and Peter a ſtone built on that rock. I finde none elſe of this name in the Old or New Teſtament.

A ſervant] See on Rev. 1. 1. A name of humility; what a ſervant he was, appears in the following words, Not an ordinary Chriſtian, but an Apoſtle.

an Apoſtle] One called by Chriſt immediately, Matth. 10. 2. and ſent to preach the Goſpel in any part of the world, Matth. 28. 19. and having authority over all Churches, 1 Cor. 9. 1. compared with 2 Cor. 11. 28. A name of great dignity, beſides the former privileges carrying with it an infallible Spirit in doctrine. His vocation to his Diſcipleſhip, ſee Matth. 4. 19. to his Apoſtleſhip, Matth. 10. 2. His reſtitution after his denying his maſter, John 21. 15.

of Jeſus Chriſt] See on Matth. 1. 1. Rev. 1. 1. Jeſus ſignifies a Saviour. It was the name of Joſhuah, who led Gods people into Canaan, a type of this Jeſus, who leads his people into Heaven. Chriſt ſignifies anointed; I find none elſe of this name in all the book of God.

to them] To whom this Epiſtle was written. See on chapter 3 verſe 1.

that have obtained] The Greek word, in the primitive ſignification of it, ſignifieth getting a thing by lot, as inheritances were ſometimes divided, Joſh. 14. 2. yet it is uſed for obtaining a thing any other way.

like] In ſubſtance, not equal in degree; for faith might be ſtronger in the Apoſtle, than it was in them to whom he writ, Rom. 1. 12. 2 Cor. 4. 13. Tit. 1. 4.

precious faith] 1 Pet. 1. 7. It is called ſo, in regard of the precious promiſes it layes hold upon, verſe 4. which belong alike to all beleevers.

with us] Apoſtles, as 1 Joh. 1. 3, and other Chriſtians, Jude v. 3. 2 Cor. 1. 21. Or, with me, See on 1 Joh. 1. 1, 3.

through the righteouſneſſe] By the merits of Chriſt, who hath deſerved for us both grace and glory. Gr. in the righteouſneſſe. Our faith reſts on Chriſts merits. Or, by Gods mercy and bounty. So the word is uſed, 2 Cor. 9. 9. Faith then comes not by any deſert of ours, but from Chriſts merits, or Gods mercy, or by Gods faithfulneſſe in keeping his promiſes, Pſal. 89. 33. Luke 18. 8. 1 Joh. 1. 9.

of God and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt] Gr. of our God and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. See on Jude v. 25.

V. 2. Grace and Peace be multiplied unto you] See on 1 Pet. 1. 2. Rev. 1. 9. Jude v. 2.

through the knowledge of God, and of Jeſus] That is, through faith in God, and Chriſt made known to us, Iſa. 53. 12. See on ver. 1. The Greek word Ἐπίγνωσις ſignifies; Firſt, knowledge of a thing, Col. 1. 9. Secondly, increaſe in the knowledge of ſomewhat known before, Eph. 1. 17. Thirdly, acknowledgement of what we know, Luke 1. 4. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe for knowledge.

our Lord] 1 Cor. 8. 6.

V. 3. According as his divine power] It may be referred to that that went before. Let grace and peace be multiplied to you, according to the riches of his proviſions for us. Or to the words following; As God hath given us all things, &c. ſo Adde to your faith, virtue, &c. ver. 5. So Paul begins, after ſalutation, 1 Tim. 1. 3. Or, O how hath his divine power, &c. Rom. 11. 33.

His divine power. This is that, which worketh faith in Gods elect, Eph. 1. 19, 20.

hath given unto us] To us Chriſtians, to enjoy: or, to us Apoſtles, to preach to you, that ye may be partakers of the Divine nature, verſe 4. The Greek word δεδωρημένας, though paſſive is uſed here actively; as Ἐπήγγελται, Heb. 12. 26. and Ἠγώνισμαι, 2 Tim. 4. 7.

all things that pertain unto life and godlineſſe] All things needful to preſerve our natural or ſpiritual life here. Or, all things requiſite to bring us to heaven hereafter, and to enable us to live godlily here.

through the knowledge of him] See on verſe 2.

that hath called us] God, 1 Pet. 1. 15. Or, Chriſt, Rom. 1. 6.

to glory and virtue] To glory in heaven, and virtue on earth. Or, by glory and virtue; that is, by a glorious and powerful Goſpel. So Διὰ is uſed, Rom. 6. 4. Or, employing his glorious power to convert us, Eph. 1. 19. and 3. 6.

V. 4. whereby] By which glory and power appearing in the preaching of the Goſpel. Or, Becauſe that. Seeing God hath made ſuch glorious promiſes to us, he hath given us all things needful for grace and glory.

are given] Or, he hath given, as verſe 3.

unto us] See on verſe 3.

exceeding great and precious promiſes] Promiſes of very great matters, and things of high price and account.

that by theſe] By theſe promiſes: or, by theſe things given us, verſe 3.

you might be partakers of the divine nature] Not of Gods ſubſtance, which is incommunicable; but have excellent graces given us, whereby we are made like to God in wiſdom and holineſs, wherein the Image of God, after which man was at firſt created, conſiſts, Eph.4.24. Col.3.10.

having eſcaped] Gr. having fled from. It ſhews the nature of our victory over ſin, which conſiſts in fleeing from it, ch. 2. 18,20. 1 Cor.6.18.

the corruption] Of ſinne: or of deſtruction, as chapter 2. 12, 19. Some underſtand by corruption, original ſin: but it is better to underſtand deſtruction, that ſo corruption may be oppoſed to life and glory; and luſt to godlineſs and virtue, ver.3.

in the world through luſt] In worldly men, by reaſon of wicked deſires reigning in them, 1 John 2.15,16.

In the world] The Greek word κόσμος, ſignifies, Firſt, the whole world, with all the creatures in it, John 1. 10. Secondly, the earth, the lower part of the world, John 16. 28. Thirdly, the riches and honour of the world, Gal. 6. 14. Fourthly, the men of the world, Rom. 5. 12. Fifthly, a multitude, John 12. 19. Sixthly, the Gentiles in oppoſition to the Jews, Rom. 11. 12. Seventhly, the unregenerate men of the world, John 15. 18, 19. Eighthly, the reprobates of the world, John 14. 17. Ninthly, the elect, 2 Cor. 5. 19. Tenthly, all ſorts of perſons, John 18.20. Eleventhly, a worldly eſtate or condition, 1 Cor. 7. 34. Here it is taken for the men of the world, in the fourth ſenſe. Through luſt] The Greek 'Επιθυμία comes from θύειν, to burn, and notes out a vehement, earneſt, and continued deſire, which never leaves working, till it be accompliſhed in action.

V. 5. And beſides this] It is not enough to flee corrupt luſts, but we muſt alſo get ſtore of virtue. Or, And for this very thing alſo. Gods grace to us, ſhould make us ſtrive to encreaſe his graces in us. Or, So do this very thing alſo. So the firſt particle is tranſlated, Joh. 6.57. As God hath given you great benefits, verſe 3. ſo do ye ſeek to adde grace to grace. Or, Then, or, Therefore do ye alſo this very thing. So the firſt particle is tranſlated, 1 Cor.15.13. And if the beginning of the third verſe be read by way of exclamation, it anſwers well to it.

giving] Gr. bringing in beſides. As not having done enough in avoiding luſts, unleſs ye be pious. Beſides your firſt receiving of graces mentioned, v.3, 4. uſe all good endeavours to encreaſe theſe following ones.

all diligence] The greateſt diligence that ye can poſſibly. The word comes from another word in the original, that ſignifies to make haſte, as diligent men uſe to do, who omit no occaſions to accompliſh their juſt ends.

Adde to your faith] To your confidence in Chriſt, whereby ye are juſtified before God. Gr. In your faith: But 'Εν is tranſlated To, 1 Cor. 7.15. Πίστις ſignifies; Firſt, Fidelity, Rom. 3. 3. Secondly, external profeſſion, Acts 14. 22. Thirdly, the doctrine of faith, Acts 6. 7. Fourthly, faith of miracles, Luke 17.6. Fifthly, hiſtorical faith, James 2.14. Sixthly, temporary faith, 2 Tim. 2. 18. Seventhly, juſtifying and ſaving faith, Rom. 3. 28. ſo here.

virtue] Moral virtues, which may make you acceptable in the ſight both of God and of men, Phil.4.8. 1 Pet. 3.4. Peradventure by virtue may be meant courage, which is diſtinct from temperance, and patience, after mentioned.

knowledge] Get more knowledge of Chriſt daily, Phil. 3. 8, 10.

V. 6. temperance] Power in your ſelves to moderate your affection toward outward things, as the word imports.

patience] Abiding under troubles with quietneſs, as the derivation of the word implyes.

godlineſs] Well worſhipping of God, to wit, according to his Will.

V. 7. brotherly kindneſs] Love to the Saints, Heb. 13. 1. which are our brethren in Chriſt, Matth.23.8.

charity] Whereby we are to love, not our brethren only, but others alſo, Gal.6.10. 1 Theſſ.3.12. and 5.15.

V. 8. be in you, and abound] Be plentifully in you, Col. 3. 16.

they make you, that ye ſhall neither, &c.] Ye ſhall not only not be negligent and unfruitful, but alſo be painful in good works, and ſee fruit of your faith, verſe 5.

be barren] Gr. be idle. They are idle, not only who do nothing, but alſo who uſe not the gifts they have to their beſt improvement and advantage.

unfruitful] As fruits are pleaſing to us, ſo are good works to God; and are therefore called fruits, Matth.12.33. Gal. 5. 22. 2 Theſ. 1. 4. Col.3.20. Heb.13.16.

in the knowledge] In exerciſing your knowledge. That you know of Chriſt, will make you fruitful in good works.

of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt] See on verſe 2.

V. 9. Is blind, and cannot ſee far off] Or, is blind, or cannot ſee far off. If he be not ſtark blind in theſe ſpiritual things, he is ſo weak ſighted that he cannot clearly diſcern ſuch high myſteries. The Greek word Μυωπάζων ſignifies properly one purblind. Such can ſee things neer at hand, but not far off. Here it is transferred to the ſoul; he ſees earthly things nigh at hand, and not heavenly things, which are more remote.

that he was purged from his old ſins] That he made a profeſſion in baptiſm, that his former ſins were purged away by the bloud of Chriſt. 'Αμαρτία ſignifies, Firſt, ſin in general, Heb. 4.15. Secondly, a ſacrifice for ſin, 2 Cor.5.21. Thirdly, original ſin, Rom. 7.17. Fourthly, actual ſin, James 1.15. Fifthly, the puniſhment due to ſin, 1 Pet.2.24. Sixthly, both guilt and puniſhment, Matth. 9. 2. Seventhly, falſe doctrine, John 8.46. Eighthly, Infidelity, John 16.9. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe, for ſinful courſes in general, Not that he was ſo really purged, but by profeſſion only.

V. 10. Wherefore the rather] Becauſe of the dangers mentioned, ver. 9. Or, Wherefore the more. Be the more careful to do it.

brethren] By regeneration and adoption, and union with Chriſt by faith, we are made the children of God, and brethren ſpiritually, Phil.4.1. 'Αδελφός ſignifies; First, a natural brother, Matth.4. 18. Secondly, a kinſman, Matth.12.46. Thirdly, a neighbour, Mat. 7.3,4. Fourthly, a Chriſtian, Mat. 12. 50. Fifthly, one of the ſame religion, Acts 22.5. Here it is uſed in the fourth ſenſe for fellow-Chriſtians.

give diligence] See on verſe 5.

to make your calling and election ſure] Gr. firm, or ſtable. To get good grounds to aſſure you that ye were elected before the world, and are called out of the world. For it is ſure enough in it ſelf, by Gods decree and immutability, 2 Tim.2.19. Mal. 3. 6. John 6. 40. and 13.1. Rom.11.29.

for if ye do theſe things] Continuance then in well doing, is the way to get and keep aſſurance of ſalvation.

ye ſhall never fall] Jude verſe 4. Our life is likened to a race, 1 Cor.9.24. we muſt take heed leſt we fall, and come ſhort of the prize ſet before us. The children of God may fall into ſome ſins by weakneſs; but never ſo as to loſe the goal, verſe 11. Pſalm 15.1,5. Rom. 11.11. Or, ye ſhall never ſtumble. While ye are careful ſo to do, as before, ye ſhall go on ſmoothly towards heaven, without falling into any ſin. For Gods ſervants ſin, moſt commonly for want of heeding their way, 1 John 2.10.

V. 11. an entrance] A large paſſage into the Kingdom of glory in the life to come.

abundantly] John 10.10. If ye be full of good works, ye ſhall have abundant reward, 1 Cor.9.9. and 15.58. 2 John verſe 8.

V. 12. Wherefore I will not be negligent] Becauſe an holy life here, gives an aſſurance of ſo great glory hereafter, I will not ceaſe to mind you of it.

of theſe things] To encreaſe your former graces, v.5.

though ye know them] Rom.15. 15. 1 John 2. 21. For we oft forget, through multitude of worldly buſineſſes, what we know of holy and heavenly things.

in the preſent truth] Now more fully taught, than under the Old Teſtament, and generally beleeved by Chriſtians. 'Αλήθεια ſignifies; Firſt, verity, or truth in ſpeech, Eph.4.25. Secondly, ſincerity of affection, 2 Epiſtle of John 1. Thirdly, integrity of eſtate, John 8. 44. Fourthly, righteouſneſs, 1 Cor. 13. 6. Fifthly, the doctrine of ſalvation, 1 Tim.3.15. Sixthly, the knowledge of God, Rom.1.18. Seventhly, the fulfilling of Legal ceremonies, John 1. 17. Eighthly, Gods conſtancy in keeping his promiſes, Rom. 3. 7. Here it is taken in the fifth ſenſe for the doctrine of ſalvation.

V. 13. I think it meet] In regard of their natural ſluggiſhneſs. Or, I think it a juſt thing. For he was an Apoſtle, and it was his duty to do it, 1 Cor.9.16.

in this tabernacle] Our bodies are like tents ſet up for our ſouls to converſe in for a time, and eaſily pulled down, 2 Cor.5.1.

to ſtir you up] For we are very drowzy in ſpiritual things, at the beſt, and had need to be rouzed up, 2 Tim.1.6. ch.4.1. there.

V. 14. Knowing] Very probably, by divine revelation, as it is likely Paul did alſo, 2 Tim.4.6.

that ſhortly I muſt put off] It ſeems he was old then, when he wrote this Epiſtle: for old-age was promiſed to him, John 21. 18.

as our Lord Jeſus Chriſt hath ſhewed me] As is from God now revealed to me: or, in that manner as he ſometimes foretold me, Joh. 21.18,19.

V. 15. after my deceaſe] Gr. going out, To wit, out of this world by death; as Luke 9.31. Or, out of this Tabernacle, v. 13, 14.

to have theſe things always in remembrance] Or, to have whereby ye may always remember theſe things. As I will always call upon you, while I live, (as verſe 12, 13.) ſo I will leave you this Epiſtle, as upon record, that may ever put you in mind of theſe things, when I am dead.

V. 16. For we have not followed] Becauſe I have taught Gods truth, therefore I would have it remembred after my death: whereas if I had delivered fables, growing now towards my death, I ſhould rather repent of it, and be willing to have them forgotten, and buried with me.

cunningly deviſed fables] Woven together ſo artificially, that they might ſeem to be true, although indeed they be moſt falſe. Store of ſuch had the Jews, and Heathen Poets in thoſe days, and the Mahometans and Papiſts have in theſe times.

power and coming] Powerful coming in the fleſh, which our Saviour Chriſt ſhewed in effectuall perſwading many to beleeve what he taught, and confirming it by miracles, Matth.7. 28, 29. and 8. 7, 8. Luke 24.19,32. Rom 1.4.

eye-witneſſes] Mat.17.1,2. John 1.14. 1 John 1. 1. Luke 1.2.

of his Majeſty] Heb. 1. 3. Of his glorious appearance, Mat. 17.2.

V. 17. From God] Θεὸς ſignifies; Firſt, Eſſentially, the true God, John 4. 24. Secondly, Perſonally, God the Father, John 3. 16. The Son, Acts 20. 28. The Spirit, Acts 5. 3,4. Thirdly, Rulers and Magiſtrates, or men of eminency, John 10.34,35. Fourthly, Idols, 1 Cor. 8.4,5. Fifthly, the Devil, 2 Cor.4.4. Sixthly, any thing ſet up as God, to be adored, or followed above all, Phil. 3. 19. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe, and for God the Father. The Father, Πατὴρ, whence comes the Latine word Pater, and our Engliſh word Father. It ſignifies; Firſt, a natural Father, Epheſ. 6. 4. Secondly, a father by age, 1 Tim. 5.1. Thirdly, God is called our Father, Mat.6. 9. Fourthly, God the Father is ſo called, Mat. 28. 19. Fifthly, ſuch as convert others, are called Fathers, 1 Cor. 4. 15. Here it is taken in the fourth ſenſe for the firſt Perſon in the Trinity.

honour and glory] Heb.2.7,9. God attired him like his Son, and owned him for his Son, Mat. 17.2,5.

from the excellent glory] Exceeding great glory, ſuch as became (God) the ſpeaker, as the Greek word imports.

This is my beloved Son] Mat.17.5. and 3.17.

V. 18. we heard] I Peter, and James, and John, Mat.17.1. Or the ſingular for the plural: we, that is, I: ſee 1 John 1. 1,3,4. Ἀκούω ſignifies; Firſt, to hear, Mat.2.18. Secondly, to obey, John 8. 47. Thirdly, to underſtand, Mat.11.15. Fourthly, to hear profitably, James 1.19. here in the firſt ſenſe.

when we were with him] Not far off from him; for then we might have been more eaſily deceived; but in his company.

in the holy mount] The mount whereon he was transfigured; which what mount it was, is uncertain. It is called holy, becauſe God appeared there; as the ground where God appeared to Moſes is called holy, Exod.3.5. Some take it to be Mount Tabor.

V. 19. We have alſo] Leſt any ſhould not beleeve Peter, but think the former apparition mentioned by him to be a fiction of his, he cites the Prophets, as acknowledgers of Chriſts glory, and the foretellers of his coming, 1 Pet. 1.10,11.

a more ſure word] That is, a moſt ſure, or a very ſure word. A comparative, for a ſuperlative; as Acts 25.10. 1 Cor. 13. 13. for the former viſion being from God alſo, as the prophecies were, was in it ſelf as ſure as they. Or, more ſure than thoſe cunning fables, which many follow, verſe 16. Or, more firm, as it is in the Greek. The prophecies were, by long uſe, more ſetled in the hearts of the godly Jews, who beleeved all the Prophets ſpake, to come from God, John 5.45. and 9.29. Luke 24.27. Acts 26.22,23. and therefore might ſooner perſwade them, than the report of a voyce from heaven, although that were ſure alſo. Pauls doctrine was examined by the Prophets, Acts 17. 11. And to the Jews the Apoſtle wit this Epiſtle. See on chap.3.1. The word Λόγος ſignifies; Firſt, Chriſt himſelf, Joh.1.1. Secondly, Doctrine, or Preaching, Acts 20. 7 Thirdly, a ſentence, 1 Cor.14.19. Fourthly, a command, 2 Pet. 3. 5. Fifthly, a thing, Luke 20. 3. Sixthly, a word, Mat. 15.23. Seventhly, an account or reaſon, Luke 16.2. Eighthly, a reproachful ſpeech, Luke 12.10. Ninthly, a book or treatiſe, Acts 1. 1. Tenthly, utterance, Eph.6.19. here it is taken in the third ſenſe for a ſentence.

of prophecy] Pſalm 2.7. and 110.1.

That ye take heed] The word Προσέχω ſignifies; Firſt, to take heed to a thing that is good, or attend to it, Acts 8.6. Secondly, to take heed of a thing that is evil, Mat.7.15. that is, to beware of it, here in the firſt ſenſe.

As unto a light] From the Greek word λύχνος comes our Engliſh Lynck.

In a dark place] In your underſtanding, or in the Church, till the Scriptures of the New Teſtament be written, which expound the Old, and give greater light.

until the day dawn] The times of the Law were like the night, wherein candles were lighted; the time of the Goſpel like daylight, wherein the Sun ſhines. Or, by the light in a dark place, may be meant the revelation of Gods truth here; and by the day, the viſion of Chriſt in heaven. Ἡμέρα ſignifies; Firſt, an artificial day, John 11.9. Secondly, time in general, Mat.3.1. Thirdly, the time of grace under the Goſpel, Rom.13.12. Fourthly, judgment, 1 Cor.4.3. Fifthly, a ſeaſon or opportunity, John 9. 4. here it is uſed in the third ſenſe.

the day-ſtar] Chriſt, Rev.2.28. and 22.16. Till Legal ceremonies be quite gone, and Chriſt more fully revealed to you. He rather uſeth the ſimilitude of the day-ſtar, than of the Sun, becauſe ſome darkneſs will yet remain in us under the Goſpel till the coming of Chriſt the Sun of righteouſneſs to judgement: Yet the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament muſt not be rejected under the Goſpel. Only he intimates that Gods people had no greater light than the Law and the Prophets, till the New Teſtament was written.

Ariſe in your hearts] The word καρδία ſignifies; Firſt, the underſtanding, Acts 16.14. Secondly, the will, Rom. 10.9. Thirdly, the affection, Mat. 6. 21. Fourthly, the conſcience, 1 John 3. 20. Fifthly, the memory, Luke 2.51. here in the firſt ſenſe, heart for underſtanding.

V. 20. Knowing this firſt] Before ye read the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, ye muſt take notice of this, that ye muſt not interpret them, as you and others pleaſe, but according to the mind of the holy Ghoſt, appearing in clear events in the New Teſtament, Expoſitions of the Apoſtles, and conſent among themſelves.

That no prophecy] Gr. That not every prophecy. That is, not any. An Hebraiſm. See the like, Mat.24.22.

Of the Scripture] Contained in the Scripture. Oppoſed to dreams of falſe Prophets, chap.2.1. It is meant of the Scriptures of the Old Teſtament.

of any private interpretation] Such as ariſeth out of mans own brains, and not out of the Scripture it ſelf. He condemns not one mans, or few mens interpretation of a place of Scripture, differing from others; for God may at firſt reveal a truth by one or few men, which afterwards may be embraced by many. Others read, Of any ſelf-letting out. That is, the Prophets ſpake not of their own heads, but as they were ſent by God, ſo they ſpake only what God bade them ſpeak. This agrees well with the words before, that intimate the authority of thoſe Prophecies, and with the oppoſition following, v. 21.

V. 21. For the prophecy came not] It belongeth to God, the authour of Prophecy, to give the ſenſe of it. Or rather, it had God, and not man for the Authour: ſee on v. 20.

in old time] Or, at any time.

by the will of man] They could not propheſie when they would, or what they would, 2 Kings 4.27. but when and what God would, holy men of God] Or, thoſe holy men of God: To wit, the prophets, who were holy. Such are called, Men of God, Pſalm 90.10. 1 Tim. 6.11. 2 Tim.3.17.

as they were moved] Gr. carried. Gods Spirit acquainting them with the things they knew not, directed them in the words, that they might not erre. God ſhewed them things above nature, and gave them a will to publiſh them, though ſometimes they were unwilling to do it, Jer.20.9.

CHAP. II.

Verſe 1. But there were falſe prophets alſo*] Not true only, as chap. 1.12. but ſome falſe teachers alſo.

among the people] The people of God.

falſe teachers among you] Acts 20.29,30. Jude v.4. 1 John 2.18, 19. among you Chriſtians.

who privily ſhall bring in] Gr. who ſhall bring in beſides. That is, beſides mens expectation, or, beſides the truth taught by godly teachers, and by themſelves in part alſo, to countenance their errours.

damnable hereſies] Gr. hereſies of deſtruction. Wicked opinions, that ruine mens ſouls; or, dangerous ſchiſms, that will rent the Church, and bring deſtruction on it, if it be not prevented, 1 Cor. 11.18,19.

denying] By total apoſtacy, or evil life, unbeſeeming the ſervants of Chriſt, Tit.1.16. ſee more on Jude v.4.

the Lord that bought them] That gave a price ſufficient for them, even his own precious bloud, Acts 20.28. 1 Cor.6. 20. 1 Pet. 1.18, 19. Or, by whom they profeſſed that they were redeemed: and therefore they ſhould not have denyed him.

bring upon themſelves ſwift deſtruction] They do ſo offend God by their ſins, that they cannot be long out of hell, and perhaps ſuddenly taken away by ſome great judgement.

V. 2. pernicious ways] Or, laſcivious ways, as ſome Copies read; ſee Jude verſe 4. Gr. their deſtructions: that is, their doctrines, that bring deſtruction, as v. 1.

the way of truth] The true Chriſtian religion revealed from heaven, which ſhews the way to true happineſs.

ſhall be evil ſpoken of] Rom. 2.24. 1 Tim. 6.1.

V. 3. through covetouſneſs] See verſe 15.

with feigned words] See on chap.1.16.

make merchandiſe of you] See on Rev.18.13. They ſhall by feigned words, right in ſhew, but erroneous in deed, framed to a way of piety, mildneſs, and charity, lead you by the noſe, as it were from market to market, as ſheep to be ſold, that they may get your goods, and undo your ſouls. For word, ſee on chap. 1. 19.

whoſe judgement now of a long time lingreth not] See on ver. 1. whoſe puniſhment to which they were long ſince adjudged, now approacheth to execution.

their damnation ſlumbreth not] See on Jude verſe 4.

V. 4. For if God ſpared not the angels, &c.] Look on Jude verſe 6. If God ſpared not Angels, he will not ſpare falſe prophets, nor their followers: ſee the like omiſſion, Rom. 9. 22. or it may run on to the ninth verſe.

then the Lord knoweth, &c.] For God, ſee on chap.1.17.

ſpared not] From the puniſhment due to them.

into chains of darkneſs] Into a life full of horrour like darkneſs, as malefactours kept in chains in a dungeon till execution,

V. 5. And ſpared not the old world] The world before the floud, or the ungodly men in it, as followeth in this verſe.

Noah the eighth perſon] Of them that were ſaved from the deluge: for, beſides himſelf, his wife, his ſons and their wives eſcaped, Gen. 7.13. 1 Pet.3. 20.

a preacher of righteouſneſs] A publiſher of Gods juſt purpoſe to deſtroy the old world, and a perſwader of them to repent and live righteouſly, that they might prevent ſo great a judgement, 1 Pet. 3. 19. or, a preacher of ſalvation to them, to be had by the righteouſneſs of the Meſſias to come, 1 Pet.4.6.

upon the world of ungodly] The multitude of the ungodly then in the world. So a world of wickedneſs, is ſtore of it, James 3. 6.

V. 6. the Cities of Sodom, &c.] See on Jude v.7.

into aſhes] By fire from heaven, Gen.19.24,25,29.

condemned them with an overthrow] Shewed, by deſtroying them ſo ſtrangely from heaven, that he had paſſed ſentence on them for their wickedneſs, Gen.18.20,21. and 19.28.

an enſample] For thoſe Cities remain to this day buried in the dead ſea, for terrour to others. A ſpecial example to admoniſh wicked men of their dangerous condition; ſhewing, that they muſt be puniſhed in eternal fire, if they repent not.

V. 7. And delivered] So God ſometimes is pleaſed to ſhew mercy to his, when he deſtroys others: as to Noah, v.5.

juſt Lot]Not that he had no ſin in him,but becauſe he endeavoured to keep all Gods commandements, Luke 1. 6.

vexed with the filthy converſation of the wicked] So Gods ſervants uſe to mourn for other mens ſins, who mourn not for their own; Pſa. 119. 136,158.

V. 8. in ſeeing and hearing] Lot dwelling among the wicked Sodomites, could not but daily ſee ſuch filthy actions, and hear ſuch unclean ſpeeches, as vexed him to the very heart: becauſe he loved God, whoſe Name was diſhonoured grievouſly, and law broken groſly by them. This vexed him much to ſee their Sodomitical ways, though he could not mend it. The two ſenſes of ſeeing and hearing are named, as being moſt offended with wicked words, and works. Which way ſoever he turned his eyes or ears, he ſaw or heard ſomething that did diſpleaſe him. This vexed his ſoul greatly. The ſame word is uſed to ſet out hell torments, Luke 16.23.

V. 9. the Lord knoweth] If God have done all mentioned before, v.4,&c. then it appears that he knows how to deliver good men, and puniſh bad ones, and will certainly do it.

out of temptations] Out of afflictions, which do but try Gods people, though they deſtroy others, v. 5, 6, 7. Gen. 22. 1. 1 Cor. 10. 13. Heb.4.15. James 1.2. 1 Pet.1.6. Rev.3.10.

to reſerve the unjuſt] Verſe 4. Jude v. 6.

V. 10. But cheefly them] As being the greateſt ſinners, and miſleaders of others.

that walk after the fleſh] After the motions and luſts of their own corrupt nature, Rom.8.1,4,12,13. but here more ſpecially the fleſh ſeems to imply ſuch motions and luſts as tend to uncleanneſs of life; as 1 John 2.18. ſee further on Jude, verſe 7,8,18.

deſpiſe government] Or, dominion, Jude verſe 8.

preſumptuous are they] Or, O preſumptuous perſons! By way of admiration and exclamation.

to ſpeak evil of dignities] Gr. of glories: That is,of princes,which ſhine moſt gloriouſly in the world: ſee Jude verſe 8.

V. 11. whereas Angels] See on Jude verſe 9.

railing accuſation] Gr. blaſphemous judgement.

againſt them] Some read, againſt themſelves: To wit, the good angels againſt the bad.

V. 12. But theſe, &c.] Look on, Jude verſe 10.

made to be taken] Appointed for a prey, and to deſtruction,Rom. 9.22. alluding to ſuch beaſts as are kept, not for ſight or delight, but to be hunted and deſtroyed.

in their own corruption] Which they have brought on themſelves, or which naturally befalls them for their ſinfull courſes, Galat. 6.8. Or, which God hath appointed for them: Jude verſe 4.

V. 13. to riot in the day-time] Contrary to the courſe of many ungodly men, who dare not ſhew their ſins in the light, John 3. 20. Eph. 5. 11, 12. 1 Theſ. 5. 7. and to the profeſſion of the Goſpel, Rom. 13. 13.

ſpots they are] Men grievouſly ſpotted and blemiſhed. See further on Jude verſe 12.

V. 14. Having eyes full of adultery] Gr. of an adultereſſe, Mat. 5. 28. They were not given to riot and exceſs only, but to a laſcivious and looſe courſe of uncleanneſs alſo. The eyes are mentioned, becauſe they let in adulterous thoughts to the ſoul, Gen. 34. 1,2. 2 Sam.11. 2,4. And they are ſaid to be full of the adultereſs, as if they cared not to look on any other object.

unſtable] Not well grounded, and therefore eaſie to be ſeduced, chap.3.16,17. Eph. 4.14. Heb.13.9.

with covetous practices] Verſe 3, 15. Jude verſe 11.

curſed children] Gr. children of the curſe, Epheſ. 2. 2, 3. 2 Theſ. 2. 3. Or, children worthy to be curſed: as child of death, 2 Sam. 12. 5. is in the margin read, worthy to die.

V. 15. the way of Balaam] See on Jude verſe 11.

Boſor] Called Beor, Num.22.5. and, by ſome ſmall change of the Hebrew letters, Boſor here.

who loved the wages of unrighteouſneſs] Num. 22. 7, 13, 37. for he would have curſed the Iſraelites for thoſe rewards, if God had not withheld him.

V. 16. the madneſs]His hot deſire to go againſt the will of God for gain.

of the prophet] He is called a Sooth-ſayer, Joſh. 13. 22. Num. 23. 23. Such did ſometimes, by gueſs, hit upon things to come. Or, he is called a prophet, becauſe ſometimes he had revelations from the true God, Num.23.and 24.

V. 17. without water, &c.] See on Jude verſe 12.

the miſt of darkneſs, &c.] See on Jude verſe 13. Moſt thick darkneſs. Hells darkneſs oppoſed to heavenly light. Τηρέω ſignifies; Firſt, to keep, or reſerve, or obſerve, Matth. 23. 3. Secondly, to watch ones ſpeeches, or obſerve them, not to doe them, but to catch at them, and entrap the ſpeakers, John 15. 20. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe. Αἰὼν ſignifies; Firſt, the world, Heb. 1. 2. Secondly, the men of the world, Rom.12.2. Thirdly, our time of life here in the world, Luke 20.34. Fourthly, our courſe of life here, Epheſ. 2. 2. Fifthly, eternity, Matth.6.13. ſo here.

V. 18. great ſwelling words] Look on Jude verſe 16. Or, Swelling things; Like bubbles, or things puffed up with wind, that make a great ſhew, but have no ſolidity in them.

allure] With fair promiſes, as men lay baits for fiſhes. By wantonneſs they ſeek to draw them back to idolatry, as the Midianites drew the Iſraelites, Numb.25. 6, 18.

through the luſts of the fleſh] Which they permit men to follow, under the pretence of Chriſtian liberty. For luſt, ſee on verſe 20. The Greek word Σάρξ, ſignifies; Firſt, fleſh of a body, 1 Cor. 15. 39. Secondly, the whole body of man, fleſh and bones, 1 Pet. 3. 18. Thirdly, humane nature, Rom.9.5. Fourthly, the perſon of man, Mat. 24. 22. Fifthly, kindred, Rom. 11. 14. Sixthly, corrupt man, John 3. 6. Seventhly, corrupt nature, Rom.8.1. Eighthly, corrupt reaſon, 2 Cor. 1. 17. Ninthly, the ſtrength of humane wit, and reaſon, Matth. 16. 17. Tenthly, a corrupt ſoul, Rom. 7. 18. Eleventhly, humane infirmity, Heb. 5. 7. Here it is taken in the ſeventh ſenſe for corrupt nature.

thoſe that were clean eſcaped] Gr. indeed eſcaped. They ſought to ſeduce true Chriſtians, but could not, Matth. 24. 24. Or, a little eſcaped. Such as profeſſed the true religion, having left idolatry, and lived without ſcandal. Or, a while eſcaped. Seemed to have done ſo, by embracing the true religion for a time; but ſoon after ſhewed they had not done it, by returning to courſes contrary thereunto, 1 John 2. 18, 19.

V. 19. they promiſe them liberty] Under pretence of liberty, they draw them to licentiouſneſs and looſeneſs of life, 1 Pet. 2. 16. Jude verſe 4. They teach them, that they may lawfully uſe fleſhly delights, and ſo deceive them by things, to which they are prone naturally.

the ſervants of corruption] Chap. 1. 4. Rom. 6. 18, 19. The baſeſt ſlaves in the world, ſerving corruption themſelves, as ſervants do their maſters: or, being inſtruments and workmen for Satan to draw men to corruption; this laſt agrees well with the beginning of the verſe, Promiſe of liberty to others.

is be brought in bondage] For priſoners were ever the conquerours of ſlaves. So are theſe by ſinne made ſlaves of corruption.

V. 20. after they have eſcaped] Gr. fled from: as verſe 18. chap. 1.4.

the pollutions of the world] Such ſinful courſes, as worldly men are wont to defile themſelves withal, James 1. 27. Luſts of the fleſh, or idolatry.

knowledge] Gr. acknowledgement. Not knowing him only, but profeſſing him alſo: ſee John 12. 42. By receiving the Goſpel, and profeſſing it, which forbids ſuch things.

and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt] See on chap.1.1.

Again entangled] A relapſe is dangerous, as in the bodily diſeaſes, ſo in falling back to ſinful courſes.

and overcome] By a cuſtome of ſinning.

the latter end is worſe with them than the beginning] Matth. 12. 45. becauſe they ſin out of knowledge now, and againſt former acknowledgment, who ſinned out of ignorance before, Luke 12.47,48. James 4.17. Their end is worſe then by reaſon of the aggravations mentioned in the beginning of the verſe. So it follows verſ. 21.It had been better, &c.

V. 21. it had been better for them] That is, leſs evil. They had ſinned leſs, and ſhould have been puniſhed leſs. For neither the ſtate of ignorant ones or backſliders is good; but the former is leſs dangerous than the latter.

Not to have known] Becauſe their ingratitude for the received favour from God in calling them to Chriſtianity, manifeſted by their backſliding, aggravates their ſin, and will encreaſe their judgement.

the way of righteouſneſs] Verſ.2,15. The true Chriſtian Religion, by which righteouſneſs is gotten; They had better to have been heathen ſtill.

from the holy commandment] Chap.3.2. Given by an holy God, and acquiring holineſs in us.

V. 22. proverb] See on Prov.1.1.

The dog is turned,&c.]Prov.26.11. They are as abominable in Gods ſight, as ſuch creatures here mentioned are offenſive to mans ſight. The words ſeem to have been the verſes of ſome ancient Poet, that were grown uſual in common ſpeech in thoſe times. The Hebrew חזיר a ſwine may come from חזר to return; It may intimate this ſwiniſh quality of returning to wallowing in the mire.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. U*Nto you*] Scattered ſtrangers, 1 Pet.1.1. For it is a ſecond epiſtle to the ſame perſons. In both which] He would not have them forget his former epiſtle.

your pure minds] Or, your ſincere minds, as Phil.1.10. That appear right, being judged by the light of the ſun, as men try cloth, and Eagles their young ones.

by way of remembrance] Chap.1.12,13,14,15.

V. 2. That ye may be mindful] Chap.1.12,&c. Phil.3.1.

holy prophets] Chap.1.21.

the Apoſtles] Jude ver.17. Not our commandments, as we are men, but as we are the Apoſtles of Jeſus Chriſt. And thoſe are Chriſts commands given by us.

V. 3. Knowing this firſt] Taking notice of this principally, that many will endeavour to draw you from that commandment, v. 2. Cha. 2.21.

that there ſhall come] Of themſelves; not ſent by God.

in the laſt days] That is, in the latter or following days; as the word is uſed, Gen.49.1. Deut.4.30. & Dan. 2, 28. where in the laſt days, is expounded hereafter, v. 29. So are the times of the Goſpel called by the Prophets, Iſai.2.2. Mic.4.1. Peter meaneth, the times then beginning, and likely to hold on to the end of the world, in greater or leſſer meaſure: for he warns thoſe that then lived, as well as others in after-ages, to take heed of ſuch ſcoffers: and ſuch then began to ariſe in the Church, Acts 20. 29, 30. 1 John 2. 18. Some underſtand this of the times of Antichriſt.

ſcoffers] Jude verſe 18. Not diſputing ſtoutly againſt it, but ſcoffing at it.

walking after their own luſts] Chap.2.10. Jude ver. 18. After ſuch deſires as they had by nature, not according to grace, Rom. 8. 1. After the luſts of the fleſh, and the world are they led, and not after godly deſires put into mens hearts by Gods Spirit. They ſcoff at Religion, and magnifie their own deſires.

V. 4. Where is the promiſe] It is vaniſhed; it no where appeares; there is no ſuch thing; it will never come to paſs, Jer. 5. 12, 13. We ſee not any ſign of the accompliſhment of Chriſts coming promiſed.

of his coming] To judgement, which yo preſs ſo much, to keep men in awe.

the fathers] The firſt men known, from whom the reſt proceeded; and ſuch Patriarchs and Prophets as foretold, believed and expected this coming of Chriſt, Jude ver.14.

fell aſleep] Died, Joh 11. 11, 13, 14. Acts 7. 60. 1 Cor. 11. 30. 1 Theſſ. 4. 15. Ye talk of a reſurrection; why are they in their graves ſtill?

all things continue,&c.] And ſo it is likely they will continue ſtill, and the world will have no end. And that without any ſuch change, as is foretold to be at the end of the world.

From the beginning of the creation,]Or, yea even from the beginning, &c. Not onely ſince the Patriarks death, but from the creation it ſelf. This was ſpoken by way of deriſion: Elſe might they eaſily have thought, that things that had a beginning, would have an end.

V. 5. For this they willingly are ignorant of] They might have been informed, but will not: for they obſerve not the things written in Scripture of the end of the world, and day of judgement; elſe they would not be ignorant of theſe things. Or, they wilfully neglect to conſider, that the earth was made by Gods power onely, and the heavens alſo; and that the world ſuffered much alteration in the flood, and ſo may be deſtroyed in the end. Or, For they that think thus, are ignorant, that by the word of God, &c.

ſtanding out of the water, and in the water] Or, conſiſting, or, ſubſiſting. Gr. ſtanding together; ſo as it was not rent in pieces by the water. By Gods power the earth was upheld after it came out of the waters, as well as before, Gen.1.2,9. Or, ſtanding out of the water, and by the water. For God hath made the earth ſo high, that the ſea cannot overflow it, though it girt it about, Pſalm 24.2.

V. 6. the world that then was] The face of the earth, as then it appeared, and all the living creatures upon it;

V. 7. which are now] Which we ſee remaining at this time.

by the ſame word] Or, by his word, as ſome copies read it; that is, by Gods word, v. 4. Heb.1.3.

reſerved, &c.] Chap.2.5,17. Jude v. 6.

V. 8. be not ignorant] Know it, and beleeve it firmly, Rom.11.25. 1 Cor.10.1. 1 Theſſ.4.13.

one day is with the Lord as a thouſand years] God doth not meaſure time, as we do: but unto him, in regard of his eternity and omniſcience, comprehending all things paſt, preſent and future; thoſe periods of time, that ſeem ſo long unto us, are but as a moment, Pſal. 90. 4.

V. 9. The Lord is not ſlack concerning his promiſe] Or, The Lord of the promiſe is not ſlack. He that made it, will perform it in due time. They are not ſlack, that are long ere they come; but they that come not at their due and appointed time. God puts not off his coming one hour beyond the ſet time, Heb. 10.37.

is long-ſuffering to us-ward] Who are beloved, v.8. and not in the number of thoſe ſcoffers, v. 3. or, towards mankinde, of which number we alſo are.

not willing that any ſhould periſh] Any of his elect. He ſtayes till they all be brought in by repentance, and faith in Chriſt. Not any at all, by his directing and approving will, Ezek.33.11.

but that all ſhould come to repentance] All his elect, as before. Or, ſome of all ſorts of men; high and low, wiſe and fooliſh, Jews and Gentiles. So the word all is uſed, Matth. 4.23. Or, he ſpeaks of Gods approving will, whereby he likes of repentance in any.

V. 10. But the day of the Lord] Every day is the Lords, to diſpoſe of as he pleaſeth: But the day of judgement is called his, in a peculiar manner, 1 Cor.5.5. 2 Cor.1.14. becauſe Chriſt the Lord will then viſibly judge all the world, Acts 17.31. Rom.2.16.

will come as a thief in the night] Matth.24.43,44. Luke 12.39,40. 1 Theſſ.5.2. Rev.16.15. As a thief comes ſuddenly and unexpectedly, ſo will Chriſt come to judgement. No man can conjecture when that day will be, Matth.24.36.

the heavens ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe] Like as a whirlwind or tempeſt comes roaring, and carries all before it: ſo ſhall the ſtarrie skie paſs away, Matth. 24. 29. Not by being deſtroyed utterly, but being turned into a new form, verſ. 13. Pſal. 102.26. Rom. 8. 21.

and the elements] The air and water betwixt the heaven and earth.

the earth alſo] Either the earth is not included under the word elements before; or it is particularly named, becauſe in it the burning will moſt viſibly appear.

and the works that are therein] The works of God made at firſt by creation, or produced daily by nature; or the works of men, made by art, as houſes, ſhips, &c.

V. 11. Seeing then that all theſe things, &c.] If heaven and earth muſt be ſo wonderfully purged, to make a fit dwelling for us, ver.13. how holy had we need to be? Or, ſeeing ſuch a fearful appearance of judgement ſhall then be. Shall be diſſolved.] In ſo ſtrange away, verſ. 10.

What manner of perſons ought ye to be] That is, how great a degree of godlineſs ſhould we labour to attain? So the word is uſed, Matth. 8.27. Mark 13.1. Luk.1.29. & 7.39. 1 Joh.3.1.

in all holy converſation, and godlineſs] Gr. converſations, and godlineſſes: That is, in all manner of good duties towards man, and God, Acts 24.16. That ſo piety may be perfect in all the parts of it.

V. 12. Haſting unto the coming] Or, Haſtening the coming. Not onely expecting it, or looking for it, as Luke 12.43. Matth. 24. 42. but alſo, as it were, going forth to meet Chriſt with burning lamps, Matt. 25.1. So ſervants that deſire their maſters return, get all things ready to entertain him, againſt he comes. And ſo ſhould we prepare our ſelves for Chriſts coming, by fitting our ſelves for it, more than ſeeking after worldly things. He haſtes, that followeth one thing to finiſh it, and is not ſo diſtracted as to begin many things, and end none. The one thing needful for us, Luke 10.42. is to fit our ſelves for Chriſts coming.

of the day of God] Or, of that day of God, mentioned, verſ. 10. That is, the day of Chriſt, when he ſhall come to judge the world, or of God the Father, who ſhall judge the world by him. Act.17.31.

wherein the heavens,&c.] See on verſ. 10. Or, By which coming; For Ἣν may as well agree with Παρȣσία, as with Ἡμέρα.

V. 13. Nevertheleſs] We muſt not be diſcouraged, becauſe theſe heavens and this earth paſs away; for we look for new and better ones.

according to his promiſe] Iſai. 65.17. & 66.22.

look for new heavens] Not others for ſubſtance, but renewed in qualities. See on verſ. 10.

and a new earth] An earth ſhining with new brightneſs and glory, being ſomewhat proportionable to the Saints, to delight their eyes and minds, Rom. 8. 21.

wherein] In which heavens: or, in both which, heaven and earth.

dwelleth righteouſneſs] That is, righteous men onely; whereas in this world dwell many ſinners, which then ſhall be all in hell. So righteouſneſs is taken, Iſai.1.21. Or, the whole verſe may be thus read ; Nevertheleſs we, in whom dwelleth righteouſneſs, look for new heavens, and a new earth, according to his promiſe. That is, we that are juſtified by faith in Chriſt, and ſanctified by his Spirit, expect eternal happineſs in another world, when this world ſhall be at an end. Dwelleth, ſhall dwell. It is as ſure as if they did now dwell there ; So Prophets uſe to ſpeak of things two me, as preſent to ſhew the certainty of their predictions.

V. 14. in peace] Reconciled to God by Chriſt, Coloſſ.1.20. Rom. 5.1. Or, in peace of minde and conſcience, not troubled nor affrighted. That we being juſtified may look for his coming with a peaceable, and quiet mind. Or, That when he comes, we may find him peaceable to us.

without ſpot and blameleſs] Eph.5.27. Jude v.24. Col.1.22.

V. 15. account that the long-ſuffering of the Lord is ſalvation] Think not that God doth put off his coming, out of ſlackneſs, as ſome ſuppoſe, v. 9. nor to do hurt to men ; but for the good of his, and to further their ſalvation. Gods patience furthers our ſalvation much, by affording time of repentance, and of the uſe of the means, Rom. 2.4. By long-ſuffering here may be meant deferring the happineſs of his people. Or, ſuffering ſo great wickedneſs ſo long in the world ; By ſalvation may be underſtood furthering the ſalvation of Gods people, that the more they ſuffer for God here, the greater glory they may have in heaven. Or, Giving ſpace or time to all Gods elect to be converted, before the world be done.

our beloved brother Paul] Our brother in office, and dear fellow-Apoſtle.

according to the wiſdom given unto him] From above, whereby he was fitted to be an apoſtle, Gal.1.11,12.

hath written unto you] Such as take it to be written to the Chriſtian Gentiles dwelling in thoſe places mentioned, 1 Pet. 1. 1. (for both epiſtles were written to the ſame perſons, as verſ.1. of this Chapter) conceive the epiſtle here mentioned to be that to the Romanes, becauſe, Rom. 2. 4, 5. is to this purpoſe. Others, who think Peter wrote now to the Jews (as James did, Jam.1.1.) becauſe he calls them ſcattered ſtrangers ; and the Chriſtians that dwelt in the places mentioned, 1 Pet. 1. 1. were natural inhabitants there ; think he means the epiſtle to the Hebrews, or to the Galatians there named, or to the Epheſians, or Coloſſians, which were in Aſia, there mentioned.

V. 16. In all his epiſtles] In all his other epiſtles, Mat.16.14.

of theſe things] Of the end of the world, the day of judgement, and the right uſe of Gods patience.

in which] In which epiſtles. Or, among which things, as the Greek copies run. Among the things ſpoken by him of this ſubject.

are ſome things] Some things of this matter, not all things ſpoken of it, much leſs all other Scriptures, are difficult. Things needful to ſalvation are plain, elſe how ſhould plain men find the way to heaven ?

hard to be underſtood] Becauſe of the height of the matter, and of ſome particular expreſſions.

which they that are unlearned and unſtable] The Scriptures then are not dangerous for private men to uſe, if by often reading them they get knowledge, and bring ſetled minds with them. The cauſe of hurt by them, is not in the difficulty of them, but in mens unlearned and unſtable minds, who live in ignorance, v. 5. and have no affection to do what they learn out of them, John 7.17. Pſal.25.14. And are very changeable in their outward profeſſion, ſometimes profeſſing one Religion, ſometimes another.

wreſt] By miſ-interpreting, and drawing them violently from the true ſenſe to a falſe one, to uphold their errours. They make a noſe of wax of the Scriptures, turn and wind them to further their evil opinions.

as they do alſo the other Scriptures] Written by the other Apoſtles or Prophets. They ſerve them all alike : whereby it appears, that the fault is not in the Scripture, but in themſelves.

unto their own deſtruction] Clean contrary to the end for which they were written, which is ſalvation, John 20.31.

V. 17. Seeing ye know theſe things before] Out of the doctrine of the other Apoſtles, and by my putting you in minde of them in this epiſtle, verſ.1,2. and therefore being ſo forewarned of them, ought the better to be forearmed againſt them.

beware] He doth not ſay, Read no Scripture, becauſe ſome places are hard ; or, Beleeve the Churches interpretation. He rather warns them to take heed of ſeducers, and ſuch as miſ-interpreted the Scriptures ; and expects they ſhould read them diligently, that they might grow in knowledge, verſ. 18. In vain had he written this epiſtle to private men, for a memorial when he ſhould be dead, Chap.1. 15 and called upon them to be mindful of the doctrine of the Prophets and Apoſtles, who were dead, verſ. 2. and Jude alſo in his epiſtle, if they ought not to read the Scriptures. The Iſraelites, who had far leſs knowledge than Chriſtians have now, are blamed for not doing it, Hoſ. 8.12. and the Jews exhorted to do it, Joh.5.39. φυλάσσω ſignifies, 1. To watch by night, Luk.2.8. 2. To keep a commandment, Matth.19.20. 3. To keep a perſon, or defend him, Joh.17.12. 4. To take heed of a thing, that is evil, 1 John 5.21. So here.

ye alſo being led away] Gr. ye being led away with others.

with the errour of the wicked] Chap.2.1,2,18. Or, with that particular errour of not beleeving Chriſts coming, v. 3, 4. Wicked men here are called, Ἄθεσμοι, Lawleſs perſons : Men that will be kept in order by no Laws, but break thorough all rights ; They think any thing to be lawful for them, and ſubject the Scriptures to their will.

fall from your own ſtedfaſtneſs] And ſo become unſtable, as thoſe perverters of Scripture, v. 16. and ſo be unſetled.

V. 18. grow in grace] Get more ſenſe of Gods favour daily. Or, ſeek to encreaſe the graces of his Spirit in you, Chap. 1. 5, 8, 10. Χάρις, ſignifies, 1. Grace, or favour, Tit. 2. 11. 2. A gift, or alms, 2 Cor.8.4.19. 3. Thankſgiving, 1 Cor.15.57. 4. Pleaſure with profit, Eph. 4.29. 5. Holineſs, and other graces of Gods Spirit, John 1.16. So it may be taken here.

and in the knowledge] How can they do that, without reading the Scriptures ? Ignorance then is not the mother of devotion, in Peters own language, whom the Papiſts boaſt of, more than the Jews did of Moſes, by whoſe teſtimony our Saviour confutes them, John 5. 45.

of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt] Chap. 2.1. Jude verſe 25. Rev. 1. 1.

To him be glory] Jude verſe 25. The Greek word, Δόξα, ſignifies, 1. Majeſty, Matth. 6. 29. 2. Light, or brightneſs, Luk. 9. 31. 3. Praiſe, John 9. 24. Heavenly happineſs, John 17. 22. 5. The Ark, Rom.9.4. Here it may be taken in the firſt, or third ſenſe for majeſty, or praiſe.

both now and for ever] Gr. both now, and to the day of eternity ; That is, to eternity, without end ; as Matth.6.13. For Day ſee on Chap. 1. 19. For Eternity on Chap. 2. 17.

Amen] See on Matth. 6.13. Jude verſe 25. Revel. 22. 21. Ἀμὴν, intimates 1. Affirming a thing to be true, 2 Cor.1.20. 2. Aſſent to the truth of things ſpoken, 1 Cor. 14. 16. 3. Wiſhing a thing may be ſo, Matth.6.13. So here.

ANNOTATIONS ON THE FIRST EPISTLE OF S. JOHN.

The ARGUMENT.

THE beloved Apoſtle John living longer than the reſt of the Apoſtles, and obſerving the decay of Truth, Godlineſs, and Charity, in many Chriſtians, writes this Epiſtle as a ſalve for the ſores of the Church. He enterweaves Truth of Doctrine with Godlineſs of life, and love of the Brethren throughout the Epiſtle. Fit ſubjects for him to write of, who was an Apoſtle, and eminent for Piety, and chiefly beloved by Chriſt himſelf; Great reaſon therefore, that all Chriſtians ſhould hearken to him in all theſe things.

This firſt Epiſtle is called general, becauſe it is not directed to any particular perſon, as the ſecond and third are: The one to a ſingular woman, the elect Lady; The other to a choice man, called Gaius. God grant that by reading of it, we may get Grace to increaſe in Faith, Piety, and Charity. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. THat which was from the beginning] From the beginning of the world. An alluſion to Gen. 1.1. Joh.1.1. Prov.8.22. Chriſt is hereby intended, who is the true God, Chap. 5. 20. and was before the beginning of the world. But the Scripture ſpeaking of him which is from eternity, uſeth this phraſe, from the beginning, to deſcend to our capacity, who are not able to comprehend any thing before the beginning of the world, Matth. 25. 34. John begins his Epiſtle, as he did his Goſpel. He begins both from the beginning, declares the excellency of the matter, and falls flat upon it without any digreſſions. This ſhews the ſame Penman of both. He ſends us back to his Goſpel, that they who read of charity here, may not think Faith needleſſe which is preſſed there: and adds this Epiſtle, that they who ſee Faith preſſed there, may not think Charity needleſſe which is urged here. He ſaith not, He which was from the beginning, but That which was from the beginning, that he might ſet out a double nature in Chriſt, one Divine, inviſible from the beginning; another Humane in time, ſeen, felt, &c. The Greek word Ἀρχὴ ſignifies, 1. A beginning in time. And that 1. The beginning of the World or preſently after, John 8. 44. 2. The time of delivering the Law in mount Sinai, 1 John 2.7. 3. The beginning of preaching the Goſpel. Luk.1.2. 2. Beginning in honour, And therein, 1. Rule, or Magiſtracy: 1 Cor. 15. 14. 2. The Magiſtrate. Luk.12.11. Here, it is taken for the beginning of the world.

which we] We apoſtles, choſen witneſſes to publiſh theſe things, Acts 1.8. & 10.41.

have heard] The truth of theſe things was confirmed to them by three ſenſes; hearing, ſeeing, handling; the latter ſtill ſurer than the former. He doth not ſay, Which we have read, to wit, in the Prophets: neither doth mean, what they had heard of the Phariſees, expounding the Prophets: But from John the Baptiſt, John 1. 36, 37, 40. from Chriſt himſelf, in his Sermons, as the Samaritanes did, John 4. 42. For, as he was true God, ſo was he true Man alſo; and, in his humane nature, teſtified of his divine. Yea, they heard God the Father from heaven teſtifie of him alſo, Matth.17.5. 2 Pet.1.17,18. They do not mean what they heard of Chriſt by rumour from others, but what they heard from himſelf, and from God the Father concerning him.

which we have ſeen] We ſaw him in his humane nature, and ſaw his miracles, Luke 1.2. 2 Pet. 1. 16. Eye-witneſſes are more worthy of credit than ear-witneſſes, Act.4.20. Joh.3.11. & 15.27. Act.1.21,22. 10.40,41. This proves Chriſt to be true man, as his being from the beginning ſets out his Deity. They had ſeen his fleſh, John 1.14. His works, and miracles, Joh. 2. 11. John the writer of this Epiſtle ſaw more of theſe, with Peter and James than the other diſciples. As his raiſing Jairus daughter, Mark 9. 37. his transfiguration, Matth. 17.1. His agony in the garden, Matth.26.37.

with our eyes] So men uſe to ſpeak of things moſt certain, yet not ſo well known to their hearers, Job 19. 27. And ſo of the ears, Pſal. 44. 1. Some reſtrain it to the viſion in the mount, where they ſaw Chriſts glory: but it may be underſtood of all viſible declarations of the truth of Chriſts humane nature to them, by his eating, drinking, &c. and of his divine, by working miracles in their ſight, Joh. 1. 14. 1 Tim.3.16.

which we have looked upon] Wiſtly and deliberately: for we ſee many things we do not regard, nor faſten our eyes on them. We looked upon him, as men look on rare ſights in a theatre, diligently, clearly, cheerfully, 1 Cor.4.9. 1 Pet.1.12. And as men look upon things ſet forth to be ſeen.

our hands] Touching is the ſureſt ſenſe: for eyes and ears may ſooner be deceived, in bodily ſubſtances, than hands, Luke 24. 39. John 20. 25. Handling with hands is added to ſhew the certainty of it, as ſeeing with eyes before. The Greek word, χεὶρ, ſignifies, 1. An hand, Act.28.3. 2. Bleſſing, Luk. 1. 66. 3. Power, Luke 1. 74. 4. Vengeance, Act.13.11. 5. A wicked affection put forth by the hand, Matth. 5. 30. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

have handled] Gr. touched. As muſicians touch their ſtringed inſtruments. They touched him both before his reſurrection, Matt.14. 31. and after it, Joh.20.27.

of the word] Of Chriſts humane nature, who is alſo the word of God, Joh. 1. 1. as being begotten of the Father, as the word is by the minde; and making the Fathers minde known to us, as our words make our meaning manifeſt to others. As alſo becauſe he was promiſed in the word from the beginning.

of life] Who is a living word himſelf, and gives both natural and ſpiritual life to others, John 1.4.& 5.26. Chap.5.11. As Chriſt hath life in himſelf (as in the places quoted) ſo he gives life to others; 1. Natural, as God. 2. Spiritual, Gal. 2. 20. 3. Eternal. Col. 3. 3, 4.

V. 2. For the life] See on v. 1.

was manifeſted] Before, it lay hid in it ſelf; now it was manifeſted by incarnation, John 1.14. 1 Tim.3. 16. and by miracles, which none elſe did, Joh.3.2. & 7.31,46. & 11.47. & 12. 37. & 15. 24. Well might we look upon him, for he was therefore manifeſted.

we have ſeen it] This is repeated, for more aſſurance, that none need doubt of it. v. 1, 6. We Apoſtles ſaw it more cleerly than others.

and bear witneſs] For the glory of Chriſt. See on v. 1. We declare him to the Church, Act. 1. 8. & 20. 21. We not onely teſtifie the truth of it, but alſo highly applaud and commend it.

and ſhew unto you] For your good. Ye could never have found it out your ſelves, if God had not revealed it to us, and we taught it you, Rom. 10.14.

which was with the Father] John. 1.1,2. The word imports neerneſs, with ſome diſtinction: therefore alſo he is ſaid to be in the Father, Joh. 14. 10,11. Chriſt is one God with the Father, yet a diſtinct perſon from him: and he was with him inviſible altogether, till he was incarnate. Prov.8.30.

was manifeſted unto us] Joh.1.14.

V. 3. That which we have ſeen] This is the third time repeated, to put it out of all queſtion. The ſecond verſe is in a Parentheſis, and part of the former is here repeated to make the ſenſe clear.

that ye alſo] Who did not ſee, hear nor handle the word of life, as we did, verſ. 1. So that he wrote this epiſtle not to get ought from them, but to do good to them, that they might have a ſhare with him in ſpiritual comforts, 2 Cor.12.14. As if he ſhould have ſaid, what was communicated to us Apoſtles at firſt, we communicate to you, that ye may have the benefit thereof, as well as we; And not onely have fellowſhip with us, and Communion, but alſo with God the Father, and Chriſt his ſon.

May have fellowſhip] That being united by faith with Chriſt, and with his members, ye may partake of his graces, and ſpiritual life from him; and by him be united to God the Father, and have Communion with him, Joh.17.21. Heb.3.14.

with us] Apoſtles, whom ye think happy, 2 Cor.1.21.

and truly,&c.] And not with us onely, but with God and Chriſt alſo, which is a greater preeminence.

V. 4. Theſe things write we unto you] He doth not ſay, We preach them, but, We write them; to ſhew, that there is enough in Scripture, without tradition, to bring us to a comfortable life on earth, & perfect joy in heaven. We write this not onely to bring you to Communion with God, and us, but alſo to full joy; That your conſciences may be pacified, and your hearts cheered.

that your joy may be full] That by encreaſe of your faith, 2 Joh.v.12. ye may have peace of conſcience, and joy of the Holy Ghoſt, in ſo great a meaſure, that ye may not doubt of Gods favour, but rejoyce in it continually, till ye come to enjoy him for ever, Rom.5.1,2. 1 Pet.1 6. Thus John, the beloved diſciple of Chriſt, imitates his maſter in the very phraſe it ſelf. See John 15.11.& 17.13. He means not, that their joy might be full in heaven (though there be the greateſt fulneſs of joy) but that it may be full on earth here. As 2 John v.12. John 16.24. That ye may by ſure marks know, that ye are in the eſtate of grace here, and may therein greatly rejoyce; therefore ſuch marks are given, v.6,7,8,9.c.2,3. And indeed joy of the Holy Ghoſt ariſeth out of peace of conſcience: this joy is full, 1. In oppoſition to joy ariſing from worldly comforts, Pſal. 4. 6,7. And that, 1. In regard of their variety, which is a ſigne of diſſatisfaction. The Bee need not ſuck of many flowers, if one would ſatisfie. 2. In reſpect of mixture with ſorrow, Prov. 14. 13. 3. In regard of the ſhort durance of them, Job 20.4,5. 2. This joy is ſaid to be full in oppoſition to pangs of conſcience which other Chriſtians feel; and ſo it is full comparatively, though far ſhort of heavenly joy.

V. 5. This then is the meſſage] The ſum of the Goſpel is Communion with God, which cannot be without regeneration.

which we have heard of him] Gr. from him. Not, concerning him, by ſome other, as Joh.1.15. We heard it from Chriſt, verſ. 3. who teſtifies concerning his Father, as follows in this verſe.

that God is light] Full of wiſdom and holineſs, Jam.1.17. For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17. God is light; 1. Shining in knowledge, Matth. 4.16. 2. Clear in holineſs. 2 Cor. 6. 14. 3. Cheerful, and comfortable, as light is. Eccle.11.7.

in him is no darkneſs at all] Not of ignorance or ſin, nor of errour, and falſhood; It is not here taken for natural darkneſs, as John 20.1. but for ſpiritual darkneſs, though it be true of the other alſo, for in God there is, οὐδεμία σκοτία, Not ſo much as any one kinde of darkneſs.

V. 6. If we ſay] In heart, as Pſal.14.1. Or, profeſs it in word.

and walk in darkneſs] He doth not ſay, And have walked in darkneſs; for all have done ſo, before regeneration: but, If we walk in darkneſs, Eph.5.8. Walking ſets not out any one action, but the continued courſe of life, Pſal.119.1.& 128. 1. To walk in darkneſs, is to be converſant in ignorance and ſin. It may be read, Therefore if we ſay, For it is a concluſion drawn out of the bowels of the former verſ. If there be no darkneſs at all in God, then they that walk in darkneſs, and yet ſay, they have fellowſhip with him, will be found notorious lyers in the end.

we lye] In ſaying ſo: for, what fellowſhip hath light with darkneſs? 2 Cor.6.14.

do not the truth] Walk not according to Gods word, John 3.21. Or, deal not truly, that is, ſincerely.

V. 7. If we walk in the light] If we live according to the light of grace received, and go on in a wiſe and holy way, till we come to perfection.

as he is in the light] He poſſeſſeth the fulneſs of wiſdom and holineſs from eternity, 1 Tim.6.16. God is eſſentially wiſe, and good of himſelf: beleevers do but walk in the light of knowledge and goodneſs communicated to them from God.

we have fellowſhip one with another] We with God, and God with us. Or, we Chriſtians one with another.

the blood of Jeſus Chriſt] Leſt any ſhould deſpair, as not being able to walk perfectly in the light, as God is in it, he adds this for our comfort, that, if we do our endeavour, Chriſts blood will purge away our failings. By Chriſts blood here is meant all his ſufferings, and principally his death, as being the principal part of the price of our redemption, Αἷμα ſignifies, 1. Blood, Luk 13. 12. 2. Murder, Mat. 23.30. 3. Humane ſeed, Act.17.26. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe for the bloud of Chriſt ſhed for us, when he was unjuſtly put to death by the Jews, but juſtly by God for our ſins.

his Son] This ſhews the great price of his blood, as being the blood of the Son of God; yea, of God himſelf, Act.20. 28.

cleanſeth us from all ſin] Tit.2.14. That is, from the guilt of all ſin: for if but one ſin be left unpardoned, that were ſufficient to condemn us. It cleanſeth alſo from the filth and ſtain of ſin, Heb. 19.14. 1 Pet.1.2. Rev.1.5,6. For Sin, ſee on 2 Pet.1.9.

V. 8. If we ſay] As before he did encourage fearful ones; ſo now he labours to caſt down proud perſons, that think they have no ſin, nor need of Chriſts blood. He ſaith not, If thou ſay, as if he ſpake to ſome particular perſon onely; nor, If ye ſay, as if he intended ordinary Chriſtians alone; but, If we Apoſtles, or whatever we be, ſay ſo: to ſhew, that all are ſinners, Jam. 3. 2.

that we have no ſin] Contrary to 1 Kin.8.46. 2 Chron.6.36. Prov. 20. 9. And he doth not ſay, We have not had ſin formerly, but we have not at preſent, even when we are in ſtate of grace, Rom.7.17, 20,23.

the truth is not in us] We are not ſincere: or, we beleeve not Gods word, v. 6, 10. Joh. 17. 17. It is not then modeſty onely that makes the beſt men to confeſs their ſins; but the truth compels them to do it.

V. 9. he is faithful and juſt] A great comfort. If we could conceive God not to be ſo merciful as to forgive our ſins, doubtleſs he will be faithful and juſt to perform his promiſe, and not to require that again of us, which Chriſt hath diſcharged by ſhedding his blood for us, Rom. 3.25. Iſa. 53. 6, 7. God is faithful to perform his promiſe, and juſt in performing it, for a promiſe is a debt, though freely made, and is is juſt to perform what is mercifully promiſed; God is conſtant therefore in giving pardon to repenting ſinners according to his promiſe. Πιςὸς, ſignifies, 1. A beleever, 1 Tim.6.2. 2. One faithful in his dealings, 1 Cor. 4. 2. 3. One faithful in his words, and promiſes. 1 Theſ.5.24. 4. A ſpeech worthy to be beleeved, 1 Tim.1.15. Here in the third ſenſe.

V. 10. we make him a lyar] As much as in us lyes. See the like, Mat. 5.28. A man commits adultery in his heart with a woman, yet ſhe is not defiled: So on the contrary, by beleeving, we ſeal to Gods truth, John 3.33. We do then not onely deceive our ſelves, when we deny our ſins, verſ. 8. but alſo by conſequence charge God with falſhood, who hath often ſaid, that all men are ſinners, Rom.3.10,23. & 5.12. and teacheth us to ask pardon, Matth. 6. 12. and ſent his Son to dye for our ſins, Chap.2.2.& 3.16. Therefore we do not accuſe him of lying once, but make him a common lyar, when we deny, what he ſo often affirmeth.

his word is not in us] Chriſt; or, the written word hath no place in us, John 8. 37. For Word, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 19.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. MY little children] He ſheweth the abundance of his love, by uſing this word eight times, at leaſt, in this Epiſtle. Hereby he intimates, that the counſel given them is ſuch as comes from a paternal affection, ſeeking their good. The leſs the children are, the more delight parents take in them, and pity them the more, becauſe they are the leſs able to help themſelves. Now he might call them, Little children, not onely in regard of converſion, as Gal.4.19. but alſo in regard of his own age. So 2 John 1. He may call himſelf Elder, in that reſpect, Phil. verſe 9.

that ye ſin not] Leſt any man ſhould ſay, If God will forgive, let us ſin the more; he adds, I write this, that ye may not ſin, Rom.6.1. And alſo leſt ye hinder your fellowſhip with God.

and if any man ſin] Or, yet if any man ſin. So the ſame particle is uſed, Luke 3. 20. If any man offend out of infirmity, or being overcome by ſome ſtrong temptation, who intended not to ſin, Rom.7.15, 19. Gal. 6.1.

we have an Advocate] He pronounceth it certainly, to take away all doubt. And we need not look for him to come, or ſeek him with great coſts; for we have him already. It is a great comfort to a man accuſed, to have a good Advocate. We have an excellent one.

with the Father] Heb.9.24. Rom.8.34. We ſhall ſpeed well, for God is the Father of our Advocate, and our Father in him. For Father, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

Jeſus Chriſt] See on Matth.1.1. He names him, that the ſick ſouls might not be diſtracted, not knowing what Phyſitian to go to, Act.4. 10,11,12.

the righteous] One that needed not to dye for his own ſins, nor plead for the remiſſion of them; and therefore dyed and pleads for us, Heb. 7.26,27. 1 Pet.3.18. Act.3.14. & 22.14.

V. 2. And he] Or, For he; as the word is uſed, Luke 6.32. He dyed for our ſins, therefore he will plead for us, Rom.8. 34. elſe ſhould he loſe the fruit of his death, if we ſhould periſh.

the propitiation] The propitiatory-ſacrifice, Rom.3.25.

for our ſins] He doth not profit himſelf onely (in the exaltation of his humane nature, by his obedience to the death, Phil. 2.8,9.) as other men may do, Job 35.8. Ezek.14.16. but ſaves us from our ſins, Matt. 1. 21.

and not for ours onely] Who beleeve already; or, who are alive now: or, of us Jews, who were Gods peculiar people before.

for the ſins of the whole world] Of all beleevers in all nations, Acts 10.35. Gal.3.28. Col.3.11.

V.3. Hereby we know that we know him] That we have acquaintance with him, Chap.1.7. or, have the true and ſound knowledge of him, John 1.18. & 17.3. Or, we acknowledge him really for our Saviour, Pſal.1.6. Matth 25.12.

if we keep his commandments] Many boaſt that they know Chriſt to be a propitiation for their ſins, and therefore they need not forbear ſin, or obey Gods Law: but ſuch know not Chriſt to their comfort. By keeping, is meant, a ſedulous ſtudy, and ſerious endeavour of walking in an holy courſe of life, according to all the commandments of God, and a conſcionable care of obſerving each one, as well as any other, Luke 1.6. Jam.2.8,9,10. Pſal.119.6. For Keep, ſee on 2 Pet. 2.17. on Reſerved.

V. 4. and the truth is not in him] See on Chap. 1. 8. He that in word profeſſeth himſelf a Chriſtian, if he endeavour not to walk accordingly, is no Chriſtian indeed.

V. 5. the love of God perfected] See on Chap.4.12. He that takes ſuch great care to keep Gods word, as men do to keep their way, treaſure, ornaments, apple of the eye, or deareſt things they have, it is a ſure ſign, that he truly loves God: Not perfectly in degrees without all imperfection, for that none can attain to in this world, Phil.3.12. But ſincerely without diſſimulation. Hereby] By keeping Gods word, as before. That we are in him] That we are his members, and have communion with him, as members with the head. Chap. 1. 7. Or, That we abide, and dwell in him, verſ.6. John 6.56. & 15.5.

V. 6. even as he walked] Then, like a ſervant, he ſhall wear his maſters livery, 1 Cor.11.1. Epheſ.5.1,2. For walk, ſee on Chap.1.6.

V. 7. which ye had from the beginning] Taught by Chriſt and his Apoſtles, at the beginning of the preaching of the Goſpel. So that this is not the firſt time of the publiſhing of it. Or, taught from the beginning of the world, and recorded in the old Teſtament. In calling it no new commandment he ſtops the mouth of ſuch, as might accuſe him of teaching novelties, as the Athenians did, Act. 17. 19. This no new commandment is by ſome underſtood to be an holy life, intended, verſ.6. By others brotherly love mentioned, verſ. 9,10. For Brethren, ſee on 2 Pet.1.10. For Beginning, 1 John 1. 1. For word, 2 Pet.1.19. For Heard, on 2 Pet.1.18.

V. 8. a new commandment] John 13.34. Whereas it might ſeem, by diſuſe, to be out of date, and buried in legal ceremonies; or abrogated, as ſome other things uſed in the old Teſtament were; it is renewed in the New Teſtament, and explained more fully. Or, it is called new, becauſe we have daily new occaſions of exerciſing our charity. Or, new, in regard of the manner of propounding (though old, for matter and ſubſtance) as being propounded formerly in our own example, Levit. 19. 18. now in the example of Chriſt, John 13. 34.

which thing is true in him and in you] It is truly found in both. In him, who exerciſed love to us in the higheſt degree, in dying for us, John 15.13. In you, who muſt uſe charity towards others.

becauſe] Or, that.

the darkneſs is paſt] Shadows, figures, Col. 2. 17. or ſtate of ignorance and ſin, wherein formerly ye lived, Rom.13.12. Eph.5.8. 2 Pet. 1. 19. It may be underſtood of the darkneſs of Paganiſm, in which the converted Gentiles once lived, and of Judaiſme, under the dark ceremonies wherein the converted Jews formerly were educated.

the true light now ſhineth] Chriſt, who is the light it ſelf, not enlightned by others, but enlightning others, Joh 1.8,9. ſhineth in the Goſpel, or in your hearts, 2 Cor 4.6. Or, ye have right knowledge and true holineſs within you.

V. 9. He that ſaith] See on Chap.1.6,8. He that profeſſeth the true religion. For Brother, ſee on 2 Pet.1.10. Is in darkneſs] In his natural eſtate of ignorance and ſin, void of ſaving grace. Even until now.] Even under his Chriſtian profeſſion he remains in darkneſs. His Chriſtian profeſſion doth him no good, no more than if he were an heathen.

V. 10. no occaſion of ſtumbling] Gr. no ſcandal He that abides in the light, that is a true Chriſtian, gives no offence to others by doing any thing, that may miſlead them either by word or deed.

V. 11. is in darkneſs] Remains in his natural condition, ignorant, and wicked.

and walketh in darkneſs] Liveth fooliſhly and ungodlily.

V. 12. Little children] See on verſ. 1. He writes to them in this epiſtle, and calls them all little children, to ſhew his great affection to them, ſuch as Parents bear to their little ones. For the diſtribution into ſeveral ages begins in the next verſe. Here therefore he comprehends Chriſtians of all ages. Or the diviſion may begin here, and then by little children he may mean new converts; by fathers old experienced Chriſtians; and by yong men profeſſours of good ſtanding. And then are they ſpoken to in all three conditions twice apiece: which will not agree with the former interpretation.

becauſe your ſins are forgiven you] Becauſe ye are reconciled to God, though ye be not ſo wiſe & ſtrong as other Chriſtians of longer ſtanding, and further growth, 1 Cor.3.1. This is added, for the comfort of weak Chriſtians, leſt they ſhould think the ſins of ſtrong ones onely to be forgiven, and not theirs.

for his Names ſake] Act.4.12. & 10.43. That is, For his ſake, as the word is uſed for the perſon, ſo called, in the places quoted, Though you have not gotten ſuch a meaſure of grace as others of longer ſtanding have done, yet ye have found ſo much favour with God, that your ſins are forgiven, as well as theirs.

V. 13. Ye have known him that was from the beginning] Chriſt, Joh. 1.1. 1 John 1.1. Ye are not only experienced in worldly things, but (which is a greater honour to you) ye have attained to the knowledge of Chriſt in a greater meaſure than other Chriſtians. For Beginning, ſee on Chap.1. 1.

becauſe ye have overcome the wicked one] The Devil, Mat.6.13. Rom. 16.20. As old men are noted for wiſdom, ſo young men for ſtrength, and ability to conquer. Strong Chriſtians get more victories over Satan than weak ones. The Devil layes moſt ſnares for young men, as for them that are moſt prone to ſin, and may ſerve him longeſt; But theſe young men have overcome him. Ye have overcome the Devil, not by killing him, but by putting him to flight, and overcoming his temptations. Πονηρὸς may be derived from, Πόνος, and ἐρῶς, becauſe the Devil loves to take pains to undoe ſouls.

becauſe ye have known the Father] Nothing is more needful for children, than to have a father, whom they may repair to in their wants, and that may take care for them. Theſe had found out God for their Father. Children know their parents, before they know others: So new converts take more notice of God, than of men. And little children ſhew more fondneſs toward their parents, than men grown: So new converted Chriſtians ſhew higher expreſſions of love to God at firſt, than afterwards. For Father, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17.

V. 14. And the word of God abideth in you] 2 Joh.verſ. 2. Hence is your power to overcome Satan, Eph.6.17. not from bodily ſtrength, or natural boldneſs. For word, ſee on 2 Pet.1.19. For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17.

V. 15. the world] The things that are pleaſing in it to mans corrupt nature, and ſo far forth as they are ſuch. Love not worldly things too much, ſo as to place your happineſs in them. For world, ſee on 2 Pet.1.4.

the love of the Father is not in him] He loveth not God, James 4. 4.

V. 16. all that is in the world] In price or account with worldly-minded men, as 1 Cor.1.28.

the luſt of the fleſh] Deſire of pleaſures, or wantonneſs. For Fleſh, ſee on 2 Pet. 2. 18.

the luſt of the eyes] Deſire of riches, or covetouſneſs, Eccleſ. 5. 11.

the pride of life] Longing for worldly honours, which are moſt regarded in this life, John 12.42,43. and it ſhews it ſelf in our life; for pride cannot be kept in. Or, pride of the things or goods of this life: and ſo the ſame word it tranſlated, chap. 3. 17. for riches puff men up, Pſal.73.5,6,&c. 1 Tim.6.17. Βίος, ſignifies, 1. Life, 1 Pet. 4.3. 2. Living, or, means to live upon, Luk. 8. 43. Here it may be taken in either ſenſe.

V. 17. the world paſſeth away] Men would always abide in places they love, and enjoy pleaſures there; but that they cannot in this world: therefore love it not, 1 Cor.7.29,&c. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.4. The will of God] The Greek word, θέλημα, ſignifies, 1. The act of willing. Eph.1.5. 2. The thing willed, Matth.7.21. So here:

the luſt thereof] Thoſe things in the world that are luſted after; as verſ.16. So hope, is put for the thing hoped for, Rom.8.24. Col.1.5. And faith, for the thing beleeved, Jude verſ.3.

V. 18. Little children] See verſ.1.

it is the laſt time] Gr. hour. The beginning of the laſt age of the world, Heb.1.2. therefore love not the world, becauſe ye can enjoy it but a while, Luke 12.20. 1 Cor.7.29. This argument is good, whether it be underſtood of the neerneſs of the end of the world, or of our leaving of the world by death; or, as others think, of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, before which falſe chriſts came, and at which time the Jews were deprived of their pleaſures, wealth and honours. It may alſo ſignifie, that no new doctrine is to be expected; as Heb.1.2.

as ye have heard that antichriſt ſhall come] Ye have heard of a noted antichriſt, 2 Theſſ.2.3,&c. He is not yet come, but there are divers fore-runners of him come into the world, Act. 20.29,30. 1 Tim.4. 1,&c. Antichriſt. 'Αντὶ in compoſition,] 1. Notes an oppoſite, 2 Theſ. 2.4. 2. A Deputy, Act.13.7. The Pope the great Antichriſt oppoſeth himſelf to Chriſt in deed, and calls himſelf Chriſts Vicar. This is the firſt time, this word is uſed in Scripture.

there are many antichriſts] Many falſe or pretended chriſts, ſuch as in likelihood Judas and Theudas were, Acts 5 36,37. And afterward, Bar-Cochaba, or Bar-Cozba, and others. Or, hereticks alſo, as Simon Magus, Ebion, Cerinthus, and the like.

whereby we know it is the laſt time] Becauſe our Saviour foretold, that towards the later end of times, many ſuch ſhould come, Matth. 24.11,24.

V. 19. They] Thoſe antichriſts, verſ.18. Jude verſ.19.

went out from us] Either from the body of Gods people, the Jews; or from the ſociety of profeſſed Chriſtians.

but they were not of us] Of us true beleevers, who cannot ſall away, Matth.24.24. John 6.37.& 10.28,29. Rom.8.28,29,38,39. 2 Tim. 2.19. Marvel not, nor be not troubled, that many forſake Gods Church. If they had been ſound members, they would never have done ſo. They were in the Church in body onely, not in ſpirit; and the Church loſeth nothing by their departure, as corn loſeth nothing when the chaff is gone (but is the purer,) nor the body, when bad humours are worn away.

that they might be made manifeſt] 1 Cor. 11. 19. And ſo the better avoided.

that they were not all of us] That none of them were of us. An Hebrew phraſe, as Pſal. 143.2. Chap. 3. 15. Or, that it might be made manifeſt in them that all were not of us, that ſeemed to be ſo by their converſing with us.

V. 20. But ye have an unction] Ye need not fear ſeducing: Gods Word and Spirit will ſafeguard you from falſe teachers. The Spirit of God, that anointed Chriſt for a King and a Prieſt, hath alſo anointed you to be ſuch, ſpiritually, Rev. 1. 6. that ye may be able to guide and defend your ſelves againſt falſe teachers. Oyl was uſed in conſecration, Exod.30.25. Thereby are ſignified the gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, beſtowed on beleevers, whereby they are conſecrated to God, Pſal.45.7 Heb.1.9.

from the holy One] From Chriſt, in whom the graces of Gods Spirit are, as in a ſpring, to be communicated to us, Dan.9.24. Luke 1.35. John 1.16. & 3.34. Pſal.133.2. Iſai.61.1.

ye know all things] That are needful for you to know, to preſerve you from being ſeduced by theſe falſe teachers, Matth.24.24. or, that are neceſſary to guide you to heaven. See the like phraſe, Col. 3. 20. For no man knows all things ſimply; that is Gods prerogative, John 21. 17. not any thing ſo perfectly, as they ſhall do in heaven, 1 Cor. 13.9,10,12. Or, ye know all that I write to you to be true, ſo that I rather admoniſh, than teach you, 2 Pet.1.12.

V. 21. I have not written unto you, becauſe ye know not the truth] I write not unto you to acquaint you with any new doctrine, verſ.7. but to confirm you further in the truth formerly taught you, and already known by you, 2 Pet.1.12.

no lye is of the truth] And that ye may be the better able thereby to diſcover the falſe doctrines of theſe ſeducers, conſidering how they ſwerve from it.

V. 22. Who is a lyer, but he that denyeth that Jeſus is the Chriſt?] What untruth can be more palpable, or more pernicious than this, that oppoſeth a truth that hath ſo pregnant and ſo plentifull evidences, and is the main ſcope of the whole Goſpel, John 20.31. For Jeſus Chriſt, ſee on 2 Pet.1.1,2. For Antichriſt, on verſ. 18. For Father, on 2 Pet.1.17.

He is antichriſt, that denyeth the Father, and the Son] The very word antichriſt, doth ſignifie a direct oppoſition to Chriſt, and that as he is the Son of God the Father: whereupon it followeth, by juſt conſequence, that the denyal of the Son, is the denyal of the Father: and this is a juſt character of antichriſt.

V. 23. Whoſoever denyeth the Son, &c.] The Jews thought it a wrong to God, to confeſs that he had a Son. Falſe teachers aroſe then, who taught, that it was injurious to God to make Chriſt equal to him. Both thought it ſufficient to acknowledge the Father only to be God. John ſhews, that it is an injury to the Father, to deny equal honour to his Son, John 5. 23.

V. 24. which ye have heard from the beginning] See on ver.7. When once we doubt of things taught in the Scripture, we ſoon are ſeduced. But if we hold faſt our firſt principles of true Religion without doubting or wavering, we ſhall not be ſeduced by falſe teachers. For Beginning, ſee on 1 John 1.1. For Heard, on 2 Pet.1.18.

ye alſo ſhall continue in the Son, and in the Father] What greater honour can we have, to encourage us to the conſtant profeſſion of the truth?

V. 25. And this is the promiſe] What greater profit is there to ſet before us, than eternal life? That he hath promiſed us.] Gr. That he himſelf hath promiſed us. To wit, The Father, or the Son, verſ. 24. And therefore it muſt needs be ſure. If the beſt men in the world had promiſed, it might have failed.

V. 26. Theſe things have I written, &c.] I have done my part to warn you of theſe ſeducers: if ye be drawn away by them, it is your fault, Ezek.33. 9. Acts 20.26,27,29.

V. 27. But the anointing] See on ver.20.

abideth in you] Remaineth with you, to teach you on all occaſions, though other teachers ſhould fail.

ye need not that any man teach you] The true grounds of religion. Ye need onely to perſevere in the profeſſion of them. Or, that I ſhould take much pains to inform you in the truth, as verſ. 21. Or, ye need not that any man ſhould teach you any new opinions; Remain in theſe ye have been taught. Falſe teachers would draw you away from your ſound principles. Onely we muſt exhort you to perſevere in them, and endeavour to build you up higher. This is not written, that they ſhould contemn the doctrine of their godly teachers ſuitable to Gods word, but to ſhew, that if that ſhould be wanting, God would ſupply them by his Spirit. It alſo intimates the agreement of the doctrine taught them before by their godly teachers, with that which this Apoſtle teaches them in this Epiſtle.

of two things] See on verſ. 20.

ye ſhall abide] Or, ye will abide. I am ſo perſwaded of you.

in him] In Chriſt, the holy One, verſ. 20. by faith and imitation. Or, in it. In that which this anointing hath taught you.

V. 28. when he ſhall appear] In judgement, Col.3.4. We may have confidence] The word properly ſignifies boldneſs to ſpeak, what a man thinks without fear of offending any man. But here it is taken more generally for aſſurance of eternall happineſs, and that Chriſt comes not to condemn us, but to ſave us. Or, A free conſcience, and teſtimony, that we are the children of God. An undaunted ſpirit. He ſeems to have reſpect to the fearful voices of damned perſons, Luke 23. 30.

V. 29. that he is righteous] Chriſt, of whom he ſpake laſt: or, God the Father, of whom we are new born.

ye know] Or, know ye.

doth righteouſneſs] Liveth righteouſly, 1 John 3.7.

is born of him] Sheweth the truth of his regeneration, according to Gods Image, by his godly life, Eph.4.24. 1 John 3.7.

CHAP. III.

Verſ.1. BEhold] Take notice of it, as of a certain truth, and a great privilege, John 1.12.

what manner of love] And how great, Matt.8.27.

that we ſhould be called the Sons of God] Both be ſo, and alſo acknowledged, Matth. 5. 9.

the world knoweth us not] To be Gods children, and therefore loveth us not, but hateth us, John 15.21,24. & 16.3.

V. 2. now are we the Sons of God] Joh. 1. 12,13. For we have received the Spirit of adoption here, Rom.8.15. Gal.4.5. and ſo have right to glory, as Gods children.

and it doth not yet appear] Or, but it doth not yet appear; as Matt.11. 19. It hath not yet been made manifeſt. The particle, Καὶ, ſignifies, 1. And, Matth.19.9. 2. Or, Matth. 12. 37. 3. But, Matt. 11. 19. 4. Therefore, 1 Cor.6.2. 5. Then, Matth. 9. 7. Here it might be better tranſlated, But.

what we ſhall be] How glorious we ſhall be.

but we know] Or, yet we know. See on Chap.2.1.

he ſhall appear] See on Chap.2.28. Or, it ſhall appear; as in this verſe before. Some underſtand it of God the Father mentioned before, when he ſhall appear, as a father to put us in poſſeſsion of our heavenly glory.

we ſhall be like him] Col.3.4. Phil.3.21. In perfect holineſs, and happineſs like him, yet not equal to him.

for we ſhall ſee him] And therefore muſt be made like him; elſe are we not fit to live ever in his preſence, which is called ſeeing of God, Matth.5.8. Heb. 12. 14.

as he is] As he is, now, in glory, not as he was, in the form of a ſervant, Joh.17.24. Phil.2.7,9. & 3. 21.

V. 3. every man that hath this hope] All that look for ſalvation by Chriſt, beſides the righteouſneſs imputed by God, ſeek to be inherently holy.

in him] Or, on him. On Chriſt.

purifieth himſelf] Matth.5.8. Heb.12.14. Is ſtill purifying himſelf: For none is perfectly pure here.

V. 4. Whoſoever committeth ſin] Good men muſt not flatter themſelves in their ſins, nor give way to their infirmities, as if they were no ſins; for they are breaches of Gods law.

tranſgreſſeth alſo the law] It condemns their opinion, who think, that ſuch as are freed from the curſe of the law by faith in Chriſt, are not ſubject to the command of it, 2 Pet. 2. 19. Jude verſ. 14. Καὶ For γὰρ, And for For.

ſin is the tranſgreſſion of the law] For, where there is no law, there is no tranſgreſsion, Rom.4.15. & 5.13. And theſe two are convertible: for every tranſgreſsion is a ſin, and every ſin is a tranſgreſsion.

V. 5. He was manifeſted] Chriſt took our nature on him, 1 Tim. 3.16. Chap. 1. 2.

to take away our ſins] The guilt of them, by his blood, chap. 1.7. Rev.1.5. The filth of them, by his Spirit, 1 Cor.6.11.

and in him is no ſin] Who neither did ſin, nor had ſin, 2 Cor.5.21. Heb.7.26. & 4.15. We muſt not continue in ſin, becauſe Chriſt came to take ſin away, and had no ſin in himſelf. Or, for thoſe two reaſons, we muſt not deſpair of pardon of ſin.

V. 6. Whoſoever abideth in him] John 15.4,5.

ſinneth not] Doth, nor practiſeth ſin, as verſ.8,9. John 8.24. Maketh it not his trade. He ſinneth not out of malice, or, liveth not in a courſe of known ſin.

hath not ſeen him] Had never any true ſight of him, much leſs was ever throughly acquainted with him, Matth. 7. 23. John 10. 14.

V. 7. Little children] See on Chap.2.1.

he that doth righteouſneſs] Not that heareth or talketh of it onely.

is righteous] Doth ſhew that he is ſo, Chap.2.29.

as he is righteous] Like him, as Lev.11.44. 1 Pet.1.16. Mat.5.48. not equal to him, as 1 Sam.2,2.

V.8. He that committeth ſin] With plotting beforehand, and delight in it, Rom.13.14. and practiſing it, as verſ. 6. He that makes ſin his work, makes himſelf the childe of the Devil, he is ſaid to commit ſin, that makes the courſe of his life a trade of ſin, that allows himſelf in his ſin, juſtifies, and excuſes himſelf, and doth not hate, but love his ſin.

is of the devil] John 8.44. Acts 13.10. Though by his Chriſtian profeſſion he ſeems to be the Son of God. 1 The word, Διάϐολος, ſignifies, 1. In general any ſlanderer. 1 Tim. 3.11. 2. In particular, the Devil the cheef ſlanderer of God to man, Gen. 3.5. and man to God, Job 1.9. So here.

the devil ſinneth] Continueth ſinning ſtill.

from the beginning] Of the creation, or, of ſin; for he was the firſt ſinner, John 8.44.

the Son of God was manifeſted] See on verſ. 5.

that he might deſtroy] Gr. diſſolve. For many things are deſtroyed by diſſolution.

the works of the devil] Our ſins, as verſ. 5. and the power the devil hath over us, by occaſion of them, 2 Tim.2.26.

V.9. is born] Gr. hath been born, or, begotten, as Chap.5.1.

doth not commit ſin] See on verſ. 6. For God, ſee on 2 Peter 1.17.

for his ſeed] The graces of the Holy Ghoſt, by whoſe power he was regenerate. The word, σπέρμα, ſignifies, 1. Seed, 1 Cor. 15.38. 2. Poſterity, 2 Cor.11.22. Here in the firſt ſenſe.

remaineth in him] Holineſs, planted in him by God, keeps him from ſinful courſes, and, like good ſeed, makes him bring forth good fruit; whereas before, like ground not ſown, he brought forth nothing but the weeds of ſin.

cannot ſin] See verſ. 6.

V. 10. whoſoever doth not righteouſneſs] Purity of life, and charity, are two ſure ſigns of a child of God. For Brother, ſee on 2 Peter 1.10.

V. 11. meſſage] Or, commandment.

from the beginning] See on Chap.2.7. For Head, ſee on 2 Pet.1.18. For Beginning, See on Chap.1.1.

one another] Not our kindred onely, but others alſo, and that mutually.

V. 12. Not as Cain] Let us not do as Cain did: or, not that we ſhould do as Cain. of that wicked one] The devil, the firſt murderer, Chap.2.14. John 8.44.

and ſlew his brother] Gen. 4.8.

becauſe his own works were evil, and his brothers righteous] Out of meere envy, and malice proceeding from it, Pſal. 38.20. This is an anſwer to the former queſtion; Why did he ſlay him? Becauſe he walked in a way contrary to him, and was better than he. Therefore he envied him, and killed him.

V. 13. Marvel not, if the world hate you] Becauſe the ſame ſpirit of envy that was in Cain, and the ſame occaſions, are ſtill in the world, Gen.3.15. John 15.18,19. Therefore be not offended at wicked mens hatred, as an abſurd thing; for if where there were but two brethren in the world, one ſlew the other, ye may much more look for ſuch uſage. For world, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.4. By the world here is meant the wicked of the world ſo called, 1. Becauſe they are originally of the world, and called her own. John 8.23. & 15.19. 2. They are the greater part of the world, and therefore called the whole world. 1 John 5.19. 3. They are wholly converſant about the world, Phil.3.19. 4. They ſerve the God of this world, 2 Cor.4.4. 5. They have their portion in this world, Pſal. 17.14.

V. 14. We know] We do not onely hope for it for hereafter, but know it now, Chap.5.13.

that we have paſſed] Already, and are in the ſtate of grace and life.

from death unto life] Out of the ſtate of nature, which leads to hell, into the ſtate of grace, which tends to heaven, John 5.24. Chap. 4.7.

becauſe we love the brethren] This is not the cauſe of our paſſing from death to life; but the cauſe of our knowledge thereof, or the mark whereby we know it; as Luke 7.47. He that loveth not] Though he do not hate him: His brother, Any one Chriſtian: Abideth in death. In his natural eſtate ſubject to eternal death notwithſtanding his Chriſtian profeſſion.

V. 15. Whoſoever hateth his brother, is a murderer] For he ſtandeth guilty of tranſgreſſing the ſixth commandement, Matth. 5.22. And ſo is a murderer in heart, from whence murders come, Matth. 15.19.

no murderer hath eternal life] Gal.5.21. Rev.21.8.

V. 16. the love of God] The truth of it, or the force of it, Joh.15.13. Rom.5.8. Chap.4.9.

becauſe he laid down his life] Becauſe Chriſt dyed for us, Joh. 10. 15. He ſhewed love to us, in his incarnation; but moſt of all, in laying down his life willingly for us, John 10.17. He needed not to have done it.

for us] Whom he had no need of, nor no cauſe given to love; but much cauſe to hate, Rom.5.8,9. We ought to lay down our lives for the brethren] If need require, eſpecially we ought to lay down our corporal life for their ſpiritual.

V. 17. whoſo hath this worlds good] That is, things needful for preſerving life. So Mark 12.44. Luk. 8.43. & 15.12. & 21.4. For world, ſee on 2 Pet.1.19. For Brother on 2 Pet.1.10.

his brother] His neighbour, eſpecially a beleever, Gal.6.10. whom he ought to releeve, becauſe they are brethren.

ſhutteth up his bowels] Sheweth, by not releeving him, that he is not at all moved with any pity of his wants, or compaſſion of him, Lam.2.11. Luk.1.78. Phil. 1.8. & 2.1. Col. 3.12. 2 Cor. 7.15. Phil. verſ. 7,12. Iſa.63.15. For pity doth, as it were, open the bowels, Gen. 43.30. 1 King. 3.26. Matth. 9.36. Fraternal charity, ſhould come from maternal affection.

how dwelleth the love of God in him?] It cannot abide in him, let him brag of it never ſo much, Chap.4.20. Jam. 2.15. The love of God, and of our neighbour, are inſeparable, Matt.22.38,39. Chap.4. 21. & 5.1. For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17.

V.18. My little children] See on Chap.2.1.

let us not love in word] Not in word onely; as Hoſ.6.6. Matt.9.13. & 12.7. Rom. 2.28. By giving good words, without actual relief, which is nothing worth, Jam.2 15. For word, ſee on 2 Pet.1.4.

and in truth] Not giving to avoid the importunity of the poor, as Luke 18.4,5. but out of love to them, and pity of their wants. Or, in deed and in truth. Becauſe that is true charity, which is manifeſted by deeds. For Truth, ſee on 2 Pet.1.12.

V. 19. And hereby] Or, For hereby. See on Chap.2.2.

that we are of the truth] Sincere Chriſtians, not hypocrites. Or, profeſſours of the heavenly truth, and livers according to it, John 18.37. Or the true children of God, verſ. 10. Chap.4.4,6. Therefore it followeth, before him.

ſhall aſſure our hearts] Gr. perſwade. It hath no aſſurance by nature, and needeth ſure ſignes to perſwade it, that we are ſincere, and in favour with him, Luke 1.6. The Syriack tranſlation reads, Make our hearts quiet. For Heart, ſee on 2 Pet.1.19.

before him] Before Chriſt with confidence, Chap. 4.17. 2 Peter 1.10.

V. 20. if our heart condemn us] Though our life be ſo fair, that no man condemn us, nor our words or deeds bewray us; yet if our heart condemn us, either of a ſecret wicked courſe of life, or of want of charity, verſ. 17. God will much more do it, Job 34.22. Pſal. 19.12. If our own conſciences though blinde in many things condemn us, much more will God, who knows all things.

condemn us] Or, know ought againſt us, according to the Greek Etymologie.

God is greater than our heart] We muſt take notice that God is greater than our heart, Chap. 4.4. and therefore will condemn us much more, Chap. 5.9. Job 32.21, 22. & 33.12. For he is more powerful, John 10.29.

and knoweth all things] Gen.1.31. Job 28.24. 2 Chro.16.9. Prov. 15.11. Heb.4.13. And therefore knoweth our ſecret ſins, which we know not: and hath more cauſe, as well as power, to condemn us. Though our conſciences heap up many things, that by heaping ſin on ſin they may drive us to deſpaire, yet many things are hid from the conſcience, that are not hid from God.

V. 21. if our heart condemn us not] Of hypocriſie, or want of charity; as verſ. 20.

confidence] To pray freely to him, as verſ. 22. We have not onely a quiet conſcience, but alſo a cheerfull countenance in acceſs to God by prayer coming to him, as to a Father, Heb. 4.16. We may boldly ſo preſent our ſelves before God notwithſtanding our infirmities.

V. 22. whatſoever we ask, &c.] If we love our brethren, we may be ſure God will hear us, and grant our requeſts, Matt. 7.7, 8. & 21. 22. Mark 11.24. Luk.11.9,10. Joh.14.13,14. & 16.23,24. Otherwiſe we have cauſe to doubt of it. We receive of him] If our conſciences condemn us not of hypocritical love of our brethren, but atteſt, that we hear them in their wants, God will hear us in all ours.

becauſe we keep] Not for our merit, but for his merciful promiſe to hear ſuch, Dan.9.18. John 9 31. For keep, ſee on 2 Pet. 2.17 on Reſerved.

his commandment] Gr. commandments. Of faith in Chriſt, and love of God and man, verſe 23. Chap. 4.21. And do the things that are pleaſing in his ſight. Love to the brethren then is pleaſing to God, as well as commanded by him.

V.23. on the Name of his Son] On his Son, as he hath declared himſelf in his Goſpel, Chap.2.12. Act.2.21. Rom.10.13.

as he gave us commandment] John 13.34. & 14.1.

V. 24. And he that] Or, For he that; as verſe 19. Chap.2.2.

dwelleth in him] Abideth joyned to him by faith, Joh. 6. 56. Eph. 3. 17.

and he in him] By his Spirit, as followeth in this verſe. By the Spirit, is meant the gifts of the Spirit, Rom.8.10,11. Hereby we know] We know it our ſelves, and do not beleeve it barely upon hearſay; but know it by his Spirits abiding in us, which appears by the perpetual influence, and aſſiſtance of the Spirit. The Greek word, Πνεῦμα, ſignifies, 1. The Breath, Matth. 27. 50. 2. The ſoul of man, Act.7.59. 3. The heart, or affection, Rom. 1.9. 4. The regenerate part of man, Gal. 5. 17. 5. An Angel, Heb. 1. 14. 6. Chriſts Divine Nature, Rom.1.4. 7. The Holy Ghoſt, 1 Tim.4.1. 8. The gifts of the Spirit, 1 Theſſ.5.19. So here.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ. 1. Beleeve not every ſpirit] Every doctrine propounded as received by inſpiration from Gods Spirit. Or, every Teacher that ſaith, he hath ſuch a revelation, 1 Cor.14.26,29,32.

try the ſpirits] Falſe teachers will boaſt of the Spirit, and therefore we muſt try what ſpirit their doctrine cometh from; and that by the touch-ſtone of Gods word, with all diligence, Joh.5.39. Act.17.11. 1 Theſſ.5.21. Rev.2.2.

whether they are of God] By inſpiration or revelation. As thoſe falſe teachers boaſt. For God, See on 2 Pet.1.17.

many falſe prophets] Chap.2.18. 2 Pet.2.1. Falſe teachers, ſuch as would be thought to be true teachers, but are not. So we reade of falſe gods, and hear of falſe gold. But hereby is not meant ſuch as ſometimes through weakneſs deliver things untrue; but ſuch as preach damnable hereſies, 2 Peter 2. 1. For world, ſee on 2 Pet.1.4.

V. 2. Every ſpirit] See on verſ. 1.

that confeſſeth, &c.] And withal embraceth Chriſt, by relying on him for eternal life. Or, it may be interpreted negatively; No ſpirit that denyeth it, is of God. As 1 Cor.10.31. Do all to Gods glory: that is, Do nothing to diſhonour him, by offending his children, as verſe 32.

that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh] Clothed with it. Is become true man, John 1.14. He doth not ſay, Is come into the fleſh, leſt any ſhould deny the perſonal union of both natures in Chriſt, or think his Godhead comprehended within the limits of his body: but, in the fleſh, Rom. 8. 3. 1 Tim. 3. 16. He came from the Father, as God: in the fleſh, as Man; He did not bring his fleſh with him from heaven, but took it, and manifeſted himſelf in it upon earth. For Fleſh, ſee on 2 Pet.2.18.

is of God] Is ſent of God, and preacheth true doctrine; as verſe 6. Yet his perſon may be unregenerate, as Judas was. Or, doth ſo far forth ſpeak from God, 1 Cor.12.3.

V. 3. And every ſpirit] Or, But every ſpirit; as Chap.3.2.

that ſpirit of antichriſt] See on Chap. 2. 18. Which ye have heard] See on Chap.2.18. 2 Pet.1.18.

V. 4. ye are of God] Bred of God, as his children, Chap.5.1. John 1. 13. James 1.18. 1 Pet. 1. 3, 23. Though there be ſo many ſeducers, yet ye are ſafe, as having diſcerned and overcome their allurements, by the wiſdom and power of God dwelling in you.

Little children] See on Chap.2.1.

and have overcome them] Thoſe falſe prophets, verſ. 1. and antichriſts, verſ.3.

for greater is he that is in you] Cha.2.20. Gods Spirit, Cha.3.24. Ye overcame them not by your own ſtrength, but by Gods Spirit dwelling in you, Rom.8.37. Phil.4.13. Rev.12.11.

then he that is in the world] The Divel, Joh.12.31. 1 Cor.2.12. Eph. 2.2. & 6.12.

V. 5. They are of the world] Wicked and unregenerate men, John 15.19. & 17.9.

therefore ſpeak they of the world, &c.] Becauſe they are of the world, they ſpeak ſutably, and are heard readily: for, being ſenſual themſelves, 1 Cor. 2. 14. and ſpeaking to ſuch as themſelves, of things pleaſing to them, as they have learned by their ſenſes here; men readily hearken to them. John 3.31.

V. 6. We are of God] Thoſe falſe teachers, verſ. 1,3,5. are not ſent of God to preach his truth, as we are, Joh.3.31.

he that knoweth God, heareth us] Aſſenteth to our doctrine, and not to thoſe falſe teachers, Joh. 10.3,5.

hereby know we, &c.] By teaching the ſame doctrine, which the other Apoſtles taught. For Gods Spirit varieth not from himſelf: and he hath given the word for a perpetual rule to try the ſpirits by, Iſai. 8.20.

the Spirit of truth] True teachers, who have received the truth by inſpiration of Gods Spirit. See on verſ.1. For Spirit, ſee on Chap.3. 24. For Truth, on 2 Pet.1.12.

V. 7. is born of God] Chap.3.9. & 5.1.

and knoweth God] Chap.2.3.

V. 8. God is love] He doth not call God Loving, but Love it ſelf: for love is eſſential to him, and cannot be parted from him. This is much more emphatical, than if he had ſaid, God is infinitely loving; He is even love it ſelf.

knoweth not God] See on Chap.3.6.

V. 9. In this was manifeſted the love of God] In nothing more, than in giving Chriſt for us, Chap.3.16. Joh.3.16. Rom. 8. 3, 32. Gal. 4. 4, 5.

his onely begotten Son] And therefore moſt dear to him, Mat. 3. 17. Gen.22.2.

that we might live through him] Joh. 3. 16. Under life, is contained all happineſs.

V. 10. Herein is love] He loved us freely, doing good to us, and looking for no good from us: we cannot ſo love him, but muſt love him for his gifts, as well as for himſelf. Ours therefore is not worthy of the name of love, in compariſon of his, becauſe it cannot be every way ſo free. And the pure nature of love is more ſeen in Gods love to us, than in ours to him.

not that we loved God] So freely as he loved us. Or, firſt, as verſe 19. Or, we were ſo far from loving him, as that we hated him, Rom. 5.8,10.

to be the propitiation for our ſins] See on Chap. 2. 2. His love appeared the more, in that he ſent his ſon, not only to teach us the way to heaven, but alſo to dye for us. That ſo he might make God propitious to us by offering himſelf for us to take away our ſins, Joh.1.29. For Sin, ſee on 2 Pet.1.9.

V. 11. If God] Or, Seeing God. For he doth not doubt whether God loveth us or no, but infers from Gods love to us, that we ought to love others. See the like phraſe, 1 Pet.4.18.

ſo loved us] If he, being ſo great, ſo freely loved us, vile, wretched, unworthy and ungrateful perſons, as not onely to give his creatures to us, but alſo his Son to death for us, we ought to love others, that differ not ſo much from us, though they deſerve it not of us. See on verſe 10. They may do us good hereafter, we cannot to God. Or, If God ſo greatly loved us, as John 3. 16. Romanes 5. 8.

V. 12. No man hath ſeen God] I propound not God ſimply to be imitated in all things, becauſe he is inviſible, Joh. 1.18. 1 Tim.1.17. Exod.33.20. But in his love to us, which hath been ſo fully manifeſted. Or, ye may more eaſily love your brother, whom ye can ſee, than God whom ye cannot ſee; as verſe 20. Though God be inviſible, yet he is united by faith to them, that love his children; For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17.

if we love one another] As we know we have a ſoul in us, by the working of it, though we ſee it not: ſo we know that God is in us, if his Spirit hath wrought love in us to his children.

his love is perfected in us] Chap. 2. 5. He makes us ſure that he loves us. Or, he makes us love him more fully: or, to know that our love to him is true, verſ. 17. or, our love to him is more fully manifeſted, 2 Cor. 12.9. Jam.2.22. He means not Gods love to us, for that is always perfect; but our love of him, which is ſincere, though not full in degrees on earth; it is proved truly, and indeed to be in us. This perfection is not oppoſed to imperfection, but to hypocriſie, Chap. 2. 5.

V. 13. that we dwell in him] Chap. 3. 24.

of his Spirit] Some graces of his Spirit in our meaſure, John 1.16. Numb.11. 17. Not all of them, or without meaſure, as to Chriſt, John 3.34. It cannot be meant of the eſſence of the Spirit, which being infinite is indiviſible, being the ſame eſſence with that of the Father and of the Son.

V. 14. And we have ſeen, &c.] See Chap. 1. 1, 3. 1 Cor. 15. 5. 2 Pet. 1. 16. We Apoſtles have ſeen it. For Father, ſee on 2 Pet.1. 17. For world, on 2 Pet. 1. 4. By world here is meant all in the world, that ſhall be ſaved, Chap.2.2.

V. 15. Whoſoever confeſſeth, &c.] See on verſ.2. 1 Cor.12.3.

dwelleth in him] See Chap. 3. 24. Whoſoever confeſſeth this not hypocritically, but heartily, out of a true and ſaving faith relying on Chriſt for eternal life: For wicked men, and devils confeſs this, yet have no communion with God.

V. 16. God is love] See on verſ.8. He is love it ſelf; yet ſometimes he is called Loving, leſt we ſhould think him to be a quality, and not a living ſubſtance.

and he that] Or, therefore he that, as 1 Cor.5.13.

dwelleth in God, and God in him] Chap.3.24.

V. 17. Herein is our love] Gr. love with us, as 1 Cor.15.10.

made perfect] Verſ. 12. Chap. 2. 5. By Love with us, may be meant Gods love to us: We know by this, that God loves us. Or, our love to God is known by this to be ſincere.

that we may have boldneſs] Or, freedom, or confidence, Cha.3.19,21. Matth.25.34.35. For Day, ſee on 2 Pet.1.19.

as he is, ſo are we] Sincere in his love to us. See on Chap. 3. 3. Luke 6. 36. 2 Cor. 3. 18. Epheſ. 4. 24. Col. 3. 10. Heb. 12. 10. 2 Pet.1.4.

in this world] Even while we abide here, Joh. 17. 11, 15. For world, ſee on 2 Pet.1.4.

V. 18. There is no fear in love] If we know by love, that God is in us, and we in him, verſ. 16. we may well be fearleſs of damnation, and not give way to terrours of conſcience, timorouſneſs, or deſperation. There is no cauſe of fear of hell, Rom.8.31.

perfect love] Sincere, without hypocriſie; as chap.3.18,19. Or, full, wanting no degree, James 1. 4.

caſteth out fear] He that truly loveth God, doth not forbear ſin for fear of hell only, but rather out of love to God; as a loving wife forbeareth all diſloyal and undutiful carriage, not for fear of death ſo much, as out of love to her husband, 2 Tim. 1. 7. Or, Servile fear doth not exerciſe his work, while love doth exerciſe his; but ſometimes it may be of good uſe in a good man, when the fleſh would prevail. Or, perfect love in heaven caſteth out all fear of hell.

Fear hath torment] A fearing conſcience threatens torment, and puniſhment in hell.

therefore he that feareth] It is a concluſion out of the former premiſes; where is fear, there is torment. But in perfect love there is no fear. Therefore he that feareth, is not made perfect in love.

V. 16. becauſe he loved us firſt] Verſe 10. Not only becauſe of his excellency, which is moſt worthy of love; but alſo becauſe he hath caſt his love upon us, and therefore is no way indebted to us for our love.

V. 20. How can he love God, &c.] If viſible objects move him not, inviſible will not, chap.3.17. The queſtion makes a ſtrong negation; How can he? It is impoſſible: let any man ſhew, how it may be done, if he can.

V. 21. this commandment] Matth. 22.37,38,39. For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17. For Brother, on 2 Pet.1.10.

CHAP. V.

Verſe 1. W*Hoſoever beleeveth*, &c.] See on chap.4.2.

is born of God] Chap.3.9. and 4.7. John 1.12,13.

loveth him that is begotten alſo] Loveth Chriſt, or all Gods children, chap.4.21. It ſeems to be a common proverb, intimating that a man cannot love a father, unleſs he love his children alſo.

V. 2. we love the children of God, when we love God] Gods children bearing Gods Image; we cannot love God, but we muſt needs love them: and our love to God, ſhews that we love them in and for God. For Keep, ſee on 2 Pet.2.17.

his commandments] Whereof ſix, to wit, all of the ſecond table, require love of the brethren.

V. 3. The love of God] Wherewith we love him, not wherewith he loveth us. This is a ſure ſign that we love God.

his commandments are not grievous] Becauſe Gods Spirit gives us power and will to do them, Matth.11.30. Rom.8.2,4. Phil.2.12,13. And becauſe we love him, we will readily obey him. And God remoyeth rubs, and maketh our way ſmooth before us, Prov.4.11,12. Eſay 26.7. Gods commands are grievous to us naturally, but beleevers have a remedy in Chriſt, in whom they beleeve. His Spirit makes all things eaſie to them; ſo they are not troubleſome to a regenerate ſoul. Nothing is grievous, that a man doth willingly: this clauſe is added, leſt any man ſhould excuſe himſelf for not keeping of Gods commandments, by reaſon of the difficulty thereof; they are not grievous to him that loves God, and hopes for heaven, for love, and hope of reward, make hard things eaſie.

V. 4. is born of God] Verſe 1.

overcometh the world] See chap.2.15. Or, Satans temptations, who worketh by the world. Or, that which ſavours of the world, againſt God, or right reaſon. Theſe he hath overcome in part already, and ſhall wholly, as ſure as if he had already done it. So the Scripture ſpeaketh of things to come, as paſt, to ſhew the certainty of them, Hoſ. 10. 7. Rev. 14. 8. and 18. 2. Or, overcometh all worldly luſts, chap. 2. 15,16. Or, abideth conſtant in his Chriſtian profeſſion, notwithſtanding all worldly oppoſition. For world, ſee on 2 Pet.1.4.

the victory] The means whereby we have begun to conquer, and ſhall finiſh it. This makes you to overcome the world; not nature, nor art, but faith.

our faith] Whereby we lay hold on Chriſt, and apply his victory to us, Joh.16.33. 1 Cor.15.57. Rev. 12. 11. ch. 4. 4. and get ſtrength from him to go on in this ſpiritual warfare, till we have fully overcome all Satans temptations, Rom.16.20. 1 Pet.5.9. So that faith is the inſtrumental cauſe of this victory, Chriſt in whom we beleeve, is the principal. For Faith, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.5.

V. 5. Who is he, &c.] Not that every one that beleeveth this, overcometh the world, but none elſe do it: ſee on chap.4.2.

V. 6. that came by water and bloud] That ſhed water and bloud out of his ſide, John 19.34,35. Or, that obſerved the legal waſhings and ſacrifices. Or, that appointed two ſacraments, one in water, the other in wine, a type of his bloud. Or, that waſheth away the filth of our ſins by his Spirit, and the guilt of them by his bloud. Of the firſt, the Legal waſhings were a type: of the ſecond, the ſacrifices. For Bloud, ſee on chap. 1.7.

it is the Spirit that beareth witneſs] By deſcending on Chriſt like a dove, Mat.3.16. Joh.1.32,33. Or, by raiſing him from the dead, Rom.1.4. Or, by working miracles by him. Or, by aſſuring us of it in the Word, and in our Conſciences: for the Spirit is of Gods privy counſel, Joh.14.26. and 15.26. and 16.13. 1 Cor. 2.10,11.

the Spirit is truth] And therefore cannot bear falſe witneſs of Chriſt to us, as being truth it ſelf. For Spirit, ſee on chap. 3. 24. For Truth, 2 Pet.1.12.

V. 7. For there are three] The ſixth verſe may be in a parentheſis; and this verſe may give a reaſon of the end of the fifth verſe; that Chriſt is the Son of God: of which, not the Spirit alone, but the Father and the Son bear witneſs alſo.

that bear record in heaven] Or, in heaven, that bear record: To wit, to us men on earth, that Chriſt is the Meſſias, or Son of God. The Father, John 5.32. and 8.18. by voice, Mat. 3. 17. The Son, by miracles, John 5.36. The holy Ghoſt, by cloven tongues, Acts 2.3,4,33. And often in the Scripture endited by the Spirit. He ſpeaks not now from heaven, and therefore is ſaid to be an earthly witneſs, verſe 8. as ſpeaking to us now in the Word, and in our Conſciences.

the word] Chriſt himſelf, chap.1.1. John 1.1.

theſe three are one] In eſſence, though they be three diſtinct perſons, John 10.30. and agree in their teſtimony concerning Chriſt, as if they were but one witneſs, or, agree in one, as verſe 8.

V. 8. There are three that bear witneſſe in earth] Or, There are three in earth, that bear witneſſe. Γῆ ſignifies; Firſt, the earth, Joh. 3.31. Secondly, a particular Land, or Countrey in the earth, Mat. 4.15. here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

the Spirit, &c.] See on verſe 6. Some underſtand it of the Spirit which he ſent forth on the Croſs at his death, Mat. 27.50. which, with the water and bloud coming out of his ſide, ſhewed him to be true man. The water, and the bloud. See on verſe 6.

theſe three agree in one] Gr. are for one thing; or, are for that one thing: to wit, to teſtifie of Chriſt, as the heavenly witneſſes did verſe 7.

V. 9. This is the witneſs of God] Teſtified by the three heavenly and earthly witneſſes, verſe 7,8. Of Chriſt, and of ſalvation by him, ver.11.12. And we have reaſon to receive this teſtimony of God in things divine, more than of honeſt men in things humane, becauſe Gods teſtimony, who cannot erre, is more ſure, and worthy of credit, 1 Tim.1.15. Tit.1.2. For God, ſee on 2 Pet.1.17.

V. 10. The witneſſe] Or, That witneſſe mentioned, ver.9,11. The holy Ghoſt will bear witneſs to him, that Chriſt is the Son of God.

a lyer] Chap.1.10. he beleeveth that he doth, or at leaſt that he can lye. He hath made him a lyer: to wit, in his heart: for he would not have doubted of the truth of his teſtimony, if he had not firſt ſuſpected the truth of God himſelf.

V. 11. And this is the record] Or, Even this is the record. So the particle is uſed, Mark 4.25. For the tenth verſe may be in a parentheſis, as not including the teſtimony, (which is recorded in this verſe) but ſhewing who have this teſtimony in them: ſee the like on ver. 7.

this life is in his Son] The original of it is in Chriſt. We have it for his merits, and derived unto us from him by his Spirit, John 10.10.

V. 12. He that hath the Son] By faith dwelling in his heart, Eph. 3.17.

hath life] Is raiſed from death to life, chap. 3. 14. and hath in him a principle of eternal life, John 3.36. He hath eternal life in hope, and ſhall have it in deed, ver.13.

V. 13. Theſe things have I written] John 20.31. On the Name of the Son of God, Chap.3.23.

that ye may have eternal life] A right to it, and earneſt of it here, and the thing it ſelf in heaven, in perpetual joy and happineſſe.

and that ye may beleeve] That ye may perſevere, encreaſe and grow ſtrong in faith.

V. 14. This is the confidence] This faith, ver. 13. is the ground of our confidence in prayer. Or, we not only beleeve, as ver. 13. but alſo have confidence in prayer.

in him] In Chriſt. Or, concerning him. Or, in God.

he heareth us] And will give us what we ask, ver.15. chap. 3. 21, 22, and chap. 4. 6. For hear, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 18.

V. 15. We know that we have the petitions] That we ſhall have them granted, as ſurely as if we had the things already which we pray for. See on verſe 14. John 14.13, 14. and 16. 23, 24, 26. Gods hearing us, then, is granting our requeſts.

V. 16. his brother] Therefore he muſt pray for him, becauſe he is his brother. For Brother, ſee on 2 Pet.1.10.

a ſin which is not unto death] Which doth not neceſſarily bring damnation (though it deſerve it) as the ſin againſt the holy Ghoſt doth, becauſe God will not give repentance to any that committeth that ſin, Heb.6.4,6. For Sin, ſee on 2 Pet.1.9.

he ſhall ask] Or, let him ask. Pardon for that ſinner.

he ſhall give him] Chriſt; mentioned, ver.13. Or, God asked.

life] Salvation, or deliverance from deſtruction, when his ſin is pardoned at the others requeſt, Job 42.8. which ſheweth that he deſerved hell.

for them] Not for one onely, but for many ſuch ſinners.

there is a ſin unto death] The ſin againſt the holy Ghoſt, which is unpardonable, Mat.12.31,32. Heb.6.4,6.

I do not ſay that he ſhall pray for it] I do not adviſe him to pray for ſor pardon for any that hath cōmitted that ſin: or, I forbid him to do it.

V. 17. All unrighteouſneſſe is ſin] As chap. 3. 4. Even the leaſt unrighteouſneſs is ſin, and diſpleaſing unto God.

and there is] Or, but there is; as chap. 4.3. or, yet there is; as chap. 2.1.

a ſin not unto death] Which may be repented, and forgiven, ſee on ver. 16.

V. 18. is born of God] Chap. 3.9.

ſinneth not] That ſin to death, ver. 16. Or, liveth not in a ſinful courſe; as chap. 3.6,9.

keepeth himſelf] From that ſin unpardonable.

that wicked one] The Devil, Matth. 6. 13. chap. 2. 13, 14. and 3.12.

toucheth him not] So as to bring him to that ſin, and to hell. Or, cannot do him the leaſt hurt, Job 2. 5. without Gods leave. Or, tempts him not to that ſin, as being out of hope to prevail.

V. 19. We are of God] Chap. 4.6.

the whole world lyeth in wickedneſſe] All men out of Chriſt, John 17.9,16. are altogether buried in ſin: or, lye in it as in a deep dungeon, or a dead ſleep: under the power and command of that wicked one, the devil, ver. 18.

V. 20. And we know] Or, but we know; as ver. 17.

that the Son of God is come] See chap. 4.2.

and hath given us underſtanding] Jer. 24.7.

him that is true] The true God, ver. 19. as followeth in this verſe, oppoſed to Idols, ver. 21. or, Chriſt, ſpoken of before in this verſe.

even in his Son] Or, and in his Son. We are in the Father, and in the Son, chap. 2.24.

this is the true God] Chriſt is the true God, John 17. 3. Tit. 2. 13. and 3.4. Jude ver. 25.

and eternal life] The authour of it, verſe 11. chap. 1. 2. Joh. 6. 68,69.

V. 21. Little children] See on chap. 2.1.

keep your ſelves from idols] From image-worſhip; for, idol and image ſignifie the ſame thing, but only the one is a Greek word originally, and the other a Latine. This overthroweth Popiſh ſerving God in images, and adviſeth men to be careful to avoid not onely palpable idolatry, but all dealing with idols. And having kept your ſelves from idolatry, abide conſtant in the true worſhip and ſervice of God. For keep, ſee on 2 Pet. 3.17.

Amen] See on Mat. 6.13. Jude ver. 25. A confirmation of the whole Epiſtle, 2 Pet. 3. 18.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE SECOND EPISTLE OF
S. JOHN.

The ARGUMENT.

THis is the onely Epiſtle in Scripture written to a Woman. And to one eminent, no doubt, in favour with God, and reſpect in the Church: wherein after ſalutation of her, and her children, he ſhews his joy in their gracious carriage, warns them to take heed of deceivers, and concludes with a promiſe of a pious viſitation, and ſalutation from her ſiſters children.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. T*He Elder*] Some conceive that the Apoſtle calleth himſelf ſo in humility, to equal himſelf with ordinary paſtours, as Peter doth, 1 Pet. 5. 1. Others think John called himſelf ſo, in reſpect of his age: ſee on 1 John 2.1.

unto the elect Lady] Some think her name was Elect. Others, that ſhe was ſo called, becauſe ſhe was a choice woman for grace. Others, becauſe the Apoſtle knew by the Spirit that ſhe was one of Gods elect, 1 Theſ. 1. 4. She was a matron honoured for her wealth and liberality to the poor. Or, one that had ſome civil title of honour above others. It may be ſuppoſed ſhe was a widow, becauſe her children are mentioned, but not her husband.

whom I love] Both mother and children.

in the truth] With a true and ſincere love: or, according as God in his Word hath appointed, which is called The Truth, John 17.17. Or, in Chriſt, who is called The Truth, Joh. 14.6.

but alſo all they, &c.] Such of them as lived in thoſe parts, and knew her piety. This ſheweth, it was no private indirect love which John bare to her, ariſing out of particular ends; but a religious love common to all Saints.

That know the truth] Revealed in the Goſpel. For Truth, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.12.

V. 2. for the truths ſake which dwelleth in us] The ground of my love, is the ſame lively faith wrought in us by Gods Spirit.

and ſhall be with us for ever] Which grace, where it hath once taken root, is never rooted out again, 1 Pet. 1.23,24,25.

V. 3. Grace be with you, mercy and peace] Paul uſeth the ſame ſalutation, 1 Tim. 1.2. 2 Tim. 1.2. Tit. 1. 4. he wiſheth them Gods favour to their perſons, mercy to pardon their ſins, and peace of conſcience, the Son of the Father] John 1.18. and 3.16. For Father, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

in truth and love] Or, with truth and love. So that particle is uſed, Mark 1. 23. and 5.2. he wiſheth them encreaſe of the knowledge of the truth, and of love one to another.

V. 4. I found] By experience, if at any time he converſed with them; or, by relation of others, if he did not.

of thy children] Some of thy children.

walking in truth] Sincerely, or as the truth of Gods Word preſcribes: ſee on ver. 1. Conſtantly profeſſing the true religion, and living according to it.

V. 5. I beſeech thee, Lady] He intreateth where he might command, as Paul doth, Phil. ver. 9,10. it may be he had ſome reſpect to the dignity of the Lady, to whom he wrote.

a new commandment] See on 1 John 2.7,8. I teach you no other doctrine than what ye received at firſt from the Apoſtles. From the beginning of our vocation to preach the Goſpel. For beginning, ſee on 1 John 1.1.

that we love one another] John 13.34. and 15.12.

V. 6. This is love] Herein it conſiſts. Or, this is that love, mentioned ver. 5.

that we walk after his commandments] Then we love God and our brethren, when we walk after Gods commandments: that is, according to them, John 14.15,21,23. and 15.10. 1 John 5. 2,3. Rom. 8. 1. Luſt, then, and ſparing offendors, whom we ought to reprove or puniſh, is not love, becauſe it is contrary to Gods commandments. Or, love it is whereby we are enabled to keep his commandments, John 14.21. and 15.9,10. chap. 2.23. and 5. 2,3. Love muſt not be idle, but employed in doing good, according to Gods Word.

this is the commandment] Of walking in the truth, ver. 4. or of love, ver. 5.

from the beginning] 1 Joh. 2.7.

V. 7. For many deceivers] I have reaſon to urge you to conſtancy, becauſe of falſe teachers, who ſeek to ſeduce you, 1 John 2. 18, 22. and 4.3. Theſe are impoſtors or juglers, who can deceive quick-ſighted-men, if they be not very careful, Mat. 27.63.

Into the world] See on 2 Pet. 1.4.

that Jeſus Chriſt is come in the fleſh] 1 John 4.3. For Fleſh, ſee on 2 Pet. 2. 18. And an Antichriſt, ſee on 1 John 2. 18. The ſum of ver. 13. To take heed of deceivers, who give men cole-mines for gold-mines, counterfeit principles of religion for true. Theſe are many, and already entred into the worlds where ye live, to deceive you. He had need watch, that lives among theeves. Therefore take heed of them. But how ſhall we know them, that we may take heed of them? Ye ſhall know them by a ſure token, they deny the Incarnation of Jeſus Chriſt. This is a ſure, though not an only note of a deceiver. Every ſuch one is one of thoſe deceivers, and Antichriſts, which I told you were entred into the world.

V. 8. that we loſe not the things] We Chriſtians, or we that taught you, if ye continue not in good ways; for the reward is promiſed to ſuch as continue to the end, Matth. 24. 13. others loſe it, Gal. 3. 4.

we have wrought] Or, gained. Some copies read, which ye have gained, but that ye receive, &c.

V. 9. Whoſoever tranſgreſſeth] Gods command of hearing Chriſt, Matth. 3. 17. Or, by apoſtacy forſaketh the truth in doctrine and life, contrary to ver. 4.

hath not God] To his father, nor his Spirit to guide him. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 17.

V. 10. And bring not this doctrine] Received from Chriſt, ver. 9. The meaning is, if he bring a contrary doctrine: elſe we ſhould refuſe the ſociety of many private men, who are not able to teach at all; which is not here intended, Gal. 1. 8, 9.

receive him not into your houſe] Lodge not a falſe teacher, nor have no familiarity with him, leſt he ſeduce you; and that ye may ſhew your zeal for the truth, and actually reprove him.

God ſpeed] Gr. to rejoyce. That was the ordinary ſalutation of the Greeks, Acts 23. 26. as Peace be to you, was of the Jews, Luke 10. 5. That is, ſhew him no countenance, nor give him any encouragement.

V. 11. is partaker of his evil deeds] Seemeth to allow of them, by his familiarity with him, and ſo may further him in ſeducing others, who would not regard the falſe teacher for himſelf.

V. 12. Having many things to write] He excuſeth the ſhortneſſe of his Epiſtle, not by want of matter to write, but by the hope he had of ſeeing her ſhortly. For all things were not fit to be written; and a lively voice affects more than a letter.

face to face] Gr. mouth to mouth. Without any letter or meſſenger coming between, Exod. 33. 11. Num. 12. 8. 3 John verſe 14. That you and I may be filled with joy, by ſeeing one another, and conferring one with another. This ſheweth the great holy mutual affection between the Apoſtle and this Elect Lady. For friends take great delight in converſing together, eſpecially after long abſence.

V. 13. The children of thy elect ſiſter greet thee] Ver. 1. which were with John. So he ſendeth other ſalutations, 3 John ver. 14. So doth Peter, 1 Pet. 5. 13. And Paul often, Rom. 16. 16, 21, 23. 1 Cor. 16. 20. 2 Cor. 13. 12. Phil. 4. 22. Col. 4. 14. 2 Tim. 4. 21. Tit. 3. 15. Philem. ver. 23, 24. Heb. 13. 24. Elect here is not a proper name, as ſome would have it, ver. 1. for it is not likely that two ſiſters ſhould have one name. Neither do the Greeks uſe to put the Article before proper names.

Amen] This ſeals up the whole Epiſtle, as 1 John 5. 21.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE THIRD EPISTLE OF S. JOHN.

The ARGUMENT.

THis Epiſtle is inſcribed to Gaius, to whom the Apoſtle firſt wiſheth all happineſs, then commends him for his zeal to the Truth, and hoſpitality to the Brethren, adviſing him not to be diſcouraged by the proud and perverſe carriage of Diotrephes, but to follow the good example of Demetrius. Laſtly, he concludes with a reſolution to ſee him quickly, and confer with him lovingly of theſe things; and ſalutations from Gaius his friends with him, and to his friends with Gaius.

CHAP. I.

Verſe 1. T*HE Elder*] See on 2 John ver. 1.

Gaius] Not to Gaius of Derbe, mentioned, Acts 20. 4. nor of Macedonia, ſpoken of, Acts 19. 29. but of Corinth, as is commonly thought, 1 Cor. 1. 14. Pauls hoſt, Rom. 16. 23.

whom I love] Not only for his piety, but alſo for his hoſpitality ſhewed in entertaining me and other godly teachers, and Chriſtians, ver. 5. Rom. 16. 23. It is likely the Romans called him Caius, which was a common name among them, and ſo Aretius calls him in his Notes on this Epiſtle; yet ſome think it to be another Gaius converted by John, and called his ſon therefore, ver. 4. and we read not of Johns being at Corinth.

in the truth] Or, truly. See on 2 John ver. 1.

V. 2. I wiſh] Or, pray.

above all things] Gr. of all things. Or, in all things. He wiſheth that Gaius may proſper in all perſons and things belonging to him.

that thou mayeſt proſper] Gr. go well in the way, Rom. 1. 10. Our life is the way to heaven, and John wiſheth Gaius a comfortable paſſage thither, 1 Cor. 16. 2.

and be in health] In bodily health; for ſpiritual health followeth.

as thy ſoul proſpereth] By peace of conſcience, through faith in Chriſt, Rom. 5. 1, 2. As thou thriveſt, and art well in ſoul, ſo I wiſh thou mayeſt proſper in body and ſtate. Ψυχὴ ſignifies, Firſt, the ſoul, Mat. 10. 28. Secondly, the life, Mat. 2. 20. Thirdly, a man, Rom. 13. 1. Fourthly, good will, Eph. 6. 6. Fifthly, the regenerate part of man, 1 Pet. 2. 11. Sixthly, a mans dead body, Acts 2. 27. Here it is taken in the firſt ſenſe.

V. 3. I rejoyced greatly] See 2 John ver. 4.

when the brethren came, and teſtified of the truth that is in thee] The brethren ſent by John about the publick affairs of the Church, and commended to the Church of Corinth, where Gaius lived, by Johns Epiſtle, ver. 9. refuſed by Diotrephes, ver. 10. entertained by Gaius, ver. 5, 6. and now returned to John, teſtified of Gaius his ſincerity in religion, (John 3. 21.) and his kind entertainment of them, ver. 6. ſo Paul doth, Phil. 4. 10, 18. 2 Cor. 9. 1. Heb. 6. 10. Or it may be underſtood of any Chriſtians that came from thence. For Brother, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 10. for Truth, on 2 Pet. 1. 12.

even as thou walkeſt in the Truth] In the true way ſet out in the Goſpel: ſee on 2 John ver. 4.

V. 4. then] Gr. then theſe joyes. Or, then of theſe things. For Hear, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 18.

that my children] Converted by my Miniſtery, 1 Cor. 4. 15. 1 Tim. 1. 2. Philem. ver. 10. Gal. 4. 19. Tit. 1. 4.

walk in the truth] See on ver. 3.

V. 5. thou doſt faithfully] As becometh a faithful Chriſtian. Or, like a good ſteward of worldly goods received from God, 1 Peter 4. 10.

whatſoever thou doſt] In entertaining the ſaints. It was, no doubt, a great comfort to Gaius, that the Spirit of God commends his charity by Johns pen, which Diotrephes and his followers diſliked.

to the brethren, and to ſtrangers] To thoſe poor Chriſtians that live by thee, and to others that come to ſojourn there a while, Iſa. 58. 6. Mat. 10. 40. and 25. 35. Rom. 12. 13. Heb. 13. 2. 1 Pet. 4. 9. Or, to the brethren, yea, to ſtrangers; as this particle is uſed, Mat. 26. 60. Thy kindneſſe ſtayes not at thy neighbour-chriſtians, but extends it ſelf to ſtrangers alſo. Or, by and, is meant eſpecially, as Matth. 13.41. Mar. 16.7. and elſewhere, where a ſpecial is put after his general. Thy kindneſſe to all Chriſtians, ſheweth thy faithfulneſſe to God, but eſpecially that which is ſhewed to ſuch as came to preach the Goſpel, or were driven from their own home for the profeſſion of it, ver. 7. For ſuch being unknown there, and not able to recompence kindneſs received; this kind of charity is highly praiſed by God, Deut. 10. 18, 19. Luke 14.14. Or, to the brethren, even to the ſtrangers: To wit, ſent by John: ſee on ver. 3. ſo the particle is uſed, Matth. 18. 25.

V. 6. Which have born witneſs] See on ver. 3.

of thy charity] To others. Or, of thy kind entertainment of them.

before the Church] In the aſſembly where John was. The Greek word Ἐκκλησία ſignifies; 1. Any aſſembly of men, Acts 19. 32. 2. An aſſembly of Chriſtians, 1 Cor. 14. 34. 3. The aſſembly of Saints in heaven, Eph. 5.27. 4. Chriſtians on earth, Acts 5. 11. 5. Their meeting place, 1 Cor. 11.22. 6. The whole company of Gods elect, Matth. 16. 18. Here it is taken in the ſecond ſenſe.

whom if thou bring forward on their journey] It may be they might be ſome godly Chriſtians coming from beyond Corinth to John for publick advice, from the Churches, whom Gaius had kindly uſed; and now he adviſeth him to do ſo in their return. Or, if it be meant of thoſe that had returned to John, being ſent from him before, he perſwadeth Gaius to uſe them kindly when he ſhall have occaſion to ſend them again. Or it may be underſtood of others ſuch like, ver. 5. whom John would have Gaius to go along withal ſome part of their way, as Chriſtians uſed to do to their brethren that were ſtrangers, eſpecially to Miniſters, Acts 15.3. and 20.38. and 21.5. 1 Cor. 16.11. 2 Cor. 1.16. Tit. 3.13. either becauſe they were ignorant of the way, or the way might be unſafe, or they ſubject to perſecution there; ſo that rich men, and great ones, ſuch as Gaius ſeems to be, might be a great ſecurity to them, by going or ſending company with them. Or it might be done to honour and comfort thoſe ſtrangers, or that themſelves might get as much good by their ſociety as might be. Others underſtand it of providing things needful for their journey, till they might come to other Chriſtians, who might take further care of them.

after a godly ſort] Gr. worthy of God. According to Gods command. Or, worthy of the profeſſion of Gods truth, as Chriſtians ought to do, to credit their religion. Or, honourably, as the Miniſters and children of God ought to be received. Or, as they would receive God, Mat. 10.40. For God, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.17.

thou ſhalt do well] Or, thou ſhalt do them a good turn.

V. 7. Becauſe, &c.] Becauſe their wants come on them for their love to the true religion, they are worthy to be releeved by the true profeſſours of it.

for his Names ſake] God's, ver. 6. To make his Name known by preaching it, or ſuffering for it; as on ver. 5.

taking nothing of the Gentiles] They took no reward of the Gentiles for preaching to them, Matth. 10. 7, 8. that men might more willingly receive the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9.18, 19. 2 Cor. 11. 9, 12. and 12. 14. Or, being perſecuted for their religion, they left all their goods to their perſecutours, and fled for their lives. Ἔθνος ſignifies; 1. A company of men in general, Matth. 25.32. 2. The Nation of the Jews in ſpecial, John 11. 48. 3. The Gentiles in particular, Mat 6.32. ſo here.

V. 8. We therefore] We Chriſtians, yea, we Jewiſh Chriſtians eſpecially, that they may preach to the Gentiles, to bring them in to joyn with us.

ought to receive ſuch] To offer and afford them entertainment voluntarily, before they ask for it, Gen. 18.2, 3. and 19.1, 2. Luke 24. 29. Heb. 13.2.

that we might be fellow-helpers] Gr. fellow-workmen. By ſupplying them with means, that they may preach the truth, or ſuffer for it the more willingly. This is a great encouragement to help others, that we are accounted to have a part in the work, though it be a Prophets, and ſhall have a part in the reward, Mat. 10. 41. Alſo it may intimate, that as they were releeved by theſe now, ſo theſe may by them in the work another time, 2 Cor. 8.14.

to the truth] Or, for the truth, or, in the truth. They were fellow-helpers to the truth, in providing for them that preached the Goſpel. For Truth, ſee on 2 Pet. 1. 12.

V. 9. I wrote] To recommend theſe brethren to the Churches which they were to paſſe by. Or, I would have written, (for we have no ſuch Epiſtle) and then he means he was diſcouraged from writing, becauſe he thought it in vain to write any more in that caſe being oppoſed by Diotrephes.

unto the Church] Of Corinth, where Gaius was an eminent member.

but Diotrephes] But I fear, or, I hear, Diotrephes hath refuſed to receive them. The name of a prime Paſtour among them. Others take it to be a common name applied to one there, that moſt eagerly and inordinately ſought for ſuperiority over other Miniſters, and Chriſtians. So boaſting, and arrogant men of old were called Διοτρεφεῖς, Nouriſhed by Jupiter. So Homer brings in one ſpeaking of an arrogant man: Ἔχθιστος δέ μοί ἐστι διοτρεφέων βασιλήων, He is envied moſt by me of all the Kings nouriſhed by Jupiter.

who loveth to have the preeminence] It ſeemeth he was Paſtour there, and would not let ſtrange Miniſters be received, leſt he ſhould be ſleighted; and not be accounted higheſt, and moſt excellent in that Church.

receiveth us not] Acknowledgeth not our authority, by receiving our Epiſtle. Or, receiveth not me, and ſuch as I am; as ver. 10.

V. 10. I will remember] Gr. I will make mention of. I will ſpeak of them publickly there, to his diſgrace.

prating] Gr. talking fooliſhly, or vainly.

againſt us] Againſt me John; as ver. 9. ſee on ver. 12. Or, me, and them I ſent.

and not content therewith] As if he were not ſatisfied with diſgracing my perſon, he refuſeth, and harſhly uſeth ſuch are ſent by me. For word, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.19.

And not content therewith] Being yet more mad and impious, Acts 26.11.

receive the brethren] He ſhould have entertained them kindly, becauſe he profeſſeth himſelf a brother to them, as being one of the ſame religion, ſee on ver. 5. By brethren, here is meant ſtrangers, either preachers or ordinary Chriſtians: ſee on ver. 5. For brother, ſee on 2 Pet. 1.10.

forbiddeth them that would] This ſheweth great malice againſt them. He will not let any receive them: Neither thee Gaius, nor others.

and caſteth them out of the Church] Refuſeth communion with theſe ſtrangers, or thoſe that received them, John 9. 34. No doubt this was a great diſcouragement to Gaius, from his Paſtour; yet he obeys the Apoſtle, who had more power over him, ver. 5. He excommunicates them, if they obey not his prohibition. For Church, ſee on ver. 6.

V. 11. Follow not] Gr. Imitate not; for they that follow, go the ſame way. And, to walk after Gods precepts, or according to them, in Scripture-phraſe is all one.

that which is evil, but that which is good] Not the evil example of Diotrephes, ver. 9, 10. but the good example of Demetrius, ver. 12. Rom. 12.9. Or, imitate not Diotrephes in any of his evil ways; but follow him nevertheleſs in any thing that is good, Matth. 23.2. Ἀγαθὸν ſignifies; 1. Good, Rom. 3.8. 2. Profit, Rom. 8.28. 3. Virtue, 1 Pet. 3.13. 4. Chriſtian liberty, Rom. 14. 16. here in the third ſenſe.

hath not ſeen God] By the eyes of faith. Hath not known him to his good, 1 John 4. 8. For God cannot be ſeen, John 1.18. 1 Joh. 4. 20. It is likely that theſe proud excommunicatours boaſted of viſions, (as many erroneous perſons do now adaies) but the Apoſtle gives them the ly.

V. 12. Demetrius hath good report of all men] Of moſt men, yea, of heathen alſo, 1 Tim. 3. 7. becauſe they got good by him, or heard him much commended by others. Or, of all the brethren that live in thoſe parts, and would have of all others, if they knew him. Either he was a good Miniſter, and worthy to be entertained by Gaius, or a neighbour to be commended for, and imitated in entertaining ſtrangers. It is probable, that this good report aroſe upon his hoſpitality in receiving ſtrangers, both Preachers, and other Chriſtians, ver. 5.

and of the truth it ſelf] From his actions, John 3. 21. Prov. 31.31. Or, of God, who is the truth it ſelf, 1 John 5. 6. Or, he is to be commended indeed, not for the ſpeech of the people onely, which ſometimes proves untrue.

yea, and we alſo bear record] I John do it, as verſe 9. Or, we have found him kind to us, and do acknowledge it, as ver. 6. This alſo might comfort Demetrius againſt Diotrephes, who took a contrary courſe: ſee on ver. 5.

and ye know] John 19. 35. and 21. 24.

Ye know] By experience of my carriage to you, or obſervation of it toward others.

that our record is true] That we uſe not to flatter, but to ſpeak truly, John 21. 24. Therefore imitate him, and not Diotrephes. Κάλαμος ſignifies; 1. A reed, Matth. 12.20. 2. A pen; as here: for pens were of old time made of reeds.

V. 13. I have many things to write, &c.] See on 2 John ver. 12.

V. 14. But I truſt, &c.] See on 2 John ver. 12.

And then we ſhall ſpeak] Στόμα ſignifies; 1. A mouth, Matth. 15.11. 2. Speech, Luke 19. 22. 3. The edge of a ſword, Luke 21. 24. 4. Boldneſs of ſpeech, Luke 21. 15. here in the ſecond ſenſe.

face to face] Gr. mouth to mouth. See on 2 John ver. 12.

peace be to thee] John 20.19, 21, 26. ſee on 2 John ver. 10.

our friends] The faithful Chriſtians with me here, who love both me and you.

ſalute thee] Wiſh thee all happineſs.

greet the friends] Our Chriſtian brethren, ver. 5. which are with you; ſo called, becauſe of their great affection they bear one to another, ther, Tit. 3. 15. Natural brethren may fail one another, before Chriſtian friends will, Prov. 18.24.

by name] Severally. Either John knew all their names, or elſe they were as dear to him as thoſe friends whom he knew by name, Exod. 33. 12. Thus he ſheweth not a vulgar or common, but a peculiar,paternal, paſtoral love unto them. The Italian Tranſlation reads, One by one. Not all in general, but every one in particular, and by name, John 10.3.

* * *

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE EPISTLE OF S. JUDE.

The ARGUMENT.

This Apoſtle ſurviving many of his Colleagues, as it ſeems, verſe 17. writes this general Epiſtle, wherein after he hath wiſhed much good to all Gods people, he exhorts them to maintain Truth of Doctrine, with purity of life and converſation, leſt they ſhould be ſeduced by falſe Teachers, whoſe manners he deſcribes, and threatens damnation to them. Afterwards, he exhorts them to remember the Apoſtles doctrine, though they were dead; to build up themſelves in grace, to ſtick cloſe to God, to ſeek to ſave others, and concludes all, with the praiſe of God.

Verſe 1. Iude] The name is prepoſed, not ſubſcribed, as the manner then was, Acts 23.26. Of this name was Jacobs fourth ſon, from whom the Jews had their name. We read alſo of Judas of Galilee, an Authour of ſedition, Acts 5.37. Judas called Barſabas, Acts 15.22. Judas Iſcariot, Matth. 10. 4. And this Judas mentioned alſo, Luke 6.16. He is called Thaddeus, Mat. 10. 3. He hath alſo the name of Lebbeus, Matth. 10.3. His fathers name was Alpheus,who is called the father of James his brother, Mat. 10.3. His mothers name ſeems to be Mary, Mat.27.56. compared with Mat.13.55.

the ſervant] See on Rev. 1. 1. He might have written himſelf, An Apoſtle, as Paul doth, Rom. 1. 1. 1 Cor.1.1. 2 Cor. 1.1. and Peter, 1 Pet. 1. 1. which was a more glorious title: or, a kinſman of Jeſus Chriſt, as indeed he was, Mat. 13. 55. but in humility he chuſeth the title of a ſervant. So doth his brother, James 1. 1.

of Jeſus Chriſt] See on Mat.1.1.

brother] Chriſt called ſome pairs of brethren to be Apoſtles: See on Mat. 4.18,21.

of James] The ſame name with Jacob. See the reaſon of the name, Gen. 25.26. and 27.36. Hoſ. 12. 3. He mentioneth his brother, firſt, becauſe he was famous among the Apoſtles, gave ſentence in the Council of Jeruſalem, Acts 15. 13, 19. abode there much, Acts 21. 18. Gal. 1. 19. Secondly, to ſhew that he was no other Jude but the Apoſtle, Luke 6.16. Acts 1.13. Thirdly, to diſtinguiſh him from Judas Iſcariot, who betrayed Chriſt, and was alſo an Apoſtle; and from the other Judas mentioned before.

to them, &c.] A general Epiſtle, not directed to any particular Church, as that to the Romans, and many other.

that are ſanctified] Regenerate, and made holy by faith in Chriſt, Acts 26. 18.

by God] Gr. in God.

the Father] This work uſeth to be attributed to the holy Ghoſt, John 3. 5. Tit. 3. 5. yet the Father hath an hand in it alſo, John 17. 17. 1 Pet.1.3.

preſerved in Chriſt Jeſus] As ver. 11. in the way. Kept true members of Jeſus Chriſt. Or, preſerved to Jeſus Chriſt. Kept by God the Father, John 6.39,40.and 10.29. to be preſented to Chriſt blameleſs at the day of judgement, Epheſ. 5.27. 2 Cor. 11.2.

called] To the heavenly marriage-feaſt, Mat. 22. 2, &c. and that externally, by the preaching of the Goſpel: for internal calling is all one with ſanctification mentioned before.

V. 2. Mercy unto you] Compaſſion, in regard of your infirmities and miſeries, which ye are ſubject to in this world, as well as wicked men.

peace] A ſenſible perſwaſion of Gods love, or peace of conſcience: for they were at peace with God before.

love] He prayeth God to ſhew forth the fruits of his love, in doing them good ſpiritually and corporally. We may be merciful to enemies, and pity them in their miſeries. We may be at peace with ſtrangers, and do them no harm. But to thoſe we love, we do all the good we can.

be multiplyed] In the abundant fruits of each of them.

V. 3. Beloved] His love moved him to write this Epiſtle, and ſhould move them to heed it. Good Miniſters love their people.

when I gave all diligence] Or, giving all diligence. Not as if the Apoſtle were one while diligent, and another while negligent; but he waited always for a fit occaſion to write to them. The ſame Greek word ſignifieth haſte: for diligent men make haſte to diſpatch their work.

to write unto you] He was ſo careful of them, that when he could not be preſent to teach them, he wrote to them. There was alſo an hand of God in it, as in all the other Epiſtles of the Apoſtles, that ſuch in after-ages as could not hear them preach, might enjoy the benefit of their doctrine to the worlds end.

of the common ſalvation] That ſalvation in which all the Elect have a joynt part, Epheſ.4. 4. Tit. 1. 4.

it was needful] For him as an Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 9. 16. for them, becauſe falſe teachers roſe up among them, who might ſeduce them, ver. 4. Acts 20. 26, 27, 28, 29.

and exhort you] Not to praiſe you, or reprove you, or barely to intimate to you what you have to doe, but to ſeek to work on your affections by perſwaſion.

that ye ſhould earneſtly contend] As Wreſtlers do for the victory.

for the faith] His care to ſave their ſouls,made him write to them to keep the faith, which is the way to ſalvation. Faith is not here taken for faithfulneſs, as Deut.32.20.nor for credulity,as Jam.2.19.nor for confidence, as John 3.16.nor for faith of miracles, as Mat. 17. 20. but for the doctrine of the Goſpel,which is to be beleeved. So hope is taken for the thing hoped for, Rom.8.24. Col. 1.5.

once] Juſtifying faith wrought in the ſouls of Gods Elect, is often given; but the doctrine of faith is once, or already given, as ver. 5. and never to be changed, Eph.4.5.but muſt be kept in purity and integrity, as it was firſt delivered, without any alteration. Or, once for all; not to be delivered any more, Heb. 12.26,27. Hence it is, that a curſe is pronounced againſt ſuch as adde to it,or take away from it, Rev.22.18,19.Thoſe dreamers mentioned,v.8. might both adde and take away. Jude biddeth the Chriſtians hold what they had, and refuſe the additions and alterations of thoſe falſe prophets, Gal.1.8.

delivered] From heaven.

to the ſaints] Who live in the Church of God here on earth, ver. 1. Rom.1.7.

V.4. crept in unawares] Beſide your expectation; as ſouldiers that march by a town, and ſuddenly return and take it: or, as pioners, who enter by a Mine while the ſouldiers defend the walls. Or, not ſent by God, but taking the Miniſtery upon them of their own heads, John 10. 1. 2 Tim.3.6.

of old ordained] That no man might be offended at their ſudden coming in, he ſheweth that God knew it before, and did ordain them to deſtruction.

to this condemnation] To hell, as the Angels that fell,ver.6.and the Sodomites,v 7. Or,to this judgement, 1 Cor.11.29,31,32. To be permitted to fall into theſe ſins, that bring damnation.

ungodly men] Such as worſhip not God aright; or, have no fear of God at all,Gen.20.11. Pſalm 30.1. Rom.3.18.

turning the grace of our God into laſciviouſneſs] The grace of God inviteth us to ſobriety,Tit.2.11,12. but they turn it to a contrary end.

denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt] Denying Chriſt to be God, who was their maſter by profeſſion (for they profeſſed themſelves to be of his houſhold) and their Lord by publick authority over them. Or, by their deeds denying Chriſt.

V. 5. I will therefore put you in remembrance] As Miniſters are Gods remembrancers, Iſa. 62. 6. ſo they are the peoples alſo: the former, by praying; the later,by preaching.

though ye once knew this] He conceiveth, that, being Chriſtians, they were not ignorant of Gods judgements recorded in the Scriptures, 2 Pet.1.12.

how that, &c.] Three examples are given: one in the Church,in this verſe; another in heaven, ver. 6. another in the world, ver. 7. ſhewing that ſinners can no where eſcape Gods judgments.

the Lord]The deliverance of the people came from God,Exod.20.2.

having ſaved]Some read,Though ye knew this, how that the Lord, having once ſaved. This is added,to make the judgment the greater, becauſe it came not on them while they were ſlaves in Egypt, but after they were ſet at liberty. To this purpoſe the Angels firſt condition is mentioned, ver. 6.

the people] Of Iſrael. He ſpeaketh to them, as men converſant in Scripture, who knew what people he meant, though he did not name them.

Out of the land of Egypt] From captivity and miſery, Exod. 1.

afterward] Gr. the ſecond time ; To wit, after he had once delivered them, he deſtroyed them. Or, they were once in a ſort loſt in Egypt, and now the ſecond time in the wilderneſs, Heb. 11. 19.

V. 6. their firſt eſtate] Gr. their beginning. The eſtate they were firſt made in. God made them good and happy, as he did men, but they, by their fall, made themſelves wicked and unhappy. Or, principality : their glorious condition.

but left] Negligence is here attributed to the Angels, in that they were not careful to keep ſo glorious a condition. They are not ſaid to be put out of heaven, but not to keep it, and to leave it ; to wit, by ſinning, 2 Pet. 2. 4.

their own habitation] Gr. their proper habitation : Which God had prepared for them, as fit for ſuch glorious creatures.

He hath reſerved in everlaſting chains] As priſoners are kept in priſon bound till the aſſizes come ; ſo are they kept by Gods power, that they cannot eſcape. This ſheweth, their pains are not yet at greateſt. It ſheweth alſo, that they are unavoidable.

under darkneſs] He hath kept them as it were in a dark dungeon, to be judged afterwards.

unto the judgement of the great day] In the end of the world, when all the world ſhall be judged ; as ver. 14, 15. Acts 17. 31. 2 Tim. 1. 18. 1 Cor. 6. 3.

V. 7. Sodom and Gomorrah] Fruitful places, and pleaſant, but very ſinful, Gen. 13 10, 13. and 18. 20.

and the Cities about them] Adma, and Zeboim, Hoſ. 11. 8.

in like manner] Being corrupted by their bad example.

ſtrange fleſh] Gr. other fleſh : Mans fleſh, which they ſhould not have uſed in that kind. Or, divers fleſh ; not created by God to that end, Rom. 1. 26, 27. this ſin hath the name of Sodomy from them.

are ſet forth for an example] Not to imitate, but to inſtruct others to take heed of their ſins, leſt they periſh like them, Rev. 18. 4. 1 Cor. 10. 6, 11. Are ſent to hell, as an example of Gods eternal judgement on groſs ſinners. Or, being deſtroyed by fire from heaven, lye ſtill in the duſt, as a type of eternal deſtruction in hell ; ſo that thoſe cities, being drowned in the dead ſea, can be built no more, 2 Pet. 2. 6.

V. 8. Likewiſe alſo] They were like the Sodomites in uncleanneſs, ver. 7. like the Angels that fell, in deſpiſing dominion, ver. 6. like the Iſraelites who murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron, in ſpeaking evil of dignities, ver. 5. No ſin is recorded in Scripture, but ſome practiſe it in after-times.

theſe filthy dreamers] They were ſo given to wantonneſs, that they not only practiſed it being awake, but alſo dreamed of it, and defiled themſelves in their ſleep. Or, dreamers, becauſe they vented their own dreams, and fancies in ſtead of Gods truth, Jer. 23. 25. to 28. 32.

defile the fleſh] Make their bodies abominable before God and men, as ſwine make themſelves filthy by wallowing in the mire, Gen. 49. 4. Lev. 20. 12, 13, 14. 1 Cor. 6. 18.

deſpiſe] Gr. depoſe. Or, abrogate. To wit, in their hearts ; for they live as if they were no rulers over them, Pſalm 14. 1. They do as it were reject them, or put them off the throne, Luke 10. 16. John 12. 48.

dominion] Not the Governours only, as ſome do, for their weakneſſes, and abuſe of their power ; but the government it ſelf : they would have no authority to be in the world.

ſpeak evil of] Gr. blaſpheme. They hurt their fame by reproaches and ſlanders.

dignities] Magiſtrates, who were more honourable than others.

V. 9. Yet] Though theſe be thus bold to rail upon Magiſtrates, yet the arch-angel would not rail on the devil, though he were greater than they, and devils far worſe than wicked Magiſtrates; and though he were greater than the devil, and they leſſe than the Magiſtrates whom they revile.

Michael] Jude had this Hiſtory either from ſome Canonical book loſt, as ſome think ; or, as others, from ſome Hiſtory, not Canonicall ; for ſuch are cited in Scripture ſometimes : or, by tradition, which was in uſe before the Scripture was written : or, by inſpiration. No doubt it was true, becauſe Gods Spirit here owneth it.

the arch-angel] Some conceive him to be Chriſt : others, to be a principal angel, Dan. 10. 13.

when contending with the devil he diſputed] That is, he uſed might in deeds, as well as reaſon in words. Or, he diſputed earneſtly.

about the body of Moſes] Some underſtand it figuratively, of that contention about the deliverance of the people from captivity, Zech. 3. 2. becauſe there the devil, and the words following, are found. Others take it literally, that when God is ſaid to bury Moſes his body, Deut. 34. 6. he employed the arch-angel Michael to do it, that no man might know where it was laid ; but Satan reſiſted him, that ſo the people might know where it was, and worſhip it in after-times; or, that Moſes might not be ſo honourably buried ; or, that his body might lie above ground, out of the land of Canaan, to be abuſed by the enemies of Gods people.

durſt not] Or, could not endure. It ſeemeth Michael had occaſion given him to uſe bad language, and was much provoked by Satan ; yet, out of fear of God, durſt not do it. See the like of Joſeph, Gen. 39. 9.

bring againſt him] Or, adde : to wit, to Satans words, who, as it ſeemeth, ſpared no ill language.

railing accuſation] Gr. judgement of blaſphemy.

the Lord, &c.] Zech. 3. 2.

rebuke thee] Stop thy foul mouth : or, put thee to ſilence, as Mark 1. 25. Luke 4. 35. and 23. 40.

V. 10. ſpeak evil of thoſe things which they know not] Ignorance ſhould keep them from cenſuring, eſpecially ſuch perſons as are above them, or ſuch things as are above their reach. But they are impudent, and ſpeak evil of the greateſt perſons on earth, and the greateſt myſteries of religion.

what they know naturally] They live not according to naturall principles, but drown them by bad life, Rom. 1. 21. 1 Tim. 1. 7. Or, they know nothing, but what cometh within the compaſs of their ſenſes, and follow ſenſual objects to their deſtruction.

as bruit-beaſts] By natural light and experience, which things the bruit-beaſts in part know.

in thoſe things] Or, by thoſe things. So, in the holy Ghoſt, ver. 20. that is, by the holy Ghoſt.

they corrupt themſelves] Gr. they are corrupted. Such things they without choice abuſe, to ſatisfie their ſenſuality, 2 Pet. 2. 12.

V. 11. They have gone in the way] So the Scripture uſeth to aggravate ſinners evil courſes, by comparing them with groſs wicked mens ways ſet out in Scripture to their perpetual diſgrace, 1 Kings 16. 26, 31.

of Cain] They perſecute Gods ſervants for their goodneſs, as he did his brother Abel, 1 John 3. 12.

ran greedily] Gr. were poured out. They made haſte to ſinne for gain, as water runneth apace out of a bottle. Or, they loſt their ſouls for gain, as water ſpilt on the ground is loſt, 2 Sam. 14. 14.

the errour] Gain led them out of the right way.

of Balaam] Who would have curſed Gods people, and gave ill counſel againſt them, for money, Numb. 31. 16.

periſhed] Were utterly loſt in this ſinful courſe, without hope of amendment. For they were not yet in hell, ver. 12.

in the gain-ſaying] Oppoſing Magiſtrates, v. 8.

of Core] Others joyned with him, but he was the ring-leader, Num. 16. 1.

V. 12. Theſe are, &c.] The Apoſtle, to ſhame theſe ſinners, bringeth ſimilitudes from feaſts, where ſpots are bred on mens apparel, from the skie in the clouds, from the earth in the trees, from the ſea in the waves, from the heaven in the planets.

ſpots] Such as pollute mens garments in feaſts, ariſing out of fat or liquor falling on them. Others take it to be an alluſion to ſpots on the body, which diſgrace it. Others, to the ſpots on cattel, that made them unfit for peace-offerings. The ſenſe is, that they were a blemiſh to their feſtival meetings.

in your feaſts of charity] Made for the poor, as Luke 14. 12, 13. Or, for others of the ſame religion with us, 1 Cor. 11. 33, 34.

when they feaſt with you] They came without bidding, thruſt themſelves in, and defiled the Tables with gluttony, and drunkenneſs, evil doctrine, wanton words, geſtures, looks.

feeding themſelves without fear] Impudent perſons, not fearing to offend God, by intemperance, nor regarding what men might ſay of them therefore, Luke 18. 4.

clouds they are without water] Promiſing rain to the husbandman, but giving none : ſo theſe made ſhew of great learning and piety, whereby they might do good to others ; but were empty of both, and deceived mens expectations.

carried about of winds] Unſtable, and coming to nothing in the end, Eph. 4. 14.

trees whoſe fruit withereth] Gr. autumn-trees : Such as put out in autumn, when they ſhould give fruit.

unfruitful] Becauſe blowing ſo late, the fruit cannot ripen.

twice dead] Having neither fruit nor leaves. Or, firſt loſing their fruit, and then dying themſelves, as trees blowing ſo late uſe to do; ſo theſe apoſtata's were firſt dead by nature, born in ſin, Eph. 1. 1, 2. Secondly, having made a ſhew of ſpiritual life, by profeſſing the true religion, they loſt that alſo, by falling into errours and vices. Or, twice dead : that is, altogether or certainly dead, as Pſalm 62. 11. Job 33. 14. ſo theſe were ſure to go to hell, ver. 4.

plucked up by the roots] Paſt all hope of ſpringing up again. It is a bad condition for a tree, to bloſſome, and yet bear no fruit : it is worſe to die, and have no hope of ever bearing any fruit hereafter : worſt of all, to be plucked up by the roots ; then it is good for nothing but the fire. Such was the condition of theſe falſe teachers.

V. 13. raging waves of the ſea] Gr. wilde. For the waves roar like wilde beaſts in the wood. Hereby is ſignified, men given to extream luſts, or paſſion, or pride, triumphing and inſulting over others, as one wave in the ſea throweth down another, 2 Pet. 2. 18.

Foming out their own ſham:] By their vain words revealing their internal corruptions, as the raging ſea caſteth out dirt and mire, Iſa. 57. 20. Phil. 3. 19. The Greek word is ſhames: that which doth moſt of all ſhame them.

wandring ſtars] Not conſtant, like the fixed ſtars, but paſſing from one courſe of religion or life to another, as Planets remove: or rather, as blazing ſtars, which have no regular motion, and quickly vaniſh away, notwithſtanding their glorious ſhew for a time.

to whom is reſerved] See on ver. 6.

the blackneſſe of darkneſſe] The moſt black darkneſs. So hell is deſcribed, Mat. 8. 12. and 22. 13.

for ever] In hell.

V. 14. And Enoch alſo] Or, For even Enoch. So the one particle is tranſlated, Matth. 13. 21. and the other, Mar. 3. 19. He foretold of their deſtruction, and therefore it is certain. Whence this hiſtory was taken, ſee in the like, on ver. 9.

the ſeventh from Adam] Including Adam for one. See the like, Mat. 1. 17. This is mentioned to ſhew the antiquity of this prophecy: for he lived ſome while with Adam. The worlds end is certain, and the day of the general judgement; for it hath been foretold well nigh from the beginning of the world.

propheſyed of theſe] Of ſuch men as theſe, that ſhould trouble the Church in future times. Or, to theſe: that is, to ſuch as theſe in his time, whoſe deſtruction he foretold. So will theſe be deſtroyed now alſo.

behold] This ſheweth the certainty and glorioufneſſe of his coming, Iſa. 7. 14. Hab. 1. 5.

the Lord cometh] He will as ſurely come, as if he were now coming, Hoſ. 10. 7. Rev. 14. 8. and 18. 2. That manner of curſe which the Apoſtle uſeth in that ſolemn curſe, Maranatha, 1 Cor. 16. 22. ſeemeth to be taken from the firſt words of this prophecie.

with ten thouſand] Divers millions, Dan. 7. 10. Rev. 5. 11.

of his Saints] Holy Angels to attend him, Mat. 25. 31, 32. 2 Theſ. 1. 8. Or, holy men riſen again, as Mat. 19. 28. 1 Cor. 6. 2. 2 Theſ. 1. 10.

V. 15. To execute judgement upon all] To adjudge all wicked men, eſpecially ſuch as are particularly mentioned in the words following, to eternal miſery, Mat. 25. 32, 34, 41, 46.

to convince] To prove them not to be ſuch as they pretend, and to make them acknowledge the juſtice of their condemnation, Luke 19. 22.

of all their ungodly deeds] Theſe falſe teachers did much hurt by bad life, as well as by evil words; and muſt anſwer for both.

ungodly committed] Ungodlily: after a wicked manner, without all fear of God, ver. 4.

of all their hard ſpeeches] Not to be born. Bold and impudent ones, 1 Sam. 2. 3. Pſalm 31. 18. and 75. 5. and 94. 4. Mal. 3. 13.

which ungodly ſinners] Irreligious men, who wilfully live in the breach of Gods commandements.

have ſpoken againſt him] Againſt God himſelf, Pſa. 73. 9. and 78. 19. Mal. 3. 13.

V. 16. Theſe are murmurers] Privy whiſperers, Mat. 20. 11.

complainers] Out of diſcontent and envy, not content with their own condition, and finding fault with other mens, Mat. 20. 12. 1 Cor. 10. 10. James 5. 9.

walking after their own luſts] After the corrupt motions of the fleſh, Rom. 8. 1. 2 Pet. 3. 3.

their mouth ſpeaketh] They not onely think ſo, but utter it aloud, Pſalm 73. 9, 11.

great ſwelling words] Vain-glorious words, riſing like bubbles in the water.

having in admiration] Looking on them, as on miracles, or high things.

mens perſons] Or, faces. Their external ſhew of wealth or greatneſſe, Prov. 24. 23. Acts 10. 34. Gal. 2. 6.

becauſe of advantage] They reſpected not godly wiſe men, but flattered great men in the world, to raiſe or enrich themſelves, ver. 11. and made the profeſſion of piety a matter of gain, 1 Tim. 6. 5.

V. 17. But ye] Ye live amongſt theſe falſe teachers, take heed therefore that ye be not ſeduced by them.

beloved, remember the words] Charity teacheth us to judge, that the ſins of Gods ſervants come, out of forgetfulneſs, not out of evil purpoſes. So men judge of the errours of them they love.

which were ſpoken before] That they might not be offended at the riſing up of theſe wicked ones in the Church, he ſheweth that their coming was foretold, ver. 4. 14.

of the Apoſtles] That is, by the Apoſtles. Not which others ſpake of them, but which they ſpake. It ſeemeth Jude was alive, when moſt of the Apoſtles were dead, and therefore he putteth them in minde of their ſayings, that they might not die with them.

V. 18. mockers] A great part of the miſeries of Gods people, come from mockers, 2 Pet. 3. 3. Gen. 21. 9. Gal. 4. 29.

in the laſt time] 1 Tim. 4. 1. 2 Tim. 3. 1.

who ſhould walk after, &c.] See on ver. 16.

their own ungodly luſts] Gr. luſts of wickedneſs. Moſt wicked ones. See the like phraſe, Dan. 10. 11, 19. For the matter, ſee on ver. 15. 16. They ſhould live well who deride others, leſt they lay themſelves open to contempt: but lightly, they themſelves are evil and ſhameleſs.

V. 19. who ſeparate] Themſelves, as Heb. 10. 25. Or, others, as 2 Pet. 2. 1, 2. Acts 20. 30. 2 Tim. 3. 6.

ſenſual] Men that follow their ſenſes, and loſe heaven for purſuing worldly objects, as ver. 10. Or, natural, or, animal. Men having nothing in them more than beaſts, but a reaſonable ſoul, remaining yet in their natural condition, and not new born, although they make much ſhew of godlineſs. So the word is uſed, 2 Cor. 2. 14. and ſo the oppoſition following ſeemeth to interpret it.

having not the ſpirit] And therefore have no holineſs in them, nor nothing to do with Chriſt, Rom. 8. 9.

V. 20. But ye, beloved] They deſtroy the building, by ſeparating the parts one from another; but do ye build it up, as the wiſe woman doth, Prov. 14. 1.

building up your ſelves] It is not enough that ye have laid a right foundation, but ye muſt confirm and advance your ſelves daily in your ſpiritual eſtate, on the foundation of faith in Chriſt, as a building aſcends. For Chriſtian men are not dead, but living ſtones, and help to build themſelves, 1 Pet. 2. 5. It may be underſtood of encreaſing their own graces ſeverally, as 2 Pet. 3. 18. or, of edifying one another, as ver. 22, 23. Heb. 10. 25. Acts 9. 31.

on your moſt holy faith] Ver. 3. Faith either of credulity, or of confidence, ought to have holineſs attending on it.

praying in the holy Ghoſt] That is, by the holy Ghoſt. See on ver. 10. Mark 12. 36. and 13. 11. Not putting up ſuch faint petitions as fleſh and bloud ſuggeſteth, but ſuch fervent ones as Gods Spirit putteth into us, Rom. 8. 26.

V. 21. Keep your ſelves] See on verſe 20. 1 Tim. 5. 22.

in the love of God] Whereby ye love God. Perſevere conſtantly to love him, and do it daily more and more. Or, whereby God loveth you: by doing nothing that may make him take away the ſenſe of his favour from you, or cauſe him to frown upon you.

looking for the mercy of our Lord, &c.] Looking for that merciful ſentence of Chriſt at the day of judgement, whereby he will beſtow eternal life on us, that have deſerved eternal miſery, Matth. 25. 34.

V. 22. And of, &c.] It is not ſufficient to look after our own ſalvation, but we muſt promote other mens alſo.

ſome] Or weak, ſimple, ſeduced perſons, or men more flexible, and of a more tender nature than others.

have compaſſion] Out of mercy admoniſh them gently of their duty, when ye have lovingly ſhewed them their errours, Gal. 6. 1. Rom. 14. 1. and 15. 1.

making a difference] Not dealing ſo ſeverely with them, as with others that are more obſtinate.

V. 23. And others] Hardened ones; or, perverſe, or ſeducers themſelves.

ſave] That is, endeavour to ſave. It is not in our power to ſave, but it is often attributed to the inſtruments, to perſwade them to diligence, Rom. 11. 14. 1 Cor. 7. 16. and 9. 22. 1 Tim. 4. 15. James 5. 20.

with fear] Gr. in fear; or, by fear; as ver. 10, 20. Out of fear of their ſudden perdition, if ye ſhould not preſently help them. Or, by terrifying them with Gods judgements, unleſs they repent. Or, by ſharp cenſures, 1 Cor. 5. 5.

pulling them] Gr. ſnatching. That is, pulling haſtily, and with violence. As the mother, apprehending the danger of the child fallen into the fire, more than it ſelf doth, and fearing the death of it, though ſhe be tender-hearted, yet pulleth it out with violence, and it may be paineth ſome member, to ſave the life of the child: ſo do ye haſtily, with a kind of harſhneſs, ſeek to ſave obſtinate ſinners, Tit. 1. 13.

out of the fire] Out of that danger, which is as great, as if they were in the fire. Terrifying them with the threats of hell fire.

hating even the garment] Not only the pollution of it ſelf, but even the garment wherein it is.

ſpotted by the fleſh] As cleanly perſons cannot endure ſpots of greaſe or bloud on their garments, ver. 12. Or, as under the Law men might not touch a menſtruous cloth, or as God in the Law would not accept a ſpotted peace-offering: ſo do ye not only hate their ſinfull luſts, ver. 8. but alſo come not in their company. Or, avoid not only groſs ſins, but alſo the very ſigns and tokens of them, 1 Theſ. 5. 22.

V. 24. Now unto him, &c.] The Apoſtle, after inſcription, ver. 1. beginneth his Epiſtle with prayer, ver. 2. Now he endeth it with the praiſe of God. So God muſt be the Alpha and Omega of our actions.

that is able to keep you] He commendeth Gods power, but with reference to our good, ſhewing that we have cauſe to praiſe him for it, and thank him for the good we get by it..

from falling] A metaphor from runners, 1 Cor. 9. 24. wherein men haſting to the goal, & not obſerving the ruggedneſs of the way, may fall. God only can keep us from falling. The beſt have had their ſlips, when they truſted to their own ſtrength, Matth. 26. 35, 76.

and to preſent you faultleſſe] Gr. to make you ſtand. At the day of judgement to make you ſtand without guilt or filth of ſin.

before the preſence of his glory with exceeding joy] Being free from ſin, to look upon Chriſt ſitting on his glorious throne without any fear, yea with great cheerfulneſſe, when wicked men cannot endure the ſight of his Majeſty, Luke 23.30. Rev.6.13.

V. 25. To the onely wiſe God] Rom.16.27. 1 Tim. 1. 17. Some men were wiſe as Solomon; but God is onely wiſe: Firſt, becauſe he onely is wiſe originally: the wiſdome of the wiſeſt men is from him, Gen.41.39. Pſalm 119. 98. Gods wiſdome is from himſelf. Secondly, becauſe he onely is inſeparably wiſe: he ſheweth wiſdome in all his actions, 1 Cor. 1.25. men do not ſo, Eccleſ.10.1. Thirdly, he is inſuperably wiſe: he overcometh the wiſdome of the moſt ſubtil men, 1 Cor.1.19. but no creature can go beyond him.

our Saviour] Tit.2.13. and 3.4. Gods wiſdome is uſed for our good and ſalvation: and every beleever hath as much right to ſalvation by Chriſt, as the Apoſtles.

be glory] Let him be honourably accounted of by all, eſpecially by thoſe that ſhall be ſaved by him.

majeſty] Heb. 1. 3. and 8. 1. 2 Pet. 1. 16. Let him be royally attended by all, as the ſupreme Governour of all.

dominion] Or, ſtrength. Let all acknowledge him able to doe what he will, and to over-rule all creatures, Pſalm 115.3.

power] Or, authority. Let them confeſs his juſt authority over all.

now] At this very preſent. We that now live, are ſubject to him. The Kings that had power over us, when they dye have no more; but God liveth ſtill, and hath as much power over us, as he had over Adam, when he had new made him.

ever] Gr. to all the ages of the world. His dominion will laſt to the end; therefore he is called Eternal, 1 Tim.1. 17. which in the Greek there is, The King of ages, to diſtinguiſh him from all other kings, who rule but in one age; as David, Acts 13.36.

Amen] See on Matth. 6.13.

ANNOTATIONS
ON THE REVELATION OF
S. JOHN.

The ARGUMENT and ANALYSIS.

THis laſt Book is of ſingular uſe for Chriſtians to the end of the world. The diviſion of it is to be found, Chapter 1. 19. The things that John had ſeen, contain the glorious viſion of Chriſt among the golden Candleſticks, Chap. 1. The things which are, are the Epiſtles to the ſeven Churches then in being, Chap. 2. & 3. The things which ſhall be hereafter, are the Prophecies following, wherein God frames himſelf a Church to worſhip him to the worlds end, and ſhews the pattern of it to John, Chap. 4. Preparation is made for the opening of the Seals, Chap. 5. Six whereof are opened, Chap. 6. and the ſtory brought down to Conſtantines time. The Heathen perſecution being then ceaſed, and a more bitter to come under the Popes; God prepares him a Church, and ſeals ſuch as ſhould ſtand out this ſtorm in a more private courſe of worſhip in the Wilderneſs, Chap. 7. The ſeventh Seal being opened, ſix Angels blow their Trumpets, and foretell the miſeries that ſhould fall on Popiſh Rome, before the time of Reformation, Chap. 8, 9. The little Book containing the reſidue of the Revelation, is brought forth, Chap. 10. The Church in the Wilderneſs perſecuted, is ſet out; and the ſeventh Angel blowing the Trumpet, proclaims liberty of Religion again, Chap. 11. The beginning of this troubleſome time is ſet out to be a little before Conſtantines time, when the Church was in labour to bring forth a Chriſtian Emperour; and the end of it foretold to be after a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore years, Chap. 12. which falls out to be the time of the eſtabliſhing of the Proteſtant Religion in the Empire, as appears in the Notes. The two great Beaſts that ſhall perſecute the Church all this while, are ſet out, Chap. 13. The reſtauration of Religion, and ruine of Popery, Chap. 14. Gods people praiſing him for the ſame, Chap. 15. The ſeven Vials containing the plagues of God, beginning from the time of Reformation, whereby God will by degrees deſtroy Babylon and Antichriſt, are poured out, Chap. 16. The Whore, the City of Rome, to be deſtroyed under the fifth Vial, is deſcribed, Chap. 17. Her deſtruction is ſet out, Chap. 18. The converſion of the Jews, and utter ſubverſion of Antichriſt, which come under the ſixth Vial, are ſet down, Chap. 19. The happy ſtate of the Church afterwards for a thouſand years, with the overthrow of the Turks after it, and the day of Judgement after that, which come under the ſeventh Vial, are ſpoken of, Chap. 20. The everlaſting happineſs of Gods Saints in ſoul and body in Heaven with God, and Chriſt, is ſet out, Chap. 21. and in the five firſt Verſes of Chap. 22. The concluſion conſiſts of confirmations, exhortations, promiſes, threatnings, prayers, Chap. 22. Further ſatisfaction in particulars, the Reader may finde in the Notes.

The great God and our Saviour, who hath revealed theſe excellent Myſteries to us, Give us Grace to walk worthy of ſo great a favour in this world, and a portion in the eternal happineſs herein foretold, in the world to come. Amen.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. T*HE Revelation*] The former books, for the moſt part, are either hiſtorical, or doctrinal: this is, for the main matter of it, ſymbolical and prophetical, containing predictions of many things to come, both in the Church, and without it, in the world, ſymbolically repreſented. It is called, a Revelation, becauſe it was revealed by God; and the things therein contained are ſuch, as no wiſdome of man, without ſome ſuch ſpecial revelation, could have manifeſted or foreſeen: ſo 2 Cor. 12. 1, 7. Matth. 11. 25. and 16. 17. 1 Cor. 2. 9, 10.

of Jeſus Chriſt] Becauſe John had it from him, as Paul his revelations, 2 Cor. 12. 1, 2. and his Goſpel, Gal. 1. 1, 2.

God gave unto him] That is, revealed, or committed unto him, by him to be revealed and communicated to others. God the Father revealeth and committeth theſe things to Chriſt, as man, (for he had them of himſelf, as God) that the great account God hath of him may thereby appear, John 5. 20.

to ſhew] Not to keep them to himſelf, but to acquaint his Church and children, even in ſucceeding ages with them; as 1 Pet. 1. 12.

his ſervants] The faithful: not his ſervants at large, as all men, yea, all the creatures, are, Pſalm 119. 91. and 148. 8. but his ſervants in ſpecial manner, his houſhold-ſervants, Gal. 6. 10. Epheſ. 2. 19. For their uſe and behoof it is, that theſe things are revealed by God to Chriſt, and by Chriſt to thoſe that are, yet in a more ſpecial manner, as John is hereafter ſtyled, and Paul elſewhere, Rom. 1. 1. 2 Cor. 1. 1. Gods ſervants, the Apoſtles and the Prophets, Amos 3. 7. ſee verſe 4.

muſt ſhortly come to paſſe] So that this book, for the main matter of it, is not any hiſtory or relation of things paſt, but a prediction of things to come: which were to commence ſhortly after, in regard of their firſt beginning, ver. 3. but to run on, after they were once begun, in a conſtant and continued courſe to the worlds end.

by his Angel] Chriſt employeth an Angel; called his Angel, to ſhew his power, as well in heaven as on earth, Matth. 28.18. Epheſ. 1.21.

unto his ſervant John] The angel is ſent to John, for the credit of his miniſtery, Chap.17.1. & 21.9. & 22.8. So Dan. 8, 16. & 9.21, 22. Zech.1.9,14,19. This John was the Apoſtle; for no other would take that name in writing Scripture while he lived, without ſome note of diſtinction; neither do we know any other John infallible, beſide the Apoſtle: and it is recorded in the Eccleſiaſtical hiſtory, that this John was baniſhed into Patmos in the reign of Domitian. As he was the beloved Apoſtle, ſo Chriſt honoured him above others, in writing Scripture. He appeareth to be an Evangeliſt, in his Goſpel: an Apoſtle, in his Epiſtles; a Prophet, in this Revelation.

V. 2. of the word of God] By the word of God, ſome underſtand here this book of the Revelation, and the things therein contained. Others, by the word of God, underſtand the Goſpel of John: by the teſtimony of Chriſt, his Epiſtles, which begin therewith, 1 John 1. 1. by the things which he ſaw, his Revelation. In this ſenſe, it ſheweth the author of this book, and one ground to beleeve him, Becauſe of his former faithfulneſs. It may be underſtood of his preaching Gods word; as verſ.9.

V. 3. and they] A change of the number, Pſal.127.3.

keep] Reſerve, or obſerve; keep in heart and in life, as Luke 11. 28. James 1.25. John 13. 12. That not onely read or hear theſe things, but alſo remember them, beleeve them, obſerve how they are fulfilled, and live according to the directions given in this book, cha. 22.14,18,19.

the time] Gr. ſeaſon, or ſet time: as Matth. 16. 3. & 21. 41. Luke 1. 20.

at hand] When theſe things ſhall begin to be put in execution for a great part of them is not yet fulfilled, verſ. 1.

V. 4. John to the] This ſheweth, that the whole Revelation was an Epiſtle to theſe Churches. So doth the concluſion, chap 22. 21.

ſeven Churches] Named, verſ. 11. and preſented with ſeveral Epiſtles, chap. 2. & 3. truſted with this treaſure of the prophecies following, but not made types of particular Churches in after-times, though there may be ſome likeneſs between them, and the enſuing Churches in divers things. The order of revelation is here obſervable: God revealeth to Chriſt, Chriſt by his angel to John, John to thoſe Churches, but for the uſe of the whole Church, verſ. 1.

in Aſia] The leſs: for Hieruſalem in likelihood was now deſtroyed; and theſe were the moſt famous Churches, fitteſt to keep theſe myſteries, and to communicate them to poſterity.

grace and peace] Rom.1.7.

from him which is] Exod.3.14. From God the Father, who is eternal. That which is common to the three perſons, is here attributed to the Father, who is the firſt in order, and from whom the other two perſons have their perſonal exiſtence.

the ſeven Spirits] The Holy Ghoſt, who is ſo called in regard of his manifold graces, wrought in theſe ſeven Churches as plentifully, as if a particular ſpirit had been in each Church. Seven alſo being a note of perfection; as Chap. 5. 6. It cannot be underſtood of angels, becauſe John prayeth for grace from him whom here he ſo deſcribeth.

before his throne] Not to ſhew an inequality, but becauſe God the Father, in the works of illumination, ſanctification, and comfort, worketh in his ſervants by his Spirit. See Chap.4.5.

V. 5. the faithful witneſs] Who fully and truly revealed Gods will to us, by himſelf and his Apoſtles, Heb. 1. 2. and ſo ſhewed himſelf to be the Prophet foretold, Deut. 18. 15, 18. Acts 3.21,22.

firſt-begotten of the dead] Or, firſt brought forth, 1 Cor.15.20. Col.1.18. He that aroſe firſt from the dead to go to heaven: for Enoch and Elias dyed not: others raiſed up, lived here, and dyed after; neither are their bodies yet in heaven. He ſaith, Begotten, becauſe reſurrection reſtoreth that bodily life which we had by generation before. See Matth. 19.28.

Prince of the Kings of the earth] Who is above them all, and from whom they all hold, Chap.17.14. & 19.16. 1 Tim.6.14,15. Matth. 28.18. Prov.8.15,16. Rom.9.5.

loved us] The ſole ground of all the enſuing benefits. So Gal.2.20. Epheſ.2.4.5,6. & 5.2.

and waſhed us] 1 Cor.6.11. Heb.9.14. 1 John 1.7. This was the greateſt demonſtration of his love, The ſhedding of his blood for the cleanſing of us from our ſins, chap.5.9. and 7.14.

V. 6. and hath made us] As he redeemed us by his Blood, ſo he hath regenerated us by his Spirit, 1 Cor. 6. 11. 1 John 5. 6. and made us Kings, to rule over the Devil, the world, and the fleſh, chap. 20. 6. and Prieſts, to offer up to God the perſonal ſacrifice of our ſelves, Rom. 12. 1. the verbal ſacrifice of praiſe, and real of alms, Heb.13.15,16.

kings and Prieſts] Chap.5.10. 1 Pet.2.5,9.

and his Father] Or, even his Father, 1 Cor.15.24. Gr. his own Father. Chriſt is the natural Son of God.

dominion] Or, might, or ſtrength; as 1 Cor. 15. 24. Give unto Chriſt the glory of his dominion, or power, Pſal. 29. 1, 2, 3, &c.

V. 7. Behold] As if he beheld him with the eye of faith already appearing. So of Abraham, John 8. 56. and of Moſes, Heb. 11. 27.

he cometh] He will ere long come: and though he may ſeem to ſtay long, yet will, in due time, as ſurely come, as if he were in coming, or already come, Heb.10.37. 2 Pet.3.4,9.

with clouds] Dan.7.13. Matth.24.30.

every eye] That is, all men: for the eye is the inſtrument of ſight.

and they alſo] Or, even they alſo, as verſ. 6.

which pierced him] Zech.12.10. Ioh.19.34,37. That had any hand in the crucifying of him, Pſal.22.16.

kindreds] Gr. tribes. Alluding to the diviſion of the land of Canaan, Ioſh.13.7. Pſal.78.55.

becauſe of him] Becauſe they ſaw him, whom they crucified, to be their Iudge; or him whom they cauſed to be crucified. Or, before him; as 1 Cor. 6. 6. Some of all nations ſhall weep at his coming.

even ſo, Amen] A double affirmation, for certainty; the one Greek, the other Hebrew, as chap. 22.20.

V. 8. I am Alpha] Chap.21.6. & 22.13. Iſa. 41. 4. & 44. 16. It ſeemeth here to be ſpoken of Chriſt. Compare it with verſ. 11,13. Chap.11.12,13. The phraſe is taken from the Greek letters, whereof Alpha is the firſt, and Omega the laſt. The ſenſe is; I was before all creatures, and ſhall abide always, though all creatures ſhould periſh. Or, I am he from whom all creatures had their beginning, and to whom they are referred, as their uttermoſt end, Chap.4.11. Prov. 16.4. Rom. 11.36.

which is] See verſe 4. what was there aſcribed to the Father, is here given to the Son, to ſhew the coeternity of the Son with the Father.

the Almighty] Able to do all things, Iob 42.2. or having power and authority over all. See verſ.5,6. Pſal. 103.19.

V. 9. brother and companion] He commendeth himſelf, and this his employment, to them, from that fellowſhip he had with them in troubles here, and was to have with them in glory hereafter, 1 Pet.5.1,9. So Phil.1.5,6,7. Heb.10.34.

kingdom] As well of grace here, as of glory hereafter, Rom. 5.21.

patience] Patient expectation of Chriſts coming, 1 Theſſ. 1. 3. 2. Theſſ.3.5.

was in the Iſle] Some think he went thither voluntarily, to avoid perſecution. Others, that he was baniſhed by Domitian the Emperor, *Euſeb.hiſt.Eccleſ.lib.3.cap.*14.

Patmos] In the Egean ſea; or Archipelago, among the Iſles called Sporades: a deſert place, *Plin.lib.4.cap.*12.

for the word of God] Not to preach it there, but for preaching it before, in Epheſus, and other places. Or, as others, for Chriſts ſake, who is called The word, Iohn 1.1. 1 Iohn 1.1. See on verſ. 2.

V. 10. in the Spirit] In a ſpiritual rapture & extaſie, Ezek.3.12. Acts 10.10. & 22.17. 2 Cor.12.2,3. By the Spirit of God taken off from the ſenſe and regard of outward things, that I might wholly attend the viſions enſuing.

on the Lords day] The day on which our Saviour roſe again, the firſt day of the week, on which the Church conſtantly met for the publick ſervice of God. The time and place are mentioned, to confirm the truth of the hiſtory: and the day, to adde more honour to that day, which is here called the Lords day, as The Lords table, 1 Cor. 10.21. and the Lords ſupper, 1 Cor.11.20.

behind me a great voyce] This great voyce called John to attention; and the rather, becauſe it came behind him, unexpected.

of a trumpet] For ſound, loud and ſhril, Iſaiah 58.1. and of uſe, to ſummon men, by ſeveral tones or manner of ſounding, to ſeveral employments, Exod. 19. 16, 19. Num. 10. 2, 10. 1 Cor. 14.7,8.

V. 11. Alpha] See on verſ. 8.

What ſeeſt thou?] What thou ſhalt ſee forthwith, is to be revealed to others.

Churches] See verſ.4.

Epheſus] A city of Ionia, famous for the Temple of Diana in it, Act. 19.1,27.

Smyrna] A city of Ionia likewiſe, neer which were the Olympian games celebrated.

Pergamus] A city of Eolia, afterwards made a province of the Romanes.

Thyatira] A city of Lydia, not far from Epheſus.

Sardis] A city of Lydia alſo, in Cyrus his time, next to Babylon for wealth, *Xenoph.Cyrop.lib.7.cap.*3.

Philadelphia] A city of Lydia, as ſome think; or, as others, of Myſia, or Eolia, having the name from Ptolomeus Philadelphus.

Laodicea] A city of Caria, neer to the city of the Coloſſians, Col. 4. 16.

V. 12. the voyce] Him from whom the voyce came; or, to take further notice of the voyce it ſelf, Exod. 20. 18. Deut. 4. 12.

golden candleſticks] The Churches, which are the light of the world, Matth. 5. 14, 16. Phil. 2. 15, 16. They are compared to gold, becauſe they excel other ſocieties, as much as gold doth other metals.

V. 13. in the midſt, &c.] To teach, guide and protect them, Pſal. 46.5. Zech.2.5.

like unto the Son of man] Or, a ſon of man, (as like a ſon of the gods, 3.25.) that is, like a man, Dan.7.13. Whether it were Chriſt in his humane nature, or the angel mentioned, verſ.1. repreſenting Chriſt, or ſome other form, it is uncertain.

with a garment down to the foot] Dan.10.5,6. It was the cuſtom of rulers to wear garments and girdles diſtinct from others, Iſa. 22. 21. Exod.28.24. & 39.5. The robes of ſuch were uſually large and long, for ſtate, Eccl.27.8.

girt abuot the paps] Or, about the middle: As their manner was, to keep their ſide-garments from ſweeping the ground, and hindring them in going, Exod.29.9. Luke 12.35.

girdle] A ſymbol of power and might, Pſal.93.1. Iſa. 11.5. & 23. 10. & 45.1,5.

V. 14. white like wooll] This ſignifieth Chriſts eternity, as it doth God the Fathers, Dan.7.9.

as ſnow] Matth.17.2. & 28.3.

as a flame of fire] Bright, lightſome and piercing. See Dan. 10. 6. implying his omniſcience, whereby he is able to diſperſe all darkneſs, and to pry into all the corners of mens hearts, and deſcry the privy plots and contrivances of the adverſaries of his Church, Prov.15.11. Pſal.139.11,12. Job 34.21,22. Heb. 4.12,13.

V.15. fine braſs] A kind of bright and precious braſs, of which, *Plin. lib.*34.*cap.*2. Or, amber, of the colour of burniſhed braſs. See Ezek.1. 4,7. Dan.10.6.

as if they burned] Or, glowed with fire. Intimating, as ſome think, Chriſts ability to deſtroy the enemies of his Church, as Zech.2.5. Or, as others, ſo to terrifie men, that they may thereby be converted, Pſal. 83.15,16.

as the ſound, &c.] A mighty loud voyce, as Cha.14.2. So Dan.10.6. Terrible to his enemies; or, powerful to raiſe men from the death of ſin, John 5.25.

V. 16. in his right hand] To keep them ſafe; ſhewing his great love to them, and care of them, Pſal.63.8.

ſeven ſtars] The miniſters of the ſeven Churches, verſ. 20. Miniſters give light to the world, having received it from Chriſt, as the ſtars from the ſun.

out of his mouth, &c.] This ſheweth the power of Chriſts word, cha. 2.16. Heb.4.12.

in his ſtrength] At noon-day, Judg. 5.31. Pſal. 37.6. This ſetteth out the greatneſs of Chriſts glory and majeſty, Matth. 17.2.

V. 17. as dead] He could not endure the ſight of Chriſt in his glory. So Dan.10.8,9.

his right hand] He ſent not an angel to raiſe me up, but did it himſelf. See Dan.10.10.

I am the firſt] Iſa.41.4. & 44.6. See Notes on verſ.8.

V. 18. and was dead] Though I once dyed for your ſins, yet I am now alive again to appear to thee, and ſhall live for ever, to protect my ſervants, Rom.6.9,16.

keyes of hell, and of death] Power to deliver over to, or to keep from hell, as well as from the grave. Or, of the grave, and death.

V. 19. Write the things, &c.] John is commanded to write the viſion which he ſaw before, verſ. 12, &c. the Epiſtles to the ſeven Churches, which were then in being, chap. 2. & 3. and the Propheſies of the time to come, chap. 4, &c. to the end of the book: ſo that here is a perfect diviſion of the book, and no need to make the Churches types.

V. 20. The ſeven ſtars are] That is, do ſignifie; as the bread is Chriſts Body in the Sacrament. So Gen. 41. 26, 27. Dan. 2.38. & 7.17. Matth. 13.37, 38, 39. Luke 8.11, 15. Chap. 17. 9, 10, 12, 15.

the angels] The miniſters: ſo here called, to ſhew the honour due to that office. Or, meſſengers: for they are Gods meſſengers to his people, Mal.2.7. & 3.1.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. ANgel] See notes on chap. 1. 20.

Epheſus] Look chap.1.7.

that holdeth, &c.] See chap.1.16.

who walketh, &c.] Look the notes on chap.1.12,13.

V. 2. I know thy works] I take notice of them, and approve them, Pſal. 1. 6. & 101. 4. Matth. 7. 23. Though all power to do good cometh from God, and the works of the beſt men have ſome imperfections; yet ſuch is Gods mercy, that he accepteth of them.

works] Courſe of life and practice, 1 Tim.4.6,12. Tit.2.7.

thy labour] In preaching the Goſpel, 1 Theſſ. 5. 12. 1 Tim. 5. 17.

patience] In bearing perſecutions that followed his preaching and practice, 2 Tim.3.10,11,12.

canſt not bear] Endure them, or forbear reproving them. An argument of zeal, Joh.2.15,17. 2 Pet.2.8.

them that are evil] Such as are wicked in thy flock.

apoſtles] Such as feigned themſelves to be ſent immediately from Chriſt, but were not, 2 Cor.11.13.

V. 3. haſt born] Haſt born much from theſe, whom thou couldeſt not bear with, verſ.2.

haſt patience] Continueſt conſtant in thy ſufferings, Heb.10.34,36. & 12.1.

not fainted] Art not weary of thy work, Gal. 6. 9. 2 Theſſ. 3. 13. 2 Cor. 4. 16.

V. 4. haſt left] Haſt abated ſomewhat of thy former fervour and forwardneſs.

firſt love] Or, former love; 1 Tim.5.12. ſhewed in diligent teaching and ordering of his people, John 21.16,17. He was not, it may be, ſo careful in feeding and tending his flock, as when John was there to overſee him. Not only idolatry and falſe doctrine, but negligence, in a Miniſter, is blame-worthy.

V. 5. Remember therefore] Three things required of a penitent ſinner: A ſerious conſideration of the hayneouſneſs of his ſin; hearty remorſe for it, and a renewed courſe of life.

remove] Take it from that place, and ſettle it in ſome other, where it ſhall finde a better acceptance, Matth.21.43.

thy candleſtick] My Church from out of Epheſus, chap. 1. 20. and leave it in darkneſs. It ſeemeth, by the Paſtours negligence, the people were grown remiſs alſo: for a great judgement is threatned to them.

except thou repent] God repeateth it, to ſhew how well pleaſed he would be with their returning, Ezek.18.31, 32. & 33.11.

V. 6. But] I will not yet remove the candleſtick, for the reaſons following.

this thou haſt] This goodneſs left in thee.

hateſt] Doeſt not only forbear, but inwardly hate and abhor, Pſal. 94.10. Amos 5.15. Rom.12.9.

the deeds] Not the perſons, Pſal.101.3.

Nicolaitans] Who held wives to be common, as eccleſiaſtical hiſtories affirm. Some think, they are ſo called from Nicolas the deacon, mentioned Acts 6. others, from ſome other of that name.

I hate] Pſal.11.5. Prov.6.16. & 18.13.

V.7. He that hath an ear] Let not the Paſtour onely, but every one of the Church of Epheſus, lay this to heart. Or, let them hearken whoſe ears God hath opened, Pſal.40.6. Iſai. 50. 5. or, that have a ſpiritual ear, as well as a natural, to hear what God ſaith, Deut.29.4. Pſal.85.8. Prov.20.12. See Matth.13.9. overcometh] His ſpiritual enemies, the Devil, the world and the fleſh, Rom.8.37. & 12.21. & 16.20. 1 Cor.9.27. 1 Joh.4.4. & 5. 4, 5. Chap. 12.11. & 15.2.

of the tree of life] Perpetual happineſs, figured by the tree of life, Gen.2.9. Rev.22.2.

in the midſt] Alluding to the ſituation of the tree of life in paradiſe.

paradiſe] Heaven, Luk.23.43. 2 Cor.12.4.

V. 8. Smyrna] See notes on Chap.1.11.

firſt] Chap.1.8,17.

was dead] See chap.1.18.

V. 9. I know] See verſ.2.

and tribulation] Troubles, loſs of goods, and reproaches, which thou ſuffereſt for the truth, Heb.10.34. & 11.36,38.

but thou art rich] Towards God, Luk.12.21. ſpiritually, Luk.16.11. 2 Cor.8.9. 1 Tim.6.6,18. Jam.2.5.

ſay they are Jews] Brag of the truth of their religion, when they want both the inward power, and outward evidences of it, Matth.3.9. John 8.33,39. Rom.2.28,29. 2 Tim.3.5.

ſynagogue of Satan] Not of God, as once they were, and pretend ſtill to be, Phil.3.2,3.

V. 10. Fear none] So as out of fear to do any thing unbeſeeming a Chriſtian, Matt.10.28. Luke 4.4.

thou ſhalt ſuffer] The ſtorm is not yet paſt; impriſonment and ſtraits will follow.

devil] By wicked men his inſtruments, Epheſ.2.2.

be tried] The Devil would deſtroy, but God will ſuffer you onely to be tried, chap.3.10. Jam.1.12.

ten days] A ſhort time: or, as others interpret it, ten years: either in Diocleſians time, as ſome think, or in Trajans, as others.

faithful unto death] Conſtant in thy Chriſtian courſe and profeſſion to the laſt, Heb.3.6,14. Or, unto the ſhedding of thy blood by death, for the teſtimony of my truth, Heb.12.6. chap.12.11. & 20. 4. Die, rather than deny thy religion.

crown of life] Either an everliving, everlaſting, never-fading crown or garland, 1 Pet. 1. 4. & 5. 4. or, celeſtial glory, life eternal, as a crown, or for a crown, James 1.12. as the ſign of circumciſion, on, that is, circumciſion as or for a ſign, Rom. 4. 11. An alluſion to them that run or wreſtle for a garland. 1 Cor.9.24,25. 2 Tim.2.5. & 4. 7, 8.

V. 11. He that hath an ear] See notes on verſ. 7. of the ſecond death] Conſiſting in the ſeparation of ſoul and body from God, and ſequeſtration of them both to eternal torments, Matth.25.46. 2 Theſſ.1.9. chap. 20. 14. & 21. 8. So called, in relation to the natural death foregoing it, whereby ſoul and body are onely ſevered either from other. Though he may ſuffer this, yet ſhall he eſcape that. It ſhall not be able to ſeize upon him, cha. 20. 6.

V. 12. Pergamus] See notes on Chap. 1. 11.

the ſharp ſword] Look on Chap. 1.16.

V. 13. I know] Verſ. 2.

where] In how perillous a place, and among what manner of people thine abode is; Pſal. 57. 4. & 120. 5, 6. Ezek. 2. 6. Phil. 2. 15.

ſeat] Or, throne. Where the Roman governour liveth, who is Satans chief inſtrument in perſecuting the Saints, verſ. 10.

holdeſt faſt my Name, &c.] Doſt ſtill maintain thy Chriſtian profeſſion, Heb. 10.23. So chap. 3.3, 8, 10, 11.

even in thoſe days] As in a dangerous place, ſo in the times of greateſt trial, Chap. 12.12. & 13.10. & 14.12.

Antipas] A name contracted of Antipater, as Artemas of Artemidorus, Tit. 3. 12. Epaphras of Epaphroditus, Col. 4. 12. Phil. 4. 18. Demas of Demetrius, 2 Tim. 4. 12. Silas of Silvanus, Acts 15. 40. 1 Theſſ. 1. 1. The name of ſome godly Miniſter of Chriſt, in likelihood, who had ſuffered martyrdom there for the truth.

martyr] Who gave his life for the teſtimony of the truth concerning me; Acts 22.20.

V. 14. haſt there] Doſt not put them out of the Church, that they may not hurt others, 1 Cor. 5.2, 6.

of Balaam] Who taught Balak to ſet fair women on work to tempt the Iſraelites to eat of the meat they had ſacrificed to their idols, and to commit folly with them, Numb. 24. & 25. Chapters, and 31. 16.

V. 15. Nicolaitans] See notes on verſ. 6.

V. 16. Repent] Look on verſ. 5.

ſword] See Chap. 1.16.

V. 17. hidden manna] He ſhall both ſpiritually taſte of me here, and feaſt alſo with me, and of me, enjoying me fully hereafter in heaven. He alludeth to Pſa. 105.40. John 6.27, 32, 49, 50. Luke 22.30. and withal, to the golden pot of manna, placed in the holieſt of all, Heb. 9.3, 4. Exod. 16.33, 34.

a white ſtone] Aſſurance of the full diſcharge of all his ſins, 1 John 1.7. Or, perfect abſolution at the day of judgement, John 5. 24. For the heathen abſolved men by white ſtones, and condemned them by black ones. Or, a privy mark, whereby he may be known, and admitted to the heavenly banquet of the hidden manna, as a bidden gueſt thereunto, chap. 19. 9. alluding, as ſome think, to thoſe ſhells, ſtones, or tokens, that were wont to be given as tickets, with their names on them, to ſuch as were to be admitted to the ſolemn feaſts, held in honour of thoſe that were victorious in their ſacred games.

a new name] Adde to his abſolution ſuch glory, as none can underſtand, but ſuch as have it, 2 Cor. 2.9. An inward aſſurance of his right and intereſt in theſe honours. He alludeth to Iſai. 65. 15. All theſe things follow the victory.

V. 18. Thyatira] See notes on Chap. 1.11.

his eyes] See on Chap. 1.14, 15.

V. 19. I know] See v. 2.

and thy charity] Or, even thy charity; as v. 13. for here he reckoneth up the workes in particular.

and ſervice, &c] Thy miniſtring to the Saints; as Rom. 16.1. Heb. 6. 10. and faithfulneſs in thy calling, and patient bearing of troubles enſuing it; as Chap. 2. 2.

and thy workes] The fruits of theſe particular graces. Or, and thy workes, that the laſt are more than the firſt. So this conjunction is uſed, Luk. 3.20. & 5.1.

V. 20. a few things] See notes on verſ. 14, 15.

Jezebel] 1 Kin. 16.31. Some wicked woman like her ſelf, or of the ſame name with her, or both.

V. 21. of her fornication] She was not onely taught her ſelf, but taught others alſo to be naught like her ſelf, verſ. 22. Falſe doctrine and bad life, idolatry and adultery go oft together, verſ. 14, 15. Num. 25.1, 2. Hoſ. 4. 11, 12, 13, 14.

and ſhe repented not] Or, but ſhe repented not; Matth. 11. 19. She added impenitency to her incontinency and other ſins, Rom. 2. 4, 5.

V. 22. into a bed] As there is a bed of eaſe and pleaſure, Amos 6. 4. ſo of languiſhing and diſeaſe, Pſal. 41. 4. The later is here intended, but with alluſion to the former. Her puniſhment ſhall be like her ſin. Adulterers often lye long ſick of foul diſeaſes, Job 20. 11. Prov. 5.11.

V. 23. And I will kill her children] Her baſtards; as 2 Sam. 12.14. Others underſtand it of ſpiritual adultery; and then her adulterers are her fellow-falſe-teachers, and her children they whom ſhe had ſeduced.

I am he which ſearcheth] Pſal. 7.9. Jer. 11.20. & 17.10. They ſhall know that I am the true God, by my puniſhing them for their ſecret ſins, Pſal. 90.8. 2 Sam. 12.12. Ezek. 8.12.

V. 24. unto you, &c.] Both miniſters and people; Or, unto you, even the reſt; as verſ. 13.

not known, &c.] Are ignorant of thoſe things they call the depths of God; as 1 Cor. 2.10. but are indeed the depths of Satan. Or, not allowed; as Pſal. 101.4. Matth. 25.12.

none other burden] Denounce no further troubles againſt you, than what you ſuffer already. So prophecies of evils to come are called burdens, Iſai. 13. 1. & 23. 1. Or, I will lay no other laws on you to live by, than what you have already received of the Apoſtles, ver. 25. Acts 15.28.

V. 25. Hold faſt] Chap. 3.11.

till I come] To the laſt, verſ. 10. or, to the end, Matth. 24. 13. till my ſecond coming, general or ſpecial, 1 Cor. 11.26.

V. 26. overcometh] See notes on ver. 7.

my works] Enjoyned to him by me. Or, ſuch as I require, not as Jezebel teacheth.

power over the nations] To joyn with me in judging them at the laſt day, Pſal. 149.5, &c. 1 Cor. 6.2. Jude verſ. 14, 15.

V. 27. And he ſhall rule them] Pſal. 2.9. Gr. feed them; as Pſal. 78. 71, 72. Mic. 5.4. Mat. 2.6. That is, rule them with a rod of iron, with a might and power irreſiſtible, Pſal. 110.1. ſubduing and maulling to peeces all refractary and rebellious ones.

as the veſſels] Or, that as the veſſels; as Pſal. 2.9.

be broken to ſhivers] That is, utterly deſtroyed, without recovery, as earthen veſſels broken are, Iſa. 30.14. Jer. 19. 11.

V. 28. morning ſtar] The full fruition of my ſelf, cha. 22. 10. 2 Pet. 1. 19. Or, the next degree of glory to me, as the morning ſtar is next the ſun, Iſa. 14.12.

V. 29.] See notes on verſ. 7.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. A*Ngel*] See notes on chap. 1.20.

Sardis] Look on chap. 1.11.

hath the ſeven Spirits] Chap. 4.5. See notes on chap. 1. 4. He hath the Spirit, either becauſe the Spirit proceedeth from Chriſt, and is therefore called his Spirit, Rom. 8.9. or elſe becauſe he ſendeth the Spirit into the hearts of the elect, Joh. 15.20. & 16.14.

haſt a name, &c.] Thou art an hypocrite. Thou ſeemeſt alive to the world, but art dead to God, 1 Tim. 5. 6. Or, thou carrieſt a ſhew of ſome vigorouſneſs and vivacity with thee, but art indeed in a languiſhing condition, little better than dead, verſ. 2. like that, 1 Cor. 3.1. Or, thou haſt a ſpiritual lethargie, or dead palſie, and art like a body ſome members whereof are dead, though not all, verſ. 2.

V. 2. Be watchful] Rouze up thy ſelf, aud ſhake off this lethargical diſpoſition, Eph. 5.14.

the things which remain] Thoſe graces which are not yet quite dead in thee. Or, the reſt: to wit, of thy flock, that are in a languiſhing condition.

V. 3. as a thief] Chap. 16.15. Matth. 24.43, 44. Luke 12. 39, 40. 1 Theſſ. 5. 2. 2 Pet. 3.10. I will come upon thee, who art ſecure, unexpectedly, as theeves come on men aſleep.

V. 4. a few names] A few men, Acts 1. 15. known to Chriſt by name.

defiled their garments] Carried themſelves wickedly in their lives, as the Balaamites have done, chap. 2.14. Jude verſ. 23.

in white] In glory, as Matt. 17. 2. & 28. 3. In glorious rayment, ſuch as great men in times of triumph and feſtivity uſed to wear, v. 5. Chap. 7.14. Eccleſ. 9.8.

they are worthy] In my account; as Luke 20. 35. 2 Theſſ. 1.5. and in compariſon of the Nicolaitans, Chap. 2.15. Or, meet and fit; as Mat. 3. 8. Eph. 4.1.

V. 5. in white] See v. 4.

booke of life] Chap. 20.1. Phil. 2. 3. in which the names of the elect are written.

I will confeſs] I will own and acknowledge him for ſuch an one, as he hath owned and acknowledged me, Matth. 10. 32. Mar. 7.8.38.

angels] Matt. 16.27. & 25.31.

V. 6. He that hath an ear] See notes on Chap. 2.7.

V. 7. Philadelphia] Look on Chap. 1.11.

key of David] Of the houſe of David, Iſa. 22. 22. That is, of the Church. A ſimilitude borrowed from thoſe that keep the keys of a city, caſtle or palace; the gates whereof therefore cannot be opened or ſhut, without their permiſſion or direction, Neh. 7. 3. & 13. 19. So in the next verſe he had opened a Church door in Philadelphia, which none ſhould be able to ſhut again, 1. Cor. 16. 9. 2 Cor. 2.12.

V. 8. I know] See notes on Chap. 2.2.

no man can ſhut it] Thou haſt adverſaries, but none ſhall be able to take the Goſpel from thee. Or, none ſhall be able to ſtop or impeach the paſſage of it with thee, 1 Cor. 16.9.

V. 9. ſynagogue of Satan] See notes on Chap. 2. 9. Worſhip before thy feet : reverence thee as one beloved of me, Iſa.60.14. 1 Cor.14. 24, 25.

V. 10. thou haſt kept] Thou haſt been patient, as my word commanded thee, in troubles paſt. Or, haſt with much patience maintained and held faſt the Chriſtian profeſſion.

the word of my patience] Or, my word of patience. (As, My mountain of holineſs, Iſa. 56.7. for, My holy mountain : his Son of love, Col.1.13. for his dearly beloved Son : his Word of power, Heb. 1. 3. for, his moſt powerful word) The Goſpel of Chriſt ; ſo called, partly, becauſe it teacheth patience, (it is a doctrine of patience) and that in the higheſt degree : and partly, becauſe the keeping of it requireth patience ; without which, and that in ſome good meaſure, the profeſſion of it cannot be maintained ſo as it ſhould, Luk.21.19. Heb. 10. 36.

I will keep thee] Afford thee immunity and freedom from thoſe general perſecutions and troubles which ſhall befal other Churches.

hour] It argueth, both a ſet time, as John 7.6. Mat. 27. 45. and a ſhort time, as Mat.27.40.

all the world] The moſt places of the known world, Luke 2. 1. to try] Who be ſound, and who unſound ; as 1 Cor. 11. 19. who will ſtick cloſe to the truth, Chap.2.13. & 12.11,17. & 14.12. Pſal. 44.17. and who flinch, and fall off, Matt.13.21. 2 Tim.4.12. Times of trouble, are times of trial, Pſal.66.10. Rom.5.3,4. Jam.1.2,3,12. 1 Pet.1.6,7. & 4.12.

V. 11. I come quickly] Thy troubles ſhall not laſt long. Or, it will not be long ere I come to call to account, Cha.22.12,20. Heb.10.37. Jam.5.8,9.

which thou haſt] The profeſſion of the right religion.

that no man take thy crown] That it be not taken away, Luke 12. 20.

thy crown] The honour promiſed thee, v. 9. Or, the heavenly glory promiſed to ſuch as perſevere, 1 Cor.9.24. Matth. 24. 13. See notes on Chap.2.10.

V. 12. a pillar] He ſhall have an everlaſting happineſs in heaven An alluſion to 1 Kin.7.21.

the Name of my God] He ſhall be openly acknowledged to be the childe of God, Rom. 9. 26. 1 John 3. 1, 2. Mal. 3. 18. Heb. 11. 16.

name of the city of my God] He ſhall be enrolled, as a free denizen and a citizen of the heavenly Jeruſalem, Luke 10.20. Eph.2.19. Phil. 3.20. Heb.12.23.

cometh down from heaven] Not of the earthly Jeruſalem, but of that Jeruſalem, the knowledge whereof is revealed to us from heaven : or, whoſe ſtate is not from man, but from God in heaven ; as Mat.21.25. Gal. 4.26. Heb. 11. 10, 11. Chap. 21. 2.

my new name] He ſhall be honoured for a king and conquerour, like me ; Phil. 2.9. Or, he ſhall have a new name, of mine impoſing or giving. See Iſa.65.15.

V. 13. He that hath an ear] See notes on Chap.2.7.

V. 14. of the Laodiceans] Look on Chap. 1. 11. Or, in Laodicea.

Amen] A name given to God, for his faithfulneſs and firmneſs, Iſa. 65. 16.

faithful and true Witneſs] See on Chap.1.5.

beginning of the creation] He that gave being to all creatures, Col.1.16,17.18. John 1.3. or, he that hath power over all creatures, Matth.28.18. Act.10.36. Rom.9.5. or, the authour, founder and beginner of the new creation, Mat.16.18. 2 Cor.5.17. Eph.2.10. Cha. 21. 1, 5.

V. 15. I know] See notes on Chap.2.2.

neither cold nor hot] Thou ſtandeſt indifferently affected, neither eager for the truth, nor an open adverſary thereunto. Neither a zealous profeſſour, nor a profeſſed enemy to religion, but a neuter.

I would thou wert] I would thou wouldeſt manifeſtly declare thy ſelf, either for the one ſide or the other ; as 1 Kings 18. 21. I ſhould better brook thee, if thou didſt either : as the ſtomack can better brook meat either hot or cold, than lukewarm, between both.

V. 16. I will ſpue] As the ſtomack caſteth up meat which it brooketh not or abhorreth ; ſo will I caſt thee off, as a loathſome thing, which my Soul loatheth and abhorreth. So Lev. 18. 27, 28. Iſa. 1.13,14. Amos 6.8. Zech.11.8.

V. 17. Thou ſayeſt] He taxeth him for his pride and ſelf-conceit, in bragging and vaunting himſelf, as if he had all manner of ſpiritual grace in abundance, and were not wanting in any kind of it ; as Rom. 15.14. Jam.1.4. Or, had made ſuch a progreſs therein, that nothing needed to be added to that perfection that already he had attained : contrary to that, Phil.3.12,15.

knoweſt not] Art altogether ignorant of thine own eſtate, as men naturally are wont to be, Rom.7.9.

wretched] In a very lamentable plight, whatſoever thou deemeſt and dreameſt of thy happy condition ; Jere. 4. 10. and 6. 14.

poor] Or, beggerly. Like a begger boaſting of wealth, Prov. 13. 7.

blinde] Deſtitute of ſpiritual eye-ſight ; Act. 26. 18. Eph. 1.18. & 4.18. 2 Pet.1.9. The reaſon why he is ſo miſtaken in himſelf and his own eſtate.

naked] Deveſted and ſtript of all ſpiritual apparel and ornaments ; Gen.3.7. Exod.32.25. Ezek.23.26.

V. 18. I counſel] Chriſts advice to him, to ſeek remedy againſt thoſe ſpiritual evils, and ſupply of thoſe ſpiritual wants, from himſelf, as the fountain whence all grace iſſueth, Joh.1.16.

gold] Spiritual grace, Jam.2.5. and true faith more precious than gold, 1 Pet.1.7.

tried in the fire] Able to endure the trial of Gods word and Spirit, Jer.23.29. 1 Cor.3.13. or, the fiery trial of affliction, Pſa.66.10. 1 Pet. 4. 12.

white rayment] Of which, Chap.4.4. & 19.8. See verſ.4.

ſhame of thy] That thy defects and defaults be not diſcovered, and lie open to thy diſgrace ; Exod.32.25. Ezek.23.29. Hoſ. 3. 9. Chap. 16. 15.

eye-ſalve] Of the Spirit, or ſpiritual wiſdom, Acts 26. 18. 2 Cor. 4.6. Epheſ.1.7,18.

ſee] And take notice of thine own eſtate, how it fareth with thee, Jer.3.13.

V. 19. As many as I love] Prov.3.12. Heb.12.6,7.

be zealous] And fervent, not lukewarm, as formerly, verſ. 15, 16.

and repent] See Chap.2.5.

V. 20. I ſtand at the door] As attending and waiting, with much patience, Cant.5.2.

and knock] At the door of mens conſciences, both by out-ward means, and inward motions, Pſal.16.7. as one deſirous of admittance, Cant.5.2.

hear my voice] Not give me bare hearing, but hearken to what I ſay, Joh.5.29. Heb.3.7. Pſal.97.7.

open] To receive and entertain me by faith ; not in his houſe, but in his heart, Joh.1.11,12.

I will come in] I will unite my ſelf to him, take up my lodging with him, and make mine abode in his ſoul, Iſai.57.15. 2 Cor.6.16. 1 Joh. 4 16.

ſup with him] Converſe familiarly, chearfully and comfortably with him, as friends uſe to feaſt and make merry one with another, Cant.5.1. John 14.23. For their feaſts were for the moſt part at ſupper-time, when their daily employments were over, Luke 14.17. See Chap.19.9.

V. 21. To him that overcometh] See Chap.2.7.

to ſit with me] To reign with me in grace here, in glory hereafter, Rom.5.21. & 8.17. 2 Tim.2.12. Matth.19.28. Chap.4.4. & 5.10. & 20.4,6. & 22.5.

I overcame] All difficulties that I was encountred with, in purſuit of the work by the Father aſſigned me, John 17. 4. Heb. 12. 2.

in his throne] On the right hand of his Majeſty, Mark 16.19. Eph.1. 20. Col. 3. 1. Heb.1.3. & 8.1. & 10.12. & 12. 2.

V. 22. He that hath an ear] Look on Chap.2.7. Here is the concluſion of the firſt viſion.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ.1. A*Fter this*] Immediately after the firſt viſion : for all the Revelation was ſhewed to him in one day, being the Lords day, Chap.1.10.

I looked] Deſirous to ſee more of theſe glorious viſions.

a door opened] The heavens ſo opened, as if the door of ſome ſtately palace were ſet open, by which might be diſcovered ſuch glorious ſights as within it were to be ſeen. So Ezek.1.1. Mat.3.16. Act.7.56. & 10.11.

in heaven] Some take it for the Church on earth, which is as heaven, in compariſon of the reſt of the world, and in, or for which, theſe things are to be fulfilled ; as Chap.12.1. Others, for heaven it ſelf, where God ſitteth in majeſty, and from whence theſe things were revealed to John, Pſal.115.3.

and the firſt voice, &c.] Or, and the former (as Cha.2.4.) voice which I heard as it were of a trumpet, talking with me, ſaid, Come up, &c. See Chap.1.10.

Come up hither] That he might ſee and hear the better, and not miſtake by reaſon of diſtance. The ſame words, but for another end, are uſed, Chap.11.12.

which muſt be hereafter] He cometh to the third head mentioned, Chap.1.19. See notes there.

V. 2. immediately I was in the Spirit] After ſome intermiſſion, he was taken up into another ſpiritual rapture : or, ſpiritually carried up into heaven in a viſion. See Chap.1.10.

a throne was ſet in heaven] He ſeeth God ſitting on a throne above, that the things to come might be with the more ſolemnity revealed, one ſate]God the Father appeareth to him in the form of a king on a throne, v. 8,9,10. chap.5.1. & 22.1. It may be a repreſentation of Gods ſitting in his Chruch on earth, as King over it. Thus God appeared, Iſa. 6. 1. Ezek. 1. 26. and 11. 22. Dan. 7. 9.

V. 3. like a jaſper, &c.] The Church is compared to gold, Chap. 1. 20. God here, to ſome of the choiceſt gems in beauty and price, far beyond gold, Job 28.15,19. Jaſper, A precious ſtone ſo termed, of its eminency in Hebrew. The laſt ſtone in the High-prieſts breſtplate, Exod.21.28. the firſt in the foundation of the heavenly Jeruſalem, chap. 21.19.

ſardine] Or, ſardius. A precious ſtone ſo called, by the Greeks, from the city Sardis, about which plenty of them was: in Hebrew, Odam, of its deep red and bloudy colour: the firſt in the prieſts breſtplate, Exod.28.17. and the ſixth in the foundation of the celeſtial city, chap.21.29.

round about the throne] Over the top of it, Ezek.1.28.

emerald] A precious ſtone of a deep green colour: the fourth both in the High-prieſts breſtplate, Exod.28.18. and in the foundation of the celeſtial Jeruſalem, chap.21.19.

V. 4. four and twenty ſeats] Twelve on the right hand, and twelve on the left.

four and twenty elders] All Gods Saints of the Old and new Teſtament, comprehended under the twelve Patriarchs and twelve Apoſtles, Chap.5.8,10.

ſitting] As reigning and judging together with Chriſt, Matt.19.28. 1 Cor.6.2,3. chap.2.21.

in white raiment] In token not of innocency onely, but honour alſo and triumph; chap.3.4. & 7.14.

crowns] Tokens of royal ſtate and glory; Pſal. 21. 3. Cant.3.11. chap.1.6.

V. 5. lightnings] Either to ſet out Gods power in confounding the enemies of his Church, Pſal.22.12,14. & 97.3,4. Or, his majeſty in the revealing his will. Princes can do it but with trumpets on earth, God with thunder from heaven, Exod. 19. 16. So Ezek. 14.13,14. Pſal.81.7.

voices] An Hebraiſm, for loud ſounds and cracks of thunder, Exo. 9.23,28. & 20.18.

lamps of fire] To ſhew the illuminating works of the Spirit; Acts 2.3. Eph.1.18. So Ezek.1.13.

ſeven Spirits] See notes on chap.1.4.

V. 6. a ſea of glaſs] Whoſe water was clear, and tranſparent, as glaſs. This ſeemeth to have been as a ſtately footſtool beneath the throne: a ſea here, as the earth, Iſai. 66. 1. Or, as a curious pavement both under and before the throne, like cryſtal, as that like Saphire, Exod.24.10. of which kinde of ſtones ſome are blue or skie-coloured, ſome are white as cryſtal. By it, ſome underſtand the Scriptures, or the word of God, as being full of perſpicuous truths, guiding us to Godward, Pſal.19.8. & 119.105,130.

in the midſt of the throne, and round about the throne] Two ſtanding juſt againſt the midſt of the throne, and one at each corner. Or elſe their bodies were underneath the throne, and their heads appeared without: or, as ſome read it; Between the throne, and thoſe things that were about the throne. And then the order is this: God the Father ſitting on the throne: next, the Lamb, chap.5.6,7. then, the Spirit of God, like lamps: then, the ſea of the Scriptures: then, the four beaſts or wights: after that, the four and twenty elders: laſtly, the angels, compaſſing them in; chap.5.11. This was the majeſtical viſion that John now ſaw.

four beaſts] Or, living wights. Theſe repreſent the Miniſters of the Goſpel, comprehended as it were in the four Evangeliſts, chap. 5. 8, 10.

full of eyes before and behinde] To ſhew the vigilant care of the Paſtour, Acts 20.26,28. Or, his looking forward to God ſitting on the throne, and backward to his people, Hab.2.1,2.

V. 7. And the firſt beaſt, &c.] Or, living wight. Under thoſe repreſentations, are ſet out the eminent gifts of the Miniſters of the new Teſtament. Some are like Lions for courage, 2 Sam.17.10. Others, like oxen, for labour, Pſal.144.14. Others, like men, for prudence in government, Job 35.11. Prov.30.2. Others, like eagles, for deep inſight into divine myſteries, Job 39.28,29.

V. 8. ſix wings] To ſhew how ready Gods Miniſters ought to be to help every man committed to their charge: for the wings are juſt ſo many as the elders. See Iſa.6.2.

full of eyes within] As before, to look toward God, and behinde toward their people; ſo within to look to themſelves, Act.20.28. 1 Tim. 4. 16. Or, full of heavenly knowledge, and ſpiritual grace; Matth. 13.52.

reſt not day and night, ſaying] Gr. have no reſt, &c. They continually praiſe God, and ſet out the Trinity of Perſons in the Godhead, and the ſupream authority, unity of eſſence, omnipotency and eternity of God.

Holy] Iſa. 6. 3.

which was] Chap.1.4.

V. 9. give glory] Acknowledge that glory and honour that is in God, Pſal.29.1,2.

V. 10. fall down before him] As unworthy to ſit in his preſence, Pſa. 95.6. & 99.5.

and worſhip him] Do as it were kiſs his feet. The word originally is taken from dogs, that couch down when the maſter cometh in, and lick his feet. They ſhew the loweſt ſignes of humility to God. See chap. 3. 9.

caſt their crowns]Not that they ſlight their glory conferred on them by God; but, whatſoever honour they have, they confeſs they had it from God, and are content to lay it down at his feet, and deveſt themſelves of it, to do honour to him; John 3. 30. 2 Sam.6.21,22. A real Amen to the words of the Miniſters, verſ.8. chap.5.13.

V. 11. to receive glory, and honour, and power] Chap. 5. 12. To receive the praiſe of thy power.

for thou haſt] The people muſt praiſe God underſtandingly, and give a reaſon why they do it.

for thy pleaſure] As they were made by thee, ſo to do thy will, and to bring glory to thy Name, Prov.16.4. Rom. 11.36. Or, by thy will they are; as chap.12.11. that is, by thee alone all things are preſerved, or kept in being, and were created; therefore all glory belongeth to thee, 1 Chron.29.11,12,14.

CHAP. V.

Verſ.1. I*N the right hand of him*] Gr. at his right hand: Neer unto him, ſo as none might lay hand on it, and meddle with it, without his leave. Here it is manifeſt, that God appeared unto John in the form of a man. Or, the book is in his right hand, to ſhew, that none can know what is written in it, without his leave: Deut.29.29. Acts 1.7.

him that ſate] Of whom, ſee cha.4.2.

a book] An hiſtory of things concerning the Church of God till Chriſts ſecond coming, as appeareth at the opening of the ſeals.

written within and without] Gr. on the backſide. The matter was ſo copious, that the inſide of the book could not hold it; Ezek.2.10. A phraſe taken from the maner of writing in rolls of parchment or paper; which, when the matter was ſo large as it could not be all written on the one ſide, they were fain ſometime to write on the backſide the reſidue. Some think, the things preſent were written on the one ſide, and the things to come on the other. Or, written within, and on the back ſide ſealed, &c. So that the matter was written within, and the ſeals wherewith it was ſealed up, affixed on the outſide; to ſhew, that none could look into it, or by humane wiſdom come to know what was contained in it: 1 Cor.2.9,11. See Iſa.29.11. Jer. 22. 11. Dan.12.2.

with ſeven ſeals] It was divided into ſeven parts, and every part had a ſeal; as appeareth by the opening of each ſeal.

V. 2. a ſtrong angel] It may be the angel mentioned, Chap. 1. 1. whom Chriſt appointed to reveal theſe things to John. He is ſaid to be ſtrong, that he might ſpeak ſo loud, that all men might hear him.

who is, &c.] This ſheweth the great deſire the Angels have to ſearch into thoſe things which concern the Church, 1 Peter 1. 12.

who is worthy] A free eſſay offered to all, but great worth required in him that ſhould attempt it. The like ſpeeches are uſed, Jer. 49.19. Matt.14.45. 2 Cor.2.16.

V. 3. no man in heaven, &c.] That is, no man at all; for all men are in one of theſe places, verſ. 13. Phil. 2. 10. The Angel taketh their not anſwering, or not appearing, for an acknowledgment of their inability, or indignity, or both. So Iſa. 41. 28, 29.

to look thereon] Or, therein. For John looked on it, verſ. 1. The ſenſe is: No man was judged worthy to know or publiſh theſe great myſteries.

V.4. I wept much] John thought them to be weighty, and therefore grieveth much that they may not be made known.

V. 5. one of the elders] One of the elders is employed to comfort John. Mean perſons ſometimes are uſed for the benefit and ſupport of greater, Act.18.26. So an Angel is ſent to ſtrengthen Chriſt, Gen. 49. 9.

the lion of the tribe of Judah] Chriſt, the Meſſias, the powerful King of the Church, Luke 22.43.

the Root of David] One of the ſeed of David, Matt. 1.1. Rom.1.3. Not the root from whence David ſprang, but a branch that ſprang from David, as from a root, Iſa. 11.1. Act.13.23. chap.22.16. and yet from whom, as from a root, or a branch that both hath a principle of life in it, and a power to convey the ſame alſo to others, life and health ſpiritual accrue alſo to David; Matth.22.43.

hath prevailed] Is able to do it; both to dive themſelves into it, and the myſteries contained in it, and to make them known to others; John 5.20. But ſpoken, as of one that hath attained to do that which many have in vain ſtrived to attain. Gr. overcome.

V. 6. in the midſt of the throne] Or, within the compaſs of it; between the throne and the four wights. See notes on chap. 4.6. Chriſt ſtandeth between God and us, as a mediator, 1 Tim.2.5.

a lamb] Willingly ſubmitting himſelf to God the Father, to be a ſacrifice for us, John.1.29. 1 Pet.1.19.

⁂

As it had been ſlain]By ſome reſemblance of his wounds,or the ſcar of ſome deadly wound; as Joh.20.25,27.This ſignifieth interceſſion for us, by the virtue of his death, Rom. 8. 34. Heb. 9. 12, 25. and 10. 24.

having ſeven horns, and ſeven eyes] Protecting and guiding his Church, by the power and wiſdom of his Spirit,ſhewed it in the gifts given to his ſervants on earth.Seven, a number of perfection. Horns ſignifie power, Dan.7.24. eyes, knowledge or wiſdom, Iſa.35.5.Both joyned together,argue a fulneſs and perfection of power,Matt.28.18. and wiſdom in Chriſt, Col.2.3.9. So that we have here a lively repreſentation of the threefold office of Chriſt.His ſacerdotal,or prieſtly, in the lamb as ſlain: his royal or princely, in the horns; his prophetical office, in the eyes.

ſeven Spirits] See notes on chap.1.4.

ſent out] To deſcry what is done, enterpriſed, or intended in any part of the world, that is or may be advantagious for, or prejudicial to the good and ſafety of his Church; Prov.15.3. 2 Chro.16.9.Zech. 4. 10.

V. 7. took the book] To unſeal it, and publiſh the contents of it; Chap.6.1.

V. 8. when he had taken the book] The worthineſs of the Lamb to take the book, and hope of publiſhing it, is the occaſion of the following ſong.

the four beaſts] Or, living wights; as chap.4.6. Firſt, the miniſters and people of God, who have a ſhare in the benefits following,praiſe Chriſt their Saviour: then the Angels, who ſhall enjoy their ſociety for ever, verſe 11. laſtly, all creatures, which ſhall be freed from vanity alſo, Rom. 8. 20, 21. verſ. 13. In the end, the Miniſters, as befitteth them, confirm the ſong of the Angels and creatures with a verbal Amen, and the people with a real one, verſ. 14.

fell down before the Lamb] Worſhipped him, as God. See verſ. 10.

harps] Theſe inſtruments, and their ſong, ſhew their cheerful thankfulneſs. So Chap. 15. 2, 3. An alluſion to the ſolemn ſervice of God in the ancient Church; 1 Chron. 25. 3, 6, 7. Pſal. 98. 5.

golden vials] An alluſion to the cenſers or perfuming pots uſed in the tabernacle and temple, Num. 4. 14. 1 Kings 7. 50. Said to be of gold, ſuch as thoſe were that belonged to the altar of incenſe, called the golden altar, chap. 8. 2. 1 King. 7. 50. Heb. 9. 4. for the other, belonging to the burnt-offerings, were of braſs, Num. 16. 39. as the altar alſo it ſelf was,Exo.27.2. 2 Chro. 4. 1.

full of odours] Containing matter of atonement and gracious acceptance; as Exod.30.2——10. Num.16.46,48. not of wrath and indignation, as thoſe, chap.8.5. & 15.7. See chap. 8. 4. Or, of incenſe: The prayers of Gods people,which are ſweet to him, as incenſe is to us, an alluſion to the incenſe offered on the golden altar, Exod. 30.1,3. Pſal.141.2. Mal.1.11.Rev.1.3.

of ſaints] This ſheweth, that the living wights and elders repreſent the miniſters and people worſhipping God here on earth,their ſpiritual employment being to offer up unto God prayers, Heb. 13.15.

V. 9. A new ſong] Made an occaſion of a new benefit; Pſal. 33.3. & 40.3. & 96.1. & 98.1.

for thou waſt ſlain] We have reaſon to account thee worthy to do it,becauſe thou haſt ſhed thy Blood to redeem us and prefer us; 1 Pet. 1,18,19.

redeemed us] It appeareth that thoſe four living wights do not repreſent the Angels, as thoſe, Ezek. 1. 5. but men redeemed by the Blood of Chriſt, 1 Pet.1.18,19. Act.20.28.

out of every kindred] No nation, ſex,ſort of men,ſtate or condition, being excluded from ſalvation purchaſed by Chriſt; 2 Cor. 12. 13. Gal.3.28. Col.3.11. chap.7.9.

V. 10. kings and prieſts] 1 Pet.2.9. See notes on chap.1.6.

we ſhall reign on earth] Over our ſpiritual enemies, Satan, the world,and our own luſts,even in this world, while we live here; cha. 12.11. Rom.16.20. 1 John 5.4. Tit.2.12.Or,it may ſignifie the proſperous times of the Church under Chriſtian Kings and Emperours; Dan.7.27. Pſal.37.11. Matt.5.5. Hence it appeareth alſo, that the living Wights are miniſters, and the elders of the people, in the viſible Church here on earth.

V. 11. round about the throne] God is attended by millions of Angels,as kings are by many nobles and attendants,Dan.7.10.

and the beaſts] Or, living wights; as before. The Angels compaſs Gods miniſters about,alſo, and his people, to protect them,Pſal.34.7. & 91,11,12. chap.4.6.

ten thouſand times ten thouſand] Dan.7.10.

V. 12. to receive power] To have all honour and praiſe given to him,as to the mightieſt,wiſeſt, &c. as chap.4.11. & 7.12.

V. 13. And every creature] A Catholike confeſſion of Chriſts Divine Nature and Power. The unreaſonable and ſenſleſs creatures are brought in as perſons praiſing him; which they ought to do, if they could; as Pſal.148.3. and in ſome ſort do it,by their courſe conſtantly continued, wherein he hath ſetled them, their ſerviceableneſs to himſelf, and to thoſe that be his, Pſal.19.1,2,3,4. & 119. 90, 91. & 104.2——18. & 148.8. and withal rejoycing in their hopeful expectation of delivery from that vanity which they are now ſubject unto, Rom.8.21.

and unto the Lamb] The Saints ſpeak unto Chriſt directly: Thou art worthy,verſ.9. for they had a part in redemption, and things revealed. But the Angels and others ſpeak of him, as of one worthy to be praiſed for doing this for others: Worthy is the Lamb,verſ.12.and, Unto the Lamb, verſ.13.

V.14. four beaſts] Or, living wights. It became the miniſters firſt, and in expreſs words, to give conſent to this heavenly and earthly muſick.

fell down] Thus they really, by ſilent, but pregnant ſignes, ſhew their conſent. So Chap.4.10. They fell down once before, verſ. 8. but it ſeemeth they roſe again,when they had done and finiſhed their ſong, verſ.9,10.

CHAP. VI.

The firſt ſeal.

Verſ. 1. O*NE of the ſeals*]The firſt; as Matt.28.1.for the ſecond ſeal is opened, verſ.3.

as the noiſe of thunder] To ſtrike with the greater admiration,and to procure attention. So Cha.14.2. & 19.6.

one of the four beaſts] Or, living wights; as chap.4.6,7. See verſ.3. To wit, that like a lion, chap.4.7.

V. 2. a white horſe] An horſe, becauſe the horſe is a warlike creature, Prov. 21. 31. white, in ſigne of triumph: for the Romanes, when they rid in triumph, had white horſes to ride on, or to draw their chariots. So great ones alſo on white beaſts,Judg. 5. 10.

he that ſate on him] Chriſt,of whom,Pſal.45.4.Cha.19.11.

had a bow] Chriſt had power to kill his enemies, as well afar off, as neer at hand,either with the peſtilence, or otherways, Pſal. 91. 1,5. Others underſtand it of the preaching of the Goſpel,whereby Chriſt maketh his enemies to ſtoop to him, Pſal.45.5.

a crown was given to him] In token of victory, 1 Cor.9.24 2 Tim. 2.5. conquering] He had begun to conquer already,and ſhould conquer yet further. See the like phraſe, Gen.26.13.

The ſecond ſeal.

V.3.the ſecond beaſt]Or,living wight,cha.4.7.That like an ox or a calf. The ſecond miniſter. See chap.4.6.

Come, and ſee] Though we may not dive into Gods ſecret judgements without leave; yet may we freely ſo do, when we are called thereunto.

V. 4. horſe that was red] In token of war, which aboundeth commonly with fire and bloodſhed, Iſa.9.5. & 63.1,3.

from the earth] From the Romane Empire, not from the Church; for it is called heaven in this book. Or,from the whole inhabited and known world.

kill one another] By wars; which the Romane Emperours did, and the people under them. God ſendeth this judgement on the world, for their refuſing of the Goſpel, and their abuſing, and wronging of thoſe that preached and profeſſed it.

a great word] For the war was to be great,and ſtretched far. So Iſa. 27.1.

The third ſeal.

V. 5. third beaſt] Or,living wight. That like a man, chap.4.7. See notes on verſ. 3.

a black-horſe] A note of famine, which maketh mens faces black, Lam.4.7,8.

a pair of balances] Or, a beam; to wit, of a balance, with ſcales hanging at either end, to weigh corn in, like ſpices. This argueth a great dearth; for corn ſhould not then be meaſured out by the buſhel, or like meaſure, as it uſed to be; but ſold as by weight. So bread uſed to be weighed in times of ſcarcity, Levit.26.26. Ezek.4.16. Of ſuch a famine, read Act.11.28. Howbeit, ſome make this an emblem of juſtice, which is wont to be ſo deciphered, as weighing out and diſpoſing things according to due and exact proportion, and to intimate a ſevere execution of juſtice; the blackneſs of the horſe being a ſigne of ſeverity; which they ſuppoſe to have been fulfilled under Alexander Severus, a man in that kinde exceeding ſtrict. See Lampridius, in his life.

V. 6. a voice in the midſt of the four beaſts] Chriſts voice, chap. 5. 6.

a meaſure] Gr. a chœnix. The word ſignifieth, a meaſure, containing one wine-quart, and the twelfth part of a quart. It was the uſual allowance in bread of a ſlave for one day.

for a peny] The Romane denarius, the ſame with the Greek drachma: the fourth part of the Hebrew ſhekel was about ſeven pence, or ſeven pence half-peny, of our money. And it ſeemeth to have been the wages of an hireling, or day-labourer, Matt. 20.9. and a common ſouldiers daily pay. It muſt needs go hard with him,when all his wages muſt go for bread.

and three meaſures of barley] Being the courſer grain. See 2 Kin. 7. 1.

ſee that thou hurt not the oyl and the wine] Or, in oyl and wine ſee that thou deal not unjuſtly, or, do no wrong; verſ. 5. Some think, Chriſt taketh care here to have ſome proviſion left for his Church. Others becauſe there is a ſcarcity of things neceſſary,as corn,and ſome things left for comfort, as oyl and wine; do conceive, that the poor were to periſh now by the famine, and the rich reſerved for the peſtilence following, verſ. 8. Or, the words may contain a warning to thoſe that dealt in theſe commodities, to be exactly juſt.

leſt

The fourth ſeal. V. 7. fourth beaſt] Or, living wight. That like an eagle, Chap.4.7. See notes on verſ.3.

V. 8. a pale horſe] Becauſe death maketh men pale.

hell] Or, the grave. Though the bodies of theſe wicked men went to the grave, for contemning and abuſing the Goſpel; ſo it is not unlikely that their ſouls alſo went to hell.

unto them] Or, to him: that is, death.

fourth part of the earth] It went over all the earth, as the reſt did; but killed onely the fourth part of men, where it came.

with ſword,&c.] Theſe often go together, Ezek.14.21. Jer.14.12. Theſe all followed the invaſion of the Romane Empire by the Goths, Huns and Vandals.

with death] That is, with the peſtilence, or mortality, as we term it, 1 Cor.11.30.

The fifth ſeal. V. 9. under the altar] As beaſts newly ſlain for ſacrifices, Exo. 29.12. Or, in a ſure place, free from danger, 1 Kin. 1.50.

were ſlain] Under the Romane Emperours.

for the word of God] Which they preached and profeſſed, even to death, Chap.2.10,26.

V. 10. they cryed with a loud voice] Not that the Martyrs themſelves deſired vengeance to be inflicted by God on their cruel perſecutours, whom, after Chriſt their maſters example, Luke 23. 24. they requeſted God rather to forgive, Acts 7.60. but, that their blood cried aloud to God for ſpeedy vengeance, together with the cruelty it ſelf exerciſed upon them, Gen. 4. 10. Hab. 2. 11. Heb. 12. 24.

holy and true] Who being holy and pure, canſt not endure to ſee ſuch impiety and iniquity, Hab. 1. 13. being true of thy word, canſt not but make it good, but by putting it in execution againſt ſuch, Pſal.54.5.

judge and revenge] Hear our cauſe, and do us right, 2 Theſſ. 1.11. Give ſentence for us, and cauſe that ſentence to be put into execution, Pſal.26.1. & 7.8, &c.

V. 11. And white robes were given to every one of them] Their innocency was cleared, and they made perfectly happy. See notes on cha. 3. 4.

yet for a little ſeaſon] For a ſtrange alteration was ſhortly after to enſue, as appeared on the opening of the next ſeal, verſ.12.

as they were] Gr. even as they. Or, as themſelves alſo were.

ſhould be fulfilled] Until the full ſum and number of them ſhould be compleat, and the malice and cruelty of the adverſe party come to his full height; that ſo the vengeance of God might in his appointed time alſo come upon their perſecutours to the full. So Gen. 15.16. Matt.23.32. 1 Theſſ.2.16.

The ſixth ſeal. V. 12. a great earthquake, &c.] The troubles that were to befal the Roman Empire, and ſtrange alterations therein, are ſet out figuratively, by the ſhaking of the earth, and confuſion of the heavenly bodies; as often in the Prophets ſuch alterations are deſcribed, Iſai. 13. 9, 10,11. Jer.4.23. Ezek.32.7,8. Joel 2. 10. Hagg.2.21,22. This was fulfilled, when Diocleſian the great perſecutour gave over his Empire, Galerius was eaten with worms, Maximinus his fleſh was rotted away, and his eyes fell out, Maxentius and Licinius fell both before Conſtantine, by whom God not onely put an end to the perſecutions of his people, but ſetled alſo the profeſſion of Chriſtianity in the Empire: whereupon, the great princes, and idolatrous captains, ſeeing their idols contemned, their altars deſpiſed, their temples deſerted, and the Chriſtian Religion prevailing, in ſpight of them, and all their deſignes and attempts to the contrary, grew deſperate, and at their wits end, and ſought which way to ſhift for themſelves. For of ſuch perſons it is interpreted, verſ. 15.

the ſun became black] Which is the brighteſt creature in the world. It argueth a ſtrange mutation in the Romane Empire, as the reſt do alſo. So Joel 2.31. Blackneſs is a ſymbol of mourning, great confuſion and aſtoniſhment, Joel 2. 6.

as ſackcloth of hair] Their ſackcloth was black, as appeareth by tents made of it, Cant.1.5. It was made of black goatſhair.

the moon became as blood] A ſtrange ſight and change, that the pale-faced moon ſhould look red like blood; Joel 2. 31. Acts 2. 20.

V.13. fell] Seemed to fall out of heaven down to the ground in this viſion; as Chap.12.4. which of ſtars themſelves, being ſuch vaſt bodies as they are, (though by reaſon of the diſtance it appear not) cannot be imagined. So Iſa.34.4.

untimely figs] Or, green figs: Which fall, before the other ſucceeding them ſhoot out.

V.14. heaven] No ſtate ſo high or lofty, but was made to ſtoop and give way at Chriſts preſence and appearance in judgement, Chap.20. 11. Iſa. 34. 4.

as a ſcrol] Gr. book.

rolled together] An alluſion to the manner or faſhion of books then in uſe, which were wont to be rolled up, as our Inventaries, and were thence alſo called volumes, Iſa.8.1. Jer.36.2. So Iſai. 34. 4. Which alſo, being rolled up, were brought into a narrower compaſs; nor did the things written in them then appear.

every mountain] Nothing ſo firm, or ſo ſurely grounded, but was ſhaken, and enforced to give ground, Pſal. 18.7. & 68. 8. & 114. 4. Iſa. 64.1,3. Hab.3.6. Zech.4.7.

iſland] Or, ſea-coaſt: as Iſai.23.2. Jer.25.22. Or, land, or, countrey: as Iſa.20.6. & 41.1. No land or region ſo remote, that the alteration and terrour thence enſuing did not reach unto, Pſal. 65.8. Iſa.41.5. & 49.1.

V. 15. hid themſelves] Iſa. 2. 10. The great men were as much troubled and diſmaied, as if they had ſeen Chriſt viſibly coming to judgement; and, ſeeking to hide themſelves from him, ſhould utter ſuch words full of affrightment and deſpair, as are ſet down in the verſes following. Fulfilled, as in others, ſo eſpecially in Diocleſian, who, ſummoned to appear before Conſtantine, made himſelf away with poiſon; and Maximinian his ſecond in the Empire, who did the like with an halter; both of them having before, from an imperial ſtate, as running into ſome ſecret nook or corner, betaken themſelves to a private and obſcure courſe of life, wherein alſo they could not finde ſhelter or ſecurity ſufficient. Alſo in Maximinus, who, having his diſcomfiture by Licinius, eſcaped very narrowly, by hiding himſelf among the mixt and mean multitude, and after ſhut himſelf up in his houſe, while his forces reinforced were again in the field, was there ſmitten by the hand of God, and, notwithſtanding his acknowledgement of his wrongs done unto, and cruelty exerciſed upon Chriſtians, and revocation of his former bloody edicts againſt them, ended his days in ſuch manner as is above mentioned. In Maxentius likewiſe, that for a time counterfeited himſelf a Chriſtian; who, being overcome in fight of Conſtantine, and ſeeking, by flight from him, to ſave his life, was drowned in the river Tyber. And laſtly, in Licinius, who having oft changed his copie, one while for Chriſtians, another while againſt them; one while aſſiſting Conſtantine againſt the other perſecuting tyrants, another while conſpiring with the like againſt him; and after feigned ſubmiſſion and reconciliation, falling off again from him, and making head againſt him, was at length ſlain in the field, and ſo came to his end.

V. 16. and ſaid] Hoſ. 10. 8. Luke 23. 30. The voices of men in a moſt deſperate condition, as not caring what became of them, ſo they might avoid the ſight of ſo dreadful a judge.

of him that ſitteth] God revealing himſelf as a judg on the Bench, by thoſe direful and dreadful judgements that befel either themſelves, or others in their ſight. See Chap.4.2.

wrath of the lamb] Though a lamb ſacrificed for his, and in regard of mildneſs to them, Chap.5.6. yet as dreadful as a lion, to thoſe that had wronged him in them, whoſe hearts began now to ſmite them for their wrongs done to them; and as powerful and wrathful, to take vengeance upon them for the ſame, chap. 5. 5. & 1. 7. Amos 1. 2. & 3. 8.

V. 17. the great day] The day of vengeance, which the blood of Martyrs called upon, and cryed ſo loud for, verſ.10. So Iſa. 34.6,8. Joel 2.1,2,31.

who is] Pſal.76.7. Num.24.23. Mal.3.2.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. A*Fter theſe things*] After the former ſix ſeals opened, and the events thereof above ſpecified, Chap.6. and before the ſeventh ſeal opened, and the trumpets thereupon delivered and ſounded, chap.8.1,2,6.

four angels] Some underſtand it of bad angels, which reſtrained the gentle winds of Gods word and Spirit from refreſhing his ſervants. An alluſion to Can.4.16. Joh.3.8. Act.2.2,3. Others, of good Angels, appointed by God, either to hold back or let looſe the winds of wars and troubles, that from all parts of the world might fall in upon the Romane Empire, Jer.18.17. & 49.36. & 51.1,2. Dan.7.2,3.

ſtanding on the four corners of the earth] Ready to do what the trumpet, being ſounded, ſhould give warning to be done.

holding the four winds] This ſheweth the power given unto them.

on the earth, on the ſea, nor on any tree] Theſe are the things that uſe to be hurt by winds: the earth, by earthquakes, 1 Kin.19.11. Amos 1.1. Matth. 24. 7. or, overthrow of houſes built on it, Job 4.19. Mat. 7. 27. The ſea, by ſtorms, Jonah 1. 4. Matth. 8. 24. Act. 27. 14. The trees, by blaſting, renting and extirpation, Gen. 41. 6. Ezek.17.10. & 19. 12. Others, underſtand men dwelling on the firm land, or in the iſlands and ſea-coaſts, or in the more wooddy and wilder parts. See Chap.9.4.

V. 2. another angel] Moſt take it for Chriſt, who is the keeper of Gods great Seal; Some, for an inferiour angel, appointed to ſet Gods marke on his ſervants. Others interpret it of Conſtantine reſtraining, and inhibiting the former perſecutions of Gods people.

aſcending] Or, coming from; Matth. 24. 17. An Hebraiſm, as 2 King. 12. 18. Jerem. 34. 21. & 37. 5. Chap. 13. 1. and 20. 9. but alluding withal to the courſe of the ſun, who riſeth higher and higher in his approach from the Eaſtern parts to usward.

from the Eaſt] Whence comfortable tidings are ſaid uſually to come, Iſaiah 41. 2. becauſe from thence ariſeth light, Luke 1. 78.

the ſeal of the living God] With Gods name on it, to ſet on the foreheads of Gods ſervants, Chap. 14. 1.

with a loud voice] To ſhew his power and authority, and withal, to manifeſt the danger that might enſue, if the thing enjoyned were not inſtantly and ſuddenly done. So Gen. 22. 11.

to hurt the earth] By letting forth the winds of war and troubles upon the world. See verſ. 1.

V. 3. Hurt not the earth] Let there be peace and quietneſs in the Romane Empire. This was fulfilled in Conſtantines time, and after.

the earth, &c.] See verſ. 1.

till we have ſealed] He alludeth to the ſealing mentioned, Ezek. 9. 4. wherewith ſome were ſealed, that they might be ſafe and ſecured, as having their lives given them for a prey in the time of deſtruction, that was then ſhortly to enſue, Jer. 15. 11. & 39. 17, 18. & 45. 5. Hereby ſhewing, that God would take care for his, when wars and troubles ſhould come, that they might be as ſafe as things ſealed by a ſeal royal, which no ſubject dare meddle with, Dan. 6. 17. Matth. 27. 66. See Chap. 3. 10. And indeed, had not God ſtrangely preſerved them, when by the invaſion of barbarous nations, the Romane Empire was ſo ſorely ſhaken and ſhattered, the Church of God had even utterly periſhed.

we have ſealed] To ſhew the greatneſs of the work. One was not ſufficient to mark ſo many thouſands.

V. 4. of all the tribes] Some underſtand this of all the faithful in general, the whole Iſrael of God, Gal. 6. 16. all that belong to ſalvation, Act. 13. 48. and that are to be delivered from eternal deſtruction, 1 Theſſ. 1. 10. as thoſe in Egypt from the ſword of the deſtroying angel. Exod. 12. 7, 13. Heb. 11. 20. and ſo theſe ſhould be the ſame with thoſe mentioned, verſ. 9. Others, of ſuch faithful onely as were by a ſpecial providence to be preſerved in thoſe times of publike concuſſion and calamity, ſaid therefore, by a ſolemn ſigne, to be marked out and ſealed, which the other multitude, living in other aftertimes, needed not, nor is affirmed of them, verſ. 9. Again, others underſtand it of Jews or Iſraelites by natural deſcent; but ſome ſuch as are hereafter to be converted, Rom. 11. 26. Others, of thoſe of that nation, who retained the Chriſtian profeſſion (as many no doubt did) even in thoſe times; Rom. 11. 1, 2. Act. 2. 41, 47. and 44. and 21. 20. who yet are here reckoned by a definite number, though put for an indefinite; as numerable, in compariſon of the Gentile Converts, which are ſaid to be innumerable, verſ. 9. and are ſorted out according to the number of their tribes, to ſhew, that no faithful, of what ſort or rank ſoever, were excluded from having part in this privilege. Of ſuch ſure, whether Jews by birth, or others, it muſt be underſtood, as were to live in the times of the terrible trumpets enſuing, for whoſe ſecurity and indemnity, this ſtay was made of their ſounding upon the ſeventh ſeal opened, Chap. 8. 1, 2, 6.

V. 5. Of the tribe of Judah] The tribe of Dan is ſuppoſed to be omitted, becauſe by idolatry they fell from the people of God, Judg. 18. 30. 1 Kin. 12. 28, 29.

V. 7. Of the tribe of Levi] This tribe is added, to make good the place void by the defection of Dan: and to ſhew, that Gods Miniſters, though they had no part in the land of Canaan, yet have part in Gods protection here, Chap. 3. 7, 10. and ſhall have a portion in heaven hereafter, Dan. 12. 3.

V. 8. Of the tribe of Joſeph] That is, Ephraim, who, though he were not the eldeſt ſon, yet he is preferred before Manaſſeh, Gen. 48. 13, 14, 19.

of the tribe of Benjamin] The tribes are not here reckoned in that order they are in the old Teſtament; but as it were promiſcuoſly, to ſhew, that in Chriſt there is no reſpect of perſons, Acts 10. 34, 35. Gal. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11.

V. 9. a great multitude] Some take this to be an expoſition of what was ſaid before, verſ. 4. and thoſe ſealed ones to be here meant. Others take it to be meant of a multitude of Gentiles added to the Iſraelites. See the notes on verſ. 4.

no man could number] Innumerable, in compariſon of the former, v. 4. So Gen. 15. 5. Heb. 11. 12.

of all nations] Not ſorted out by tribes, as thoſe before, verſ. 4. becauſe of ſo many ſeverall nations, kindreds and countreys out of which they were called and gathered into the Church, Chap. 5. 9.

ſtood] Sate not now, as the elders, Chap. 4. 4. but ſtood, as preſenting themſelves, after their conflicts and conqueſts, Chap. 15. 2. before God and Chriſt, Chap. 4. 2. by whoſe power and providence they had been preſerved, and enabled to overcome and perſevere, Chap. 12. 11. Rom. 8. 37.

with white robes] See Chap. 3. 4. and 6. 11.

palms in their hands] In token that they were ſure of victory: for palm-branches did men uſe to beare in triumph, and at feſtivities, Joh. 12. 3.

V. 10. with a loud voice] As deſirous that all men might hear their thankfulneſſe to God; 1 Chron. 15. 16. Pſalm. 66. 8, 16. and ſhouting aloud for joy, Pſalm. 140. 5.

Salvation to our God] The praiſe of our deliverance belongeth to our God; for we cannot deliver, nor could have delivered our ſelves, v. 12. Pſal. 3. 8. Joh. 2. 9.

unto the Lamb] By whom God ſaved us, Chap. 12. 11.

V. 11. angels] Miniſtring ſpirits, Heb. 1. 14.

round about the throne] As attending on God; Dan. 7. 10. See notes on Chap. 5. 8, 11.

and about the elders] About them, as a guard, Pſal. 34. 7. 2 Kings 6. 16, 17.

fell before the throne] See notes on Cha. 4. 10.

V. 12. Amen] They confirm the praiſe given God by the Saints, v. 10. and then explain and enlarge it further, concluding with Amen again.

bleſſing, &c.] See Chap. 5. 12.

V. 13. one of the elders] See Chap. 5. 5.

anſwered] Spake, as Matth. 11. 25. or, anſwered his doubts, though not his words.

V. 14. thou knoweſt] I know not, but deſire to know of thee.

came out of great tribulation] Have ſuffered much for the cauſe of Chriſt, Acts 14. 22.

made them white] Are cleanſed from the guilt of their ſins, not by their ſufferings, but by the blood of Chriſt, chap. 1. 5. by the virtue whereof alſo they obtained the victory, chap. 12. 11.

V. 15. before the throne of God] Admitted to a neer attendance upon God, Deut. 10. 8.

day and night] Continually. An alluſion to the Levites ſervices and watching, Pſal. 134. 1.

ſhall dwel among them] Or, overſhadow them: or ſpread a tent over them. For defence and protection. See Iſai. 4. 5. Pſal. 31. 20. chap. 21. 3.

V. 16. they ſhall hunger no more] Iſai. 49. 10. & 65. 13. They ſhall be brought to a condition free from all want, Pſal. 34. 10. and 84. 11.

the ſun light on them] They ſhall then be free from all annoyances and diſtempers, Pſal. 105. 39. & 121. 6. Iſa. 49. 10.

V. 17. in the midſt] Chap. 5. 6.

ſhall feed them] Shall provide for their ſouls, till he bring them to full happineſs, Pſal. 23. 1, 2.

and God ſhall wipe away all tears from their eyes] Chap. 21. 4. Iſaiah 25. 8. He ſhall give them ſo much joy, that they ſhall forget all their troubles, and ſhall have no cauſe to grieve ever after. John 16. 20, 22.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. Silence in heaven, about the ſpace of half an hour] Some interpret it of the ſmall time of ceſſation and reſt, which the Church had in Conſtantines time. Others, that John and the reſt ſeeing nothing, as they did after the opening of the other ſeals, ſtood ſilent, admiring at it, and expecting greater matters to be revealed. Others, think it an alluſion to the ſilence that uſed to be in the temple, while the incenſe was offering, Luke 1. 10. whereas they blew trumpets, and ſung, while the ſacrifice was offered, 2 Chro. 29. 27. And ſo this ſilence may ſeem to have laſted, till the incenſe and odours, hereafter mentioned, were all conſumed, verſ. 4.

The ſeventh ſeal.

V. 2. ſeven angels, which ſtood before God] Attended upon him, as Dan. 7. 10. chap. 7. 11.

to them were given] They were appointed by God to blow the trumpets, and ſtood ready ſo to do, whenſoever he ſhould bid them.

ſeven trumpets] To blow Gods alarm againſt the ungrateful world, and thereby to give warning of the vials of his wrath, to be poured forth on ſuch us would not be amended by the judgements now denounced. They are ſeven blowing one after another, to ſhew Gods patience, who is unwilling to pour out his wrath all at once, Pſal. 78. 38.

V. 3. another angel] Some take it for Chriſt, who offereth up the prayers of the Saints to God, mixed with the precious odours of his merits, Epheſ. 5. 2. Others, for Conſtantine, whom God honoured ſo much, as to make him an inſtrument, as of giving liberty to the faithful for the publike exerciſe of Gods worſhip, and prayer, more acceptable to God, than any incenſe or offering, Pſal. 69. 31. & 141. 2. Mal. 1. 11. ſo alſo of that peace and reſt which they had formerly long prayed for, and of vengeance executed on their cruel perſecutours and oppreſſours, which the ſouls under the altar had ſo earneſtly cried for, Chap. 6. 10. See verſ. 5. It may well ſeem to be ſome ſpecial miniſter of Church or State (for it was none of thoſe four living wights, Chap. 4.) rather than Chriſt himſelf, becauſe the incenſe or odours are ſaid to be given to him, not to be his own, or to have them of himſelf.

having a golden cenſer] As the high Prieſt had, to offer incenſe; Heb. 9. 4. ſee chap. 5. 8.

there was given unto him much incenſe] That is, as ſome, he had power given him to preach to the people the merits of Chriſts death, which ſhould make their prayers pleaſing to God. Or, he found that grace and favour with God, through Chriſt, to be a means of doing that which ſhould manifeſt, that their prayers had prevailed, and found acceptance with God; as Acts 10. 4, 31.

that he ſhould offer it with the prayers] Or, add it to the prayers. That he ſhould pray with and for the people in the name of Chriſt; or, procure a gracious anſwer to their prayers. An alluſion to the peoples continuing in prayer, while the Prieſt offered incenſe, Luke 1. 10.

upon the golden altar] Such as was the altar of incenſe; ſo called, Numb. 4. 11. becauſe over-laid with gold, Exod. 30. 3.

which was before the throne] As that in the Temple ſtood before the Ark, Exod. 30. 6. on which God is ſaid to ſit, as on a chair of eſtate, Pſalm 80. 1.

V. 4. aſcended up before God] A ſign that God did accept their ſervice, Pſalm 142. 2. Phil. 4. 18.

V. 5. took the cenſer] The ſome in which he had offered up the incenſe with the prayers of the Saints, ver. 4. whereby it appeareth, that the prayers by this angel preſented, were as well for vengeance on the bloudy perſecutours of Gods people, as for peace and reſt to them: See ver. 3.

filled it] To ſhew the greatneſs of the judgements to come.

with fire] Gr. of the fire; as chap. 2. 17. Or, out of the fire; Jude 23. For he took not away all the fire from the altar.

of the altar] An alluſion to Levit. 16. 12, 13. where the fire that the incenſe was to be kindled with, was commanded to be taken from the altar of burnt-offerings, where it was continually burning, Levit. 6. 12, 13. elſe were it ſtrange fire, Levit. 10. 1. This altar of burnt-offerings is alluded to chap. 6. 9. and withal, here may well be an alluſion to that handful of coles of fire taken from off the altar, and ſcattered, in token of Gods wrath upon the city, Ezek. 10. 2, 6, 7.

and caſt it into the earth] Or, upon the earth; as ver. 7. chap. 9. 3. Matth. 26. 10. A ſign of judgements to come on wicked men, Ezek. 10. 2, 7.

and there were voices] Or, then; as Mat. 23. 32. Some take the voices and thundrings to be all one: ſee chap. 4. 5. and thereby to be ſignified, Gods acceptance of the prayers of the Saints mentioned, ver. 3. becauſe God uſeth to anſwer his people with thunders, Pſalm 8. 1, 7. John 12. 28, 29. Others make a gradation: Thunders exceed mens voices, lightening deſtroyeth many creatures and buildings; but the earth-quake threatneth to rent the earth, as if hell opened her mouth to receive men: and they will have theſe terms to ſignifie terrible judgements, and ſuch as cannot be prevented, as puniſhments coming from heaven, and out of the earth, can by no skill or power of man be avoided. See Iſa. 24. 18.

and an earth-quake] A fore-runner of great troubles, chap. 6. 12.

V. 6. And the ſeven Angels] They are all ſaid to prepare themſelves at once, though they ſounded one after another, that there may not need a repetition of this preparation at every ſounding. Or, to ſhew they were all ready to ſound, when God ſhould command. Or, to declare the certainty of ſounding the reſt, as well as the firſt. Or, becauſe in the viſion they were all to ſound ſuddenly one after another, though there were more diſtance of time in execution.

prepared themſelves to ſound] Seeing by the ſigns, ver. 5. the time was nigh, they ſet the trumpets to their mouths. God gave ſome time for men to repent, between the denunciation and execution of the judgements.

V. 7. hail and fire] Which in thoſe hotter regions go uſually together. So Exod. 9. 22, 23. Pſalm 18. 12, 13. and 105. 22, 23. and 148. 8.

The firſt trumpet.

mingled with bloud] Both the hail and fire were mingled with bloud; for the word is plural in the Greek. By fire is meant lightnings, Pſalm 18. 12, 13. Bloud is added, to ſhew that this ſtorm or tempeſt tended to ſlaughter. A terrible judgement. What the hail did not beat down, the fire burnt up; and what the fire left, the bloud corrupted. See the like, Joel 1. 4. Some interpret it of the bitter contentions in the Church after the Nicene Council. Others, of the Arrian hereſie, and perſecution following it. Others, of the invaſion of the Roman Empire, after it was turned Chriſtian, by the Goths and Vandals: for by ſuch ſigns war is ſignified, Iſa. 28. 2. and 30. 30, 31, 32. It is conceived commonly, that the laſt interpretation is the trueſt; and that ſhall be proportionably purſued in the trumpets following.

upon the earth] Upon the Romane Empire, ſo that they ſhaked the foundation of it.

the third part] That the reſt might repent, before all were deſtroyed.

of trees] Of the Princes, and great men in the Empire, a third part, or great number, was deſtroyed in thoſe invaſions. So trees are taken, Iſa. 2. 13. and 14. 8. and 37. 24. Zech. 11. 2.

all green graſs] Moſt of the meaner ſort of men, Iſa. 27. 37.

The ſecond trumpet.

V. 8. as it were] This ſheweth, that John did not ſee the things themſelves here named, but reſemblances of them.

a great mountain burning with fire was caſt into the ſea] An alluſion to the burning of Ætna or Veſuvius, or the like hils, that, breaking out with flames, run down into the neighbour ſeas. So Iſa. 64. 1, 3. Mountains, for cities, Jer. 51. 25. Iſa. 13. 2. The ſea for the large Territories of an Empire, Jer. 51. 36, 44. Ezek. 31. 4. After that the barbarous people had ſurpriſed and ſacked the City of Rome, they waſted and ſpoiled the Territories of it, deſtroying the people, without reſpect of ſex or age.

became bloud] The waters were not only putrified, and grew muddy, but alſo were turned into gore bloud, which is the greateſt corruption of water that can be. An alluſion to Exod. 7. 20, 21. The Territories did ſwim in bloud, like a beaſt new ſlain, chap. 16. 3.

V. 9. creatures which were in the ſea] Fiſhes, or what elſe liveth in the waters. The men ſeem to be here intended, that lived in the Provinces; or, the ſouldiers who lay in gariſon there.

life] Gr. ſouls. Chap. 12. 11. Mat. 10. 39. Luke 14. 26.

died] Were choaked with the bloudy waters, Exod. 7. 18, 21.

of the ſhips were deſtroyed] Either by the fiery mountain falling on them, or corrupted by the bloudy waters. Hereby is intended the decay of a great part of the means to defend thoſe Provinces; or, of the trading there.

The third trumpet.

V. 10. A great ſtar from heaven] Or, out of heaven. The Roman Emperour of the Weſt, who, like a blazing ſtar, ſhined bright for a time, but was put down by the Goths; Iſa. 14. 12. and 34. 4.

burning as it were a lamp] It is compared to a lamp, then, not for greatneſs, but for light and heat.

upon the third part] Belike it fell into peeces, and one part fell on one river, another on another, &c. not on ſome part of every river, but on ſo many rivers as made up a third part of the rivers.

of the rivers, and upon the fountains] Of Waters. On the fountains of thoſe places where the third part of the rivers was. It is likely, then, that the rivers firſt grew bitter, and afterwards dried up. By rivers and fountains may be meant, the Magiſtrates ſent abroad into ſeveral Provinces, and the Cities and Provinces unto which they were ſent.

V. 11. wormwood] A name given it from the effect of it. The Hebrew word to which this anſwereth, ſignifieth a poiſonful herb that deſtroyed men, Deut. 29. 18. Amos 5. 7. By this bitter fall of that Emperour, the Magiſtrates and Cities ſuffered much, and many men were deſtroyed.

The fourth trumpet.

V. 12. the third part of the ſun] The Sun ſhined but eight hours, where it uſed to ſhine twelve. It was dark two hours longer in the morning, and ſooner at night. Or, the third part of the body of the Sun was darkned, ſo that it gave not ſo much light by a third part, at any time of the day, as it did before. So of the Moon and Stars in the night.

was ſmitten] The Sun is compared to a living body that hath one part of it dead with the palſie, or ſome other diſeaſe. The loſs of part of the light, is as loſs of part of the life, to a living creature. By the Sun, ſeemeth to be meant the Conſular power at Rome, permitted by the ruling Goths for a time: by the Moon the Senate: by the Stars, the other Magiſtrates. By theſe, government, and glory of it, are ſet out, Iſa. 13. 10. Jer. 15. 9. Ezek. 32. 7. Theſe were eclipſed; when the Viceroy lived not at Rome, but at Ravenna.

V. 13. And I beheld] Chap. 4. 1. and 14. 1. To ſee if any thing elſe would be offered to my ſight. Or, it may be, there being ſome diſtance between, he looked when the fifth Angel would ſound; but ſeeth ſomewhat fore-going it in this verſe, to make him the more to attend to it when it cometh.

thorow the midſt] Gr. in the midſt. Chap. 14. 16. That is, as ſome, in the midſt between heaven and earth, as the Angel appeared to David, 1 Chron. 21. 16. Or, rather, in the midſt of heaven, along the Meridian-line, which is the greateſt height of heaven, and from whence his voice might every way be moſt clearly heard.

with a loud voice] That all men might hear, chap. 5. 12. or, to ſhew the greatneſs of the plagues to come, chap. 14. 9.

Wo, wo, wo] Signifying, by theſe three wo's, that three greater judgements were yet to come, chap. 9. 12. and 11. 14.

to the inhabiters of the earth] Wicked men and idolaters, chap. 11. 10. and 13. 12, 14. For theſe look after earthly things only, and have no other portion, Pſalm 17. 14. Their converſation is not in heaven, like the Saints, Phil. 3. 19, 20.

by reaſon of] As chapter 10. 13. Or, from. The miſeries following ſhall proceed, as it were, from the ſounds of the following trumpets. The Angels ſhall not only be Heraulds to denounce them, but inſtruments to inflict them, chap. 9. 1, 2.

of the trumpet of the three Angels] Of each of their trumpets, chap. 9. 19. Or, the trumpet, becauſe they were all alike, in denouncing heavier judgements than the former.

CHAP. IX.

The fifth trumpet.

Ver. 1. A Star fall] See the like, chapter 8. 10. Gr. a fallen ſtar. It fell ſo ſwiftly, that I could ſcarce deſcry it till it came to the ground, which it did, before the fifth Angel had done blowing, and then it appeared to me to be a ſtar.

to him was given] Or, to it: that is, to the ſtar. Not to the Angel; for the Angel had his employment ſet down before, which was, To blow the Trumpet: but no end of the falling of this ſtar is mentioned, unleſs this be it, To receive the key of the bottomleſs pit. Yet ſome perſon muſt be intended by this ſtar; for a ſtar could not tell how to uſe the key of the bottomleſs pit. Some take it to be a good Angel, that had power given him to hinder or let looſe helliſh operations, chap.20. 1. Others take it for the devil, the Angel of the bottomleſs pit, ver. 11. Others, for ſome Miniſter (for ſuch are compared to ſtars, chap.1.20.) who fell from the true religion, and turned apoſtata; ſuch as Sergius of Conſtantinople, the Neſtorian Monk, and John of Antioch the Arrian, who are ſaid to aſſiſt Mahomet in the compoſing of his lying Alcoran.

the key] For hell is a priſon, and muſt be locked up, 1 Peter 3. 19.

bottomleſs pit] Hell is compared to a dungeon, that hath a narrow entrance, but a deep gulf within. Sometimes this word is uſed for the ſea, whoſe bottom we know not; as Luke 8.31.

V. 2. And he opened the bottomleſs pit] Before, ſome errours brake forth, as it were by chinks and crannies; but now falſe doctrine came forth abundantly, as if hell had been let looſe, or broke up, and the gates of it ſet wide open, to let it out at large: for now Mahomet ſetteth forth his Alcoran for divine Scripture, the like whereof no heretick durſt attempt before, or at leaſt, could not prevail with multitudes of men to beleeve him, as Mahomet did. So that the opening of the bottomleſs pit, is the apoſtata's uſing their power to let in ſuch groſs errours into the world, as could come from none, as their authour, but from the devil of hell.

a ſmoke out of the pit] The great wrath of the devils in hell, like a great fire, brought forth Mahumetaniſm in abundance, which like ſmoke, kept the light of Gods truth, and favour of Chriſt and his Goſpel, from a great part of the world.

and the Sun and the air were darkned] It was not a ſmall darkneſs, as when ſome high mountain hideth the light from the valley neer; but a very great one, as if all the air, nay, the ſun it ſelf, that giveth light to the air, were darkned; as Mat.27.45.

V. 3. out of the ſmoke] Out of this devilliſh plot of Mahumetaniſm: or, out of Satans hidden ſubtilty.

locuſts upon the earth] Vermin that uſe to feed on graſs and fruit, ver. 4. whereby are meant men ſprung out of Arabia, to afflict the world, as the locuſts came thence into Egypt, Exod. 10. 13,14. Gen. 25. 6, 12, 18. Locuſts help to make up the great army, Joel 1.4,6.

power as the ſcorpions] For they had tails, like them, ver.18.and wounded men like them, ver. 5. with cruel and poiſoned wounds, Jer. 8. 17. Strange monſters, that with Locuſts, could devour all, and with ſcorpions, ſting and poiſon beſides. So did the Mahometans devour with their armies, and poiſon with their errours, and that under a colour of pulling down idols, and ſerving the onely true God.

V. 4. commanded them] God did not ſuffer them to hurt his true ſervants, though they wanted neither courage, nor endeavour to do it.

the graſs of the earth, &c.] Or, hay. Such as are cut off from the earth; that is, ſeparated from ungodly men. Or, the graſs may ſignifie weak Chriſtians; the green plants, growing ones: the trees, ſtrong ones; as, little children, young men, fathers, 1 John 2. 13, 14. Or, neither mean men, nor great, of ſuch as were marked, ch. 7. 3, 13, 16. The Saracens have done much hurt to ignorant Greeks, and idolatrous Papiſts; but not much to the Proteſtants perſecuted then, and profeſſing the true religion openly now.

but only] As chap.2. 25.

in their foreheads] Gr. on their foreheads.

V. 5. To them was given] They had no further power nor commiſſion from God; as chap. 13.7.

not kill him] Not preſently kill them, but torment them ſo as they die after it, as if they were ſtung with ſcorpions. Or, not kill them at all, but keep them for ſlaves. Both which agree with the Saracens, who have many oppreſſed by them, that wiſh rather to be dead; as ver. 6. Or, they did not take ſo much boldneſs on them, as to kill men at their firſt ariſing; but ſtayeth till they had gotten greater ſtrength, under the next ſeal, ver. 15. 18. At firſt, many Chriſtians yeelded to the Saracens, and took part with them: afterwards, when the Chriſtians warred againſt them, they killed them cruelly. They that muſt not be killed, but tormented by theſe Saracens, were ſuch as were not ſealed, ver. 4. for the ſealed ones they might not ſo much as torment.

five moneths] A ſhort time; as Locuſts are bred in April, and die in September. Or, an hundred and fifty years: for ſo many days are in five moneths; and the Prophets reckon a day for a year, Dan. 9.24. and the Saracens vexed Italy, from the year eight hundred and thirty, to nine hundred and eighty.

as the torment of a ſcorpion] Painful till death, or cure by liberty, ver.3. Or, if they did kill them, they kept them from freedom, and from their wives and children, and all worldly comforts, which is a living death.

V. 8. And in] Or, therefore in; as 1 Cor. 5. 13.

ſhall men ſeek death] Chap.6.16.Iſa.2.19. Job 3.20,21. Though men naturally abhor death, yet they ſhall deſire it, that they may be rid of their grievous torments; as eſteeming death a leſſer evil than thoſe miſeries they endure.

V. 7. like unto horſes, &c.] Joel 2. 4. They were not altogether like Locuſts, but in ſome part reſembled Horſes. The Saracens made ſudden incurſions into many Countries, and were fierce warriours; as horſes are ſwift and fierce in battel, Job 39. 22, 23, 24, 25.

crowns like gold] That is, bright head-peeces ſhining like gold. This may ſignifie, as their compleat furniture for war, ſo their many victories, who within eighty years, overcame a multitude of nations.

as the faces of men] Either in regard of ſome ſhews or pretences of humanity; as Iſa.47.3. or for ſtoutneſs, courage, and confidence; as Iſa. 46.8. 1 Cor.16.13. and as we uſe to ſay, A manly face.

V. 8. As the hair of women] This may ſignifie, that by flattery and fair ſhews, they uſed to perſwade, like women, Prov. 6.24. that they might make their foes ſecure, and deſtroy them the more eaſily.

as the teeth of lions] Joel 1. 6. This ſetteth out their cruelty, and tyrannical government. Notwithſtanding their flattery, they deſtroyed men, as if they had had lions teeth; Pſalm 57. 4. and 58. 6.

V. 9. As it were] It was not fit to clothe the Locuſts with iron breſt plates, but ſomewhat like them; although the Saracens, ſignified by them, might wear iron breſt-plates indeed.

breſt-plates of iron] They were ſtrongly armed themſelves and their kingdom, ſo that their foes could not hurt them.

of chariots, &c.] Joel 2.5. Swift and terrible were they in their invaſions, 2 Kings 7.6,7. Iſa.5.28. and 66.15. Jer.4.13.

horſes running] See ver. 7.

V. 10. ſtings in their tails] As they ſought dominion over other people, ſo they poiſoned them with falſe religion. Or, it may be underſtood of tormenting their captives, or putting them to miſerable ſlavery by their inferiour officers. See ver. 5. Or, of deceiving them in the end, who truſt to them.

five moneths] See verſe 5.

V. 11. a king over them] Herein they differ from common Locuſts, Prov.30.27.

the angel of the bottomleſs pit] Some take it to be ſpoken of the devil: others, of the commander of the Saracens, the devils great agent.

in the Hebrew, &c.] Either becauſe the deſtroying Angel was known to the Jews, as well as to the Chriſtians: or elſe becauſe the Saracens oppreſſed both.

Apollyon] That is to ſay, A deſtroyer. Some ſay, Mahomets name ſignifieth ſo alſo; and the name Turk, in the Eaſtern language. Sure it is, they have made havock of men, Churches and Schools, where they have prevailed. Some take it to be ſpoken of the devil, who deſtroyeth others, and in the end, ſhall be deſtroyed himſelf, 1 Pet.5.8. chap.20.10.

V. 12. One wo] Chap.8.13. and 6.1.

is paſt] Is fully revealed: or, is done, before the other two begin.

The ſixth trumpet.

V. 13. a voice] Gr. one voice. It was the voice of Chriſt, as ſome think.

from the four horns] Or, out of the four horns; (of which, Exod.30.10.) That is, out of the midſt of the Altar, where the incenſe, with the prayers of the Saints, was offered up, chap. 8. 3. It ſeemed to be Gods voice, anſwering out of the ſame place, thoſe prayers, and the complaints of the ſouls under the Altar, chap. 6. 9, 10. by giving the Saracens a command to invade Europe, ver. 14. to revenge their cauſe on the Roman perſecutours.

of the golden Altar] Whereon the incenſe was offered, chap. 8. 3. an alluſion to Exod.30.1.

before God] That is, before the Ark, which was a viſible ſign of Gods preſence and reſidence among them, Exod. 30.8. Pſalm 81.

V. 14. had the trumpet] Had newly ſounded, and had not yet laid down the trumpet out of his hand.

looſe the four Angels] Four Governours of the Mahometans; as chap. 16. 12. for they were now divided into a Tetrarchy, under four Sultans of Aſia; Aleppo, Damaſcus, and Antioch.

bound in the great river Euphrates] Had not yet ſet footing in Europe, but were kept back by their own diſſentions, and the victories of the Chriſtians; or, rather, by the over-ruling Providence of God.

V. 15. were looſed] Set at liberty by the Angel that ſounded this trumpet: ſee ver. v.1.

prepared for an hour] Or, at an hour, &c. It may ſignifie their readineſs to go at any time, when they ſhould be looſed. Or, to follow the work from time to time. Or, at the time appointed by God. Or, a ſhort time: ſee chap. 3. 10. Or, the time of their coming to take Conſtantinople, from the beginning of their Empire, which is to be reckoned from the taking of Babylon, was three hundred ninety and ſix years, and ſome odde time: for days, in the Prophets, are put for years, ver. 5.

for to ſtay] See notes on ver. 5.

third part of men] Of ſuch as were not ſealed, chap.7.3.

V. 16. of the horſemen] The Turks Army conſiſteth moſt of ſuch, for ſwiftneſs, Ezek.38.4,15.

two hundred thouſand thouſand] Such great Armies they uſed, for terrour to their enemies.

and I heard] Or, for I heard; as Luke 6. 32. the number was ſo great, I could not reckon them: but I was told the number of them. This he addeth, that no man might think he made the number greater than it was.

V. 17. in the viſion] Before, he was ſaid to be in the Spirit, chap. 1. 10. and 4. 2. now, he ſeeth theſe things in a viſion. The former ſetteth forth his preparation, the later, the manner of the revelation. His eyes were firſt taken off from gazing on worldly things, and then faſtned on theſe heavenly apparitions.

breſt-plates] Or, corſlets. For matter of defence.

of fire, and of Jacinth, and brimſtone] Either their breſt-plates were made each one of theſe materials, or of ſome common matter that had theſe ſeveral colours; unleſs, as ſome think, their Army conſiſted of ſeveral nations, which had ſeveral colours in their habergeons, to diſtinguiſh the Saracens, Turks, and Tartars, by fiery, Jacinth, and brimſtone colours.

of fire] Not of material fire, for there are no ſuch breſt-plates, neither can any bodily creatures wear ſuch: but they appeared like fire to Saint John, in the viſion. It ſignifieth, that the ſight of them ſhould be ſo terrible to the enemies, that they ſhould no more dare to come neer them, or, be able to hurt them, than if they were compaſſed about with fire; Zech. 2. 5.

of Jacinth] It is a ſtone of a sky-colour (of which, chap.21.20.) and may import, that theſe were invincible Armies ſent from above, from God, to puniſh the wicked Romans.

of brimſtone] This might alſo ſignifie that God, who uſeth to puniſh great ſinners with fire and brimſtone from heaven, Gen.19.24. Pſalm 11. 6. Job 18. 15. and ſetteth out hell-pains thereby, chap. 14. 10. and 19. 20. did employ theſe to ſcourge the wicked world. It importeth a great deſolation; for brimſtone feedeth the fire, and keepeth it burning, till it have deſtroyed all before it; Iſa. 30. 33. and 34. 9, 10.

the heads of the horſes] Their defenſive arms were ſet down before: now he deſcribeth their offenſive ones. Souldiers uſe to take care for their own ſafety, before they ſet upon their enemies.

as heads of lions] They were very ſtout, fierce and cruel.

out of their mouths] This fire might ſeem, to thoſe againſt whom they ſhot, at the firſt, to come out of their horſes mouths. For the new invention of guns, uſed by them at the taking of Conſtantinople, ſeemeth here to be foretold; out of which came fire, ſmoke, gun-powder, made of brimſtone, with other materials. Or, it may import a great devaſtation of the countreys they came in; as before in this verſe, and the next, Joel 2. 3.

ſmoke] The ſmoke is very great at the ſhooting of great Ordnance, becauſe the fire is ſoon kindled, and quickly diſſolveth into ſmoke. It may import the ſad & diſmal eſtate of thoſe regions which are waſted by the Saracens. A thing worthy of great obſervation, that God ſhould bring in Turks, that hate idols, to deſtroy Chriſtian idolaters.

V. 18. By theſe three] Working together, and at one time. For guns make a greater and ſpeedier havock of men, than ſwords did before.

out of their mouths] Theſe do not flatter, as the locuſts did, ver. 8. but threaten fire and death where ere they come.

third part of men] As ver. 15.

V. 19. in their mouth, and in their tails] The power of other horſes is in their body, and in their feet; but of theſe, in their head and tails. In their head, becauſe thence cometh fire, ſmoke and brimſtone, out of their mouths, ver. 17, 18. In their tails, becauſe when they have overcome men, and ruled them quietly a while, they will return to their former cruelty. Therefore their tails alſo are ſaid to have heads, and to be like ſerpents, which come ſuddenly out of their holes, and ſting men, before they ſee them. Or, they uſe power and ſubtilty. Or, they kill bodies by force, and ſting ſouls to death, by Mahumetan impoſtures.

V. 20. the reſt of the men] The other two third parts of the idolatrous Chriſtians, which were not ſlain by the Mahumetans.

yet repented not of] Gr. from, or, out of. That is, ſo as to depart from, Heb. 6. 1. Repentance from dead works; that is, whereby men do ſo repent, as that they depart from dead works; or, come out of them; as Acts 8. 22, 23. Repenting of wickedneſs, and coming out of the gall of bitterneſs. Or, neither repented of. Though they were ſpared, yet they amended not at all, but remained obſtinate in the practice of all their former ſins hereafter mentioned.

of the works of their hands] All actual ſins are ſo called, becauſe they are properly our works, Pſalm 28. 4. and the hand is the ordinary inſtrument of acting. God hath no hand in theſe, as he hath in our good works. But here, making idols to worſhip, is ſignified; as Deut. 31. 29. Iſa. 2. 8. Hoſ. 14. 3. Though the Eaſtern Churches were waſted by the Turks for their idolatry; yet the Weſtern ones repented not of their making images. The example of Gods judgements on their fellow-idolaters, could do no good upon them. This muſt needs be meant of the Papiſts; for neither Proteſtants, Jews, nor Turks, nor any other in Europe, make images for worſhip.

not worſhip devils] Saints, who are Δαίμονες. Or, images, as followeth. See Lev. 17. 7. Deut.32.17. Pſalm 106.36,37. 1 Cor. 10. 20. For, worſhipping of images cometh from the devil, being contrary to Gods commandment: and the devil was worſhipped in them.

and idols] Or, even idols. So Tit.2.13. chap. 1.6.

of gold] Pſalm 115.4. and 135.5.

and ſilver, &c.] This ſheweth they had a multitude of idols; as Dan.5.23. So, many veſſels in a great houſe are ſet out, 2 Tim. 2.20.

and of ſtone, &c.] Such deſperate idolaters were theſe Popiſh Chriſtians, that they which wanted wealth to make golden, ſilver, or brazen images, made images of ſtone and wood, Iſa. 40. 20.

which neither can ſee, nor hear, nor walk] Pſalm 115. 4, 5, 6, 7. O the folly of idolaters! which can do theſe things themſelves, and yet worſhip them which can do none of theſe; much leſs can they help them in time of trouble, Iſa. 46. 7. So that their madneſs is ſet out, firſt, from the authour of their idols: they are the works of mens hands. Secondly, from the object of their worſhip; the devil, Gods greateſt enemy. Thirdly, from the multitude of their idols; which ſheweth their ſtrong affection to that ſin, as multitude of adulterers ſheweth the unſatiableneſs of a whore, Ezek. 16. 28, 29. Fourthly, from the blockiſhneſs of their idols: they could not ſee, nay, they could not hear, nay, they could not ſo much as move out of their places, Iſa. 41. 7. How then could they do them any good at all? Iſa. 41. 23. Jer. 10. 5.

V. 21. murders] In killing Gods Saints.

ſorceries] A ſin too rife in that Church, reported to be practiſed by divers of their Popes.

fornication] All manner of looſeneſs and wantonneſs.

thefts] In getting away the wealth of the ſimple people, by offerings, pilgrimages, &c. So that they brake not only the firſt Table, but the ſecond alſo. As they wronged God in his worſhip: ſo men alſo, in their bodies and eſtates.

CHAP. X.

Ver. 1. ANother mighty Angel] Some take it of Chriſt, becauſe of his glorious apparition. Others, of ſome Angel employed by him, becauſe he is commanded by another Angel, chap.14. 14,15. He is called, Another mighty Angel, to diſtinguiſh him from that mighty one mentioned before, chap. 5. 2. His might is ſpoken of, to terrifie thoſe that would not repent, after ſo many plagues.

come down from heaven] See chap. 3. 12. As ſent from God, to do him ſome ſervice here beneath.

with a cloud] The cloud on him, and rain-bow over him, are for glory, chap. 4. 3. or, to ſignifie, that men will not take notice of him, to repent at his word, who is as it were hid from them, Lam. 3. 44. And the rain-bow may ſignifie Gods willingneſs to ſpare them, & unwillingneſs to deſtroy them, if they will yet repent, Gen.9. 11, &c. that none might periſh by the floud of Gods wrath hereafter.

face as the Sun] Full of brightneſs. That all might clearly diſcern imminent deſtruction, if they repented not, ver. 6, 7.

feet as pillars] That is, legs, by a ſynecdoche, taking the feet in with them, which are as a baſis to the legs, being as pillars, ſupporters to the body, Cant. 5. 15. Here the rather ſo termed, to imply their ſtrength and firmneſs, 1 Kings 7.21.

of fire] Either for the brightneſs of them, or having power to conſume Gods enemies, chap. 1.15. Pſalm 74.3.

V. 2. a little book] Containing in it the reſt of this revelation of the ſtate of the Church, Chriſts little flock, Luke 12. 32.

open] Not ſealed up, as the other was, chap. 5. 1.

right foot on the ſea, &c.] To ſhew a power given him over ſea and land, to puniſh the moſt remote in the furtheſt iſlands of the world. The right foot is ſaid to be over the ſea, becauſe it is more unruly than the earth, Pſalm 93. 1, 2, 3, 4.

V. 3. a loud voice] See chap. 5. 2.

as when a lion roareth] To ſhew, that greater judgements were yet to come on the enemies of the Church, Iſa. 21.8. Amos 3.8. Thus he ſeeketh to terrifie men, that they may repent.

when he had cryed] The thunders were as an echo, anſwering to the Angels cry.

ſeven thunders] Gr. the ſeven thunders. Perhaps an alluſion to chap. 8. 5. where thunders are mentioned; but uttered no intelligible ſound till now. Theſe thundered heavy judgements, yet not here expreſs'd.

V. 4. I was about to write] It ſeemeth, ſeeing he was about to write what the thunders propheſyed, that he heard their words.

Seal up thoſe things] Publiſh them not, Dan. 12. 4,9. It may be, God would not have them known, till neer the accompliſhment, chap. 22. 10. as no man could read the ſealed book, chap. 5.2,3. Or, leſt men ſhould think them ſeigned things, or deſpair, becauſe of the extraordinary evils threatned by them. Things written, are often ſealed, for ſurety, as bonds and deeds; as Jer. 32. 10. Dan. 12. 4. but here ſealing is intended for ſecrecy, to conceal, and not to publiſh, as in letters, or to write ſo as may be publiſhed, as is in this verſe expounded. It may be, it was reſerved for a fitter time; and ſo ſome Greek Copies read it; and hereafter write them: or, that hereafter thou mayeſt write them. For, what God revealed to John, was to be ſhewed to his ſervants, chap. 1. 1. unleſs Chriſt ſhould honour his beloved Apoſtle, here, with ſome heavenly ſecrets which ſhould never be publiſhed, as he did the Apoſtle of the Gentiles, 2 Cor. 12.4.

thoſe things] It ſeemeth the thunders uttered divers matters.

V. 5. ſtand] Gr. ſtanding; ver. 2. lifted up his hand to heaven] Dan. 12. 7. This was their manner of ſwearing, Gen. 14. 22. Exo. 6. 8. Deu. 32.40. Num. 14.30. Ezek. 20. 15. whereby they ſignified, that they called God, who dwelleth in heaven, Matth. 6. 9. to witneſs the truth of what they ſware, and to puniſh them, if they ſware falſly, 2 Cor. 1.23.

V. 6. by him that liveth for ever and ever] By the living God, by whom alone men ought to ſwear, Jer. 4.2. and 5.2.

who created] Theſe tokens of Gods omnipotency are brought, to ſhew Gods power in all theſe places, as being Creatour of them, and conſequently, both Lord over them, and able to do whatſoever he will with them, and in them, Pſalm 146. 6. and 135. 6. Dan. 4. 35.

time no longer] The time of the Roman Empire ſhould laſt no longer. Or, there ſhould be no longer delay, but thoſe things enſuing ſhould be forthwith put in execution, Ezek. 12. 27, 28.

V. 7. when he ſhall begin to ſound] Gr. when he ſhall ſound; as 2 Kings 3. 1. he began to reign; Heb. he reigned. So 2 Kings 12. 1. and 15.2. when he began to reign. Heb. when he reigned. But it may be as well underſtood, After he hath ſounded; as the particle is uſed, Mark 4. 32. John 8. 28.

the myſtery of God] Of calling the Jews; and making a glorious Church of Jews and Gentiles, Rom. 11. 25. This ſhall be done, when Rome is deſtroyed, chap. 11.15. and 16.17.

as he hath declared] He told the Prophets the things, but not the time. The Greek word ſignifieth, He told theſe joyful tidings. For the glory of the Church, when the Jews come in, will be as another Goſpel, or glad tidings, Luke 2. 10. to the world, Rom. 11.15.

to his ſervants] In a more ſpecial manner: of which, ſee chap. 1. 1.

the Prophets] Dan. 2.44. and 7. 26, 27. and 12. 7. Hoſ. 1. 11. and 3. 4, 5. They were firſt acquainted with it, and publiſhed it to the world, though not ſo plainly as the Apoſtle hath done, Rom. 11.

V. 8. voice which I heard] Ver. 1, 3.

from heaven] Chap. 4. 1.

little book, &c.] See ver. 2.

which ſtandeth] Ver. 2.

V. 9. Take it] Ezek. 2.8. and 3.13,14.

eat it up] Read it all over, and lay it up in thy minde.

belly bitter] Thou wilt be ſad to find ſuch heavy judgements there recorded, when thou haſt well conſidered of them.

but it ſhall be] Or, though it be. Or, yet it ſhall be. For it would come into the mouth, before it came into the belly; as ver. 10.

in thy mouth ſweet as honey] Pſalm 19. 10. and 119. 103. The revelation of theſe myſteries will be very pleaſing to thee at firſt.

V. 10. and ate it up] He did not eat part of it, but ate it all up, as he was bidden. He obeyeth, notwithſtanding the diſcouragement, ver. 9. His love to Gods oracles was ſo great, he feared no trouble enſuing, Jer. 15. 16.

V. 11. thou muſt propheſie again] As thou haſt had prophecies revealed to thee before in the ſeals and trumpets, to communicate to men; ſo thou ſhalt have others communicated in the vials, to the ſame end; which things are contained in this little book which thou haſt eaten up. So Ezekiel was to propheſie, after he had eaten the book, Ezek. 3. 1,4.

before many peoples] Or, againſt many peoples. So the word is taken, Luke 12. 52, 53. ſee Jer. 1. 10.

and nations, &c.] This ſetteth out multitudes, chap. 5. 9. and 7. 9.

and Kings] Thou ſhalt foretell their deſtruction, or ſuch good or bad things as ſhall befall them, chap. 19.18. and 20.8.

CHAP. XI.

Ver. 1. T*Here was given me*] From God, very likely, to ſhew the work to be his: elſe John would have ſaid the Angel gave it him.

a reed] Many nations uſed reeds or canes to meaſure with, becauſe, being hollow, they were lighter, and fitter for that uſe. The intent here is, to meaſure out a Church for God under the Antichriſtian perſecution. For the reed, ſee Ezek. 40.3.

like unto a rod] Such a rod as was uſed alſo in meaſuring, and is to this day with us. Therefore Iſrael is called, The rod of Gods inheritance, Pſalm 74. 2. Jer. 10. 16. Scepters are alſo called rods in the original, Pſalm 45. 6. and 110.2. So that the Church was to be upheld in thoſe times by the favour of ſome Prince; for ſuch uſed rods or ſcepters to be carried before them, for honour. So were the Waldenſes upheld by the Counts of Tolouze, and others.

the Angel ſtood] In likelihood, as before, chap. 10. 2, 5, 8. that nothing might be done but in his preſence.

Riſe] This doth not neceſſarily import that he was ſitting before; but it is an uſual phraſe in Scripture, whereby men are called and incited to go inſtantly about ſome work wherein they were not formerly employed, Num. 23. 17, 18. Deut. 13. 24. John 1. 2.

meaſure the temple of God] An alluſion to Ezek. 40. 1, &c. where the temple, with all in it, was to be meaſured by Gods appointment, to ſhew, that that building was of God. So muſt the patern of his Church in the wilderneſs, to inform, that God would keep them ſafe, in deſpight of men.

and the Altar] All that was in the inner court, or court of Prieſts. To ſhew, that they whom theſe typified, ſhould remain hallowed and appropriated ſtill to God.

and them that worſhip therein] In the temple. For the court of the Prieſts joined unto the temple, and was eſteemed as a part of the temple; as Mat. 12. 5, 6. The Prieſts in the temple profane the Sabbath, to wit, by killing beaſts in the Prieſts court. And it is accounted as it were within the temple, Ezek. 44. 17, 19. for there were the ſacrifices offered, and into it the people might not come, no more than into the temple it ſelf. This ſignifieth, that true Chriſtians ſhould then be as few, in compariſon of idolatrous ones, as the Prieſts and Levites, that worſhipped in the inner court, were, in compariſon of the people, that worſhipped in the outward. True Chriſtians are compared to Prieſts, chap. 1. 6. By meaſuring theſe, he meaneth, numbering them, to wit, for life; as 2 Sam. 8. 2. or ſalvation. See chap. 7. 4. By all this is ſignified, that Gods people, while Antichriſt raged, ſhould have a place in the wilderneſs, where they might ſerve God according to his will, as the Jews offered ſacrifices on the altar in the temple, and which ſhould be for ſafety, as a ſanctuary to them, Iſa. 8. 14. Ezek. 11. 16. Therefore temple, and altar, and worſhippers, and all are meaſured. So Jeruſalem is meaſured after the captivity, that it may be inhabited again, Zech. 1. 2, 3, 4. God would own no more worſhip, nor worſhippers than theſe. The reſt he would refuſe, though Chriſtians by profeſſion, ver. 2.

V. 2. the court which is without the temple] An alluſion to that which is called the outward court, Ezek. 40. 17. The great court, and diſtinct from the court of the Prieſts, 2 Chron. 4. 9.

leave out] Gr. caſt out: To wit, as profane, and that which God will make no account of. So we caſt things out of doors, that are of no price or uſe. Or, leave out; that is, count it not any part of the temple, though it be ſometime ſo called. As Mat. 21. 12. the buyers and ſellers are ſaid to be in the Temple, which were in this outward court of the temple. Or, leave it out, that is, meaſure it not, as chap. 10. 4. Seal up thoſe things which the ſeven thunders have written; that is, write them not. Or, he putteth the things ſignified firſt, and then the ſign. Leave the places where the true religion was profeſſed, to idolaters, while the Church is ſerving God in the wilderneſs, as in the inner court of the temple; and let this be a ſign of it, that thou meaſure it not, as thou didſt the temple, and inner court. This ſignifieth, that in thoſe times the viſible Church of ſuch as bare the name of Chriſtians, were to be caſt out, as excommunicated of God, neither were the ſervants of God to account them as Gods building, meaſured by his reed, or as Gods approved Church.

given unto the Gentiles] The Papiſts, which are idolaters, like unto the Gentiles, ſhall poſſeſs the outward face of the viſible Church, for a time. For the outward court, here alluded to, was as it were the face of the temple. And they are called Gentiles, or Heathen, by alluſion to the Church of the Old Teſtament, where all that were not Gods people, or were enemies of them, were ſo called, Pſal. 2. 1. and 79. 1. Luke 2. 32. Acts 4. 25. Gal. 2. 12, 15. Eph. 2. 11, 12, 14. 1 Cor. 10. 20.

the holy city] He alludeth to Hieruſalem, called the holy city, Dan. 9. 24. Mat. 27. 53. So named, becauſe in it was the temple, the Prieſts, the ſacrifices, and all the conſecrated things.

ſhall they tread under foot] See Dan.9.26. both temple and city poſſeſſed by the enemies. They ſhall baniſh Religion out of thoſe places where it was viſibly profeſſed before. Or, they ſhall exerciſe their falſe Religion there. So treading Gods Courts is taken for publick ſervice, Iſa.1.12. Or, the people of God, that worſhip God in the deſert, ſhall be perſecuted by them, and kept under, Iſa. 14.25. Dan. 7.23. Amos 5.11.

fourty and two moneths] That is, a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days, ver. 3. ch. 12.6. allowing thirty days to each month. Hereby are meant ſo many years as Prophets uſe to reckon. So weeks are put for weeks of years, or ſo many years as there be days in every one of thoſe weeks, Dan.9.24,25,26. Or, a long time.

V. 3. And] Or, But. So the particle is uſed, Mat.11.19. Mark 12.12.

I will give power] Notwithſtanding Antichriſts perſecuting of them, I will give power, &c. Or, I will give unto my two witneſſes, that they may propheſie, Luke 3.20. Or, I will give it; that is, I will give the temple to my two witneſſes, to preach in the deſert, while Antichriſt and his followers exerciſe their idolatrous worſhip in the Court, and holy City, or the places where I was truly worſhipped before.

two witneſſes] So called, becauſe they bear witneſs to truth and holineſs, againſt all the errours and unholineſs of Antichriſt. In the number two, is an alluſion to Moſes and Aaron in the wilderneſs; Elijah and Eliſha, when the Iſraelites worſhipped the Calves and Baal; Zerubbabel and Jehoſhua, in Babylon, and after the return of the people. Or, two, becauſe two witneſſes were ſufficient to confirm a thing, Deut.17.6. Mat.18.16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Miniſters are Chriſts witneſſes, Acts 1.8.

they ſhall propheſie] Inſtruct the people how to worſhip God according to his word, and foretell the ruine of Antichriſt and his adherents, out of Gods Word.

a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days] So long as Antichriſts reign and perſecution laſteth, ſome ſhall preach Gods truth. See ver. 2. It ſeemeth to be ſo many years, becauſe it is a broken number; for whole ones, as ten, twenty, an hundred, uſe to be put indefinitely. The profanation of the idolaters, is counted by moneths, v. 2. which are reckoned by the courſe of the Moon, becauſe their worſhip is a work of darkneſs, and of the night, wherein the Moon ruleth, Gen.1.16. Whereas the propheſying of the two witneſſes is reckoned by days; for true Religion is compared to light, Acts 26. 18. 2 Cor. 6. 14. See the like in the times of the beaſts blaſphemy, and of the womans being in the wilderneſs, chap. 13. 5. and 12. 6. Or, their propheſying is reckoned by days, not by years, becauſe it is a work of every day, and of continual labour.

clothed in ſackcloth] Mourning for the idolatry of the Papiſts, ſpreading it ſelf ſo faſt and ſo far, and for the troubles of the true Church. Sackcloth is worn in ſad times, 2 Kin.6.30. Amos 8.9,10.

V. 4. Theſe are,&c.] In this verſe, is ſet down their goodneſs extended to their friends, the people of God: in the next, their power to hurt or deſtroy their enemies, till the time of their propheſying ſhould be done; for then muſt they be killed by their foes, ver.7.

the two olive-trees] Zech. 4. 3, 11, 14. Miniſtring oyl to the Candleſticks abundantly: for they are not branches, as in Zechariah, but whole trees. Theſe times of perſecution here foretold, would require abundance of all graces in Gods Miniſters, to hold up the hearts of his fainting people, by plentiful inſtruction, and conſolation. And ſuch did God then ſend, furniſhed abundantly from heaven, (when means of inſtruction failed) as olive-trees are with oyl.

and the two Candleſticks] That is, they were with the two Candleſticks or Churches. So and, in the Hebrew, is taken and tranſlated with, 1 Sam. 14.18. with the children of Iſrael. There were ſeven golden Candleſticks before, ch. 1. 20. but now, by perſecution, they are brought to two; and two Miniſters muſt ſuffice them. They are ſaid to be two, becauſe theſe perſecuted Churches conſiſt of Jews and Gentiles: or elſe, becauſe they lived both in the Eaſtern and Weſtern Empire.

ſtanding before] By ſtanding before God, ſome underſtand, that they were hidden from men in thoſe times of trouble. Others, that they miniſtred to God, Deut. 10. 18. 1 Kings 17. 1. as great Officers ſtand before Kings; to miniſter to them, 1 Kings 10. 8. Prov. 22.29. Jer. 22. 12. compared with 2 Kings 25.8. chap.8.2.

the God of the earth] Who owneth and ruleth all the earth, Pſal. 24. 1. and 93. 1, 2, 3. and 95. 3, 4. God is called, The God of heaven and earth, Gen.24.3. The God of heaven, Dan.2.18. but here he is called, The God of the earth, to ſhew, for the comfort of the Church, that howſoever Antichriſt ſeemed to ſway all on earth, and all the world went wondring after him, cha.13.3. yet God keepeth the rule of the earth in his own hands ſtill, and can protect his ſelected and marked ones, againſt the rage of Antichriſt and his adherents.

V. 5. if any man will hurt them] That is, any way wrong them, or attempt to hinder them in the courſe of their prophecie.

fire proceedeth out of their mouth] Their revenge is ſpiritual. They can pray to God, and he will deſtroy their enemies. An alluſion to 2 Kings 1. 10. Or, threatnings pronounced by them ſhall light upon their enemies, becauſe they deſpiſed their teſtimony, Jer. 5. 13,14.

in this manner] It is repeated, to ſhew the certainty of it. Or, it may have relation to the judgements following, ver.6.

V. 6. to ſhut heaven] An alluſion to 1 Kings 17.1. Luke 4.25. Jam. 5. 17, 18. It may be underſtood of reſtraining the rain: or ſpiritually, of ſhutting men out of heaven, Matth. 16. 19. John 20. 23.

in the days of their prophecie] See ver. 6. Three years and ſix months in Elijahs time, anſwerable to the number of months here, ver. 2.

to turn them to bloud] See Exod. 7. 20. Either literally by their prayers; or myſtically, to kill ſouls by their preaching, 2 Cor. 2.15.

with all plagues] What they threaten, God will ſend, on the contemners of his Word in their mouths, Jer. 1. 10. Or, with other plagues, like thoſe of Egypt, or worſe, chap.14. 9, 10.

as often as they will] Whenſoever, upon juſt occaſion, they deſire it of God, Mat. 18.18,19.

V. 7. And when they ſhall have] An alluſion to our Saviours preaching, death, reſurrection. He preached about three years and an half, then was put to death, and about three days after, riſeth again with an Earth quake, and aſcendeth into heaven with a cloud. Thus theſe two witneſſes reſemble that faithful and true witneſs mentioned, chap. 3. 14.

finiſhed their teſtimony] When the years mentioned, ver. 3. are done: for before that time they could not be ſlain. See notes on ver. 5. So that the Witneſſes are ſuffered to be ſlain, becauſe God had no more work for them to do. If God had given them a longer time to preach, they ſhould have continued, in deſpight of their enemies. So our Saviour could not be ſlain till his hour was come, John 8. 20. and then he was put to death, Luke 22.53,&c.

the beaſt that aſcendeth, &c.] Chap.13.11. and 17.8. Antichriſt, or the Pope: who is compared to a beaſt, becauſe of his inhumanity, cruelty, and thirſt after mens bloud. And he is ſaid to come out of the bottomleſs pit; that is, out of the ſea; as ch. 13. 1. or out of the body of the earth, as chap. 13.11. or out of hell, as chap. 9. 2. He aſcendeth, that is, beginneth now to aſcend, in his inſtruments or fore-runners, 2 Theſſ. 2.6. 1 John 2.18.

make war againſt them] Dan.7.21. Shall perſecute them, and endeavour to deſtroy them. They were perſecuted and fought againſt by Antichriſt often before; but this was the laſt battel before their death, and riſing again to begin the ruine of Antichriſts Kingdom.

ſhall overcome them] Who yet even then overcame him, chap. 12. 11.

and kill them] When he cannot ſtop their mouths, he ſhall kill them, that they may preach no more.

V. 8. And their dead bodies] See the cruelty of this ravening beaſt, that is not contented with the bloud of Gods Saints, but muſt lay their carcaſes forth in triumph, that all people may ſee the enſigns of her immanity, and will not afford them ſo much honour as to be buried, Pſalm 79.2,3.

in the ſtreet of the great City] Within the dominion of the Roman Empire. And it is called the great City, either in regard of the amplitude of power, and large territories; as ver. 13. and as the great King, Iſa. 36.4. that is, King of kings, Dan. 2. 37. ſee ch. 17. 18. and 18. 2. Or elſe in regard of the ſpaciouſneſs of the City it ſelf, being yet, now part of it is deſtroyed, fifteen miles compaſs within the walls, and fourty two without, when this ſtory was written, as ſome Writers report.

ſpiritually called Sodom] For uncleanneſs of all ſorts, Gen. 19. 5. Ezek. 16.50. It is not then Sodom literally taken. See ch. 17.5. Beſides the practice of whoredom in the ſtews, without controll, at Rome, books have been written there in defence of Sodomy, and allowed by ſome Popes.

and Egypt] For oppreſſing Gods people, Exod.1.13, 14. and for idolatry, Exod. 12. 12. Jer. 12. 13. For they made gods of Cats, Crocodiles, and of divers beaſts, Exod. 8. 26. Moſes pointeth at this, as a cauſe why they durſt ſacrifice no cattel in Egypt. And Rome hath worſhipped as many Saints, as the Heathen falſe gods; and had as many images to worſhip, as they idols.

where alſo] Within whoſe dominions. Or, if it be meant of the City of Rome, Chriſt was there crucified in his members, Acts 9. 5. So Heb.6.6. may be underſtood of malicious perſecuting of Chriſt in his Saints. And he himſelf alſo was crucified by the authority of that Empire, Mat.20.19. John 18.31. and 19. 12, &c.

V. 9. And they of the people, &c.] That is, in all places of the Roman Empire, dead carcaſes of Gods Miniſters ſhall be ſeen. Or, And ſome of the people; for all could not come to ſee them: See chap. 5. 9. and 7. 9. ſhall ſee their dead bodies. Shall look upon them in ſcorn and deriſion, Luke 23.35. Iſa. 14.16. For theſe are the nations ſubject to the beaſt, ch. 13.7,8. and ſuch as are afraid at the reſurrection of theſe witneſſes, v. 11. and as trod under foot the holy City, v. 2.

three days and an half] Three years and an half. This muſt be underſtood of divers perſons ſlain in this laſt war, in that ſpace. Or, if it be taken of the ſame bodies, it muſt be underſtood literally, for three natural days and an half; for they would ſtink, or be rotted away, before three years and an half be ended.

ſhall not ſuffer, &c.] They ſhall let them lye unburyed ſo long, that they may glut their eyes with looking upon them: as if they could never have their fill of ſuch a pleaſing ſpectacle, as is that of the dead witneſſes. Yet Gods Providence might be ſeen herein, in ſuffering them to lye ſo long unburyed, that people might admire the more, ſeeing others like them ariſe up to vex them, when they verily perſwaded themſelves they had been all ſlain.

V. 10. they that dwell on the earth] Out of the true Church, in Antichriſts kingdom, ch. 12. 12. and 13. 8. As on the contrary, they that dwell in the Church, are ſaid to be in heaven, chap. 13. 6. and 18. 20.

ſhall rejoyce over them] Go daily to ſee their dead carcaſes, with joy. Or, when they think of them.

and make merry] Make feaſts, in token of their joy; as Neh. 8. 10,12. Luke 15. 23,24. If they did not this literally here, yet were they as joyful as they that did ſo.

ſend gifts] In token of joy, Eſth. 9. 19,22. For men in proſperity love to have others rejoice with them. So ſecure were they, now they thought theſe Prophets quite gone, that they not only rejoice themſelves, both inwardly and outwardly, but do what they can to make all others rejoice with them at the death of them.

becauſe theſe two Prophets] See ver. 3. 6.

tormented them] Or, had tormented them. They did not joy that they were tormented, but that they were rid and avenged of theſe Miniſters, who troubled their conſciences, by Preaching againſt their idolatry, 1 King. 18. 17. and 21. 20. Acts 16. 20. and threatning Gods judgements againſt them for it; beſides that, their witneſs it ſelf was a great torment unto them.

V. 11. after three days and an half] Or, after thoſe three days and an half; to wit, of their bodies lying unburied, mentioned ver. 9.

Spirit of life from God] A living ſoul, or breath of life, put into them by God, Gen. 2. 7. Ezek. 37. 10. God inſpired others with the ſame ſpiritual graces that he had given them, and ſtirred them up to preach againſt Popery, as they had done before. See ch. 20. 4.

entred into them] That which ſhould come to paſs after, was ſhewed to John in a viſion, as if it were now done.

they ſtood upon their feet] God raiſed Miniſters as powerful as they. So John Baptiſt is called Elias, Mat. 11. 14.

which ſaw them] The perſecutours were troubled, when God raiſed Miniſters to preach againſt their idolatry. They thought they had made ſure work, and that they ſhould never more have been troubled with Prophets: and now they are afraid that theſe will trouble them more than ever the former did.

V. 12. a great voice] A ſtout Proclamation of ſome Chriſtian Prince, calling them to the ſettling of viſible Churches; or of the Emperour himſelf, giving an open toleration of their religion.

they aſcended up to heaven in a cloud] Chap. 14. 14. They were ſettled ſtrangely, and by divine Authority, in the viſible Church, with liberty, honour, and ſupport, to the admiration of their adverſaries. Their ſackcloth is now taken from them: they may propheſy chearfully, without ſorrow and danger. Others underſtand it of coming openly into the viſible Church with a cloud or multitude of witneſſes, (as Heb. 12. 1.) rejoycing and congratulating with them, and encouraging them, and helping, like a cloud, to advance them. Others take it to be meant of a gentle way of reformation, by the word, not a violent one, by the ſword, as it were by a whirlwind. Others, for their imperfect knowledg, at the firſt, of thoſe things which concerned Gods publick worſhip.

their enemies] The Antichriſtian faction, who put them to death.

beheld them] As it was a great honour to theſe witneſſes, that their enemies ſhould ſee them thus advanced; ſo it was a great terrour to their foes: for as they could not hinder their preferment, ſo now they had no hope to ſlay them any more, although they preached publickly againſt their idolatry: for they were as ſafe now, by Gods protection in his Church, as if they were in heaven it ſelf, Pſalm 112. 10.

V. 13. the ſame hour was there a great earth-quake] Hereby is not meant the twenty fourth part of a natural day, but about that time, as ch. 14. 7. and 17. 12. Aſſoon as the Miniſters of Chriſt began to preach, and were ſeparated from the Papiſts, and ſettled in ſome places, great commotions aroſe in many Cities. For, as the natural earth-quake, ſuch as is ſpoken of, Amos 1. 1. Mat. 28. 2. ſhaketh the earth, by the force of the wind gotten into it: ſo myſtical earth-quakes make Cities and Kingdoms quake with wars and troubles, when the Goſpel beginneth to be preached in them: and therefore ſuch ſtirs are ſet out by earth-quakes, ch. 6. 12. and 16. 18.

the tenth part of the City fell] In their means; for the Pope had tenths out of many Kingdoms, in imitation of the Jewiſh Prieſts, and of the Roman Emperours who had it before. Alſo Germany fell from him, in a great part, which, joyned with thoſe that fell off from him in other Countries, might make up a tenth part of the Romiſh Popiſh Territory, compared to a City divided into ten parts, ſeven thouſand dwelling in each part, and one part was now ſwallowed up by an earth-quake.

of men ſeven thouſand] Gr. names of men; that is, men, ch. 3. 4. Acts 1. 15. Or, men of note, called in Hebrew, men of name; that is, of renown, Gen. 6. 4. for it is likely that more ordinary men dyed in theſe ſtirs. Unleſs it be put for a great number, as round whole ſums often are, and this may be, 1 King. 19. 18. Rom. 11. 4. This ſum is uſed in this book thirty ſeven times, as ſome Commentatours write. Sure it is, many that were of the Popiſh Religion, have periſhed in the wars, ſince reformation begun. Or, many ſocieties. Or, he addeth names, to ſhew, that ſo many were taken notice of. More might periſh then. Which ſheweth, that God doth not deſtroy his foes at all adventure, but deſigneth them by name, whom he intendeth to ſlay. See notes on ch. 3. 4.

gave glory to the God of heaven] By confeſſing, that they who periſhed were juſtly puniſhed for their ſins, Joſ. 7. 19. Or, by confeſſing his Name, and turning Proteſtants as many have done. Or, by praiſing God that they eſcaped, John 9. 24. This they did, being terrified by the earth-quake or ſtirs.

V. 14. The ſecond wo is paſt] Of thoſe three woes which the Angel foretold, ch. 8. 13. the firſt and ſecond are gone with the fifth and ſixth trumpets, ch. 9. 12. (ſee notes there) and in this ver. The third followeth, which beginneth when the ſeventh trumpet beginneth to blow. This, with the verſes following, ſheweth us whereabouts we are in the ſtory, namely, about the time of the publick profeſſion of the true Religion again in the Empire by Authority, after Popery began to fall. So that it ſeemeth ſafeſt to go backward. The peace of Religion was eſtabliſhed in Germany, in the year one thouſand five hundred fifty and nine, at Ausburg, in a Diet, under Ferdinand the Emperor, who ſucceeded Charles the fifth. Now the Miniſters are placed in heaven, that is, in the Church, by imperial Authority. True it is, that Religion was publickly allowed, before this time in Denmark and Sweden, about the year one thouſend five hundred thirty and eight, as Writers of that ſtory record. But becauſe the Revelation taketh principal notice of the Empire, it ſeemeth fitteſt, that the end of the treading down the beloved City, and the beginning of the Miniſters liberty, ſhould be there intended. So that the meaſuring of the Temple, or appointing a Church to continue, and endure perſecution by Papiſts, is likely to begin in the year two hundred ninety and nine: as alſo the footſteps of perſecution by the high grown Roman Biſhops, who began diſſentions in the Church, before they grew to their full height. Or elſe the meaning of thoſe words, v. 2. the holy City ſhall they tread under foot fourty and two months, is, their treading of it under foot, ſhall end then, though it did not laſt all that time; as Iſrael is ſaid to be afflicted in Egypt four hundred years, Gen. 15. 13. Acts 7. 6. though, to reconcile thoſe places with Gal. 3. 17. many Interpreters conceive that time to begin from the promiſe made to Abraham, Gen. 12. 3. or 22. 18. long after which time, they came into Egypt. Neither did they ſuffer any ill meaſure there at firſt, all the time Joſeph lived; but their troubles ended at the time preſcribed by God. And ſo did the publick treading of Religion under foot in the Empire end at that decree, one thouſand five hundred fifty and nine, as alſo the prophecying of the witneſſes in ſackcloth, v. 3. a little before. Then followeth their death, v. 7. which is like to be in thoſe German Wars awhile before the Peace, wherein, as many Miniſters were baniſhed and put out of all, by Civil Authority, which is a Civil death; ſo, no doubt, many were cruelly ſlain; and were inſulted over, as if their dead bodies had been expoſed to publick view, and feaſts made for joy that they were dead, v. 8, 9, 10. Or, thoſe witneſſes ſeem to be a ſucceſſion of true Preachers, as before, ſo eſpecially among the Waldenſes. The cruelty ſhewed on them of Merindol and Cabriers, very few years before the liberty of Religion granted in the Empire, may be the killing of the laſt of theſe Miniſters; and the leaving their bodies unburied followed. The free exerciſe of Religion granted as before, ſeemeth to be their calling up, and the firſt ſetting of it, their aſcending into heaven, v. 11, 12. The Earth-quake may ſignifie the ſtirs in Germany about that time; and the things following it, the men and means falling from the Pope, and Papiſts ſlain in the war, and others turning Proteſtants, v. 13. So the ſecond and ſixth trumpet is done, in this verſe.

the third wo cometh quickly] It beginneth ſoon after to be executed, ch. 22. 7. to wit, under the ſeventh trumpet, and holdeth on in the Vials.

The ſeventh Trumpet.

V. 15. And the ſeventh Angel ſounded] As was foretold, ch. 10. 7. though for a time intermitted.

great voices in heaven] Great praiſe given to God by his people, for this ſudden alteration. See ch. 19. 1, 4.

the Kingdoms of our Lord] Antichriſt is weakned, and Chriſt hath begun to take the Kingdom out of his hand, and ſhall have a viſible Church like an Empire, in all the known world, and that to the end. There was no ſuch ſong in the ſixth ſeal, when Conſtantine put down Heathen idolatry, becauſe then the Church was to be polluted and perſecuted again, for a long time after, by the Roman Antichriſt.

V. 20.

V. 16. And the four and twenty Elders] See chap. 4. 10. Publick thanks is now given in the Church. See chap. 19. 1,4.

fell upon their faces] They thought it not reverence enough to riſe off their ſeats, but fell flat on their faces, worſhipping God, and congratulating the ſetting up of religion publickly, ſo as it never ſhall be driven into corners again, as it was twice before, by Gentiles and Papiſts.

V. 17. Almighty] See chap. 1.8. They praiſe him, becauſe he had ſhewed his infinite power in freeing his Church.

which art, &c.] This ſetteth out Gods eternity. See notes on chap. 1. 4, 8. and 4. 8.

taken to thee thy great power] Shewed thy great power, in weakning Antichriſt. Or, haſt ſhewed that thou art King of the world; which many doubted of before, becauſe of Antichriſts great power over thy Church.

V. 18. the nations] Or Gentiles; as verſe 2. The Popiſh idolaters. They ſhewed their anger in perſecuting before, which brought Gods wrath upon them; or in fighting now, or in fretting then, when they were overcome, Pſal. 2. 1, 2. Acts 4. 25, 26.

thy wrath] The time to execute thy wrath on ſuch as repented not in time of thy forbearance.

the time of the dead, &c.] The time to puniſh bloody perſecutours for killing thy Saints, Chap. 4. 10.

judged] Or, avenged, Pſal. 26. 1. Luke 18. 3.

give reward to thy ſervants,&c.] Chap. 1. 1. Give proſperity to thy Miniſters and people, which have ſuffered hard things. The Miniſters are put firſt, who, as they are principal in the victory, ſo muſt they have the firſt part in the ſpoiles.

and ſhouldeſt deſtroy them, &c.] Shouldeſt deſtroy many bloudy perſecutours; for the deſtruction of Rome it ſelf followeth, Chap. 18. and of antichriſt, Chap. 19. yet now began the deſtruction of Popiſh perſecutors; and many have periſhed in the wars, ſince the time of reformation.

deſtroy] Or corrupt.

the earth] The men of the earth, Gen. 6. 11.

V. 19. the temple of God] The Church now appearing again openly, is compared to the temple of Hieruſalem, wherein the ark was. It was ſhut up before, as that of Hieruſalem under Ahaz, 2 Chron. 28. 24. and this, when it was meaſured, ver. 1. and the court given to the Gentiles, ver. 2. Now it is ſet open, as that was by Hezekiah, 2 Chron.29.3. not to receive a few Saints, as before, in times of perſecution, but whole multitudes of beleevers. This noteth the free exerciſe of religion which was eſtabliſhed.

the Ark of his Teſtament] Not the Temple alone, but the Ark alſo, which was ſhut up from the eyes of men, in the Old Teſtament, 1 Kings 6. 19. and ſeen ſeldome, and by the high Prieſt alone, was now opened: that is, the myſteries of religion, formerly hidden, were now revealed. So that lay-men know as much now, as ſome few Eccleſiaſtical perſons of great note knew before, of the hidden myſteries of ſalvation. And therefore the Elders praiſe God for this, which repreſent the people, chap. 4.10. and not the beaſts or living wights, which ſignifie the Miniſters, chap. 4. 6. not that the Miniſters had not more knowledge than the people; but becauſe the people that were kept from all ſuch knowledge before, now know more than many Prieſts knew before. The Papiſts had poſſeſſed the court. The people of God had a ſmall temple in the wilderneſſe. Some of the Clergy-men God raiſed up, now and then, to teach the people. The hidden things of God, like the holy place, were ſeen of a few choſen inſtruments. Now the people of God have a temple open to worſhip God in, and a full ſight of Gods holy myſteries, hidden from them before.

lightnings, &c.] See chap. 4. 5. Earth-quake and hail ſet out Gods terrible judgements irreſiſtible, Iſa. 26. 9. and 28. 2. and 30. 30. Hail is called a plague, chap.16.21. And it may allude either to the hail-ſtones that deſtroyed the trees in Egypt, Exod. 9.25. or thoſe that deſtroyed the Amorites in Canaan, Joſh.10.11. It may foretell the final deſtruction of Antichriſt and his adherents, in a ſtrange manner; which, though not preſently, yet muſt come to paſs under this trumpet: and his fall is now begun: and as he was long in riſing, ſo may he be in falling. Or, it may ſignifie the deſtruction of many perſecutours by the ſword, ſince the reforming of religion. Or, the impoveriſhing and fretting of the abbey-lubbers, for the loſſe of their means, and the happy progreſſe of the Goſpel.

CHAP. XII.

Ver. 1. WOnder] Or, ſign. A ſtrange ſight and apparition, as appeareth by that which followeth.

in heaven] This viſion appeared to John in this viſible heaven, where the Sun, Moon and Stars are. It could not be ſeen in the third heaven, where Saints and Angels are; for there is no Sun nor Moon there, Iſa. 60.19. chap.21.23. and 22.5. And it fitteth the dignity and ſanctity of the Church, whoſe converſation is in heaven, Phil. 3. 20. remote from the dark miſts of worldly errours, and lifting it ſelf above worldly affairs and comforts.

a woman] Repreſenting the Chriſtian Church, compared to a virgin eſpouſed to Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 2. to a bride, chap. 19.7. and 21.9. and 22.17. to a wife, Eph.5.25,26,27,32.

clothed with the Sun] The Church of God, the Spouſe of Chriſt, the brighteſt and moſt glorious creature in the world. She ſhineth in the doctrine of her Miniſters, and lives of her members, Matth. 5. 14,15,19. or, as being clothed with Chriſts righteouſneſs, whom ſhe hath put on, Gal.3.27. In the former ſenſe, ſhe ſhineth before the world: in this, before God. See chap.19.8.

the Moon under her feet] Or, far beneath. Treading under foot the Jewiſh feaſts, which depended, many of them, on the Moon. Or, contemning worldly things, which are mutable, like the Moon, as men do things which they tread under their feet.

a crown of twelve ſtars] The ſtars ſtood not one above another, but round about her head, like twelve precious ſtones in the circumference of a crown. A glorious ſight, no doubt. She had the Stars about her head, the Sun about her body, and the Moon under her feet. So in the heavens, ſome Stars are ſaid to be above the Sun, and the Moon far below it. The thing intended ſeemeth to be, that the Church is adorned with the doctrine of the twelve Apoſtles, on which ſhe is founded, chap. 21. 14. or, with excellent Miniſters, ch. 1. 20. as with a diadem. For the truth of the Goſpel doth not only make us free, John 8. 36. but Kings alſo, chap. 1. 6. The Church carrieth the ſtars on her head, as her ornament; Chriſt, in his hand, as his ſervants, chap.1.16. ready to do his will. Men uſe to have crowns of gold; the Church treadeth ſuch traſh under her feet. Her glory is not worldly dignity, but her teachers integrity.

V. 2. And ſhe being with child, &c.] Gr. having in her belly: to wit, a child, as Mat.1.18. As the Miniſters of God are compared to a woman in travel, when they ſeek to bring men to faith in Chriſt, Gal. 4. 19. ſo the whole Church, in another reſpect, is here compared to ſuch a woman. For as that woman is weary of her burthen, cryeth out to be rid of it, and ſtriveth, and endureth much pain; ſo the Chriſtian Church, being grown very populous, ſome few years before Conſtantines time, cryeth unto God by daily prayers, to raiſe up a Chriſtian Emperor, that might give them the free profeſſion of the Chriſtian religion in the Roman Empire. For this end alſo they did ſtrive, joyning their forces with Conſtantines, to ſubdue the heathen perſecutours. This was a cauſe of many perſecutions to her, and much bloud-ſhed in the wars, for a time. Here it appeareth, that we muſt begin the time of treading the holy City under foot, and of the witneſſes, before the open profeſſion of Chriſtianity granted by Conſtantine. See notes on chap.11.14. For here, the things foretold in the former chapter begin to be more particularly deſcribed; as appeareth, in that the ſame ſpace of a thouſand two hundred and threeſcore days which was given to the two witneſſes, ch. 11.3. is here given to the Church in the wilderneſs, ver. 6. and as fourty and two moneths were given to the Gentiles, to tread the holy City under foot, ch.11.2. ſo the ſame ſpace is given to the beaſt, to tyrannize over thoſe places where the true Chriſtian religion had been profeſſed, while the true Church is hid in the wilderneſs, ch.12.5.

V. 3. wonder] Or, ſign; as ver. 1.

in heaven] Either becauſe the Roman Emperours had power over the Church, or becauſe they thruſt themſelves into it by their deputies, to perſecute it. As for the viſion, it is likely John ſaw it in the viſible heaven, as he did the woman. See ver.1.

a great red dragon] The heathen Roman Emperours ſucceeding one another, who did the devil ſervice, as in other things, ſo cheefly in perſecuting the Church, ver.9. chap.3.10. So Pharaoh is called, Pſalm 74.13,14. Iſa.27.1. and 51.9. Ezek.29.3. He is great, becauſe of his large Empire, ch.17.18. Red, that is, bedewed with the bloud of the Saints, as if he were dyed with it.

ſeven heads] Sitting on ſeven hills, ch.17.9.

ten horns] Ten Kings which aroſe after, out of this Empire, chap. 17. 12. Or, ſo many Provinces, which were the ſtrength of it, as horns are of beaſts, Dan.8.3,4,5,6.

ſeven crowns] Seven kind of Governours one after another, on her ſeven hills, ch.17.10.

on his heads] Not on his horns; for the Supreme Authority was in Rome, on the ſeven hills, not in the Provinces. And as in Rome they had many heads to invent miſchief againſt the Church, and as much power to execute it; ſo in the Provinces they wanted not more inſtruments of execution.

V. 4. his tail drew the third part] He ſubjected the third part of the Provinces of the world to his Empire, ch.6.13. or ſeduced many of the Miniſters, ch.1.20. Dan.7.10,11,12. and that by craft, ch.9.19. unleſs the force of the dragon be in his tail, as ſome write.

did caſt them to the earth] Put down thoſe Princes whom he had ſubdued, from their royal authority. Or, drew ſome doctours of the Church to forſake the truth, and follow earthly pleaſure or profit, Phil.3.18,19. 2 Tim.4.10.

to devour her childe] To deſtroy Chriſts myſtical Body, 1 Cor. 12.12. and not to ſuffer it to live in the Empire, or to hinder any Chriſtian likely to riſe to the Empire. An alluſion to Pharaohs watching to deſtroy the firſt-born of Iſrael, Exod. 1. 15, 16. and to Herods endeavour to deſtroy Chriſt aſſoon as he was born, Matth.2.

7,8,16. The like care did the Roman Heathen Emperours uſe, to ſuppreſs any that were of more than ordinary parts, or favour with the people, that were likely to ſet up the Chriſtian Religion. So Maximinus that dragon, devoured Alexander the ſon of Mammea; whom he ſaw to be favoured of, and favourable to the Chriſtians. Decius devoured the two Philips, the father and the ſon. Diocleſian and Galerius left no ſtone unrolled, that they might have Conſtantine away privily. They ſent him to fight againſt the fierce Northern nations, as Saul ſent David againſt the Philiſtines, that he might be ſlain, 1 Sam.18.25. when he came home victorious, contrary to the expectation of Galerius, he perſwaded Conſtantine to fight with a lion in the theatre, to ſhew his courage. Maximinianus afterward laid ſnares for him, which yet through Gods mercy he eſcaped. Laſt of all, they fought with him, to deſtroy him; but God delivered him, and deſtroyed them.

was born] Or, ſhould be born. He hoped, that, though he could not hinder the Churches conceiving, travelling, and bringing forth, no more than Pharaoh could the Iſraelitiſh womens; yet he ſhould deſtroy that ſhe brought forth.

V. 5. a man-childe, &c.] As Moſes was born, in ſpight of Pharaoh, to deliver Gods people out of Egypt; ſo now the Chriſtian Church got a deliverer, a man-child. The like phraſe is, Iſa.66.7. It cannot be underſtood of Chriſt; for it is a prophecy of things to come after Johns time. But the Church brought forth Chriſtians profeſſing the true religion openly, in the Roman Empire, or Conſtantine, who was afterwards to be Emperour, to ſubdue the nations, and then rule ſtrongly over them, Pſa.2.9. ch.2.27. and 19.5.

to God, and to his throne] Meaning Conſtantine and his ſucceſſors advanced to the Roman Empire, and made Gods Deputies, ſitting as it were on his throne. So Solomon and David are ſaid to ſit on the Lords throne, 1 Chron.29.23. For it cannot be underſtood of our Saviour Chriſts aſcenſion, and ſitting at Gods right hand. This John knew before, as being written in the Goſpel. And many things paſſed between Chriſts death and his aſcenſion. Neither was Chriſt caught up by anothers power, as we, 1 Theſſ.4.17. but went up into heaven, or aſcended thither, Pſalm 47. 5. and 68. 18. Eph. 4. 8, 9, 10. to wit, by his own power. Neither can it be underſtood of Conſtantines death; for the Text would not joyn his death to his birth, ſeeing much concerneth him in the battel following. He was caught up, for he got not the Empire by his endeavours; but being a ſon of the Church, profeſſing the Chriſtian religion, he was marvellouſly preſerved by God from the rage of heathen tyrants; and ſeeking to avoid their ſnares, he came to his dying father, and by right of ſucceſſion, and the earneſt deſires of the people of Rome, oppreſſed with the heavy yoke of Maxentius, obtained the Roman Empire, and ſo was ſet on Gods throne, to be next to God. The witneſſes are ſaid to aſcend up into heaven; but he hath a throne in heaven, to rule next under God himſelf, over the nations, yea, even the enemies of the Church, with a rod of iron. He would have been content with his honour in France and Britain, his native countrey, (as he was five yeers) had he not, by Gods providence, been caught up to a greater Empire than he expected.

V. 6. fled into the wilderneſs] Not now, but after the great battel following, and under Antichriſt. See ver. 14. For then ſhe fled from the face of the angry dragon, who perſecuted her by Antichriſt, as before by the Heathen Emperours. An alluſion to Chriſts fleeing into Egypt, for ſuccour from Herods cruelty, Mat.2.13,14. or to the Iſraelites fleeing into the wilderneſs from Pharaoh, that great dragon, Exod.13.17,18.

a place prepared of God] When men perſecute her, God provideth a place of ſafety for her.

that they ſhould feed her] Either it is to be taken imperſonally, That he ſhould be fed; as Luke 12. 20. or the two witneſſes ſhould feed her there: for this falleth out in the ſame time, as appeareth by the number of days here, and chap.11.3. So Elias was fed in the wilderneſs, in a place prepared by God, 1 Kings 17. 3,4.

V. 4. war in heaven] A great battel in the Church of God. For the dragon could not fight in the higheſt heaven: there is no war there.

Michael and his Angels] Conſtantine and his ſouldiers, repreſented to the eyes of John in the form of Michael the arch-Angel and his Angels, mentioned, Dan. 10. 13, 21. and 12.1. Jude ver. 9.

the dragon] Maxentius, Maximinus, and Licinius, in whom the devil wrought, as his principal inſtruments to ſuppreſs the Chriſtian religion.

V. 8. and prevailed not] Or, But they prevailed not. So this particle is uſed, Mat. 11. 19. That is, they were overthrown; as Prov. 12. 3. and 17. 21. Maxentius was drowned in Tiber; Maximinus died, that ſhould have been baniſhed; Licinius loſt his head. In memory of this victory, Conſtantine pictured over the gate of his palace, a dragon pierced thorow with a dart, lying under his and his ſouldiers feet.

neither was there place, &c.] Dan.2. 35. Pſalm 103. 16. They ruled no more in the Roman Empire, now converted to the Chriſtian religion, and publickly profeſſing it. The phraſe here uſed, noteth an utter extirpation, Dan.2.3,35. chap. 20. 11.

V. 9. the great dragon] The Roman Heathen Emperours, and the devil with them, who poiſoneth the earth with idolatry, was no more worſhipped.

old ſerpent] Who deceived our firſt parents at the beginning of the world, Gen. 3. 1. Rev. 20. 2. He is a dragon for cruelty, a ſerpent for ſubtilty.

the devil] The accuſer of the brethren, ver. 10.

Satan] The adverſary of Gods Church, Zech. 3. 1. deceiveth the whole world] Drew all the Roman Empire into idolatry.

caſt out into the earth] Had no more power over the Church by publick Magiſtracy, as before.

his Angels] His ſouldiers and wicked inſtruments.

V. 10. in heaven] In the Church of God. In this ſong, they praiſe God for deliverance of the Chriſtians from tyrants, the declaration of Gods ſtrength, and the Kingdom of Chriſt, in putting down Heathen Emperours, and ſetting up Chriſtian, and removing their accuſer.

now is come, &c.] Now is manifeſted, chap.11.15.

accuſer of our brethren] Called the devil; for he accuſeth us before God, Job 1. 9. and 2. 5. And in the time of the ten perſecutions, when the Chriſtians met by night, for fear of danger, the devil by his inſtruments accuſed them before men, as if they met in the night to practiſe all manner of looſeneſs.

day and night] Continually, Pſalm 1.2. Joſh. 1. 8.

V. 11. and they overcame him] In the former verſe, the power of the Captain was commended; now the proweſs of the ſouldiers is ſet out.

by the bloud of the Lamb] Or, for; Rom.8.33,34,37. and 16.20. By virtue of Chriſts Bloud, they got power to overcome Satan, and all his wicked inſtruments; not by worldly power and ſtrength.

by the word of their teſtimony] Chriſt honoured them with this victory, becauſe they bare witneſs of his truth. It is called, The teſtimony of Jeſus, ver.17. chap.19.10. becauſe he was the object of their confeſſion. Here it is called the teſtimony, becauſe they are the perſons who confeſſed him.

loved not their lives] Acts 20. 24. 2 Cor. 11. 23. and 4.11. But expoſed them to death. Or, deſpiſed them, and ſet them alowe, in compariſon of the confeſſion of Gods truth. They made ſo little account of them, that they expoſed them to all dangers for the cauſe of Chriſt, joyning with Conſtantine in the war againſt the perſecutours. Some underſtand this of the Martyrs who died for religion before Conſtantines time.

V. 12. ye heavens] All ye Churches on earth. An alluſion to Pſalm 96.11. Iſa.49.13.

ye that dwell] Gr. ye that dwell as in a tent. So John 1. 14. 2 Cor.5.1. Ye that abide ſafe here a while, as in a tent, under Gods protection, till ye be tranſlated to glory, Pſalm 31. 20. and 91.1.

wo] Great grief and ſorrow will come on you.

of the earth, and of the ſea] Or, Iſlands. Who live any where out of the Church of God. For earth and ſea are here oppoſed to heaven, which is the Church. So that the fruit of this victory is the joy of the Saints, and grief of ungodly men.

having great wrath] Becauſe he is caſt out of Gods Church, that he can no longer tyrannize over it, he will empty his ſpleen upon his own ſervants. So he did after upon the Roman Church by the Goths and Vandals.

but a ſhort time] Gr. but a ſhort ſeaſon. The end of the world was not yet here: but he could not have ſo fit occaſion to put the Saints to death, as before, now his Viceroy's the Heathen Emperours were depoſed.

V. 13. caſt into the earth] See ver. 9.

he perſecuted] By the Popes, when he could do it no longer by the Heathen Emperours. Or it may be underſtood of the Arrian perſecution, under Conſtantius and Valens; which came within this time, and was ſeconded by Popiſh perſecution, till the time prefixed was finiſhed.

which brought forth the man-child] Verſe 5.

V. 14. two wings of a great eagle] God gave her ſtrength to flee into a ſafe place ſpeedily, Exod.19.4. Deut. 32.11, 12. and ſo wonderfully delivered and preſerved her from Antichriſts rage.

into the wilderneſs] Into a private place. So did the Waldenſes for many years, in deſert places, as thoſe mentioned, Heb. 11. 38.

into her place] Which God had provided for her ſafety, and where her wicked perſecutours could not come at her to hurt her.

where ſhe is nouriſhed for a time, and times, and half a time] Theſe words ſhould be in a parentheſis; for the words following depend on the former words, that ſhe might flee into the wilderneſs from the face of the Serpent.

for a time, &c.] For as many years, as there be days in three years and an half. See ver.6. chap. 11. 2, 3. Dan. 7. 2, 5. and 12. 7. See times for years, Dan.4.16,23,32.

from the face] For the red dragon, that ſought to devour her ſhewed his anger in his face. This phraſe alſo ſheweth that the Church, for ſome time, was not viſible to her enemies, Iſa. 16.4. Or, for fear of the Serpent. So this phraſe is uſed, 1 Sam. 17. 24. and 19. 10. Iſa.21.14.

of the ſerpent] Mentioned, ver. 9.

V. 15. out of his mouth] Sent out bulls abroad from the Popes.

water as a floud] Or, river. By his bulls, he raiſed multitudes of ſouldiers to deſtroy the Waldenſes, and other proteſtants ſince. For the end of that chapter containeth a general deſcription of the ſtate of the Church all the reign of Antichriſt, which is after limned out into particulars, in the chapters immediately following. So waters, for many people coming in hoſtile manner, Iſa 59.19. Revel. 17. 15. and violently ſweeping away all before them, like a river, Iſa. 59. 19. Amos 8. 8.

after the woman] If this be a ſecond perſecution by the Popes, then the former may be by the Arrians. See notes on ver. 13. Or, the Popes did more cloſely perſecute before, and now more openly ſend out Croiſado's againſt the Waldenſes and others in the wilderneſs.

to be carried away of the floud] To be utterly deſtroyed out of thoſe deſert places, as he had driven her out of the inhabited world before.

V. 16. And] Or, But ; as ver. 8.

the earth helped the woman] The Earl of Tholous, and divers others, that were Papiſts, fought for their clients and ſubjects the Waldenſes, ſeeing their faithfulneſs and painfulneſs, which brought profit to their Lords by manuring deſert places.

ſwallowed up the floud] Deſtroyed many of the Popes ſouldiers ſent againſt the Waldenſes, ſo that they could never quite be rooted out. Or, the carcaſes of ſuch as went to fight againſt the Proteſtants, were ſcattered upon the earth, dying by famine or plague, or war, as the Iſraelites did in the wilderneſs, Numb. 14.29. So the land is ſaid to eat up her inhabitants, Numb. 13. 32. And divers of the Popes ſouldiers were ſo conſumed. It may be an alluſion to Numb. 16.31,32. where the earth ſwallowed up Dathan and Abiram, and ſo preſerved Moſes and Aaron from their inſurrection. Or, the Roman Empire, which is the earth, in this book, when oppoſed to the Church; was divided in it ſelf, and ſo Gods people eſcaped.

V. 17. And] Or, Then. So this particle is uſed, Mat. 23.32. and that tranſlation is more elegant. As if it had been ſaid, When the dragon could not keep the Church out of the wilderneſs, nor deſtroy it there; then he perſecuted all her favourers he could come at elſewhere.

wroth with the woman, &c.] The war with the ſeed ariſeth not from any hurt they had done the dragon; but out of an old quarrel againſt their mother, Gen.3.15.

and went] The Pope, being at Rome, ſtirred up the Magiſtrates every where to perſecute the poor Proteſtants.

with the remnant of her ſeed] That could not get into the wilderneſs with the reſt. Thoſe few good Chriſtians which lay hid among the Papiſts, were brought out and ſlain. Or, when he could not overcome the Church of the Waldenſes in the wilderneſs, he ſet Antichriſt on work to deſtroy the Proteſtants that ſprung up in Bohemia, France, England, and other parts, and ſerved God privately, but had not yet meetings and Miniſters, as the Waldenſes had.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſe 1. AND I ſtood upon the ſand of the ſea] Or, I was ſet. John was removed by the Spirit to a convenient place, where he might ſee the beaſt ariſe out of the ſea. See the like removes, chap. 17.3. and 21.10. Ezek.8.3. Dan.8.2. Others read it, And he ſtood; that is, the dragon; and ſo annex it to the end of the former chapter. But that cannot be; for the dragon was gone away to fight with the reſt of the Saints, chap.12.17. Neither need he ſtand there to ſee the original of the beaſt, which he knew very well. Neither are theſe revelations ſhewed to the dragon, but to John.

a beaſt] A great Empire, Dan. 7. 3. It is no news in Scripture, eſpecially in Daniel, and in the Revelation, for ſuch fierce and cruell Empires to be compared to wilde beaſts; as leopards, and bears, &c. Some conceive this beaſt and the other, ver. 11. to be all one. Others interpret this of the Popiſh Roman Empire, and the other of the Pope, who is the Antichriſt.

riſe up] It is not ſaid to be raiſed up, but to riſe up, and to aſcend; for this beaſt was very greedy of Supremacy, and ſought it by his own ſtrength, as well as by his friends. He ſeeth it aſcend up by little and little, till it came quite out of the ſea. So did the Weſtern Emperour and the Pope grow up by little and little, till they got free of, and power over many nations. He is properly ſaid to aſcend out of the ſea, becauſe the ſhore is higher than it, and keepeth it in, Pſalm 24.2. Therefore Mariners are ſaid to go down into the ſea in ſhips, Pſalm 107.23. Iſa. 42. 10. Or, to aſcend, by an uſual Hebrew phraſe, is to come from, or come forth of, Rev.7.2. and 10. 9. Jer.34.21. and 35.7.

out of the ſea] Out of many nations, chap. 17.15.

ſeven heads, and ten horns] See chap. 12.3.

upon his horns ten crowns] For ten crowned Kings were afterward ſubject unto the Popiſh Empire, or Antichriſt, which had not yet received their crowns, chap.17.12.

upon his heads the name of blaſphemy] Or, names. Monuments of idolatry were on the ſeven hills of Rome: or, their ſeveral Governours were idolaters.

V. 2. like unto a leopard] A fierce beaſt, hating man ſo much, that he firſt fleeth upon his eyes, to pull them out; and in his rage will tear the very picture of a man out of paper. Or, as a leopard which lieth in wait for his prey, Jer. 5. 6. Hoſ. 13.7. A note both of fierceneſs and ſubtilty. This Empire was divided into many Kingdomes, like the Grecian, typified by a leopard, Dan.7.6. and 8. 8,22.

as the feet of a bear] Ravenous, like the Perſian Empire, Dan.7.5.

as the mouth of a lion] Made idolatrous and cruel decrees, as the Babylonian Empire did, Dan.7.4. and 3.1,&c. Thus this repreſentation is formed of divers beaſts, becauſe no one was bad enough to ſet out the evil qualities of this dominion.

the dragon gave him his power] Gr. his own power. The devil gave him the power that he had given the heathen Roman Emperours before, which they had loſt in Conſtantines time. The devil gave him ſtrength to manage his dominion, ſet him in Rome, where Satans throne was before, and gave him authority over many Kings & Kingdoms. All theſe are needful to uphold an Empire. Authority muſt be backed with honour, and honour with ſtrength; elſe an Empire will not ſtand.

V. 3. one of his heads] The Weſtern Roman Emperour was grievouſly ſpoiled by the Goths and Vandals: or the Pope weakned, and brought very low, like one wounded in the head.

wounded] Gr. ſlain.

was healed] By raiſing up of the French and German Empire, under the title of the Roman. So that now it ſeemed like a body which had been mortally wounded, and yet flouriſheth again to admiration.

wondred after the beaſt] Chap. 17. 8. Submitted themſelves to the beaſt wholly, and wondred at his raiſing again, and followed him with great admiration.

V. 4. worſhipped the dragon] In obeying the Emperours or Popes idolatrous decrees, they not only worſhipped them, but alſo the devil in them, chap.9.20. 1 Cor.10. 20. For the dragon gave them that power, and his work they did. Therefore John ſetteth them all out, as falling down on their knees before the dragon. Not that theſe Emperours or Popes would confeſs they had their power from the dragon, or that this people thought they had it from him, or worſhipped the dragon viſibly: but when they thought they worſhipped God, who in their conceit had ſet up his dominion, they did cloſely worſhip Satan, who ſet it up indeed. Or, as the Roman eagle was carried before the Army, whereby the beaſt was followed and worſhipped, even with peril of life: ſo ſome write that they carried dragons before every troop; and they that carried them were called Dragons. Thus they followed the Dragon.

ſaying] Here they expreſs their admiration, and their fear accompanying it, in the words following. They worſhipped them in words, as well as geſtures: as the Elders worſhipped God, chap.4.10,11.

V. 5. there was given unto him] By the devil, who gave him his power, ver. 2. Or, he was permitted by God to blaſpheme.

a mouth ſpeaking] Dan.7.8,11,25. and 11.36.

great things and blaſphemies] He boaſted of his own greatneſs, and vilified all others, even God himſelf, ver. 6. Pſalm 12.3,4.

to continue] Or, to make war; as ver.7. Gr. to do great things. Or, to do what he liſt for a time, Dan.8.4,12. Or, to abide, Jam.4.13.

fourty and two moneths] See ch. 11.2. The power of Antichriſt, and the Papiſts, is reckoned by moneths; for they are works of the night, guided by the unconſtant Moon: but the courſe of Gods people is guided by the Sun, and ſet out by days, ch. 11.3.

V. 6. he opened his mouth, &c.] At firſt he counterfeited himſelf holy, when the power was newly given him; but now by degrees he cometh to blaſpheme God himſelf, with full mouth, Pſalm 73.9. 2 Theſſ.2.4. Opening the mouth, is the beginning to ſpeak, Mat.5.2.

his Name] God himſelf, and his power, Acts 2.25. and 3. 12, 16. and 4.12. Rom.10.13. Pſalm 74. 10,18.

his tabernacle] His Church, Pſalm 76.2. and 87.1,2. and his ordinances.

them that dwell in heaven] That ſerve God in his Church, as fellow-citizens of heaven, and being of Gods houſhold, Eph.2.19. where God dwelleth as a Maſter, Pſalm 76.2. and a Father, Mat.6.9. Theſe then, in regard of their ſimplicity and weakneſs, lie open to all reproaches and injuries from their powerful enemies.

V. 7. to make war with the Saints] With Gods ſervants, who are ſanctified, Dan.7.21. ch.11.7.

to overcome them] By ſubduing or ſlaying them, ver. 10.

power] See ver.5.

all kindreds, &c.] See ch.5.9. and 7.9. and 11. 9.

V. 8. all that dwell] The greateſt number; as Luke 2. 2. Rom. 11.26. So that the reſt were ſo few, in compariſon of the idolatrous Chriſtians, that they are of no reckoning.

upon the earth] In the world, except ſuch as are here excepted, ch.3.10.

whoſe names] Whom God maketh no account to ſave. Leſt, becauſe the followers of the beaſt are ſo many, therefore we might think, none ſhould be ſaved; John aſſureth us, that none of Gods elect ſhall periſh, Mat.24.24. They ſhall be kept from this idolatry, Rom.11.4,5.

in the book of life of the Lamb ſlain] Exod.32.32. Phil. 4. 3. ch.3.5. and 20.12, and 21.27.

from the foundation of the world] By virtue of whoſe Blood, they were ſaved who lived before his incarnation, as well as they who lived after it. Or, whoſe names are not written, from the foundation of the world, in the book of the Lamb ſlain: that is, who are not predeſtinated, from all eternity, to be ſaved by the death of Chriſt. See chap.17.8.

V.9. If any man have an ear,&c.] Let every man obſerve this beaſt, that he be not deceived by him; for he cometh not now in the ſhape of the dragon, but is a Chriſtian by profeſſion.See cha.2.7.Mat.13.9. yet,by the former deſcription, he may be known and avoided.

V. 10. into captivity] The two things to be expected from this beaſt by the people of God, are ſlavery and death: which calamities, as they inflict upon others, ſo they ſhall by others be inflicted on them, Iſa. 33. 1.

he that killeth,&c.] Gen.9.6. Matt.26.52.

here is the patience] Chap.14.12. Here is the main matter,wherein the patience and faith of Gods ſervants ſhall be exerciſed, 1 Pet.1.6, 7. Or, here is good ground for patience and faith in Gods ſervants: to wit, that God will certainly deſtroy their perſecutours, that make them ſlaves, and kill their brethren, and ſeek to deſtroy them daily. The certain hope of antichriſts ruine, ſhould uphold all Gods people that are perſecuted by him.

V. 11. another beaſt] Either the ſame in another ſhape, if both be meant of the Pope,as ſome think, becauſe there is but one beaſt mentioned,c.17.8.but here repreſented by two beaſts:the former,in regard of that temporal power,the later,in regard of that ſpiritual power, he challengeth to himſelf. Or elſe the former is the French or Germane Emperour ruling over many kings, and this is the Pope or falſe prophet, cha.19.20. One the political beaſt,the other the eccleſiaſtical.

coming up] See notes on verſ.1.

out of the earth] From mean beginnings; and ſpreading far,Gen.2.9. Or,not coming from heaven,but from hell; as chap.11.7.

two horns like a lamb] He ſeemed to be meek. Or,he was a Chriſtian by profeſſion,and called himſelf Chriſts vicar.

ſpake as a dragon] As he that was repreſented by the dragon; for dragons cannot ſpeak. He ſet up idolatry by his command,as the heathen Emperours had done.

V. 12. all the power of the firſt beaſt] Took on him civil authority.

before him] In the city of Rome,which was the ſeat of the Emperour,where he was wont to keep his court.

the earth,&c.] See chap.12.12. Unleſs it be taken for the generality, as the world is, verſ.3.

to worſhip the firſt beaſt] To acknowledge a Romane Empire again, after the incurſion of the Goths: and to make the Romane city to be accounted holy, that all might flock to it. He doth not at firſt ſet up his power,but the Emperours again, which was a thing more feiſable; and afterwards weakneth him,to ſet up himſelf.

whoſe deadly wound was healed] See notes on verſ.3.

V.13. great wonders] Mat.24.24. 2 Theſ.2.9. Now he ſheweth how this ſecond beaſt worſhipped the firſt; namely,by working miracles; which the firſt beaſt could not do,though he had much power given him,v.2. Yet theſe were no true miracles,but jugling,whereby he deceived the people, v. 14. ch.18.23. Lying wonders, 2 Theſſ. 2.12.

ſo that he] That is, ſuch great ones,that he may ſeem to be able to do the greateſt of all. Like that phraſe of removing mountains,Mat. 17.20. Fire from heaven is named,becauſe ſignes from heaven affect men moſt,Matt.16.1. and becauſe the Pope would endeavour to confirm his worſhip by fire from heaven, as God did his, Lev.9.24. 1 Kin. 18.38. 2 Chro.7.1. and be in ſhew as great a prophet as Elias,2 Kin. 1. 10, 12.

maketh fire come down from heaven] By ſorcery; for ſome Popes have been conjurers,& have made ſome ſuch ſhews to the people: as Pope Zachary had fiery armies going before him to Ravenna,that he might be thought to be another Eliſha,2 Kin.6.17. When Pope Steven went into France,to get help of king Pipin, balls of fire were ſeen running up and down in the air. Such other ſtories the popiſh writers have ſtore of, to prove their Pope to be antichriſt. Or,he excommunicateth men, as if he did thunder and lighten on them.

in the ſight of men] Publikely, to ſeduce men the more.

V.14. deceiveth] All is ſet down in the preſent tenſe. He exerciſeth,doth wonders,deceiveth; either becauſe John now ſaw ſome ſuch thing in the viſion, or elſe becauſe it would be done as ſurely, as if the Pope were then doing it.

on the earth] See v. 8.

miracles] Look on v. 13.

in the ſight of the beaſt] See on v. 12.

make an image to the beaſt] Set up a Roman Emperour, that ſhould have nothing to do in Rome, and ſhould be like the former Emperours, in ſetting up idolatry again.

by the ſword] By warlike incurſions of barbarous people invading the Empire, v. 3.

and did live] Or, recovered, Iſai. 38. 21. & 39. 1. Though he were mortally wounded, v. 12. yet this beaſt maketh him live ſtill, that men might think he had life and death in his power.

V. 15. to give life] Gr. breath. He ſaw,by the raiſing of the ruines of the Romane Empire, he had prevailed much; and now he maketh theſe later Emperours act according to his will, that he may raiſe himſelf.

to the image of the beaſt] For the Germane Ceſar was not Romane Emperour, till he was confirmed by the Pope.

ſpeak,&c.] Should make laws, and puniſh ſuch as did not acknowledge him to be Emperour, or himſelf to be Chriſts vicar. Others think it is an alluſion to their jugling tricks, making their images to ſpeak,thereby to ſeduce the people to idolatry.

image of the beaſt] Before, it was an image made to the beaſt,to uphold the ſtate of Rome: now, it is the image of the beaſt. The Pope will have it acknowledged to be ſo.

ſhould be killed] Now he addeth cruelty to his ſubtilty, and dealeth by open force,having ſtrengthened the Romane Empire again. So did Nebuchad-nezzar rage, Dan.3.6,20.

V. 16. all] All ſorts of men, ſmall and great,&c. This ſheweth the largeneſs of his dominion: and alſo his care, not onely to oblige the great ones to him, that might be moſt uſeful to eſtabliſh his kingdom; but alſo the meaneſt: for he knew that mean ones may raiſe great ſtirs in a ſtate, as a little ſpark may ſet on fire an houſe; and cities are taken often,where men leaſt ſuſpect. So are ſtates ruined.

to receive] Gr. that he may give to them. And by conſequence, that they may willingly take it at his hands.

a mark in their right hand] Not that he ſtamped a viſible mark upon them, but obliged them,by ſome external band,to ſerve and fight for the ſea and ſtate of Rome. To fight for him, as Souldiers were wont to do for their Emperour or General, whoſe mark they had in their right hand, wherewith they uſed to fight.

or in their foreheads] To ſerve him, as ſervants did their maſters; whoſe they were known openly to be,by wearing their marks on their foreheads.

V. 17. buy or ſell] Either civilly,by way of trading; or ſpiritually, by buying and ſelling pardons. It had been too cruel to have killed all at firſt, who refuſed his authority: therefore he forbiddeth them all trading,without which men cannot live; and ſo compelleth multitudes to come in to him.

mark] Except he be a ſworn ſervant of the Pope. See v. 16. This maketh the full and proper ſubjects of that Kingdom, and therefore cauſed all he could to receive this mark, v. 16. and they are threatned with damnation,who receive it, chap.14.9,11. Neither of theſe is ſpoken of thoſe who received the name,or the number.

or the name of the beaſt] Or,were a papiſt in religion. By the beaſt here is meant,the firſt beaſt. The Romane ſtate or Emperours, whom the Pope made men to ſerve, and whoſe authority he uſed,till he could raiſe himſelf to his height, v.1,12. ch.16.2.

or the number of his name] Or, were eſteemed ſo to be,and numbred among ſuch.

V. 18. Here is wiſdom] It is a hard thing to finde out this mark or name.

for it is the number of a man] It is not only known to me by Revelation,but alſo may be found out by humane wiſdom,Let wiſe men therefore ſeek to finde it out.

and his number] It is to be found in the numbers of the Greek letters of his general name: for mens names in Greek,contained numbers in the letters.They had not other figures,as we have,but counted by letters.

ſix hundred threeſcore and ſix] S. John would not plainly ſet down the name,leſt he ſhould make the Romane Emperours offended with the Chriſtians; as S.Paul doth not name him that letteth, 2 Theſ.2. 6,7. yet ſuch plain tokens are ſet down by both,that he,and antichriſt his upholder, might be known when he cometh. The truth is, this is the name of the beaſt,not of antichriſt; and ſo a national name, deſcribing that ſtate where antichriſt ſhould riſe and reign: and therefore though it is like to be comprehended in Greek letters, in which language John wrote; yet it is not likely to be a Greek word originally. Ireneus, and the ancients,take it for the word Lateinos, which, in Greek letters,maketh ſix hundred ſixty & ſix: ſhewing,that antichriſt ſhould be a Romane, or one of the Latine Church. Others ſuppoſe his power ſhould begin in the yeer of Chriſt ſix hundred ſixty and ſix. Others,that it ſhould laſt ſo many yeers in the height of it.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. I Looked] See chap.8.13.

and lo] Or, behold. A note of ſome great matter enſuing, Matt.1.23. Iſai.7.14.

a Lamb] Chriſt,the true Lamb,ch.13.8. Joh.1.29. 1 Pet.1.19. the Son of God the Father,appeareth in this verſe; oppoſeth the counterfeit lamb, ch.13.11. See ch. 5.6.

ſtood] He himſelf appeareth to John now in a viſion,on a mountain like mount Sion. But the thing intended is, that he appeared in his Miniſters publikely ſerving God.

on mount Zion] A type of the Church,Pſal.48.2. Iſa.33.20. wherein Chriſt in his ordinances appeared as in a city on an hil,Mat.5.14. more conſpicuouſly than before,after the long hidden eſtate of his Church perſecuted by the Pope.

an hundred fourty and four thouſand] See chap.7.4.

having his Fathers name written in their foreheads] The mark on their foreheads,the name of God,not mentioned Chap. 7. is here expreſſed: implying, that they did now in a more open and publick manner profeſs themſelves his true ſervants, and were as manifeſtly known ſo to be, as if it had been written on their foreheads ; alluding withal to ſuch marks as ſervants uſed to have. See chap.13.16,17. It is called, The name of his God. See chap.3.12.

V. 2. a voice from heaven] Out of the now viſible Church of God, chap 4.2, &c.

as the voyce of many waters] Of many people now acknowledging the true Religion, chap.1.15.& 17.15.& 19.6.

of a great thunder] Chap.6.1. A loud and open profeſſion of the truth,that the world might take notice of it.

of harpers] A ſweet and pleaſant thankſgiving , delightful to God and good men. An alluſion to the ſweet melody in the Temple at Hieruſalem, 1 Chr.25.1. Pſal.43.3 4.

V. 3. as it were,&c.] Such an one as John had not heard before, among all the heavenly voyces in this Revelation.

a new ſong] They gave praiſe to God for their new deliverance from Popiſh perſecution, and the freedom they had by the favour of Chriſtian Magiſtrates,to profeſs the Chriſtian Religion openly. This ſheweth that this muſt not be underſtood of the perſecuted Church in the wilderneſs, as ſome would have it ; for the ſtate thereof affordeth not matter for this new ſong, Pſa.137.3,4. neither is the Church in that ſtate called heaven,but when it is viſible, ch.12.7. It is meant then of the Churches breaking out again,when the witneſſes were taken up into heaven,that is,into a free viſible Church, ch.11.12.This then is another new ſong different from that, ch.5.9. for that was in praiſe of Chriſt. For opening the ſeals,ſee notes there.

before the throne, &c.] Before God, his Miniſters and people in the congregation, ch.4.2,4,6.Pſal.107.32.

no man could learn that ſong]Not that any elſe went about to learn it ; but none of the idolatrous Papiſts had that cauſe , or could tell how to praiſe God for this favour : for they were left in darkneſs.

redeemed from the earth]Bought by the Blood of Chriſt,and brought out of Popery, 1 Cor. 6.20.& 7.23. 1 Pet. 1. 18. from antichriſts earthly Church, ch.12.12.

V.4.not defiled with women]Not polluted with Popiſh falſe doctrine and idolatry,which is ſpiritual fornication , 2 Cor. 12.2. Ephe.5.27. Ezek.15.16. ch.18.3. An alluſion to the Iſraelites , of whom many were enticed to idolatry by the Midianitiſh women , but many were kept from it, Num.25. Others underſtand all this of the Waldenſes, and ſuch as ſerved God purely in all the time of Popery ; becauſe it is ſaid, They were not defiled. Their remainders are now found in the viſible Church.

follow the Lamb whitherſoever he goeth] Seek Chriſt in his ordinances,though with peril and loſs,having forſaken communion with the Popiſh Church. And not following antichriſt for their head and guide, as others ſtill,but Chriſt onely.

redeemed] Gr. bought. See verſ. 3.

from among men] 1 Cor. 3 . 3. This expoundeth the former verſe. The earth, then ſignifieth, there are men of an earthly ſtate , out of whom Chriſt took his, and from whoſe ſociety he yet calleth them, chap. 18.4.

the firſt fruits] Firſt converted, or openly making the firſt profeſſion of the reformed Religion, ch.5.9. & 20.5. An alluſion to the firſt fruits in the Law, Deut.18.4. Prov.3.9. Jam.1.18. They were paid to the Prieſts,as Gods due.All the world is the heap ; the elect are God's and Chriſt's, in a peculiar manner.

unto the Lamb] This is more than to follow the Lamb ; for it ſheweth a peculiar right he hath in them.

V.5. no guile] Pſal.32.2. Joh.1.47. They were true in all their ſayings. Or, in word they profeſſed the true Religion, which they beleeved in their hearts.

without fault] Becauſe Chriſt hath redeemed,and paid the price of their ſins,with his Blood, Ephe.6.26,27. Or,free from Romiſh idolatry (to which they could not be drawn by all the Popes power and threatnings) and worſhipping God aright, and obeying all his commandments, to the uttermoſt of their ſtrength, Luke 1. 6.

before the throne of God] Men may condemn them ; but God, who knoweth their hearts, and accepteth of them in Chriſt , will acquit them. Or,they are blameleſs, not onely before men, whoſe judgment is ſubject to errour ; but even before God himſelf, as ſincere, that is, true and faithful ſubjects to God, Gen.17.1. Iſa.38 3.

V. 6. another angel] Different from them that blew the trumpets,or from him who ſhewed him theſe things,ch.1.1. or from him,ch.8.13. who threatned woes to the earth.

flye] Making haſte to publiſh his meſſage thorow the world. A type of the Miniſtery of thoſe times. And indeed , it paſſed from place to place very ſwiftly at firſt. So that this intimateth the free and ſpeedy paſſage of the Goſpel from place, by their Miniſtery.

in the midſt of heaven]So that he could not be hindered from preaching, by any humane oppoſition. Or from whence he might be more conſpicuouſly ſeen , and his voyce moſt clearly heard on either ſide ; as the light of the Sun doth moſt brightly diffuſe it ſelf into all parts of the hemiſphere,when it is about the meridian. See ch.8.13. This angel ſome take to be Wickliff and his fellows : others, to be Luther and his aſſiſtants. Such are called Angels, ch.1.20. & 2.1.

having the everlaſting Goſpel]For to the Miniſters is this word of reconciliation committed, 2 Cor.5.19. as to the faithful ſtewards,to diſpenſe to others, 1 Cor.4.1,2. And it is called eternal, firſt, Becauſe it teacheth men not to fear antichriſts ſpoyling of goods or life , ſeeing it holdeth out eternal happineſs unto them, Heb.10.34. Secondly, Becauſe the ſum of it was from the beginning (and therefore it is not a new doctrine, as the Papiſts call it) and it ſhall be preached openly to the end of the world,in deſpight of all oppoſition,ch.11.15. for the witneſſes ſhall be more ſlain. Thirdly, Becauſe it ſhall not be diſannulled as the legal covenant was.

unto them that dwell on the earth] To earthly-minded men , to call them off from earthly , to ſeek heavenly things, Col.3.1. Such ſecure ones are thus deſcribed, Luke 21.34,35. Or, to all the inhabitants of the earth, ſo that every nation ſhall hear of it ; as followeth in this verſe. So this phraſe is uſed, ch.5.9 & 7.9.

V. 7. with a loud voyce]To ſhew the weight of the meſſage,and that all might hear, Chap.8.13.

Fear God] Worſhip the true God, and do not worſhip images any more, as ye have done. Or, fear not antichriſt any more,who can but kill your bodies ; but fear God, who can deſtroy your ſouls elſe , Luk. 12.4,5. He exhorteth them to that which hath been neglected, and the contrary done : For men had not feared God, but men ; nor honoured his grace, but mens merits ; not worſhipped him, but ſtocks, ſtones, &c. ch. 9.20. At firſt, the Miniſters ſpake not ſo plainly and fully againſt Babylon,as after, verſ. 8. but did undermine antichriſts kingdom, by preaching the true knowledge and worſhip of God ; too much before neglected and corrupted.

the hour of his judgment] He will not bear with your idolatry now, as he did in the times of ignorance, Act.17.30.

and worſhip him] Pſal.146.5,6. Act.14.15.

heaven and earth, &c.] Which none elſe could make ; much leſs your Images. He nameth four principal works of God , to draw men to know and worſhip him aright : Firſt, the heaven ; famous for breadth,light,motion,influence. Secondly, the earth ; unmoveable ſince the beginning, and very profitable to men. Thirdly , the ſea ; of huge compaſs, and great uſe for fiſhing and navigation. Fourthly, the fountains ; which run always for the uſe of the living creature, as types of Gods eternity and bounty.

V. 8. another angel] Other Miniſters. Some take it for the Bohemians : others, for ſuch after Luther, more clearly ſpake of Romes deſtruction.

Babylon is fallen] Iſa.21.9. Jer.51. 8 ch.18.2. Theſe ſaw the Popes kingdom ſhaken,by the Miniſtery of ſuch as went before them,& now declare boldly,that God hath laid the foundation of the deſtruction of it,and will as ſurely deſtroy it ſhortly,as if it were now down.

wine of the wrath of her fornication] Or, of the poiſoned wine of her fornication,ch.17.2.For the Hebrew word to the which the Greek here anſwereth, ſignifieth poiſon,as well as wrath. As whores give ſpiced or enchanted cups to their lovers, to make them commit fornication with them ; ſo did Rome, by ſubtil enticements , draw a great part of the world to her idolatry, which is often in Scripture compared to fornication ; as Jer.3. Ezek.16. divers times. Or, ſhe made God angry with them, as well as with her ſelf, by drawing them to the ſame idolatry. Or, becauſe when God is angry,and goeth to puniſh wicked men,he is ſaid to have a cup in his hand of poiſoned wine, to give every one his part according to his merit, that men might know theſe judgements came from him, and not by chance, Job 21.20. Pſal.75. 8. Iſa.51.17. Jer.25.15. & 49.12,13. & 51.7,8. So Babylon and her followers ſhall alſo drink their ſhare, according to their deſerts. See verſ. 10. An alluſion to ſuch nations as uſed to kill malefactours with poiſoned cups.

V. 9. third angel] Other Miniſters after them. Martin Luther and his fellow-labourers,as ſome think ; or later preachers, as others.

worſhip the beaſt] The Pope,who is antichriſt. See ch.13.11.

and his image] And follow the Germane Emperours, or other Princes,whom he made,as an image of the heathen Empire of Rome,(ch. 13.15.) to uphold his idolatries and ſuperſtitions.

receive his mark,&c.] See notes on cha. 13.16. The firſt Angel did preach the true worſhip of God, welnigh loſt : the ſecond foretelleth the fall of Babylon : the third warneth men to come out of her,before it come ; ſeeking to draw men out of the fire, Jude verſ.23.

V. 10. the ſame] Not onely the Pope himſelf, but all his obſtinate followers alſo,and ſworn ſervants. Or, as he hath taken the beaſts mark, ſo he ſhall periſh with him for company.

of the wine of the wrath of God] Of Gods ſevere judgement in the deſtruction of Babylon. See verſ. 8. Pſal. 75. 8. Jer. 25. 15. Or, of Gods poiſoned wine ; that is, of the wine that God giveth them to make them mad ; as Pſal.60.3. which is poured by God into the cup of his wrath, for them to drink, whom God will be avenged on , as verſ. 8.

without mixture] Not allayed with the water of mercy at all, Jam. 2. 13.

with fire and brimſtone]In hell-fire for ever,beſides the heavy judgments he may endure at the fall of Rome, ch.9.18. & 19.20. An alluſion to the deſtruction of Sodom,Gen.19.24.

in the preſence of the Angels, &c.] Publickly, before Chriſt and his Angels. An alluſion to Sodomes deſtruction again , wherein Chriſt and his Angels were employed. They that bear antichriſts mark before men, ſhall be forſaken of , and tormented before Chriſt and his Angels , that their torment may be the greater, Mark 8.38. Luke 9.26.

V.11. the ſmoke of their torment] Of the fire tormenting them. Their torment ſhall have no end; as we know the fire goeth not out while we ſee the ſmoke, Iſa. 34. 10.

no reſt] No intermiſſion, becauſe of the greatneſſe of their everlaſting pains. Here are ſome intermiſſions in the ſufferings of Gods people, though they be heavy for the time: but there ſhall be none, in theſe pains of the idolaters.

day nor night] Though they have a perpetual night in hell, as a perpetual day in heaven: yet he ſpeaketh after the manner of men here on earth, meaning, They never have one minute of reſt. See ch. 7.15. Here, the light of the day, and ſociety of friends, may ſomewhat allay thoſe pains that are terrible in the night; and ſleep in the night may make us forget the labours of the day: but thoſe torments nothing can aſſwage.

who worſhip the beaſt, &c.] See verſ. 9.

V. 12. Here is the patience] See chap. 13.10. Or, here is the vengeance that ſhall be executed on their enemies, who patiently endure death for obedience to God, and holding faſt the true Religion, againſt the Papiſts. Or, now ſhall the patience and obedience of Gods ſervants be made known to the world. It ſhall appear who are true, and who are counterfeit Chriſtians. By antichriſts fierce perſecution, the chaff ſhall be ſeparated from the wheat, and the droſs from the gold. Or, after the Goſpel preached, and the Pope declared to be antichriſt, there ſhall be greater perſecutions than before, and the patience of Gods ſervants more tryed; as appeareth in the perſecutions and wars ſince the Waldenſes and Luthers time. The Pope, like the devil, rageth, becauſe his time is ſhort, ch.12.12.

V.13. And I heard, &c.] Becauſe in the former verſe he had ſpoken of many troubles yet to come, to try the patience of Gods people; here he bringeth in a voyce from heaven, and commanded to be written, to aſſure them, that the greateſt evil antichriſt could bring on them, was a ſpeedy way to happineſs. And this conſolation was needful, leſt they ſhould think the primitive Martyrs happy, who were put to death by heathen perſecutors: but themſelves unhappy, who were to be condemned by Chriſtians, for hereticks.

in the Lord] As members of Chriſt, or in the faith of Chriſt; as Rom. 16.7, 11. 1 Cor.15.18. 1 Theſ.4.16. Heb.11.13. Or, for the Lord. So ſome interpret this phraſe, Rom. 16.2, 8, 12. And the Hebrew particle anſwering to the Greek one here, is often ſo uſed.

from henceforth: yea, ſaith the Spirit] Or, from henceforth ſaith the Spirit: yea. Though antichriſt muſt down, yet it will coſt ſo much blood ere it be done, that they are happy that dyed or ſhall dye before, in the fear of God. Or, ye may think that your perſecutions are all paſt, becauſe the Goſpel is openly preached again: but antichriſt, being now revealed, is more mad than before, & ye ſhall find more trouble than formerly; ſo that ye ſhall count the dead happy, Eccleſ.4.2, 3.

may reſt from their labours] From the troubles that are to come, or by dying before. Or, from their labours endured here.

their works follow them] The reward of their works, 1 Cor.15.58.

V. 14. I looked] See chap.8.13.

and behold, &c.] Before, God wrought by the word, ſending forth his three angels to preach, v.6, &c. Now, he taketh the ſword, and beginneth by deeds to pull down antichriſts kingdome. Which action is ſet out by two ſimilitudes; one, of an harveſt, v. 15. the other, of a vintage, v.18. for in theſe, men uſe to cut down all the fruits.

a white cloud] A ſign of great glory.

like unto the Son of man] Or, like unto a Son of man, Ch.1.13. Some glorious Angel, v. 15. like a man; for he is ſet on work by another Angel, v. 15. and an Angel gathereth the grapes, v. 19. which is all one judgment with this. See notes on ch.10.1.

a golden crown] For Majeſty. Such Kings wear. It ſheweth alſo that he ſhould get a glorious victory over antichriſt.

a ſharp ſicle] To do ſwift execution.

in his hand] That is, in his right hand; for with it men uſe to reap. He was both able and ready to execute what ſhould be committed to him, as harveſt-men with their ſicles in their hands, (which were the uſual inſtruments of cutting down the corn, Deu. 16.9. & 23.25. and are ſtill) are to cut down the corn. This Angel may be a type of ſome great and glorious Prince or Princes that ſhould begin to execute Gods wrath on the Pope. Many ſuch were in Germany in Luthers time.

V. 15. another angel] Differing from the three former, and from him that ſate on the cloud.

out of the temple] Out of the Church of God now opened (ch. 11. 19.) as the other angel did, v. 17. Repreſenting the Miniſters of thoſe times, who ſhould call on the Princes to be Gods executioners, as Baylies, who ſummon the harveſt-men to work, but reap not with their own hands.

crying with a loud voyce] Shewing his great deſire to have the thing done, and that all men might hear, and further the work, See verſ. 7.

Thruſt in thy ſicle] Joel 3.13. Go about the work of deſtroying antichriſt and his upholders.

for the time] Gr. the hour. The time appointed by God: and therefore the buſineſs will ſucceed well now, that would not before.

is come] As might appear by ſignes, or by divine incitation to the work.

for thee to reap] Wherein God calleth thee to do it, and therefore will proſper the work in thine hands.

the harveſt] Antichriſts followers are fit for vengeance, Jer.51.33.

of the earth] Of the falſe Church, or antichriſtian ſtate, ch.13.12.

is ripe] Or, dryed. The Idolaters ſins are full, & ready for judgment, Gen.15.16. Jer.51.33. Iſa.17.5. Or, withered; as this word is uſed, Mat. 13.6. An alluſion to hay, which, when it is withered, is good for nothing, but muſt be cut down; elſe it will be ſpoyled it ſelf, and hurt the ground. So would theſe wicked ones grow ſtark naught, and hurt others, if they were not quickly deſtroyed. See the like, Pſal.129.6.

V. 16. thruſt in his ſicle] He did as he was commanded, and God proſpered it accordingly.

the earth was reaped] Antichriſt and his followers were deſtroyed.

V.17. another Angel] Now the vintage followeth after the harveſt, as it uſeth to do.

out of the temple] Figuring ſome Miniſters of note, that ſhall aſſiſt the Princes in deſtroying antichriſt, and reforming Religion.

a ſharp ſicle] For they uſed not then to gather grapes with the hand, as we do: but to cut them off with an hook or ſicle, for expedition, Iſa.18.5. And ſo did ſome of the heathen.

V.18. out from the altar, which had power over fire] It may be that Angel ſpoken of, ch.8.5. who ſtood at the altar of incenſe, and took fire from the altar of burnt-offering, and caſt it on the earth, from whence followed the judgments there enſuing. And in that reſpect he might be ſaid to have power over fire. Or at leaſt, it may be an alluſion to that ſtory, and may repreſent ſuch, as by their fervent prayers could prevail with God to bring his judgments on antichriſt and his followers, and as it were command Miniſters and Rulers to go about it, ſtirring them up with the ſlaughter of thoſe Martyrs which lay under the altar, ch.6.9. Or, this angel is ſaid to have power over fire; that is, to reſtrain the fire of contentions (Judg. 9. 20.) from among Proteſtant Princes, that they maight joyntly fight againſt the Pope.

gather the cluſters] The vine, is the Popiſh Church: gathering, is taking away: the cluſters of grapes, are the multitude of the members of that Church. So deſtruction of the wicked is ſet out by a vintage, as well as by an harveſt, ch.19.15. Iſa.63.1, 2, 3.

fully ripe] See notes on verſ. 15.

V. 19. gathered the vine] Deſtroyed the Popes dominions, and ſlew thoſe that were guilty of the blood of Gods Saints. Some underſtand, by the harveſt, the deſtruction of Rome; and by the vintage, the utter ruine of Popery afterwards; as the vintage followeth the harveſt.

caſt into] An alluſion to the uſual manner of vintages, where they had always a wine-preſs ready to tread their grapes in, aſſoon as they were gathered, before the moiſture was dried or drop'd out of them, Iſa. 5. 2.

great wine-preſs] This ſheweth, that this was a greater judgment than the former; as great wine-preſſes have more grapes troden in them, than leſſer ones. This appeareth alſo by many former circumſtances. He that cut down in the harveſt, came from the clouds, v.14. He that cutteth in the vintage, cometh out from the temple in heaven, v.17. The encourager of the former came out of the temple, v.15 of the later, out of the altar, v.18. and is ſaid to have power over fire. The former cryeth with a loud voice, v.15. the later, with a loud cry, v.18 The former is bid to thruſt in his ſicle, v.15. the later, his ſharp ſicle, v.18. The former, to reap, v.15 the later more fully, to gather the cluſters of the vine of the earth, v. 18. The former is told, The harveſt is ripe, v. 15. the later, that the grapes are fully ripe, v.18. The former reapeth the earth, v. 16. and taketh no care of threſhing: the later caſteth the grapes into the great wine-preſs of Gods wrath, verſ. 19. So that the judgment here intended muſt needs be greater, unleſs it be the ſame ſet out by two ſimilitudes, as the famine of Egypt was, Gen. 41. 1, &c. And then the latter is added here, to ſet out the judgment the more fully; or to ſhew the certainty of it; as Gen.41.32.

V. 20. And the wine-preſs was troden] The ſimilitude is proſecuted. When grapes are gathered, they are caſt into the wine-preſs, and then trodden, Judg. 9. 27. and the juyce of them runneth out, Neh. 13. 15. Iſa. 63. 3, 4. This ſetteth out the fierce execution of Gods wrath upon ſinners, Lam. 1. 15. and upon antichriſt and his, ch.19. 13, 15.

without the city] They uſed to tread the wine-preſſes out of the city, becauſe it was a foul and troubleſom work, and the grapes might be hurt, and time loſt, in carrying them from the place they grew in. See notes on verſ. 19. Without the Church, the city of God, as ſome interpret it: ſo that God provideth for the ſafety of his Church, while her enemies are in deſtroying. But as others ſay, the great battel ſhall be, not in the city of Rome, but in the territory thereunto belonging.

and blood came out of the wine-preſs] It is true, that wine is called, The blood of the grape, Gen. 49.11. Deut.32.14. But here the holy Ghoſt ſeemeth rather to paſs ſuddenly from the type, to the thing it ſelf thereby typified; from the wine-preſs to the war, where horſes are uſed, though not uſed in the other; and ſo giveth us light for expoſition. So he doth, Amos 9.11, 12. from Davids tabernacle that is fallen, to the remnant of Edom, and the heathen: and Hab.1.17. from catching fiſh in their net, to ſlaying the nations.

to the horſe bridles] He alludeth to thoſe that in war purſue the enemies flight, to do execution: or to conquerours, who uſe to go forth, after the battel, to ſee the dead carcaſes of their enemies, Iſa.66.24. & to take the ſpoil: which they do with much difficulty, when the field is covered with the blood of the ſlain, ſo that they are forced to ride, and the horſes well-nigh to ſwim. The meaning is; the blood of ſlain men ſhould be like a deep river running over the banks; ſo great ſhall the ſlaughter of the antichriſtians be, ch.16.14. & 19.13,18.

a thouſand and ſix hundred furlongs] As the wine runneth out of the wine-preſs, ſo the blood of the ſlain ſhall now flow a great length and breadth and depth. An alluſion to the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, wherein the blood is imagined to run over all the land of Canaan, ſuppoſed to be about that compaſs of ground: and ſignifying, that blood ſhall be found plentifully running in all the Popes territory, or patrimony of the Church, which is eſteemed by ſome to be about that proportion of ground.

CHAP. XV.

V.1. ANother ſigne] Differing from that, chap.12.1. and foretelling different things; as appeareth, becauſe it is called another, and a marvellous one. Therefore the former victory over antichriſt, Chap.14. and this ſong, muſt either have reſpect to ſomething done at the beginning of reformation, or be a general deſcription of this laſt overthrow, by way of anticipation, which is more particularly deſcribed in the vials following. And it is called a ſigne, to ſhew, that it came not accidentally, though it was a ſtrange light; but was ſent of God, to ſignifie things to come.

in heaven] Ch.12.1. In the Church, grown more viſible and glorious. As God did roar from Sion, Amos 1.2,3. when he foretold the deſtruction of the nations: ſo here, out of the Church, come the vials of Gods wrath, to be poured forth on antichriſt.

great and marvellous] In regard of the great changes and things it would bring to paſs; or in compariſon of the former. In theſe reſpects the whole Church confeſſeth it to be ſo, v.3.

ſeven angels] So are the publiſhers of Gods will, repreſenting the executioners thereof, called before, cha.8.7,8,10, 12. & 9.1,14. & 11.15.

the ſeven laſt plagues] Of whom they had theſe: and what they were, ſee v.7. They are called, The laſt plagues, for the reaſon following; becauſe Gods wrath is filled up by them, and ſo the thing done, which God had decreed, on the antichriſtian ſtate, ch.10.7. & 16.17. They are the laſt that God will pour on antichriſt: and the Church and world ſhall have happier days after.

V.2. a ſea of glaſs mingled with fire] Some take it for a type of their innumerable perſecutions they had ſuffered. Others, for the cryſtalline and pure doctrine of Gods word, ch.4.6. mingled with much zeal againſt Papiſts; or, many contentions among themſelves, as appeared in the controverſies about the Sacrament; yet might the truth be ſeen ſtill ſufficiently to ſalvation, Luk.12.49. Others, for the ſignes of Gods wrath, whereby their foes were deſtroyed.

That had gotten the victory] Such as had eſcaped the Popes rage, and had helped to pull down his kingdom.

over the beaſt] ch.13.11.

over his image] ch.13.15.

over his mark, &c.] ch. 13.16,17.

ſtand] ch.14.1.

on the ſea of glaſs] Trampling under feet their former perſecutions. Or, upheld by the doctrine of Gods word, notwithſtanding their differences among themſelves, and quarrels with their adverſaries. Or, treading on their wicked adverſaries, who are compared to a ſea, by reaſon of unquietneſs, Iſa.57.20,21. And that of glaſs, becauſe God ſeeth all their wickedneſs, Heb.4.13. And is ſaid to be mingled with fire, becauſe they ſhall be deſtroyed with fire, ch. 16.8. Or, ſtand on the pavement before Gods throne, ch.4.6. worſhipping God openly in his viſible Church. Or, ſtand at the ſea of glaſs. So the particle is uſed, Luk.12.6. 30, 40. As the Iſraelites ſtood at the Red-Sea, and praiſed God for their deliverance, Exod.14.30. & 15.1. So theſe at the glaſſie ſea of fire.

harps of God] Excellent ones; as Gen.23.6. Heb. a prince of God; Pſal.36.6. Heb. mountains of God. Or, harps to praiſe God with, ch.5.8. & 14.2. when they ſee their foes deſtroyed, Pſal. 58.10,11. Or, harps given of God. Having their hearts cleared by Gods Spirit, and well tuned to praiſe God for ſo great a victory; as appeareth by their ſweet muſick of praiſe, v. 3. 4.

V. 3. the ſong of Moſes] Such an one as Moſes ſung to the praiſe of God, for delivering Iſrael, and deſtroying the Egyptians, Exo. 15.1. For God ſheweth his power now as much, in freeing his people from antichriſts yoke.

the ſervant of God] In a peculiar manner, by office, Deut.34.5. See Chap.1.1.

and the ſong of the Lamb] Ch.14.1,3. Or, taught them more fully by the Lamb; as they had the pattern from Moſes in part. Some take this which followeth, v.3,4. to be the ſong taught by the Lamb, and that Moſes his ſong is not ſet down, becauſe it was recorded before in Scripture.

great and marvellous] Pſa.111.2. & 139.4. Gods works are ſaid to be ſo here, becauſe he had ſo long ſuffered antichriſts cruelty, and ſo ſtrangely deſtroyed him at the laſt.

Almighty] A fit title: for he had ſhewed his almighty power, in overthrowing ſo great force, and puniſhing ſo many enemies, ch.1.4,8.

juſt and true are thy ways] Pſal. 145.17. Juſt, becauſe thou haſt puniſhed antichriſt; and true, becauſe thou haſt performed thy promiſe to thy people. By Gods ways, is meant his conſtant works. A ſimilitude taken from a traveller.

King of ſaints] As thoſe over whom he ruleth in a more ſpecial and gracious manner, by his Word and Spirit, Pſal.110.2,3.

V.4. who ſhall not fear thee?] Jer.10.7. Every one ſhall do it. Or, who ſhould not (or would not) fear thee? Thou haſt given cauſe to all men to do it. By fear, is meant fear of reverence, and Religious worſhip; as it followeth, and glorifie thy Name; Chap.14.7.

for] Or, ſaying, that. Thus they teach poſterity, why, and how to praiſe God. See the like, Pſal.106.1. & 107.1. and 136. all over: 2 Chr.5.13. And ſo the Jews uſe it in their liturgy. See alſo, 1 Chr. 16.41. Matt.7.23. In all theſe places it may fitly be ſo tranſlated: and ſo it is full in the Greek, Luk.19.42. Saying, that if, &c.

thou onely art holy] Of thy ſelf, and infinitely, 1 Sam. 2.2. and haſt ſhewed thy ſelf ſo to be, by deſtroying the unholy, & freeing the holy.

all nations ſhall come] Thou art now ſending forth thy forces to deſtroy antichriſt, and then thou ſhalt be rightly worſhipped in all the world, Iſa.66.23,24. Although, while antichriſt reigned, there was ſcarce any hope of any ſuch thing left in the world; yet, when he is deſtroyed, all that are left of thoſe that adhered to him, ſhall publikely worſhip thee accordingly to thy word, Chap. 11.13. & 20.5. None ſhall then refuſe to fall down to thee. They that knew thee not before, ſhall be converted.

before thee] In the places of thy publike worſhip, Pſal.42.2.

thy judgements are made manifeſt] There is no man but ſeeth how juſtly thou haſt proceeded, and that, though thy judgements on them are great, yet are they no greater than they have deſerved. This thou haſt ſhewed, in freeing us from the power of antichriſt already: and it ſhall be made more manifeſt, when thou deſtroyeſt him and his adherents. For thy judgements paſt, are an argument to us, to look for fuller declaration of thy juſtice in time to come: and every man may ſee what thou wilt do, by what thou haſt done.

V.5. the temple of the tabernacle] That is, the innermoſt part of the tabernacle, called The holy of holieſt, and The moſt holy place; which tabernacle is termed, The tabernacle of the teſtimony, Num. 1.50. & 17.7. in regard of the two tables of ſtone, ſo called, Exod. 25.21. becauſe in them was written the law of God, the teſtimony of his will, Exod.34.28. Pſal.19.7. & 119.14,22. which tables were put in the ark, Deut.10.5. 1 Kin.8.5. and that ark placed in the innermoſt part of the tabernacle or temple, 1 Kin.8.6. Heb. 9.3,4. The temple was ſo open, that men might ſee into it out of the court now, which in the old Teſtament they could not. See the meaning, ch.11.19.

V.6. ſeven angels, &c.] John ſaw them, verſ. 1. but now he ſeeth them coming out of the temple, to execute their charge.

out of the temple] See Chap. 14.15. Out of the Sanctum ſanctorum, where the ark was, v.5. It may import, that theſe were the laſt plagues, becauſe they lay hid in the ſecreteſt cloſet of Gods ſanctuary, till the reſt were finiſhed. Here is ſtill a gradation of judgements. The Angels that blow the trumpets are in heaven, ch. 8.1,6. The reapers, and the encouragers, came out of the clouds, and the temple, and from the altar, ch.14.14,15,17,18. But theſe with the vials come out of the moſt holy place, Gods cloſet, and ſecret armory. They came alſo by command from God; for from the oracle did God uſe to anſwer Moſes, Exo.25.22. Num.7.89. & 17.4. So God ſtirred up men extraordinarily, to help pull down antichriſts kingdom. See ch.16.1.

having the ſeven plagues] See notes on v. 1.

pure and white linnen, &c.] Very glorious. An alluſion to the high prieſts garments (who onely went into the moſt holy place) both for the linnen and girdle. See Exo.28.6,8. They are clad like conquerours. See ch.19.14.

their breſts girded with golden girdles] They were ready girt, to go about their work, Exo.12.11. 1 King.18.46. Luk. 12.35. And with golden girdles, to ſhew their royal dignity, ch.1.13. Some great Religious princes they ſeem to ſet out, who muſt ſucceſſively weaken the Popes kingdom, till it be quite deſtroyed.

V.7. one of the four beaſt] Or, living wights, ch.4.6. The Miniſters. See why, ch.14.15. It may be taken for the firſt, as chap. 6.1. Or, any one of them, becauſe the reſt are not named after, as in chap. 6. The meaning is, that in every age after the Reformation, God will raiſe up, as ſome eminent princes to fight againſt antichriſt; ſo alſo ſome famous Miniſters to incite and encourage them thereunto.

ſeven golden vials, &c.] Each of them one vial full of the liquor of Gods wrath, to be poured on idolaters. Vials are cups wherein men uſed to drink, Pſal.76.8. Jer.25.15. Firſt were the ſeven ſeals, which were tokens of judgements to come on the world, if they repented not. Then the trumpets, thundering out greater troubles. Laſtly, the vials, which come without noiſe, becauſe they come not to warn, but to deſtroy the antichriſtians, as fire and brimſtone was poured down on Sodom and Gomorra, Gen.19. They are golden, in alluſion to the veſſels of the ſanctuary, Exo. 25.29. & 37.16. Jer.52.19. Hereby is ſhewed, that Gods wrath is like gold, pure, and free from the dregs of paſſion; and alſo that God will get himſelf much glory by theſe judgements: For gold is the moſt pure and gliſtering metal.

full of the wrath of God] Not that God is angry with them; but by that which is contained in them, executeth his wrath on his foes: ſee how, ch. 14.8,10. They contained many and great puniſhments in them.

who liveth for ever and ever] Ch.5.14. & 10.6. And therefore can puniſh them, not here only, but alſo for ever in hell.

V. 8. the temple was filled with ſmoke,&c.] Smoke is uſed ſomtimes, to ſet out Gods powerful and terrible preſence; as Exo. 19.18. eſpecially when he cometh in anger, to deſtroy the enemies of his Church, that he may ſhew mercy to his people, in delivering them, Pſa.18.7, 8,14,15,16,17. Iſa 6.4,11. So here, God would ſhew his terrible and powerful preſence in his temple, by manifeſt arguments of his wrath againſt the enemies of his Church, in ſending ſome thence continually to plague the Antichriſtian church, from the time of the Churches reformation, till Antichriſts final deſtruction.

no man was able,&c.] God was ſo angry with the Papiſts, that no man durſt come to intercede for them; but he went on in wrath, till he had rooted that Religion out of the earth.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſ. 1. A Great voice] Signifying the work to be important, and to be done with great care.

out of the temple] Ch. 14. 15. It ſheweth alſo the work to be holy and juſt. It ſeemeth to be Gods voice. See ch. 15.6,7. and the rather, becauſe the voice is ſaid to be heard, but no viſible form of the ſpeaker is ſhewed, Deut.4.12,33.

to the ſeven angels] Signifying the inſtruments ready to execute theſe judgements, as the angels were ready to pour out the vials, and waited only for a ſign.

Go your ways] It is time for you now to pour out thoſe plagues upon the earth which are committed to you. They muſt go out of the Church, into antichriſts dominions, to afflict them.

pour out the vials] To the bottom. Leave nothing in. Execute Gods wrath to the full, as far as each of your commiſſions go.

vials of the wrath] Ch. 15. 7. Theſe vials were for the deſtruction of Popiſh Rome, as the ſeals were for the overthrow of the heathen Romane Empire. There is a great agreement between the trumpets, that weakened the Chriſtian Roman Empire, and theſe vials, that ſhall ruine the Popiſh Church. The evil of the firſt trumpet and vial lighteth on the earth; the ſecond, on the ſea, &c. The one ſheweth, that the Popiſh Church ſhall be deſtroyed, as ſure as the heathen Empire was: the other, that it ſhall be deſtroyed by ſuch like judgements as the heathen Empire was weakned.

wrath of God] Yet God may be the ſpeaker, though he ſpeak of himſelf, in the third perſon; as he doth. Exo.20.7.

upon the earth] Upon the antichriſtian church and ſtate, as appeareth, v. 2. This is like to be the ſenſe here, becauſe ſome of the vials were poured on the ſea, and on the ſun, verſ. 3,8. not all on the earth literally taken.

The firſt vial. V. 2. the firſt went] Gr went forth. They did not all pour out their vials at once, to ſhew, that this deſolation ſhould come by degrees, not all at once. The Angels that ſounded the trumpets, ſtood before God and ſounded, chap. 8. 2,7. theſe go forth to do it: which ſheweth, that theſe are types of thoſe princes that muſt deſtroy antichriſts kingdom by degrees.

poured out his vial] Left nothing in it. This ſheweth the greatneſs of the judgment, and his fidelity, in doing as he was commanded, verſ. 1.

upon the earth] Upon the common people, the Popes footſtool. So it is to be taken here, becauſe the other vials were to be poured on the earth alſo; if it be taken for Antichriſts whole kingdom, as it is, v.1.

noiſom and grievous ſore] Gr. evil and wicked. Evil is put for noiſom, or offenſive to others, 2 Sam. 11. 27. 1 Chron. 21. 7. Wicked, for troubleſom to a mans ſelf, Eccl.1.13. Sore travel: Heb. evil thing. So Eccl.4.8. And on the contrary, good is put for, pleaſing to others, Gen.1.31. to our ſelves, Pſal.4.6,7. & 34. 12. & 106. 5. Now becauſe the place of the body is not noted, it may be ſuppoſed theſe ſores in the type went all over the body, as Jobs did, Job 2. 7. And the like is threatned, Deut.28.27,35. This muſt needs be noiſom to others, and troubleſom to themſelves. Some take it for the rage of the common people, who went to fight againſt the Waldenſes; for they were the Popes marked ſouldiers. Others, for the Neapolitan diſeaſe that came upon his warriours, one thouſand four hundred ninety and four. Others, for the envy of the idolaters againſt the Goſpel, and the preachers and profeſſours of it, when Luther firſt began to preach. It made them like the Egyptians, that not onely could not abide to have their bodies touched, but alſo not to endure the company of others, Exod. 9.10,11.

upon the men] Like boils; that as they afflict within, ſo they appear without, and ſtink when they break: ſo did their envy. Thus were the Papiſts vexed, when the Proteſtant Religion was publikely profeſſed. Men that knew no grounds of Religion, nor knew no cauſe of quarrel againſt them, would bring fagots to burn them; as appeareth in the book of Martyrs.

mark] Chap.13.16.

which worſhipped his image] Chap.13.15.

The ſecond vial. V. 3. upon the ſea] See chap.8.8. Hereby is meant the Popes Juriſdiction which kept many provinces in ſubjection to him, as the ſea doth begirt the land, it became] A greater defection than before. The third part onely was blood, ch.8.8.

as the blood of a dead man] Exod.7.17. As the putrified blood of a dead carcaſe, which is ſo loathſom, that no man can drink it. Or, as if it were made all over red with the blood of many men ſlain.

every living ſoul died in the ſea] Whole provinces and kingdoms caſt off the Popes juriſdiction; becauſe it was ſo corrupt, they could not live any longer in it. So it came to paſs in Luthers time, before his death.

The third vial. V. 4. rivers and fountains of waters] Popiſh Magiſtrates, and Miniſters employed to uphold their church, who came to an ill end; as many did in England and France.

V. 5. angel of the waters] That had power given him to turn the ſea into blood, v. 3. Or, him on whoſe vial poured out, the rivers and fountains were turned into blood, v. 4. Like the Angel of the fire, ch.14.18.

which art, &c.] Ch.1.4. judged] Puniſhed; as Gen.15.14.

V. 6. And thou haſt given them blood to drink] They were adjudged to death, as they had judged others. So the laws are againſt Prieſts in England; and they have for their ill lives been put to death by the ſecular power, in ſome Popiſh countreys.

V. 7. another] Differing from him, ch.9.13. or from him, ch.14.18. or from him that ſpake out of the temple, v. 1. of this chapter. Or, one confirming the words of the Angel, the incenſe at the golden altar, chap.8.34.

Even ſo] So it ought to be.

true and righteous] Ch.15.3. Thou haſt judged incorruptibly, in giving blood for blood; and fulfilled thy promiſe, in revenging the blood of thy ſervants, ch.6.11.

The fourth vial. V. 8. upon the ſun] The Popes temporal power over Kings. Or, the houſe of Auſtria, which ſhineth brighteſt in the Popiſh heaven. They have begun to be eclipſed.

unto him] Or, unto it. To the Angel, or to the ſun. See the like, ch.9.1.

to ſcorch] Much fire and war have been in their territories of late: more may be.

V. 9. ſcorched] Or, burned. They were enraged with rancour and malice, as with a burning fire.

blaſphemed the Name of God] As the beaſt doth, ch.13.6. which hath power over theſe plagues. Either he ſheweth the cauſe why they blaſphemed God, to wit, Becauſe he did inflict theſe plagues on them; or, did not keep them off: Or elſe he ſheweth their madneſs, that made their plagues greater, by reſiſting him that could have removed them, if they had ſubmitted to him, and intreated his help, Iſa.8.21.

to give glory to God] See chap.11.13.

repented not] See chap.9.20,21.

The fifth vial. V. 16. upon the ſeat of the beaſt] On the city of Rome, ch. 13.2. which ſhall then be deſtroyed. And then we ſhal certainly know, which of the vials are paſt, & which to come.

full of darkneſs,&c.] Though his city be deſtroyed, yet not his Kingdom totally: that ſhall be much obſcured, when his throne is gone. The Pope then muſt live ſomewhere elſe, when Rome is deſtroyed, (as once he did at Avignion) before his Kingdom be quite overthrown: and his followers ſhall be in great agony, like thoſe that bite their tongues for grief and anger, ready, at the next encreaſe of pain, to devour or deſtroy themſelves. Or, it may be meant, They ſhall eat their words, and be aſhamed of their railings upon Gods ſaints, though they leave not their idolatry, v.11.

V. 11. blaſphemed the God of heaven] Spake ill of him, becauſe they conceived their plagues came from thence: for they thought no humane power could have deſtroyed Rome.

repented not] See v. 9. ch.9.20.

V. 12. upon the great river Euphrates] Ch.9.14.

The ſixth vial. and the water thereof was dried up] With the heat of the plague; or by the Jews, turned Chriſtians, diverted, that they may come to help ruine the beaſt. Iſa.11.15,16. An alluſion to the taking of old Babylon. Jer.50.38. & 51.32. and drying up the Red-ſea, Exod.14. and Jordan, Joſh. 3. Or, the deſtroying of the Turkiſh Empire, that hindereth their coming, as of Aſſyria, Iſa.8.7. Theſe are not like to come to help deſtroy Rome; for that is to be done under the former vial. See notes on v. 10. But to help deſtroy antichriſt utterly, at the great battel of Armageddon, v. 16. ch. 19. 17, 18. For their converſion is likely to be before that, though after the fall of Rome. See notes on chap.19.1,&c.

kings of the Eaſt] The Jews, who are like to reign in thoſe parts again, Iſa.24.41. Others underſtand it of the Turks, to be brought in by the Popes frogs to help him, v. 14.

V. 13. three unclean Spirits] Divers kindes of incendiaries ſent abroad.

like frogs] Unclean perſons, and making a great noiſe, to draw men to fight for antichriſt, though Rome be down. They ſhould be either the Jeſuites, or ſome ſtirring ſect worſe than the Jeſuites, ariſing after Romes, and before antichriſts fall.

out of the mouth] By the command; as chap. 12.15. Or, ſent to eſtabliſh their doctrine or Religion.

of the dragon] Of the Devil, chap. 13. 13. The Jeſuites ſeem to be ſent by him ; for they keep a cabinet-council at Rome, diſtinct from the Popes.

of the beaſt] The Emperour, ch.13.1. who ſendeth Embaſſadours abroad, to uphold the Popiſh cauſe.

of that falſe prophet] The Pope, ch.13.21. who ſendeth his Legats. See ch.19.20. & 20.10. All theſe ſtir up other Princes to further the catholike cauſe, as they call it. See the like, Gen.14.3.Joſh.9.1,2. & 10.1,2,3.

V. 14. Spirits of devils] Not only unclean, as v. 13. but alſo devilliſh and malicious.

working miracles] Chap.13.13. To perſwade men to fight for Antichriſt, who is now going down the winde.

go forth] Are diligent and travel into all parts,to perſwade princes to uphold the Popiſh cauſe.

kings of the earth] Popiſh Kings. of the great day of God Almighty] Wherein God shall shew his Almighty power, in deſtroying the Popiſh princes, ch.19.17.

V. 15. Behold I come] This verſe should be included in a parentheſis, becauſe the verſe following dependeth not on it, but on the former. It is put in, to comfort Chriſts ſervants againſt theſe great preparations, by his promiſe of his ſpeedy aſſiſtance.

as a thief] Chap.3.3. Matt.24.43. Unexpectedly.

watch] Taketh heed of the plots of theſe frogs.Or,doth expect my help continually.

keepeth his garments] Doth nothing unbeſeeming the true Religion ; for he will get no help from them by diſſembling,but will be expoſed to shame, if he condeſcend to them.

V. 16. He gathereth them] God,v.14. As he let Ahab be ſeduced by the falſe Prophets, to his deſtruction, 1 Kin. 22. ſo he letteth thoſe fooliſh kings hearken to the frogs, to come into the pit of perdition. Or,They gathered : that is, the frogs. Or, the meaning is, they were gathered ; as Luk.12.20.

Armageddon] The place hath this name given it from the future event ; as Num.11.34. Ezek.39.21. Some take it for an alluſion to Baraks victory over Siſera, by the waters of Megiddo, Judg.4.15. & 5.19,20. The word may ſignifie, Devoted to deſtruction : or, Deſtroyed by craft : that is, ſubtilly brought thither,to be ſuddenly deſtroyed.

The ſeventh vial.

V. 17. the ſeventh angel] Under the fifth vial, was the deſtruction of the city of Rome : under the ſixth, the overthrow of the Kings that aſſiſt the Pope in the great battel. Under this ſeventh, the remainder of the Papiſts are deſtroyed.

into the air] Where Satans throne is,Eph.2.2.who upheld the beaſt and falſe Prophet all this while,and uſed his utmoſt endeavour to uphold them in the laſt great battel.

a great voice] In the thunder, v.18. See John 12.28,29.

from the throne] From him that ſitteth on the throne ; that is, God the Father, ch.1.4. & 4.2.

It is done] It is certain, as if it were done, Hoſ.10.7. ch. 21. 6. Babylon is undone, v. 19. Or, It was. Or, It is done. That is,it once had a glorious being,now it hath none at all.

V.18. voices and thunders,&c.] See ch.4.5. & 8.5. & 11.13.15.As if heaven and earth were troubled, or conſpired together, to deſtroy Antichriſt. Or, it may ſignifie a deſtruction, not by humane help,but from heaven, as it ſeemeth, v. 21.

ſuch as was not,&c.] See Dan.12.1.

V. 19. the great city]The place where the remainder of the Senate and People of Rome abide : for it was deſtroyed under the fifth vial.

divided] Gr. made. Or, became.

into three parts] Pulled all to pieces,as a city torn into three pieces by an earthquake.

cities of the nations] Other Popiſh cities were deſtroyed. See chap. 11.2. Or, of Turks and Gentiles : for all Chriſts enemies are to be depoſed from publike authority.

came in remembrance before God] He shewed, by deſtroying her utterly,that he remembred all her wickedneſs. So good works are remembred, when rewarded, Act.10.4,31.

cup of the wine,&c.] See ch.14.10. Jer.25.15,16.

of the fierceneſs of his wrath] This sheweth the greatneſs of Gods anger, puniſhing them for their ſins which they were ſo many years in committing.

V. 20. every Iland] Or, place beyond the ſea ; as Pſal. 72. 10. Or, every land or countrey ; as Iſa.20.6. & 41.1. Jer.47.4. See chap. 6. 14. There, they were out of place ; here, no more found, as if they had been removed or ſwallowed up by the earthquake. There ſhould be no more footing for Popery in any remote place, or defenced cities. All of them should be either converted or confounded.

V. 21. upon men] The judgment on the places was shewed before : now followeth the judgment on the men that eſcaped. God will deſtroy them ſtrangely.

a great hail] Great hailſtones (as Joſh. 10. 11.) ſignifying great judgements.

weight of a talent]See Ezr.8.26.Very great hailſtones big enough, not to kill men onely, but alſo to daſh them to pieces.

blaſphemed God] They were ſo obſtinate in their idolatry that they ſtood out againſt all Gods judgments, and blaſphemed God to the very laſt hour, v. 9.

CHAP. XVII.

V.1. ONE of the ſeven angels] It was fit that one of the executioners of Gods wrath on Babylon ſhould inform John what ſhe was, ch.16.1. Or, the firſt of the ſeven angels ; as ch.6.1.

talked with me] See ch.1.12. & 4.1.

I will ſhew unto thee] As now the whore is ſhewed to John, and the manner of her deſtruction ; ſo she muſt be manifeſted to be a whore, to Gods Miniſters and people, eſpecially to ſuch as shall be employed in deſtroying her;for that is a great encouragement to fight againſt her.

the judgement] The utter deſtruction of Rome. But it is called judgement,that men may know it came not by chance,nor undeſervedly,nor by mans power principally ; but by a juſt ſentence of Almighty God upon her for her ſins, and that men are ſet on work by an higher power, to pull her down, and bring her lowe.

great whore] She was once the faithful ſpouſe of Chriſt ; but now is turned harlot,Iſa.1.21. She is called a great whore, becauſe of the multitude of her ſpiritual fornications, Iſa.23.15,17. Nah.3.4. Or, the damnation (as Matt.23.14.) of the great whore, by an Hebraiſm, for, the great damnable whore. As Matt.24.15. abomination of deſolation, for, abominable deſolation.

ſitteth upon many waters] Situated on the great river Tiber, as old Babylon on Euphrates, Jer.51.13. See what is meant by waters ſpiritually, v. 15.

V. 2. kings of the earth] Many great princes have been ſeduced to idolatry by her, and worſhipped her idols ; and ſhe diſpenſeth with adulteries and inceſts in them, to keep them at her beck. Before,the nations only are mentioned, ch.14.8. here, the Kings alſo, to shew, that this Romiſh idolatry should be countenanced by authority in many nations.

inhabiters of the earth] Like a common ſtrumpet, she proſtituteth her ſelf to baſe people alſo, for mony, that she may put off her pardons and indulgences.

drunk with the wine] Allured to idolatry by her,with hope of gain, honour, pleaſure, ſo that they doted on it, and were mad againſt all that oppoſed them in that courſe ; as wicked men do, who are entiſed to whoredom by the flatteries of a ſtrumpet, Prov.7.14. See verſ. 4. ch.14.8. Jer.51.7.

V. 3. in the Spirit] In a trance,his body abiding where it was, chap. 4. 2.

into the wilderneſs] A fit place to be private,that he might the better view ſo great a myſtery. Or, to shew,that this great whore was not yet viſible in the world. Or, that he might view the woman the better,being ſeparated from others,and in an open waſte,where nothing might hinder the ſight of her. Or, to intimate, that Rome should be brought into a deſolate ſtate in the end ; as ch.18.21,&c. Iſa.13.19, 20,21,22. Jer.50.12.

a woman] Popiſh Rome, v. 18.

a ſcarlet-coloured beaſt] The Roman,or French,or Germane Emperour, ſet up by the Pope. Or, as ſome, the Pope, who upholdeth Popiſh Rome. And the beaſt is ſaid to be ſcarlet-coloured ; firſt,to shew the pride of theſe Romiſh idolaters, who would go like Kings, and great commanders,and rich perſonages, Nah.2.3. 2 Sam.1.24.Matt. 27.28,29,31. Secondly,to shew their cruelty,that were as it were dyed with the blood of Gods Saints, verſ.6. ch.18.24.

full of names of blaſphemy] Uſurping names that belong to God and Chriſt only, 2 Theſſ.2.4. and taking Gods power, or a greater, unto themſelves ; as the Pope and his adherents do at Rome,by diſpenſing with ſins and oathes. Now their blaſphemies are legible, to be ſeen with the eye, as ſpots on a beaſt; and they are all over beſpotted with them.

ſeven heads] See v.9,10,12.

V. 4. in purple and ſcarlet colour] So the Pope and Cardinals are attired at Rome. Thus like a ſtrumpet they deck themſelves, to allure lovers. And it may alſo ſet out their pride, in their kingly and triumphant attire, ch.18.7. Dan.5.29. and their luxury, whereof Rome is full.

decked] Gr. gilded.

with gold, &c.] It may ſet out the ſtately worſhip of the Papiſts, their coſtly images,altars,copes,pals, or ſtately palaces.

cup of gold] The wine was mentioned, ch.14.8. Now the cup is ſet out,and it is a golden one,Jer.51.7. to allure men to drink of it,or to shew,that golden means are uſed by the Popes,to draw men to idolatry. Or, that Rome beareth the title of the catholike Church ; but giveth the poiſoned cup of idolatry to others to drink,ch.14.8.

in her hand] Signifying,that Rome ſendeth abroad Legats,to allure all men, eſpecially great ones,to her ſuperſtition.

full of abominations]More abominable,for idolatry and wantonnes, than any other place. Such cups of entiſing wine,whores were wont to give to their lovers, to allure them to folly, v. 2. Or, alluding to ſuch enchanted potions, as by lewd perſons are given to work a ſtrong and ſtrange inclination of amorous affections towards them in others.

V. 5. upon her forehead a name] As common ſtrumpets anciently had their names written over their cells in the ſtews, and ſome on their foreheads ; that all might plainly ſee, that she is ſuch as she is hereafter deſcribed.

written] By Gods appointment it was made known; for ſhe would never take ſuch a title to her ſelf; yet ſhe did ſo openly carry her ſelf, that men might ſee her faults in her forehead, Iſa.3.9. Jer.3.3.

Myſtery] Deceiving others, under the colour of divine myſteries, (whereas heathen Rome openly profeſſed idolatry) their whole religion being a myſtery of iniquity or wickedneſs, 2 Theſſ. 2. 7. as the Goſpel of Chriſt is called, The myſtery of piety, or godlineſs, Rom. 16.25. 1 Tim.3.16.

Babylon the great] An alluſion to old Babylon, called Great Babylon, Dan.4 30. whom Rome imitateth, in oppreſſing Gods Church, and challenging an univerſal Empire.

the mother of harlots] Or, fornications. A teacher and nouriſher of bodily and ſpiritual whoredoms, Ezek 16. Hoſ. firſt and ſecond Chapters. So that ſhe not only was idolatrous her ſelf, but brought forth, and brought up, children ſuitable to her ſelf.

V. 6. drunken with the blood, &c.] Not only outwardly ſprinkled with it, but inwardly ſurfeted; ſuch abundance of Martyrs did ſhe kill, and commanded every where to be killed, ch.16.6. & 18.24. She made others drink with her idolatry, v.2. and thoſe againſt whom ſhe could not prevail, ſhe made her ſelf drunk with their blood.

of the ſaints, &c.] This encreaſeth her ſin. It was a great tranſgreſſion to kill men; greater, to kill holy men; greateſt of all, to kill them for bearing witneſs to Chriſt.

I wondred, &c.] John wondred not before, at the ſight of the two beaſts, ch.13. But now he admireth at the ſight of the woman on the beaſt, whom he had not ſeen before. And he wondred indeed, that God would ſuffer ſo much blood of his ſervants to be ſhed by her. But he did not ſo admire at her great power, as to follow her. This wicked men do, verſ.8. ch.13.3,4.

V. 7. And the angel ſaid unto me] That angel that ſhewed me this repreſentation, v. 1, &c. now fulfilleth his word, and telleth me the meaning of it.

Why doſt thou marvel?] Johns admiration is the ground of the future Revelation.

I will tell thee] As John could not tell the meaning of this type, unleſs the Angel had revealed it: ſo we could never have known Rome to be Babylon, unleſs God had made it known to us, v.9.

myſtery] See v. 5.

that carrieth her] The Emperours uphold Rome, and Rome upholdeth the Pope.

V. 8. that thou ſaweſt, &c.] This beaſt appeared to John before in another ſhape, not as an upholder of Popiſh Rome.

out of the bottomleſs pit, &c.] Shall be ſet up by Satan to that end, and be deſtroyed with him, ch.11.7.

ſhall wonder] See notes on v. 6.

whoſe names are not written, &c.] ch.13.8. Though their impoſtures be very ſubtil, yet they cannot deceive Gods elect, Matt.24.24.

and yet is] Other copies read it, and yet ſhall be] This beaſt ſome take to be the Pope; others, the Emperour: which appeared to John in another form before, ch.13. but now was vaniſhed, in regard of that form, and appeared as one that ſhould hereafter uphold Popiſh Rome. Others ſay, Which was in reſemblance of power, but ſhould not be for a time in that greatneſs; yet ſhould afterwards get a renewed power, chap.13.4.

V. 9. minde which hath wiſdom] Here a wiſe heart may exerciſe it ſelf, to finde out this myſtery, chap.13.18.

ſeven mountains] Rome was built on ſeven hills, yet to be ſeen there, though ſome of them now be without the walls of the city.

V. 10. There are] Or, They are.

ſeven kings] The laſting heads, were hills; the fleeting ones, are kings, that is, ſeveral ſorts of governments.

five are fallen] Kings, conſuls, tribunes, decemvirs, dictatours.

one is] Romane Emperors.

the other is not yet come] Popes: or, the Gothiſh kingdom of Italy; for it laſted but a while, in compariſon of the Emperours.

a ſhort ſpace] It is literally true of the Gothiſh kingdom: but if it be meant of the Pope, it intimateth, that the Popes power ſhall not abide for ever. It may ſeem long to thoſe that ſuffer under it; but it is ſhort, in Gods ſight, 2 Pet.3.8. and in reſpect of the eternal happineſs of Gods ſaints, Rom.8.18. 2 Cor.4.16,17,18. A longer time is ſaid to be ſhort, ch.22.6,7,10,12,20.

V. 11. the beaſt] By a ſynecdoche. He meaneth, one head of that beaſt which he ſaw. Or, he is not the eighth beaſt, nor head; for there were not ſo many in all: but the eighth King; for with that word it agreeth in the Greek, and not with either of the other. He ſhould be ſo altered, that he ſhould ſeem rather to be a new beaſt, than an head of the old one, Dan.7.7.

is one of the ſeven] There were Emperours before; and after that they were depreſſed by the Goths, the weſtern Emperour was ſet up by the Pope, c.13.13. Or, he may be one of the ſeven, if it be underſtood of the Pope; becauſe he attained to ſuch power afterwards, as the Emperours formerly had.

and goeth into perdition] Verſ.8.

V. 12. The ten horns] Hereby it appeareth, that this is the firſt beaſt, ch.13.1. for the ſecond had but two horns, ch.13.11. The ſecond beaſt, the Pope upheld; the firſt, the Emperour or Empire; and the firſt upheld the woman, the city of Rome, v.18.

ten kings] The Kingdoms of Europe rent from the Roman Empire. See the like, Dan. 7.24. In Johns time, they had no kingdoms, but were ſubject to the Roman Empire.

as kings] For they had crowns, ch.13.1. whereas the ten horns of the Dragon, ch.12.3. had no crowns: they were but lieutenants to the Roman Empire. The crowns were then on the ſeven heads, not on the ten horns, as now.

one hour] They ſhall reign a ſmall time with the Pope, v.10. Mat. 20.12. & 26.40. Or, at one hour, ch.3.3. Joh.4.52. Act.3.30. For the Pope ſoon laboured to divide the Kingdoms of Chriſtendom, to uphold himſelf. And now there be divers Kings, notwithſtanding the Emperours remaining.

V. 13. one minde, &c.] They ſhall labour with one conſent, to uphold the Pope, or the Roman Empire. Before, nations ſubmitted; now, Kings. See on verſ. 2.

power and ſtrength] Or, force and authority. They ſhall uſe all their perſonal and royal authority over their people, to uphold the beaſt, ch.13.2.

V. 14. Theſe] Some of theſe ſhall take part with Antichriſt till the end, even after the fall of Rome, till they be deſtroyed at Armageddon, ch.16.14. & 18.9. & 19.18. So, the theeves mocked Chriſt, Matt.27.44. that is, One of them, Luk.23.39. Here the inſtruments of the Popes war are ſet down by a ſimilitude taken from beaſts which fight with their horns, Zech.1.18,19,21.

with the Lamb] Ch.5.6. Before, the beaſt made war with the witneſſes, Ch.11.7. and with all the Saints, ch.13.7. but now, with Chriſt himſelf. This ſheweth the cauſe of his quarrel againſt them; to wit, that they belong to Chriſt; and the growth and height of his malice againſt Chriſt.

for he is Lord of lords, &c.] Ch.19.16. 1 Tim. 1. 16. God having given him ſupreme power over all, it is fit that all ſhould be willingly ſubject to him, or ſubdued under him, Pſal.110.1,2,3. Matt.28.18, 19,20. 1 Cor.15.25.

called and choſen] Of high account with God, though the world call them hereticks. Or, ſuch as are pick'd out by Chriſt himſelf, Jer.49.19. & 50.44. and called to deſtroy antichriſt, and will faithfully do it.

V. 15. The waters, &c.] Here he ſetteth out the large territories of the beaſt, conſiſting of many people of ſundry languages, by the ſimilitude of many waters. So Iſa. 8. 7, 8. Jer. 47. 2. for the people are moveable and inconſtant, like water. And Antichriſts kingdom is built on a fleeting foundation, like an houſe on the water.

which thou ſaweſt] The woman to ſit on, v. 1.

peoples and multitudes] See ch. 5.9. & 7.9. & 10. 11. & 11. 19. & 13. 7. & 14. 6.

V. 16. Theſe ſhall hate the whore] Or, are theſe kings which ſhall hate the whore. For the gender is changed in the Greek, from horns to men. That is, ſome of theſe: for others will take part with Antichriſt to the end. See notes on v. 14. They ſhall, like raging enemies, out of hatred conſpire againſt her, and lay waſte her dwelling, as it were ſtrip her of her ſtate and Pomp, uſe her moſt deſpightfully, and utterly deſtroy her.

make her deſolate] By leaving her communion.

naked] They ſhall take away her garments, conſiſting of purple, and ſcarlet, and gold, and precious ſtones, and pearls, v. 4. and convert them to their own uſe. So they ſhall make her poor and naked. Or, they ſhall forbid their ſubjects to go thither to buy pardons. So whores are impoveriſhed, when their lovers forſake them.

eat her fleſh] Spoil her, as a Lion feeding on his prey. Or, ſhall feed themſelves on her ſpoils, which were as dear to her as her fleſh, Matt. 5.29,30. Or, members, Col.3.5. This ſheweth their great rage againſt her; Pſa. 27. 2. Job 31. 31. but it appeareth more in the clauſe following, in that they were not content with eating her fleſh, Job 19. 22. but burnt the remainders of her.

burn her with fire] Deſtroy her utterly, not leaving a bone of her. They ſhall burn the whole city, when they have rifled it, as the Babylonians did Jeruſalem, Jer.38.23. & 52.13. & 37.10. and as harlots and ſtrumpets ſometimes were, Gen.38.24. Lev.21.9. Eze.23.45,47.

V. 17. For God hath put into their hearts] A reaſon is here given of the altering of their affections toward the beaſt now, and their enclining ſo ſtrongly to it before: to wit, Gods will, who, as now in mercy he moved them to deſtroy the beaſt; ſo before, for their own ſins, and cowardlineſs, v.13,14. and the ſins of their ſubjects, in juſtice for a time gave them over to ſubject themſelves to the beaſt. So Pharoah is ſaid to harden his own heart, Exod.8.15. and God is ſaid to do it, Exod.7.13.

to fulfil his will] To deſtroy the city of Rome.

and to agree, &c.] Or, to do with one conſent. Or, to act that one ſentence, v. 13. that is, to ſubmit themſelves to the Popes tyranny no longer than for a time ſet by God. So the Apoſtle thanketh God, Rom.6.17. that they were no longer ſervants of ſin, not for that they were ſo for a time. Or, God, for a juſt puniſhment of their ſins, made them ſubject to Rome, as he did the nations to old Babylon, Jer.27.6. For it was not a ſin in it ſelf, to ſubmit to the Roman Empire, though by the Popes this power were afterwards abuſed to perſecution. No threats or allurements could have made them ſo ſervile to Popiſh Rome, if God in juſtice had not given them over to that ſlavery: nor none have raiſed up their ſpirits again to deſtroy Rome, if God had not done it, and ſo made her friends her foes. Thus whoremongers uſe to deal with ſtrumpets, when they ſee what hurt they have got by them, Ezek. 16.37,39. Or, it may be read, And ſuffered them to agree. See the like addition of a fit word, 1 Tim. 4.3.

until the words of God ſhall be fulfilled] Till the city of Rome ſhall have executed all thoſe cruelties, and enjoyed her dominion ſo long, as God hath appointed or foretold. We muſt not then accuſe God of ſlackneſs, if Rome be not yet down; but with patience expect Gods time, knowing, that as ſurely as he hath put into the hearts of theſe kings to ſerve that Empire; ſo ſurely he will, at his time determined, put it into their hearts to deſtroy that city.

V. 18. And the woman] Before, he had expounded the beaſt; now, he telleth what the whoriſh woman is that ſate upon the beaſt.

the great city] Rome, which then had the Empire. Before, he concealed the full deſcription of it: now, the time of deſtruction drawing near, he doth as good as name her. We may hope then her end is not far off, now ſhe is all over Europe proclaimed to be the whore of Babylon.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ. 1. A*Fter theſe things*] The holy Ghoſt having ſpoken of the deſtruction of the ſeat of the beaſt under the fifth vial, ch. 16.10. ſheweth what that ſeat is, ch. 17.18. the city of Rome: now he goeth on to the overthrow of it. So that it ſeemeth we are now under the fourth vial, and the fifth is not yet poured out, becauſe Rome is not yet deſtroyed.

another angel] Differing from him before, ch. 17.1. Though God had given ſundry warnings of the fall of Rome before, ch. 14. 8,9. & 16.10. yet he ſheweth his long ſuffering, and willingneſs to have men forſake her, that they may not periſh, by ſending three Angels more, to ſignifie that her deſtruction draweth nigh: one here, foretelling her fall once more; another, verſ. 4. calling men out of her, as out of an houſe on fire, leſt they be deſtroyed with her; as Numb. 16.26. a third, verſ. 12. ſhewing her utter deſolation in expreſs words, confirmed by a ſigne.

from heaven] Or, out of heaven. Sent with a commiſſion from God, to foretel the fall of Rome now at hand. It ſheweth, then, that this was no dream of his own, but Gods certain truth: and that this great judgement ſhould not come by accident; but by the will and providence of God. It may ſignifie ſome great man ſuddenly raiſed by God, and unexpectedly (as Pſal. 26.6. & 57.3. & 102.19.) to deſtroy Rome. Things that come out of the earth, muſt have time to grow: things from heaven come ſuddenly.

great power] Furniſhed with power fit for ſuch a ſervice. So that none could reſiſt him; but Rome muſt fall by his means. Others foretold the fall of it before; but this cometh to execute it.

the earth was lightned with his glory] That is, with his brightneſs, in the viſion. So glory is uſed, Exod. 40.34. Numb. 14.10. 2 Cor. 3.7. The thing ſignified may be, that, even earthly men, and Papiſts, ſhall admire at the piety of him whom God ſhall ſet up to deſtroy that city; or at his majeſtical power, made known by his victories.

V. 2. mightily with a ſtrong voice] That all men might hear this tidings of the fall of Rome: for ſhe was ſo ſetled, that many beleeved ſhe could not be overthrown. Or, to ſhew the greatneſs of her fall, and of Gods anger againſt her.

Babylon the great is fallen] Chap. 14.8. Iſa. 21.9. Jer. 51.8.

is fallen] It is doubled, to ſhew the greatneſs, neerneſs, or certainty of the fall.

habitation of devils] It was full of men, but now it is full of devils. Either becauſe men eſteem ſolitary places haunted with ghoſts, or becauſe the foul ſpirits do haunt ſuch places for their pleaſure, Iſa. 34.11. Jer. 51.37. Matt. 12.43. Mark 5.3. Or, are confined thither by God, as to an hold or priſon; or keep there, to terrifie men that paſs by ſuch places.

a cage of every unclean and hateful bird] Iſa. 13.21. Of ſuch birds as were forbidden in the law, and hated by men, becauſe they are not good for food or ſong, but feed on other birds, and make hideous and diſmal noiſes. See a patern of ſuch deſolation, in the ruines of monaſteries: they once held unclean men; now nothing, except perhaps unclean ſpirits and birds.

V. 3. all nations have drunk] Rome is compared to a famous ſtrumpet, who permitteth ordinary people to drink of her cup, kings and great ones to have to do with her, merchants to gain by her. Before, ch. 14.8. it was ſaid, She made them drink: now the phraſe is altered, They have drunk: to ſhew, that ſome might come in of their own accord, as others did by her perſwaſion or compulſion. Both theſe ways, men come to taverns and ſtews.

of the wine, &c.] See Chap. 14.8.

kings] Chap. 17.2.

merchants of the earth] Either worldly merchants, that ſold her delicate things for her luſt; or ſpiritual ones; as friers, monks, pardon-ſellers, and ſuch like, 2 Pet. 2.3.

abundance] Or, power.

delicacies] Money, which they had of her for delicate things to ſerve her luſts.

V. 4. and her voice] A voice, without naming the authour, bringeth ſome great matter worthy of attention, Iſa. 40.6. When Rome is to be deſtroyed, God will finde a means to call out his elect from thence, as he did Lot out of Sodom.

Come out of her] Jer. 51.6,45. & 50.8. Iſa. 52.11. God is careful of his, that they may eſcape Babylons ſins and puniſhment; which they would not do, unleſs they come out before the burning of the city: for the people will ſtill ſollicite them to idolatry; and the ſword or fire cannot diſtinguiſh between friends and enemies.

my people] This then was Gods voice, or ſome Angels repreſenting God.

V. 5. reached unto heaven] Gr. followed. They were as it were one laid upon another, to make a mount to reach up to heaven, and cry for vengeance, Gen. 18.20,21. & 19.13. Ezra 9.6. Jon. 1.2. Jerem. 51.9. The leaſt ſins reach to heaven. God knoweth them all: but the phraſe is commonly uſed of great ſins, that will pull down ſudden judgements. God is compared to a patient man, who paſſeth by many ſmaller faults in his ſervants, without taking notice, as not being willing to puniſh them; which he ſhould do, if he took notice of them: yet when ſome great fault is committed, then he calleth his ſervant to account for it, and puniſheth him.

remembred her iniquities] He ſeemed to forget her ſins before, while he let her proſper; but now he ſheweth that he remembreth them, by puniſhing her for them, chap. 16.19.

V. 6. Reward her] Jer. 50.15,29. Some take it as ſpoken to all thoſe that come to deſtroy Rome. Others, of thoſe which came newly out upon his laſt ſummons, verſ. 4. whoſe ſpirits were moſt likely to be ſet upon revenge, by the harſh impreſſions of the ſins they lately ſaw there, and wrongs they newly received.

double unto her double] Not the double of her deſerts, but of thoſe miſeries ſhe hath brought on you before. And that is juſt, both becauſe God forbiddeth them to do it, and becauſe ſhe did wrongfully torture innocents; but they juſtly puniſh the whore.

in the cup] Not of her fornication, but of puniſhment.

V. 7. how much] Gr. in how many things. This ſheweth, that ſhe was very high before, and muſt be brought very low, now.

glorified her ſelf] Set up her ſelf above others, and againſt God, Jer. 48.26,42. Lam. 1.9.

ſo much torment] Her puniſhment muſt be anſwerable to her pride and luxury. This is ſpoken of worldly puniſhments at the fall of Rome; for none can be ſo high on earth, as they are brought low in hell.

ſhe ſaith in her heart] She thinketh ſo, Pſal. 14.1. She durſt not ſay ſo, leſt ſhe ſhould be eſteemed proud, or be envied by others. Thus her pride foretelleth her fall, Prov. 16.16.

I ſit a queen] Iſa. 47.7,8. I have a great command.

no widow] I am mighty, and full of people, and live happily. Cha. 12.11. is the like phraſe: Loved not their lives, that is, made no account of them. Cities deprived of their power and people, are accounted widows, Lam. 1.1.

ſee no ſorrow] Feel none in my ſelf.

V. 8. in one day] In a ſhort time, called one hour, verſ. 10,17,19. Not that one day would end the buſineſs; but her enemies ſhould not give over the ſiege, till they had taken it. Or, in one day; that is, ſuddenly, againſt her expectation, Iſa. 47.9,11.

death, and mourning, and famine, &c.] In the ſiege of Rome, many ſhall be ſlain, and their friends that live, ſhall mourn for them; and they in the city ſhall ſuffer famine; and when it is taken, it ſhall be burnt down to the ground, chap. 17.16.

for ſtrong is the Lord, &c.] Leſt any man ſhould think the city too ſtrong to be deſtroyed ſo quickly, he telleth of Gods power, who undertaketh the work, Jer. 50.34.

V. 9. kings of the earth] Like adulterers that have loſt their pleaſures; ſo theſe Kings ſhall make womanly lamentations for loſs of their images and ſuperſtitions. This muſt be underſtood of ſuch Kings as ſhall ſtand to the Pope, after Rome is down. See notes on ch. 16.14. & 17.16.

who have committed fornication] No good men bewail her. Such only do it as have been naught with her, cha. 17.2.

ſhall bewail her] Ezek. 26.17.

when they ſhall ſee the ſmoke of her burning] Chap. 14.11. and 19.3. Gen. 19.28. Either it muſt be taken literally of ſuch Kings as came to aſſiſt her, and fled away when they ſaw the city on fire: or figuratively, when they underſtood of her deſtruction.

V. 10. ſtanding afar off] Though they loved her, and could have wiſhed her proſperity to continue; yet they durſt not come neer to help her, leſt they ſhould be deſtroyed with her, by them that beſieged her, who would take ſuch as came, for friends to the whore, and deſtroy them, as Jehu did Ahazias brethren, 2 Kin. 10.13,14. Or, They were afraid of being burned, as they were that caſt the three Jews into the furnace, Dan. 3.22. the flame was ſo great. Thus the Iſraelites fled, when the earth ſwallowed Dathan and Abiram, Num. 16.34.

that great city] Or, O great city!

judgement] See chap. 17.2.

V. 11. The merchants] Theſe weep not for love, as the Kings did; but for loſs of their gain, which they got by ſelling her dainty things, to ſatisfie the luſt of her prelats. Or, fine things for their idolatrous worſhip; as, for altars, images, veſtments. It may be meant ſpiritually, of thoſe that made gain of her ſpiritual merchandiſe.

mourn over her] As a father over a dead child.

for no man buyeth their merchandiſe any more] Ezek.27.27.For there is no wonted trading there ; all traffick,both ſpiritual and temporal, being there ceaſed.

V. 12. gold, &c.] Things for fine apparel , and ſtately houſhold-ſtuff.

all thyine-wood] Or, ſweet. Some kinde of cedar : or , all kinds of ſweet-wood,as all manner of veſſels. Or, this might be for uſe about buildings.

V. 13. and cinnamon,&c.] For pleaſing ſmell.

and wine,&c.] For dainty fare.

horſes and chariots,&c.] For princely port.

ſlaves]Gr.bodies. For ſervice. Servants are like bodies,acted by others : free-men,like ſouls,that guide themſelves,and theirs.

ſouls of men] Perſons of men, Ezek. 27. 13. Gen. 12. 5. & 46. 25. Men,though not ſlaves,yet uſed for ſeveral employments. Or,ſouls of men literally taken, of which they made ſpiritual merchandiſe.

V. 14. And the fruits that thy ſoul, &c.] Gr. the autumn , or autumn fruit of the deſire of thy ſoul. That is, deſired fruit : as , In fire of a flame ; that is, Flaming fire, 2 Theſſ. 1. 8. This verſe ſhould be in a parentheſis. As if thoſe merchants ſhould like mourners ſpeak to periſhing Babylon. Or it may be the ſpeech of the Angel, the revealer; as verſ. 14. or John the publiſher , objecting gluttony to Babylon. autumn fruits are moſt dainty and pleaſant to the taſte , and goodly to the eyes, like the fruits of paradiſe, Gen.3.6. Of ſuch, Rome hath ſtore.

dainty and goodly] Gr.fat and ſhining.

no more at all] They are not onely loſt for the preſent,but for ever. There is no hope of recovering them.

V. 15. The merchants of theſe things] Or, the merchants , I ſay, of theſe things : Meaning thoſe ſpoken of, verſ. 11. He had before ſet down the cauſes of their mourning ; now he ſetteth down the manner of it.

ſtand afar off] See verſ. 10.

V. 16. that great city] See verſ.10. That uttered much merchandiſe.

in fine linnen, &c.] This is ſuitable to the perſons mourning. The Kings that are mighty,mourn, becauſe the power of the city is gone,v. 10. The merchants mourn,becauſe the wealth of it is gone.

decked with gold] Gr. golded with gold, ch.17.4. Not only wearing gold ; but as it were covered with it from top to toe.

V. 17. in one hour] Like a whirlwind. See verſ. 10.

every ſhip-maſter,&c.] Ch. 8.9. All that traded with her by ſea, Ezek.27.29, &c. Or,ſuch as were then bringing wares to her by ſea, and ſaw the ſmoke of the burning of Rome afar off, as Abraham did, when Sodom was deſtroyed, Gen.19.28.

as trade by Sea] Pſal.107.23. Or it may be ſpiritually underſtood of inferiour officers, who carried their pardons to ſell.

ſtood afar off] See verſ.10.

V. 18. And cryed] Jer.50.46. Ezek.37.32.

the ſmoke] Verſ. 9. Iſa. 34. 10. Her deſtruction will ſuddenly be known,both by ſea and land.

What city is like unto this great city ?] What city once ſo ſtrong and populous ? See the like, Ch.13.4. Or, who would ever have thought this city ſhould have been thus laid deſolate.

V. 19. And they] Or, Yea,they ; as Matth.26.50.

caſt duſt,&c.]It was the manner of mourners.See Joſh.7.6. 1 Sam. 4.12. Job 2.12. Ezek.27.30. Theſe mourned moſt,becauſe they were leaſt able to ſubſiſt, and therefore likely to periſh ſooner by want of trading,than the merchants that employed them. They cryed, in the former verſe : here weeping and wailing is added, to ſhew the greatneſs of their ſorrow, v. 9, 15.

that great city, &c.] See verſ.10,16.

all that had ſhips] Not merchants alone, but ſhip-maſters : inferiour officers, as well as great ones.

in one hour] Verſ.8,10,17.

V. 20. thou heaven] O Church. See chap.11.19. & 19. 1, 6. Pſal. 58. 11.

apoſtles and prophets] Miniſters,their ſucceſſours. God accounteth theſe like thoſe eminent perſons. A great comfort to them.

avenged you]Gr.judged your judgment; That is,conſidered the wrong done to you,&puniſhed her for it, ch.17.1.Pſa.9.4.Mic.7.9.He hath avenged the death of your predeceſſours : or the wrongs done to you by her, Jer.51.35,36. Or, it may be an apoſtrophe to thoſe in heaven,ſhewing what cauſe of joy they had, if they were here to ſee the fall of Rome.

V.21. a mighty angel] An alluſion to Jer.51.63.Shewing, by a ſure token,that the fall of Rome ſhould be greater than the fall of Babylon. There, a weak man ; here, a mighty Angel : there, taketh an ordinary ſtone ; here, a great milſtone : there,caſteth it into Euphrates; here,into the ſea:there,Babylon ſhal ſink ;here, it ſhal be thrown down with violence : there,it ſhall not riſe; here,it ſhall be found no more at all,v.14.c.12.8.Iſa.13.20.Jer.51.63. A great milſtone will fall apace with its own weight ; faſter,if it be caſt down ; faſteſt of all , if by a ſtrong hand : neither can it then riſe any more, or be raiſed out of the bottom of the ſea. This ſheweth the violent and everlaſting deſtruction of Rome

V. 22. of harpers] Jer.7.34. & 25. 10, 11. All things that ſerved for pleaſure, ſhall ceaſe.

in thee] The Angel now turneth his ſpeech to Babylon.Some have told her face to face of her deſtruction.

no craftſman] All things tending to profit,ſhall be gone.

ſound of a milſtone] Gr.voice.In the cities they uſed handmils,which made a great noiſe.All things neceſſary ſhall be taken away.Wel may the mills ceaſe,when none ſhall live there,for whom corn ſhould be grinded.The things abuſed ſhal be al taken away,Joel 1 5.Jer.25.10.

V.23.light of a candle]The pooreſt men have candles in the night, that want many other comforts : but Rome ſhall have none , after this. Or,they ſhall not uſe candles in wedding and feſtival nights any more, Matt.25.6 7.

voice of a bridegroom] There ſhall be no more marriage there to people the city any more. Or,no merry meetings. Theſe things argue an utter deſolation, Jer.7.34. & 16.9.

thy merchants] Nah.3.16. Iſa.23.8. Thou haſt made uſe of Kings for thy profit. Or,thy Cardinals were Kings fellows.

by thy ſorceries] Enchanted cups, ch. 14.8. or, by Satans help : for ſome Popes have been ſorcerers.

deceived] Drawn to Idolatry.

V. 24. in her was found the blood] Though God defer , yet he will keep count at length, and find the blood of his ſervants in Rome , as if it ſtuck to the hands or clothes of the murderers, Iſa. 63. 3. Jer. 2. 34.

of Prophets] Faithful teachers ſlain, verſ. 20.

of Saints] Of private Chriſtians put to death for Religion.

of all that were ſlain] To wit, for Religion,as being ſlain by her authority,or incitation of the Princes to do it. Or, as Matt.23.32,35.becauſe ſhe ſucceedeth the former perſecutours, and finiſheth the work, and ſo is counted guilty of all the blood ſhed before alſo.

CHAP. XIX.

V.1. After theſe things]After the fall of Rome.He proceedeth to the things done under the ſixth vial ; for the beginning of this Chapter anſwereth to ch.16.12.The middle of it, to ch.16.13,&c.

a great voice] To ſhew their affection in themſelves, and deſire to ſtir up others to praiſe God for it.

of much people in heaven] The Saints of God in the Church,upon the firſt news of Romes fall, bleſs God for it. They all in general joy at this news. See the like, ch.11.15.

Allelujah] Praiſe ye the Lord, Pſal. 111. & 112. & 113. This is the firſt time that it is uſed in the New Teſtament ; and it is found four times here. It ſeemeth the Chriſtian Gentiles,after the fall of Rome, ſhall ſollicite the Jews to come in to Chriſt,and to joyn with them in praiſing him for Romes fall.

Salvation &c.] All the praiſe of this great work belongeth to God, ch.5 3. & 7.10. 1 Tim.1.17. Glory is a great opinion of him : honour is the means whereby we expreſs it,inwardly or outwardly.

unto the Lord] Is unto him. He hath given us cauſe to honour him, for deſtroying the beaſt, and putting us out of all fear of him. Or, be unto him. We praiſe him for it,and deſire that others do it alſo.

our God] He hath ſhewed himſelf our God, in deſtroying our enemies,and therefore we have eſpecial cauſe to praiſe him, Pſa.147.20.

V. 2. true and righteous] See ch.15.3.

for he hath judged] They ſhew what cauſe they had to praiſe God for declaring his truth,in performing his threats againſt Rome,which many doubted would not be effected ; and his juſtice,in deſtroying ſuch as would not be drawn from their idolatry by his word. Or, he hath not judged out of ſuſpitions and report,but in truth and juſtice, Gen.18.21.

the great whore] See chap. 17.1. Great, becauſe of her many fornications. Or, by alluſion to the thing ſignified, The great city, cha. 18. 18.

corrupt] The earth. See Gen.6.11.

avenged] As was deſired, Chap.6.10.

his ſervants] He had reaſon to avenge their blood, becauſe they were not ſlain for any wickedneſs they had done,but for ſerving him, Pſal.44.22.

V. 3.again] They double their thanks,becauſe of the greatneſs of the benefit.

and her ſmoke] This ſentence ſhould be in a parentheſis. The ſenſe is ; She is irrecoverably loſt,Iſa.34.10.Or, for her ſmoke,as Luk.6.32. and then there needeth no parentheſis ; but the meaning will be ; The Saints ſhall ever be mindful of the fall of Rome, to praiſe God for it, as if they ſaw the ſmoke of it always, to put them in mind of that fire that burned it down.

V. 4. And the four and twenty Elders, &c.] Ch.4.4,6. Before, v. 1. Gods people bleſſed God ſuddenly,where they heard of it ; now they do it publickly in the Congregation, for deſtroying Rome. So ch.11. 16. This better ſetteth out the greatneſs of the benefit , with their deeper ſenſe of it , and ſtirreth up others the more to thankfulneſs, Pſal.5.7. This is Romes funeral.

four beaſts] Or,living wights.Thorow all this book,there are beaſts or wights, and elders, and a throne,to ſhew , that Gods ordinances and right worſhip was ſtill ſome where in the world in uſe, during the heathen antichriſtian perſecutions: and ſo they will be to the end.

on the throne] Chap.4.2. and 5. 1. God ſhall then take his throne to himſelf, when Rome, which is Satans and Antichriſts throne, ch. 2. 13. is deſtroyed.

Amen, Alleluja] They allow of the praiſe given to God before, v. 1. and perſwade the people to praiſe him more.

V. 5. a voice came out of the throne] Chap.4.5. The general applauſe of the Chriſtian Gentiles, v 1. and their ſolemn thankſgiving for the fall of Rome, v.4. might come to the ears of the Jews; but God himſelf muſt ſpeak to their hearts, before they will joyn with the Chriſtians in this Alleluja. See the like method, Iſa.6.66. This may be Chriſts voice, becauſe it cometh from the throne; and yet he ſaith, Our God; as John 20. 17.

praiſe our God] He doth not blame them, as if they had not done it well before; but giveth a new cauſe of praiſing God, ſee v.7.

all ye his ſervants] Ye Jews, that once were his ſervants, joyn with the Gentiles in this Alleluja, Deut.32.43. Rom.15.10.

both great and ſmall] All ſorts of men, Pſalm 115.13. See ch. 13. 16. & 20.12.

V. 6. And I heard] Or, Then I heard. So this particle is uſed, Mat.23.32. Here is the effect of the former exhortation.

of many waters, &c.] See ch. 14.2. and 17. 15. The Jews and Gentiles praiſing God together, for the fall of Rome, will make ſuch a noiſe as will fill heaven and earth. Or, it may be underſtood of Gentiles converted from Popery by the ſight of Romes fall.

reigneth] God is publickly worſhipped every where, as King, now the whore is deſtroyed.

V. 7. Let us be glad, &c.] Chap.11.10. Pſalm 118.24. Mat.5.12. Let us prepare for feaſts and triumphs againſt the marriage of the Lamb.

give honour to him] As we have cauſe to rejoyce in it, ſo alſo to give God praiſe and thanks for it.

for the marriage, &c.] Mat.22.2. The Church is now called, as a Bride, to dwell with her husband, after the whore is burned: before, ſhe was but as it were eſpouſed to him. Glorious times will follow Romes fall. This cauſe was not mentioned, v.1,4. but theſe converts, as they looked forward to the deſtruction of Rome, ſo they look backward to the converſion of the Jews, and marriage of the Lamb.

made her ſelf ready] As virgins uſe to deck themſelves when they are to be married, Pſ.45.13,14. Iſa.61.10. ſo the Church is now purged from all ſuperſtition, and ready to entertain Chriſt in the purity of his ordinances. Or, the Jews being now come in, with the fulneſs of the Gentiles, Rom.11.12,25,26. the Church is ready to be married to Chriſt. It cannot but be great matter of joy, that two ſiſters, ſo long parted, ſhould now be firmly knit together, Cant.8.8.

V. 8. to her was granted] Sanctification, the Churches ornament, Pſa. 45.13. & 93.5. is a dowry given her by Chriſt her husband, ch. 3. 18. Eph.5.26,27.

righteouſneſs] Gr. righteouſneſſes. That is, good works, which adorn Gods ſervants, as much as fine linnen or gliſtering garments do great men, Mat.5.16. and do as conſpicuouſly appear in their lives, as gorgeous apparel on the back or body of thoſe that wear it, Rom. 13.12,14. Col.3.12. 1 Pet.3.3,4. & 5.5. Phil.4.5,8.

V. 9. he ſaith] The Angel, mentioned, ch. 18. Now he goeth on with the ſtory, which had been broken off in the beginning of this chapter, with relation of the great praiſe given to God for deſtroying Rome.

write] The matter to come is weighty, and worthy to be conveyed to poſterity. So ch.14.13.

Bleſſed] Mat.22.2. They are happy times, and they are happy that are ſo called, that they come; that is, internally called. The things being ſtrange, and very unlikely to come to paſs; the Angel taketh a ſpecial care to confirm John in the truth of them, that he may the more confidently report them to others.

marriage-ſupper] It ſeemeth ſuch feaſts uſed to be then at night, v.17. Luke 14.16,17. See notes on ch. 18.22.

theſe are the true ſayings of God] They are not my words, but God's, and ſhall certainly be fulfilled in their time, Luke 1.23.

V. 10. to worſhip him] Having ſo good news from him, John, being over-joyed, falleth down to worſhip him, as Cornelius, on ſomewhat the like occaſion, did to Peter, Acts 10.25.

See thou do it not] Ch.22.9. Gr. See, not. The Angels conciſe ſpeech, as if he had not time to ſay all, ſheweth how evil Johns act was, and how diſpleaſing to him, and dangerous to John, if he ſhould ſuffer him to do it. To that end alſo he ſaith, See: that is, Beware thou do it not.

thy fellow-ſervant] One whom Chriſt uſeth to declare his will to others, as he doth thee. Therefore, for brethren, is put prophets, ch. 22. 9. It may be the Angel that revealed this revelation to John, ch. 1.1. yet for all that, not to be worſhipped by John, his fellow-ſervant.

worſhip God] To whom only religious worſhip is due, Mat. 4.10.

is the ſpirit of propheſy] Chriſt only can by his Spirit make us Prophets to foretel things to come, from him. His revealing things to us, is the life of propheſy. He therefore muſt be worſhipped for it, and not we.

V. 11. heaven opened] Free acceſs to Gods publick worſhip every where. Or, the Church opened, that Chriſt may ſtir up his people, v. 14. to go fight againſt Antichriſt, who after Romes fall, will be for a time ſome where elſe, gathering new forces. Ver. 19. a door was opened in heaven, before the riſing of Antichriſt, ch. 4. 1. the temple was open in heaven, after the death of the Witneſſes, ch.11.19. Now heaven it ſelf, that is, the Church, is ſet wide open, that Chriſts armies may go forth to deſtroy the beaſt and the falſe Prophet, v.20. So the great gates of a city are opened, when armies go forth to battel, 2 Sam.18.4.

behold] This requireth attention to the great battel yet to come.

a white horſe] Chap.6.2. a ſign of Chriſts juſt carriage in the war, and certain triumph after it.

he that ſate upon him] Chriſt, who appeared then to John, as ready to deſtroy Antichriſt utterly, and will do it by the Kings that hate the Whore, ch.17.16.

faithful and true] See ch.1.5. & 3.7,14.

in righteouſneſs, &c.] He condemneth the enemies of his Church juſtly, and then executeth them accordingly. He will not abuſe his power, to deſtroy any that have not deſerved deſtruction.

V. 12. as a flame of fire] Ch.1.14. & 2.18. He can ſee his enemies privy plots, and deſtroy them. His eyes do not ſparkle, but flame out with anger. Wo be to his enemies.

many crowns] All Kingdoms are ſubject to him, v. 16. Pſ. 2.8,9. & 72.8,9,10. Mat.28.18,19,20. Or, for victories over many Kings, v.19. whoſe crowns he taketh off their heads, and putteth on his own, 2 Sam. 12. 30. The dragon and the beaſt never had above ten crowns; he hath a multitude: his Kingdom ſhall be larger than ever theirs was.

a name written] Now to be made known: ſure alſo, and permanent.

no man knew] Ch.2.17. Judg.13.18. None knew the eternal generation of Chriſt, who is called, The Word of God, v.13. Or, none knew it, till it was revealed in the Word, v.13. Or, by his victories, v.16,19. So Gods name, Jehovah, was revealed, Exod.6.3.

V. 13. dipt in bloud] Iſa.63.2. It ſheweth the exceeding great ſlaughter of his foes formerly: for his garments are not ſprinkled with bloud, as Iſa.63.2. but dipt or dyed in it, Iſa.9.5. What could his enemies look for from him now; ſeeing the marks of his former victories, but deſtruction? Or, as if he ſhould come to revenge the bloud of his ſervants ſhed by Antichriſt, and ſhould wear one of their garments full of bloud, to incite him to the greater revenge. Or, it might be to ſignifie the event of this battel, that ſo much bloud ſhould be ſhed, that not the common ſouldiers only, whoſe hands are moſt employed in war; but the General himſelf, whoſe head uſeth to be more employed than his hands, ſhall have his garments dyed in bloud.

the Word of God] By eternal generation, John 1.1,14. Or, becauſe he maketh his Fathers word good, by deſtroying the foes of his people. Or, becauſe by deſtroying Antichriſt, he cauſeth Gods Word to be freely preached every where, and God is known thereby, as by a name.

V. 14. the armies, &c.] Gods people being fluſht with the fall of Rome, ſhall be in arms, ready to deſtroy Antichriſt utterly, when Chriſt ſhall call them to that work.

white horſes, &c.] Fitter for triumph than for fight; for here are no bucklers nor ſwords mentioned, which are more fit for war than fine linnen, a poor fence againſt blows; but here is the apparel of conquerours: ſo that they made themſelves as ſure of the victory, as if it were already gotten. Thus, though the battel may be ſharp, Gods people ſhall comfort themſelves, by looking before-hand on the happy iſſue.

V. 15. out of his mouth] See v.21. ch.1.16. & 2. 16. He ſhall paſs ſentence of death upon them, and execute it, Iſa. 11.4. Or, he ſhall deſtroy them, according as he hath foretold, 2 Theſſ.2.8. arms are attributed only to the Captain; for all is done by his power, though he uſe inſtruments.

the nations] Or, Gentiles, ch.11.2. Popiſh enemies.

rule them, &c.] See ch.2.27. & 12.5.

treadeth] Treadeth on Gods enemies, gathered as it were into a wine-preſs, at Armageddon, till their bloud be all out of their bodies, ch.14.20. Iſa.63.3. Thus he threatneth his foes with his mouth, ſtriketh them with his iron rod in his hand, trampleth them under his feet.

V. 16. on his veſture] That all men may ſee it, and fear him. Some footſteps of his power appeared before, in converting the Gentiles; but much obſcured by the perſecution under the Heathen Emperours, and afterwards under the Popes: but when both theſe are deſtroyed, then all men may fully diſcern it.

on his thigh] That men might ſubmit to him, Gen. 24. 2,9. & 47. 29. being ſubdued by his ſword, which uſeth to be placed on the thigh, Pſa.45.3. Cant.3.16.

King of Kings] Chap.17.14. & 11.15. Dan.2.44.

V. 17. an Angel] Chriſts Herauld, to bid all the fowls to a banquet.

in the ſun] That he might be heard all the world over, as the Sun is ſeen. A cleer token of the enſuing victory: and that the enemies ſhould be deſtroyed in the ſight of the Sun, as ſurely as we ſee the Sun.

with a loud voice] Chap.18.2. That the moſt remote might hear, and come to take their ſhare. It alſo ſheweth the weight of the matter. Men ſpeak loud, when they ſpeak of great things.

fowls] Warriours or ſouldiers mixing themſelves with Gods people, more for the love of the ſpoils, than of the cauſe. Or, it may be taken literally; for many dead carcaſes will be left unburyed, to fill the fowls, v. 21. 1 Sam.17.44. Jer.7.33. Ezek.39.4,17.&c.

in the midſt] See ch. 8.13. & 41.6.

of heaven] Of the air, Gen.1.20. Pſa.8.8.

gather your ſelves] The fowls are called before hand, to ſhew the certainty of the victory.

V. 18. that ye may eat] Chriſt will be married as a conquerour.

the fleſh of Captains, &c.] Feed on the revenues and ſpoil of all the Papiſts; for they ſhall all be deſtroyed, great and ſmall. There ſhall be variety of prey, to fit every ones appetite, as there is of diſhes at a feaſt, ch. 17. 16. Or, it may be literally underſtood of the carcaſes of great men and ſmall, left for the fowls to devour, v. 15. Ezek. 39. 4, 17, 20. Jer.7.12.

V. 19. the beaſt, &c.] The Roman or German Emperour, ch.13.1. with ſome Kings, ch.17.16. after Romes fall, v.1. ſhall aſſiſt the Pope, living elſewhere, in this laſt war againſt Chriſt and his Church.

V. 20. the beaſt] The Emperour, v.19.

was taken] Like a beaſt in a ſnare. This ſeemeth to be at the concluſion of the ſixth Vial, or beginning of the ſeventh. See ch. 16. 16, 17.

the falſe prophet] The Pope, ch.13.13. & 16.13. yet ſome take it for the Popes Clergy, and the Pope for the Beaſt. This is that falſe Prophet that wrought miracles, ch.13.13,14, &c.

alive] Put to horrible tortures, being taken alive; whereas the Kings and their followers ſhall be ſlain in the battel, v.21. An alluſion to Num. 16.31, 32. an extraordinary deſtruction is ſignified, to terrifie others from miſleading Gods people, Pſa.55.15.

lake of fire, &c.] Chap.20.14. & 21.8. & 14.10. an exquiſit torment, Ezek.38.22. Pſa.11.6. Gen.19.24.

V.21. the remnant] The Kings that fought for the Pope, and their Armies. As their ſin was not ſo great as the Emperours and Popes, ſo neither ſhall their judgement.

out of his mouth] Verſe 15. Gods word ſlayeth them, when he performeth his threatnings, Jer.5.14. Thus the prophecy, v. 18. is fulfilled. None ſhall be ranſomed for money, Iſa. 13. 17, 18. A ſevere execution ſhall be on all that ſhall take part with Antichriſt in this his laſt battel.

were filled with their fleſh] There were wealth enough for all comers, Jer. 50.10. Or, carcaſes enow lying unburyed, to glut all the fowls. See v. 18.

CHAP. XX.

Ver. 1. AN Angel] He that did open the bottomleſs pit before, ch. 9.1. now ſhutteth it. Some take it of Conſtantines keeping under the Heathen Emperours, and conceive this chapter to depend upon the twelfth chapter; and to ſhew what became of the dragon, after he was caſt into the earth. But it is likely that the prophecy goeth on; and that the holy Ghoſt, having deſcribed the Whore of Babylon, Popiſh Rome, chap.17. and ſhewed the fall of it, chap. 18. and the calling of the Jews, and deſtruction of Antichriſt and his followers, ch.19. now declareth the proſperous eſtate of the Church for a long time after; and the deſtruction of the Turks, the day of judgment, and damnation of all wicked men, in this chapter: and then ſetteth out the happy eſtate of all the godly in ſoul and body in heaven for ever, ch. 21. and in the beginning of ch. 22. or elſe looketh back there to the flouriſhing eſtate of the Church on earth, when all her foes are deſtroyed; and ſo he concludeth with confirmations, exhortations, promiſes and threatnings.

a great chain in his hand] As going to apprehend ſome powerful perſon, that was to be attached, and bound, as a priſoner or captive, with a chain, Pſa.148.8. 2 Chron.36.6.

V.2. dragon, &c.] See v.10. ch.12.9. The Pope being deſtroyed, the devil would bring in the Turk, who ſeemeth yet to ſtand, or ſome other enemy like the Heathen Emperour, called the dragon before, ch. 12. 3. to perſecute and war againſt the Chriſtians: but God will not permit it till the thouſand years of the Churches proſperity be done: and therefore he cauſeth Satan to be bound with a great chain, that he might not looſe another dragon before the time. Thus the Churches peace for that time is ſecured.

bound him a thouſand years] Either for ſuch a number of years, or for a long time indefinitly.

V.3. into the bottomleſs pit] Which he deſired not to be ſhut into, Luke 8.31. For the ſame Greek word is tranſlated the deep, there. He was caſt into the earth, before, ch.12.9. here, lower.

ſet a ſeal upon him] This ſheweth the devils rage, who muſt not only be chained, but alſo ſhut up, and the door ſealed by authority from heaven, that he may be kept from doing miſchief, Mat.27.66.

deceive the nations no more] Not bring in Heatheniſm or Popery any more. Or, perſwade them to fight againſt the Church, by his wiles, v.7,8. or, wicked agents, ch.16.13,14.

a little ſeaſon] After Satans looſing, the day of judgment will ſoon come.

V. 4. they ſate upon them] Or, ſome ſate upon them. Some underſtand this of Conſtantines time, ch.6.16. Others, of Luthers. Others, of the Church, after Antichriſts deſtruction. Others, of the day of judgment. In all which, the Saints rule, and perſecutours are brought to judgment.

the ſouls, &c.] Coming to demand juſtice againſt thoſe that had ſlain them, by the cry of their bloud before Kings here; or perſonally before God at the day of judgment, ch.6.9,10.

for the witneſs of Jeſus, &c.] Ch.6.9. & 1.9.

not worſhipped the beaſt] See ch.13.15,16, 17. & 14.9.

they lived and reigned] The Chriſtian Judges in the beginning of the verſe, who were eſteemed as dead men under the Heathen Emperours, or under Antichriſt; now not only were ſeen to live, but reigned alſo, to do juſtice to Gods people as Chriſts deputies. Or, thoſe beheaded ones lived in ſoul in Heaven with Chriſt. Or, ſuch as they that were perſecuted before, ſhall live and reign after Antichriſts fall. So we ſay, The Romans ruled the world from Julius Ceſar to Conſtantine, and after: yet we mean not the ſame perſons. So John is called Elias, becauſe he came in the ſpirit of Elias, Matth. 11.14. Luke 1.17. So the two witneſſes are raiſed again. See ch. 11.11.

a thouſand years] All the time Satan is chained like a mad dog, the Church ſhall flouriſh.

V. 5. the reſt of the dead] Others did not openly profeſs Religion in peace, till Luthers time. Or, ſome will not come in till after the thouſand years. Peradventure ſome Turks, or others, may come in at the eleventh hour, Mat.11.6. for the Papiſts were either converted before, or deſtroyed at the fall of Antichriſt, ch. 16.20.& 19.21. Or, they that will not come in when the Jews do, and Antichriſt is deſtroyed, will never come in to Gods Church: for, all Iſrael, and the fulneſs of the Gentiles, will be come in then, Rom.11.25,26. See the like phraſe, 2 Sam. 6. 23. Or, God will not right others oppreſſed, till the end of the world. Or, they lived not in any account, as before, Pſa.88.5.

This is the firſt reſurrection] Either the former part of the verſe muſt be read by a parentheſis, and the words depend on the fourth verſe: or it may be underſtood of the end of the thouſand years in ſome of the former ſenſes. At Luthers time, or after the coming in of the Jews, and Antichriſts deſtruction, there will be ſuch a new face of the Church, as if the Saints were all raiſed up again, John 5. 25,28.

V. 6. Bleſſed and holy] As they are happy that ſuffer for Chriſt, v. 4. ſo they alſo whoſe eyes God doth open to ſee their errours, and embrace Gods truth.

part in the firſt reſurrection] This reſurrection is not of particular perſons, but of whole Churches and Nations; as Rom. 11. 15. alluded to, in the raiſing of dead bones, Ezek. 37.1,&c. In which they are ſaid to have part, who by the means then publickly and plentifully afforded, are ſpiritually quickned; that is, raiſed from the death of ſin, to the life of grace, John 5.24,25. Acts 8.21. Eph. 2.1,5.

ſecond death hath no power] They ſhall not go to hell, v.14. chap. 2.11. & 21.8. by turning back to the world. Or, they ſhall no more be ſeduced by Antichriſt. Or, not be deſtroyed by Turks, and other enemies deſcribed, v.9.

Prieſts of God and of Chriſt] See ch.1.6. and 5. 10. Yet here ſeemeth ſomewhat more to be intended. For in thoſe places we are ſaid to be made Prieſts to God; that is, to offer ſpiritual ſacrifices to him: but here, to be Prieſts of God; that is, excellent Prieſts, 2 Pet.2.9. See the like phraſe, Gen.23.6. Pſ. 36.6.

reign with him] Be free from their former perſecutions, as living now under Chriſt, not any longer under Antichriſt.

V. 7. looſed] See v.2.

V. 8. to deceive the nations] To draw them to fight againſt the Church, to their deſtruction. See v.3.

in the four quarters] In all parts, ſome ſhall be deceived.

Gog and Magog] Ezek.38.2. and 39.1. Either the Papiſts not deſtroyed in Armageddon, ch.16.16. and 19.21. or rather the Turks, or other foes, aſſailing the Church a little before the day of judgment, v.11. For the riſing of the Turkiſh Empire is ſpoken, ch.9.3, &c. but their fall no where, till now. It ſeemeth they ſhall be reſtrained for the thouſand years of the Churches proſperity after the fall of the Pope, from fighting againſt it: but afterwards let looſe and deſtroyed, as the Popiſh Empire before.

as the ſand of the ſea] See Joſ. 11. 4. Judg. 7. 12. 1 Sam. 15.5. 2 Sam.17.11. 1 Kings 4.20.

V. 9. they went up, &c.] Or, went forth. Chap. 13. 1. They ſeemed not to be in an army before; but ſuddenly aroſe to a great multitude, Jer.46.7,8. & 47.2.

breadth of the earth] All over where the Saints of God abide, Iſa. 8.8. Ezek.38.9,16.

compaſſed about] Endeavouring that none of the faithful might eſcape them. See the like, 2 Kings 6.14,15. & 25.1.

the camp of the Saints] The Church Militant, compared to Iſrael in their tents, Num.2. and now being in tents, to fight againſt the Turks, or other unchriſtian enemies.

the beloved city] The Church of God, driven to ſome ſtrong place for ſhelter.

fire came down, &c.] Gods wrath, ſhewed in an extraordinary way, delivered his Church, by deſtroying theſe enemies, Heb. 10.27. & 12.19. Job 20.26. Pſa.21.9. Gen.19.24. 2 Kings 1.10,12.

V. 10. the devil] The Turk, the devils new agent, another dragon, like the Heathen Emperour, v. 2. ch.12.3. Or, ſome other enemy, no Chriſtian by profeſſion, ſhall be ſent to hell to keep the laſt Pope and Popiſh Emperour company. Here it may be noted, that the foes of the Church, that profeſs not the Name of Chriſt, as the Heathen and Turkiſh Emperours, are in this book compared to dragons and ſerpents, and to the devil himſelf: but the Popes, and Popiſh Emperours, who profeſs Chriſtianity, are compared to wilde beaſts.

where the beaſt, &c.] See ch. 19. 20.

for ever and ever] Gr. to ages of ages. As one ſucceeding another, without any end.

V. 11. And I ſaw] This may well be underſtood of the day of judgment; which was to come ſhortly after the looſing of Satan again, v. 3. It ſheweth, that from the fall of the Turk, to the day of judgment, the Church ſhall have peace. And alſo, that thoſe enemies of the Church that are left after that great battel, though they eſcaped the ſword then, and dare not openly oppoſe the Church any more; yet God will call them to judgment.

a great white throne] Fit for him that cometh now to judge all the world, Luke 1.32. Tit.2.12. Acts 17.31. And white, to ſhew the uprightneſs and glory of the Judge, ch.19.11,14. But ſome underſtand it of Conſtantines judging Heathen idolaters, and freeing Chriſtians perſecuted formerly by the Heathen, chap. 6.14,15. Others, of the ſolemn deſtruction of Antichriſt, and gathering of the Jews. Both which, are lively reſemblances of the laſt day. Others, of the deſtruction of the Turks, newly ſpoken of.

fled away] Or, vaniſhed, chap.16.14. 2 Pet.3.7,10,11.

found no place] Chap. 12. 8. They ſhall appear no more in that form they are now in, but changed, chap.21. 1, &c.

V. 12. great and ſmall] All, without exception, chap. 13.16. Or, as ſome think, each one in that proportion or ſtature in which he dyed.

and the books] Dan.7.10. Chriſt, or their own conſciences, ſhall charge with all their ſins; as Judges proceed with depoſitions upon record.

another book, &c.] Chap. 3.5. To exempt the godly from condemnation, chap. 21.27. Phil. 4. 3. Men write in a book the names of thoſe they intend to deliver, or to prefer.

according to their works] The wicked muſt be judged according to their works written in the books. The juſt, written in the book of life, ſhall not come into judgement, John 5.24. chap. 21.27.

V. 13. And the ſea, &c.] All men muſt riſe to judgment, whether drowned in the ſea, or denyed burial on earth, or buried in the grave. Or, death and ſea gave up their bodies to be judged, and hell their ſouls.

hell] Or, the grave, chap.6.8.

V. 14. death and hell] Or, the grave. Men dead and buried before, were now ſent to hell in ſoul and body both. Or, there ſhall be no more death nor grave for Gods people to fear, nor any torment remaining, but for thoſe that are in hell.

lake of fire] Ver. 10. chap.19. 20.

ſecond death] See ver.6.

V. 15. in the book of life] Ver.12.

lake of fire] Ver. 14.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver.1. AND I ſaw] As the Church is altered, ſo muſt her dwelling. It may be ſpoken of a glorious Church on earth: and then the day of judgment is ſet before it in the former chapter, that the downfall of the enemies of Gods Church might be ſet down altogether. And then the Churches felicity, after the deſtruction of the Whore, Beaſt, Dragon, and all covert and open enemies, which new eſtate will abide till glory come: ſecurity is like to be her only trouble, when Chriſt cometh, 1 Theſſ. 5.2,3. 2 Pet. 3. 3,4. Matth. 24.37, &c. and 25. 1,2, &c. Bringing in of Eaſtern Kingdoms to the faith, and deſtroying all the enemies of the Church, may well be called, A new world. Or, it may be taken literally for the happy eſtate of Gods Saints in Heaven, in ſoul and body, after the day of judgment.

a new Heaven] Iſa.65.17. and 66.22. 2 Pet. 3. 13. For the old were gone, chap.20. 11.

no more ſea] Either literally: for there will need none for trade; the fire perhaps at the worlds end, may utterly dry up the ſea. Or figuratively, no more war againſt, nor trouble in the Church; but holineſs in good men, ſecurity only, not enmity, in others; a firm peace all the world over, as at Chriſts firſt coming. Then the Church ſhall not be like the raging ſea, but like the quiet earth.

V. 2. the holy city] Matth.27.53. Jeruſalem is ſo called. Either Heaven, or the Church formerly troden under foot, chap. 11.2. but now made glorious, Iſa.54.11,12. and 51.23. and 52.1,2. and 60.1.

new Jeruſalem] The Church of God, whereof old Jeruſalem was a type, Gal.4.26. The city wherein Gods people dwelleth. And it is called, The new Jeruſalem, not in reſpect of the Old Teſtament only, but of the former eſtate of it in the New. It ſhall be free from all former troubles.

coming down out of Heaven from God] If it be underſtood of heavenly glory, the ſenſe is; It will be more fully revealed by Gods Miniſters inviting them to it then, than in former times. See chap. 3.12. If of the Church on earth, it ſheweth, that it receiveth the glory and luſtre it hath, not from men on earth, but from God in Heaven, John 1.17. 1 Cor.15.47,48,49. Becauſe God is the greateſt height, all that comes from him, is ſaid to come down, 2 Cor. 5. 1, 2. Jam.1.17.

as a bride] Adorned as a bride, Iſa.61.10. Heb. 11. 10. Therefore he ſaw the citizens, as well as the city. He ſaw many men, v. 3. He ſaw them adorned as a bride ready to be married; yet he ſaw not the glory of it ſo fully as v. 10.

V. 3. a great voice] To publiſh the greatneſs of Gods mercy, and the Saints glory, to all men, chap.19.1.

Behold] A thing wonderful, Iſa.7.14. and preſent to his view in the viſion, John 1.29.

the tabernacle of God is with men] An alluſion to the people of the Jews, which had the tabernacle; and an intimation, as ſome think, that theſe here meant, were not yet glorified in heaven. Therefore it is called, A tabernacle, not, An abiding city, Heb.9.10. and God ſaid to be with them, and not they with him, 1 Theſſ.4.17. He will give them abundance of grace. And the tabernacle is mentioned, as ſome think, to ſhew, that the Jews were come in to the Church. See on ch.16.12. and 19.1. So the ſervice of God under the New Teſtament is called Incenſe, and Offering, Mal.1.11. Or, Heaven may be called ſo, in alluſion to the tabernacle, Pſalm 15.1. Ezek.37.28. where God is preſent with his for ever, as the Ark was in the Tabernacle, as long as it laſted.

they ſhall be his people] So is his Covenant, Gen.17.8,9. Jer.31.33. Ezek.37.27. He will protect them from all foes.

V. 4. And God ſhall, &c.] Chap. 7. 17. He ſetteth down the fruit of Gods dwelling with them.

wipe away all tears] Their former perſecutions which lay ſo heavy upon them before, and cauſed them to ſhed ſo many tears, ſhall ceaſe, Iſa.54.14,15.

no more death] An alluſion to Iſa. 25. 8. and 13. 14. applyed by the Apoſtle to the happineſs of the Saints after the reſurrection, 1 Cor.15.54,55. and ſo it may be underſtood here. Or elſe of the happy eſtate of the Church on earth a little before, when Pope, and Turk, and all enemies are deſtroyed. And as then they ſhall be free from perſecution; ſo men ſhall not be ſlain with plague and famine ſo frequently as in former times. The happineſs of the Church is deſcribed negatively, by removal of evils: yet abundance of comforts, ſpiritual and corporal, is included alſo. So that the Church then, ſhall be a lively type of the glorious Church in Heaven: and they ſhall not dye by perſecution, as before; but death ſhall be a quiet paſſage to Heaven.

neither ſorrow, &c.] No inward grief, no outward expreſſion of it, no heavy labour or pain to cauſe either. They ſhall not be, like the Iſraelites in Egypt, put to hard labour in ſlavery, and grieving at it, and crying for deliverance, Exod. 3.7, 9. See the like phraſe, Iſa.54.14. and 60. 18. and 61.3,7.

former things are paſſed away] All the miſeries of this world. Or, the beaſt, falſe prophet, and all that did hurt the Church.

V. 5. he that ſate upon the throne] Chap.4.2. Becauſe it ſeemed incredible that all things ſhould be made new, God himſelf confirmeth it, and ſaith, I make all things new; taking the work upon himſelf, who was able to do it.

Behold] See notes on v. 3.

I make all things new] Iſa.43.19. 2 Cor.5.17. When old things were, new muſt needs ſucceed. This may intend the glorious ſtate of Gods Saints after the reſurrection: or a more ample reſtauration of the true doctrine and ſincere worſhip of God on earth, before the end.

write] See chap. 14.13. and 19.8. Iſa.8.1. and 30. 8. Job 19. 23. Hab.2.2.

for theſe words are true] Or, that theſe words are true. They muſt be written as it were in Table-books, to ſhew that God will do it, and his people might expect it.

V. 6. It is done] Chap. 16.17. All that the Prophets ſpake of the Churches deliverance, and the deſtruction of her enemies, is accompliſhed, chap.10.6,7. Her foes are all deſtroyed, and ſhe ſhall have a quiet ſtate to the end. Or, the world is at an end, and glory promiſed is come.

I am Alpha and Omega] Chap.1.8. and 22.13.

the beginning and the end] I decreed and foretold all theſe things, and now have brought them all to paſs.

I will give, &c.] Iſa.55.1. chap.22.17. Becauſe good men cannot hear of theſe excellent things, but they will long for them; he addeth, I will give, &c.

fountain] Pſa. 36. 8. Never any want of life there; it cometh from a fountain.

V. 7. He that overcometh] Chap. 2.7. God will give Heaven to thoſe that heartily deſire it: but yet they muſt fight for it, before they enjoy it. They muſt overcome the dragon, the beaſt, Gog and Magog.

I will be his God,&c.] Pſa. 89. 26, 27. 2 Sam. 7. 14. 2 Cor.6,18. I will tender him as a father doth his ſon. This argueth extraordinary comfort here, or in heaven.

V. 8. But] Such ſinners as follow, ſhall have no part in this new heaven and earth: and, leſt they ſhould ſlight this loſs, he threatneth them with hell-fire beſides.

the fearful, &c.] If it be ſpoken of the day of judgment, it may be taken generally for all ſuch ſinners. If of the Church before, it ſignifieth, that though no perſecutours remain, yet there will be many wicked men, who ſhall go to hell, when they dye, although they lived to ſee this glorious eſtate of the Church. The fearful then may accordingly be either ſuch as at any time do evil, or omit good, againſt light of conſcience, for fear of danger, Matth.10.28,33. and 16.15. That overcome not, but are overcome, v.7. Or, ſuch as were afraid of Gog and Magog,the laſt enemies,and durſt not fight againſt them.

unbeleeving] That beleeve not in Chriſt. Or, that for all this, did not expect the promiſed felicity of the Church, when they ſaw Gogs army, but deſpaired of victory.

abominable] Given to ſins againſt nature; as Sodomy, &c. See chap. 17. 4. murderers, &c.] See chap 9. 20, 21.

in the lake] Chap. 19, 20.

ſecond death] Chap. 20. 6, 14.

V. 9. one of the ſeven Angels] Very likely hee that ſhewed him the Whore of Babylon, chap. 17. 1. ſhewed him now the Lambs wife. Of theſe Angels, ſee chap. 15. 1.

I will ſhew thee the Bride] He ſaw her, v. 2. but not ſo diſtinctly as ſhe is after deſcribed.

the Lambs wife] The riches of the heavenly city. So he that ſheweth a man a Kings Palace and Treaſury, may be ſaid to ſhew him the King. She is now dreſt like a bride, and ſhall be ſoon married to Chriſt, and made his wife, chap.19.7.

V. 10. in the ſpirit] Chap.1.10. and 17.3.

great and high mountain] Chriſts Spouſe cometh now to be openly ſeen. John ſaw the Whore in a wilderneſs, chap. 17.3. he ſeeth the Church now on an hill, becauſe the city was high. So Ezekiel was carried up into a mountain, to ſee the city and temple, Ezek. 40. 2. Moſes, to ſee the pattern of the tabernacle, Exod.25.40. Heb.8. 5. and the Land of Canaan, Deut.34.1. The temple was built on an hill, 2 Chron.3.1. It was called a mount, chap. 14. 1. but here, a great and high one, ſo Iſa.2.2. It may ſignifie the glory of the laſt Church on earth, or the heighth of glory in heaven.

great city] Great for compaſs; for many muſt enter into it, v. 24.

high] For buildings, or walls. See v. 12.

holy] For no unclean perſon muſt come there, v. 27.

Jeruſalem] Becauſe God, who dwelt once in Jeruſalem, will dwell there no more eminently, Ezek. 48. 35.

deſcending, &c.] See v. 2.

V. 11. having the glory of God] Exceeding great glory. So great things are ſet out, Gen. 23. 6. Pſa. 36. 6. Or, glory given them of God, 1 Cor.15.40,41.

her light] He beginneth with light, as the principal grace of a city. That light is not meant, whereby ſhe ſhined to others; but that which ſhined to her, and enlightned her. So the Sun and Moon are called, Two great lights, Gen. 1.14,15, 16. This light is Gods glory, of Chriſts,v.23. This Church ſhall ſee more of God and Chriſt, and of holy and heavenly things, by that light, than either the Jewiſh Synagogue, or any Chriſtian Church ſaw before.

like a Jaſper ſtone] The laſt ſtone in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod. 28. 20 and 39.13. One of the King of Tyrus his Gems,Ezek.28.13.uſed to ſet out Gods glory ſhining in the Church, ch.4.3. and ſo here alſo; unleſs it ſet out his Majeſty in heaven. The walls of his Church are built of it, ver. 18. and it is the firſt in the foundation, v.19. He compareth not this light of that Church to any light in heaven or earth; for the Sun is ſometimes darkned by clouds, and hurteth our eyes, if we look too wiſtly on it: the Moon and Stars loſe their light when the Sun appeareth: and our made-lights decay. But it is compared to a Jaſper, which is not darkned by clouds, neither doth hurt our eyes; but the more we do look on it,the more it pleaſeth us: neither doth it leave ſhining, when the Sun ſhineth, nor doth the brightneſs of it go out at any time.

clear as cryſtal] Now he ſheweth what kind of Jaſper it is like. Not the green, or yellow, or purple Jaſper; for that taketh away the native colour of other things, and maketh them look like it: but the white, like cryſtal, which is moſt pure from ſpots, and moſt clear to look thorow. He doth not ſay, It was like cryſtal; but like a Jaſper ſtone clear as cryſtal, becauſe the Jaſper ſhineth more than the cryſtal. So that it had the brightneſs of the Jaſper, and the purity of cryſtal, chap.4.6.

V. 12. a wall great and high] That none might either pierce it, or ſcale it. The Saints are ſafe there from all foes.

twelve gates]Ways in,out of all parts of the world, Ezek. 48.30,31. If Jeruſalem had but twelve gates, it may be an alllusion thereunto.

at the gates, twelve Angels] As porters,to receive men into heaven, Luke 16.22. Not cherubins, to keep us out,Gen.3.24. Or,to guard us in the Church on earth. Or,Miniſters, to teach us the way to heaven, ch.1.20.

names written thereon] For direction, to guide men to it, of the twelve Tribes] Chap.7.4. Signifying, that the godly of the Church of the Old Teſtament are gone thither, and we ſhould endeavour to follow them. Or, if this verſe be underſtood of the laſt Church on earth, it ſignifieth, that the Saints ſhall be ſafe there, men ſhall have free acceſs unto it, the Miniſter ſhall receive them into the ſervice and protection of the God of Iſrael.

V. 13. on the Eaſt] Mat.8.11. Mar.13.27. To ſhew, that ſome out of all parts of the world ſhall come in, and be received.

V. 14. Twelve foundations] Made of twelve ſtones, or rowes of ſtones, lying one by another, v.19. or one upon another. However, ſurely founded it is, and will laſt.

of the twelve Apoſtles] Their doctrine is a foundation of our ſalvation, and eternal happineſs by Chriſt, Eph. 2.20,21.

V. 15. He that talked with me] The Angel, v.9.17. ch.22.6,8.

a golden reed] To meaſure the heavenly city. A plain one ſerved to meaſure the earthly one, Ezek.40.3,5.chap.11.1. There,the temple only; here, the gates, and city, and walls, are to be meaſured. The Church will be now more exact than before.

V. 16. four ſquare] A firm and ſtable building; not a round and voluble one.

twelve thouſand furlongs] Some Greek copies are, Twelve times twelve thouſand, one hundred fourty and four thouſand. A furlong for every member, chap.7.4. and 14.1. John 14.2. and in ſome proportion to be the breadth of the wall, one hundred fourty and four cubits, v.17. Or,each ſide in length, and the houſes in heighth, and the city it ſelf each way in breadth, was twelve thouſand furlongs. Some think that every ſide, from corner to corner, contained but three thouſand furlongs, and ſo the whole compaſs was twelve thouſand. It is large enough to contain innumerable Angels, and Saints of all ages and places.

the length and the breadth] From corner to corner, it is every way of equal meaſure. It is not properly called length and breadth, when it is no longer one way than another, as it is in a ſquare.

V. 17. the wall thereof] Perhaps the houſes and towers were higher than the wall, as in many cities it is, that it might appear glorious to comers; and then the heighth of it may be ſet down in this verſe. Or it may be underſtood of the breadth of the wall; and then the heighth of it might be equal to the city, v.16.

meaſure of a man, &c.] Cubit of a man in that ſhape the Angel appeared.

V. 18. of jaſper] See v. 11. Cities are eſteemed according to their matter: but there is none like this. It is not of wood,or ſtone; but of gold and Gems, Iſa.54.11.

the city] The houſes and palaces there. Or, the pavement of the ſtreets; as v. 21.

like unto clear glaſs] See v.11. Gold is an excellent metal, but it is not tranſparent, like glaſs: yet the gold of this city hath that property alſo.

V. 19. the foundations of the wall] Nothing is more precious than Chriſt taught by the Apoſtles, compared to twelve precious ſtones like Aarons breſt-plate,Exod.28.27, &c.

with all manner of precious ſtones] Iſa.54.11,12.

jaſper] See v.11.

a ſaphir] A gem,of which, ſee chap.4.6. It was the fifth in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28.18. See alſo, Iſa.54.11. Ezek.1.26. and 10.1. and 28.13. Cant.5.14.

a chalcedony] A precious ſtone, of one colour, like fire, found about Chalcedon.

an emerald] A ſtone ſo green, that other green things ſeem to have loſt their colour, when it is preſent. It is very pleaſing to the eyes, and men may ſee their faces in it. It was the fourth in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28.18. It is mentioned, Ezek. 28.13. chap.4.3.

V. 20. ſardonyx] A precious ſtone looking white without, and red underneath,like the nail of a man. It hath the name from a ſardius and an onyx; it partaketh of both their colours.

ſardius] A Gem found about ſardis,of a bloudy colour. It is the firſt in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28.17. called, A ſardine, ch.4.1.

a chryſolite] A ſtone in Ethiopia, of a ſuch a golden colour, that gold looketh like ſilver to it, when they are together.

a beryl] The tenth in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28. 20. an Indian ſtone, of a pale green colour. See Cant.5.14. Ezek. 1.16. and 10.9. and 28.13. Dan.10. 6.

a topaz] A green Gem of Ethiopia. The ſecond in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28.17. Job 28.19. Ezek.28.13.

a cryſopraſus] A green Indian Gem.

a jacinct] A precious ſtone of a violet colour.

an amethiſt] A ſtone for colour much like a jacinct. The ninth in Aarons breſt-plate, Exod.28.19. By theſe jems, is ſet out the glory of heaven, or, of the laſt Church on earth.

V. 21. twelve pearls] Of great price and eſteem: a man may ſell all,to get in at one of thoſe gates,Mat.13.45,46. The very entrance into heaven, or into the laſt Church on earth, is of more worth than all worldly riches.

of one pearl] It muſt needs be of great price, when a pearl was ſo big, it could make a gate. We read of none ſuch in this world.

the ſtreet]No dirty ſtreet,as in ſome great cities,nor ſtony;but clean and ſmooth to walk in. No uncleanneſs nor trouble there, v.27.

pure gold, &c.] Ver.18.

V. 22. I ſaw no temple therein, &c.] Fair temples are commendations of cities: but in heaven there ſhall need none; for there ſhall be no ritual worſhip there, but purely ſpiritual, John 4. 23. temples are to lift up mens mindes to God: there needeth none, where they ſee God. The earthly Jeruſalem had a temple, and viſible ſigns of Gods preſence in it; the heavenly needeth not: God will ſhew himſelf there for ever. If it be underſtood of the laſt Church on earth, then it ſignifieth, that the worſhip of God ſhall be more pure and ſpiritual, and like to the heavenly, than ever before.

V. 23. And the city, &c.] Chap. 22. 5. Iſa. 11. 9. and 24. 23. and 60. 19. Jer. 31. 34.

for the glory of God, &c.] See ver. 11. they need not worldly comforts in heaven, they have ſo much in God. So light is taken for joy, Pſa. 97. 11.

the Lamb is the light thereof] Even in heaven, all our communion with God is through Chriſt. If it be underſtood of the Church on earth, the ſenſe is; They ſhall have ſo much ſweet communion with God in Chriſt, that they ſhall make light account of all worldly contentments.

V. 24. And the nations, &c.] Iſa. 60. 3.

of them which are ſaved] Or, of them which are to be ſaved; as Acts 2. 47. The firſt way of reading reſpecteth the Church in heaven; the ſecond, that on earth.

ſhall walk in the light of it] An alluſion to men trading here by the benefit of the light of the Sun. The ſenſe is, They ſhall enjoy the felicity of it. Light is often put for proſperity; and darkneſs for adverſity, Iſa. 60. 1, 2.

the Kings of the earth, &c.] Iſa. 45. 14. and 49. 23. Dan. 7. 14. as if ſea-men returned from a voiage, ſhould bring their choiceſt things to dedicate in ſome temple. It ſhall be as glorious, as if all Kings had brought all their glory thither. Or, good Kings ſhall be glorious there, more than here. Rich and noble citizens, are a cities glory. Here, all Citizens are Kings, chap. 22. 5. Lu. 12. 32. Or, it may be underſtood of the flouriſhing ſtate of the Church on earth before the day of judgment, and the Kings that ſhall joyn themſelves to it, and uphold and enrich it.

V. 25. And the gates] Iſa. 60. 11. City-gates are open in the day, for paſſage; ſhut in the night, for ſafety. Here it needeth not, where no night nor danger is.

for there ſhall be no night there] I need not ſay, Not by night, as Iſa. 60. 11. for there ſhall be no night there.

V. 26. And they ſhall bring] The Kings ſhall, v. 24. Or, it ſhall be brought, Luc. 12. 20.

the glory and honour of the nations into it] Whatſoever is glorious among the nations, ſhall be brought thither. No want can be there, when all glory and wealth ſhall be brought thither. Or, a great number of the nations, which is a glorious ſight. Or, the prime men of all nations, ſhall be converted and ſaved: which, in Saint Pauls time, was not ſo, 1 Cor. 1. 26, &c. It is no mean glory to the Church, that ſo many Kings and great men ſhall come in to it.

V. 27. there ſhall in no wiſe enter] Though the gates always ſtand open, yet no ungodly man can enter, there are twelve Angels to keep them out, v. 12.

that defileth] There ſhall be no ſoil nor contagion in this great city, ſuch as crept in before, by Antichriſts ſubtilty: a neat city, that hath no foul thing nor perſon in it, nor any thing to offend eye, ear, or noſe. So it will be in heaven, 1 Cor. 6. 9, 10. Eph. 5. 5. Pſa. 15. 1, 2. and 24. 3, 4. Iſa. 52. 1. and 60. 21. Joel 3. 17. Zech. 14. 21. Mat. 13. 41. In the laſt Church on earth alſo, diſcipline in likelihood ſhall be ſo ſtrictly executed, that no profane perſons ſhall be found there. Only ſuch are elect, as far as men can judge.

abomination] Ver. 8.

book of life] Chap. 3. 5. and 20. 12. Phil. 4. 3.

CHAP. XXII.

Ver. 1. AND he ſhewed me] The deſcription of the holy city is finiſhed in the five firſt verſes of this chapter; and the concluſion of the book followeth.

a pure river] A river is a great ornament to a city; it is pleaſant and profitable, to convey perſons and proviſions to it. This is no pond, but a river: and not a troubled or muddy river, but a pure one.

of water of life] So called, not only becauſe it floweth always, and putteth forth new waters; in which reſpect, waters that come from a fountain are called Living waters, Gen. 26. 19. but alſo becauſe it preſerveth life in thoſe that drink of it, John 4. 41.

clear as cryſtal] Tranſparent, and exceeding all fountains, in clearneſs. Moſt pleaſant to the eye, as ſhewing to it all that is therein to the very bottome: and moſt pleaſing to the taſte, as free from mud and filth.

proceeding out of the throne] The river of Paradiſe came out of the earth, Gen. 2. 10. That in Ezekiel, out of the temple, Ezek. 47. 1. This here, out of Gods throne.

of God, and of the Lamb] God and Chriſt ſit on one throne. See ver. 3. This ſheweth Chriſt to be God, equal to the Father. Some interpret this river of the holy Ghoſt, who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, as a river from a fountain, and ſatisfieth all that thirſt, with his Spiritual gifts, John 7. 38, 39. Others apply it to the Church on earth, thinking that it importeth ſomething to be fulfilled in the famous Church, conſiſting of Jews and Gentiles, before the end of the world; and to be an alluſion to Ezek. 47. 1. where the waters are ſaid to come from the temple and altar, verſe 1. But here being no temple nor altar, chap. 21. 22. it is ſaid to come from the throne of God, and the Lamb. Therefore it is ſaid to go toward the eaſt, Ezek. 47. 1, 8. Zech. 14. 8. And it ſignifieth the pureſt preaching of the Goſpel thorow the world, which bringeth life and health to the ſoul, as living waters to plants, Ezek. 47. 9. and refreſheth the Church, Pſal. 46. 4. Others underſtand it of heavenly glory, which is moſt pleaſing and perſpicuous, and cometh from Gods mercy, and the merits of Chriſt, Tit. 2. 11, 13. and 3. 4, 5, 6. and bringeth us to communion with them both, 1 Joh. 1. 3. Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24.

V. 2. in the midſt] An alluſion to the earthly Paradiſe, where the Tree of Life ſtood in the midſt of the Garden, Gen. 2. 9.

of the ſtreet] An open river for all, not a ſealed fountain.

of it] Of the city, chap. 21. 21, 27.

and of either ſide of the river] That is, many Trees of this kind grew there, ſome on the one ſide of the river, ſome on the other, as Ezek. 47. 7, 12. that men on either ſide might have plenty of fruit, and come eaſily at it. Or, and of the river, which ran on each ſide of it; that is, one Tree of Life grew in the midſt of the river, which compaſſed the earth whereon it grew, as it were with two arms: and this Tree was ſo great, that it did ſtretch out boughs, with leaves and fruit on them, plentifully to both ſides. So fruitful are Trees that grow by rivers, Pſa. 1. 3.

the Tree of life] Alluding to that Tree in Paradiſe, which ſhould have been to Adam a ſeal of everlaſting life, if he had continued in the eſtate of innocency, Gen. 3. 22. ſee chap. 2. 7. here is meat and drink, and that in great plenty, and for perpetuity, Pſa. 36. 8. Fruitfull Trees planted by the waters, wither not, Pſa. 1. 3.

twelve manner of fruits] Twelve divers kinds of fruits, ſo that they need not be cloyed with one kind. It ſerveth inſtead of all Ezekiels Trees, if it be but one. Or, twelve fruits of one kind, brought forth twelve times in a year. The former argueth variety of comforts; the later plenty. The former is an help againſt loathing; the later, againſt lacking.

every moneth] It is Autumn here always. There is no need to lay up food againſt the winter.

for the healing] Ezek. 47. 12. Mal. 4. 2. Not by feeding on the leaves, but by covering themſelves with them, or laying them on their wounds. For although leaves of Trees be not uſually eaten, yet they are uſed many times phyſically, to heal wounds. So that they ſhould not only live, but alſo live in health.

of the nations] Or, of the Gentiles, chap. 11. 2. And then the fruit was to feed ſuch as were in the Church; the leaves, to heal others, that they might come in: as the bread is for children, the crums for dogs, Mat. 15. 27. Either it is to be underſtood of Gods Word, which is food and phyſick to us here, 1 Pet. 2. 2. Heb. 5. 12. Pſa. 107. 20. which ſhall be more clearly and plentifully preached, before the end of the world, than yet it ever was: or elſe of Chriſt our Saviour, who is All in all to us, and by whom we ſhall live for ever in heaven.

V. 3. no more curſe] Evil thing, perſon, or action. Or, curſe, that is, deſtruction. Gr. curſe againſt any one. Such ſhall be the force of diſcipline, and vigilancy of Paſtours, and Gods bleſſing on their labors, that God ſhall not need to deſtroy obſtinate ſinners from heaven, for contempt of his Ordinances and Miniſters, Zech. 14. 11.

the throne of God, &c.] See v. 1.

ſhall be in it] God will ſettle his throne there. There ſhall be no rotten members, to make God to depart from it, as he did from Shiloh, Pſa. 79. 58, 59, 60. and from Jeruſalem, 2 Kin. 21. 14, 15. But this is that Sion where God will dwell for ever, Pſ. 132. 14.

ſhall ſerve him] Though Gods ſervants ſhal enjoy abundance of grace and comfort here on earth, before the end of the world, & perfection of glory in heaven; yet the relation of ſervants to God ſhal abide ſtill.

V. 4. they ſhall ſee his face] They ſhal converſe familiarly with him, 2 Sam. 14. 32. Deu. 30. 10. 2 Joh. v. 12. They ſhal worſhip God ſo purely, that he ſhal ſeem to converſe with them face to face. Or, it ſetteth out their full happineſs in heaven, which conſiſteth principally in ſeeing Gods face, Mat. 5. 8. Job 19. 26. 1 Cor. 13. 12. 1 John 3. 2.

his name ſhall be in their foreheads] Gods name, ch. 3. 12. & 14. his image ſhal be more fully imprinted on them, than on other Chriſti-ans in former times. Or, he ſhall own them publickly, and all at they have, Zech. 14. 20, 21. Or, they ſhall glory moſt in this, th they are Gods children. Or, they ſhal as children converſe with hi in heaven.
For there it will appear who are Gods children, though ere it do not.
The Saints ſhall know one another, as the high elt was known, when Holineſs to the Lord, was written in the pl on his forehead, Exod. 25. 38.

V. 5. And there ſhall be &c.] Chap. 21. 2 nce, confuſion, or afflino night there] No ſuch darkneſs of ign or of affliction at all, if it ction, as was before. Or, no darkneſs litera they feared night; in probe underſtood of heaven. In the day h need to do it. To heal that ſperity, adverſity: there they ſhall r is here repeated. fear, that which was ſaid, chap. 21 ed not light by day or night. They they need no candle, &c.] They and comfort in him, that they ſee have ſo much knowledg of Go eans and comforts, Iſa. 19. 20. Or in to have no need of outward eading or preaching of the Word the heaven they ſhall need no 105. 2 Pet. 1. 19. 1 Cor. 13. 8. light of the ſoul, Pſa. 11 for the Lord God gi n them light] Knowledg and comfort ſhall ſo abound in them, th all may ſee they come rather from God, than from from the means, Iſa.54.13. Jer.31.34. Or, they receive fulneſs of knowledg and comfort from God in heaven.

ſhall reign] Leſt men ſhould think it an hard ſervice ſpoken of, v. 3. he addeth, They ſhall reign, to ſhew, that their ſervice ſhall be a moſt happy Kingdom.

for ever and ever] Their Kingdom begun here, ſhall never end, but be tranſlated to heaven. Or, they ſhall reign in heaven for ever.

V. 6. And he ſaid unto me] The concluſion of the book. In Geneſis, the firſt book, is ſet out the beginning of the world, & of the Church. The hiſtory of both, is continued in other books for a long time; and it is carried on in this laſt book, by way of prophecy, to the end.

and true] See ch.19.9. & 21.5. The Spirit knew that this book would be more queſtioned than others, and therefore by his Angel confirmeth the truth of all things written in it, in the concluſion, by many arguments; becauſe the ſervants of God, hearing of them, would be very deſirous to ſee the event of all theſe prophecies. As if he ſhould ſay, All is now revealed, and all that is revealed, is true: nothing remaineth, but that ye give credit to it, and patiently expect Gods performance, which will undoubtedly follow in his time.

God of the holy Prophets] See Luke 1.70. God, who ſeparated and inſpired holy men to be Prophets, that they might foretell things to come, hath revealed theſe things alſo by his Angel, chap. 1.1. and therefore they ſhall certainly come to paſs.

V. 7. Behold] Chap.21.3. He bringeth in the Lord God of the Prophets, mentioned in the former verſe, ſpeaking in his own perſon in this verſe. Or, Chriſt ſending his Angel to reveal theſe things, v. 16. may interpoſe, and ſpeak himſelf when he pleaſe. Or, the Angel ſent by him, ſpeaketh ſometimes in his own perſon, ſometimes in the perſon of Chriſt.

I come quickly] See v.12.20. I begin ſoon to execute theſe things; and that ſhall be a pawn to you, that I will not give over the work, till I make an end of all. Therefore they muſt not be ſealed, v. 10. that men ſeeing ſome things foretold ſoon performed, might with patience expect the performance of the reſt.

bleſſed is he, &c.] The concluſion is like the Preface, ch.1.3.

V.8. I John] He ſheweth, that this book was not written by any falſe prophet, but by himſelf, who was well known in the Church.

ſaw theſe things] He confirmeth the revelation here, as he did his Goſpel before, John 19.35. & 21.24. and his Epiſtle, 1 Joh.1.1.

and heard them] I ſaw the viſions, and heard the words. He was worthy to be beleeved; for he receiveth nothing at the ſecond hand, but ſaw and heard himſelf, what he writeth. All the Churches knew, that he received what he writ, from Gods Spirit, and did faithfully diſpenſe it.

I fell down, &c.] Before, ch.19.20. Or, it may be, now, toward the end, being more fully acquainted with the glory of the holy city than before, he forgate himſelf, and erred out of weakneſs the ſecond time, as Abraham did about his wife, Gen.12.13. & 20.2. It ſeemeth John did it now again, becauſe it is after he had ſeen all the viſions: and other words are attributed to the Angel here, than were ch.19.10.

V. 9. See thou do it not] See on ch.19.10.

V. 10. Seal not the ſayings] Propound it openly; conceal no part of it: as ſealing is concealing, ch.10.4. Iſa.8.16. & 22.11. Dan.12. 4.9. Leſt John ſhould think that he ought not to reveal ſo great myſteries to the people, he is bidden not to conceal them; and a reaſon is added, Becauſe the time is nigh.

of the prophecy of this book] Look on v. 7.

for the time is at hand] Myſteries are often kept ſecret, till God ſee a fit time to reveal them, ch. 10.4,5. They are revealed when the Church may get moſt good, as when the time of fulfilling draweth nigh. The time, in the Greek, is the ſeaſon; that is, the fit and appointed time.

V. 11. He that is unjuſt] If it be objected, Some will abuſe theſe things, to hurt themſelves and others; the anſwer is here included, They muſt not be concealed for all that. Others wil make a better uſe of them. Good men muſt not be deprived of the knowledg of theſe comforts, becauſe men to whom they belong not, will abuſe them.

unjuſt] Towards others. To this, righteous is oppoſed.

filthy] In himſelf. To this, holy is oppoſed.

let him be filthy ſtill] Thoſe that remain obſtinate, ſhall be given over to their own luſts, and grow worſe and worſe, Pſ.81.11,12. Ezek. 3.27. & [illegible]9. Dan.12.10. Amos 4.4. 2 Tim.3.13. Or, ſuch as are obſtinate, and incorrigibly wicked, let them be left, and given over to their own [illegible] and looſe courſes of life; as 1 Cor.14.38.

holy ſtill] [illegible] more holy. Either perſiſt or increaſe in holineſs. And ſo in the former.

V. 12. And behold, I come quickly] As I ſaid before, v.7. Little time will paſs, from the foretelling of theſe things, to the beginning of fulfilling them. Look therefore for my coming to execute them, as a ſervant forewarned doth for [illegible] maſters, Mat.24.44,45.

my reward is with me] Chriſt cometh not empty-handed. His reward is ready, for good men and [illegible]d, Iſa.40.10. & 62.11.

to give, &c.] Rom.2.6.

V. 13. Alpha and Omega] Chap.1.[illegible] & 21.6.

the firſt and the laſt] Iſa.41.4. & 44.[illegible]

V. 14. His commandments] Chriſt's, [illegible] the Angel ſpeak in his own perſon. Or God's, if Chriſt ſpeak, or the Angel in the perſon of Chriſt. See v.7,12.

that they may have right] And ſo may inherit heaven, as Gods children, Mat.25.34. and co-heirs with Chriſt, Rom.8.17,18.

to the tree of life] See v.2. ch.2.7.

thorow the gates] Chap.21.12. For over the wall they could not go, it was ſo high, chap.21.12,16,17. An alluſion to a guarded city, whoſe high walls keep out ſuch as have no right to enter, and porters at the gates let in ſuch as have.

V. 15. For without] Gr. But without.

dogs] Men that bark and ſnarl at all goodneſs, Phil.3. 2. Mat.7.6. It is an happineſs to be without the ſociety of ſuch. Or, filthy perſons, ſuch as are ſpoken of, v.11. called Dogs, Deut.23.18. 2 Pet.2.22.

and murderers] Chap.1.1.

V.16. I Jeſus, &c.] Now Chriſt confirmeth the truth of all theſe things, by his own voice, acknowledging that they came all from him.

have ſent mine Angel] Chap.2. 8,27.

to you] In the ſeven Churches, ch. 1. 4. Hereby he ſheweth what great honour he did to thoſe Churches, to commit this treaſure to their cuſtody.

I am the root, &c.] Chap.5.5. Iſa.11.1. I can give you the promiſed happineſs; for I am the Meſſias of Davids ſeed, that muſt reign for ever.

the bright morning-ſtar] Ch. 2.28. His birth was manifeſted to the wiſe-men by a ſtar, Mat.2.9,10. to ſhew, that he was the Star foretold, Num.24.17. which bringeth the day of knowledg to the Church, and glory, after the night of ignorance and miſery, 2 Pet.1.19.

V.17. the Spirit] The holy Ghoſt breedeth deſire of Chriſts coming in the heart of the Church, which is Chriſts Bride; who alſo freely anſwereth to his motions, v.20. Rom.8.23,26. 2 Cor. 5. 2,4.

the Bride] She deſireth to be married to Chriſt; for ſhe had made her ſelf ready, ch.19.7. Gods children deſire the fulfilling of theſe things, that they may be more neerly joyned to Chriſt. See chap.6.10. & 19.17. 2 Tim. 4.8.

come] To fulfil theſe things. Or, to judgment, that we may be with thee for ever.

him that heareth] Not only the Church in general, and each Chriſtian then alive; but alſo their poſterity, when they ſhall hear of theſe glorious things, ſhall long for the performance of them.

let him that is athirſt come] Chap.21. 6. Iſa. 55. 1. The prophecy may kindle this thirſt in good men; the performance will quench it; elſe were the expecters miſerable, Prov.13.12. 1 Cor.15.19.

the water of life] Of the river, v. 2. So here is water of life to drink, and a tree of life to give food.

freely] Let them participate of grace or glory, as freely and plentifully, as if it were water, 1 Tim.6.19. Jam.1.5. Or, Though they ſhall have abundance of both, yet it is of Gods free grace; for they deſerve not one drop of this water, nor cannot procure it by any ſtrength or wit they have of themſelves, Rom.6.23.

V. 18. For] It may be left out, as it is, Acts 4.34. & 8.31. in the beginning of the verſes: for it yeeldeth no reaſon of that which went before. Or, it may be read, And, as Acts 8.39. in the end of the ver. Or, no doubt; as 1 Cor. 9.10.

I teſtifie] Gr. I teſtifie together: As Moſes did of the Law, Deut.4. 2. & 12.32. & 30.6. ſo do I of this Prophecy. It is therefore of divine authority, as that book is. Or, I ſent my Angel to teſtifie theſe things, v.16. now I confirm his teſtimony, by threatning all that adde to, or take from it. Or, I confirm what John averreth, v.8.

the words of the Prophecy of this book] Ver.7,10.

ſhall adde unto him] Or, ſhall lay upon him.

V. 19. the words, &c.] See v. 18.

out of the book of life] Chap.21.27.

out of the holy city] Chap.21.2.

the things which are written in this book] Chap.1.3.

V. 20. He which teſtifieth theſe things] Chriſt, v.16,18. the faithful witneſs, chap.1.5. from whom, as the Goſpel came, ſo likewiſe this Revelation.

I come quickly] He had ſaid ſo before, v.7,12. Now he repeateth it the third time, that we may not think he ſtayeth too long for us.

Even ſo. Come Lord Jeſus] Johns voice, deſiring it may be as Chriſt hath ſaid. He grew old, & deſired to be with Chriſt quickly, as other of the Saints do, v.17. and Paul, Phil.1.23. Thus John, who received theſe myſteries from heaven, and writ them in a book, concludeth it with a double wiſh; one, of Chriſts coming in this verſe; the other, of the continuance of his favour to his Church in the mean while, v.21. teaching us to do the like. Or it may be the Churches voice, deſiring to be ſpeedily joyned to Chriſt; as ver. 17. according to his promiſe here and before.

V.21. The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, &c.] This ſheweth the whole revelation to be an epiſtle ſent to the ſeven Churches. See notes on ch.1.4. He beginneth with this requeſt there, and endeth with it here. Chriſts favour is the firſt and laſt thing he wiſheth to the Church. So doth Paul, writing by the ſame Spirit, Rom.1.7. & 16.24. 1 Cor.1.3. & 16.23. 2 Cor.1.2. & 13.14. Gal.1.3. & 6.18. Eph.1.2. & 6.24. Phil.1. 2. & 4.23. Col. 1.2 & 4.18. 1 Theſ.1.1. & 5.28. 2 Theſ.1.2. & 3.18. 1 Tim.1.2. & 6.21 2 Tim.1.2. & 4.22. Tit.1.4. & 3.15. Philem.v.3, 25. This he writ in the end of his epiſtles, with his own hand, 1 Cor.16. 21,22,23. Col.4.18. It was the token of his genuine epiſtles. Though they were written fair by others, Rom.16.22. yet he writ this ſalutation, or the like, in the end, with his own hand, 2 Theſ. 3.17,18.

Amen] So be it. This is alſo added in the end of Pauls epiſtles. See the places newly cited.

FINIS.

,
,
,
,
e
&
d o, r,a ar, um tæ on ro ndi
mb
inf rtt iõ rat
m md
um

Si quid ingenium aut diligẽtia multis artibus inſtructa poſſet, haud quicquam deſideretur, cum tu ades: niſi forte te diuerſarum partium ſtudia diſtraherent, quæ ſane te multa texere, retexereq́; coegit, ne hæreres in ſalebra. De iuſtificationis ſumma fuit omnibus vobis propoſitum, quid defenderetis: ipſius vero explicationes alius aliter inter vos expedit, eundem ſcopum collimantes omnes, ſed in prępoſitis ad finem aberrantes longiſſime. Itaq; veriſſimũ eſt quod tibi obiicit Gropperus de ſubirato Luthero, & improbante conciliationem Ratiſbonenſem, eius articuli de iuſtificatione: quod etiam vt faceret palam, ędítis atq; excuſis de fide & iuſtificatione concluſionibus, tum eodem tempore wittenbergę tractatis, ac in diuerſam ſententiam definitis, authoritate qua fungitur profeſſus eſt: quo tẽpore obſcurus de te rumor, tacitis tuorum ſuſurris increbruit, cauſam te illorum præuaricatione prodidiſſe, & ingenii vafricie non adeo callidum Philippi ingenium fefelliſſe. Quam tu ſuſpitionem vt amoliaris, arrepto de reconciliatione eccleſiarum argumento, occaſionem ſtudioſe quæſiſti, vt fortibus aſſeuerationibus, & aſtu retractandis quæ con‑ ceſſeras,

---

ceſſeras, fidem tuã apud tuos integrã reponeres ac reſtitueres. Qua in re tuis te quam fœliciter geſſeris neſcio, aliis certe ita innotuiſti, vt prompta ſit cæterorum cuiuſmodi tu ſis diiudicatio, ſi eam recipiamus te magiſtro & doctore ex Paulo ſententiam, vt ſemper ſit cæterorum diiudicatio: quod tuum tam ineptum, quam tibi, opinor veniſſent alii in mentem nemini. Non igitur eſt vetus, ſed plane tuum, & item illud: Non eſt bonum homini eſſe ſoli, ad confirmanda alia etiam ſuper aliis matrimonia, in iis adeo qui cœlibem vitam vouerũt, a te inductum: quod vnum propoſitionum par videlicet, cæteri diiudicent, &, non eſt bonum hoĩ eſſe ſoli, vt ſunt quidem a te interpretatæ probitatis, ſidei, ſimplicitatis, & tuæ in expon dis ſcripturis, ſynceritatis, inſigne ad poſtero tranſmittet documentum, vt tui ſpiritus indi cium faciat manifeſtum, ne quis poſthac am gat qualis ſis, qui tam impudenter vim in ras ſcripturis clariſſimis, vt cogas, vt pert has ad ſenſum alieniſſimum. Illud certe nõ legantem habet vafriciem, quod de adorat ne ſacramenti ſcribis iis verbis: Chriſtum delicet adorandum eſſe, etiam cum ſacram tum

na,certa,clara,euidēs, manifeſta euãgelii veritas,quomodo patres, q̄uo catholica hactenꝰ eccleſia & intellexit & docuit.Nēpe deum ipſum quos vocat iuſtificare,iuſtificādos vero p̄uenire ſuis donis,vt & illuminet intellectū,& imutet affectū:porro aūt dignos ꝑ ſuā gratiā iis donis effectos,coīcata deinde nobis in ſacramētis ſuis Chrī iuſtitia,ita nos iuſtificare, vt q̄d' nr̄æ iuſtitię deſit,id ſemꝑ Chrī iuſtitia,ſalutis nr̄ę authoris ſuppleat. Cōmenta vero vr̄a de fide comitata otioſa charitate,de charitate ī nobis genita,de fide appręhēdēte iuſtificationē,ne ſōniauit quidē aliquādo pietas veterꝝ,quę religionē nobis ꝑ manꝰ tradidit ſimpliciſſima ratiōe explicatā,quā vos ſophiſmatis & cauillis euertere conati eſtis,& euertiſſetis hauddubie,ni manus dn̄i potēs,vr̄is cōſiliis reſtitiſſet,et vos in ſēſus tradidiſſet īpios,ſtultos,reꝓbos,ac cōcitatis inter vos diſſidiis, quę inanes cogitatiōes vr̄as eneruarent,orbi oſtendiſſet, q̄ inefficax ſit conſiliū aduerſus dn̄m, & q̄ inanes ſint cogitationes hominum,impia & inſana moliētium: qui ſicut in Babilonię ſtructura, ſic etiā cotidie molimina faſtuoſa diſſipat hominū arrogantia intumentiū, & cōtra veritatē machināiū dolos.

tum ſumitur,& ſacramētum reuerenter ſumēdū,ita vt in noſtris eccleſiis obſeruatur, hacte nus tua,Quę ſi ita intelligis, vt ſacramentū in quo Chriſtū cōtineri ſub ſpecie panis oēs vere pii credunt,nō comedendū modo, ſed etiā ado andū cenſeas,certe cū ſumitur.Hactenus qui dē certe nō male,ſed retractāda vobis erit illa entētia veſtra apud vos decantatiſſima,omnē ltū dei diſertis ſcripturę verbis nō mādatū, dololatricū eſſe:aut id vobis arrogandū,vt cū dololatriā quaſi veſtro iure præſcripſeritis & finieritis,illā tamē remittere & relaxare, vo s quidē qui ſpiritum vendicatis cœleſtē,ſit in anu,vt idololatria non ſit,quam vos ex me-motu,& certa ſcientia permiſeritis,hoc nimi m temperamento,vt circūferre quidem Euariſtiam,& pompæ perſicæ(vt dicitis)modo ntare ne liceat omnino, id enim vobis non cere: cæterum in ipſa ſumptione & commu tione ſacramenti adorare Chriſtum licere, obſtante illo veſtro dogmate , quo clare itis,& pro certa religionis norma præſcri-omnibus,vt omnis omnino dei cult⁹ ido-ricus habeatur,qui certis ſcripturæ ver-on ſit expreſſus, Quod ſi iſtam relaxandi formam

prærogatiuā aſſerere voluiſtis quā ſcriptura, quā patres nuſq̄ tribuerūt, vt vel ſola & incomitata fides, a quo nūc reſilitis tandē, vel ſola fides operatrix cum charitate cōiūcta, ſed catenus otioſa, hoī iuſtificationē conciliaret: quam veſtrā ſubtilitatē nūq̄ potuiſtis apud vos, nedū apud alios a tricis & inuolucris expedire. Simpliciter locutus eſt Paulus, deū gratuito iuſtificare hoīem , quod apud oēs manet, & eſt certiſſimū: fide aūt iuſtificari hominē, & ſcriptura docet, & ab oībus eſt receptum: fide vero & operibus iuſtificari hominē, diſerte Iacobus tradidit forma verborum ad explicandum iuſtificationis noſtræ ſacramentum accommoda , ſi id Luthero & vobis viſum fuiſſet, Apoſtolum Iacobū propria interpretatiōe & catholica explicare potius, q̄ additis veſtris cōmentis data opera obſcurare. Sed charitatē quod eſt perfectionis vinculum, qui oīa ſpargere & diſſipare molimini, ferre nō poteſtis, ominoſo orbis malo & pernicioſo. Doctrinā veſtrā de fide, in qua ſola gloriamini obſcuriſſimam video, nec a vobis cōprȩhenſam, qui fide (vt quidē iactatis) apprȩhēditis iuſtificationē. Quā aūt ſubtilis & ꝑplexa veſtra traditio hac in parte ſit, tā eſt pla na, cer

ſormam minus probetis, ne quod in aliis improbatis videamini imitari, eumq; ſenſum veſtris verbis affingatis, vt Chriſtum ad dexterã patris ſedentem in cœlis, tum etiam cum ſumitur ſacramẽtum, adorandũ tradatis, quod verbis tuis cõmentum quidam addiderunt, ac ſacramentum reuerenter ſumendũ: quis non clare cernat, vos aliquid dicendo nihil dicere, & prȩſtigiis verborum homines tum fallere, quũ a veſtro ore pendeant vt doceantur. Quis enĩ neſciat Chriſtum adorandum, & cum ſumitur ſacramentũ, & cum non ſumitur: de adoratione vero Chriſti in ſacramento ambigebatur apud vos, quod ſi verbis certis & claris expediuiſſe vultis videri, & quod veritas a nobis exprimit conceſſiſſe, vna retractetis oportet ſtultum illud & ridiculum dogma de cultu dei, ad certa & clara ſcripturæ verba temperando, ne voſipſi in idololatriam impegiſſe videamini. Etenim ſi licet adorari ſacramentum cũ ſumitur, nihil ſane prohibet, cur non adoret̃, etiam cum non ſumatur ſed ſit ſumendũ. Hoc autem conceſſo liceri adorari cũ ſumitur, tanq̃ effractis veſtri dogmatis repagulis, quod vr̃o tantũ placito innitebat̃, licebit & cũ circũfert̃, quum oſtentatur, quum cōſpicitur, neq; in his magis erit idololatria, quam quum ſumitur, quod vos conceditis: nam quod aſſertis non videri ſacramentum, niſi cum ſit in vſu, nimis perridiculū eſt, & veſtri capitis ſomnium manifeſtum, qui Chriſti in ſacramento præſentiam, ſine authoritate verbi dei, circumſcribere audetis temporibus ac momentis, deniq; tāquam finium regundorum arbitri, inter ſacramentum & non ſacramentum, fines diſtinguere & terminos. Verbi gratia, ſi ſumpſerit communicaturus, ſit ita demum ſacramentum: ne ſit autem, ſi non ſumpſerit: ſed interim quæro, quid ſi communicaturus accedat, ſtatim quidē ſumpturus, ac ſubito corporis ſymptomate impediatur ne ſumat: multa enim inopinata accidunt inter calicem (vt aiunt) ſupremaq; labra, quid dicemus quæſo, cōtinuo diſcedere a ſacramento Chriſtum, an expectare pauliſper, dum ad ſe redeat communicaturus, dum reſpiret, dum vires ſumendi colligat? Quod ſi pro ſumma ſua benignitate expectet Chriſtus aliquantiſper, quis audeat iſtius moræ terminare modum, vt vnam horā, mediā, aut quartā cōmunicaturū impeditū maneat Chriſtus atq; expectet, dicatur, qua tu adducta ſimilitudine, ſuam veritati lucem eripere conatus es, & veræ etiam doctrinę (vt ita dicamus) vitam. Iſtis ſophiſmatis in re tã ſeria ludis & imponis rudibus, quæ cum deteguntur, inclamas ſophiſmata: haud diſſimiliter iis quibus quũ iure & legibus quæ furto abſtulerant eripiuntur, ſeſe vim paſſes, & bonis ſuis exutos, impudenti audacia conqueruntur tamen & vociferantur: ac iniquiſſimo calumnię genere noxii fures veris dominis crimen intendunt furti. Nihil illos vidiſſe dicemus in re, etiamſi lingua non ita valebant vt ingenio, qui charitatẽ fidei formam poſuerunt, ſecundum quos quam diceres, quæſo, abſurde, materiæ informi, hoc eſt, fidei opus aſſignãdo, quod formam coniunctam quum cõiungitur non contingeret, id eſt, charitatem: quaſi aliquã fingas actionẽ corporis, in quo anima prorſus quieſceret, vt in corpore animato ſolius corporis aliquam actionem totam eſſe contendas ab anima comite ſeparatã: vt ita dicamus corpus hoc aut illud agere, nõ quatenus habet animam, quod nemo diceret opinor, quatenus haberet cerebrum: Sed hac re perpendenda, magnos orbi concitaſtis tumultus, dum eam fidei

Buc
phiſ
mu mul plici, exe
phiſ

H præro